"Tuesday—Calm, and mild; snow falling; buried Alexy in the afternoon; laid him on the ice, and covered him with slabs of ice.

"Wednesday—Cutting up tent to make foot gear. Doctor went ahead to find new camp. Shifted by dark.

"Thursday—Bright and sunny, but very cold. Lee and Kaack done up.

"Friday—Kaack was found dead about midnight, between the Doctor and myself. Lee died about noon. Read prayers for the sick, when we found he was going.

"Saturday—Too weak to carry bodies of Lee and Kaack out on the ice. The Doctor, Collins, and myself carried them around the corner out of sight. Then my eyes closed up.

"Sunday—Everybody pretty weak; slept or rested to-day, and then managed to get enough wood in by dark. Read part of the divine service. Suffering in our feet; no foot-gear.

"Monday—A hard night.

"Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, 27th, the 137th day, Iverson broken down.

"Friday—Iverson died during the earley morning.

"Saturday, 29th—Drossler died during the night.

"Sunday, October 30—One hundred and fortieth day. Mr. Boyd and Gartz died during the night. Mr. Colling dying."

[Note—This is the end of DeLong's diary. DeLong, Surgeon Ambler and Ah Sam, the cook, must have died soon after the last note was written.]

It is rumored in Republican circles that the President may soon take some steps reassuring to office-holders alarmed by the Curtis circular. Just what this will be, is not yet known. Mr. Hubbell's reply is being prepared, and will, it is understood, be very incisive.

A good deal of uneasiness is felt by Mrs. Scoville's friends regarding her presence here. She is very excitable and difficult to control, and, while her brother insists that she is perfectly sane, there's no doubt she is nearer crazy than Guiteau, and liable to do something desperate before the week ends. One man expressed his belief this morning that she was liable to shoot the President if he persists in his refusal to grant a respite to her brother.

Hot weather has caused a boom at the watering places. The attendance in many cases is double that of last year at this time.

Mr. Blaine expects to spend the time in Maine from this time until election, which occurs early in September, and then he may be induced to take a hand in Pensylvania.

Garrett's bill chartering a cable is likely to meet with vigorous opposition unless amended to prevent pooling with other lines, and guaranteeing lower rates than those now given. The earnings of the pooled cables are said to be $5,000,000 per year.

The withdrawal of Mrs. Christiancy in the divorce case creates some surprise, though there is little doubt that the divorce will be granted Christiancy, with ample support for her.

John W. Guiteau speaks in very kindly terms of the President's treatment yesterday, but admits that he has no hope.

Conkling arrived quietly in the city last night, and at noon to-day called on the President. He sent his name in to the President, and was met cordially by him at the door of the Cabinet room, and led to his office, where they were closeted a long time in company with several gentleman who accompanied Conkling. It is supposed the object of the visit was to consult regarding New York politics. His visit was entirely unexpected to most of the Grant men here, as few of them were aware of his presence up to noon to-day.

Guiteau's Last Days.

Miss Chevallier, of Boston, Secretary of the National Society for the Protection of the Insane, accompanied by Dr. George M. Beard, of New York, Dr. W. W. Golding, Superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane, and the Rev. W. W. Hicks, pastor of the Tabernacle, and who is Guiteau's spiritual advisor, had an interview with President Arthur Friday p.m., by special appointment, and presented a petition praying for reprieve in the case of Guiteau, and for the creation of a scientific commission to determine upon the sanity or insanity of the condemned man. The petition is signed by a number of medical experts, who state their conviction that Guiteau is insane, and urge the propriety of such a commission.

The bill to grant the Mississippi, Albuquerque and Inter-Ocean Railway the right of way through the Indian Territory has passed the Senate.

The Attorney General, to whom all appeals and petitions presented to the President bearing on the Guiteau case had been referred, submitted an elaborate report to the Cabinet last evening, reviewing all the points presented in favor of a respite, and recommending that it be not granted, on the ground that the sanity of the prisoner had been fully established at the trial. The report was generally discussed and unanimously approved by the Cabinet, all the members of which were present. An understanding was reached that nothing should be disclosed as to the decision of the Cabinet until after it should be made known to the prisoner.

Rev. Mr. Hicks called upon the Attorney General this morning by appointment, and was informed that the Cabinet had decided not to interfere with the execution of Guiteau's sentence.

Mr. Hicks thereupon drove to the District jail and informed Guiteau of the decision.

Guiteau has sent the following message to his spiritual advisor, Rev. Mr. Hicks:

Go and see Arthur, and shake your fist in his face. Tell him I made him President by my inspiration, and he must give me an unconditional pardon and if he don't God Almighty will blast him forever. I tell you, Brother Hicks, I am God's, and God takes care of his own.

The friends of the condemned man still profess hope. Mr. Reed says he does not despair, and he will make another appeal to the President at the earliest opportunity.

Dr. Beard left here for New York, last evening, but is expected to return.

Miss Chevallier will have a conference with Dr. Godding and Rev. Mr. Hicks, this evening, to determine upon their future action, with a view to obtaining a stay of execution.

The Cabinet has decided not to interfere with the sentence of Guiteau' and the Attorney General this morning instructed the Marshal of the District and the Warden of the jail to keep the prisoner in strict confinement, and allow no one to see him, except his spiritual advisers, his physician and officers of the jail.

The assassin's latest wrinkle is to express fear that the President may weaken at the last moment and pardon him. He says now that he wants to die, and wishes it over.

A Newly-Married Couple.

Detroit Free Press.

A couple left the train at the Union Depot and walked up Jefferson avenue yesterday. She had long curls and a pink dress and a yellow sash, and he had a standing collar sawing his ears off, a button-hole bouquet, a pair of new boots freshly greased and one size too small. They hadn't walked two blocks when they came to a man sitting on a box in front of a store, and as he caught sight of them a grin crept over his face like molasses spreading out over a shingle.

"Grinning at us, I s'pose?" queried the young man as he came to a halt.

"Yes," frankly replied the sitter.

"Tickles you most to death to see us take hold of hands, don't it?"

"It does."

"And you imagine you can see us feeding each other caramels, can't you?"

"I can."

"And you shake all over at the way we gawk around and keep our mouths open?"

"That's me."

"Well, this is me. I'm not purty, and I haven't been cultivated between the rows, nor hilled up nor fertilized. I ain't what you call stall-fed, and the old man looks twenty per cent. worse than I do, but it won't take me over a minute to jam you seven feet into the ground! I told Lucy I was going to begin on the first man who looked cross-eyed at us, and you are the chap. Prepare to be pulverized!"

"Beg pardon, but I didn't mean —!"

"Yes, you did! Lucy, hold my hat while I mop him!"

"Say—hold on—say——!"

He took the middle of the street like a runaway horse, and the young man took after him, but it was no use. After a race of a block the man who grinned gained so fast that the other stopped short and went back to his girl and his hat. Stretching forth his hand to the innocent maiden, he remarked:

"Lucy, clasp on to that, and if you let go for the next two hours, even to wipe your nose, I'll never call you by the sacred name of wife!"

A Child Killed by an Eagle.

Denver (Col) Tribune

About ten days ago while Mr. Frank Keeler, of the firm of J. Keeler & Son, was visiting at North Platte, Neb., he was a witness to an attempt made by an eagle to carry off a baby, which, although unsuccessful, resulted in the death of the child. The baby was the youngest of Mr. R. A. Douglas' family. Douglas is the famous "Buckskin Bob" the scout of the Lupe.. While the little one was playing in the yard the eagle swooped down and fastened its talons in the baby's back, trying to soar aloft. The burden was too heavy, however, and when about four feet from the ground the eagle let go its hold, the child sustaining injuries by the fall that proved fatal. The father happened to be present, and grasping his rifle shot the eagle. It measured nine feet from tip to tip of the wings

---

E. W. Wall, of Niobrary ate 102 eggs on a wager at one sitting drinking whisky between each dozen. His competitor ate 93.

PRINCIPALLY PERSONAL.

Mr. Darwin's will shows personal property of £146,000.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett is writing a new play.

Edwin Booth's mother lately celebrated her 80th birthday.

A lady at the Jerome Park races carried a sunshade on which was painted a pack of cards.

The Duke of Manchester has homesteaded 11,000,000 acres in the Northwestern Territory.

It is rumored in Washington that David Davis is shortly to marry a distinguished Maryland lady.

Clara Morris, May Anderson and Fanny Davenport are expected to appear in England next season.

A London paper says that the Queen of Italy never wears a bonnet. The King of Italy must be laying up money.

The most beautiful Southern girl in Washington city this season is said to be a daughter of ex-Senator Yulee, of Florida.

It is announced in San Francisco that the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise will visit that city early in September.

Tom Nast, the famous caricaturist, accompanied Garibaldi during the campaign that united the two Sicilies to the crown of Italy.

The dowry of Mlle. Luce Rothschild, recently married to M. Leon Lambert, of Paris, is estimated at $125,000,000. No wonder Leon married her.

A few days since John Mooring died in England, aged 102. He was captain of the maintop of the "Thunderer" at the battle of Trafalgar.

Michael Davitt is a tall, rosy-cheeked man, with a short, black mustache, and close trimmed side-whiskers. His right sleeve hangs empty at his side.

The Jews of Russia and Roumania are developing a mania for a vast emigration to Palestine. A fund of $250,000 is already raised to accelerate the movement.

One pound of pulverized meat is said to be equal, in nutriment power, to six pounds of fresh beef. The Belgian government is about to adopt it as an army ration.

The youngest couple among the congressional families are Congressman Dugro, of New York, and his wife, he being but 26, and she several years his junior.

The oldest man on this continent is Adam Hefner, who lives near Lenoir, S C. He is 116 years old, as authenticated by the family records, while his mind is still bright.

General Sherman has kissed more girls than any man in the country, and he isn't handsome either. His success illustrates the value of brass buttons and presence of mind.

Mr. Brand has been Speaker of the British House of Commons for nine years at a salary of $25,000 a year, and a pleasant residence within the precincts of Westminster, looking out upon the river.

It is stated that Miss Anna Dickinson and Miss Susan B. Anthony are to appear on the stage together next season in "Much Ado About Nothing." Miss Anna is to take the role of "Much Ado," and Miss Susan will appear as "Nothing."

The Boston Post says: "Sarah's husband has put himself in readiness to fight twenty French duels a day. The first thing that fellow knows so much coffe'll affect his nerves so he can't sleep at night

The late Governor Dennison, of Ohio, built a residence in Columbus, O., about one year ago at cost of $25,000. He was preparing to spend his latter days in ease and comfort when the fatal sickness came.

Colonel Noah Orr, the giant traveling with the Lilliputian Opera Company, who has been ill at Marysville, O., for some time, has been completely paralyzed in the lower limbs, and his physician says he cannot recover.

Andrew Harsten died suddenly a day or two ago at Easton, Pa., aged 90 years, having an estate valued at $250,000. He had never used the railway, never saw a steamboat, and never been in a city.

Mlle. Zoe Lucy Betsy de Rothschild, eldest daughter of Baron Gustave Rothschild, was recently married to M. Leon Lambert, head of the house of the Rothschilds at Brussels. The bride is 18 years old, and the husband is 27.

The Delaware peach crop is now said by the Wilmington Star to be one of the largest in the history of the State. The enormous yield of 1875 will not be surpassed, but the harvest is not likely to give precedence to that of any other recent year.

The New York Tribune says: "We are authorized by the family of the late Chief Justice Chase to say that the letters of Gen. Garfield to their father which have lately appeared were obtained by the press without their consent, and published without their knowledge.

Southern boys carried off the honors this year both at West Point and Annapolis. At the Military Academy, of the first four graduates two were from Missouri and one from Mississippi, and at the Naval Academy the cadet midshipman who graduated at the head of his class was Mr. Lewis Nixon, of Virginia.

Made His Mouth Water.

Little Rock Gazette.

Uncle Ike was one day riding a mule, and had a little boy behind him.

"Tell you what, Ung Ike 'possum mighty good thing," said the boy.

"Yes 'tis," said Uncle Ike, as the mule struck a brisk trot.

"'Specially when you got lots o' gravy wid him."

Uncle Ike was silent, but seemed restless.

"An' when you got some roasted 'taters to sop in de gravy," said the boy.

Uncle Ike used his switch with nervous energy, and the mule increased its speed to a gallop.

"Yes, Ung Ike, when de 'possum's right brown, an' de gravy drenin out, an—"

"You shet your mouf, you little fool! You'll make dis mule run off an' kill us boaf."

GREAT GERM DESTROYER

DARBY'S

Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed. Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant. Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid added to the water.

Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.

Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.

To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.

Catarrh relieved and cured.

Erysipelas cured.

Burns relieved instantly.

Scars prevented.

Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.

Gangrene prevented and cured.

Dysentery cured.

Wounds healed rapidly.

Scurvey cured in a short time.

Tetter dried up.

It is perfectly harmless.

For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated.

Ship Fever prevented by its use.

In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.

An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.

Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.

Yellow Fever Eradicated

In fact it is the great

DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER

PREPARED BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,

Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,

UTICA, N. Y.,

Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S

UTERINE CATHOLICON,

A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition. Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

Consult and secure the advantages of DR. BUTTS

long experience in curing diseases of the Blood, Skin and Bones.—Nervous Debility, Impotency, Organic Weakness, Gonorrhœa, Syphilitic and Mercurial Affections specially treated on scientific principles, with safe and sure remedies. Call or write for List of Questions to be answered by those desiring treatment by mail. [illegible]

Address, DR. BUTTS, 12 N. 8th St., St. Louis, Mo.

ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF YOUTH and MANHOOD

A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE.

BY A PHYSICIAN of 35 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks. "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of Most Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, Magnificent Horton Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous

"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."

A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.

Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.

Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.

For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the

GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,

At your nearest Ticket Office, or address

R. R. CABLE, Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r.

E. ST. JOHN, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.

CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO.

ACORN

STOVES & RANGES.

LEAD ALL OTHERS!

Every Style & Price.

Guaranteed Unequaled FOR

OPERATION, ECONOMY, DURABILITY and WORKMANSHIP.

Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.

Always Reliable.

POPULAR EVERYWHERE.

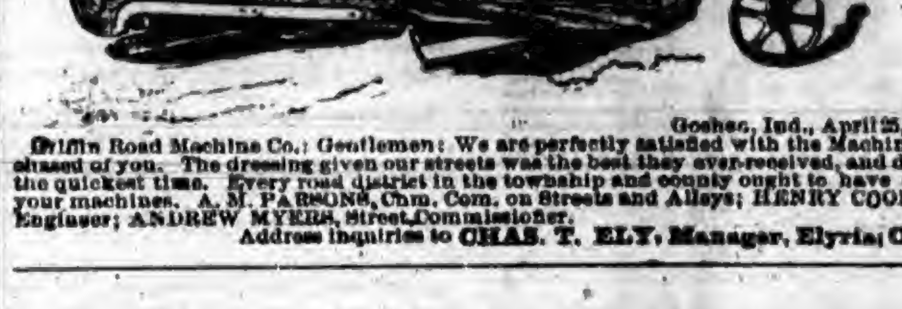
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

The Griffin Road Machine Co.,

MANUFACTURERS,

ROAD & TRACK MACHINES,

ELYRIA, OHIO.



Goshen, Ind., April 25, 1882.

Griffin Road Machine Co.: Gentlemen: We are perfectly satisfied with the Machine purchased of you. The crossing given our streets was the best they ever received, and done in the quickest time. Every road district in the township and county ought to have one of your machines. A. M. PARSONS, Chm. Com. on Streets and Alleys; HENRY COOK, City Engineer; ANDREW MYERS, Street Commissioner.

Address inquiries to CHAS. T. ELY, Manager, Elyria, Ohio.

WHOLESALE LIST

TURNIP SEEDS!

MERCHANTS! SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST.

D. LANDRETH & SONS, PHILADELPHIA.

DR. HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. [illegible]

GENTLEMEN:—I have used Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic in my practice, and in my experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this valuable preparation has been used [illegible] as Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic is a necessity [illegible]

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 25th, 1881. DR. ROBERT SANKEY, [illegible]

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers, [illegible]

IRON TONIC.

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

FORT WAYNE

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

(Incorporated 1871.)

For Catalogue and Particulars, address C. F. W. MEYER, Principal.

FORT WAYNE, IND. 27-6.

HONEST WAGONS!!

Is what you want. Call on

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.

and see their home-made

WAGONS!

☞ GIVE THEM A CALL. ☜

Estray Notice.

Taken up by the subscriber at my home, one-half mile south of Hopewell church, in Jackson township, on June 18, 1882, a two-year-old colt, sorrel, with light mane and tail. The owner can have same by calling on me and paying for this notice.

10-3w. MRS. REBECCA MAURER.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. C. H. BROWN, Trustee.

MUSIC MONEY

$ 5.00 FOR ONLY $1.00

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send 3 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ide

2 CARD COLLECTORS. BOYS send a stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards including photograph, picture & chromo cards. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA OHIO. 10-13w.

NOTICE. We have just issued a book containing 125 pieces of both vocal and instrumental music, every piece of which is very popular. We will give this book in place of the one given heretofore if desired. In case a book premium is not wanted, we will give a set (6) of beautiful silver-plated teaspoons. Great inducements to any one wishing to get up a club. Address as above for terms

THE MYSTERY OF

Love Making Solved

Or an Easy Road to Marriage.

These in Love will find in this Book, strange Secrets always hidden before to mankind, and an Easy Way to Marriage, also many Ancient Secrets that the married should know. If a wife is neglected by her wayward husband this book will surely reclaim him to his first love. It proves that Failure to win the object of your Choice is Impossible. We have ransacked every country to get these Secrets of Love Making. They will cause millions of Hearts and Hands to be United in Marriage. What strange things regarding Love Making you can find in this Book. If your Love is not reciprocated, this great Book will open [illegible] and makes Love's Pathway clear. Start Right and the Battle is Half Won. Sent by Mail for 10 Three cent stamps. Two for 20 cents. Five for $1.00. Address SUNSHINE PUBLISHING HOUSE, Geneva, O.

The American Popular Dictionary, $1.00

This useful and elegant volume is a complete Library and Encyclopedia, as well as the best Dictionary in the world. Superbly bound in cloth and gilt. It contains EVERY WORD in the ENGLISH LANGUAGE, with its true meaning, derivation, spelling and pronunciation, and a vast amount of absolutely necessary information upon Science, Mythology, Biography, American History, Laws, etc., being a perfect Library of reference. Webster's Dictionary costs $8.00, and this book, the American Popular Dictionary, costs only $1.00, worth ten times the money. [illegible] Have never seen its equal either in price, finish or contents. [illegible] "A perfect Dictionary and library of reference." [illegible] Leslie's Ill'd News, N. Y. One copy of the American Popular Dictionary (illustrated), the greatest and best book ever published, post-paid to any address on receipt of $1.00. Entire satisfaction guaranteed. Two copies postpaid $2. Order at once. This offer is good for 60 days only, and will never be made again. Six copies for Five Dollars. Get five of your friends to send with you and you get your own free.

SUNSHINE PUBLISHING CO., Geneva, Ohio.

Our readers will find this wonderful book the cheapest Dictionary published. The information it contains is worth many times the amount asked for it, and it should be in the possession of everybody. With this book in the library for reference, many other much more expensive works can be dispensed with, and ignorance of his country, history, business, laws, etc., is inexcusable in any man. Note the price, $1, post-paid.

THE

COLUMBUS BUGGY COMPANY

STILL LEADS WITH THE

LARGEST BUGGY MANUFACTORY IN THE WORLD.

AND SELL THE BEST BUGGY ON THE GLOBE FOR THE MONEY.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND TESTIMONIALS OF HUNDREDS OF LIVERYMEN WHO HAVE USED THEM

ADDRESS

COLUMBUS BUGGY Co.

COLUMBUS OHIO.

Be sure, before buying, to examine the Name Plate to be found on the rear of every Buggy manufactured by us, for NONE ARE GENUINE unless they bear the name of

Columbus Buggy Company,

COLUMBUS OHIO.

Many inferior goods are offered as Columbus Buggies, and care should be used to distinguish between "Columbus Buggies" and Columbus Buggy Co's. Buggies.

TESTIMONIALS.

GENTLEMEN: Your buggies have given me entire satisfaction, both in style and durability I have used them for the past three years. Your recent improvements on road wagons I consider the best in the market.

JAMES H. RAMBURG.

Frederick Maryland.

DEAR SIRS: We have used buggies of your make that have been in use three years, and no buggy we have that cost twice the amount has given better satisfaction.

JAMES H. ALEXANDER.

Johnstown, Pa.

GENTLEMEN: We have used the Columbus Buggy Company's work for the last five years and can conscientiously recommend it as strictly first class as to style, material, workmanship and durability. Your buggies have given better satisfaction than any other make of vehicles we had in use for the last ten years

PALMER & WHITTAKER.

Red Oak Iowa.

GENTLEMEN: It gives me pleasure to state that I have been selling your buggies and carriages for four years, and can safely recommend them to any one in want of a buggy or carriage. Yours Truly, J. L. GRIBBLE.

Macomb, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: With over fifteen years experience in building buggies, wagons, &c., I do not hesitate in saying your buggies and carriages are strictly first-class in workmanship, material and proportions, filling a long-felt want for a reliable article that can be sold at a price lower than any ordinary manufacturer can produce and sell the same quality of Work at. Yours, etc. I.S. KRICK, Conneautville Pa.

GENTLEMEN: I have used your Brewster side-bar buggies for four years, together with buggies that cost me $300 and $350, and your buggies were the first that went out, on account of being side-bar. They have not cost me $5 for repairs, and those I have sold of your make have given good satisfaction. I think that you make the cheapest and best road wagons that are made in the United States for the money. Respectfully, P. H. HAMLIN, Lawrence Kansas.

DEAR SIRS: We have been using your buggies for the last four or five years. They have given entire satisfaction. I think they are the best buggies made for the money.
W. B. GRIMES & CO., Liverymen Whitehall Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: We have been handling your work for two seasons, and have in every instance found your buggies first class. We never have had one of your jobs returned to us for repairs; neither have we had a single complaint on account of work not being perfectly satisfactory. Very Respectfully, H.P. BUCKLEY & CO., Springfield, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN. I have no hesitancy in saying that the buggies manufactured by the Columbus Buggy Company are the best work for the price I have any knowledge of. In not a single instance has there been any dissatisfaction on the part of any one of my customers.

FRANK L. HALL.

Owensboro, Ky.

DEAR SIRS: For the past two years we have used your buggies side by side with other makes in both our stables, and are perfectly satisfied with the strength, durability and workmanship, compared with others. As fast as our stock in livery is used up we shall replace them with your manufacture, knowing from experience that it is the best we can do. Respectfully,

SWEET & FOLLANSBEE,

Quincy Illinois.

For sale by dealers everywhere.

Any of our readers who will enclose two 3-cent stamps in a letter to the Columbus Buggy Co., Columbus, O., will receive in return a beautiful engraving in colors, representing an Australian scene and their manner of travelling in that country with ostriches as a motor. They have this picture (the packing costing six cents) to all who may send for it, desiring in this manner to make themselves more widely known to the people.

DEATHS.

It will be remembered by our readers that we recently mentioned the death of Mrs Lilian F. Lamson, in York, Nebraska, who was a sister-in-law to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barns. We publish her obituary taken from the York Times, of June 17, 1882. "Mrs. Lamson was born in Westfield N. Y., and was twenty-four years old at the time of her death. While yet quite young, she moved with her parents to West DePere Wisconsin, which place she called her home until she became the wife of Mr. Lamson, three weeks since. About five years ago she met with an accident which injured one of her lungs, and though her injuries were such that at the time, her life was despaired of, she rallied, and for a time grew steadily better; but her health has not been good since the terrible accident occured. She spent nearly a year in York, some time ago, and seemed to derive some benefit from the climate here; but was summoned home by the illness of her mother, which terminated in her death soon after her daughter's arrival. A young sister, a beautiful and accomplished young lady, the pride of the family and the idol of her sister Lilian, survived her mother only two weeks. From these two graves she turned away, heartbroken and discouraged. But her implicit faith in God, and firm belief in His wisdom and love enabled her, even in that dreadful hour, to say "They will, not mine, O Lord, be done." Upon her return to York this spring, after an absence of two years, it was evident that her health had failed considerably, but no one believed the end so near. The promises of marriage had been spoken between her and Mr. Lamson, and moved by that constant fidelity which characterized them both, they decided to consummate the marriage and await God's time for the separation, which they both believed could not be far off. Mrs. Lamson loved life, but was not afraid of death. From a happy winning girl we have seen her grow into beautiful and accomplished womanhood, and then fade away and drop into the grave while beauty and grace were at their zenith. This is one of the saddest, most inexplicable of all the mysteries of providence. Enough can not be said in praise of the true and unselfish life which has just ended. Kneeling by her coffin Rev. Smith prayed that "her mantle might fall upon the young womanhood of this city." If this prayer were answered, peace and happiness would be brought to very many homes. Mr. Lamson has the warmest sympathy of his many friends in this sad hour."

DIED.—Mary Henney was born, in Portage county, Ohio, June 8, 1816. Married John Lightner in 1834, and moved to this county in 1836, and settled on a farm 2 miles east of Waterloo, and has resided in this neighborhood till death relieved her of her suffering June 18th, 1882. The deceased was mother of fifteen children, of whom only three remain to mourn her loss. Her husband has lived to the advanced age of 85 years, and is well known and respected in his neighborhood. She was burried at the Ridge grave yard. Rev. Waltz conducted the funeral services.

A Word to Mothers.

Mothers should remember that it is a most important duty at this season to look after the health of their families and cleanse the malaria and impurities from their systems, and that nothing will tone up the stomach and liver, regulate the bowels and purify the blood so perfectly as Parker's Ginger Tonic advertised in our columns.—[Post. See other column. 24-4t.

New Photograph Gallery.

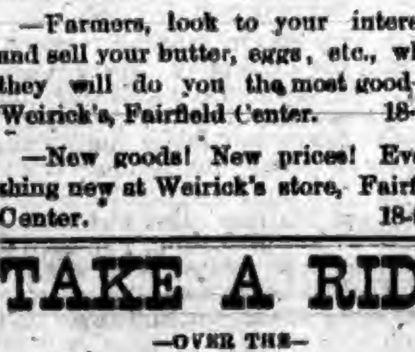
Call on J. M. Rice & Son, second door east of the postoffice, and see their new instruments and pleasant location. They are prepared to do all kinds of work in the picture line. Enlarging done to order to any size desired. They have a ground floor gallery and it is very easy to get to. They solicit your patronage. Remember the place, second door east of the postoffice. tf.

—Farmers, look to your interests and sell your butter, eggs, etc., where they will do you the most good—at Weirick's, Fairfield Center. 18-tf.

—New goods! New prices! Everything new at Weirick's store, Fairfield Center. 18-tf.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—



—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!

2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS

TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address LOUIS JOHNSON agent, Auburn, Ind., or FRED. CLARK, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, Gen. Manager. H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen. Passenger Agent. St. Louis

Ft. Wayne & Jackson Railroad

SHORT LINE

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Time-Card in effect June 1, 1882.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 20pm	7 00am	......
Saginaw	6 20	7 58	......
Lansing	9 25	10 25	......
Grand Rapids	10 20	6 00	12 25pm
Detroit	5 50	7 00	4 05
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 46	6 22
Jackson Lv.	6 25am	12 05pm	6 55
Hanover	7 08	12 27	8 00
Jonesville	7 25	1 02	8 55
Bankers	7 38	1 16	9 20
Reading	7 50	1 27	9 45
Montgomery	8 03	1 40	10 10
Fremont	8 19	1 56	10 40
Angola	8 35	2 13	11 10
Pleasant Lake	8 45	2 25	11 30
Waterloo	9 10	2 45	7 00am
Auburn	9 15	2 53	7 25
Auburn Junction	9 20	2 57	7 50
Arrive Ft. Wayne	10 15	3 50	9 20
Indianapolis	3 45pm	10 45	......
Cincinnati	6 35	7 20am	......
Louisville	7 20	7 50	......
St. Louis	......	8 40	......
Washington	2 10	6 47	......
Baltimore	3 30	5 15	......

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm
Leave Baltimore	11 00am	......	1 30am
Washington	10 40	......	2 35
St. Louis	6 40pm	......	7 50
Louisville	7 12	7 00am	......
Cincinnati	9 00	7 45	2 25pm
Indianapolis	4 25am	10 45	......
Ft Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 40pm	6 00	3 00
Auburn	12 48	6 03	3 05
Waterloo	12 58	6 16	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 16	6 37	4 25
Angola	1 27	7 05	5 00
Fremont	42	7 22	5 33
Montgomery	58	7 40	6 07
Reading	2 10	7 52	6 30
Bankers	2 22	8 04	6 53
Jonesville	2 38	8 18	7 25
Hanover	3 06	8 45	8 20
Jackson	3 40pm	9 20	9 20
Ann Arbor	5 07	10 28	10 34
Detroit	6 30	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 30	7 10am	4 30pm
Lansing	6 35	8 20	......
Saginaw	8 25	10 55	......
Bay City	9 20	11 55	......

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.; east—12 40, 5 00, 7 05, 9 30 a. m., 3 05, 4 05, 9 38 p. m.; west—12 45, 7 02, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J. L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 7 30 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m. 2 30 p. m.; west 9 45 a. m., 1 07, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east leave, 2 50 p m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 42, 11 30 p. m.; west 2 25 a. m., 1 35 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 4 34 a. m., 1 48, 10 32 p. m.; west, 2 05 a. m., 12 45, 11 35p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m. 5 :15 p. m. west—1:57, 11:31 a. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne M. & C. leave 10 20 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m. 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 5 00 7 30 a. m., 2 10, 7 45 p. m., west, 6 10, 10 40 a. m. 4 40 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W leave 12 10, 6 05 a. m. 1 15pm; ar. 2 00, a. m. 2 55, 7 05p.m, P., Ft. W. & C. east 3 35 a. m., 4 10, 11 20 p. m.; west 12 10, 2 40, 11 45 a. m. 3 45, p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt.
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Fr. & Pass'r. Agen

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern RAILWAY.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y.Ex.	At. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm
Elkhart	1 20pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 48	11 30	4 25	12 10pm
Corunna	2 58		6 35
Sedan			7 05	2 00
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30	40
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20	40
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Ex.	Pac. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 20
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 18	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	8 20

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m. and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:05 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage J. E. CURTIS,

Supt. M. ch. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG,

Agent Waterloo Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R

CHICAGO DIVISION.

IN EFFECT FROM MAY 21, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C Ex.
Chicago lv	5 10pm	10 50pm	6 10am
Walkerton Junction	8 11	1 56am	11 14
Milford Junction	9 16	2 10	12 25
Syracuse		3 22	12 35pm
Cromwell		3 38	12 51
Albion		4 00	1 12
Avilla		4 22	1 34
Garrett	10 35	4 45	2 00
Auburn Junction	10 42	4 54	2 08
St. Joe
Hicksville	11 14	5 30	2 42
Defiance	11 52	6 13	3 26
Deshler	12 45am	7 10	4 20
Fostoria	1 38	8 07	5 15
Tiffin	2 02	8 35	5 42
Chicago Junction ar.	3 00	9 45	6 50

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
Chicago Junction lv	9 50pm	6 40pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 56	7 56	9 14
Fostoria	11 02	8 35	9 10
Deshler	11 52	9 43	10 40
Defiance	12 50am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville	1 47	11 42	12 28pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 35	12 13 m	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 28	1 48
Avilla		12 58	1 58
Albion		1 02	2 21
Cromwell		1 28	2 45
Syracuse		1 45	3 02
Milford Junction		1 58	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 14	4 30
Chicago ar	8 35	5 55	7 10

Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville Railroad.

In effect April 16, 1882.

SOUTHWARD. No 3 Express	SOUTHWARD. No. 1 Mail.	STATIONS.	NORTHWARD. No 2 Mail	NORTHWARD. No. 4 Fy
5 40pm	10 20am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	9 45am
6 47	11 20	Bluffton	4 05	8 52
7 50	12 10pm	Hartford	3 04	7 47
8 40	1 10pm	Muncie	2 10	6 50
		Cincinnati
10 50pm	6 05	Indianapolis	11 05	4 35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt,
GEO. B. CAMPBELL General Ticket Agt.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

SPECTACLES

Dr. E. C. YETTER,

BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.

P. O. Box, '33. 2-tf.

THREE THOROUGHBRED

IMPORTED STALLIONS

The horses so well known throughout the county, owned by George Clark, will stand for mares this season as follows:

Mondays and Tuesdays at Corunna; Wednesdays and Thursdays at Waterloo; Fridays and Saturdays at Auburn.

It is not necessary to give a pedigree of these stallions, as their record is established. Those desirin colts from these horses will call in rear of A. W. Allen's livery barn on the days named. JEFFERSON CLARK, Manager.

By order of the judge of the DeKalb circuit court, the stallions belonging to the estate of George Clark, deceased, will continue at the same stands and on the same terms and conditions as directed by said Clark in his life-time. W. TEETERS, Administrator.

May 6, 1882.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large boxes containing 30 Pills, 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 181 and 183 W. Madison St., Chicago. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp.

$1,000 Forfeit!

Having the utmost confidence in its superiority over all others, and after thousands of tests of the most complicated and severest cases we could find, we feel justified in offering to forfeit One Thousand Dollars for any case of coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, hoarseness, bronchitis, consumption in its early stages; whooping cough and all diseases of the throat and lungs, except Asthma, for which we only claim relief, that we can't cure with West's Cough Syrup, when taken according to directions. Sample bottles 25 and 50 cents; large bottles $1.00. Genuine wrappers only in blue. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price. JOHN C. WEST & CO., sole proprietors, 181 and 183 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Health is Wealth.

DR. E. C. WEST'S Nerve and Brain Treatment is a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency, Emissions, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, self-abuse, or over-indulgence, which leads to misery decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind. Orders by mail at regular price.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

For the convenience and the saving of expense to parties owing delinquent taxes, I will be at the following places at the time named herein: St. Joe, Monday, July 10; Newville, Tuesday, July 11; town of Butler, Wednesday, July 12; town of Waterloo, Thursday, July 13; town of Corunna, Friday, July 14; town of Garrett, Wednesday and Thursday, July 19 and 20. Any one living at or nearer any of the above named places than they do the county seat, can meet me at the time specified and pay without incurring collector's expense. Please avail yourselves of this privilege. L. J. MILLER, Treas.

Auburn, June 27, 1882. 2w.

HOUSE FOR SALE.—A good house and lot on south VanBuren street For terms, address, Alvin Weyer, Orland, Indiana. 2-tf.

JOS. ABRIGHT,

—Dealer in—

Watches, Watches.
Clocks, Clocks.
Castors Castors,
Spoons, Spoons,
Forks, Forks,
Knives Knives,
Chains, Chains,
Rings, Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store: All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid,

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER

IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

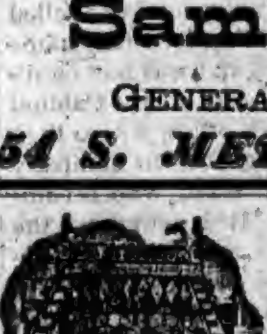
It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,

GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,

54 S. MERDIAN ST., INDIANAPOLIS.



HUGHES & HUMPHREYS,

SLATE ROO

PILES
DR.
IN FOUR YEARS
WARRANTED

Record

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, JULY 13, 1882. Number 28.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

—Try the COURIER three months.

—"Scrub that floor clean."—[Isaac Roth.

—Don't hitch horses to the shade trees.

—If you want a bath visit Cedar creek.

—The crack of the croquet balls is heard.

—S. W. Ralston was assistant marshal last week.

—Watermelons and cholera morbus are in the market.

—Ed. Eldridge is finishing off his house with shutters.

—A load of good timothy hay wanted. Call at this office.

—Jim Culbertson's residence will soon be ready for the plasters.

—Billy Little is working up a big trade in the manufacture of boots and shoes.

—A man that could be envious without being malicious ought to be pensioned.

—A. W. Allen has added a fine new buggy to his livery stock. Buck is always up with the demand.

—Oscar Wilde thought the people of Colorado were quite poetical when they referred to him as a "tender foot."

—An incendiary fired the pump factory at Lagrange, belonging to Robert and Levi Hays. Loss, $3,000; insured for $4,480.

—Pleasure may be aptly compared to many very great books, which increase in real value in the proportion they are abridged.

—We have ordered a new supply of calling cards for ladies and gentlemen that take the lead by a large majority. Call and see them.

—Johnny Hebel is making a successful business of the little store "off the corner." He keeps the best brands of cigars in the market.

—The Island Park Assembly seems to be the popular resort this summer. However, it is said that the number of people present is not as large as that of last year.

—The Columbia City Post very sensibly remarks: "If there is anything disgusting in the sight of man it is a dirty, lying, contemptiable, cowardly newspaper sheet.

—The Underhill lamp posts, for which the town of Auburn, paid several hundred dollars, are nearly all used up. We notice one or two here and there but they present a dilapidated appearance, indeed.

—At a meeting of the ladies literary society the following officers were elected. president, Mrs. A. S. Leas; vice president, Mrs. M. B. Willis; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Barns; custodian of queries, Mrs. W. P. Myers; critic, Mrs. Ehlers.

—The new summer gait is called the kangaroo glide, and can be performed by bending the upper portion of the body at an angle of twenty degrees, poking the elbows into the air on either side, and letting the handles flop around like the fins of a sea lion. The steps should be long and even, and the chin slightly elevated. It is graceful for all, but parculiarly adapted for fat girls.

—The Columbia City Post says: "A fancy driving horse is worth in the neighborhood of $200 in this place." It depends altogether who owns them in this place. If a man has lots of wealth and violates the law by driving rapidly down Main street, the animal is salable and will bring a good price But if a country boy wishes to "show off" a little down a side street, nine times out of ten he is "pulled" and the horse wouldn't sell under the hammer for $25, although it may be the best stepper of the two.

—How Gin-mill Joe can conscienciously call the COURIER a smut machine and publish the same in such a God-forsaken, one-gallied concern as the Headlight, baffles us entirely. We always knew that he had a record for lying and begging that gave him the belt, by acclamation, from any other professional on American soil—but we hardly thought he lacked so much self-pride that he would let it be known to nearly a hundred people (extent of his subscription list) in a county where he was driven out by an open egg battery and just beginning to gain a little confidence in the eyes of his enemies. Josephus, why dust thou?

—New goods! New prices! Everything new at Weirick's store, Fairfield Center. 18-tf.

The Last Call.

We want to impress upon the minds of a certain few fellows who are in the habit of loafing in this office while under the influence of liquor, that the practice must be stopped. We don't care to gaze on their bloated phiz. or inhale their stinking breath; which, by-the-way, would double-discount a deserted tannery. The parties know who we have reference to, and if they repeat their visits we shall publish their names, together with a biographical sketch of their miserable existence.

Fatally Stabbed.

Samuel Clifford, brother of James and Paul Clifford, of Waterloo, was stabbed and instantly killed at Lima Ohio, last week. It will be remembered by some of our citizens that the deceased stopped here over Sunday recently, inquiring the way to Waterloo. He was searching about town for a valise and a rubber coat, and it was afterward ascertained that he was put off a freight train at St. Joe and had left his baggage there. His assassin was a man named James Fink, ex-marshal of Lima, and was under the influence of liquor when he committed the deed.

A Little Confused.

The following receipt was not originated by any Auburn girl that we could swear to, but seems to gain its notoriety from a lady who spent several days at a summer resort. Her attention was attracted by the dress of another "gal" while she was writing down the mixtures; "Take two pounds of flour, three rows of pleating down the front, the white of two eggs cut bias, a pint of milk ruffled around the neck, half a pound of currants with seven yards of bead trimmings, grated lemon peel with Spanish lace fichu, stir well and add a semi-fitting paletot with visite sleeves; butter the pan well with Brazilian topaz necklace, and garnish with icing and jetted passementeries; bake in a moderately hot oven until the underskirt is tucked from the waist down on either side, and finish with large satin bows."

Teachers Licensed.

The number licensed in this county last year, as shown by the June report of the county superintendent, was 211. As only about 143 are required to keep the schools running, it will be seen that some of those licensed did not teach. But the difference is mainly caused by the fact that many who teach in winter do not teach in the spring, but give the places to a new list. Thus it can be seen that we license each year almost two sets of teachers. There were in all 122 failures during the year. This large number was not the result of bad training or poor preparation, but was caused mainly by the difficult forms in which the questions for examination were presented by the state. Taking all things into consideration, the teachers have done well, and should have credit for their energy and perseverance.

Strawberries.

We do not believe there is in Northern Indiana, a locality where this delicate fruit can be more profitable and easily cultivated than in the vicinity of Auburn. We have here the warm sandy soil the fruit so much loves and the underlying moisture so necessary to its perfect production, both for its size and its quality. All growers of this delicious fruit will agree, that these two conditions are desirable, although strawberries may be successfully cultivated on soil that is generally dry. But if there is an under stratum of damp earth, and the ground is so situated or so prepared that the excess of moisture in spring can do no harm, it will partly remain as a store that may be used for the nourishment of the plants in case a drought should ensue, as is often the case during June. Won't some of our enterprising gardeners take the matter in hand and give us a home grown article.

School Report.

Report of school district number 5 Fairfield township, for the month ending June 30. Number enrolled, 42; average attendance, 35. Names of pupils neither absent nor tardy: Hattie Smith, Etta Matthews, Mollie Miller, Sarah Kissell, Daisy Tubbs, Cora Matthews and Mertie Matthews.

E. E. BUCHANAN, Teacher.

Quick and Sure.

Many miserable people drag themselves about with failing strength, feeling that they are steadily sinking into their graves, when by using Parker's Ginger Tonic they would find a cure commencing with the first dose, and vitality and strength quickly and surely coming back to them. 27-4t.

OBITUARY.

Samuel Morr was born January 17th 1809, and departed this life July 1st, 1882, after about five months of suffering, during which time he was not able to talk, yet he seemed to bear it all with much Christian fortitude and patience, until he fell asleep in death, to await the great resurrection morn—aged 73 years, 5 months and 14 days. The deceased was born in Center county, Pennsylvania. When nine years of age, he emigrated to Ashland county, Ohio, with his mother, his father having died when he was three years of age. At the age of seventeen, he united with the Old School Lutheran church, with which he stood connected the rest of his life. At the age of twenty-five. he was married to Miss Mary M. Knouse, and resided in Ashland county until the year 1851. He emigrated to this state and settled on the farm which he now owns, having been bereft of his companion July 21st, 1875. He was a kind neighbor and an affectionate father, loved and esteemed by all who knew him. He was the father of thirteen children, of whom ten are living.

DEAN.

Another Pioneer Gone.

Jarvis Porter was born in Hadnam, Bedfordshire, England. September 24, about the year 1805, and emigrated to America in 1833, and settled in Medina county, Ohio. In 1839 he moved to Putman county, Ohio. April 30, 1845, he was married to Catharine Campbell, and with his family moved to DeKalb county, Indiana, in 1852, where he resided until his death, which occurred May 25, 1882, aged about 77 years. When Mr. Porter landed in New York he did not have enough money with which to buy his breakfast, but with the ambition which characterizes an Englishman, he went to work, and by the time he came to this county, he had enough to buy the farm on which he lived at the time of his death. He was converted and joined the Methodist church during the winter of '71. Although afflicted for several months, he bore all patiently and was ready to go when the end came. A wife and five children mourn their loss.

W.

Communicated.

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T., July 1, 1882.

MR. EDITOR: Perhaps a few lines will remind you of our hand-shaking on the 30th of March, and also some of your readers, that there are at least two on the water's edge of Puget Sound that occasionally think of them. The climate of this country is excellent. The surface of this country, with the exceptions of a few small prairies which are well adapted to farming, is very rough and very heavily timbered. Lumber, coal and some iron are the chief mineral products. Butter and cheese are attracting considerable attention. All kinds of grain, except corn, are raised with profitable yields, and all kinds of fruit, except peaches and tropical fruit, are grown here very abundantly. This town has 1,000 inhabitants; made up of people of all nationalities, and are generally kind, clever and sociable, even more so than would be expected by a Hoosier. Work is plenty and laborers are well paid.

D. B. SHULL.

Fairfield Center.

[Last Week.]

Mike Miller, our blacksmith, is very busy.

Miss Jennie Reynolds, of Waterloo, was in town Thursday last.

Miss Laura Borland, of Swan, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Martin.

Alf. Weirick's little boy Charlie, who had a severe attack of diphtheria, is convalescing.

—Mrs. Potts, a sister of David Ensley, and her grandson, both of Ontario county, New York, who have been visiting at Mr. Ensley's, returned home last week.

Dr. H. Lehman's house was destroyed by fire Friday evening, June 23rd. Efforts were made to save the contents, but owing to the rapid burning of the building nothing was saved but the organ and a few pieces of furniture.

ITEMIZER.

New Photograph Gallery.

Call on J. M. Rice & Son, second door east of the postoffice, and see their new instruments and pleasant location. They are prepared to do all kinds of work in the picture line. Enlarging done to order to any size desired. They have a ground floor gallery and it is very easy to get to. They solicit your patronage. Remember the place, second door east of the postoffice. tf.

—Farmers, look to your interests and sell your butter, eggs, etc., where they will do you the most good—at Weirick's, Fairfield Center. 18-tf

Editorial Mention.

THE republican congressional drunk foots up $7,000. This makes a nice placard for a prohibition party.

THE star route prosecutions have about fizzled out, and the local republicans are mum on the question.

UP to July 1st, there had been registered in this state 115,465 dogs; number not registered, 39,441; number killed, 7,958.

OUR democratic candidates are anxiously waiting for the "morality" party to put their men into the field. They want to work up their election, and don't care to go it alone.

THE Noble School Furniture Company at Goshen have not gone out of business, as their rivals would have people believe. They are doing a larger business than ever before.

THE republicans in this county do not seem much interested in their coming ticket. We hear but little noise from them, and when they do belch out it's "soldier and prohibition. To judge from their indolent manner and "don't care a continental" way, one would suppose that they have already given up the fall election.

THE next thing in order will be to inform the people how much they will pay for the murder of Garfield. His sickness and funeral will foot up something more than $100,000. The big mourning drunk of the republican congressmen is set down at $7,000. And this is only a starter. It will be several years before we see the accounts of the president's death canceled.

WE see by the Bristol Banner and some of our other exchanges, that Bro. Hubbell, of the Republican, is likely to be the republican candidate for joint representative on the that ticket. Mr. H. is a young man of good ability, and if we are doomed to have a man of his party to represent us we know of no one who would suit us better. But we think our democratic friend at Goshen, M. Max Dembufsky is, the man who will knock the November persimmons.

Telegraph Offices on Cars.

C. F. McGlashan, the proprietor of the Santa Barbara Press, has patented a system of railroad telegraphy, by which moving trains can keep in constant communication with each other and with station offices, thus reducing to a minimum the liability to accidents on the rail. The system involves but little additional expense, and when all things are considered, such as necessary repairs to line, and the fewer way stations needed, the cost, it is claimed, will be merely nominal. The chief items of expense for introducing the system will be the pay of operators, who must accompany each train, and the transplanting of telegraph posts to within a few feet of the track so as to allow the "trucks," or wheels which conduct the current to and from the train, to run freely and uniformly. In order to introduce his system, the patentee offers the free use of it for ten years to the first railroad that will put it in operation.

The cost of constructing a line of Train Telegraph includes the following items: Two No. 4 telegraph wires for the entire length of the road; ordinary posts placed sixty or seventy yards apart; insulators which cost but a trifle more than those ordinarily employed, and a light metallic truck to be drawn along the wires by the moving train. This last item of expense would probably cost from $10 to $20. The only other article necessary is one piece of rubber hose, say twenty feet long, which draws the truck along the wires, and connects it with the car. Within this piece of hose are coiled the inleading and outleading wires which convey the electricity from one of the main wires to the telegraphic instrument in the car, and from the instrument back to the other wire.—[Santa Cruz Courier and Local Item.

The Highest Rank.

Made from harmless materials, and adapted to the needs of fading and falling hair, Parker's Hair Balsam has taken the highest ranks as an elegant and reliable hair restorative. 27-4t.

Normal Music School.

The Northern Indiana Music School will be held at the Fort Wayne college, August 8th to 25th. J. F. Kinsey, principal assisted by Otto A. Schmint and Princess L. Clark. This is decidedly the best and cheapest first class music school in the country.

For circulars stating particulars, address, J. F. Kinsey, Fort Wayne, Ind. 27-4t.

—Dr. Brinkerhoff has made the following appointments: Defiance, Thursday, June 29, July 27, Aug. 24, Sept. 21, at Russell House. Bryan, Mondays June 26, July 24, Aug. 21, Sept. 18, at Fountain House. Fort Wayne, Fridays, June 30, July 28, Aug. 25, Sep. 22, at Mayer House.

ROOT AND COMPANY

Call your attention to a new and beautiful line of Sheet and Pillow

SHAMS

In match setts of

ANTIQUE LACES

At one-half real value.

ROOT AND COMPANY

Show in great variety new

ANTIQUE TIDIES ! ! !

Square and Oblong

NOTTINGHAM TIDIES,
APPLIQUE LACE TIDIES,
IM. RUSSIAN TIDIES

ROOT AND COMPANY

Exibit, New

LACE TRIMMED PARASOLS,
BLACK SATIN PARASOLS,
CARDINAL SATIN PARASOLS,

OLIVETTE PARASOLS,
CARRIAGE PARASOLS,
MISSES' PARASOLS,

SUN UMBRELLAS,
SCHOOL UMBRELLAS,
GENTS' UMBRELLAS

In styles surpassing that of any former season

ROOT AND COMPANY,

46 and 48 Calhoun St.,

FT. WAYNE, INDIANA.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana Office over Mrs. Jones Store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections Also represents first class insurance companies. Office over Willis & Co's. book store, Waterloo, Indiana.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING will treat chronic diseases, also diseases of the eye, ear and cancers. Office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana. tf.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 26 1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor. John Butt Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m., except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week.

HENRY [illegible],
Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.

T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.

June 14. 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.

WILSON S. DANCER, Trustee.

April 15, 1882. tf

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice.

FREDERICK GFELLER, Trustee.

April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

For Sale.

—On account of my wife's illness I offer for sale my threshing machine, clover huller, and ten horse power traction engine all in complete running order. For terms call at my residence two miles west of Waterloo, on Smithfield township line, or address. Wm. Brand, Waterloo, Ind.

Notice to Bridge Builders.

Notice is hereby given, that the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, Indiana, will, on

THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1882,

at 10 o'clock a. m., let to the lowest and best responsible bidder the building of a Howe Truss bridge about one-half mile north of the town of St. Joe; said bridge to be forty-five (45) feet long, and to be built on pile abutments.

Also on the same day at 3 o'clock p. m. said Board of Commissioners will let to the lowest and best responsible bidder the construction of a Howe Truss Bridge one and a half miles east of the town of Butler; said bridge to be fifty-five (55) feet in length and placed upon pile abutments.

Said lettings will take place at the site of the proposed work. Plans and specifications can be seen at the auditor's office. Successful bidders will be required to file a bond to the acceptance of the Board for the faithful performance of the contract. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

By order of the Board.

Attest: ALBERT ROBBINS, Auditor.

June 20th, 1882.

Stallions for Sale.

Pursuant to an order of the DeKalb circuit court, as administrator of the estate of George Clark, deceased, I will at Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, on or after Wednesday, July 26th, 1882, offer to sell at private sale four valuable stallions, described below, with their bridles, halters, sulkies, blankets, etc., and also the stallion barn, situated in the rear of Allen's livery stable, being a part of the personal estate of said decedent.

TERMS: No bid received for less than the appraised value. One-third of the purchase money to be cash in hand, and balance at one year, with interest secured by note with personal or real estate security, waiving valuation laws and payable at First National Bank of Auburn, Indiana. Said stallions are,

First.—"Hildare," a beautiful dapple gray, six years old, weight 1,800 pounds, and is a full blooded, imported Norman. Was imported by Dunham, the celebrated importer of horses, of Dupage county, Illinois.

Second.—"Prince," a blood bay, imported Canadian Norman, eight years old, weight 1,800 pounds.

Third.—"Frank," a bay Mambrino, seven years old, weight 1,350 pounds, and is a fine roadster.

Fourth.—"Jim," a half blooded gray Norman, nine years old, weight 1,600 pounds, and has the finest herd of colts of any horse in northern Indiana.

Pedigrees can be furnished if desired. All these horses are tractable, sound in every particular, and sure foal getters.

The administrator will take pleasure in showing stock of any and all of the horses, and answer by mail or otherwise all inquiries about them. All are making the season and have all the business they can do. They can be seen at Auburn, after July 6th, next. Private offers are respectfully asked, and the confidence of such will be kept. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

WASHINGTON TEETERS, Adm'r.

Auburn, Ind., June 17, 1882. 25-4w

In HARBOR.

PAUL H. HAYNE.

I think it over, over—
I think it over at last;
Voices of foeman and love,
The sweet and the bitter, have
Life, like a tempest of ocean,
Hath outblown its ultimate blast.
There's but a faint, sobbing seaward,
While the calm of the tide deepens lee-
ward,
And behold! like welcoming quiver
Of heart-pulses throbbed through the river,
Those lights in the Harbor at last—
The heavenly Harbor at last!

I feel it over, over—
The winds and the waters surcease;
How few were the days of the Rover
That smiled in the beauty of peace!
And distant and dim was the omen
That hinted redress or release.
From the ravage of life, and its riot,
What marvel I yearn for the quiet
Which bides in this Harbor at last?—
For the lights, with their welcoming quiver,
That throb through the sanctified river
Which girdles the Harbor at last—
The heavenly Harbor at last?

I know it is over, over—
I know it is over at last;
Down sail; the sheathed anchor uncover;
For the stress of the voyage has passed;
Life, like a tempest of ocean,
Hath outblown its ultimate blast.
There's but a faint sobbing seaward,
While the calm of the tide deepens lee-
ward,
And behold! like the welcoming quiver
Of heart pulses throbbing the river,
Those lights in the Harbor at last—
The heavenly Harbor at last!

MAGGIE'S SECOND STRING.

Maggie was pretty and she knew it. She was nurse girl at 'Squire Ridgeway's, but she knew it just as well as if she had been a queen. She knew others thought so, too, and though she was engaged—or "all the same as engaged"—to Dick Hopper, she could not keep from flirting with anyone who showed the least desire to flirt with her. And Dick Hopper did not like it, so they quarreled and parted, and made it up again—not once, but a hundred times. But I think if Dick had known all the making-up would have been slower.

The flirting with the young men he knew was bad enough, but there was something worse. Whenever Maggie took the baby—'Squire Ridgeway's little grand daughter, and the pride of the family—up to the park to walk she was sure to go into the pretty summer house that overlooks the lake, and there, after a while, to be joined by a young man—such an elegant young man, Maggie thought, who paid her such compliments.

Nobody knew about this but cook, who declared that Maggie ought to be ashamed of herself, and that Dick was worth twenty of that fellow.

But Edgar Montmorency was so elegant so charming.

"And it'll be well to keep two strings to your bow, cook," said Maggie: "Dick is so cross with me sometimes."

'Squire Ridgeway and his family were gone up to town, and cook and Maggie kept house. Generally only one left the house at a time, but this was a special day. Maggie and cook were both going out, and Maggie was to take the key in her pocket and be home first. All was settled. She had made up her mind to see the military parade in the morning and the firing of guns and fireworks in the evening, and was quite short with Dick when he came in the evening before, and answered in a hesitating sort of way, when Dick said: "Maggie, mother wants you to take tea and spend the evening with her. Will you?"

"I want to see the soldiers," said Maggie.

"Very well, Maggie," said Dick. "I would take you if I could, but something will keep me from going with you to-morrow evening. Mother would like to have you."

"I shan't shut myself up to-morow," said Maggie.

Inwardly she added that she would not go to Dick's mother's and drink her wishy washy tea, and hear her old stories, when she could walk out with Edgar Montmorency, have ice-drinks, see the fire-works, and be envied by every girl she met.

Cook went out early in the morning, so did Maggie, but at 5 she returned, made herself trim and neat, and went out again. At the corner she met Edgar Montmorency, and he offered his arm, and took her to a great platform.

"I've got seats engaged here," said Edgar, and Maggie, proud of her great gentleman, who could get seats on a platform amongst "quality," mounted the steps and took her place.

"I'll stand behind you," said Edgar, "and give me that great heavy key, for it's what no lady should have to bother with; it's too big. Besides your pocket is not safe in a crowd."

Maggie took the key from her pocket and her beau leaned over her, talking to her, and the display of fireworks began; and after awhile Edgar Montmorency whispered, "I am going to get you some refreshments," made use of his long legs to climb over the seats and was gone.

Maggie sat still gazing at the fireworks, and uttering "Ohs!" and "Ahs!" of delight, and time passed so quickly that she did not know how long she had been deserted, when suddenly the last gleam of color dropped down from the sky in a train of sparks, and people began to depart.

Where was Mr. Montmorency? Maggie looked about her. There was no sign of him. The crowd was dispersing; the windows were growing dark; the tipsy men seemed to monopolize the pavements; but he did not come, and she must wait for him, for he had the key in his pocket.

Maggie waited, and a policeman called to her, asking if she meant to stay there all night.

"It's 12 o'clock," he said, "and decent young girls ought to be at home."

"I'm waiting for my friend," said Maggie.

"Well, he seems to have forgot about you," said the policeman; and Maggie descended from the platform, bathed in tears, and with a dreadful presentiment of evil in her heart, hurried away homeward; and just as she turned the corner, two honest, fat, motherly figures waddled round it, and came toward her—cook and Dick's mother.

"You've brought it on yourself," said cook, "but I'm sorry. If you want to see what has happened at home you'd better come."

"What is the matter?" asked Maggie.

"You'll see soon enough," said cook.

And Maggie, dreading she hardly knew what, hurried along the street between the two old women. The fireworks had left only a disagreeable odor of gunpowder behind them. Here and there a tipsy man lay on the steps of a public house; others staggered down the deserted streets, howling the dismal songs of intoxication.

At last they reached 'Squire Ridgeway's house, and saw, to Maggie's astonishment, that it was brightly lighted, and that a crowd had gathered about the doors.

"Now," said cook—"Now Maggie, you'll see your elegant gentleman." And there in the midst of a group of stalwart policemen, there, indeed, was Edgar Montmorency; and there were two other men; and all three were handcuffed; all three muttering furious imprecations.

Maggie screamed aloud, and suddenly the truth dawned upon her.

Cook put it into plain English:

"You see it was a plan from the first," she said. "He made love to you to get information about the silver and the safe, and asked you to the fireworks to get the key. I guessed what he was, and told Dick, and it is Dick who managed to have him caught at his work; and well for you that I knew all, or master would have had you arrested as an accomplice. Dick and me knew you were honest, and only just a fool. You ought to be thankful."

And I hope my son knows his own value now," said the old mother, "and don't go after any girl that plays off and on with him."

Poor Maggie! she suffered a great deal. It was weeks before she dared to speak to Dick, though they met at the Sunday-school every Sunday, and she thought herself well and fitly punished and told cook that she should surely be an old maid now; but it was only six months from that day when faithful Dick came behind her as she was drawing the perambulator up and down the pavement one afternoon and said:

"Maggie, dear, hasn't this thing gone on long enough?"

"Oh, Dick!" said Maggie, "I never expected you to like me again."

"Ah, but I did," said Dick. "And since your master thinks I did him a service, and has made me a present of enough to furnish a house nicely, shan't we set our wedding-day for this day month?"

All that Maggie said was: "Oh, Dick." and there were tears in her eyes, but he kissed them away.

Polite Sicilian Brigands.

Naples Letter to London News.

The reappearance of brigands in the distant neighborhood of Palermo so soon after the recent rejoicings has painfully impressed the inhabitants. The particulars of the ex-syndic, Signor Notarbartolo, by the brigands, have become known since his return. As soon as his companions had become disarmed by the pretended patrol, the ex-syndic perceived his mistake. His captors were dressed in new Bersaglieri uniforms, spoke the jargon of soldiers and had a thoroughly military appearance, rendering it likely that they had all once served in the army. When Signor Notarbartolo saw the state of affairs, he at once told his captors in a decided manner that all threats or bad language toward him would be of no avail, and such was the effect of his superiority of character that during the whole term of his detention the brigands treated him with deference and respect. His companions had been sent away with a letter to his family, apprising them of what had occurred, and that a ransom of 75,000 francs was demanded. The brigands first took Signor Notarbartolo into the woods, and then to a grotto, or rather deep ravine, in the mountains, where he was detained for six days. The cavern was constantly guarded by two of the brigands, who had changed their uniforms for the torn dress of peasants. The light penetrated this ravine for only a few hours of the day, and during that time the prisoner could read a number of the Revue des Deux Mondes which he happened to have with him.

This was his only amusement. He was not allowed to smoke during the day, lest in so doing he should betray the place of his concealment. The brigands called the ravine their best palace, saying they had others in places more difficult of access, but that they had chosen this as it was more comfortable for "His Excellency." During the first evening they conversed frankly about their affairs, recounting their exploits, and then begged their prisoner to excuse them if they annoyed him, but they did not know how to talk about anything but their own affairs. At the end of the six days (during which, in accordance with the petitions of the family and a high functionary, the brigands had, by order of the Minister Depretis, been left unmolested) the sum of 50,000f. was conveyed to them, with which they expressed themselves content, telling their prisoner that he would be immediately released. The latter then asked for his watch, saying that it was a keepsake very dear to him. With characteristic courtesy it was immediately restored to its proper owner; not, however, before one of the brigands had eyed the chain with great envy, exclaiming that "it was very tasteful and beautiful. The ex-syndic declared with vivacity that all efforts to deprive him of it would be useless; on which the brigand who had taken a fancy to it declared that his wish to have it was quite disinterested and that he would gladly pay for it. At this time the band had assumed very good cloth clothes, had rings on their fingers, and gold chains to their watches. Signor Notarbartolo was received in Palermo with great demonstrations of joy, the street in which he lives being illuminated by the inhabitants. Measures for arresting the malefactors were then immediately taken, the district around Termini, where they are supposed to be still hiding, being surrounded by military. No news of their capture has yet arrived.

What Became of the Eggs.

Cincinnati Commercial.

When General Rosecrans came back to Chattanooga, on the second day's battle at Chickamauga, and was assisted off his horse (unnecessarily the General says) by at least one member of his staff, he found himself in the presence of two of his corps commanders, leaving the army at the front without the General-in-chief, and with only one corps commander, whose name, luckily, was George H. Thomas. There is excellent authority for stating that Rosecrans did not at once order McCook and Crittenden to return to their corps, and that, while Rosey sat in a brown study, the headquarters cook proceeded to prepare some eggs, which was not inappropriate, as the Generals had lost several meals, and were evidently in need of some of the protoplasm without which the best soldier must at length become inefficient. Presently an orderly dashed in, bringing the news that Thomas held his position. Rosecrans sprang up, much in the manner of one intensely surprised, waved the dispatch over his head, and, turning to McCook and Crittenden, said: "Gentlemen, this is no place for you. Go at once to your corps." They went of course. The question now comes up, Who got those eggs?

Texas Opinion of Yankees.

From the Texas Siftings.

How tempora mutantur, and how rapidly we mutatur in illis! It is not so long ago that the average Yankee was regarded by Texans as little better than an emissary of Satan. The Massachusetts Yankee was supposed to be as vile and despicable as ten ordinary Yankees, while a Boston Yankee was piously believed to contain 50 per cent more total depravity than any other kind of New Englander. All these old notions have been tied up in bundles and laid away without any labels on them in the garret, with the rest of the rubbish of war. We Texans are pretty well satisfied that the Massachusetts Yankee is just as much of an American citizen as any of us are, and vice versa. Some years before the war, the Texas legislature ordered the purchase of machinery for the penitentiary at Huntsville, and the appropriation passed with the provision that none of the machinery purchased was to be manufactured in the state of Massachusetts. If any such bill as that were up before the present legislature, no such nonsense would be listened to for any length of time. It is highly probable that three or four partially demented legislators, like Todd, the gentleman from Marion, would improve the opportunity to make the usual fool of themselves, but the rest of the members would certainly impress upon them that it is hardly worth while prolonging the war just to hear them tell about their "pitched battles." It is true that the Massachusetts boys in blue were the first ones to pollute the sacred soil of Virginia with their presence, and they could also be found, without much difficulty, on most of the battle fields of the war, but we have noticed since the war that when there is any great disaster in the south by pestilence or flood or fire that those Boston people are the ones who go down into their garments and bring forth large sums of actual cash for the relief of the sufferers. That's the way they get even with us for not buying any machinery from them previous the war. It is a notable fact that when there is real distress at the South Boston subscribes more money in less time than half a dozen of our own Southern States, as, for instance, at Memphis. Taking it altogether it hardly pays to poke fun at the Hub. When it comes to intelligence, morality, and public spirit, Boston holds about as good a hand as theer is in the deck. Boston comes just about as near being the hub as any village we know of.

Gould as the Ghiasticutis.

Rufus Hatch.

Mr. Gould's little maneuvers about his tin box reminds me of the maneuvers of two young gentlemen in the western part of this State who were very hard up for money. They managed to collect enough to pay for some very highly colored posters and a few hundred hand-bills setting forth that they would exhibit a wonderful monster from the heathen shores, called the Ghi-as-ti-cu-tis, something similar to what Barnum wishes us to believe his Jumbo is. After borrowing, begging or stealing an ox chain and a horse and buggy from a neighboring farmer, they arranged that one should take up his position at the door to receive the money, and the other should exhibit the monster on the stage, going behind the scenes of course, before the audience arrived. On the eventful day the wondering countrymen came pouring in with their families until the hall was crowded. At a given signal, when the hall had become packed, the showman rattled the chain furiously, rushed out, dripping with red paint, and shouted: "Ladies and gentlemen, save yourselves, the Gi-as-ti-cu-tis is loose!" And in the uproar which followed, the young gentlemen escaped with the door money and the horse and buggy.

Selling Her Boy's Body.

A colored woman in Philadelphia sold the body of her boy, seven years old, who died last Sunday from malformation of the head, and the Times of that city reports her as saying: "De po' little dead chile am sold, an' de money handed ober. It fotched $30, a mighty po' price, but Dr Long he gib no mo'. So I sooner sell him fo' dat dan hab him dug up outen his grave by med'cal fellers an' toted away widout me gettin' a picayune. A eel in de fryin' pan am wuth two in de ma'sh, an' bein' a po' woman wid a new baby an' another chile wid de paralytics an' can't walk, I tuk the $30 and glad enuff, sooner dan git nuffin." The Times adds: "When the news of the sale spread about the neighborhood the people in the adjoining houses became unusually friendly in the matter of advising Mrs. Jeff how to dispose of her money to the best advantage. Visions of spring finery and a carriage for the new baby danced before Mrs. Jeff's eyes all the afternoon, but in the evening the only things definitely fixed on the purchase list were a new calico dress, a new bonnet with lemon-colored ribbons, a long white dress for the infant, a rattle-box for the other child, two pounds of coffee and half fo a ham."

* * *

A wonderful young pianist, Gallioti, aged nine years, has taken London by storm, and is the fashion. Without a note of music before him, he plays with a master's hand; but the most wonderful part of his talent is that any one in the room may give the child a theme on which they wish him to improvise, and, after catching the air, he plays variation after variation upon it with marvelous taste, execution, and expression.

JOCOSITIES.

The present fashion of belt bouquets causes a great many flowers to be wasted.

What is the difference between Jumbo and Gumbo? None whatever. One is an elephant, and the other is stew.

"A reputashun once broken may possibly be repaired, but the world will alwus keep their eyes on the spot where the brack wuz."

A Philadelphian has figured up that he will save $500 on ice cream, carriage hire, and theater tickets this year. He has married the girl.

Copy of a notice on the beach at Brighton: "In case of ladies in danger of drowning, they should be seized by the clothing, and not by the hair, which generally comes off."

A well-known lawyer declared one day at a dinner that the biggest thing he had ever done was to cross-examine a man until he did not know whether he was married or not.

"My darling," said a fond husband, "I really believe my rheumatism has wholly dissappeared!" She: "Oh, I am so sorry! Now we shall never know when the weather is going to change."

"Don't you think I have a good face for the stage?" asked a young lady with histrionic aspirations. "I don't know about the stage," replied her gallant companion, "but you have a lovely face for a 'bus.'

A city chap told a country cousin on meeting her "that she looked as fresh as a daisy kissed by dew. She replied, blushingly, "That wasn't his name; it was Bill Jones, and I told him everybody would find it out."

She admitted to her mother that the young man had made a very strong impression on her. "Yes," said the old lady, "I can see where the impression mashed that face flat as a clean napkin. Don't let it happen again."

"I am truly sorry to see you in that condition," said a benevolent looking man to an intoxicated man yesterday. "Yes—bad condishun," replied the inebriate. "I'm too far gone t'walk 'ome an' not drunk 'nuff to be locked up." "It's a shame." "Shame! You jus bet it ish. Here I'm only half drunk an' dead broke!"

Truth uses a pin: "I feel I am growing old," says the lady, mincingly, to her guests, "for really I am beginning to lose my hair." (Of course she has bushels of it, and it is as black as a raven's wing.) "Then, ma," exclaims her little child, with the innocent frankness of infancy, "why don't you lock up the drawer when you put it away at night."

He had always told her that levity was not becoming, especially in a girl about to enter into the sacred duties of a wife. She promised to reform, and the wedding came off at last. When the officiating clergyman, in the course of the ceremony, turned to the groom in a very solemn manner, asked him to repeat the words: "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," the bride ducked her head against the alter railing and just snorted with merriment. The groom was a deck hand in a Myrtle Avenue thread and needle store.

Not Without a Moral.

Louisville Commercial.

In the early part of 1881 Harry Lee, an actor, played an engagement in this city, and during his stay here Miss Etta K. Smith, a vivacious young blonde, residing at 1,026 Green street, fell desperately in love with him. He was a handsome, dashing young chap, and more girls beside Miss Etta had been captivated by his flashing black eyes and manly form. The more Miss Ettie saw of pretty Harry, the masher, the more desperately she fell in love with him. She succeeded in forming his acquaintance, and Harry, seeing that the girl was smitten, offered her his hand and heart. She readily accepted the proposal, and it was decided that they should be married at Pittsburg. Here they met in February of last year and were privately married. The girl's mother knew nothing of the wedding, and the affair was kept a secret from her. The honey-moon of Mr. and Mrs. Lee lasted just three weeks, and at the expiration of this time the base designs of the heartless actor became apparent. He informed his bride that, as she was possessed of more wealth than he was, she would have to provide a living for them both. The announcement fell like a thunderbolt on the poor girl, and she asked for an explanation of his conduct. In cold, cruel words he informed her that he had not married with intention of supporting her, and that if she wanted to live with him she would have to help support him. He told her that if she did not care to do this that there were plenty of other girls in the country that would, and that she might as well make up her mind at once to draw upon her mother's bank account or leave him. He laughed at her when she reminded him of the solemn marriage vows they had taken, and told her that the marriage was not a valid one on account of his having been married to her under an assumed name; that his name was not Harry Lee, but Harry Ohl.

The blow was a cruel one to the young wife, but she rallied under it, and the passionate love for him who had so basely deceived her was turned to intense hatred. Her independent spirit rose within her, and she left the heartless husband and returned to her mother's house.

In October last she employed Colonel Marc Mundy to procure for her a divorce from her alleged husband, and the petition was accordingly filed. Several efforts were made to find Lee, but they all proved futile, and yesterday Judge Pope granted Mrs. Lee a decree of divorce and restored to her her maiden name.

That Silly Child.

Texas Siftings.

"Your dear little boy paid me such a pretty compliment; he said I looked real handsome," said Mrs. Hostetter to Mrs. Lydia Pinkham.

"Did he say that?"

"Indeed he did, the little angel."

"O, he is such a silly child. Sometimes I think he has not got good sense," responded the mother, and now they have quit swapping bangs when they go out shopping.

* * *

A "people's Church," to cost $150,000 to be erected in Boston, will be the largest religious edifice in New England.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed. Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant. Fever and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water. Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing. Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about. To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed. Catarrh relieved and cured. Erysipelas cured. Burns relieved instantly. Scars prevented. Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented. Ulcers purified and healed. Gangrene prevented and cured. Dysentery cured. Wounds healed rapidly. Scurvey cured in a short time. Tetter dried up. It is perfectly harmless. For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated. Ship Fever prevented by its use. In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell. An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c. Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use. Yellow Fever Eradicated

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition. Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.00 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Consult Dr. BUTTS and secure the advantages of long experience in curing diseases of the Blood, Skin and Bones—Nervous Debility, Impotency, Organic Weakness, Gonorrhœa, Syphilitic and Mercurial Affections specially treated on scientific principles, with safe and sure remedies. Call or write for List of Questions to be answered by those desiring treatment by mail. (Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss.) Address, DR. BUTTS, 12 N. 8th St., St. Louis, Mo. ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF
YOUTH and MANHOOD
A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE.
BY A PHYSICIAN of 25 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks, "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

A MAN
who is unacquainted with the geography of this country will see by examining this map that the

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of Most Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, Magnificent Horton Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous

"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."

A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.

Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.

Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.

For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the
GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,
At your nearest Ticket Office, or address
R. R. CABLE, Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r. E. ST. JOHN, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.
CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled
FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

The Griffin Road Machine Co.,
MANUFACTURERS:
ROAD & TRACK MACHINES,
ELYRIA, OHIO.

Goshen, Ind., April 25, 1882.
Griffin Road Machine Co.: Gentlemen: We are perfectly satisfied with the Machine purchased of you. The dressing given our streets was the best they ever received, and done in the quickest time. Every road district in the township and county ought to have one of your machines. A. M. PARSONS, Chm. Com. on Streets and Alleys; HENRY COOK, City Engineer; ANDREW MYERS, Street Commissioner.
Address inquiries to CHAS. T. ELY, Manager, Elyria, Ohio.

WHOLESALE LIST
TURNIP SEEDS!
MERCHANTS! SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST.
D. LANDRETH & SONS, PHILADELPHIA.

DR. HARTER'S
A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SAMUELS,
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 25th, 1881. 2101 Wash. Avenue.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC.
MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

FROM THE WIRES.

Railroad Disaster.

Long Branch, N. J., June 29.

The express train leaving Long Branch at five minutes past eight this morning on the Central New Jersey, met with a terrible accident while crossing the bridge over the branch of the Shrewsbury river near Little Silver Station. The accident was no doubt caused by the spreading of the rails. Six cars, four ordinary passenger coaches, a smoking and a parlor, left the rails and ran over the ties of the bridge, tearing them in flinders. The cars kept on the bridge until the train was half way across, when the four passenger coaches and the smoking car went over into the water with a terrible crash. The cars landed on their sides in about four feet of water. The scene that followed beggars description.

An unkown man from Ocean Beach was taken out dead.

The cars were filled with passengers, and the number of injured are unknown, but about 100 were hurt one way or another.

Demorest, of Furst, Demorest & Co., Reade street, New York, is injured at the base of the skull and will die.

William R. Garrison, son of Commodore Charles K. Garrison, is terribly hurt in his chest.

Charles H. Foster, fireman of the engine, pulled ex-President Grant out of the smoking car. Grant was not injured.

Robert Robertson, an iron merchant from New York, is injured badly.

A grocer named Edison, of Branchport, is crushed terribly.

James Brooks, of the firm of Brooks & Dickson, Theater Troupe Managers, of New York, has his collar-bone broken.

Morris H. Brown, son of Thomas J. Brown, Superintendent of the Erie railroad, received a severe blow on the head, and his back is injured.

James Mallory, of 202 Broadway, is so badly crushed that he cannot recover.

Noon—The dead man has been identified as James L. Bradley, a produce dealer of New York.

G. W. Demorest is dead.

President Galloway, of the Elevated railroad, is slightly hurt.

William R. Garrison has been unconscious since the accident, and is suffering from concussion of the brain. He is at Hollywood Park, the residence of John Hoey.

Mr. Garrison has both legs broken in addition to his other injuries.

George B. Blanchard, Vice President of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad, Robert B. Mintur, ex-President Grant, and Arthur L. Sewell are slightly injured.

Annie Irwin, of Brooklyn, is seriously hurt and unconscious.

William A. McCall, brakeman, is fearfully injured; his throat is badly cut.

Mr. Mitchell's condition is precarious. He is suffering from internal injuries.

Mr. Woodruff and Mr. Mallory are about breathing their last.

John T. Raymond, the actor, has his collar-bone broken, and is otherwise severely injured.

Fox, his father-in-law, is badly injured.

The cause of the terrible disaster was the changing of the track for the Monmouth Park races, which commence on Saturday next. The frog at the switch was not properly spiked, and when it was struck by the engine it opened the track and tore up the rails for over 100 feet. The engine and forward cars were piled up on the side of the track, but the succeeding five cars plunged forward on the bridge and were precipitated into the water. It was a case of inexcusable carelessness on the part of those intrusted with the task of altering the track.

Decatur, Ill., dispatch;

Particulars of a terrible crime at Montgomery school house, near Blue Mound, reached here yesterday. Miss Emma Bond, aged 19 years, teacher of the school, dismissed her scholars Thursday afternoon, following them to the door. She then returned to her desk to make out reports for the last day of school, when she was suddenly seized by a strong man and chloroformed. The first man was then joined by an accomplice, and both outraged the poor girl in the most shocking manner. To complete their work, the men attempted to murder Miss Bond by cutting her throat with a penknife. They robbed her of $10, a gold watch, and a ring, and then decamped. About midnight the girl managed to reach the house of a neighbor, to whom she told her sad story. The whole country is aroused, and a vigerous search is being made for the dasterdly tramps. It is thought they had lain all day in the school-house loft awaiting their opportunity.

Bloomington, Ill., special.—The Pantagraph so far has no advices that the tramps who outraged Miss Bond, at Taylorville on Friday, have been arrested. Several suspected persons have been apprehended, but they have not been identified. The most intense indignation prevails.

Springfield, Ill., special—A Taylorville special to the State Journal, states that John Montgomery and two young men named Clements and Pettus, who have been arrested, charged with the outrage on Miss Bond, at Grove City, are now confined in the county jail at Taylorville. It is expected that other parties in the vicinity will be arrested on suspicion. It is believed that several persons in the vicinity were concerned in the outrage. There is still much excitement, and a large reward is offered for the arrest of the scoundrels. Miss Bond is lying critically at her father's from her injuries, which may terminate fatally.

The Chronicle's Greenville, Pa., special says: "A cyclone struck Coleville, Butler county, last night, at 7 o'clock, blowing about half the houses down, and nearly all the stores. Two persons were killed and twenty-five injured. No further particulars.'

Linkvill, Lake Co., Ore., dispatch.

Constable Zeak, with two men, last Tuesday night overtook two horse-thieves they had been tracking. A fight ensued, in which one thief was killed and the other mortally wounded.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., special.—The 104th annual reunion of the Massacre Memorial Association met at the monument grounds in Wyoming this morning. The monument was decorated with flowers and ripened wheat. The order of exercises consisted of prayers, singing and addresses. The attendance of old settlers from all parts of the State was large.

Little Rock, Ark., dispatch:

News of a tragedy in Cross county, has just been received. A negro named Aaron Jones, living near Wittsburg, started for the railroad station, some miles distant, accompanied by his wife. At a lonely spot they quarreled. He struck her on the head with a slung-shot and then cut her throat and escaped. She recovered sufficiently to crawl to the house of Colonel P. Johnson, and tell her story, and then died. The husband has not yet been arrested.

Religious Intelligence.

The are 108,000 Dunkards in the United States.

The Methodist Protestant Church in the United States has a membership of 113,405.

Some $53,000 worth of mortages were destroyed by ten Unitarian Societies last year.

Among the 275,000 Indians in the United States there are 219 Churches and 30,000 members.

The annual meeting of the American Missionary Association this year will be held in Cleveland, Ohio, in October, and the Rev. C. L. Goodell, D. D. will preach the sermon.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, on an average, organizes ten new Sunday-schools, dedicates fourteen new Churches, and adds two new parsonages each week during the year.

The New York Observer, which is one of the most orthodox of all the religious journals, admits there is no more sense in having a bell on a Church than in having one on a Theater.

The growth of missionary contributions from 1820-30 to 1870-80 has been an advance in home missions from $233,826 to $20,921,625, and in foregin missions from $745,718, to $21,740,066.

President Robinson thinks that among the very last men who should be encourage to discard the manuscript in preaching is he on whom nature has bestowed the gift of extrme volubility.

A Protestant Society held its anniversary this year in the Marie of the First Arrondissement, Paris, which is part of the Church from the belfry of which was tolled the signal death-knell of the victims of Black Bartholomew.

A man, in passing a country Churchyard, saw the sexton digging a grave, and inquired: "Who's dead?" Sexton: "Old Squire Bumblebee." Man: "What complaint?" Sexton, (without looking up): "No complaint. Everybody's satisfied."

The Supreme Court of New Hampshire has decided that the right of the pew-holder is subordinate to the right of the society to repair or remodel the the Church, and, upon making compensation to remove or destroy the pew, for the purpose of making needed alterations and repairs.

The Baptist University at Des Moines has fallen a victim to hopeless debt. The trustees and professors struggled along as bravely as they could, but the funds ran so low that there was no chance for the payment of the professors' salaries. These gentlemen, finding it impossible to live on hope, resigned in a body.

It is said that we shall have to wait another eighteen months for the revised version of the Old Testament. The Company of the Revisers have reached in their second revision the end of the second chapter of Daniel. They are, it is whispered, making changes even greater and more numerous than those which were made in the New Testament.

All the same: A good old lady speaking in prayer meeting and giving expressions to the joy she felt, said: "I feel as if I was ready this minute to fall into the arms of Beelzebub." "Abraham! You mean Abraham!" hastily corrected a brother near. "Well, Abraham, then," was the response. "It don't make any difference. They're both good men."

The Evangelist says: "A brief discussion on the subject of Sabbath observance, in the General Assembly, brought out the fact that railroad shopmen are not always averse to Sunday work when it brings extra compensation, and that it was really an 'up-hill' business to appeal to directors in behalf of a quiet day, when summer religious meetings were especially arranged with a view to a large attendance by Sunday train."

At the Presbyterian General Assembly, at Springfield, Ill., the Rev. John Butler, who has lived in China, said that the Chinese are natural born Presbyterians, and the Presbyterian system is precisely suited to their intellectual and social habits." If anybody but a Presbyterian Minister had said this, the Assembly would have risen with a great cry and earnestly desired to take him over into Gilgal and hew him in pieces before the Lord.

At a Unitarian Conference held at Liverpool Rev. Page Hopps said that he did not believe that people followed the teachings of the Salvation Army because a more "hellish hell" and a more "devilish devil" was preached, but because they found in that army, in spite of the vulgarity and a great deal of nonsense, there was at the heart of it a splendid, beautiful and earnest effort to save the drunkard and cure the wife-beater.

A Bride with Bugs on Her Ankle.

A New York letter says: In spite of the efforts to drive striped and fancy hosiery from the field by making self-colored stockings in all the new and esthetic colors, there has never been a season when women's ordinarily invisible means of support looked like a clown's legs. A bride married in Grace church only last week has a large supply of both kinds. In the way of plain colors she has silk, lisle thread and balbriggans, in the greenery, yallery tints of Oscar Wilde, as well as in brighter hues. Then she has novel combinations in stripes both as to colors and clusters. Wide and narrow stripes are found on the same stockings and while some are striped lengthwise and some horizontally, in others half the leg and foot are in vertical lines and the other half in horizontal stripes. Some of her stockings are black, with the insteps and ankles sprinkled over with tiny butterflies in color; and one horrid pair in blue, with black bugs crawling all over them. Ugh! How can she bear to wear them? The most novel stockings in her lot have Japanese figures well executed on the insteps in colored chain and backstitch embroidery. Her white goods for day wear are in no way very remarkable, though the chemises, drawers, skirts and corset covers are of fine texture and tastefully trimmed. Her night-dresses, however, are the prettiest, daintiest thing I ever saw. They are elaborate enough for morning robes. The material is a gossamer-like satin, creamy white and trimmed with lace edging and insertion. The shape is the princess, with a front formed of tucks and lace insertion. It gathers close to the neck and wrists, and is somewhat shaped to the figure at the waist, though loose. It opens in the back like a school-girl's bodice, and the bosom is a mass of exquisite embroidery and lace in open work. In the way of shoes, she has a pair of a new spring style, as curved and undulating as a short serpent, with slender tops, rounded up, and insteps, tapering heels and long, pointed toes. They are made of French kid and finished with embroidery. She has also a pair of dainty Spanish sandals, with buckles set in diamonds.

Mad Dogs Defied.

It is the general impression, says the Cincinnati Times, that hydrophobia is incurable. If any effective remedy for the horrible malady has ever been discovered the public is not aware of the fact. There are those who think they have reason to believe in the virtue of the madstone, but convincing proof that this alleged remedy ever cured anybody who had been bitten by a rabid dog is lacking.

Information now comes from Milan that hydrophobia has been mastered over there. Three well known Italian physicians say that a perfectly successful cure exists, and to show their faith in the discovery they are ready to come to America and give a public demonstration. Their proposed programme is this: One of the three physicians will allow himself to be bitten by a dog about whose madness there shall be no doubt, and will then proceed to cure himself publicly, leaving open to everybody a clear inspection and examination of the process. These doctors claim, according to the New York Herald, that if Dr. Tanner's fast created such a furor, their demonstration, which will be of greater value to humanity, should, excite the greatest possible interest. They exact three conditions before coming:

1. They want to be sure that their cure, if successful, will be generally accepted.

2. That after the first favorable trial even greater experiments with animals and human beings shall be made, they agreeing to find the human victims.

3. That their success shall reap a substantial pecuniary reward.

It might be an easy matter for these enterprising doctors to practice deception. But their propositions, if made in good faith, are certainly fair and show astonishing confidence in their ability to give humanity peace of mind during dog days. The public will wait to witness the experiment before taking much stock in the Milan trio of dog defiers.

The Dutchman's Disappointment.

New Orleans Times.

Three afflictions beget little or no sympathy, sea-sickness, home-sickness and love-sickness. An honest Dutchman proved, however, an exception to the rule. His friend Herman, being jilted, told his sorrows to the Dutchman:

"Herman, my poy," said Hoffenstein, after he had listened attentively, "I know how you feels. I vent gourting mit a girl for nine years, und ven I dinks she vas going to be my vife, she goes und takes a fellow vat vasn't vert de bowder vat blows him to tunder!

"It vas de same vay mit a mule vot I hav, und vot I blaces all my dependence in. I rode dat mule from de time he vas a colt undil he vas so olt dat his eyes vas veak, und he vas shust so gentle as a dog.

"Vot you tink, Herman, dat mule vorked for fifteen years to get my gonfidence, und den he vent back on me. Von day vile I vas riding de mule along de road he stopped vere dere vas a brier patch mit a vasp nest in it.

"I hits mit de spurs to make him go avay, but he vont. Vat does he do? He vinks a gouple of times mit his ears, kicks up his heels, und I finds myself in de brier patch mit de vasps all ofer me."

If a stranger comes to your house take him in and feed him on Paris green. You may kill a lightning rod agent unawares.

Back Ache

POSITIVELY CURED BY

Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters.

Reasons Why they are Preferred to All Other Porous Plasters or External Remedies:

First.

Because they possess all the merit of the strengthening porous plaster, and contain in addition thereto the newly discovered powerful and active vegetable combination which acts with increased rubefacient, stimulating, sedative and counter irritant effects.

Second.

Because they are a genuine pharmaceutical preparation, and so recognized by the profession.

Third.

Because they are the only plasters that relieve pain at once.

Fourth.

Because they will positively cure diseases which other remedies will not even relieve.

Fifth.

Because over 5000 physicians and druggists have voluntarily testified that they are superior to all other plasters or medicines for external use.

Sixth.

Because the manufacturers have received the only medals ever given for porous plasters.

Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster!

SEABURY & JOHNSON,

Manufacturing Chemists, New York.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25cts. MEAD'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM.

The Best, Cleanest and most Economical Hair Dressing. Never Fails to Restore the youthful color to grey hair. 50c and $1 sizes at druggists.

Floreston Cologne. A new and exceedingly fragrant and lasting perfume. Price 25 and 75c.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

A Pure Family Medicine that Never Intoxicates.

If you are a mechanic or farmer, worn out with overwork, or a mother run down by family or household duties try PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

If you are a lawyer minister or business man exhausted by mental strain or anxious cares do not take intoxicating stimulants, but use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

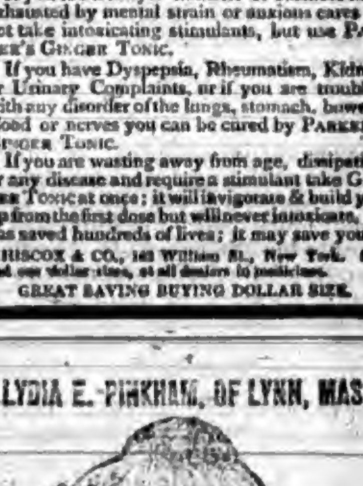
If you have Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Kidney or Urinary Complaints, or if you are troubled with any disorder of the lungs, stomach, bowels, blood or nerves you can be cured by PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

If you are wasting away from age, dissipation or any disease and require a stimulant take GINGER TONIC at once; it will invigorate & build you up from the first dose but will never intoxicate. It has saved hundreds of lives; it may save yours.

HISCOX & CO., 163 William St., New York. 50c. and one dollar sizes, at all dealers in medicines.

GREAT SAVING BUYING DOLLAR SIZE.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.,



Yours for Health Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

Sold by all Druggists.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure

is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

If you feel drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, mouth tastes badly, poor appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from torpid liver, or "biliousness," and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently as to take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR or MEDICINE.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

The cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World.

An EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC for all diseases of the Liver Stomach and Spleen.

Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common as bad breath, and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons' Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your Appetite, Complexion, and General Health.

PILES!

How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of all pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR, is no drastic violent purge; but a gentle assistant to nature.

CONSTIPATION!

Should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache.

ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

MANUFACTURED BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

PROVED A SUCCESS

THE PASTILLE

Prof. Harris' Radical Cure

Trade Mark

FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE!

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness—the deplorable disease resulting from indiscreet practices or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, viz: Direct Application acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Gland, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoro'ly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G. CHEMISTS.

Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons:

Indiana, April 11, '79.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had epilepsy from weakness, for 8 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 15th, '79.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 28, 1879.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $5. Please send me another box No. 2 for a friend. You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June 26.—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 2 '79.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now suffering in the same way and wish one No. 3 box.

PROF. HARRIS' RADICAL CURE

FOR

NERVOUS DEBILITY

AND

ORGANIC WEAKNESS

IN

YOUNG

AND

MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

THE PASTILLE

A VITAL FORCE RESTORER

GET A BOX

Put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full Directions for using will accompany each box.

Prepared and Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. Mfg. Chemists,

MARKET AND 8TH STS., ST. LOUIS, MO.

KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE

SAMARITAN NERVINE

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Epileptic Fits, Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus Dance, Vertigo, Hysteria, Insanity, Apoplexy, Paralysis, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Nervous Diseases. This infallible remedy will positively eradicate every species of Nervous Derangement, and drive them away from whence they came, never to return again. It utterly destroys the germs of disease by neutralizing the hereditary taint or poison in the system, and thoroughly eradicates the disease and utterly destroys the case.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Female Weakness, General Debility, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Painful Menstruations, Ulceration, of the Uterus, Internal Heat, Gravel, Inflammation of the Bladder, Irritability of the Bladder. For Wakefulness at Night, there is no better remedy. During the change of life no Female should be without it. It quiets the Nervous System and gives rest, comfort and nature's sweet sleep.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

Cures Alcoholism, Drunkness and the habit of Opium Eating. These degrading habits are by far the worst evils that have ever befallen suffering humanity. Thousands die annually from these noxious drugs. The drunkard drinks liquor not because he likes it, but for the pleasure of drinking and treating his friends, little thinking that he is on the road to ruin. Like the Opium Eater, he first uses the drug in small quantities as a harmless antidote. The soothing influence of the drug takes strong hold upon its victim leading him on to his own destruction. The habits of Opium Eating and Liquor Drinking are percisely what eating is to alimentiveness, as over-eating first inflames the stomach, which redoubles its craving until it paralyzes both the stomach and appetite. So every drink of liquor or dose of opium, instead of satisfying, only adds to its fierce fires, until it consumes the vital force and then itself. Like the glutinous tape-worm, it cries "Give, give, give!" but never enough until its own rapacity devours itself. Samaritan Nervine gives instant relief in all such cases. It produces sleep, quiets the nerve, builds up the nervous system, and restores body and mind to a healthy condition.

SAMARITAN NERVINE.

Cures Nervous Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Asthma, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Syphilis, diseases of the Kidneys and all diseases of the urinary organs. Nervous debility, caused by the indiscretions of youth, permanently cured by the use of this invaluable remedy. To you, young, middle-aged and old men, who are covering your sufferings as with a mantle by silence, look up, you can be saved by timely efforts, and make ornaments to society, and jewels in the crown of your Maker, if you will. Do not keep the secret longer, until it saps your vitals, and destroys both body and soul. If you are thus afflicted, take Dr. Richmond's Samaritan Nervine. It will restore your shattered nerves, arrest premature decay, impart tone and energy to the whole system.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

is for sale by druggists everywhere, or may be had direct from us. Those who wish to obtain further evidence of the curative properties of Samaritan Nervine will enclose a 3-cent postage stamp for a copy of our Illustrated Journal of Health, giving hundreds of testimonials of cure from persons who have used the medicine, and also their pictures photographed after their restoration to perfect health. Address

DR. S. A. RICHMOND & CO.,

World's Epileptic Institute,

ST. JOSEPH, MO.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable Balm that will remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 3c stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York. 1yr

REED'S

TRADE MARK

GILT EDGE TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY

in every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach, Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and Disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS

And the Best Machinery in the World for BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power! Book Free. Address LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

FREE! RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., [illegible]

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, JULY 13, 1882.

Democratic Ticket.

For Congress 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY,
of Allen County.
COUNTY TICKET:
For Representative,
D. D. MOODY.
For Clerk,
D. Y. HUSSELMAN.
For Auditor,
THOMAS H. TOMLINSON.
For Treasurer,
L. J. MILLER.
For Sheriff,
JOHN W. BOYLE.
For Recorder,
JOHN BUTT.
For Surveyor,
J. J. VAN AUKEN.
Fo Coroner,
J. J. LATSON.
For Commissioner North District,
JOSEPH SEWELL.
Southwest District,
CHRISTIAN SHEETS.
Southeast District,
OLIVER H. WIDNEY.

The Normal school at Tarre Haute begins the fall term September 6.

The Hillsdale crew won the first prize in the amateur regatta at Marlow, England last week.

The war in Egypt has begun. The English fleet began to bombard the forts at Alexandria, at seven o'clock a. m. Tuesday of this week.

Dr. Parker, of the Kendallville News, is spoken of as candidate for representative from Noble county. Dr., here's success to you.

A young lady in Wabash went fishing on the Fourth and lost a gold watch in the river. The watch had cost her $100, and the fish she caught was worth about ten cents.

The coinage at the mints of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, was valued at $117,841,574, of which $27,772,075 was standard dollars.

Bodies are still picked up at different places in the vicinity of Mingo Junction, Ohio, where the steamer Sciota sunk on the Fourth. It is believed that the loss of life will be about seventy-five.

They have a young lady in Wabash county, so says the Courier, that has taken little or no food for fifty-six days. She gives no reason for this state of things. In fact it does not seem to be voluntary. She simply has no desire for food.

The Chicago Trotting Park Association begins its summer meeting Saturday, July 15. These meetings are also continued on Wednesday the 19th, Friday the 21st, and Saturday the 22d of July. A fine array of trotters is already entered.

The trouble in Egypt continues. The English and French fleets in the harbor of Alexandria will bombard the town if the work of strengthening the fortifications is not stopped. The whole trouble is caused by the state of anarchy, into which the Egyptian government has fallen. Most of the foreigners are leaving the country.

A preacher in Athens, Ohio, one week ago last Sunday, took ground in his sermon that Guiteau was insane, and therefore innocent. He abused the court and every one connected with the trial, even including Arthur and the cabinet. He insisted that the hanging of such an insane man constituted the blackest crime in our history as a nation. Some of his members got tired of this kind of talk and got up and left the church.

Among the affecting incidents connected with the sinking of the Sciota in the Ohio river last week, is the finding of a man's body guarded by a coach dog that had evidently been with it since it floated ashore soon after the vessel went down. The poor brute was nearly exhausted, but staid by the corpse of his master till it was carried to its final resting place. The dog was on the ill-fated boat when it sank, but no one can tell how he found his master's corpse after it had floated several miles away.

The military encampment at Indianapolis was a success, and drew large crowds to the city. Of the Indiana Legion, the McKeen Cadets took the first prize. Of Indiana batteries, the Porter Light Artillery took first. In the artillery free-for-all contest, the Asbury Cadets took first. In the free-for-all infantry contest, the first prize was awarded to the Chickasaws of Memphis. The entire score, as estimated by the judges, stood as follows:

INDIANA LEGION.
McKeen Cadets (first prize)	2.75
Evansville Rifles (second prize)	2.55
Logan Greys	2.36
South Bend Light Guards	2.17
BATTERIES INDIANA LEGION.
Porter Light Artillery	80.
ARTILLERY—FREE-FOR-ALL.
Asbury Cadets (first prize)	94.1
Battery A, Louisville (second)	93.2
Battery B, New Orleans	92.8
Battery A, St. Louis	90.9
Burns Artillery, Nashville	87.6
Battery B, New Orleans	86.9
Battery A, Danville	86.6
Battery B, Chicago	83.6
FREE-FOR-ALL.
Chickasaws (first prize)	90.1
Crescent Rifles (second prize)	89.81
Asbury Cadets	88.6
Quapaw Guards	87.9
McKeen Cadets	85.8
Porter Rifles	84.7
Indianapolis Light Infantry	82.2
Louisiana Rifles	80.9
Co. K., St. Louis	80.01

COUNTY MATTERS.

SEDAN.

Where did Guiteau go? Where all dogs will that have no tags.... Harvest wages range from $1.50 to $2.00 per day in this section.... Miss Nellie Hine returned home on a vacation from Oberlin, Ohio, where she has been attending college.... B. F. Frets, of Indian territory, formerly a resident of this county, is rusticating in this vicinity.... Mr. Wm. Meese, of Auburn, passed through town Monday, working in the interest of temperance.... Mr. S. H. Hine returned home in time to cut his golden grain.... Geo. M. Crane, of Waterloo, made his old friends a "fly" call Thursday.... C. H. Bangs, retired merchant of Summit, Indiana, has "returned to his father's house."... Miss Belle Eckhart, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Eckhart, of Fairfield township, died Saturday of brain fever—aged 16 years and 3 months. Rev. Kelso, of Auburn, officiated. Several citizens of Sedan attended the funeral at Fairfield Center.... Freight trains Nos. 25 and 26 on the Lake Shore road came in contact Sunday morning, about 100 west of the Corunna depot. Engine on 26 and three cars were badly damaged, and several more cars were thrown off the track. No one hurt except Conductor Potts, who sprained his leg jumping from the caboose. W. H. C.

FRANKLIN.

Norman Jackman is re-roofing his barn and otherwise improving the old Isaac Jackman place.... J. A. Boozer was up this way Monday July 10, to set up a self-binder for Ezra Lautzenheiser. Boozer swears by the Buckeye.... Oliver P. Learned, family and sister, of Troy, was visiting a part of last week in this township.... Uncle Abe Myers is reported on the sick list.... The highways and by-ways of this township were, on Sunday, July 2, filled with people journeying toward Hamilton to witness the rite of baptism administered to about seventy persons, by the Rev. Slusser, of the M. E. church. This certainly speaks well for the reverend gentleman as a successful preacher..... There was one buggy badly used up on the way to the baptizing. Nobody badly hurt, but several badly scared. Cause: Careless driving.... John Taylor takes the cake for the best field of corn—the largest and evenest—on the Hamilton and Weterloo road.... The corn is generally small, for this time of year, and very uneven.... Mrs. J. A. Boozer, of Waterloo, was visiting Mrs. M. Waterman, Monday.... Up this way politics don't warm up worth a cent. Nothing is said; not even a candidate coming around to soft-soap us by telling us we have the nicest farms, the best crops, the slickest stock and the handsomest babies, and if they do not put in an appearance soon they need not expect many votes in this township—from our wives and babies. And while on this subject — political — I would just enquire whether the democrats are going to let the judgeship go by default. If for nothing else, a bold front should be put on to compel the republicans to put up their best man. Neither is the case so desperate. It is true the republicans have quite a majority in the circuit. They have their candidates in the field. Chapin, of Noble county, who is said to be anything but palatable to the republicans of Steuben county, their strength, and the soldier element do not sympathize with him. Then there are Rose and McBride, of this county, who are candidates and we think we could beat either of these with a good strong man. The prize is worth fighting for—a six year office with good salary.

WATERLOO.

C. M. Dickinson, clerk at Butt's Hotel, has gone to Hudson, Mich., for treatment for Bright's disease of the kidneys.... A. R. Stevens is nearly recovered from his recent illness.... E. R. Blattner is suffering from some chronic complaint.... Reuben Loutzenhiser and wife, have returned from their trip to Toledo where they went to visit their son, Scott. They found him busy at work and well suited with his position.... John Shull's new iron fence beats them all. It is a new pattern and very substantial.... Dr. Latta, of Goshen, passed through here Tuesday, on his way to Auburn to assist Dr. Chamberlain in a consultation in regard to Frank Brink, who has been troubled so much lately with a lame foot.... John Koons, is having a good run of custom in his line, and makes himself at home in his new business.... E. T. Bryeland begins to look like a lawyer, as he presides in the office of R. Wes. McBride. His duties as town clerk, and his work in the insurance business will make a fine business for an enterprising young man.... Will Fisher is now passing away his time running a barber shop under J. D. Campbell's drug store. Meanwhile his health is slowly improving.... Froehlich's yard is full of of marble work, and the sound of the mallet and chisel are heard in his work shops continually.... Mrs. Heldt of Fort Wayne, returned to her home last Thursday, after a months visit with Mrs. Ed. Braun.... Waterloo is well represented at Island Park, this week.... Charlie McClellan Jr. came down from Ann Arbor, last week to visit his father.... Mr. Zigler, of Freemont, Ohio, is visiting the family of O. T. Clark.... Miss Meda Zirkle is in Decatur, where she will visit friends for a few weeks.... Mrs. Minnie Brown of Mishawaka is visiter here with her sister Mrs. Hall.... Mrs. T. A. Ward and children of Detroit, are here visiting their relatives.... W. B. Johnson was the guest of his brother J. G. Johnson and wife over Sunday.... J. C. Maxson and children returned Saturday from Michigan, where they have been visiting friends for several weeks.... We are pleased to be able to say to the friends of Mrs. O. L. Hall, that her health is improving, and she is able to ride out some.... The men are here putting up new telegraph poles along the line of the Lake Shore road.... F. E. Burt, of Angola, was in town Sunday, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bassett.... Mrs. G. W. McConnell, of Angola, visited with friends here over Sunday.... C. I. Reed came down from Goshen, and spent Sunday with his family. He reports a very successful normal at that place.... Mr. Maby, of Adrian, Michigan, visited over Sunday with his sister Mrs. J. C. Maxson and Mrs. S. R. Rickle.... Mrs. Amos Walsworth, of Auburn, is visiting with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bassett.

VOX POPULI VOX DEI.

WERE THE JUDGES A "LITTLE OFF?"

The Sentiment of the People Vice Versa From the Decision.

—The contest between the self-binding machines Tuesday, was a "big thing on wheels." The majority of the crowd stood firm and square in favor of the well know Esterly, handled by W. H. Kiblinger & Co., at this place. We have heard many compliments given this popular binder by those who witnessed the match. This firm has sold a large number during the season and the purchasers praise them very highly. Mr. Kiblinger's business experience and shrewd management warrant us in saying that his machinery cannot be excelled anywhere. Try the Esterly before you buy.

We wish to correct a misstatement in regard to the death of William Hensinger, mentioned in the papers a short time ago. It was reported that he was killed. This is not true, he died of natural causes, as shown in the following article taken from the Lake View, Michigan Enterprise: "On Sunday June 4th, William Hensinger was brought to the Lake View house, about 12 o'clock and at 6 that evening died in Spasms of cerebro spinal meningitis. He was taken with a chill on Thursday before and sending for medicine, supposing the trouble to be ordinary chills, but not getting better desired to be brought here for treatment with the above result. Hensinger is from Indiana, near Rome City, where his parents reside, he was about 20 years old; a neighbor's son was with him who accompanied his remains home, starting Monday morning." The above contains one error. The young man lived about seven miles south of Auburn, and not near Rome City as stated. It appears that T. J. Vandusen had reported that young Hensinger was killed, and when the friends of the latter denied this, Vandusen wrote to C. T. French at Lake View, who enclosed the above clipping from the paper at that place. Wm. McKinley, of this county, who was with Hensinger all through his sickness, says he was taken with chills Thursday night and died Sunday June 4, at 6 p. m. He was taken about twelve miles to a railroad station, and from that point sent to his friends near here.

—We take pleasure in announcing to the public that we have just secured a copy of the work entitled "Foundation of Success and Laws of Trade." This work begins at the foundation of the alphabet of business and social forms, and building thereon, they have reached intricacies of complex business, and penetrated the inner wants of social and public life. It is a judicious counselor in all matters relating to business and is a convenient guide in the transactions of public assemblies, etc. Mr. C. S. Kinney will remain in town for a few days, and we commend him to the courtesy and patronage of our citizens.

—Examination.—Notice is hereby given that at the next regular examination of teachers, I will at the same time and place hold an examination for applicants for admission to the State University at Bloomington, and to the Purdue University at Lafayette. All who wish to enter either class, should notify me in writing as early as July 20. J. A. Barns, Co. Supt.

—At the field trial of twine binders Tuesday, the Minneapolis came out victorious. It was driven and operated by Willis Brown, without the assistance of an expert. The Esterly and McCormick were driven by an expert, and also had an expert to follow to assist in case the binder should choke. The Minneapolis folks could have sold more binders on the ground if they had had them.

—The social of the M. E. church will be entertained by the ladies next Wednesday evening July 19th, on the lawn at the residence of Mr. Kiblinger. Supper from six to nine. Refreshments, coffee rolls, ice-cream and cake.

—C C roasted coffee 15 cents per pound; choice green coffee 8 pounds for $1.00; good tea for 25 cents a pound; Anti-Washboard soap four cakes for 25 cents, at McQuiston & Long's. 3w.

—Fleming, at the greenhouse, has the nicest stock of plants and flowers of all kinds, and sells them cheap. They are ready potted, and many are in bloom. Call and see him.

—Henry Shull has the nicest green peas that ever "smoked from a platter." Get a mess and try them and see if we are not right.

—Young lady, do not despair. Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment will cure Hysteria and all nervous troubles. Sold at F. E. Davenport's.

—Remember Fleming's greenhouse, first door south of the Presbyterian church, when you want any sort of flowers or plants.

—Ladies Taffeta silk gloves at 50 cts. a pair. Ladies Berlin and Lisle th'd gloves from 15 to 50 cents, at McQuiston & Long's. 27-3w.

—Now, while work is pressing, you can save time and money by getting your supplies at Weiricks, at Fairfield. tf.

—Just received at McQuiston & Long's, 5,000 yards of dress ginghams, to sell for 10 and 12½ cents a yard. 3t

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield, will sell you goods as cheap and as good as you can get anywhere. tf.

—Weirick, the Fairfield merchant, buys butter and eggs and other produce. Don't forget it. tf.

—Some one has left in our possession some heads of timothy eleven inches in length. Who can beat that ?

—We again call the attention of ladies to the Heberling shirring machine.

A Foolish Mistake.

Don't make the mistake of confounding a remedy of merit with quack medicines. We speak from experience when we say that Parker's Ginger Tonic is stealing health restorative, which will do all that is claimed for it. We have used it ourselves with the happiest results for Rheumatism and when worn out by overwork. See adv.—Times. 27 4t.

To our Patrons.

During the dull period of July and August, while the farmers are busy gathering in their crops, money is a scarce article in a printing office. We have a number of delinquent subscribers who could pay now as well as at any other time of the year if they were reminded of the fact. It would be received as a special favor if all who are indebted to us on subscription would call while in town and settle their account. It takes considerable cash each week to pay our workman, paper bills, etc., and our patrons could help us out wonderfully if each one would pay the small bill they owe.

Soldiers, Attention.

Milo B. Stevens & Co., the well known war claim attorneys, will be represented at Auburn, Monday and Tuesday, July 17, and 18, by their special agent, Frank I. Darling. Soldiers and others interested in claims for pension, increase of pension, or other claims, it is hoped will give him a call. Mr. Darling's whereabouts may be ascertained at the office of the Clerk of the circuit ourt. 27-2t

Excursion.

The B. & O. will run an excursion to Rome City, via Avilla and the Grand Rapids road, on Wednesday, July 19. Fare from Auburn Junction will be 80 cents for the round trip. The train will go west through the Junction at 1:05 p. m. Tickets good returning for ten days on any regular train.

The Heberling Shirring and Gathering Machine.

(Improved March 1, 1880.)

The only machine in the world that makes the hand-stitch. Simple, practical and perfect in operation. Doing a large range of material; such as silks, satins, velvets alpacas, cashmeres, white goods, &c., with one or two rows of stitching at the same time.

Work more regular and beautiful than can be done by hand. Shirrs or gathers adjusted full or scant by drawing thread same as handwork. Will do the work of ten or fifteen hands. Call on Miss C. Wolsey and Mrs. Angie Kuhlman, corner of Main and Fifth street, Auburn, Indiana. 26-12t.

To Agents and Canvassers.

Wanted a reliable man to canvass this city and vicinity for the sale of the best Spring Mattress ever made. To such a party good compensation and steady employment will be given. Call on, or address, the

Elkhart Steel Spring Bed Co
East Jackson St., Elkhart, Ind.

New Photograph Gallery.

Call on J. M. Rice & Son, second door east of the postoffice, and see their new instruments and pleasant location. They are prepared to do all kinds of work in the picture line. Enlarging done to order to any size desired. They have a ground floor gallery and it is very easy to get to. They solicit your patronage. Remember the place, second door east of the postoffice. tf.

Quick and Sure.

Many miserable people drag themselves about with failing strength, feeling that they are steadily sinking into their graves, when by using Parker's Ginger Tonic they would find a cure commencing with the first dose, and vitality and strength quickly and surely coming back to them. 27-4t.

Grateful to Invalids.

Floreston Cologne is grateful to invalids, because it is refreshing without the sickening effects of most perfumes. 27 4t.

—New cabbage at the greenhouse.

—Plasters are at work on the Hebel building.

—Men's cotton socks from 5 to 13 cts a pair. Boys' cotton socks 10 cents a pair, at McQuiston & Long's. 27-3w.

—R. Loutzenhiser, of Waterloo, was among those who paid their regards to the Courier this week.

—Children's and Misses' cotton hose from 7 to 18 cents a pair. Misses white gloves 10 cents a pair, at McQuiston & Long's. 27-3w.

—Hiram Cupp, of Butler, at one time a resident here, was buried in the cemetery yesterday.

—The Grove Bethel band, of Jackson township, comprises the following persons: Alpheus McClellan, leader; Wm. McGinnis, second E flat; John Essig, first B flat; Wm. Essig, second B flat; George Essig, first alto; Silas Nugent, second alto; Russell Gilford, first tenor; Elmer Walter, second tenor; Wm. Nelson, baritone; Jacob McGinnis, tuba; Jackson Harris, snare drum; Robert Forsythe, bass drum; J. L. Grubb teacher.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, Executrix of the will of Henry G. Bickel, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

July 1, 1882. Mary C. Bickel, Executrix.
W. H. Dills, Attorney. 27-3w.

Where Shall I Attend School ?

You will be aided in answering this question by reading the catalogue of the

FORT WAYNE (IND.) COLLEGE

The lowest rates combined with the best advantages. Address:

W. F. Yocum, A. M.,
28-6w. Fort Wayne, Ind.

CENTRAL CONSERVATORY
—OF—
—M—U—S—I—C—!—!!—!!—
Columbus, Bartholomew Co., Ind

Cheapest tuition in the U. S. for advantages offered. Limited number boarded in Principal's family. For terms, etc., address,
28-4w. W. E. BATES, Principal.

RUBBER ROOFING

Costs only $3.25 per square, [illegible], and will last a lifetime on steep or flat [illegible] for circular and samples free.
IND. PAINT AND [illegible]
[illegible]

MONEY to loan on improved farms in sums of $500 or more at six per cent. No delay.
28-4w. U. M. STODDARD,
Indianapolis, Ind.

THE EASTERN MARKETS RANSACKED.
—THE—
CHOICEST BARGAINS SELECTED !

THE bulk of their goods brought away and piled up pile upon pile in Isaac Ochs' Popular store, Auburn, Indiana. Immense assortment and Tremendous Bargains in every department.

DRESS GOODS in all the latest styles and Fabrics from the cheapest to the best.

STAPLE DRY GOODS corded up, and marked at prices way below anybody else's. Must sell.

NOTIONS AND FANCY GOODS — Elegant line. Trimmings, Curtain Laces, Lambrequin Goods, Fringes etc.,—Splendid assortment.

HATS AND CAPS

The latest styles in Fur, Wool and Straw, to suit everybody.

CLOTHING

for boys and children. The largest stock and best assortment ever brought to DeKalb County, and at Wholesale prices. See my stock before you buy. I will save you money.

CARPETS.

Largest stock in Northeran Indiana. Body Brussels, Tapestry, Ingrain, Hemp and Rag.—Latest patterns, and at prices that defy competition.

TRUNKS.

Valises, etc. Everything at bottom prices. An investigation is solicited. If good goods and low prices will be an inducement—I must sell all I've got. But I can buy more.

☞ HIGHEST prices paid for all kinds of Grain.

100,000 POUNDS OF WOOL WANTED

Dont forget the Popular Store of

ISAAC OCHS, Auburn, Indiana.

SELF SATISFYING.

FACT

That our $8.00 Suits are worth $15.00
That our 9.00 Suits are worth 17.00
That our 11.00 Suits are worth 20.00
That our 14.00 Suits are worth 25.00
That our 15.00 Suits are worth 28.00
That our 1.60 pants are worth 2.50
That our two dollar pants are worth $4
That our $20 Satin Lined Suits are worth $45
That our $15 Diagonal Coats and Vests are worth 30
That our 9.00 Youths' Suits are worth 17.00
That our 12.00 Youths' Suits are worth 22.00

We have a stock of Clothing well worth seeing Come and convince yourself.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

HAGUE & RAUT,

North Side Public Square,

Offer at very low prices an excellent assortment of Boots and Shoes for the

SPRING AND SUMMER TRADE

From some of the best manufacturers in the country, to which they invite the attention of all who wish to buy the

BEST GOODS AT FAIR PRICES

We use the best material for our custom work. Repairing neatly done.

HAGUE & RAUT.

ATTENTION,

Country Merchants !

My Stock Embraces ALL Kinds Staple and Fancy Merchandise:

Clocks,
Watches,
Jewelry.
Silver Ware,
Optical Goods,

Musical Goods.
Sewing Machines,
Druggists' Sundries,
White Goods,
Hosiery.

Toys,
Cutlery,
Pictures,
Frames,
Mirrors,

Smokers' Goods,
Sporting Goods,
Japanese Goods
Fancy Goods

Notions,
Stationery
Wallets
Wooden Ware

Glass Ware,
Hardware
Purses
Tin Ware:

5 & 10 Cent Counter, 49 & 99 Cent Store supplies

Look at my Illustrated Catalogue (if you have not one send for it) and notice prices and style of goods on page 6 [illegible] 63 69 to 81 92 to 115, 150 to 165 and so on through the book, and you will find that I am offering a SAVING to you of 10 to 25 per cent. on a large line of Staple Goods. You can order your STOCK from my Catalogue without leaving your store or paying a traveling man to come [illegible] goods to be just as satisfactory as [illegible] select. When in the city, give me a call [illegible] most complete stock of Goods in the west [illegible] INSIDE PAGES

C. M. LININGTON, IMPORTER,
145 and 147 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—"Farewell, boys."

—The weather is warm again.

—Where are the harvest apples?

—Local matter on the first page.

—The farmers are cutting wheat.

—Muzzle you canines through dog days.

—Dr. Matheny is building a new fence.

—The fruit is said to be dropping badly.

—We have had beautiful weather for a few days.

—Chris. Shaffer has his buggy "all painted red."

—Cucumbers and ague will soon be in the market.

—We bow to Frank Strebe for a lot of nice lettuce.

—The barley crop is said to be extra large this year.

—It would be an easy matter to find a doctor to-day.

—Mrs. Little is giving bargains in millinery goods.

—Albert Cass is making an addition to his building.

—Dry Houghton purchased a self binder Tuesday.

—Buck Allen thinks his Texas pony can trot. Pshaw!

—Geo. Carter is dealing out the rosy at Tom. Sommers'.

—Kin. Lanning now swings the cognomen of "Jesse J."

—Boys use the cemetery grounds for playing "wood-tag."

—We have had plenty of rain for a few weeks to come.

—Jack Ralston has put an awning in front of his grocery.

—There is talk of a soldiers' reunion at Fort Wayne, soon.

—We have a call from a tramp printer about every day.

—Frank Hoff has a fine colt hitched to his delivery wagon.

—Recorder Boland and his lawn mower deserve a pension.

—Sheriff Leas and marshal Smith were "scheming" Monday.

—Wonder how Guiteau likes his foreign mission by this time?

—Willis Brown is engaged in selling machinery for Ensley & Harter.

—No doctors on duty to-day. P. S.—Figuring on the rise of quinine.

—The agricultural men will soon have a rest—or the farmer, rather.

—Please give us a short vacation on Guiteau and the Fourth of July.

—Have you seen "Jesse James" with his bicycle and gun? (Lockwood.)

—Nicholas Ensley has connected his store and residence by telephone.

—The sale of Clark's stallions is well advertised throughout Indiana.

—Stutz's saloon was closed last week owing to the illness of himself and wife.

—Laborers are kept busy, but some of them complain of wages being too low.

—The average gardener is treating the potato bugs to a dose of Paris green.

—Since marshal Smith had a racket with Bill Edgington he carries a hickory cane.

—Programme for to-day: Hello, Doc.; when did you "came" in—where d'you hitch?

—One of Rhodenbaugh's old faithful dray horses has been unable to do duty several days.

—Ben. Williams drives the sprinkler team and thereby saves the expense of a hired hand.

—Forepaugh's show at Fort Wayne, didn't get many half dollars from our citizens Saturday.

—The marshal has put down a number of new crossings. Tom Scott's patent has run out.

—If the grass holds out it will save Frank Strebe the necessity of weather-boarding his "hoss."

—Doctors or no doctors, nine-tenths of the people here thinks Guiteau was a thorough-bred lunatic.

—Our young friend Bob McDonalson and his better-half have gone to housekeeping on Cedar street.

—The republican central committe met in the court house Tuesday. We didn't hear anything "drap."

—The English sparrows are accumulating in number rapidly. Where is Frank Benedict and his pop gun.

—A drunken umbrella repairer was put in the calaboose for loud talking by "officer" Hallam, Monday evening.

—Some "crank" is talking of starting another paper at Angola. The town has more now than it should have.

—People are beginning to learn thro' the COURIER that they are benefited more by dealing with home merchants.

—The tank that furnishes water for sprinkler makes a bad mud hole at the corner of Jackson and Seventh streets.

—The COURIER force is under obligations to Sherm. Hollister for a watermelon. We are all well up to this date.

—The rains the latter part of last week did considerable damage to hay that was not in the shock.

—A serenading party gave some "music" at Mrs. Hare's residence Monday night.

—The South Bend Register has employed Mr. Shaffer, late of the Elkhart Monitor, on its editorial staff.

—The stench arising from a carrion has "greeted" the pedestrain's nasal organ, near the town pump, for several days.

—If our citizens do not want to make a barn-yard out of their sidewalks, let them move the same to the rear end of the lot.

Constable Oscar Allen is in the potato growing business. He will furnish widows and orphans their winter's supply free.

—Some of the machinery at Mitchell's coiled hoop factory was broken, last week, which delayed work for several days.

—The Indianapolis Journal has declared hostility to that old rule of law that twelve men must agree, to make a valid verdict.

—Why is it that the umbrella man was not fined? Does everyone who has a penalty to pay have to be a resident of Auburn?

—Judging from the number of strangers on the streets in the evening, Auburn has been adding quite largely to her population lately.

—Austin is waiting and watching for a chance to buy a cheap fall stock of boots and shoes. He'll let our readers know when he makes the "riffel."

—Where are we going this summer? Paraguay, dear reader, Paraguay. In that country you are expected to kiss every woman to whom you're introduced.

—It was rumored on the streets Tuesday that Baker & Stutz, at Auburn Junction, was about to make an assignment of their stock.

—Barnum claims to have a moral show, and yet he persists in keeping that calliope agoing. After a man has heard the thing ten minutes he is in a condition to murder his grandmother.

—A dance was had at Henry Mosey's residence, on south Jackson street, Tuesday. Some of the high Dutch "took in the hop" and were fired out on the first ballot.

—Dr. Chamberlain, of Waterloo, and Dr. Latta, of Goshen, were in town Tuesday to consult as to the treatment of Frank Brink's foot, which has been giving him so much trouble.

—In all of our neighboring towns money is being contributed to the Morton monument, but our "boys" here, as far as heard from, have not put up anything for their war governor.

—It is rumored that parties from Ohio will purchase the Stanets lot, joining S. U. Tarney's, and erect a residence thereon. That is a nice location and would make an attractive home.

—On the fourth page of this issue will be seen a communication between a rum-seller and the devil. We don't know which of the b'hoys it is, however he stands in too solid with old Lucifer.

—We learn that J. A. Cowan, esq., will erect a residence this fall. The doctor is a tasty, enterprising fellow, and we are safe in saying that nothing will be wanting to make it cosy and attractive.

—Let the marshal either do it himself, or hire some one, to cut down the weeds along the principal streets. If property owners will not do it let them be taxed for their lack of enterprise and negligence.

—We saw a young lady, who aspires some to society honors pretty "chucky," the other evening. We will not publish her name this time, but if we ever see a like transaction we will "give her away" to the public.

—The Saginaw train No. 4 was late on arriving at New Era, the other day, and made Fort Wayne, a distance of sixteen miles, in nineteen minutes including one stop; the rate of speed being one mile a minute.

—New hay has been coming into market this week, but it don't seem to sell readily. Those who have it for sale want $10 a ton, and we are told it will not bring over $8 between now and the first of January.

—"They say" that there is a large alligator in Cedar Creek, who makes its home between the two bridges. We don't publish this as a truthful item, but only to warn the little boys who go in swimming at this point.

—At some time in the future we will write up the qualities, morally and mentally, of our candidates to be elected in November next. It will be no task at all, as they are all first-rate, straight forward, gentlemen.

—If there is an inhabitant of this town, of the female gender, who is the owner of a rubber coat, and was not on the streets Saturday during the rain, she will be presented with a chromo by making the same known to us.

—Mr. Hubbell has severed his connection with the Republican, and in the future "editor" Houser will go it alone. Mr. Hubbell added a number of friends to his list during his short stay here, and they, with the COURIER, wishes him well, where e'er he may roam.

—Gents Gauze undershirts for 25 c. each, at McQuiston & Long's. 27-3t.

New Mailer.

Next week the names of our subscribers will be printed by a mailing machine, and if in this change we should happen to miss any one they should make it known to us at once. Our list has reached such a proportion that it was difficult for us to get our mails out on time by the old plan hence this new improvement.

Arrested on Suspicion.

A young lad named Chas. L. Grant, was arrested and placed in jail Monday, on suspicion of attempting to steal a horse and buggy from the livery barn of Mr. Decker at Garrett. He hired the rig to reach a given point and it is thought by many that he took the wrong route, and not returning at the time agreed upon was arrested. The county will keep him until the September term of court.

That Contest.

Last Tuesday a number of our citizens went to the farm of Mr. Brechbill, in Keyser township, to witness a contest between the different reapers and mowers handled by the agriculture dealers of this county. The excitement was high and, of course, each agent did all in his power to have his favorite machine win the race It ended with the Minneapolis coming out victorious.

Settle Up.

All who have unsettled accounts with this office would confer a favor by calling on us and squaring up. Please do not let these bills run delinquent, as we wish to make prompt settlements of bills that are against us. Those who owe on subscription to the COURIER, can tell when their time expires by the date on their receipts. It is easier to pay promptly, than to pay a larger sum after while.

The Trigger.

Last Tuesday the Auburn and St. Joe, rifle clubs had a little sport on the creek bottom. In the forenoon they used, what is termed "clay pigeons," furnished by the visiting club, and in the afternoon glass balls were shot at, given by our boys. Considerable interest was taken in the sport by the marksmen, and also a number of our citizens witnessed the fun. F. D. Ryan, esq, took the huckleberry pie in the forenoon, and in the afternoon Dr. J. H. Ford wore the plume.

Doctors in Council.

To-day the medical fraternity of De-Kalb County are assembled in Dr. Jno. A. Cowan's office for the purpose of organizing a permanent medical society. A large attendance is noticeable and considerable interest is manifested by one and all of the "quinine slingers." We have among our physicians some go-a-head, enterprising gentleman who would make an organization of the one in question a great benefit to themselves and also to the people of the county.

The Pound.

This interesting "structure" on the side track of Ninth street, is as dilapidated as the "old log cabin in the lane." Its walls are decaying and dropping to pieces from neglect and the storms of days gone by. The weeds have taken possession of the cow stalls, and the hog department is too filthy to describe to an intelligent public. But things will change after the 18th, inst. The town dads have ordered all stock to be kept up from the time Old Sol goes to bed in the evening until he wakes up in the morning.

"Climbed The Golden Stairs.

The innocent, harmless dog known as "Bruno," is now resting on the other bank of the river Jordan. Tom Hallam pulled the trigger that sent the fatal ball through Bruno's frame. What right Hallam has banging away at dogs is a query among the boys, and if we are not badly mistaken he will crack away at the wrong canine in his fancy to do good. It is rumored that he gave Braun's bull dog a flesh wound, and some of the friends of this four-legged "pugilist" are somewhat indignant over the matter.

The Better Way.

Our reporter's attention was called to a free-for-all-chat between Antwerp and his better-half in Hoff's grocery, Saturday. Hugh stood as firm and as erect as a printing office towel, and his tongue furnished "music" like a harp with a thousand strings in active commotion, swayed by the magic hand of an Italian. We would be safe in betting our trotting horse that they will hereafter live as of yore, and Jimmy will get left on the last quarter. This would be the better way—bury past grievances, "swear off" and start in with new resolves, and the boys in Jackson township will be all—broke—up.

—We notice that the Kendallville Standard and other prominent republican papers are talking up the renomination of Prosecutor Peterson. Mr. P. is a level-headed officer and has given general satisfaction during his term as State attorney. We stand by the side of "Pete" in every particular except his political ideas.

—The ice cream dealers are not carrying a very large bank account this summer. In fact we have had but few days that the luxury was really enjoyable.

The New School House.

The brick masons have the first story of the school building ready for the joist, and the carpenters are doing their part of the work. The brick work of the building will cost $6,160 when completed and the inside work, without seating, has been let for $2,900. Last week Shearer & Wilson received the contract for the wood work. If the weather is favorable it will be ready for the winter term. It will be one of the handsomest structures of the kind in the State and the residents of Auburn can congratulate themselves on the taste and judgement displayed by the architect and builders.

Nothing in It.

The rumor afloat for a few days that Billy Stimely, Mark Sheets and the Goetschius boys, who went west recently, were murdered, caused considerable talk and excitement among their friends and acquaintances in this place. It was reported that two of them were killed in a saloon row, and the others by the tricky red man. We have looked the matter up as far as possible and can find no foundation whatever for the wild reports exchanged among our people. It is impossible to ascertain who started the lie, and it was probably originated by some one under the influence of "bug juice" who had western fever on the brain.

Be on the Watch.

From our correspondents and exchanges we learn that the festive burglar is at work in towns surrounding us. The latest news comes from as near as Waterloo, which we published last week, and it behooves every business man and citizen to be on the watch for these scoundrels and have their stores and residences securly bolted and locked. A double-barrel shot gun heavily loaded, is a good preventative, or a savage bull dog allowed to trot about the premises is not a bad idea. If they are not soon detected in their nefarious work we can expect them to give us a call and if we are not prepared "what will be their gain will be our loss."

Pleasure Season.

About this season of the year the drummer and the flirt are performing "tricks that are vain and ways that are dark" at some pleasure resort. We don't know as Auburn is represented, but if it is we hope our young ladies will not be so inconsistent as to receive any "taffy" from the la-da-dah youth or the "retired" merchant's only son, who is spending the "old man's" hard earned pennies for amusement instead of using the same to advance their intellect. Nine-tenths of this class go to these places to make a mash on some innocent damsel, and after they find themselves successful, click the rosy glasses in praise of "how I did cod her."

Stock Law.

We have inquired into the legal parts of the stock law and have learned that no law to shut up horses, cattle, etc., has been passed by the legislature for over two years. We do not know of any town ordiance that has been in effect for about the same length of time.—However, the COURIER is in favor of keeping all stock shut up at night, and we think our town board would receive the good graces of every citizen if an ordinance to this effect was put in force. Stock, with the exception of swine, does but little damage during the day, but at night they use the sidewalks for barn-yards, and do damage to small trees, etc.

What Does it Mean?

We received a postal card last Friday from Will Rickel, at Rochester, Ind., which goes on to ask:

"Will you be kind enough to send me the full particulars of the fifty-hour go-as-you-please walking match to take place in Auburn soon?"

Is it possible that our town is to be afflicted with a walking contest. Are some of our boys working the thing up on the sly, and sent Bill Rickel, the stepper of Rochester, an invitation to "take a hand?" We do not know anything about the arrangements nor can we find anyone who does, but if there is to be a match of this kind we will inform our readers in time for them to save up ten cents, the usual admission fee.

Della and Oscar is the name of a new firm now in the matrimonial harness in this county. This has been thus since Monday evening. Both Oscar and Della live some where between this place and Butler, and have lately reversed the approved order of matrimonial business, and therefore C. M. Phillips, of Waterloo, was called on the part of Della's parents to serve an injunction on Oscar, or else make him show cause if any could be shown, why he shouldn't get married like ordinary mortals. Oscar was willing but the parents of the girl did not look upon him as a valuable addition to their family Oscar in a very quiet and unostentatious way, took up his abode in the county bastile. But on Monday evening the girl's parents relented, and under the guiding hand of C. M. Phillips a wedding took place. And now Miss Della Bruner is Mrs. Oscar VanHorn. Now, when Judge Tousley can be heard from Oscar can "get" out, and take a hand in the coming wheat harvest.

To Correspondents.

We would call the attention of our correspondents to the fact that if their items do not reach us by Tuesday's mail they stand a poor show for publication the same week. Our compositors have most all the matter in type for the inside pages at this time, and our custom then is to set up the county communications. If it is not here other articles take the place of it and it must necessarily lay over until the next week. Sometimes we erase articles for the reason that the same item appears in several different correspondent, and the first one put in type gets the benefit. If it is mailed Monday we are pretty sure of getting it from any point in the county by Tuesday noon.

The Altar.

We hear of, no less than a half dozen marriages to come off within the next few weeks. The parties are all young men and girls who know very little of life's hardships, and it has always been nip and tuck for them to exist in single life—board thrown in. Boys with no education, without a trade, not a dollar to start with and to depend upon the kicks and knocks of everyday labor, to furnish hash for two, will find it mighty hard pulling against the stream. The girls are as much to blame, and sometimes more, than the boys are. The woman who marries at the age of twenty-five or thirty is pretty sure of domestic happiness. She looks back at the youths she imagined she was enamored with between sixteen and eighteen, or even twenty-two, and they are worse than indifferent or repellent to her, and in thinking over the days "now gone forever, John," she feels herself fortunate, and her heart jumps with joy when she knows that her affections have been reserved for a worthy object and a higher, nobler end. We have no desire to discourage any matrimonial contracts, and while we know its "naughty yet its nice," we ask every young reader of the COURIER to consider well the surroundings of the future before becoming the head of a household where poverty and sorrow are likely to abound.

—A. J. Ralston, esq., has purchased a full-grown Webster dictionary for his daughter Alza, for her obedience and strict attendance at school. If all parents would encourge their children by similar acts of appreciation there would not be so much ignorance abound among the rising generation of to-day.

—A disciple of Vulcan, holding out at the Junction, was making inquiries for a sheriff, marshal or constable Tuesday evening. He said that he visited a Seventh street saloon and put down a dollar to pay for a glass of beer, and the bar tender would not give him but thirty-five cents in change. He was "rough shod" for a legal understanding.

—Wheat fields are beginning to turn yellow, and farmers are sharpening mowers for the harvest. The sickle and scythe are a thing of the past. About every farmer who owns from twenty acres of land upward has the neccessary machinery for harvesting his grain and cultivating his corn.

—There are still a number of sidewalks that ought to be repaired. Nearly every day some one gets tripped up and falls on these rattling board walks. Wouldn't it be a good plan to begin talking up brick for this purpose? Brick costs but a trifle more, will last a life time and never gets loose.

—Deputy Sheriff Ford was serving subpoenas on the boys to appear at the September term of court in the trial of the State vs. Palmer. The trouble arose from a little family squabble and if things go along smoothly in the north end the case will probably be taken from the docket.

—Talk about wheat being poor. We were shown some heads taken from James Latson's field that could not be more perfect. Eighty-one grains of nice wheat were taken from one stalk. A short rest is in order on the wheat failure until after it is threshed.

—The south end has a full-fledged martial band, with Hank Wolf and his bass drum as "high-cock-a-lorum." It is the nicest music to go to sleep by that the residents of that part of town ever had. It lays Dave Hampton's serenading club in the shade two to one.

—We made a slight mistake in the time of the dedication of the new M. E. church, east of Jackson Center, in our last issue. It should read Sunday, July 30. Rev. J. B. Walker, of Adrian, Michigan, will officiate at the dedication services.

—There have been some improvements made on our sidewalks the last week. We hope others will follow suit and have walks that a sober pedestran is not liable to break his neck while going over them.

—We have received a copy of the Banner City, a little monthly, published at Bismarck, Dakota. Its motto is "Vim, Vinegar, Vitriol and Victory," which would be considered rather original out this way.

—Now we will have to quit smacking and licking in anticipation of finding the strawberry short-cake on the supper table. Peace to its memory.

—Although this is generally termed the dull season of the year our merchants seem [illegible] and are satisfied with their sales.

Personals.

Albert Case is at home.

Dave Hampton will come home Saturday.

Frank Bacon, Garrett, was in town Tuesday.

Frank Ross has come home from New Mexico.

Garrison, of the Butler Record, was in town Monday.

Mrs. M. Douglas and daughter have returned home.

Chub Jones went to Waterloo, Sunday. She was healthy.

Mrs. A. S. Leas and children visited friends in Bryan, last week.

Miss Mary McKay paid her sister a visit at Newville, last Sunday.

James Culbertson went to Fort Wayne Saturday to have a little Fourth.

Mrs. R. M. Lockhart, of Waterloo, was driving on our streets last Friday.

Miss Mollie Loveland, accompanied by her brother Joseph, was in town Tuesday.

Docs. Forshey was in town the other day. He must come oftener or he will get left.

Mrs. Isaac Ochs has been in Jackson, Mich., a few days at the bedside of a sick sister.

Elmer Bumpus shook the western dust from his feet, last week, and is home once more.

Miss Minnie Patterson and Miss Lizzie Clark, of Waterloo, called a few minutes Tuesday.

Lamsley, the wholesale rosy dealer of Fort Wayne, was settin' 'em up to the boys Tuesday.

Mrs. H. Johnson and daughter Lizzie, of Ft. Wayne, are stopping with W. H. Dills and family.

B. B. Rothschild, of the firm of Lowenstein & Rothschild, Waterloo, was in Auburn last Friday.

Mrs. George Henderson is visiting Mrs. Dell Zimmerman in Auburn.—Steuben Republican.

Mr. Rhodes, the lively insurance agent was in town last week. He formed many acquaintances while here.

Mrs. General Blair drove down from Waterloo, last week and passed a day pleasantly among her friends here.

W. G. Croxton and Dr. Wood, of Angola, were in town last Friday and called on Dr. Stough during their stay.

Two ladies from abroad named Mrs. Nedro and Mrs. Milroy have been visiting with the family of Joseph McKay, esq.

Miss Ella Shultz and Miss Jessie Cartwright, of Delphi, Ind., cousins of Mrs. Chas. Emanuel, are visiting in town this week.

Miss Adda Zhuber, Misses Clara and Julia Emanuel, of Antwerp, Ohio, have been paying Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Emanuel a pleasant visit.

S. W. Ralston, esq., was in Fort Wayne Saturday, and owing to this fact and the inclemency of the weather the concert was postponed.

Recorder Boland and Auditor Robbins spent a few days at Rome City last week. It is said to be a pleasant place for the weary to "Rome."

O. P. Smith and C. M. Phillips of Waterloo, "Mondayed" in Auburn this week. C. M. "Mondaynighted." How these new verbs do accumulate.

Elza Shaffer is in town. If we are not mistaken he told us that his attractions here were buried in the past—or does he come and go via Waterloo.

J. C. Fretz, formely of this county, but now of Deedsville, Miami county, made us a flying visit last week. He is practising medicine at his present home, and is prospering.

Miss Francis Hoover, who has been stopping with her brother-in-law, Isaac Hague, took a trip to Pleasant Lake. She goes there to spend a few days with her brother Frank.

Sheriff Leas drove into town yesterday morning behind his celebrated Hamiltonian flyers, which have a record of 3.00 to a road wagon. [This lie is one of our own coinage.] Headlight.

C. F. Grisier, of the West Unity Eagle, passed through here Monday on his way to spend a few weeks at Petoskey, Mich. He goes there for the benefit of his health, and for rest. We hope he will find both.

Fred. Davis returned Monday on the north bound noon train, and was for a while kept busy shaking hands with the boys. In the evening a pleasant little collection of friends were at his home, to spend the evening in social chat.

W. B. Johnson, formerly of Waterloo, now of Fredericktown, Ohio, called here Monday to talk over old times. He is now traveling in the interest of the bell foundry at that place owned by Cummings and Hosack, and is doing finely.

W. H. Beard, of Waterloo, has been here for a few days helping Mr. Rainier do the plastering on Frand Culbertson's new house We also understand that these two gentlemen will put in bids for the work of plastering the new school house.

We had a pleasant chat with our friend L. J. Miller, esq. candidate for treasurer, last Saturday. He is genial, whole-souled gentleman, and to make our assertion truthful we can say that he dispatched one of the boys for a quarters worth Habanas.

Mrs F. N. Beidler, Mrs. Robert Patterson and Mrs. E. S. Patterson, all of Waterloo, were visiting ye editor's family and other friends in town last Friday. They also called at the COURIER rooms and took a look over the establishment. They think that for quantity and quality, the COURIER gets away with all of its cotemporaries.

B. F. Fretz was on our streets a short time last week. He is now teaching good Indians in the Indian school at Osage agency, Indian Territory. At this school they complete an elementary course of studies and then are sent to the Indian school at Carlisle Pa. Frank admits that some of them are dull, and not equal to the scholars he used to teach in this county, yet thinks that they will make fair progress.

NOTICE

To Owners of Horses, Asses, Mules, Cattle and Swine.

After July 18, 1882, any horses, asses, mules, cattle or swine found running at large within the incorporated limits of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, between the hours of sunset and sunrise will be taken up by the marshal.

In pursuance of an ordinance passed by the board of trustees of said town, June 12, 1882. By order of the town board.

GEORGE L. LANNING, Town Clerk.

Estray Notice.

Taken up by the suscriber at my home, one-half mile south of Hopewell church, in Jackson township, on June 18, 1882, a two-year-old colt, sorrel, with light mane and tail. The owner can have same by calling on me and paying for this notice.

MRS. REBECCA MAURER.

—I hear a voice you cannot hear,
It is my darling dad's;
He wears a ruffled night shirt,
And a patent liver pad.
He softly opens the parlor door,
Sticks in his grizzly head,
And says: "Sade, tell that chap
I'ts time to go to bed."

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the Auburn, postoffice for the week ending July 12th, 1882: Mrs. Mollie Clark, W. B. Chickester, Lewis Gaber, Samuel Lehman, Mrs. Moar, Mrs. H. F. King. G. W. GORDON, P. M.

—A most commendable spirit of improvement seems to prevade the whole town this spring in regard to painting and cleaning up. We never saw so much of this kind of work done in one season, nor have we seen so much taste displayed as to color, quality and arrangement of colors in the repainting. Well done, we say.

WANTED.—An energetic young man with a $150.00 capital to invest in a paying business. Inquire at this office.

THE COLUMBUS BUGGY
COMPANY
STILL LEADS WITH THE
LARGEST BUGGY
MANUFACTORY
IN THE WORLD.
AND SELL THE BEST
BUGGY ON THE GLOBE
FOR THE MONEY.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE
AND TESTIMONIALS OF
HUNDREDS OF LIVERYMEN
WHO HAVE USED THEM
—ADDRESS—
COLUMBUS BUGGY Co.
COLUMBUS OHIO.

Be sure, before buying, to examine the Name Plate to be found on the rear of every Buggy manufactured by us, for NONE ARE GENUINE unless they bear the name of

Columbus Buggy Company,
COLUMBUS OHIO.

Many inferior goods are offered as Columbus Buggies, and care should be used to distinguish between "Columbus Buggies" and Columbus Buggy Co's. Buggies.

TESTIMONIALS.

GENTLEMEN: Your buggies have given me entire satisfaction, both in style and durability. I have used them for the past three years. Your recent improvements on road wagons I consider the best in the market.
JAMES H. RAMBURG.
Frederick Maryland.

DEAR SIRS: We have used buggies of your make that have been in use three years, and no buggy we have that cost twice the amount has given better satisfaction.
JAMES H. ALEXANDER.
Johnstown, Pa.

GENTLEMEN: We have used the Columbus Buggy Company's work for the last five years and can conscientiously recommend it as strictly first class as to style, material, workmanship and durability. Your buggies have given better satisfaction than any other make of vehicles we had in use for the last ten years.
PALMER & WHITTAKER.
Red Oak Iowa.

GENTLEMEN: It gives me pleasure to state that I have been selling your buggies and carriages for four years, and can safely recommend them to any one in want of a buggy or carriage. Yours Truly, J. L. GRIBBLE.
Macomb, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: With over fifteen years experience in building buggies, wagons, &c., I do not hesitate in saying your buggies and carriages are strictly first-class in workmanship, material and proportions, filling a long-felt want for a reliable article that can be sold at a price lower than any ordinary manufacturer can produce and sell the same quality of Work at. Yours, etc. I. S. KRICK, Conneautville Pa.

GENTLEMEN: I have used your Brewster side-bar buggies for four years, together with buggies that cost me $300 and $350, and your buggies were the first that went out, on account of being side-bar. They have not cost me $5 for repairs, and those I have sold of your make have given good satisfaction. I think that you make the cheapest and best road wagons that are made in the United States for the money. Respectfully, P. H. HAMLIN, Lawrence Kansas.

DEAR SIRS: We have been using your buggies for the last four or five years. They have given entire satisfaction. I think they are the best buggies made for the money.
W. B. GRIMES & CO., Liverymen Whitehall Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: We have been handling your work for two seasons, and have in every instance found your buggies first class. We never have had one of your jobs returned to us for repairs; neither have we had a single complaint on account of work not being perfectly satisfactory. Very Respectfully, H.P. BUCKLEY & CO., Springfield, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: I have no hesitancy in saying that the buggies manufactured by the Columbus Buggy Company are the best work for the price I have any knowledge of. In not a single instance has there been any dissatisfaction on the part of any one of my customers.
FRANK L. HALL.
Owensboro, Ky.

DEAR SIRS: For the past two years we have used your buggies side by side with other makes in both our stables, and are perfectly satisfied with the strength, durability and workmanship, compared with others. As fast as our stock in livery is used up we shall replace them with your manufacture, knowing from experience that it is the best we can do. Respectfully,
SWEET & FOLLANSBEE,
Quincy Illinois.

For sale by dealers everywhere.

Any of our readers who will enclose two 3-cent stamps in a letter to the Columbus Buggy Co., Columbus O., will receive in return a beautiful engraving in colors, representing an Australian scene and their manner of travelling in that country with ostriches as a motor. They have this picture (the packing costing six cents) to all who may send for it, desiring in this manner to make themselves more widely known to the people.

A Parable.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN A RUMSELLER AND THE DEVIL.

To His Satanic Majesty.

DEAR SIR.—I have opened apartments, fitted up with all the enticements of luxury, for the sale of rum, wine, gin, brandy, beer and all their compounds. Our object, though different can be best obtained by united action. I therefore propose a co-partnership. All I want of men is their money—all the rest shall be yours.

Bring me the industrious, the respectable, the sober, and I will return them to you drunkards, paupers and beggars.

Bring me the child, and I will dash to earth the dearest hopes of the father and mother.

Bring me the father and mother, and I will plant discord between them, and make them a curse and a reproach to their children.

Bring me the young man, and I will ruin his character, destroy his health, shorten his life and blot out the highest and purest hopes of youth.

Bring me the young woman, and I will destroy her virtue and return her to you a blasted and withered thing, and an instrument to lead others to destruction.

Bring me the mechanic and laborer, and his own money—the hard earned fruit of toil—shall be made to plant poverty, vice and ignorance in his once happy home.

Bring me the professed follower of Christ, and I will blight and wither every devotional feeling of his heart, and send him forth to plant infidelity and crime among men.

Bring me the minister of the Gospel, and I will defile the purity of the church and make the name of religion a stink in the land.

Bring me the lawyer and the judge, and I will prevent justice, break up the integrity of our civil institutions, and the name of law shall become a hissing and a by-word in the streets.

Awaiting your replay,
I am yours truly,
A RUMSELLER.

REPLY.

MY DEAR BROTHER.—I address you by this endearing appellation because of the congeniality of our spirits, and of the great work we are both engaged in.

I most cordially accept your proposals. For five thousand years I sought in vain for a man so fully after my own heart to do my work among men. I ransacked the lowest depths of hell for spirits who could do for me the whole work of destruction. But little success attended their efforts.

I sent out the demon murder and he slew a few thousand, most generally the helpless and innocent. But his mission was a failure.

I bade my servant lust go forth. He led innocent youths and beautiful maidens in chains, destroying virtue, wrecking happiness, blasting character and causing untimely deaths and dishonored graves. But even then many victims escaped through the power of God, my enemy.

I sent out avarice, and in his golden chains some were bound, but men soon learned to hate him for his meanness and comparatively few fell by him.

The twins sons pestilence and war went forth, and famine stole behind them, but these slew indiscriminately the old and the young, men, women and children, the good as well as the bad, and heaven gained as many accessions as hell.

In sadness my satanic heart mourned over the probable loss of my crown and kingdom, as I contemplated the tremendous strides which the gospel of Christ was making in saving men from my clutches. But when I received your welcome letter I shouted till the welkin of hell rang again, "EUREKA! EUREKA!! I have found him!!! I have found him!!!!"

My dear friend, I could have embraced you a thousand times, and I have given orders to reserve for you a place nearest my person, the most honorable place in my kingdom. In you are combined all the qualifications of just such a friend and partner as I have long wished for, and in your business are all the elements of success. Now shall my throne be established forever. Only carry out your designs and you shall have money, though it be wrung from broken hearts of helpless women, and from the mouths of innocent perishing children. Though you fill the jails, work-houses and poor-houses, tho' you make murder, incest and arson to abound, and erect scaffolds and gallows in every village, town and city, you shall have money.

I will also harden your heart so that your conscience will not trouble you. You shall think yourself a gentleman though men and women, your victims, shall call you a demon. You shall be devoid of the fear of God, the horrors of the grave and the solemnities of eternity; and when you come to me your works shall produce you a reward forever.

Yours to the very last,
LUCIFER.

—Colored lace buntings for the next few days a 12½ cents per yard, at McQuiston & Leig's. 37-3w.

HONEST WAGONS!!

Is what you want. Call on

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.

and see their home-made

WAGONS!

GIVE THEM A CALL.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,
—THE—
EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

SPECTACLES

Dr. E. C. YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, 133. 2-tf.

MUSIC MONEY
$5.00 FOR ONLY $1.00
THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send 3 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. Newide S

2 CARD COLLECTORS. BOYS send a stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards including photograph, picture & chromo cards. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA OHIO. 10-13w.

NOTICE. We have just issued a book containing 125 pieces of both vocal and instrumental music, every piece of which is very popular. We will give this book in place of the one given heretofore if desired. In case a book premium is not wanted, we will give a set (6) of beautiful silver-planted teaspoons. Great inducements to any one wishing to get up a club. Address as above for terms

THE MYSTERY OF
Love Making Solved
Or an Easy Road to Marriage.

Those in Love will find in this Book strange Secrets always hidden before to mankind, and an Easy Way to Marriage, also many Ancient Secrets that the married should know. If a wife is neglected by her wayward husband this book will enable her to reclaim him to his first love. It proves the difficulty to win the object of your Choice is imaginary. We have searched every country to get these Secrets of Love Making. They will cause millions of Hearts and Hands to be United in Marriage. What strange things regarding Love Making you can find in this Book. If your Love is not reciprocated, this great Book will open wide the barred door, and makes Love's Pathway clear. Start Right and the Battle is Half Won. Sent by Mail for 10 Three cent stamps. Two for 50 cents. Five for $1.00. Address SUNSHINE PUBLISHING HOUSE, Geneva, O.

The American Popular Dictionary, $1.00

This useful and elegant volume is a complete Library and Encyclopaedia, as well as the best Dictionary in the world. Superbly bound in cloth and gilt. It CONTAINS EVERY WORD IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, with its true meaning, derivation, spelling and pronunciation and a vast amount of absolutely necessary information upon science, Mythology, Biography, American History, Laws, etc., being a perfect Library of reference. Webster's Dictionary costs $9.00, and the American Popular Dictionary costs only $1. "worth ten times the money."—N. Y. Atlas. "We have never seen its equal either in price, finish or contents."—The Advocate. "A perfect Dictionary and library of reference."—Leslie's Illus. News, N. Y. One copy of the American Popular Dictionary (illustrated), the greatest and best book ever published, post-paid to any address on receipt of $1. Entire satisfaction guaranteed. Two copies postpaid $2. Order at once. This offer is good for 60 days only, and will never be made again. Six copies for Five Dollars. Get five of your friends to send with you and you get your own book free.

SUNSHINE PUBLISHING CO.,
Geneva, Ohio.

Our readers will find this wonderful book the cheapest Dictionary published. The information it contains is worth many times the amount asked for it, and it should be in the possession of everybody. With this book in the library for reference, many other much more expensive works can be dispensed with, and ignorance of his country, history, business, laws, etc., is inexcusable in any man. Note the price, $1, post paid.

Ft. Wayne & Jackson Railroad

SHORT LINE

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Time-Card in effect June 1, 1882.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am	....
Saginaw	6 00	7 58	....
Lansing	9 25	10 25	....
Grand Rapids	10 20	6 00	12 25pm
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 00
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 46	5 21
Jackson Lv.	6 30am	12 05pm	6 55
Hanover	7 02	12 37	8 00
Jonesville	7 25	1 02	8 35
Bankers	7 35	1 16	9 20
Reading	7 50	1 27	9 45
Montgomery	8 03	1 40	10 10
Fremont	8 19	1 56	10 40
Angola	8 25	2 13	11 10
Pleasant Lake	8 45	2 25	11 30
Waterloo	9 05	2 43	7 00am
Auburn	9 15	2 52	7 25
Auburn Junction	9 20	2 57	7 50
Arrive Ft. Wayne	10 15	3 50	9 20
Indianapolis	5 45pm	10 45	....
Cincinnati	6 05	7 35am	....
Louisville	7 30	7 25	....
St. Louis	....	8 40	....
Washington	2 10	6 47	....
Baltimore	3 20	5 15	....

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm
Leave Baltimore	11 00am	....	1 30am
Washington	10 40	....	2 35
St. Louis	6 40pm	....	7 50
Louisville	7 12	7 00am	....
Cincinnati	8 00	7 46	2 25pm
Indianapolis	4 25am	10 55	....
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 47pm	6 00	3 00
Auburn	12 48	6 08	3 05
Waterloo	12 58	6 15	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 16	6 37	4 25
Angola	1 27	7 05	5 06
Fremont	42	7 22	5 33
Montgomery	58	7 40	6 07
Reading	2 10	7 52	6 30
Bankers	2 22	8 04	6 55
Jonesville	2 38	8 16	7 25
Hanover	3 05	8 45	8 20
Jackson	3 40pm	9 20	9 20
Ann Arbor	5 07	10 28	10 36
Detroit	6 30	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 30	7 10am	4 30pm
Lansing	5 38	8 20	....
Saginaw	8 25	10 55	....
Bay City	9 20	11 55	....

All trains daily except sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.: east—12 40, 5 00, 7 05, 9 50 a. m., 3 05, 4 05, 9 28 p. m.; west—12 45, 7 02, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J. L. & S, 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 7 30 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m. 2 30 p. m.; west 9 45 a. m., 1227, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p. m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 20 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 42, 11 30 p. m.; west 2 25 a. m., 1 35 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 4 34 a. m., 1 48, 10 21 p. m.; west, 2 05 a. m., 12 45, 11 35p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m. 3 :15 p. m. west—1:57, 11:31 a. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 20 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m, 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 5 00 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 35 p. m., west, 6 10, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W leave 12 10, 8 05 a. m. 1 15pm; ar. 2 00, a. m. 2 55, 7 05 p.m, P., Ft. W. & C, east 3 35 a. m., 4 10, 11 20 p. m.; west 12 10, 2 40, 11 43 a. m., 3 40, p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt.
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Fr. & Pass'r. Agen

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern RAILWAY.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y.Ex.	At Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm
Elkhart	1 29pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 48	11 30	5 25	12 10pm
Corunna	2 58		6 35
Sedan			7 05	00
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30	40
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20	40
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi Ex.	Pac. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	8 20

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily. Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:05 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage. J. E. CURTIS,
Supt. Mich. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to
H. D. ARMSTRONG,
Agent Waterloo Ind.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R

CHICAGO DIVISION.

IN EFFECT FROM MAY 21, 1882.

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C Ex.
CHICAGO lv	5 10pm	10 50pm	8 10am
Walkerton Junction	8 11	1 56am	11 16
Milford Junction	9 16	3 10	12 25
Syracuse		3 22	12 35pm
Cromwell		3 36	12 51
Albion		4 00	1 12
Avilla		4 22	1 34
Garrett	10 35	4 45	2 00
Auburn Junction	10 43	4 54	2 08
St. Joe
Hicksville	11 14	5 30	2 48
Defiance	11 52	6 13	3 24
Deshler	12 45am	7 10	4 20
Fostoria	1 30	8 07	5 15
Tiffin	2 02	8 35	5 43
CHICAGO JUNCTION ar.	3 00	9 45	6 50

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
CHICAGO JUNCTION lv	9 50pm	6 40pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 20	7 56	9 14
Fostoria	11 02	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 43	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville	1 47	11 42	12 28pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 18 m	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 45
Avilla		12 38	1 58
Albion		1 02	2 21
Cromwell		1 28	[illegible]
Syracuse		1 45	[illegible]
Milford Junction		1 58	[illegible]
Walkerton Junction		3 14	[illegible]
CHICAGO ar	6 35	5 55	[illegible]

Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville Railroad.

In effect April 16, 1882.

SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS.	NORTHWARD
No 3 Express	No. 1 Mail.		No 2 Mail	No. 4 Ex.
5 40pm	10 20am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	9 55am
6 47	11 20	Bluffton	4 05	8 [illegible]
7 50	12 18pm	Hartford	3 01	7 [illegible]
8 40	1 10pm	Muncie	2 10	6 5[illegible]
		Cincinnati
10 55pm	6 05	Indianapolis	11 05	4 30am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
Geo. B. GARDNER, General Ticket Agt

FORT WAYNE
CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.
(Incorporated 1871.)

For Catalogue and Particulars, address C. F. W. MEYER, Principal.
FORT WAYNE, IND. 27-8.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 181 and 183 W. Madison St., Chicago. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp.

$1,000 Forfeit!

Having the utmost confidence in its superiority over all others, and after thousands of tests of the most complicated and severest cases we could find, we feel justified in offering to forfeit One Thousand Dollars for any case of coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, hoarseness, bronchitis, consumption, in its early stages; whooping cough and all diseases of the throat and lungs, except Asthma, for which we only claim relief, that we can't cure with West's Cough Syrup, when taken according to directions. Sample bottles 25 and 50 cents; large bottles $1.00. Genuine wrappers only in blue. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price. JOHN C. WEST & CO., sole proprietors, 181 and 183 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Health is Wealth.

DR. E. C. WEST'S Nerve and Brain Treatment is a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency, Emissions, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, self-abuse, or over-indulgence, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind. Orders by mail at regular price.

HOUSE FOR SALE.—A good house and lot on south VanBuren street. For terms, address, Alvin Weyer, Orland, Indiana. 20-tf.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—

WABASH,
ST. LOUIS
AND PACIFIC
RY.

—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!

2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS
TO ALL POINTS
East, West, Northwest or Southwest

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address LOUIS JOHNSON agent, Auburn, Ind., or FRED. CLARK, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, Gen. Manager. H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen. Passenger Agen
St. Louis.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. C. H. BROWN, Trustee

JOS. ABRIGHT,

—Dealer In—

Watches, Watches,
Clocks, Clocks,
Castors Castors,
Spoons, Spoons,
Forks, Forks,
Knives Knives,
Chains, Chains,
Rings, Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid,

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

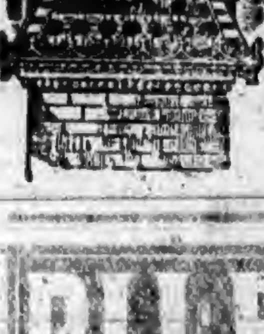
THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

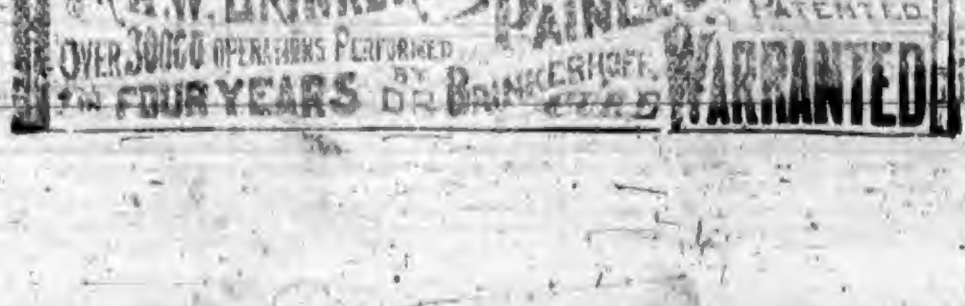
It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself. Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,
GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,
54 S. MERDIAN ST., INDIANAPOLIS.



HUGHES & HUMPHREYS,
SLATE ROOFERS,
FORT WAYNE, IND.



PILES
NO CURE NO PAY
FISTULA
RECTAL ULCERS, FISSURES
CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED
CURE BEFORE TOO LATE
DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW SURE PAINLESS CURE
PATENTED
OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR. BRINKERHOFF
WARRANTED

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, JULY 20, 1882. Number 29.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

James Bird.

An article in the COURIER a few weeks ago, in regard to the hero of the once popular song of "James Bird," elicited comments from some of our older people who were at one time familiar with the song. Bird deserted from Perry's fleet, but was captured, tried and shot as a deserter, and as the old song has it:

> "His mangled corpse lies bleeding
> On Lake Erie's distant shore."

Among others, our old friend Jacob Garrison, of Waterloo, called our attention to the matter the other day. He is now nearly eighty-five and is reasonably active for a person of that age. He can remember distinctly about the war of 1812, especially as to events that occurred in his vicinity. He lived at Wilkesbarre, Pa., on the opposite side of the river from Kingston, where James Bird lived, and from which place Bird enlisted into the army. Mr. Garrison saw him when he went away to join Perry's forces on Lake Erie, and from which expedition he never returned. With Bird's desertion and subsequent execution, we have no doubt most of our readers are familiar. The song commemorating the event was composed by a printer of Wilkesbarre named Charles Miner, and was sung all over the land. Mr Garrison can still repeat the whole of this once famous song.

Butler Items.

[Last Week.]

Mrs. Drake, of Hillsdale, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Dr. Bolan, of this place.

The Record building is enclosed and ready for the mud. Go in, Garrison, Weamer is on deck.

Mr. and Mrs. McMartin, of Allegam, Michigan, spent the Fourth with their daughter, Mrs. Fifield.

The Wabash restaurant will commence business as soon as the walk is completed leading to the depot.

Annie, second daughter of Hiram Capp, died Tuesday, after a week's illness—aged about eleven years.

Mrs. Till, wife of John Till, died Tuesday after a severe illness of about two weeks. She leaves a family of seven small children.

Gabe Strauss moved his family to North Manchester last Monday, where he has been for some time. Only five Jew families left in Butler.

The aged father of J. W. Boyle, of this place, died at the residence of his son Ephriam, in Concord township, in the ninety-seventh year of his age.

The Record man is anxious to get a new hand to sprinkle the streets. He does not seem to be pleased with the one who has been doing the sprinkling this summer.

The wife and little son of conductor Clark have returned from an extended visit to Louisville and Cincinnati. They will soon move into one of the Tomlinson houses, on Willow street.

About twenty members of the McAllister Battery attended the encampment at Indianapolis without a commissioned officer. The boys report a good time and speak highly of the Louisiana artillery, which took considerable pains to instruct them in the use of their guns. The battery will elect new officers this week.

Leslie's musical convention closed with a public rehersal Saturday evening. The entertainment was good, the class doing itself and the professor much credit. After the close, a musical association was organized to meet one evening each week. T. F. Shoub was elected president, Mrs. Fonce secretary, Dr. Bolan director and Miss Detie Bolan organist.

Gravel Roads.

The gravel road boom in Wells county is still increasing and it will not be many years until all the principle thoroughfares will be graded and graveled. This will bring Wells county up to any county for its size in the state, as it will have a tendency to develope the rich soil and at the same time open up a way for our people to market their produce. A county using turn-pike roads could not be induced to turn back and use mud roads again. The Banner has always insisted that the prosperity of Bluffton depended largely upon the country around it, and there is no better way to build up our little city than by helping to improve the country around it. Let the town still lend a helping hand in this direction, for it will receive in return tenfold for what they pay out.—[Bluffton Banner.

Water-Cress.

A few years ago, Mr. John Folland, of this city, procured some roots of water-cress and planted them; and now there is considerable of this pleasantest of all the anti-scorbutics known to mankind. We mention this fact because it would be conducive to the health of the general public to have this most excellent article generally introduced as a daily article of diet. It grows along the banks of running streams, or about springs, and is exceedingly hard to kill after it once gets a hold in the soil, in the places we have mentioned. It is always tender and exceedingly productive. It would be a good thing if every farmer in the country, who has a live spring, or a running stream upon his place, would secure some of the plant and start a bed upon his farm. There is no difficulty about growing it, for if a sprig is planted in the place we have mentioned it will take care of itself; only, of course, stock will have to be kept away from it. We are informed that it is just as good in the winter as at any other season of the year, and throughout the entire twelve months, it is always tender, and in every way excels lettuce, or any other of the "greens" of which people are so fond. We hope that all of our rural friends, who have springs or running rills upon their places, will procure some of the roots of this most excellent anti-scorbutic, of either Mr. Folland, or of Phillip Huffman, and make the effort to propagate it in large quantities. A more healthful vegetable, if it may be called such—which, by the way, is doubtful—can not be found, and it should be grown at every point where it will take hold in the soil.—Warsaw Indianian.

Scene of the Storm in Iowa.

[Related by an Eye-Witness.]

"The sun went down," he said "behind a bank of peculiar clouds. They were of fantastic shapes, and the last rays of the setting sun imparted to them a crimson, angry hue. I couldn't help, for the life of me, thinking of the ferocious red eyes of the untamable bull dog, when I looked at the lurid specacle. Night came on, and with it the storm. Incessant lightning illuminated the northern and western heavens. The clouds grew blacker and the atmospheric agitation increased. The balloon-shaped cloud about which you already know, could be seen approaching a quarter of an hour before it reached the town, and for at least five minutes before its arrival the roaring sound which has been aptly likened to the rumbling of fifty freight trains across an iron bridge filled the air with its ominous echoes. It was preceeded by a violent wind, which blew down trees and drove people into the house. I was standing in an open space on one of the western streets of the town, and feeling that I was safer there than I could be in a house, I determined to stay there, though I admit I was frightened half to death. The rumbling roar came nearer, and lowering mass seemed to reach out black arms to the earth, when with a horrible, whistling shriek, the monster swept by within a hundred yards of the spot where I was rooted with amazement and fear. The raging thing sweeped down upon the place, licking up everything in its path. Some of the houses were mashed down and swept along, while others were picked up bodily, torn to pieces, and the furniture and occupants lifted into the air, either to be hurled to the earth again or blown the Lord knows where. The dreadful giant pursued its way, crushing, crunching and destroying with cruel wantonness. In the unearthly glare produced by the blazing lightning, which flashed wickedly and incessantly, and by the balls of fire with which the gyrating mass seemed alive, I could see the air filled with flying objects of every conceivable form, from scraps of paper to sections of roofs and floors to the height of four or five hundred feet, and I don't know how much higher. A house would be crushed like an egg shell, and in less time than it takes to tell, the materials that composed it would be climbing skyward with incredible rapidity. The air was charged with electricity, and where I stood the atmosphere was of ghostly pallor. The whirling monster threw out flashes, sparks and balls as it passed along. Mingled with the frightful roaring of the cyclone, could be heard the shrill, blood-curdling shrieks of women as they were caught up and borne away to their death. The demon concert is raging in my ears yet. The cyclone was probably a minute or a minute-and-a-half passing me. It seemed an age. Nothing ever filled me with such unspeakable awe as this relentless riot of the elements—this merciless march of death."

The Letter that Startled a Husband.

A Broad street merchant's wife recently gave him the following letter, with instructions that it should not be opened until he got to his place of business: "I am forced to tell you something that I know will trouble you, but it is my duty to do so. I am determined you shall know it, let the result be what it may. I have known for a week that this trial was coming, but kept it to myself until to-day, when it has reached a crisis, and I cannot keep it any longer. You must not censure me too harshly, for you must reap the benefits as well as myself. I do hope it won't crush you. The flour is all out. Please send me some this afternoon. I thought that by this method you would not forget it." The husband telephoned forthwith for a barrel of the best flour in the market to be sent to his home instanter.—Nashville (Tenn.) American.

B. and O. Relief Association.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, and the committee of management of the Baltimore and Ohio Employes Relief Association, announce, as supplementary to the present organization of the society, the inauguration of two new features, combining all that is best in savings banks and building associations; both of which are to be operated solely in the interest, and for the benefit, of members of the association and their families.

While forming part of the general plan of relief for employes already in operation, the savings fund and the building feature will be conducted under the separate management of a board of trustees elected solely by those pecuniarily interested in these new features.

The objects sought to be attained are the encouragement of habits of prudence, economy and thrift, by placing within the reach of every employe of the railroad company, upon the simplest and most advantageous terms compatible with proper security, all the benefits derivable from the safest and most liberal savings institutions of the country, and from the best conducted building societies—after eliminating from the latter all that makes them objectionable. To this end each officer or employe of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, who has been a subscriber to the relief features of the association for the immediately preceding three months, or his wife, may deposit in the savings fund, in the manner and under the regulations set forth in the by-laws, any sum, not less than one dollar nor more than one hundred dollars in any one day. The money thus accumulated will be invested and managed for the benefit of depositors.

Never too Late to Learn.

Socrates, at an extreme old age, learned to play on musical instruments.

Cato, at eighty years of age, learned the Greek language.

Plutarch, when between seventy and eighty, began the study of Latin.

Sir Henry Spellman neglected the sciences in his youth, but commenced the study of them when he was between fifty and sixty years of age. After this time he became a most learned antiquarian and lawyer.

Dr. Johnson applied himself to the Dutch language but a few years before his death.

Ludovico Lonaldesco, at the great age of 115, wrote the memoirs of his own times.

Franklin did not fully commence his philosophical pursuits till he had reached his fiftieth year.

Dryden, in his sixty-eighth year, commenced the translation of the Iliad, his most pleasing production.

Ogilby, the translator of Homer and Virgil, was unacquainted with Latin and Greek until his fiftieth year.

Dr. Carey acquired nearly all the dialects of India after he was well advanced in life, and his translations of the Bible are still in use.

We could go on and cite thousands of examples of men who commenced a new study, either for a livelihood or amusement, at an advanced age. But every one familiar with the biography of distinguished men, will recollect individual cases enough to convince them that none but the sick and indolent will ever say, "I am too old to learn."

JOHN B. CONNER of the department of statistics for this state has forwarded to the auditor of each county the annual reports of his department. There will be a copy for the auditor, clerk, treasurer, recorder and county superintendent; also for each township library in the county, and one for each of the papers published in the county.

A Tip-Top Time.

Burt's daily paper, styled, Among the Clouds, and published each summer in the Old Tip-Top House on the summit of Mt. Washington, contains the following in its issue of July 8th:

"W. H. Brearley, of the Detroit Evening News, and his first 1882 excursion party, arrived at the White Mountains yesterday via. the Grand Trunk railway and are comfortably quartered at the Glen House. The excursionists all express themselves as highly delighted with the trip thus far, especially with the Grand Trunk railway as a route for pleasure travel 'From Detroit to the Sea,' and with the Glen House as a veritable 'Home among the Mountains.' Mr. Brearley's reputation as a successful excursion manager needs no further commendation than the statement that this makes the eighth large party he has brought to the Mountains during the last six years. Two more parties are to come this year. The one leaving Detroit July 20th, and will be due here July 22nd, and the last one leaving Detroit July 27th will arrive July 29th. The handsomest excursion guide book that we remember having seen is the one issued to describe these trips. It is sold for 30 cents, and may be obtained by addressing W. H. Brearley, office Detroit Evening News.

"A large number of Ohio editors are members of this excursion, and serveral, who have called at our sanctum exhibit as much dexterity with the "stick", as if they were professional pedagogues. They make a very creditable representation of the Ohio press, but it would be invidious to make distinction by mentioning names.

"It is a pleasure to meet so fine appearing a company of western people and bestow upon them the "freedom of the mountains." Gentlemen and ladies, make yourselves at home. If you don't see what you want, ask for it. With so much land here that we have to set it up on edge to store it away, we are not inclined to be 'small' in our hospitality. Don't imagine that our greeting is cool because the temperature is. High living will agree with you; it does with us."

Going Him One Better.

An ingenious tramp, thinking to wring tears and money assistance from the stoniest hearts with a new scheme, gave it an experimental trial in the north end. He has decided not to patent the invention. He told a north end lady of his unfortunate condition, and ask if he might eat some of the grass in the yard. The lady, not less amused than surprised, said:

"Certainly."

He went out, and, getting down on all fours, commenced on the grass after the neglected and never popular fashion of Nebuchadnezzar, and apparently not enjoying the diet any more than that ancient sinner of olden time. Presently the tramp's anxious eye caught sight of the servant girl beckoning to him from the back yard. He thought a rich reward for his humility was in store, and instantly responded:

"Did you motion to me?" said he.

"Yes."

"What did you want?" He now wore a look of most hopeful expectancy.

"You may go into the back yard if you want to. The grass is taller there."—[Terre Haute Gazette.

Quick and Sure.

Many miserable people drag themselves about with failing strength, feeling that they are steadily sinking into their graves, when by using Parker's Ginger Tonic they would find a cure commencing with the first dose, and vitality and strength quickly and surely coming back to them. 27-4t.

Normal Music School.

The Northern Indiana Music School will be held at the Fort Wayne college, August 8th to 25th. J. F. Kinsey, principal assisted by Otto A. Schmint and Princess L. Clark. This is decidedly the best and cheapest first class music school in the country.

For circulars stating particulars, address, J. F. Kinsey, Fort Wayne, Ind. 27-4t.

The Highest Rank.

Made from harmless materials, and adapted to the needs of fading and falling hair, Parker's Hair Balsam has taken the highest ranks as an elegant and reliable hair restorative. 27-4t.

—Dr. Brinkerhoff has made the following appointments: Defiance, Thursday, June 29, July 27, Aug. 24, Sept. 21, at Russell House. Bryan, Mondays June 26, July 24, Aug. 21, Sept. 18, at Fountain House. Fort Wayne, Fridays, June 30, July 28, Aug. 25, Sep. 22, at Mayer House.

—Now, while work is pressing, you can save time and money by getting your supplies at Weiricks, at Fairfield. tf.

—Colored lace buntings for the next ten days a 12½ cents per yard, at McQuiston & Long's. 27-3w.

ROOT AND

COMPANY

Call your attention to a new and beautiful line of Sheet and Pillow

SHAMS

In match setts of

ANTIQUE LACES

At one-half real value.

ROOT AND

COMPANY

Show in great variety now

ANTIQUE TIDIES ! ! !

Square and Oblong

NOTTINGHAM TIDIES,

APPLIQUE LACE TIDIES,

IM. RUSSIAN TIDIES

ROOT AND

COMPANY

Exibit New

LACE TRIMMED PARASOLS,

BLACK SATIN PARASOLS,

CARDINAL SATIN PARASOLS,

OLIVETTE PARASOLS,

CARRIAGE PARASOLS,

MISSES' PARASOLS,

SUN UMBRELLAS,

SCHOOL UMBRELLAS,

GENTS' UMBRELLAS

In styles surpassing that of any former season

ROOT AND

COMPANY,

46 and 48 Calhoun St.,

FT. WAYNE, INDIANA.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana Office over Mrs. Jones' Store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections Also represents first class insurance companies. Office over Willis & Co's. book store, Waterloo, Indiana.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING will treat chronic diseases, also diseases of the eye, ear and cancers. Office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana. tf.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 28 1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor John Butt Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. [illegible] sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor,

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence: North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m., except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week. HENRY FROBET, Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14. 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.
WILSON S. DANCER, Trustee.
April 15, 1880. tf

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice, FREDERICK GPELLER, Trustee.
April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice, C. H. BROWN, Trustee.

For Sale.

On account of my wife's illness I offer for sale my threshing machine, clover huller, and ten horse power traction engine all in complete running order. For terms call at my residence two miles west of Waterloo, on Smithfield township line, or address. Wm. Brand, Waterloo, Ind.

Notice to Bridge Builders.

Notice is hereby given, that the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, Indiana, will, on

THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1882,

at 10 o'clock a. m., let to the lowest and best responsible bidder the building of a Howe Truss Bridge, about one-half mile north of the village of St. Joe; said bridge to be forty-five (45) feet long, and to be built on pile abutments.

Also on the same day at 3 o'clock p. m. said Board of Commissioners will let to the lowest and best responsible bidder the construction of a Howe Truss Bridge one and a half miles east of the town of Butler; said bridge to be fifty-five (55) feet in length and placed upon pile abutments.

Said lettings will take place at the site of the proposed work. Plans and specifications can be seen at the auditor's office. Successful bidders will be required to file a bond to the acceptance of the Board for the faithful performance of the contract. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

By order of the Board.

Attest: ALBERT ROBBINS, Auditor.
June 20th, 1882.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to, Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

SPECTACLES

Dr. E. C, YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box. [illegible] 9-tf.

MONEY to loan on improved farms in sums of $300 or more at six per cent. No delay. U. M. STODDORD, Indianapolis, Ind.
26-1w.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

THE yellow fever is raging at Havana, Cuba.

THE saloons of Joliet, Ill., pay a city license fee of $500.

THE Land Leagues of Ireland and America are to be consolidated.

IT is now believed that Congress will not adjourn before the 1st of August.

THE impression prevails at Washington that Congress will adjourn on the 17th.

THE Pittsburg iron-works' strikers have lost over $3,000,000, and still they are not happy.

THE sinking of the Ohio river steamer Sciota is very fairly called the "Mingo murder."

HON. ALEX. H. STEPHENS will be the candidate of the Georgia Democrats for Governor.

A BILL has been introduced in Congress to abolish the State of Nevada and attach it to California.

IT is claimed that a late City Directory shows a population of considerably over 600,000 in Chicago.

THE peach crop in Northwestern Arkansas is reported to be enormous and the fruit very superior in quality

IT is estimated by Commissioner Dudley that it will require $214,990,800 to pay the pension claims now pending.

The Eleventh Congressional District of Texas is said to be territorially larger than the States of Alabama and Mississippi.

A SOCIETY in New York has purchased 10,000 acres of land in Virginia, upon which 300 Hungarian colonists are to be located.

THE internal revenue recepts of the United States Treasury for the fiscal year ending June 30, amounted to a total of nearly $150,000,000, being about $11,000,000 more than the preceding

THE Pope, in an allocution at the consistory, Monday, said the position of the church in Italy was becoming worse than ever. The government, he declared, was guilty of bad faith in refusing exequatura to twenty bishops he had nominated.

IT seems that the Archbishops and Bishops of Ireland are afraid of women's rights ideas. They have issued a manifesto to the priests directing them to discountenance the Ladies' Land League and forbid females from attending all its public meetings.

COL. NOAH ORR, "the giant" who died in Ohio, a few days ago, was nearly eight feet in height, and weighed about 575 pounds. He leaves a brother, George Orr, who is six feet and ten inches in height, and succeeds to the title of "the tallest man in Ohio."

DURING the fiscal year ending June 30th the national debt has been diminished in the amount of $151,684,351.26. The total debt now is $1,918,312,984.03, on which the annual interest is $31,890,966.47. Amount of cash in the Treasury July 1, $343,289,519.78.

A NOTE, very similar in appearance to the United States treasury notes, in in circulation in New York, issued by the Irish Republic and payable after the recognition of an independent government in Ireland. A saloon keeper has been arrested for passing one.

JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL SWAIN has nearly completed his report in the case of Mason, who shot at Guiteau. It is said that the report will hold that troops were stationed at the jail without authority of law. Mason's friends claim this report will lead to his release.

MR. ROBERT LINCOLN admits that he was the first one to call Dr. Bliss to the bedside of President Garfield, and says that Mrs. Garfield subsequently requested him to remain in charge of the case. Mrs. Garfield has denied, over her own signature, that she ever requested Dr. Bliss to attend to her husband.

THERE is to be a National Irish Industrial Exposition at Dublin shortly. It promises to be a success. Double the space at the disposal of the committee has been applied for, and no less than 15,000 tickets for the opening of the day—August 15—have already been sold. The O'Connell monument will also be unveiled on the same day.

THE longest-winded political body recently in session was the Republican Congressional Convention of the Fourteenth Ohio District, which adjourned after balloting 596 times. It finally made a choice, Hon. R. H. Horr, of Lorain county, being the successful candidate. Mr. Horr is a twin-brother f the funny Congressman Horr, of Michigan, and is now a member of the Ohio State Senate.

A DISPATCH from Vincennes says: "The wheat crop of Southern Indiana turns out wonderfully, and is one of the largest the country was ever blessed with. The crop in Knox county is 1,200,000 bushels, and the average yield is from eighteen to twenty bushels per acre, many places showing from thirty-five to forty bushels. A prominent statistician estimates the yield in the fifteen southern counties of Indiana at 12,000,000 bushels."

CALIFORNIA is likely to have the Sunday question as a prominent issue in the approaching campaign. The Democrats at their recent State Convention, took bold ground for the repeal of the law forbidding Sunday traffic, and it is expected that the Republicans will declare in favor of the law. There has been a great deal of controversy over it in the courts, and both sides of the question have their ardent supporters.

THE Chicago News severely says; "The autopsy on Guiteau demonstrated, if anything, how utterly useless and unnecessary an autopsy may be. The learned doctors who promulgated 2,000 words, mostly incomprehensible, and inflicted them on an unsuspecting public as their 'report,' actually knew less about the fact of the assassin's sanity or insanity than they did before he was cut up; and the only effect of their remarkable document will be to still further befog the average intellect and create doubts that otherwise would not have existed."

One of the most eminent of German medical men is reported as saying that there are not less, probably, than 10,000 persons in Germany who have becom slaves to the habit of hypodermically injecting morphine. There are many who take as much as eighteen injections every day. Some have hardly a square inch of skin on their bodies not marked by scars produced by this practice. Slaves of this habit are even more hopelessly enchained than those who take opium in other ways, and it is speedier destruction.

A PICTURE of the effects of a strike is presented in a dispatch from Pittsburg, Pa., which says: "Actual destitution exists in the miner's camp at McDonald's Station. A gentleman who visited the camp stated that a case had come under his notice where the mother of a family of seven children had kept them for two weeks on half a sack of flour. The little ones are emaciated and present a pitiable appearance. Other cases of a similar nature are reported. Appeals for assistance have been made to the poor authorites of this city, but in every instance it has been refused, the officials holding that the idleness which brought about the destitution is not compulsory. Both miners and operators present a bold front, and the outcome is as uncertain as ever."

THE NEWS

Home Items.

THERE were three murders in Chicago Saturday, July 8th.

John A. Kasson, of Iowa, and Gen. Cox, of North Carolina, were renominated for Congress.

Senator Don Cameron is credited with saying that Congress will not adjourn until the 15th of August.

Nathan Briscoe, of Ernestown, Pa., was stung in the forehead by a bee Tuesday, and died in fifteen minutes.

The steamer Mark Lane, which arrived at Boston Wednesday from Matanzas, had two cases of yellow fever on board.

Secretary Teller says if Capt. Payne makes another raid into the Indian Territory he will be put out in a summary way.

Two train-robbers were captured at Pine Bluff, Mo., Wednesday. Another pair of the same gang escaped, but are being pursued.

Mrs. Henderson, of Hornsbridge, Ala., threatened to report her husband for quarreling with her, for which he shot her dead.

Josiah Reese and Michael Foley engaged in a quarrel about a ditch near Plymouth, Ind., Saturday. Foley broke Reese's neck with a powerful blow, and fled.

The Arkansas State Republican Convention was held at Little Rock. Col. W. D. Slack was nominated for Governor by acclamation.

F. L. Jones, a photographer of Louisville, Miss., who has already murdered four men, killed a boy namesake Sunday in cold blood.

An Indian policeman killed an Indian at the Southern Ute Agency Wednesday, and it is feared retaliation will be made on the white settlers.

William Belcher, aged 60, sentenced to be hanged at Cincinnati for murder, has had his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life by Gov. Foster.

The Crow Indians in northern Wyoming, are killing cattle and destroying the wheat fields. Fears of another Indian war are expressed by the settlers.

The National Government has informed Governor Crittenden, of Missouri, that it is ready to pay the State's militia war claims, amounting to $250,000.

Captain Payne announces another invasion of Oklahoma. He will take with him a large band of colonists, and thinks Secretary Teller will not interfere.

It has been discovered that great frauds upon the Government by Texas United States Marshals have been perpetrated, and a large number of them will be arrested.

On the Fourth, in the Concord (Mass.) State Prison, the convicts demolished the cell furniture because they were not granted the usual one hour's recreation.

It has been determined that the strike placed the North Chicago Rolling Mill Company behind to the amount of 4,500 tons of rolls and 4,000 tons of iron.

IN Greenville, S. C., the other day, while a colored woman was preparing the corpse of her son-in-law for burial, a bolt of lightning entered the room, killing her instantly.

The body of Kilgour, who murdered Marshal Bryant at Belmont, Mo., last week, was found, being terribly mutilated by hogs and buzzards. He had been shot through the heart.

During the month of June the increase in British imports, as compared with the returns of last year, was £706,000. The exports for the same period were enlarged £1,300,000.

A claim to the greater part of the Fifth ward of Chattanooga, Tenn., has been made by M. C. Reynolds and wife, who have entered a suit in chancery. The property involved is very valuable.

IT is estimated that the South this season paid to the North $55,000,000 for wheat, $50,000,000 for corn, $72,000,000 for meats, and about $25,000,000 for hay, butter, cheese, oats, apples, potatoes, etc.

The Senate Committee on Pensions, has reported in favor of granting a pension to Mary Wade, of Gettysburg, Pa., who lost her daughter Jennie, aged 20, on July 3, 1863, by a rebel bullet.

Nine thousand dollars was taken from the safe of F. M. McGee, at New Burnside, Johnson county, Ill., early Sunday morning. The receptacle was blow open, but there is no clue to the robbers.

The present wheat yield is considered the most abundant ever raised in Champaign county, Ill. In some cases forty bushels per acre have been harvested, and in but few fields is it less than twenty.

Additional items to the corrupt practices of the star-routers have been discovered, and immediate steps will be taken to reconvene the Grand Jury at Washington, and obtain another set of indictments.

The Rev. G. B. Simmons, Baptist pastor at Greenbush, N. Y., and a married man, was found guilty by a church council of writing love-letters, of conduct unbecomming a minister, and of lying.

The Rev. George A. Lofton, of St. Louis, whose alleged improper conduction a train recently was the subject of much scandal, has resigned his pastorate, and will leave the ministry and go into business.

Milton Smith, living near Kirkwood, Mo., recently punished his son, Guy, aged 13, for fighting with his brother. The lad, enraged at his chastisement, procured a gun, and mortally wounded his father.

The Indians are making trouble again in the vicinity of the San Carlos Reservation. Killing scouts and cattle are their chief occupation. The people at McMillordville are losing a number of cattle by their depredations.

The Kankakee Valley Railway Company, whose purpose is to build a road from South Bend, Ind., to Momence, Ill., was organized Wednesday at Laporte. The incorporators are leading business men.

A TEST will be made of a plan of storm and flood signals by telegraph, and cannon at all military stations where cannon are in use, for the purpose of giving warning of tornadoes and sudden floods.

Miss Bond, the victim of the outrage near Blue Mound, Ill., is reported to be recovering. The evidence against Clements, Pettit, and Montgomery is growing in strength. Two of them have forfeited their bonds.

The Tariff Commission has decided to take all the testimony in a body, but it is understood that one of the members will devote himself to the preparation of a new tariff bill to be presented as part of the report.

"Doc." Leighton, of Coldwater, Michigan, resident, while adjusting the harness about a stallion's head Saturday, was so bitten and otherwise maimed by the animal that his removal to the hospital was necessary.

Mont Robbins, whose father, ex-Congressman William Robbins, was assaulted by L. Mott, at Statesville, N. C., on account of a bitter political speech, went to Iredell county, where Mott lived and killed Mott for the attack on his father.

There was rioting at Jersey City arising out of the freight-handlers' strike. Italian workmen were assaulted by the strikers, and retaliated with pistol shots, killing one person and wounding several. One Italian, in fleeing from the strikers, was drowned.

Mrs. Hawks, of Syracuse, N. Y., was returning from a saloon one night recently with a pitcher of beer, when she met her husband, who was intoxicated. He pulled out a jack-knife, stabbed her to the heart, and she fell dead. He glories in the atrocious crime.

Editor Cowles, of Cleveland, has entered suit against the Catholic Bishop Gilmour for malicious libel. Gilmour, it is alleged, charged Cowles with religious persecution of his (Cowles') daughter, and the journalist thinks he has been injured $25,000 worth.

A colored man named McTaylor, in Webster parish, La., maltreated a white lad and then fled for safety. He was pursued by the boy's father and two others, brought back, tied to a tree and shot to death, and the vultures picked his bones bare.

Editors Gaines and Sears, of Louisville, indulged in a street fight over a journalistic quarrel. Several shots were fired, but no serious damage was inflicted. A storekeeper, a block away, was more severely injured by a stray bullet than either of the belugerents.

The Warden of the District prison is daily implored in letters from private parties and organizations for pieces of the rope used in hanging Guiteau. Though it is generally believed the assassin's remains are now at the Medical Museum, the jail officials say they have not been removed to their knowledge.

Mary Eglington Barr, daughter of the Rev. Mr. Barr, a well-known Episcopalian clergyman of St. Louis, has filed a suit to set aside her father's will. She claims her parent's mind became diseased through intemperance and the use of opiates, and he bequeathed all his property to charitable institutions.

The number of bodies recovered at the scene of the Sciota horror on the Ohio river is now fourteen. Forty persons are still missing and are believed to be under the wreck. Heartrending sights were witnessed as the bodies were taken from the water and identified. The anguish of friends looking for lost ones is indescribable.

The incorporators of the Garfield Monumental Association held a meeting at Cleveland recently and selected a board of trustees, who organized by electing Governor Foster for President, and ex-President Hayes and Governor Cornell for Vice Presidents. The contributions so far approach $120,000.

A distressing death from hydrophobia occurred at Chicago Thursday. The victim, a little child only 5 years old, was conscious, in moments of respite from frothing and barking paroxysms of his approaching end, and bade his little sister a pathetic good-by, not daring to kiss her lest he should bite her, as the wretched cur had bitten him.

A Durango (Col.) special says: Savaró, one of the Indian police, killed a Western Indian yesterday at the Southern Ute Agency. Ignacio, the Chief of the Southern Utes, fears that they will retaliate on the white settlers. Indian Agent Patton has notified the Commander at Fort Lewis to warn the settlers of the danger.

Foreign.

The number of "suspects" still languishing in Irish jails is 172.

ALL accounts agree in reporting ve poor crop prospects in England.

At Copenhagen rumors are abroad that the Russian Emporer will not be crowned until 1883.

In a railway collision near Cork, Ireland, thirty persons were injured, twelve mortally.

The Irish repression bill passed its third reading in the House of Lords without division.

Fears are expressed at Amsterdam that the Dutch iron-clad Adder, has been lost with all on board.

Russian frontier authorities have been instructed to facilitate a return of the Jews driven there by persecution.

Two-thirds of the committee of the French Senate having charge of the divorce bill, are opposed to the measure.

A Paris journal asserts General Skobeleff suicided because his connection with the Nihilists was about to be exposed.

The rainy weather in England has seriously hurt the wheat crop. As a result, values of grains are mounting rapidly.

A Dublin journal is authority for the statement that the Government intends to employ bloodhounds to track assassins.

The collapse of a temporary trestle Friday, on the Canada Atlantic Railway, killed three laborers and wrecked five cars.

The report that bloodhounds were to be used in Ireland to track murderers is denounced by Lord Harcourt, Home Secretary.

The British Cabinet highly disapproves of the action of the Canadian Government in resolving for home rule in Ireland.

Twenty thousand pounds is now offered by the British Government for the discovery of the murderers of Cavendish and Burke.

Hanlan, who has recovered his usual health, issues a challenge to maintain his supremacy as the champion oarsman of the world.

The Sultan has presented Minister Wallace with a painting representing a Turkish girl, but the General has not yet formally accepted the gift.

The Irish bishops and archbishops have determined to discountenance the Ladies' Land League. A note to the priests has been prepared on the subject.

General Skobeleff will be buried at Spash, province of Kazan. It is thought his complaint was due to a wound received at the attack on Plevna.

Arrests were made at Moscow on the 8th inst. of several prominent personages. They intended to blow up the buildings occupied by the secret administrative bureau.

Gladstone has determined to accept the decision of the Commons on the amendment to the repression bill, and the cloud in the political sky of Great Britain has dissolved.

The Friendly Islands were swept by a hurricane and tidal wave on the 25th of June, causing dreadful havoc. Ships foundered, seamen were drowned, and houses and churches were leveled. One island was completely desolated.

The London Daily News, commenting on the Egyptian situation, says it would be penny wise for England to estimate the cost of armed intervention, which it places between four and five million pounds sterling.

The Canadian Government intends to offer large indncements to immigrants to settle in the Northwest Territory and Manitoba, and immigration agents will be appointed both at points in the Dominion and in the United States.

It is believed that British armed intervention in Egypt is unavoidable.

A notice preliminary to calling out the reserves was prepared and dispatched to the military authorities in Great Britain, and 20,000 arms have been distributed in the military centers. Bombay papers announce orders have been received there for the dispatch of troops to Egypt. If the building of earthworks at Alexandria is continued, fighting may be looked for at any moment

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, July 5th.

SENATE—The consideration of the National bankrupt bill was postponed until next session. The bill to create a Territory of Pembina was discussed.

HOUSE—The naval appropriation bill was considered.

THURSDAY July 6th.

SENATE—The river and harbor bill was considered.

HOUSE—The naval appropriation bill was passed—yeas, 119; nays, 76. In Committee of the Whole the sundry civil appropriation bill was considered.

FRIDAY, July 7th.

SENATE—The consideration of the River and harbor bill was continued.

HOUSE—The sundry civil service appropriation bill was further considered.

SATURDAY, July 8th.

SENATE—Various amendments to the House bill to reduce interval taxation were submitted and referred. The river and harbor appropriation bill was further considered.

HOUSE—The Sundry Civil appropriation bill was further considered.

MONDAY, July 10th.

SENATE—The river and harbor appropriation bill was further considered.

HOUSE—The conference report on the bill to extend National Bank charters was agreed to, and the bill sent to the President. The Sundry Civil appropriation bill was further considered.

TUESDAY, July 11.

SENATE—A number of bills were reported from Committee's. The river and harbor bill was reported from the committee of the Whole.

HOUSE—The Sundry Civil appropriation bill was further considered.

THE STATE.

The wheat crop of Gibson county will not fall much short of two million bushels.

Henry Clauve, a Miami county farmer, has recovered $150 for a horse killed by a stray bullet from an air gun at the county fair last summer.

The bottle department of DePauw's New Albany glass-works has closed for the season. This year about 1,370,000 fruit jars of Mason's and other patents were made. This is not quite as many as were made last year.

Mrs. Vernans Washam, of Connersville, was cleaning a can in which Paris green had been used for killing potato bugs, and it is thought by the physicians, inhaled some of the poison, both from the Paris green and the bugs, which caused her death.

Matilda Webb, a colored woman, who has been an inmate of the Floyd county asylum sixty years, died in that institution, aged 115 years. She came from Virginia to Indiana with George Rodgers Clark, and remembered many of the incidents of those early days. She lived many years in Harrison county.

Madison had a worthless fellow over seven feet tall, who represented himself to be an Indian doctor and chief, but gave the lie to his profession by working occasionally when he got out of whisky and nobody would trust or treat. Finally he was sent to the poor house and died there. Now the whisky has been boiled out of his bones, and they have been sent to the medical museum at Washington to be wired and exhibited as the largest skeleton in America.

The dormitory soon to be erected at Hanover college will be seventy-four by thirty-nine and one-half feet, three stories high, with a basement in which will be the kitchen, dining room, storeroom, etc. The dormitory will be erected just east of the house occupied by Prof. Morse, on the south side of the road. The structure complete will cost about $7,000. It will be built for the accommodation of young lady students, but as only a few are likely to attend during the next term, it will be occupied by the gentlemen students. A larger dormitory is contemplated for the gentlemen when the one now to be erected will be occupied by the lady students.

WELL-POSTED guessers estimate the wheat crop of this State at 50,000,000 bushels.

THE House of Congress has passed a bill giving Terre Haute $150,000 for a public building. If money is to be squandred that way, Indiana is entitled to her share.

HON. GEO. W. FRIEDLY, the tall and popular Republican leader, of Lawrence county, has been nominated by President Arthur to be Register of the Land Office at Helena, M. T.

HON. HENRY C. MEREDITH died on the morning of the 5th inst., at his residence in Cambridge City, of pneumonia. He was one of the most prominent young men in the State, and his death will be mourned by a very large circle of friends and acquaintances.

A Gorgeous Boston Spectacle.

The great Chicago fire is to be reproduced, on a reduced yet extensive scale, in a Boston Summer garden. The spectators will look across a lake at a section of old Chicago, which will take fire and burn with historical accuracy. "Over 150 persons," says the manager's glowing announcement, "will take part in the representation, as citizens, firemen, etc. Fire engines, drawn by real horses, will battle with the blaze, boats on the lake will take away the fleeing populace, railroad trains conveying engines from other cities will dash into the burning town, and everything possible will be done to give the event the air of reality."

TABLE TALK.

The biggest thing on ice—the profit.

Rice is half a cent a pound in China.

The Sultan of Morocco has 304 wives.

Men's nightgowns with pockets are advertised.

Colorado flour is said to have much alkali in it.

Next year will be the centennial of the first balloon.

Senator Windom was a tailor in a small Ohio town.

The "Mellow Bugs" are a club of colored people of Georgia.

Hotel and restaurant waiters are kicking against civil serv-ice.

Looking fixedly at the blade of an open penknife cures hiccough.

"Making a rampse" is the Colorado phrase for making a lucky hit.

There are only three meals a day now on some of the ocean steamers.

English belles cut their hair short on the neck, and part it on one side.

Six tiny birds, with a gilt spit stuck through their vitals, are a new jewel.

Good Americans this year are not waiting until they die to go to Paris.

Fashionable ladies of Newport will introduce postillions there this season.

Canned lobster and salmon is interfering with the use of sardines in Europe.

To refuse to be vaccinated means a term in the work-house at Nashville, Tenn.

A home for broken down mechanics is proposed by the New York building trades.

The degree of LL. D. has been conferred on President Arthur by Union college.

There is one international law the newspapers believe in, and that is extra'dition.

Dr. Helmbold, of buchu fame, is in the Pennsylvania insane asylum at Norristown.

It is conquer or die with the good doctor; but the patient is expected to do the dying.

Jewelers say their trade in fancy novelties is better this year than for many seasons.

A man at Sheridan, Arkansas, 65 years old, is the father of twenty-four living children.

Senator Hill's cancer was caused by nicotine, which got in a blister on his tongue while he was smoking.

The United States are estimated to produce 30 per cent. of the grain of the world and 31 per cent. of the meat.

A special corps of policemen in citizen's dress is detailed at Central Park to protect the flower beds from thieves.

Germany and Russia are both testing improvements in flying-machines for use in war or otherwise. The news will gladden many a lonely crank.

The locomotives now in use in Kansas, if coupled together would cover eight miles of track, and the passenger cars would cover about four miles.

A woman in Laurenceville, Quebec, seventy years old, recently gave birth to a child who bids fair to live to comfort its parents in their declining years.

A cable dispatch that "a mine was discovered in a street in Moscow, Russia," was headed by an innocent journalistic head writer as "a bonanza in Moscow."

Mississippi taxes persons traveling with young trees for setting, $5 each county. Nurseries sending trees that do not grow are under bonds to make all losses good.

Salt, sugar and tobacco, the three chief taxable articles of general consumption, contributed during the year 1881-'82 about $21,500,000 to the Germany treasury.

The Belgian government is about to adopt pulverized meat for an army ration. One pound of the article is said to be equal in nutritive power to six pounds of fresh beef.

In memory of his only daughter, who died in Paris last winter, Mr. Charles G. Francklyn intends to build a memoral home for friendless children at Long Branch.

Charles W. Knight, of Delaware, now 67 years of age, had been deaf since childhood. Recently during his sleep his hearing was restored, and it is now as sharp as anybody's.

Georgia has probably the smallest foreign-born population of any State, only 10,564 out of 1,542,000 total; she probably has also the largest per cent. native to her own soil, over 1,400,000.

"I need not ask if you are familiar with the works of Emerson," said a nice young man to a nice young lady. She said: "I am not so very familiar; but little brother has his song-book."

A workman in an iron mill in Phoenixville, Pa., last week rolled a round, three-quarter inch bar of iron 136 feet in length. This is claimed to be the longest bar of iron of that size ever rolled.

When an English visitor to Rome asked Garibaldi what religion he professed, the general replied: "The religion of humanity—the religion Christ taught by precept and example."

The hand holding the torch of Bartholdi's statue of Liberty has been taken down from the place it long occupied in Madison square, New York, for shipment to France to be fitted to the arm.

The Norwich Bulletin tells of a woman who called on a city missionary for assistance, stating that she had a second-hand wooden leg, which did not fit very well, and if he would sell it for her she would esteem it a great favor.

Willing to Give a Fair Show.

Detroit Free Press

It is related of a Maryland deacon whose peaches are first in the New York market that, having company at his farm house one evening recently, a terrific thunder storm came on and shook things up worse than an explosion in a crockery store. Everybody was thoroughly frightened, and directly after a blinding flash one of the visitors anxiously asked:

"Friends, don't you think we had better kneel and ask for protection?"

"No, Brother Jones," protested the deacon. "I have just had a lightning rod put on the house at an expense of $36, and I propose we hold off and give her a fair show to do business.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Dr. Lamb's course regarding Guiteau's brain is the subject of much adverse criticism. It seems that Lamb is the correspondent of the Medical Journal, of Philadelphia, and that he is determined to rob the daily press for the benefit of that journal, and at the same time gain a little cheap notoriety.

While nothing positively is known regarding Guitean's body, it is probable that it has been removed to the Army Medical Museum, located in the building where Lincoln was assassinated, and the flesh removed from the skeleton, which will occupy a position near a section of Booth's spinal column on exhibition there.

The killing of Colonel Blair, the Greenback candidate for Governor of South Carolina, is denounced as a political murder for the purpose of checking liberalism there.

The indications are that the Stalwarts are thoroughly in favor of a new State convention in Pennsylvania. The National Republican, which is understood to reflect the President's views, is out this morning favoring the withdrawal of the candidates, and a new convention.

Secretary Chandler appears to be bringing smart navy officers to a realization of their duties. Besides ordering Commodore Shufeldt home, he has written Commander Gorringe a note that he (Chandler) is Secretary of the Navy, and any suggestions he has regarding the rebuilding of the navy should be addressed to him, instead of the New York Chamber of Commerce.

Scientists are raising doubts regarding the correctness of the theory advanced by naval officers that De Long's remains will continue intact all summer. They say it is probable that if the summer is the same as usual in those regions decomposition will set in before the middle of August.

Mr. Springer to-day attempted to get through the bill appropriating $25,000 for the purchase of the ground adjoining the Springfield, Ill., postoffice, in order to secure the removal of the livery stable which stands near the postoffice, but was ruled out of order.

Sunset Cox, of New York, was never so promptly and effectually silenced by a single retort, since his career in the House, as he was to-day. He was attacking Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, and speaking of his record as having employed Eph Holland, a Democratic gambler, to help him carry his election, referred to it as "the seduction of a Democratic prostitute." To this Butterworth responded with a retort which was something of a play upon the name of the New York member, and the remark that he was "irritating but not satisfactory." This was a staggering blow to Cox. The Republicans roared and applauded, and he sat down pale and without a word. In all his history in the House, he was never so completely shut up. Later, he rallied, and, getting the floor, denounced Butterworth's remarks as those of a blackguard, but Butterworth replied that he thought Cox's remarks more offensive than his, but he was willing to withdraw his remarks if Cox would do the same. The matter then dropped.

There are indications of a great exodus of colored people from South Carolina to Arkansas next fall. It is now thought that this transfer of colored voters may have an important effect on politics in Arkansas.

The Republicans still hope to get up the Smalls-Tillman contested election case in the House before adjournment, but it is scarcely probable that they will be able to get a quorum. Of the twenty-two contested cases in the House six still remain to be acted upon by the committee.

Democrats here are manifesting much uneasiness regarding Tuesday's convention in the Eighteenth Illinois District, as they see that the prospects for returning Morrison, their tariff champion, are very poor. They propose to make a vigorous fight, however.

State organizations among the department employes are responding to Hubbell's circular, not only with money, but by the adoption of resolutions condemning those employes who won't help the party.

It has been semi-officially announced that the Republican Committee intends to send no campaign fund circulars to women employes, and that their contributions will be returned to those who have received and responded to them.

Secretary Folger is so busy that he defers the issuing of a bond call next week.

Rev. Dr. Hicks is coming in for his share of criticism, as he seems to be working the Guiteau case to get all the advertising possible. He is trying to get up a quarrel with District Attorney Corkhill now, regarding certain points of the case.

The internal revenue receipts the past year were nearly $150,000,000, being $11,000,000 in excess of the preceding year.

It is hardly probable that the amendment to the Interal Revenue bill, determined upon by the Senatorial caucus last night, will be accepted by the House, and, if adopted, it may defeat the bill this session.

Reports from San Francisco show that there is great suffering among the Chinese, on account of lack of employment, the employers having combined against them.

The second mining expedition of the season has just started for Alaska, where it is expected to open a very rich silver mine, exceeding in value anything known in this generation. The company prospected the grounds last season, and is said to be sure of great success.

Secretary Chandler will to-day telegraph to Engineer Melville, of the lost steamer Jeannette, giving him permission to return home with his party.

The Senate Committee on the District of Columbia agreed to report favorably the nomination of ex-Senator West for District Commissioner. There was considerable opposition on the part of Democratic members, based on West's political course in Louisiana, and the vote in his favor was strictly a party one.

The large oil painting of President Garfield used in the House of Representatives on the occasion of the Garfield memorial services, has been hung in the main hall of the Executive Mansion. The painting of Mrs. R. B. Hayes, presented by the temperance people of the country, has been assigned a permanent place on the wall of the green parlor.

It is announced by those in the confidence of Senator Cameron that the meeting of the Pennsylvania Republican Committee last Wednesday resulted in the determination not to hold a new convention. If there is any compromise, it will be by the work of the central committees of the two organizations. Mr. Cameron is unalterbly opposed to removing Gen. eral Beaver, as he says he is the strongest candidate. He is willing, however, to compromise on the other candidates.

The fight in the First Minnesota District against Mr. Dunnel by the friends of Windom, who fear Dunnell as a Senatorial aspirant, is attracting much attention here. The latest advices show that Dunnell is ahead, and is likely to be renominated.

The announcement of the fact that Guiteau's bones are bleaching in the sun on the roof of the Medical Museum, draws a large number of the curious there to-day. The bones, it is said, were removed from the boiling vat Saturday and washed. They will be exposed to the sun daily for two weeks to bleach, after which they will be wired together, and the skeleton will then be ready for inspection. The bones are constantly guarded on the roof by a colored man, to prevent the possibility of their being stolen.

A good deal of interest is felt in to-morrow's developements before the Grand Jury. It is a little uncertain whether Walsh, the expected witness, can be found. Walsh is said to have made statements indicating that Senator Kellogg got half of the $20,000 that Contractor Price claims to have paid Brady for "expiditing" a star-route in Texas, by which Price made an additional $20 000 yearly.

An error has been discovered in the Internal Revenue bill by the use of the word "monthly" instead of "annual," by which the tobacco tax on dealers is greatly reduced.

Nobody now expects an adjournment before August. A flood of amendments to the Internal Revenue bill is being offered in the Senate. The Democrats say they will have the duty on salt removed before the session closes.

Rev. Dr. Hicks says he will pay no attention to Mrs. Scoville's letter, and intimates that he suspects her to be insane.

It is said that the bouquet which Mrs. Scoville endeavored to convey to Guiteau on the day preceding his execution has been analysed, and enough arsenic was found in it to kill a dozen men.

Letter From Dakota.

Having just returned from a long ride over the prairie and along the banks of the Missouri river, I will attempt to give a fair description of what is to be in the near future the great wheat growing district and stock ranches of North Central Dakota Territory.

After leaving Bismarck we traveled along the banks of the Missouri river, taking notes memoranda of the valuable railroad and Government lands, and every few miles stopping to chat with some lone farmer who had built a "shock" of prairie sod and had broken and planted his ten acres. The greater number of these settlers were young men either of foreign birth or foreign descent, and are without exception educated and industrious. Many of these immigrants came from Sweden and we found one colony, said to consist of 300, who had taken claims and had actually spaded the tough prairie sod with sharp sticks and spades, being too poor to hire their breaking done, and very few of them having teams. This colony is from Russia, and are Russian peasants who have been assisted by American associations. When they come to Bismarck from their distant settlements to do their trading they are without exception the most orderly, law abiding and polite class that visit the city, and are receiving encouragement and attention from their eastern friends.

Now in regard to the district over which we traveled along the river, I can say that to all appearances it is as rich as the prairies of Illinois, and so far as developed is well adapted to grain and stock raising; and as the first apple trees have been planted as an experiment this spring, and the growing of every other kind of fruit has been equally neglected, it is impossible for your correspondent to give an opinion as to what can be grown here.

At this writing the markets are well supplied with strawberries and gooseberries, and other small fruits grown in the gardens of Bismarck, and the plumb crop and grapes, so far as heard from, bid fair to yield a bountiful crop. Wheat and oats, and other small grain are waist high and as we approached ex-President R. B. Hayes' farm, with its 380 acres of wheat, my traveling companion remarked how it resembled a deep inland lake, moved by the wind; the wheat on this farm is heavier and has a better appearance for an immense harvest than any field we saw, and we are told this is due to the manner in which this farm is cultivated, and that ex-President R. B. Hayes, has supplied his superintendent with the best of teams and machinery.

There is no country in which the industrious and intelligent farmer receives a better reward, than in North Central Dakota Territory; and in no farming district does careful cultivation appear to better advantage.

I write this short letter for the benefit of my Eastern friends who may be anxious to hear something about the substantial features of this Territory, as it is certainly the natural resources of a new country that are most interesting to the immigrant.

Can you grow wheat, oats and other grains? Is it a good stock country? Can you grow fruit? etc., are the questions asked by the intelligent immigrant.

Now I wish to call the attention of the young farmers and tenant farmers of the East who are anxious to become owners of large farms, to the chances that this new country offers to those who come in time. There are millions of the finest farming lands still in the hands of the government, and a young man (I say young men because we don't want old men who have spent their vitality among the grubs and rocks of timbered regions and in the miasmas and swamps of the Wabash;) can come here with a little capital and for $32 can enter 320 acres, and by careful management can secure 480 acres; which is certainly land enough for one man to cultivate. And at present the immigrant has an opportunity of locating his claim on small streams, and by this means secure plenty of stock water. Yet, it is even difficult now to secure fine lands near the railroad, and the time is not far distant when the lands along the Missouri river for many miles will be entered.

Lands near stations are selling from $9 to $12.50 per acre, but these are choice railroad sections that were purchased several years ago, when J Gould and the Northern Pacific were in trouble.

I will explain to you what the Western farmers calls first class land in North Central Dakota Territory. It is land that is as level as a house floor, and every foot of which can be cultivated without stopping for a ditch or rock, from one end of the section to the other. It seems to me that if the enterprising young farmers of the Eastern States knew more of the natural resources of this country, and the chances that it offers for fine farms, they would not leave the American Charitable Associations to seek immigrants among foreign Swedes and Russian Jew peasants.

The remark of an Iowa stock raiser a few days ago upon the inducements offered by this new country to immigrants is worthy of quotation: "Gentlemen, my opinion of this country is that if a man would come here and simply take advantage of his 'rights,' that is secure the three hundred twenty acres, and then buy twenty-five head of cattle and a few sheep, and then do nothing for the next ten years, except hold his land and attend to the increase of his stock, he could sell out for $60,000 at the expiration of this period."

GEORGE T. WEBSTER.

An Army of Frogs.

Marysville (Cal.) Appeal.

There were many thousands of little frogs hopping about the streets leading up from the slough yesterday morning. They were nearly all of uniform size, about as large as a two-bit piece. On Second street, between E and D, the ground for hours seemed fairly alive with them. They were all moving in the same direction, keeping up a line of march from the slough. When a cross street was reached some would turn to the right and some to the left, but the main army kept straight on. Every team that passed through the street killed dozens of them. They appeared not only on Third street, but also on all the other streets in the neighborhood of the slough, traveling away from it in all directions, east and west and north and south. By noon the frogs had become scarce, and later in the day all had vanished. What became of them is a mystery. The greater portion of them must have been stamped in the mud, and multitudes hopped through cellar and sewer gratings into oblivion. None were seen to turn back toward the slough, of all the multitudes that issued from it. Similiar swarms of frogs have at different times appeared in this city. On a summer's day, some years ago the Fifth street grade was overrun with little frogs which emerged from the backwater of the Feather. These swarms of frogs have always been preceded by a heavy rain. The question as to the cause of their appearance in multitudes remains to be disposed of. Observation has established that they come from the water; the stories of "showers of frogs" are fanciful. The true explanation of the swarms is probably that they are frog migrations. A heavy rain puts the ground in the best condition for a frog march, and, obeying instinct, the young leave their native waters and push out to populate new ponds and marshes.

Professor Beal, of the Michigan Agricultural college, says that the young tree must be treated very much like a hill of corn; therefore raise hoe crops in a young orchard. He also, like most intelligent horticulturists, says it is a good plan to keep young trees mulched, to prevent rapid evaporation from the soil, keep the surface mellow and prevent the soil from freezing and thawing in winter, and from becoming overheated in summer.

Senator Windom isn't a bit ashamed to remark that he was once a tailor.

PRINCIPALLY PERSONAL.

The night has a thousand eyes,
  The day but one;
Yet the light of the whole world dies
  With the setting sun.

The mind has a thousand eyes,
  The heart but one;
Yet the light of the whole life dies
  When love is done.

Pretty aprons are now made of silk handkerchiefs.

Mr. Tennyson is trying to have the saloons on the Isle of Wight closed on Sunday.

Ladies would make poor railroad conductors. Their trains would always be behind.

A New Jersey woman claims to have been knocked down and severely injured by a mosquito.

The ladies of Edinburgh presented Mrs. Langtry with an address thanking her for theatrical representations.

The latest mean man is one who bought a cheap coffin for his dead wife and, finding it too short for her, sawed her feet off to make a fit.

The church is looking up in England. In a serious sketch of the new Bishop Wilberforce an English writer states that his Lordship is "a great lawn tennis player."

In the equestrian contest at Rochester, N. Y., between the Misses Peck and Pineo, ten miles, for a purse of $4,000, the former won easily in 26 minutes and 34 seconds.

Mr. William T. Frye, an aged blacksmith of Portsmouth, N. H., has beaten the anvil and blown the bellows, as apprentice, journeyman, and proprietor in one shop fifty-two years.

When Christine Nilsson was "discovered" she was fourteen years old and was singing at a country fair in Sweden to the accompaniment of a violin played by herself.

There is a Chinaman in San Francisco with red hair. His countrymen treat him with superstitious respect. At the table he has the best of everything, and at all ceremonials he takes precedence.

Mr. Gladstone is supposed to be a great admirer of Mrs. Langtry, and it is said that she is going to appear as the heroine in a drama written by Mr. Gladstone. The play is classical and very dramatic.

A colored girl living in Greene county, Ala., is sixteen years old, six feet six inches in height, weighs but sixty-eight pounds, and wears a No. 11 child's shoe. This building of girls on the Bernhardt plan should not be encouraged.

On one of his late birthdays, Isaac Holden, of the British House of Commons, who, since he was seventy, has built himself a residence costing $500,000, gave a feast, on which occasion each of his daughters found a check for a quarter of a million dollars under her napkin.

The Rev. E. J. Houghton, a member of a workingmen's club in England, recently threatened to resign if a certain Mr. Herbert should be elected a member of the committee of the club. The reason he gave was that Mr. Herbert, not having been baptized, was "neither a Christian nor a gentleman."

The gilded youth of London, as described by the London Truth, wear exceedingly tight trousers, well defined waists, slightly suggestive of corsets, light ties, and a white flower placed very near their estimable chins. Their boots taper at the toes to points so sharp as to defy nature and encourage chiropodists.

The Governors of Massachusetts can not claim to have belonged to the aristocratic classes. Talbot was a factory lad, Rice a stationer's clerk, Gaston a Connecticut store-keeper's son, Boutwell a village shop-keeper, Banks a "bobbin boy," Everett a clergyman's son, Emery Washburn a country lawyer, William B. Washburn a manufacturer, and Andrew a country merchant's son.

A COLLISION occurred between two steamers on the Ohio river containing excursion parties, at Mingo Junction, O, on the evening of the 4th, causing a loss by drowning of from twenty-five to fifty lives. One of the steamers, the Sciota, sank in three minutes after the accident, but only went down to her cabin and every life might have been saved but for a panic which caused the people on board to jump into the river. The Captain of the Sciota is reported crazed by the disaster. The collision is not accounted for.

Mr. Mackay, the California millionaire, was mentioned in a story that went the rounds of the press some weeks ago as a very ungrateful man. The gist of the story was that an old fellow who had befriended Mackay, the boy, is now allowed by Mackay, the man, to end his days in the Ulster county (N. Y.) almshouse. Mr. Mackay rises to say that he never saw or heard of the almshouse person, never was in Shandaken, as the story has it, and never was helped to an education. When about twenty-one years of age he found himself an uneducated youth at work as a laborer in the mines of Sierra county, Cal., and since then his days here have been passed on the Pacific coast.

An Owl Whips Three Men.

Pall Mall Gazette.

A son of a farmer of Marham church has been admitted into Stratton hospital, suffering from the severe injuries inflicted upon him by an owl. A pair of owls had made their home in an elm tree, and as they made raids upon farmer's chickens to supply the wants of a numerous family of young owls, one of the farmer's sons ascended the tree and secured two of the young ones, and kept them for some days, feeding them by hand. He had one of the young owls in his hand showing it to a friend, when one of the parent birds suddenly pounced upon him and struck him heavily on the head. He dropped the fledgling and defended himself with a stick, but the owl renewed the attack and wounded the boy in the eye so seriously that the sight has been destroyed. The father, who witnessed the attack, immediately killed the two young birds, whereupon the parent owl attacked him and another of his sons, inflicting wounds in the neck of both. The farmer then went for his gun but the owl escaped.

In the lexicon of youth, which fate reserves for a bright manhood, there is no such word as—fail!—Bulwer Lytton.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed. Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant. Fever and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water. Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing. Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about. To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed. Catarrh relieved and cured. Erysipelas cured. Burns relieved instantly. Scars prevented. Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

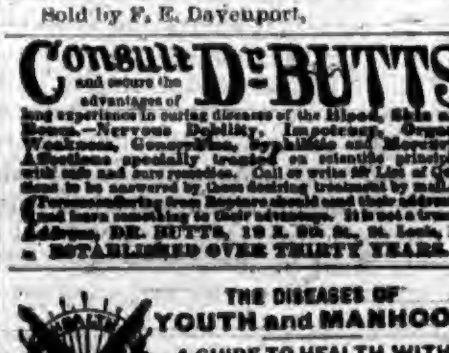
Ulcers purified and healed. Gangrene prevented and cured. Dysentery cured. Wounds healed rapidly. Scurvey cured in a short time. Tetter dried up. It is perfectly harmless. For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated. Ship Fever prevented by its use. In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell. An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c. Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use. Yellow Fever Eradicated

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!



DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

Consult Dr. BUTTS
and secure the advantages of long experience in curing diseases of the Blood, Skin and Bones.—Nervous Debility, Impotency, Organic Weakness, Gonorrhœa, Syphilitic and Mercurial Affections specially treated on scientific principles, with safe and sure remedies. Call or write for List of Questions to be answered by those desiring treatment by mail. Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss. Address, DR. BUTTS, 12 N. 8th St., St. Louis, Mo. ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF
YOUTH and MANHOOD
A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE.
BY A PHYSICIAN of 25 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks, "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

A MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y
By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of Most Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, Magnificent Horton Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous
"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."
A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.
All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.
Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.
Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.
For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the
GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,
At your nearest Ticket Office, or address
R. R. CABLE, E. ST. JOHN,
Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.
CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!
RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES
LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled
FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

The Griffin Road Machine Co.,
MANUFACTURERS;
ROAD & TRACK MACHINES,
ELYRIA, OHIO.

Goshen, Ind., April 25, 1882.
Griffin Road Machine Co.: Gentlemen: We are perfectly satisfied with the Machine purchased of you. The dressing given our streets was the best they ever received, and done in the quickest time. Every road district in the township and county ought to have one of your machines. A. M. PARSONS, Chm. Com. on Streets and Alleys; HENRY COOK, City Engineer; ANDREW MYERS, Street Commissioner.
Address inquiries to CHAS. T. ELY, Manager, Elyria, Ohio.

WHOLESALE LIST
TURNIP SEEDS!

MERCHANTS!
SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST.
D. LANDRETH & SONS,
PHILADELPHIA.

Dr. HARTER'S
A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.
GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SAMUELS,
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 28th, 1881. 304 Wash. Avenue.
It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.
IRON TONIC.
MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, JULY 20, 1882.

Democratic Ticket.

For Congress 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY,
of Allen County.
COUNTY TICKET.
For Representative,
D. D. MOODY.
For Clerk,
D. Y. HUSSELMAN.
For Auditor,
THOMAS H. TOMLINSON.
For Treasurer,
L. J. MILLER.
For Sheriff,
JOHN W. BOYDE.
For Recorder,
JOHN BUTT.
For Surveyor,
J. J. VAN AUKEN.
For Coroner,
J. J. LATSON.
For Commissioner North District,
JOSEPH SEWELL.
Southwest District,
CHRISTIAN SHEETS.
Southeast District,
OLIVER H. WIDNEY.

DeLesseps, who planned the Suez canal, has always believed that the new city at its Mediterranean end, "Port Said," would become a larger town than Alexandria. Now that the latter city is partly in ashes, the prediction is likely to be realized sooner than he expected.

There are in Indiana five establishments where knit woolen goods are manufactured. The capital invested is less than $50,000,and they employ 284 persons, young and old. By republican legislation in congress, the two millions of inhabitants in this state are to be needlessly taxed by a tariff that puts the extra profit into the pockets of these five corporations and 284 employes. And some of the people who are so heedlessly taxed seemed to like it, as they still vote for the party that does it.

Denis Kearney and the Sand Lots have declared in favor of General Stoneman, the democrat nominee for governor of California. At a meeting held a week ago last Sunday it was resolved "That we, the workingmen and anti-monopolists, in mass meeting assembled, representing as we do the sentiments of the honest people of this state, do now endorse and ratify the nomination of George B. Stoneman for governor of the state of California; and that we request and urge upon Denis Kearney to take the stump for General Stoneman and the principles he represents, and we appeal to all anti-monopolists along the line of his route to tender him a hearty welcome. We would like to see Denis Kearney make the same kind of a campaign for the election of George Stoneman that he made for the adoption of the new constitution.—Sentinel.

The bombardment of the forts of Alexandria, Egypt, by the English fleets, as mentioned in our last, began at 7 o'clock in the morning, last Tuesday. The shelling lasted all day, and when it stopped at about sundown, most of the Egyptian forts had been silenced, and some of them badly knocked to pieces. The fleet suffered a little by the return fire. Some of the ships were pierced through by shot and about forty men wounded. On Wednesday the bombardment began again but soon ceased, as a flag of truce was displayed by the forts. A few troops were landed and the guns of the nearest forts were spiked. Soon after, the town was seen to be on fire. The Egyptian troops left the city that night, and it was at once taken possession of by a mob of Arabs, who pillaged the town and killed all the foreigners they could find. A large part of the town was burned, and many acts of vandalism committed.

The Marion Mirror says: Every wiseacre in Ohio is discussing "cheat." What is it? The farmer differs from his neighbor, and the agricultural editor wades in a sea of contradictions. We propose to say cheat is cheat. To establish that all cheat does not come from and has no connection with wheat, we propose the following: Our Senior last year bought of Mrs. Patten the rear end of the Patten property, 125x132 feet, fronting upon South Street. From time immemorial this lot has been closely cropped each year, and corn and potatoes have been the crop upon cultivated ground. Last season it was let grow up; the same this season. Last year there was a weedy growth but no cheat noticeable. This season there is a perfect ocean of cheat; the rankest growth we believe that can be found anywhere. It is in the grass, on the cultivated ground, by the sidewalks, in the ditches, in fact everywhere. This cheat farmers can depend upon has no possible connection with or relation to wheat or other grain. It has been associated however with timothy, to some extent, and its appearance does not disprove the theory that it may originate with the grass. M. E. Burke, the New Bloomington warehouse owner and grain buyer, has examined it and is puzzed by the results. Any farmer interested in the cheat question can gain considerable light by an examination of this growth mentioned.

They had a strike in the Massachusetts state prison,at Concord,the 4th of July. The prisoners asked to be allowed to celebrate independence day after the style of their more fortunate neighbors. This not being allowed by the prison authorities they refused to go to work. In fact they had begun their holiday by making all sorts of noises, yells and howls as early as midnight. Morning came and they quietly marched to breakfast. But about noon the racket began again. Many boxes of presents had been sent by friends for the use of certain of the prisoners on that day, and these were given them. This seemed to arouse those who had received nothing of the kind and they broke out afresh. All the officers could do seemed of no avail. The whole prison became a scene of the greatest tumult and confusion. The bed-steads in the cells were pounded violently on the stone floors, bars were rattled, songs were sung, and shouts and yells resounded everywhere. The officers tried every means to keep them quiet. But the enraged and reckless mob only replied by telling them "to go to h—ll, this is the Fourth of July." The racket ceased only on the morning of the 5th, when the men went quietly to their work.

At what time in the near past did the editor of the Press become a temperance advocate? Can any one remember? A few years ago, when the temperance reform movement in Waterloo, was doing such a world of good, in saving worthy men from their unfortunate condition, where was his eagle plume then? Who saw it floating at the front of the fight? Who saw his friendly hand extended to assist a fallen brother to rise in his manhood and be a free man once more? An electric light, and a compound microscope could not have discovered such a thing. But now he gently chides the editor of the Courier for a lack of temperance principles, and almost hints that we will oppose the prohibition amendments for party sake. For whose sake has he now become the great apostle of temperance, if not for his party's sake? But no matter what the motives may be, we welcome Bro. Baxter to a place in the great temperance army, and hope he has come to stay.

"For quantity and quality of matter" devoted to the Courier, last week's Press does "get away withall of its cotemporaries." His increasing interest in the temperance movement is sudden and almost unaccountable. But the funniest thing comes in at about the close of the column article, when he suggests that a new secretary be appointed by the county temperance council. That suits us, and we rise, ladies and gentlemen, to propose that life long temperance reformer, and advocate of teetotalism, C. K. Baxter, of the Waterloo Press, as a proper man to fill the place. All in favor say, aye. The ayes have it. So let it be recorded.

Hon. A. P. Edgerton, of Ft. Wayne, delivered the address at the recent commencement of the college there, every word of which is a short simple word of one syllable,—monosyllable. The address is both neat and able. In fact, it constitutes a powerful speech, and yet has nothing but these simple English words. And after all, the old style, plain, short words are the most expressive. You are never at a loss to know what meaning is intended. It don't take a dozen lawyers to help pick out the true intent of a sentence. Let our law-makers take notice of this.

For joint representative, the democracy are naming Mr. Max Dembuffsky, a promising young limb of the law at Goshen. In case that the joint representative would have to come from that side of the house, then would we consider the choice the best perhaps that might be made. Having an acquaintance with Max we are led to believe that his ability is unquestioned, and his claims for untiring service in his party are many. Undoubtedly Max will be the democratic nominee,—Bristol Banner.

"To increase the wages of protected capital, and to diminish the wages of unprotected labor," is what Congressman Carlisle, of Kentucky, declares the new tariff law to be. This law, among other things proposes to raise the tax on knit woolen goods from 35 per cent, to 80 per cent, thus compelling the mass of the people who use these articles to pay a much higher price for them, only that a few who manufacture such goods may have a higher profit.

That bill for drinks at Garfield's funeral caps the list. Not only did the pious congressman charge his varied tipple over to the general government, but it is claimed that speaker Keifer actually made the government pay five cents for "shining" up his shoes. Political economy could go no farther. Keifer belongs to the party of great moral ideas and couldn't tell a lie for five cents.

Allen Zollars, of Fort Wayne, will be a candidate for judge of the supreme court, before the next democratic state convention. W. A. Jones well known resident of Huntington, will also be a candidate for the same position. Both are gentlemen of high standing and well qualified for the position to which they aspire.

A company of silk growers will start in business at Aberdeen, Miss., in a short time.

It is believed that Swaim, the judge advocate general, will be dismissed for incompetency.

Admiral Seymour, who commands the British fleet at Alexandria, is now eighty years old. A pretty ripe age for active military service, one would think.

The streets of Alexandria have been furnished with English and Americans from the fleets, to act as police in place of the native force, who cannot be depended on.

During a recent freshet in Illinois, a board fence was nearly covered by water, but the top rail and posts were literally alive with snakes that took that plan to keep from drowning.

Georgia bids fair to rival California in mineral wonders. The latest things to her credit is a mineral well at the base of Kenesaw Mountain, from which a fair quality of ink is made.

A Japanese student at Amherst college has stocked a store with Japanese goods and these he will sell during vacation this summer in order to support him during the next school year.

The Khedive of Egypt has dismissed Arabi Pasha from his position as minister of war. If this had been done some months ago, it might have saved hundreds of lives and a ruined city.

If the pretended democrat who published a communication in the Press will have the courage to sign his name to his articles, we can tell him something that will be to his advantage.

The city of Leadville, Colorado, has put her mayor and common council in jail. She is certainly on the high road to civilization. She probably intends to purify her government from within.

A man named Fisher died a few years ago at Williamsport,Pa.,leaving $30,000 as a fund for the benefit of the widows of that place. They receive the interest only and that is distributed to them each year.

Senator Ben Harrison has developed quite a kindly feeling for his relatives. It is said he has provided places at the public crib for twenty-one of them. And there are several counties of Indiana still to hear from.

The secretary of the treasury, has called for the resignation of the superintendent of the mint of New Orleans, for alleged incompetency. Also for the resignation of the government steamboat inspector at New York City.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, died at her home in Springfield, Illinois, Sunday evening, July 16. She had been ill for some time, but Saturday she suffered a stroke of paralysis from which she did not seem to rally.

If we have lived to see Bro. Baxter a roaring temperance man, and Bro. Houser admit that our ideas on the prohibition business "hit the nail on the head," we think that is glory enough—for a short time any way.

Two Michigan girls recently went bathing in Lake Huron. Finding a log that was floating, they rode about on that until, imperceptibly, the wind and waves had carried them out into the bay. It was thirty-six hours before they were picked up.

Some of the San Francisco smokers have come to grief by smoking cigarettes made by Chinese lepers. Physicians claim to trace nearly two hundred cases of leprosy to the use of these cheap articles. Rather dear smoking.

During the eight years that Robeson was secretary of the navy, about one hundred and ninety millions were expended on our navy. But the stealings absorbed it all, and when he went out of office, we were practically without a naval force. Now he is very properly considered the leader of the republican side in congress.

We favor the plan of submitting the amendments to the people at once. Let the people vote on them this fall, and if they want these amendments put into the constitution, let it be done. If they do not want them, then let them be kept out of the constitution. What the people want, can be told by the election this fall, as well as it can by any other method.

Wabash college at Crawfordsville was fifty years old the twenty-fifth day of June. The first meeting held with a view of organizing a school there was at the residence of Rev. James Thomson, half a mile west of Crawfordsville. At this meeting it was decided to erect a building and complete all arrangements for a first-class institution. This was on the twenty-first day of November, 1832.

—George Newton is now assisting Mr. Straw in the music store, the business of the latter has become so extensive as to require an assistant. Mr. Straw has gained a reputation for honest and fair dealing in his line that is proving valuable to him.

—Men's cotton socks from 5 to 13 cts a pair. Boys' cotton socks 10 cents a pair, at McQuiston & Long's. 27-3w.

Burglary.

Monday night the dwelling of old Mr. Ditmar, who lives south of town, was entered by burglars. Mrs. Ditmar was sleeping on a couch in the dining room, as she was not feeling well. One of the burglars hit the stove pipe and roused her, and just at that moment he struck a match, giving her a full view of him. She at once screamed out, when two other robbers rushed out of the bedroom where the Mrs. D. was sleeping. Her screams awoke the old gentleman and he came running out to her assistance. The burglars began to show fight, and one of them fired off a revolver with a view to frighten the old couple rather than to kill them. A son-in-law, however, soon came to their rescue, but the burglars had by that time gained the door and made good their escape. As far as known no property was taken.

The Palace Organ Ahead as Usual.

Last week the Palace organ was brought into competition with other organs twice; once at Samuel Widney's at St. Joe, and once at John Meek's at Waterloo, and in both cases took the preference although, the other organs were offered at a lower price than the Palace could be sold for. The public is generally becoming convinced that the instruments handled by F. B. Straw are of first quality both as to tone and construction. Among the sales made last week by Mr. Straw, may be mentioned a fine piano purchased by Mrs. Maggie Clark, of Auburn, and there fine organs to other parties living near here.

Newville Normal School.

Miss Rosa V. Omo will teach a normal school in Newville, beginning August 15, and continuing eight weeks. For particulars address G. H. Munn, Newville, Ind.

Quick and Sure.

Many miserable people drag themselves about with failing strength, feeling that they are steadily sinking into their graves, when by using Parker's Ginger Tonic they would find a cure commencing with the first dose, and vitality and strength quickly and surely coming back to them. 27-4t.

A Foolish Mistake.

Don't make the mistake of confounding a remedy of merit with quack medicines. We speak from experience when we say that Parker's Ginger Tonic is stealing health restorative, which will do all that is claimed for it. We have used it ourselves with the happiest results for Rheumatism and when worn out by overwork. See adv.—Times. 27 4t.

To Agents and Canvassers.

Wanted a reliable man to canvass this city and vicinity for the sale of the best Spring Mattress ever made. To such a party good compensation and steady employment will be given. Call on, or address, the

Elkhart Steel Spring Bed Co.
East Jackson St., Elkhart, Ind.

Grateful to Invalids.

Floreston Cologne is grateful to invalids, because it is refreshing without the sickening effects of most perfumes. 27 4t.

Normal Music School.

The Northern Indiana Music School will be held at the Fort Wayne college, August 8th to 25th. J. F. Kinsey, principal assisted by Otto A. Schmidt and Princess L. Clark. This is decidedly the best and cheapest first class music school in the country.

For circulars stating particulars, address J. F. Kinsey, Fort Wayne, Ind. 27-4t

The Highest Rank.

Made from harmless materials, and adapted to the needs of fading and falling hair, Parker's Hair Balsam has taken the highest ranks as an elegant and reliable hair restorative. 27-4t.

—Dr. Brinkerhoff has made the following appointments: Defiance, Thursday, June 29, July 27, Aug. 24, Sept. 21, at Russell House. Bryan, Mondays June 26, July 24, Aug. 21, Sept. 18, at Fountain House. Fort Wayne, Fridays, June 30, July 28, Aug. 25, Sep. 22, at Mayer House.

—Colored lace buntings for the next ten days a 12½ cents per yard, at McQuiston & Long's. 27-3w.

The Heberling Shirring and Gathering Machine.

(Improved March 1, 1880.)

The only machine in the world that makes the hand-stitch. Simple, practical and perfect in operation. Doing a large range of material; such as silks, satins, velvets, alpacas, cashmeres, white goods, &c., with one or two rows of stitching at the same time.

Work more regular and beautiful than can be done by hand. Shirrs or gathers adjusted full or scant by drawing thread same as handwork. Will do the work of ten or fifteen hands. Call on Miss C. Wolsey and Mrs. Angie Kuhlman, corner of Main and Fifth street, Auburn, Indiana. 23-12.

NOTICE

To Owners of Horses, Asses, Mules, Cattle and Swine.

After July 18, 1882, any horses, asses, mules, cattle or swine found running at large within the incorporated limits of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, between the hours of sunset and sunrise will be taken up by the marshal.

In pursuance of an ordinance passed by the board of trustees of said town, June 12, 1879. By order of the town board.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, Executrix of the will of Henry G. Bickel, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.
July 1, 1882. MARY C. BICKEL, Executrix.
W. H. Dills, Attorney. 27-3w

Estray Notice.

Taken up by the suscriber at my home, one-half mile south of Hopewell church, in Jackson township, on June 18, 1882, a two-year-old colt, sorrel, with light mane and tail. The owner can have same by calling on me and paying for this notice.

Mrs. Rebecca Maurer.

Dr. D. A. Sebring, office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana.

THE
EASTERN MARKETS RANSACKED
—THE—
CHOICEST BARGAINS SELECTED

THE bulk of their goods brought away and piled up pile upon pile in Isaac Ochs' Popular store, Auburn, Indiana. Immense assortment and Tremendous Bargains in every department.

DRESS GOODS in all the latest styles and Fabrics from the cheapest to the best.

STAPLE DRY GOODS corded up, and marked at prices way below anybody else's. Must sell.

NOTIONS AND FANCY GOODS — Elegant line. Trimmings, Curtain Laces, Lambrequin Goods, Fringes, etc.,—Splendid assortment.

HATS AND CAPS

the latest styles in Fur, Wool and Straw, to suit everybody.

CLOTHING

for boys and children. The largest stock and best assortment ever brought to DeKalb County, and at Wholesale prices. See my stock before you buy. I will save you money.

CARPETS.

Largest stock in Northern Indiana. Body Brussels, Tapestry, Ingrain, Hemp and Rag,—Latest patterns, and at prices that defy competition.

TRUNKS.

Valises, etc. Everything at bottom prices. An investigation is solicited. If good goods and low prices will be an inducement—I must sell all I've got. But I can buy more.

☞ HIGHEST prices paid for all kinds of Grain.

100,000 POUNDS OF WOOL WANTED

Dont forget the Popular Store of

ISAAC OCHS, Auburn, Indiana.

SELF SATISFYING.

FACT

That our $8.00 Suits are worth $15.00
That our 9.00 Suits are worth 17.00
That our 11.00 Suits are worth 20.00
That our 14.00 Suits are worth 25.00
That our 15.00 Suits are worth 28.00
That our 1.60 pants are worth 2.50
That our two dollar pants are worth $4
That our $20 Satin Lined Suits ARE WORTH $45
That our $15 Diagonal Coats and Vests are worth 30
That our 9.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 17.00
That our 12.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 22.00

We have a stock of Clothing well worth seeing Come and convince yourself.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

HAGUE & RAUT.

North Side Public Square,

Offer at very low prices an excellent assortment of Boots and Shoes for the

SPRING AND SUMMER TRADE

From some of the best manufacturers in the country, to which they invite the attention of all who wish to buy the

BEST GOODS AT FAIR PRICES

We use the best material for our custom work. Repairing neatly done.

HAGUE & RAUT.

ATTENTION,

Country Merchants!

My Stock Embraces ALL Kinds Staple and Fancy Merchandise:

Clocks, Watches, Jewelry, Silver Ware, Optical Goods,
Musical Goods, Sewing Machines, Druggists' Sundries, White Goods, Hosiery.
Toys, Cutlery, Pictures, Frames, Mirrors,
Smokers' Goods, Sporting Goods, Japanese Goods, Fancy Goods
Notions, Stationery, Wallets, Wooden Ware, Tin Ware:
Glass Ware, Hardware, Purses

5 & 10 Cent Counter, 49 & 99 Cent Store supplies

Look up my Illustrated Catalogue (if you have not one send for it) and notice prices and style of goods on pages 6 to 63, 68 to 81, 93 to 115, 150 to 165, and so on through the book, and you will find that I am offering a SAVING to you of 10 to 25 per cent. on a large line of Staple Goods. You can order your STOCK from my Catalogue without leaving your store or paying a traveling man to come and take your order. I guarantee prices and goods to be just as satisfactory as though you were here in person to select. When in the city, give me a call before buying, and I will show you the most complete stock of Goods in the west to select from it Inside Prices.

C. M. LININGTON, IMPORTER,
145 and 147 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Rain Sunday last.

—Dress Lawns at 10 cts. per yard at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

—Lewis Covell, of Garrett, was here Monday on business.

—H. C. Bell took a trip down the Wabash road Monday.

—Miss Miller of Butler township was in town Saturday.

—Mrs. Taylor, of Illinois, is a guest of Joe. Ramier and family.

—J. M. Sommers, Waterloo, was looking over our town this week.

—Miss Towne, of Fort Wayne, was visiting in the family of Mrs. Hare this week.

—Mrs. R. Wes McBride and family, of Waterloo, spent a part of Tuesday in town.

—Remember the choice collection of nicely potted plants at Fleming's greenhouse.

—The Negro campmeeting is still in session at Waterloo. Next Monday is their big day.

—The rain storm the other night blew down one of the shade trees in the court house square.

—Quite a number of our citizens went to Waterloo, Sunday to see the colored campmeeting.

—Sam Beck, the jolly produce man, of Waterloo, took a short whirl through town Tuesday evening.

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield, will sell you goods as cheap and as good as you can get anywhere. tf.

—The wife of John Bell, who lives southwest of Garrett, died last Wednesday, of consumption.

—H. A. Winslow, one of our former teachers, now a farmer, made the Courier a pleasant visit this week.

—Rev. J. N. Fowler formely the Presbyterian minister at Waterloo, was in town a short time last Saturday.

—Fleming at the greenhouse has the nicest bed of pansies to be found anywhere. You ought to see them.

—Elmer Lowry of this place is now telegraph and ticket agent at the new station, Cedar Beach, on the B. & O.

—G. R. Cole is the agent of the Wabash, at Auburn Junction and J. M. Zent is their agent at Auburn station.

—Just received at McQuiston & Long's, 5,000 yards of dress ginghams, to sell for 10 and 12½ cents a yard. 3t

—Commissioners Kelham and Shoub were in town Monday, and made a trip into the country in the interest of the county.

—Children's and Misses' cotton hose from 7 to 18 cents a pair. Misses white gloves 10 cents a pair, at McQuiston & Long's. 37-3w.

—J. E. Thomson, of Smithfield, will be a candidate before the republican convention for representative, we understand.

—Sprinkle your currant bushes with white hellebore. It will kill the worms. The druggist will sell you enough for five cents.

—Dr. Swartz was elected president and Dr. Cowan secretary, pro. tem., at the meeting of the medical fraternity last Thursday.

—We are sorry to hear a rumor that Hon. S. S. Shutt has been a loser by investing in the Elkhart car works. Hope it is not so.

—Charley Hoff has said to his bird cage, "Come up a leedle higher." It is now at the top of the west addition to his cosy residence.

—Men's fancy shirts 50 cts. each; men's cambric collars 10 cts. per box; men's summer underwear at cost, at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

—Miss Rebecca Shull started for Findlay, Ohio, this week. She goes there to visit friends before beginning her school at Waterloo.

—Mrs. G. W. Miller, of Waterloo, stopped here awhile on her way home from a trip to Garrett, where she has been visiting friends.

—Rev. F. M. Hussey, pastor of the new Protestant Methodist church in Jackson township, dropped in to see us a few minutes Tuesday.

—We are glad to learn that Chris. Baker has settled satisfactorially with the creditors, and will hereafter conduct the business himself.

—Mr. Bicknell, of Garrett, was in town last week. Wonder if he came to see how high rents were in case he beats treasurer Miller this fall.

—Com. Urie, telegraph operator at Corunna, and F. S. McCullough of the same place were in town Sunday. Only rusticating, that was all.

—Mrs. S. B. Johnson, of Waterloo, together with her son, M. W. Johnson, and her daughter, Mrs. F. P. Day, were driving on our streets this week.

—C. C. roasted coffee 15 cents per pound; choice green coffee 8 pounds for $1.00; good tea for 25 cents a pound; Anti-Washboard soap four cakes for 25 cents, at McQuiston & Long's. 8w.

—Geo. Dalloway, one of the solid men of Altona, was among our visitors last week, as was also our friend John Downend, from the same part of the county.

—The liveliest business in town this week seems to be repairs for reapers. There seems to be an unusual amount of breakage this year. The wheat is said to be tangled.

—Our near neighbor, Arch Martin, came to town to rest up a little, yet he does more hard work than some stout young men, who say they can't get work."—Col. City Herald.

—Town is rather Sundayish this week, with every one who can be spared, out of town working in the harvest field. This is as it should be. Give the store boxes a rest, boys.

—J. McMichael, of Danville, Ill., was here a few days last week visiting his father-in-law, H. C. Bell. He is now handling ice, both by wholesale and retail, having control of a large stock.

—Insanity is in almost all cases the outgrowth of an overwrought brain. Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment removes the cause and effects a cure. Sold at F. E. Davenport's.

—Frank Brink is still suffering from the trouble in his foot. The surgeons are not yet decided as to whether it can be healed or not, but are watching it carefully to see how the disease develops.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Harter, Mrs. Lottie Osgood, Mrs. M. B. Willis and Mrs. A. S. Leas, are among those of our citizens who went to Rome City, this week, to attend the Assembly.

—Trustee Hague reports the school house east of town, ready for the roof. He intends to have it completed at once, and a fall school will be held there. Miss Nannie Hornberger will teach both fall and winter term.

—Died.— Henrietta Shull, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Shull, of this place, on Sunday July 17, 1882. Aged 3 years, 7 months and 15 days. The funeral services were at the Baptist church, Rev. Ward officiating.

—Charley Klotz has repaired his sidewalk — something that has been needed for sometime. The pedestrians who seek the country by way of the Jackson depot will thank him as long as they live.

—The public school in this place will not begin until about the first of November, at which time it is intended to have the school building completed. This will give only time for six or seven months school the coming year.

—The Normal school in Auburn commences August 7, and already we hear of numbers who will attend. Mr. Harrison is known as a successful teacher, and a school, such as he proposes to organize, should be well patronized.

—D. P. Hale has extended his good will over a distance of many hundreds of miles, and had a new sidewalk put in front of his property. Now some of those living in town should catch the idea. In fact they are beginning to see into it.

—We noticed our young friend C. J. Coats, Esq., of Butler, on the streets Saturday. His sister Letitia is still absent, visiting friends in Ohio, and will not likely return till school begins here. Then she will take charge of her department again.

—The Presbyterian church in Auburn expects to organize an excursion over the Wabash road to Detroit in a week or two. The fare will be sufficiently low to enable nearly every one to see that beautiful "City of the Straits." Get ready to go along.

—We met Frank Leas on the westbound night train at Garrett last Friday night, and had the pleasure of taking pumpkin pie with him. Frank has developed into a full-fledged express messenger, and seems to enjoy life in the rolling car.

—Mrs. Judge Lowry and her daughter Lida accompained by Fred Davis of this place looked in on the loneliness of the Courier sanctum during a temporary absence of the editor last Saturday. Sorry we did not meet them. Call again, and will try to be here.

—The early morning train going south on the Jackson road now leaves Waterloo at 6 o'clock a. m. instead of 7 a. m., making the trip one hour earlier. That is, Auburn 6:25, Auburn Junction 6:50, and arriving at Fort Wayne at 8:20 a. m. Corrected table will appear in our next.

—New potatoes are now coming into market at from forty to fifty cents a peck, and of excellent quality. The crop bids fair to be the best one we have ever had, and those who have been so long deprived of this delicious tuber, can now get their gasoline stoves ready and treat themselves to an unlimited supply.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in Auburn postoffice for the week ending July 19, 1882: Miss Pracella M. Doll, Mrs. Ed. C. Smith, Louis Hopnicht, Oliver H. Snellen, Philomen Parves, J. H. Farver, 2, John O'Neal, Abraham Mason, John E. Lung, Jas. Kruse, Seymour Carpenter.

G. W. Gordon, P. M.

—Ladies Taffeta silk gloves at 50 cts. a pair. Ladies Berlin and Lisle th'd gloves from 15 to 50 cents, at McQuiston & Long's. 27-3w.

—F. B. Straw has received another fine lot of Palace organs at his music store. Call and see him at the first door south of Abright's.

—John L. Rinehold, of Leo, came over Tuesday and did not forget to pay his regards to the Courier people. He thinks harvest will be substantially over in his part of the county this week.

—The ladies of the Presbyterian church will entertain a lawn social at the residence of Dr. Ford on next Wednesday evening. A cordial invitation to all. Sec'y.

—The little daughter of H. C. Shull, who has been sick so long, died Sunday Morning, at about 1 o'clock. The complaint seemed to be the result of a severe cold that finally became something like bronchitis. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of all.

—Quite a pleasant little party gathered at the residence of W. J. Austin Monday evening and passed a few hours in social enjoyment. Austin and his amiable wife enjoy these social hours in a high degree and spare no pains to put their guests into the same pleasant frame of mind.

Died. — Catherine Schlemmer was born in Bavaria, December 28, 1847. She was married to Adolph Pairan October 11, 1865, who with their five children still survive. She was a member of the German Reform church, a devoted and affectionate wife and mother. Died July 14, 1882, aged 34 years, 6 months and 16 days.

—The new Methodist Protestant church one mile east of Jackson Center, will be dedicated Sunnay, July 30, Rev. J. W. Walker, of Adrian Michigan will officiate. He will be assisted by Rev. W. W. Lineberry, of New Haven, Ind. A cordial invitation is extended to the public generally. All will be cared for, as ample arrangements will be made to entertain all who attend.

F. M. Hussey, Pastor.

—The Palace organs can be found in every neighborhood in and adjoining Auburn. Three of them were recently sold to parties west of town living in close proximity to each other; Mr. John Yard, Mr. Daniel Swihart and Mr. Rakestraw, who after carefully examining several other make of instruments, purchased the Palace, of F. B. Straw.

—Frank Ryan attempted to enjoy harvesting a little while, the other day. He became a humble follower of the light hearted reaper, that "sings as it goes, over the fields where the clover blows." But Frank don't sing now. His voice and his backbone are alike broken, and now he goes tearing along at the rate of an hour to the mile. It takes backbone to be a good hand in the harvest field.

—T. J. Vanduzen, disclaims all part or parcel in circulating any reports in regard to the cause of young Hensinger's death, especially as to his being killed. He believes as does every one else, that the young man died of the disease named in the paper sent from Lake View, Mountcalm county, Michigan. He wrote the letter to French at the request of W. M. Depew and family, and thinks this statement of the matter ought to be satisfactory.

—The "other fellows" have the fence now. Politicians without a courtyard fence would have to be packed in ice this hot weather. It is a cool, and even a bracing affair, and daily we see them leaning against it trying to decide which one is to be slaughtered by the democratic nominees who are now quietly resting from their labors. The republicans are talking up some first-rate men, and we hate to see them slaughtered. But it is going to be done, and we shall roll such a majority over them that they will be tortured by doubt as little as possible. It won't need any 8-to-7 business.

—Dr. Allen has a new feature or something of that sort on his new sidewalk. He lays the boards on a bed of gravel that has been raked level, and then fastens them by nailing a strip on the upper side at each end. The idea seems something like the one that compelled us to put the eye of the needle in the point instead of the way we always had done. The doctor's plan seems to be a good one, but it will be safe to wait awhile and see how it holds out. At present the boards lie even enough, and there is a great relief in the absence of the hollow rattle caused by walking over the old style of board walks.

—Mrs. Ehlers entertained her Sunday-school class last Thursday. This has been her custom, it seems, for some time, and a very pleasant and beautiful custom it is, too. Let the young be encouraged in all good things and in all good ways. And in what better way can they be thus encouraged, than by showing a personal interest in them. One of the great secrets in securing an influence with the young is by showing an interest in their every day and common-place affairs. We should show, too, that we have a genuine respect for them. Then their respect for us, and for themselves will be strengthened, and a greater influence over them, for their good, will be secured.

—F. B. Straw handles only first class pianos and organs. The Palace is the instrument for you.

Cure for Diseased Sidewalks.

The following is not going the rounds of the papers, but as there is no patent applied for, it can start out as soon as it pleases. It will be valuable to other towns as well as to Auburn: "When your sidewalks begin to curl up and flop around and trip up every one that has the hardihood to attempt a journey over them, it is a sign of some chronic disease. Some vital part is affected. If not taken in time, caries of the ribs will take place, and pus cavities form in the boards. The following formula will be found useful: Take good new oak scantling, 5 by 6 inches, and after removing the old sidewalk to a safe distance, put down your scantling. Then cover them with nice new boards nailed fast to the bed pieces by about six good fencing nails. You can get the nails at any of the hardware stores, and the lumber is usually on sale at respectable saw mills. Now remove your old material to the wood pile. Season it, and use up in small installments for fuel. By repeating this process every four or five years, you can have a fair sidewalk, live happy and when you die will have a pretty good assurance for the future." We have tried several other ways to improve the broken sidewalks in our midst, but having failed, we offer the above remedy. If you like it use it, for as we said, there is no patent. But if it don't suit, keep on throwing people down on your old sidewalks; break their legs, and rack their religious principles till you can't tell whether they are deciples of Mohammed or Bob Ingersoll, and then go to rest and sleep soundly—if you can.

At Pleasant Lake.

Rev. U. Crosley, of Utica, N. Y., will hold his third annual grove meeting at Pleasant Lake, next Sunday, July 23. Services at 11 o'clock a. m. and 3 o'clock p. m. Grand concert at 1:30 p. m. Prof. S. W. Straub, of Chicago, will sing some of his grand solos, such as "Ninety and Nine" and other gospel songs. An excellent quartette choir and Reineke's orchestra from Fort Wayne will also take part in the services. Holders of railroad tickets are admitted free to the grounds. Those having no railroad tickets are charged ten cents at the gate. Trains run from Muncie, and the fare is at reduced rates. Train leave Auburn at 10 o'clock a. m. Fare 60 cents for round trip.

Harper's Weekly.

The number of this excellent paper for July 15, has a set of illustrations showing Edison's electric railway and a full description of its working. So much of public attention has of late been drawn to this subject, that people will read this article eagerly. It is the beginning of another strange chapter in Edison's life work. Many of his inventions have been strange and startling; some are more marvelous than useful, but the electric railway, should it come into general use, will place all his other inventions in the back ground. This number of the Weekly, is in many respects interesting and valuable. Always excellent it is this time unusually so.

Cheap Excursion Rates to Colorado.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, commencing July 15th and continuing to September 25th, 1882, will sell round trip tickets to Denver at greatly reduced rates, good returning to October 31st, 1882.

The National Mining exposition, representing the mining wealth and wonders of the Rocky Mountains, will open at Denver, August 7th.

For information regarding routes, rates, etc., address Agents of B. & O. road, or W. E. Reppert, Pass. Agent, 205½ North High street, Columbus, Ohio. 29-4w.

Town Orders.

It gives us pleasure to state that our town authorities have recently taken up two of the outstanding 1000-dollar school house bonds. This reduces the old debt to $8000, and parties will soon be ready to refund the whole indebtedness at a lower rate of interest. Outstanding orders are now coming into the market at a better rate, and with present indications will soon be at par. Men with capital are seeking them as an investment and the financial outlook is in every way bright.

Harper's Monthly.

The August number has just reached us. We have often said that this excellent magazine stands at the head of all the monthlies, and this number is at least as good as any of its predecessors. We do not see how any one who loves literature of any kind could resist the temptation to get Harper's Magazine, whether his taste runs to fine pictures and illustrations or to choice and interesting reading. Get the August number and try it.

Lands and Town Lots.

Half interest in a new Dakota town and farm lands to exchange for general merchandise, cattle, horses, sheep or cash. Send for particulars and new map of Dakota, and mention paper in which you saw this notice. Address, Box 42, Scotland, Dakota.

—Gents Gauze undershirts for 25 c. each, at McQuiston & Long's. 27-3t.

CORRESPONDENCE.

SYRACUSE:

The water lilies are now in full bloom and are not only very plentiful but unusually large and brilliant.

Parties from Wabash have leased the plat of ground known as Coonrod's Island, and will improve it soon.

John Coy is now working on the section here. John will make a living anywhere as he is not afraid to work for it.

Joseph Henderson is still dishing out the choicest brands of flour at the mills here, and is as happy as a big sunflower.

Mrs. D. C. Kelley, the amiable presiding genius at the Kelley house, has been quite ill, but is now in a fair way to recover.

Daniel Zahner is flourishing at his meat market. There is now another butcher in town, which helps to divide the work but both are doing a good business.

Dr. Kelley has just returned from an extended visit which included Waterloo, but found on his return that his efficient clerk, Ed. Hill, had kept every thing in apple pie order.

Pete Finnegan, our accommodating walking boss has been taken to the west end of the road, and will likely have to move his family there soon. Pete is every inch a man, and we dislike to lose him.

Cedar Beach has many improvements Among those most readily noticed are the additions to the building, and the new facing of the bank, which has been sloped off down to the water's edge and neatly sodded. It presents a beautiful appearance viewed from the lake.

Harry Moritz, the interesting young man who captured Miss Wightman last winter, and who has since been divorced from her, was here Friday and Saturday. Harry don't seem to be fitting himself up for a sunday-school superintendent very fast. His fastness seems to run in other channels.

The Club House at Cedar Beach is fast filling up for the summer, but as it is really a private institution, pleasure seekers who do not belong to the club are expected to look elsewhere for accommodations. Hence the necessity for such new buildings and grounds as those of Jones, at Oakland Grove, and Hartsell's at Jarrett's.

Alvin Bair, the pumper, and J. E. Salsbury, agent and operator, at the B. & O., are geniuses in a mechanical point of view. They have just completed a small flying car for convenience in making short trips. It's a daisy, runs easy and rapidly, as your correspondent can testify, as he and Mr Bair made a trip up to Oakland Grove at the rate of a mile in four minutes, and it wasn't a fast day either.

The whole shore is dotted at all available points with the white tents of campers, who prefer this open air way of living for the time they remain here. Fishing, boating and swimming constitute the amusement of these detached parties during the day, and the social hours of the warm evenings are succeeded by such refreshing slumber as only the free air and absence from business and other cares will always bring.

The Kelly House, at Syracuse, too, is now considered one of the essential features of this great pleasure resort. Parties are engaging board and rooms in advance, and to this point many of the guides and others who find employment in this way every summer, come to meet their patrons and make engagements for trips or for a term of days to row, fish and in other ways assist strangers to while away the sultry summer days pleasantly.

Oakland Grove is the name of the new location for a pleasure resort, laid out by A. M. Jones. He has a fine plot of land, densely covered by a grove of small oaks and a variety of larger trees. He is fitting up a fountain and other conveniences. Here is a fine bank and clean beach, and his little steamer, the Roxy, lies conveniently near at its wharf. He has also an abundance of small boats for the use of pleasure seekers. This new resort is but one and a half miles east of Syracuse.

The boys at the depot have about given up their fountain, but they cling to the electrical machine that runs along the ledge of the office door. If these boys don't own a railroad and telegraph line themselves some day it will not be for want of "get up and dust." Indeed they have a line of wire now. It runs up to the Lake House, at which George Miles presides, and when business is dull, George can sit down in the hotel office and tell the boys when dinner is ready, and keep them posted on the news of the day generally. George used to be an editor, and he runs naturally to telegraphic connections.

A Mr. Hartsell, from Indian Village, has put up a hotel and other accommodations on the extreme southeast end of the lake, at Jarret's landing. Here is the mineral spring at which so many weary and thirsty pleasure seekers have quenched their thirst for a few years past. It bids fair to be one of the leading attractions of this popular watering place. On the south side, Mr. Vawter, of Franklin, Ind., is again making his summer home in his neat cottage on the high bank there. Other parties are preparing to make improvements in the near future, and at no distant day the entire shore will be lined with cosy summer residences.

WATERLOO:

Lockhart's new mill is fast approaching completion.

Mrs. J. V. Cooke spent Sunday visiting with the family of Cyrus Bowman, in Smithfield township.

Pretty dull in town now through these nice days. Every one is busy, and tramps are evidently inclined to keep away until the work is nearer done.

Our soldier boys have now got back from the great encampment at Indianapolis and brought their arms off the field with them. And now if any "furrin foes" want to make a raid on our city, tear up our railroad track or devastate our peaceful cabbage patches, let them blaze away.

Mary Beard, daughter of J. D. Beard, started last Friday for the far west. She will visit friends in Carrol county, Iowa, and go from there to Colorado, where she will remain awhile with relatives in that state. Miss Beard has been a successful teacher in this county and Steuben, and has a wide circle of friends who unite in wishing her a pleasant trip.

Rob. Patterson has some beets grown from seed that have blossomed and gone to seed the first summer. He also has some potatoes that are growing entirely under ground. Young potatoes are growing in the hills, but no tops are to be seen. Rob. seems to have lost his grip on that garden. He can't even make his vegetables follow the beaten path that their forefathers have trod for ever so many summers. He is too good natured by half. He ought to go out into that garden and raise his voice in behalf of garden sass reform. We know that the Courier editor believes in moral suasion as a means in raising garden truck, and that he believes you shouldn't spoil a good hoe in order to bring destruction on a few innocent weeds.

ST. JOHNS:

Mrs. Harriet Reever is now visiting with relatives living in Wells county.

Our friend Jared F. Housel is cutting his wheat with a cradle. Jared still clings to the cradle.

The St. Johns band is making preparation to entertain the crowd at the republican county convention.

Our enterprising farmer Daniel Terry has a new reaper and mower. He is bound to keep up with the times.

For sale: A Champion reaper and mower almost new. It will be sold cheap. Inquire of James Quince, St. Johns, Ind.

We note the presence of George Larimore again. He has returned home from a visit to his relatives near Pleasant Lake.

James Quince went to Ft. Wayne this week and got a new supply of goods. Give him a call; he is selling at bottom prices.

We see father Reever is up again from a severe spell of sickness. We are glad of that. There is some hope of his recovering.

On Saturday evening of last week, about the hour of midnight, James Quince's residence was broken into by parties, who dragged his pantaloons from under the pillow of his bed expecting to find a big haul, but were disappointed by finding only a pocket knife and button hook. He found the pantaloons, minus knife and hook, opposite Mr. J. F. Housel's residence, at St. Johns. Quince generally has a better place to deposit his money than in his pantaloons pocket after night.

By one that knows.

BUTLER CENTER:

Frank Groves and Charlie Zerkle the barbers, do a thriving business on Saturdays and Sundays.

Schools are closed for the spring terms, and the children are now busy helping what they can in the summer work. Some of our more advanced scholars are preparing to go to the Normal school in Auburn, when it commences.

Some of our farmers who have so much trouble to get hands, ought to send to New York for some of the recently landed immigrants. If it takes six or seven hands a day, to supply the demand, the market will soon be exhausted.

Joshua Miller, says he has had trouble enough with hogs in his wheat field. The next time they make a raid on him, he will put them in the pen and try the strength of the stock law. So those who have hogs running at large would do well to look a "leedle out."

Wheat harvest is progressing finely here, and the sound of the reaper is heard in the land. By the last of this week nearly all the wheat in this section will be put in shock. Farmers are feeling more encouraged. Fruit prospect here is rather poor. Oats generally look well.

Miss Nancy Miller and Miss Lizzie Tess were visiting the mother of the former last Saturday and Sunday. Miss Nancy thought she would try her muscle binding wheat for her brother, but she cut her fingers on the straw, and so concluded it would be safer to go back to Auburn and bind dresses for Mrs. Cowhick.

THE BELLS OF SAN BLAS.

From Mr. Longfellow's last poem in the July Atlantic.

What say the Bells of San Blas
To the ships that southward pass,
For the harbor of Mazatlan?
To them it is nothing more
Than the sound of surf on the shore—
Nothing more to master or man.

But to me, a dreamer of dreams,
To whom what is and what seems
Are often one and the same—
The Bells of San Blas to me
Have a strange, wild melody,
And are something more than a name.

For bells are the voice of the church;
They have tones that touch and search
The hearts of the young and old;
One sound to all, yet each
Lends a meaning to their speech,
And the meaning is manifold.

A DAY'S LESSON.

It was striking 1 o'clock on a cold Wintry night, as a carriage, filled with yawning belles, rolled over the pavement of Union Square and drew up before a comfortable freestone house on Fifteenth street. "Brother Jim," who had ungallantly preferred the society of the coachman and a cigar, descended to the carriage door and commenced an involuntary schottische as the cold from the flagstones struck through his patent leather pumps. Sallie, the oldest Miss Lockwood, roused her sister and cousin from a short nap on the back seat, and stepped out into the moonlight, as tall and stylish in her hood and wraps as she had been an hour before in ball-room. Nett and Isabel, all curls and rigolettes and shawls, supported by Charlie Lockwood, the just graduated collegian of the family.

Brother Jim, being what is termed a "fast" young man in society, thought it necessary to counteract the velocity of his actions by the slowness of his drawl and the languor of his general manner, where his sisters or the young ladies of their set were concerned. He left it to Charlie to turn up the gas and get Isabel a glass of water, as he plunged his hands as far as possible into his "bang up", and, leaning on the banisters, declared parties "uncommonly slow," and "all the women got up in the same style every night in the season."

"No variety," exclaimed the injured young gentleman, preparing to shuffle off to bed in advance of the young ladies.

Charlie whisked them a gay good-night, telling Nett that he heard compliments showered upon her as thick as motto papers; and Bel that she danced like a Preciosa, a comparison which mystified her considerably, as she was not just cut of Yale and very much in love with Longfellow's "Spanish Student."

"Nothing for me?" asked Sallie, as she leaned on the railing of the first landing to watch him stand on tiptoe, lighting his cigar at the chandelier.

"Not a syllable. Any fellow of the set knows you as are vain as can be already, and must countenance you in it."

"Good-night, Saucebox!"

"Pleasant dreams!"

And so these pleasure-seeking young people dispersed to their own rooms to sleep off the fatigues of the first large party of the season.

The brothers were consigned to the usual bachelor apartments of a New York family, named-hall rooms, without fire or light, until they had invoked one by the aid of the ever-ready lucifers. The young girls occupied the two large communicating chambers on the third floor, where blazing grates and gas-burners sent a cheerful radiance over mirrors and curtains, and white-counter-pained beds. It was the very picture of comfort this frosty night, and the chambermaid, dozing in an easy-chair, had contributed much to make it so.

Bel, who had commenced stripping herself of her finery on the stairs, threw a handful of glittering jewelry—bracelets, a brooch and necklace—into a Parian sea-shell standing on the dressing table, and called for Norah to unlace her dress that very instant, or she should "die with sleep."

"And hurry, there's a good girl," said Annette, "for mine is in a dreadful knot; I began to undo it under my cloak in the hall."

"I had to dance with that odious Mark Harrison twice," lamented Bell the next instant. "He keeps time so abominably—"

"I never saw him keep time at all," remarked Sallie, unthreading the long braids of her black hair." Just look at my new tarleton! What a smash! It will never be fit to wear again! There were six times as many as the house would hold!"

"I didn't even get a sight of the supper table," added Bel, in the same injured tone of voice; "not so much as an oyster or a glass of champagne. When I give a party, I never mean to have more than can get into the supper-room comfortably. Oh, dear! I am so tired! There, that will do, Norah. I believe you are half asleep."

'Sure, an it's sleepy time," said Norah, apologetically.

Her young mistress did not dare to use more than a pettish tone toward the weary-looking maid. It was against Mrs. Lockwood's rule, and of her own free will, that she had waited up to assist them.

"There, you can go now," said Sallie, as the girl began to collect some of the scattered finery. "Mine are only hooks and eyes. Oh, girls, what do you think!" when the door closed behind her. "I really believe our Jim is attentive to Mary Snelling. I saw them sitting together in the recess of the reception-room, looking as tender as possible. I was dying to get Norah off so as to tell you."

"I should think you might have waited till she hung up our dresses," Bel retorted crossly, "I know Mary Snelling is doing her best to get Jim; anybody could see that, with half an eye. I'm sure I'm too tired to touch the room to-night."

In another minute the disturbed young lady, who, to do her justice, was only fretful when sleepy, had tied on her Valenciennes frilled cap, and nestled herself comfortably on the pillowr.

"But, Isabel," said her cousin, carefully laying in a little box her ornaments—a brooch, and earrings of her mother's hair—"here is all your jewelry."

"Well, I can't help it; nobody will run off with it to-night. I wouldn't get up for twenty sets of coral."

"Let her be, Nett," said Sallie, stepping out of the pile of fleecy flounces and into the low French bed. "There is all my things, too. I wouldn't be hired to put them up to-night. I wish I had been born to a lady's maid."

"Nora seems to be a very nice girl. I like her a great deal better than Ann who was here when I first came."

"Only mamma is so afraid of letting her wait on us. She says there is enough of the regular work in our large family. Are you never coming to bed, Annette?" and even the stylish Sallie began to show symptoms of drowsiness.

"As soon as I have hung up my things. You know I can't get evening dresses as easily as you can, and have to take care of what I have. Norah seems very honest and obliging."

"That's it. She would as soon take care of our drawers as not; but mamma has a foolish notion that lace sets and embroidered handkerchiefs and jewelry might tempt the most honest person to steal. I will be up in time enough to put them away before breakfast."

But the red light from the grate flickered out, and the gray light of dawn crept over the disordered room before either of the wearied occupants so much as turned upon her pillow. And even the dressing bell rang unheeded, except by Annette, who lay in a half-dreamy reverie, wondering if it was really time to get up. Finally she roused herself sufficiently to look at her cousin's watch, and found to her consternation that they had just fifteen minutes to dress in.

There is a sleight-of-hand, wonderful to the uninitiated, by which young ladies contrive to make a morning toilet in an incredible short space of time. Sallie and Isabella, roused at last, arrayed themselves as rapidly as possible; for Mr. Lockwood, indulgent in many things, exacted prompt attendance at the breakfast table. So down stairs the ladies hurried, without so much as a thought of the scattered jewelry left behind.

It was a very merry breakfast party, they had so much to discuss with each other and Charlie and Jim; so many queer incidents to relate. Mr. Lockwood, who suspended his perusal of the money article to listen, and Mrs. Lockwood, who had been a belle herself in her younger days, showed a great deal of interest in all that had occurred.

Charlie, especially, was in the highest spirits, and fretted the elegant Jim continually with allusions to "Miss Snelling's addresses," until the young gentleman's ire was so highly roused that Mr. Lockwood told them both it was high time they should be down town, and so sent them about their business.

The girls lounged about the dining-room and parlor some time longer, talking and laughing all at once, until Bel suddenly remembered the coral set, her father's last birthday gift, and hurried up stairs to put it in the cases.

Not a trace of it was to be found, except the pear-shaped pendant of one ear-ring, accidentally dropped and overlooked. Perhaps Norah had put them away. The key was in the drawer, but the drawer was empty. Sallie might have played her a trick, and hidden them with her own ornaments after she had dropped asleep. But Sallie's watch and chain and diamond ring had vanished, too. The bewildered girl stood perfectly still for a moment in the extremity of her loss, and then rushing down stairs, heedless of the discovery of her carelessness, began calling, "Sallie, mother, papa," all at once, much to the astonishment of those who still lingered in a group round Mr. Lockwood.

The old merchant was seriously angry, when he comprehended what had happened, at his daughters for their carelessness, in spite of oft-repeated warnings, but, above all things, that he should have harbored a thief in his household. The hall door was fastened as usual; no one could have entered that way. The cook, an old family servant, could take her affidavit that no one had passed through the area, where she had just left Norah "talking with a boy, her cousin."

The whole family instinctively looked at each other, at this announcement, and Mr. Lockwood immediately dispatched the waiter to detain the man, and send Norah to him. The discovery was made too late; the man had disappeared with his booty; cook also testifying that she saw the girl "give him a bit of a parcel, though she never saw harm in her."

It was very hard for Mrs. Lockwood to believe that the young, innocent-looking girl to whom she had taken such a fancy, and who had made herself a general favorite in the household could be the culprit. Even Mr. Lockwood had noticed her quick step and cheerful face as he passed her on the stairs. But who else could it be? The jewelry was gone to the value of several hundred dollars, and no one except Nora had any call to enter the young ladies' rooms. Every drawer, box and hiding place was searched by the police officer, hurriedly summoned, and suspicion became a charge preferred by Mr. Lockwood against the new servant, all the rest having been in the family many years.

It was a pitiful sight, as she was led away to the station house, still protesting her innocence; her hair disheveled, her face pale and swollen with sobbing and the dreadful fear of a prison before her, for no one could doubt but this was her first offense. Mr. Lockwood sent his daughters to their own rooms before she was finally given up to the officer, and steeled his heart to the frantic appeals, as she knelt, clasping his knees, and besought him not to send her away.

"It was a hard matter, but justice must be done," the merchant said to himself, in justification, as that face, raised so beseechingly to his his, came before him during the day. Mrs. Lockwood went about the house very pale and sad, while the servants spoke in whispers to each other, as if some great domestic calamity had happened; and the young ladies, whose own carelessness had placed the great temptation in poor Norah's way—and not for the first time—shut themselves into their own rooms, and cried and sobbed themselves ill.

The day dragged slowly by, and it was a relief to hear the light-hearted Charlie whistle on the steps, and the click of his latch key an hour earlier than usual. There was no one but Annette visible, and his smiles changed to a most harrassed, painful expression as he heard the story of the day's doings. The snow was already coming down heavily, but, snatching a cap from the hat-rack, forgetful of overcoat or gloves, he rushed out of the house the instant he learned where Norah had been taken.

The remorseful look upon her cousin's face somewhat lightened Annette's heart, though she could not explain his haste or the errand to his mother and sisters. It was a very anxious hour of watching for all, Isabel lying at full length on the sofa, her face covered with her hands; Sallie trying in vain to practice at the grand piano, and Annette, standing in the drapery of the front window, straining her eyes through the fast-falling snow at every approaching vehicle or foot passenger.

At length the roll of an omnibus ceased at the door, and the glad cry, "Here he is!" as a gentleman stepped out, which brought them all to the window, was changed into, "It's only uncle," in a tone more of disappointment than of welcome. But scarcely had Mr. Lockwood opened the door for her husband, when a vehicle stopped at the door, and Charlie lifted a woman up the steps, whose hood falling back disclosed the pale face of Norah.

The poor girl said nothing, but crouched down on the stairs the instant Charlie released his hold, and rocked to and fro as one in the extremity of grief and pain.

"Oh, father, for Heaven's sake don't speak so!" he interposed to Mr. Lockwood's angry demand for an explanation of her appearance in his house again. "It was me; I got there just as she had her hearing, and told them so. It was me, father. She's suffered enough already, poor thing."

And more than enough, for a pure-minded, innocent young girl, shut up all day, with the heavy accusation, and the anger and unbelief of her master, hanging over her, with the worst of idlers and vagabonds, and even criminals, and nothing before her but the still darker prospect of conviction and a prison.

"I hid them father, to tease the girls for being so careless. They are in my dressing case," continued the generous fellow, with vehemence. "Won't you speak to her, father, and tell her so?"

But Norah had fallen into strong convulsions on the floor, while they were trying to comprehend her innocence, and a brain fever was the result of the shock and anguish of the day. Every one in the family ministered to her, from Mr. Lockwood, who called in his own family physician, to the good-hearted cook who had so unwittingly given evidence against her; but it was many weeks before the conscience-stricken Charlie saw her creeping slowly up and down the stairs again, pale and emaciated, the very shadow of the blithe young Irish girl who came there to find a home. She was forgiving and grateful to them all, but her languor and timidity remained a perpetual remembrance of the wrong so heedlessly inflicted.

The faithful Norah's presence in the household—for Mr. Lockwood has offered her a home as long as she may need one—is a check upon his rash judgments of the actions and motives of me upon Charlie's wanton heedlessness of the feelings of others, and even brother Jim's sublime selfishness. As for Isabel and Miss Lockwood, who tended her through her long illness as if she had been a sister or a friend, they have almost come to consider her as such, and both try to exact a promise from her that she will take charge of their homes, now that there is a near prospect of two weddings in the family. But Norah inclines to "Master Charlie's" offer, to wait till he gets through his law studies, and takes Annette for better or worse. So in the end poor Norah's misfortune proved a blessing in disguise.

Victoria's John Brown.

London Correspondence Philadelphia Press.

You know the partiality which the Queen of England has for her Scotch footman, John Brown. He is termed in the London Gazette "body esquire," and he is in constant attendance upon Her Majesty. Well, on the day of the marriage of the Duke of Albany John Brown was in great force. He attended upon the Queen throughout the day, and at night stood behind her chair in the great state banquet. That banquet, which took place in St. George's Hall, Windsor, was not so formal an affair as such feasts usually are. The chairs for Queen and guests were all alike, and there was no procession to the table. This absence of ceremony appeared to please John Brown, and led him to make a little mistake. The time came for the toasts to be given, and the Lord Steward was about to call them out, when John, proud of the possession of a good loud Scotch voice, thought it would be for the benefit of the guests if he repeated the mumblings of the Lord Steward. He did so, shouting out the toasts at the top of his strident voice. The Queen was pleased, so were most of the guests, for they knew what was going on, and nobody particularly objected, for the incident was not likely to be made public. But somehow or other the fact did leak out and appeared in a London paper the next morning. Windsor Castle was then in an uproar Who had done it? everybody asked. There were grave consultations and much consideration, and then the paper in question was asked to contradict its own statement, while the "society journals" were ordered to say the whole story was a base fabrication. Of course, the behests of the court were obeyed, and so John Brown's glory evaporated. He will never have the full credit which belongs to his ingenuity on that great state occasion. Yet I think his time is coming, for I hear John Brown will ere long be made a knight. He already has a beautiful house at Balmoral and resplendent apartments at Windsor and Osborne, and the day is not far distant when he will kneel down while a grateful sovereign lays a sword on his head.

Real Bravery.

London Spectator.

We are forcibly reminded of an answer we once received from an old Indian who was narrating some of the daring deeds done during the mutiny. "Aye, general, he was a brave man," we remarked. "Brave? not at all," was the unexpected rejoinder. "Brave? why, he didn't understand what fear meant! I'll tell you who was brave; there was Colonel ——, who saved us at such a point, and was found dead of fear at his post."

A CHEROKEE HOME

If This Isn't Civilization, What Is It?

Providence Journal.

The house is situated in a natural locust grove, such as sprinkle the beautiful prairie to which their presence gives a name. It stands on a slight elevation in the midst of a yard, garden, farm-steading and field. It is not of logs, as is most common, but is what in the West is called a "frame house," and is built of sawed lumber from a neighboring mill. Like all houses in a mild climate that invites to spend so much of life out of doors, it has an ample piazza, furnished with split or hide-bottom chairs, and containing a fixture for a hand basin and towel. The yard is decorated with native and cultivated flowers, rose trees in large growth and of luxuriant bloom, and a honeysuckle wearing an odoriferous mantle of blossoms.

Within, the house is comfortably furnished with antique bedsteads and cases of drawers that are evidently heirlooms, and perhaps came to the country with the emigration of the Cherokee people. Two ancient oil paintings ornament the walls, and the father and mother of our hostess, taken in old age by some artist who visited the country, and representing, in both instances, striking countenances, the father having been the Captain of a Cherokee company that fought the hostile Creeks at the battle of the Horse Shoe under Andrew Jackson. Tintype portraits of our host and hostess and the heir of the family, a bright boy, now at school at the male seminary at Tahlequah, complete the picture gallery. A few books and a number of newspapers furnish the reading matter Everything is neat and clean, showing the presence of a notable housewife.

In front of the house, in a natural dell over-shadowed by trees of magnificent growth, is a large spring of the clearest water, and a spring house of logs, from which emerge butter as hard and milk as cool as if it had been kept on ice.

A well filled smoke house, hung with hams and flitches of bacon, stands close to the rear door, and broods of young chickens, turkeys and guinea fowls give token of an unfailing supply of poultry and eggs. The farm buildings, chiefly log structures, for the storage of tools, stand in the farm yards, and a large enclosure containing a hundred or more calves is beyond them, and through it passes a brook fed by another spring. On one side of and beyond this stretches a garden field of an acre of more, already, in the middle of May, furnishing green peas and new potatoes, and containing vegetables of every kind and variety. Then come fields waving with wheat or showing the green rows of corn, forming a cultivated farm of upward of a hundred acres. A pasture for the mares and colts completes the inclosed land, but not the privileges of the farm, which includes an unlimited range of the prairie and woodland pasture for the cattle and ponies.

The cattle, which number more than a hundred head, ruled by a fine Durham bull of magnificent size, come home at evening to their calves, and spend the night recumbent around the house and farm buildings, while the ponies run wild, practically safe under the owner's hand and will be hunted out of the woods or rounded up from the prairie whenneeded for sale or use. There is a lack of that prim neatness about the premises which distinguishes a New England farm, but the signs not only of comfort and abundance, but of shrewd and industrious management, of the immense resources of fertility and natural bounty, are everywhere visible.

A bountiful table almost overloaded with good things, the presence of an unforced and kindly welcome, and a shrewd and honest converse, completed the charms of this Cherokee home, which will long remain one of the brigliest spots of traveling memory. It was not without visitors the day and two nights of our stay. Hardy horsemen on enduring steeds, equipped with blanket and picket rope rode up, and staking out their horses, were made welcome to supper and a camp-bed on the floor. They passed the current news of the day about stock and crops, and sought or told the latest homicide under the influence of smuggled whisky, or the latest narrow escape from a ford. Some of the keen-eyed and hardy horsemen had led lives of more adventure than would fill a dime novel, and spoke of daily incidents by flood or field, as a matter of course, that would make a romance of a life of the tame experience of the East. Some of the guests were the full-blood Cherokees, who, after exchanging a few guttural words in their native tongue with the host or hostess, would sit in stolid silence around the fire that was welcome in the cool evening. Among them was a young couple, Mr. Charley and Mrs. Redbird Te-hee, as I was given to understand. The young woman was dressed in a neat print gown, scrupulously clean, and with a red shawl over her shining black locks, and framing a comely face the color of walnut stain. They sat in silence like the rest, her beady black eyes alone giving signs of motion. At length she drew a pipe with a reed stem from her pocket, and filling it proceeded to attempt to get a light from the dying embers. "The man who would refuse to help a woman in distress is unworthy of the name of Briton." Drawing a match and lighting it, I presented it to her with as graceful a courtesy as I could command. She accepted it, and as the red glow lit up her features and the beautiful smoke curled up from the bowl, unless I am grievously mistaken, she gave me a fascinating smile. Deeply affected I went out upon the porch. The multitude of stars were shining in the clear, dark sky. Circling the house in their hungry quest, came the muffled bark of the hill foxes, and the strange, weird cries of the night-hawk sweeping overhead, gave appropriate voice to the night. The ruddy glow of a camp-fire shone from far away on the prairie.

The Story of Camille.

Mlle. Eugenie Legrande, a French actress, now playing an engagement in Philadelphia, tells a Press reporter the story of Camille—Dumas's celebrated heroine. It is a strange tale, and shows that Dumas, from his own life, wove the thread of his romantic play: I met several of your military posts this morning as I was driving to the park. You know we have a similar ceremony in France, only we decorate the graves of all our dead every year, just to keep the dear ones in remembrance. I was thinking, as we were driving, of the grave of Alphonsine Duplessis, in Pere la Chaise cemetery, Paris. Of course you know her story? No? Why she was the origin of the elder Dumas's story. "La Dame aux Camelias," the novel from which the play of "Camille" was adapted, and which also inspired Verdi's opera, "La Traviata." But I must tell you all about it. When the younger Dumas was a dashing fellow about town he used to make himself especially agreeable to ladies. One night at the opera he was particularly struck with the beauty of a certain lady who occupied a box. He followed her brougham in a cab and discovered where she lived; it was in the Quartier Breda. I need not explain what sort of a locality the Quartier Breda is; sufficient to say that Dumas fils presented himself on the following morning to the lady. At first he was repulsed but he persevered—he was in love, desperately in love with the woman, whose surroundings plainly indicated her condition. That woman was Alphonsine Duplessis. He called again and again, and his earnestness so gained upon Alphonsine that she returned his love. She cast loose all other chains which bound her, and promised to live for him alone. They were to be married, and then the elder Dumas heard of the story. He was naturally horrified at the union his son was about to make, and remonstrated with him, but in vain. I forgot to tell you that Alphonsine was afflicted with consumption just as "Camille" is depicted in the play and "Marguerite Gautier in Verdi's opera. Finally the elder Dumas, determined to rescue his son at all hazards, called on Alphonsine and begged and implored her, by the love she bore his son, to renounce him. He demonstrated to her the social degradation she would bring on the young man by uniting her life to his, and at last she consented to repulse young Dumas in such a manner as to break off the marriage. She was true to her promise, and within three months died of consumption and a broken heart. Previous to her death she sent for her lover and acquainted him with the sacrifice she had made in his behalf. The elder Dumas immortalized her self-abnegation in his novel, but his son keeps her memory green to this day. Her grave in Pere la Chaise is always fresh with flowers, and on All Souls' day, the day upon which we specially decorate the tombs of the dead, the lover, now an elderly man, may always be seen paying his devotion in person at the grave of the ill fated Alphonsine.

The Jersey Lily.

New York Special to Chicago Times

Mr. G. W. Smalley—who, however, always goes into hysterical descriptive whenever a foreign star like Neilson or Bernhardt is about to dawn on America—raves about her "delicate ripe splendor," and her "peach colored cheek," and vows that no actress of modern days is able to hold a candle to her in the matter of looks. "The purity of her complexion," he says, in his coldly critical way, "has not been matched anywhere, nor perhaps the soft fullness of her violet eyes, which can only be described by the epithet which Homer bestowed on the queen of the gods—ox-eyed. The setting of the eye and the moulding of the temples, over which the dark brown hair falls far, are equally fine; the lines of that part of the head are pure Greek, passing into a modern type below. The profile is a little irregular, the mouth and jaw strongly shaped, the teeth perfect, the head elegantly set on the shoulders, which are possibly high, but rounded and full, as is the bust and the whole figure." "She possesses wonderful eyes of a limpid, transparent blue, which always wear a winning expression," says another correspondent. "I don't think her pretty," says a third, "her hair is dark and her eyes are blue—an unusual combination, which is effective. Her lips are thick, denoting, they say, kindness and 'love of life.'" Says still another, "She is of medium size, regular features, rose-bud mouth, large blue eyes, low forehead, nice, creamy complexion, dark brown hair, squared shoulders, flat bust and long classical arms." Says still another—an American actress by the way: "She is not strictly beautiful, but she has a fair skin and large, round, dark eyes, which she uses very expressively, and with a great deal of art in conversation. The natural color of her hair is chestnut, but she is as often seen with very light or reddish frizzes, which enhance the effect of her really handsome eyes." Finally, a more critical observer describes her as "quiet-looking, somewhat pallid, large-eyed, high shouldered and wasp-waisted," and a friend of mine—who adds that you could pick out a dozen handsomer women on the streets of New York of a summer day—says she has very large, wistful liquid eyes, and a soft, creamy complexion, and makes a body think of a Jersey—heifer!

The Artless Prattle of a Babe.

Detroit Free Press.

One of those unnaturally bright children who are always getting people into difficulties was at a prayer-meeting the other evening with his mother, when he asked aloud:

"Ma, say ma—who was Dinah Moore?"

"Hu-ush," whispered his mother cautiously, "it's a hymn."

"No, it ain,t, ma," continued the hopeful, "it's a woman's name; say who is going home to Dinah Moore?"

"Willie!" said his mother in a ghastly voice, "you're disturbing the meeting. It means going to heaven to die no more."

"Dine no more! O, ma, don't they eat anything there?"

His mother explained as well as she could, and Willie sat still for half a minute, his bright eyes roving about the church. Then he asked in a shrill whisper:

"Ma, is God out of town?"

"No-o-o, no, no," answered the distracted woman faintly.

"Then what's Mr. Kelly running this meeting for, ma?" continued the sweet child.

The choir sung him down, but as the meeting closed with a moment of silent prayer, the gentle voice was distinctly heard.

JOCOSITIES.

My boarders shall have "the fat of the land," she said, as she receipted for a tub of oleomargarine.

Buffalo has got the baseball fever so bad that a man who caught a baby falling from a second story window, the other day, sung out, "Judgment."

A large nose is a sign of character. If it has a turkey-red finish or a big nob on one side, it is a sign that character has gone on a protracted vacation.

A Yorkville man says his wife works like lightning. By this we presume he wishes to convey the idea that she never strikes twice in the same spot.

Hibernian, after attentively surveying tourist's bicycle: "Arrah, now, an' sure that little wheel will never kape up with the big wan at all!"

A Philadelphia mantuamaker imprudently announces that she makes her dresses fireproof, not realizing that her customers wish toilets to attract rather than repel their flames.

"Yes, sir!" said the Kentuckian; "I never was in a more tantalizing position in my life. There were three of us, with a pack of cards in the room, and not a duced cent in the crowd.

A Lexington Ky., youth, who went to work in the country, wrote his girl, a June graduate, that he was raising a calf. Imagine his feelings when the girl replied: "I am glad you have begun to support yourself."

Theological reflection: "Yes sah," said Brudder Johnsing, "Ef de descendents of de rooster what crowed at Peter was to make a noise ebery time a lie is told der would be such a noise in de world dat yer couldn't hear de heus cackle."

The whirligig of fashion may bring round the most sudden and dazzling changes, and the duties of the toilet may multiply like leaves in Valambrosa, but there is nothing that will make a woman stand before her looking-glass so long as a sunburnt nose.

She explained: "I wouldn't be in Egypt," said Mrs. McGill last week, "for all the wealth of Creosote." Seeing a look of astonishment on the face of her auditors she added: "Creosote, you know, was an old Roman god, and everything he touched turned into gold."

A young lady who had been married a little over a year wrote to her father in this city, saying: "We have the dearest little cottage in the world, ornamented with the most charming little creepers you ever saw." The old man read the letter, and exclaimed, "Twins, by thunder."

A bibulous parson was introduced to a lady who had been presented to him as quite a talented artist. He greeted her by saying. "I understand, madam, that you paint?" She started, blushing deeply, and, recovering herself after a few seconds, said, with as much acidity of tone and style as she could command: "Well, if I do paint, I don't make any mistake and put it on my nose."

"Deacon," said the widow, as she stroked in a feline manner the maltese tabby that evidently lay in her lap for that purpose, "don't you long for spring, with its balmy breath, its warm sunshine and its gentle showers, which awaken nature and put life into everything that has lain cold and dead during the long winter and bring everything up out of the cold, cold ground into life and light?" "Well, hardly, widow," replied the deacon; "you know I buried my second wife last fall."

The air was permeated with a snow chill, the sky was overhung with leaden clouds, and a breeze carrying icicles in its onward sweep played with her long brown locks. But she hesitated not. She pressed forward, driven by a resistless impulse, and one glance at her determined face plainly showed that she was resolved, firmly resolved—to get five yards of velvet trimming cut bias to match, if she overhauled every dry goods store in town, and we presume she did.

The shower came up, or rather it came down—a shower never comes up—so unexpectedly that nearly everybody was taken by surprise, and Jefferson street was in a panic. Young Masher, who never goes without his umbrella, saw his opportunity, and sailing up to the prettiest girl with the prettiest hat in all Burlington, made a bow that is warranted to kill across the street, and said: "May I offer you my umbrella?" "Oh, a thousand thanks," she said. "Papa will bring it down to his office in the morning," and she sailed away dry shod, leaving him desolate and soaking in his loneliness, like a pelican in the wilderness and as a weather-vane upon the housetop.

The Wife's Last Kiss.

About a month ago A. B. Camp, accompanied by his wife and child, came from San Francisco for the purpose of taking out soapstone. Last month his wife visited him at his work. They were about starting for their cabin, a short distance away. Mr. Camp was about to enter the tunnel to secure a shovel which he desired to take with him, when his wife remarked: "Never mind, I'll get it; you take the child." As she started for the entrance of the tunnel she turned around and said: "Kiss me first." The husband did so, and she started for the tunnel's mouth again, but just before she reached it she again turned round and laughingly said: "Kiss me once more." For the second time her husband complied, and then she started for the tunnel. She had just reached the entrance when the mass of rocks and dirt gave way, burying the unfortunate woman in the debris and causing her instant death. The father and child escaped unhurt.

Bogardus' Nerve.

New York Special.

Captain A. H. Bogardus, who, with his son, accompanies Cole's circus, suffered a bad wound at Amsterdam during the circus performance. His five-year-old son Henry was shooting glass balls from his father's fingers. The weather was cold and damp, and the child's fingers were benumbed. In raising his rifle he accidentally pressed the trigger before taking sure aim. The 32-caliber ball struck Captain Bogardus in the lower left thumb joint, close to the hand, smashing the bone, but nevertheless he went on with the shooting as usual, and then summoned a surgeon.

FROM THE WIRES.

Dubuque, Iowa, dispatch:

John A. Kasson was renominated to Congress by acclamation at the Republican Convention for the Seventh District, this afternoon. The convention was a very full one, but the proceedings were very brief.

Alton, Ill., dispatch:

About dark last night, at Jersey Landing, a little town on the Mississippi about thirteen miles above here, Edward O'Hare, a farmer of about 50 years of age, probably murdered John Carroll, and attempted to murder his wife. O'Hare had been jealous of Carroll for some time, and meeting him last night, in a wild fit of jealous rage, began firing at him. Carroll ran, but was struck in the lower part of the back, near the spine. The ball penetrated his vitals, and paralyzed him. His recovery is hopeless. After shooting Carroll, O'Hare rushed to his home and attempted to murder his wife. He fired two shots at her, but only inflicted a slight flesh wound, before he was overpowered by his neighbors. He was taken to Jerseyville, the county seat. He is the father of several children by his present wife, who has always born a good name. O'Hare is believed to be insane.

A horrible case of starvation is reported from Van Buren county, Ark. A woman and two children, living in a lonely locality in the mountains were found dead by persons who happened to pass the house. It is believed the woman fell sick, and the children being to young to aid her, all perished miserably. When discovered one child was still alive and had gnawed pieces of flesh from the arm of the other. It soon died.

London, cable. — A dispatch from Moscow announces the sudden death of General Skobeleff, the famous Russian General, at the Hotel Dussaux there.

Moscow, cable. — General Skobeleff's death was due to heart disease.

The remains of General Skoboleff will be interred at Spash, in the Province of Kazan. A. Kakseff, the well known editor and leader of the Pan-Slavist party, was with Skoboleff at his death.

St. Louis, Mo., special—The body of I. H. Piant, the wholesale clothing merchant, who disappeared night before last from his home, and against whom several attachments were filed yesterday, was found in a slough in East St. Louis this morning. He had committed suicide. The cause is supposed to be financial embarrassment.

Louisville, Ky., special.—Joseph Hicks, an old citizen, destroyed his life this afternoon, by throwing himself under a train at the Fourteenth street depot. Cause unknown.

St. Petersburgh cablegram:

It is stated that 9,000 copies of a revolutionary proclamation, printed by a secret press, and signed by Nicholas Constantinovich, cousin of the Emperor, have been discovered at the Ministry of Marine, and immediately after the discovery the Director of the department committed suicide.

Princeton, Ill., dispatch:

The Prairie House, in this city, was burned to the ground yesterday morning. It was owned by Granville Van Velzer, and occupied by Mr. Hazzard. Loss, $5,000; insured for $1,500. The Prairie House was the first hotel built in Princeton, having been erected in 1836.

Kirkwood, Mo., dispatch:

Milton Smith, who is a son-in-law of Granville Eads, with whom he resides on the Big Bend road, one mile south of Kirkwood, was shot and mortally wounded yesterday by his son, Guy Smith, aged 13 years, whom he had just punished for fighting with his brother.

A Cincinnati dispatch:

Wm. Belcham, who was sentenced to be hanged here next Friday for the murder of Patrick Hughes, has had his sentence changed by Gov. Foster to imprisonment for life. Belcham is over 60 years old.

War in Egypt.

Alexandria, Egypt, cable:

Cartwright, the acting British Counsul here, has written to Ragheb Pacha, President of the Egyptian Ministry, announcing the suspension of relations with the Egyptian Government, and another letter to Dervisch Pasha, the Turkish Commissioner, declaring that he will be held responsible for the safety of the Khedive.

The twenty-four hours' notice expires at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, when the bombardment will commence. Admiral Seymour yesterday summoned his captains aboard the flagship and settled the details of the bombardment. The French fleet will participate in the bombardment.

Notice of the bombardment of Alexandria was giving this morning, by a letter addressed to the Governor by Admiral Seymour.

A Calcutta dispatch says the Government of India has received final and definite orders to dispatch its contingent to Egypt, under Sir Herbert McPherson, who commanded a brigade in the Afghan war. A large siege train is preparing at Agra and Bombay arsenels.

The Eastern Telegraph Company, at Alexandria, is transferring its office to shipboard. Ships having on board the officials of the Ottoman Bank, Credit Lyonnaise, etc., have left.

From Paris. — It is announced semi-officially, that the French fleet will go to Port Said, in accordance with an understanding with Admiral Seymour.

From Alexandria. — The American Admiral, Nicholson, warned the Arabs working on the forts that if they fire at him he will return the fire.

All the foreign men-of-war except the English are leaving the harbor.

A telegraph line is now working from a ship moored some miles from Alexandria. Communication with this port is being maintained by dispatch boats.

From Constantinople. — The Turkish Admiralty has warned the crews of the Turkish ironclads to be in readiness.

London, July 11.—A correspondent on board the Invincible telegraphs as follows:

"Alexandria, July 11—7:40 a. m.—The Alexandria, Sultan and Superb opened fire upon the fortifications. The batteries at once replied, but their shot at first fell short of the ships. The rest of the fleet then joined in and action became general. After twenty minutes' cannonade two of the forts ceased firing. Fort Pharos appears to be much damaged. The ships, so far as can be perceived, have not suffered any damage."

London, July 11.—Second dispatch—The Standard's correspondent on the Invincible telegraphs as follows:

Alexandria, July 11—9:10 a. m.—The attack on the forts has now been kept up for two hours. Smoke hangs over the town, along the line of the shore batteries and among the ships, and is difficult to see what damage has been done. It is certain, however, that the enemy has suffered very heavily. Fort Marsa El Kanat has been blown up by the fire from batteries. The forts are slaking their fire. The top of the tower of Fort Pharos has been carried away, and many guns have been dismantled on that and other forts. The flag of the Geneva red cross is flying over the hospital in the city. Dutch and Greek flags are hoisted over their respective Consulates. At the beginning of the bombardment immense excitement was visible. Crowds of people were seen wending their way toward the palace. The streets are now deserted, and the people have fled or taken refuge in the cellars. There are no signs of a surrender so far.

A telegram from the Eastern Telegraph Company's steamer Chiltern, sent at 11:15 this morning, says the bombardment still continues. The forts are gradually being silenced. The Ras El Tin forts are suffering severely from the heavy and disastrous fire of the ships Alexandria, Superb and Temeraire,

Admiral Seymour officially telegraphs as follows: "The ships opened fire at 7 o'clock this morning. The return fire from the forts was weak and ineffective. An explosion in Fort Marsa el Kanat had occurred by 8 o'clock. The ships engaged are the Inflexible, Temeraire, Penelope, Superb, Sultan, Invincible, Alexandria and Monarch."

London, July 11—1 p. m.—A dispatch received from Alexandria says that the magazine at Fort Ada has been blown up.

Alexandria, June 11.—The Fort Ada magazine which was blown up was located close to the vice-regal palace, outside the harbor.

Up to noon four forts in all were blown up. No casualties to the fleet were discernible.

Alexandria, July 11—6:50 p. m.—Action is finished for the day. The casualties on the English side are forty wounded. None are reported killed.

Alexandria, July 11.—Admiral Seymour will recommence the attack on Fort Gubarrie and the harbor forts in the morning. The small effects of the eighty-one ton and other guns at the earthworks has caused disappointment.

Shortly after noon, all the exposed guns on the forts were dismounted, and only those in sheltered positions were able to return the British fire.

Fort Marso-El-Kanat, which was blown up, was only completed a week ago Sunday last.

The Monerieffe battery and Pharos fort have been silenced by the guns of the Temetaire and the Inflexible.

It is reported that the Khedive's yacht has been sunk in the harbor by the fleet.

The Invincible had four men wounded. The Inflexible was hit five times.

London, July 11.—The second battalion, Royal Irish regiment, has been ordered to proceed to Egypt within twenty-four hours.

In the House of Lords this afternoon Granville said the bombardment of Alexandria does not constitute a declaration of war against the allied powers, as the Government is not in alliance with the military despotism now the de facto ruler of Egypt.

London, July 12.—A dispatch from the Eastern Cable Campany's ship off Alexandria, sent at 11:40 o'clock this morning, says the Inflexible and Temeraire opened fire this morning on Moncrieffe fort, which, during the night, had been repaired. The first three shots greatly damaged the batteries.

A signal has just been given to cease firing. The Achilles has just been sighted, steaming toward the fleet.

Off Alexandria, July 12—1:30 p. m.—A steamer is seen approaching the fleet with a flag of truce. A flag of truce is also displayed from the town.

London, July 12.—A dispatch from on board the Chiltern, dated 5:15 this afternoon, says: "The flag of truce is still flying; several large fires have broken out in various parts of the town."

Alexandria, July 12—It is likely that the European quarters has been seriously damaged. Several shells from the Inflexible were seen to burst immediately over the center of the town.

The Times correspondent, writing about yesterday's bombardment, says: "The gunboats played an active part in creeping close to the forts and silencing several guns. The Inflexible made a splendid practice. The Temeraire was ashore for some time, and floated subsequently. The gunboat Condor ran within 1,200 yards of Marabout Fort, a single shot from which would have sunk her, and before the signal was given to cease firing she had silenced three great guns in the fort. Admiral Seymour signaled: 'Well done, Condor.' The Superb has two holes in her side."

The Times' correspondent at Alexandria, describing yesterday's bombardment, particularly mentions the deadly effect of the electric broadsides from the ships which attacked the Pharos and Ras-el-Tin forts. The Inflexible, being the furthest westward, was able to shell the Mexs fort with one turret, and the Ras-el-Tin forts with the other. After all the enemy's guns were silenced the men-of-war continued shelling the fortifications, and used sharpnel, probably at the retreating soldiers.

Admiral Seymour telegraphs that a party from the Invincible which landed to destroy Fort Mexs, burst three and spiked six guns in the fort. The party included Lieutenant Jackson, severely injured, and Lieutenant Davies, and Midshipman Lamsden, slightly injured.

The correspondent on board the Helicon sends the following: The loss of the Egyptians must be dreadful. A number of shells repeatedly struck the works just above the guns and threw up vast volumes of yellow dust. It was often thought that the guns must have been demolished, but they appeared uninjured when the smoke had cleared.

The funnel of the Superb is pierced, and the plate before the foremast of the Glacis is torn away. One of the boats of the Inflexible is useless, and the others are badly damaged. The Inflexible bore the full brunt of the fire of the west end of the Ras-el-Tin fort for three and a half hours. The Sultan has a shot clean through her main mast, and another through her funnel.

The harem adjoining the Ras-el-Tin and the adjacent rifle tower continued to burn all night.

The Standard correspondent sends the following: "One of the officials from Dervisch Pasha, who brought the letter from the Ministry to Admiral Seymour offering to dismount the guns, informed me that he and many others were not sorry hostilities were about to begin, as it was the only way in which the end could be reached and the fate of the two parties viz., the one in favor of the Khedive and order, and the other of Arabi Pasha and anarchy, would be decided. The officials were conveyed ashore after Admiral Seymour had given them his decision in writing."

The Times Paris correspondent reports that M. Goblet, replying to Gambetta in regard to Egyptian affairs, said France had not co-operated in the bombardment because England's conduct did not seem to her justified, and because France did not desire to emerge from the European concert.

The Times, in a leading article this morning, says: "Musurus Pasha, the Turkish Ambassador, had an interview yesterday with Earl Granville, and demanded that the bombardment of Alexandria be countermanded. Earl Granville replied that circumstances compelled the British Government to take decisive action, and that its decision would not be reversed."

A dispatch from Suez says: "No merchant vessels have entered the canal during the last forty-eight hours. All ships, including Indian mail steamers, remain in the roadstead. The whole European population is afloat. The British Consul, in pursuance of Admiral Seymour's instructions, has hauled down his flag and gone aboard the gunboat."

London, July 12.—A dispatch from Admiral Seymour, sent at 2 o'clock this afternoon, says: "There was no response to to-day's firing. A flag of truce was hoisted at noon at the arsenal, where the Minister of war and the officials of the Khedive are. A gunboat under a flag of truce proceeded to open communication."

Greensboro, N. C., dispatch.—A Clinton specials reports that Phillip Haison was hanged there this afternoon for the murder of Henry Sellers. A great crowd in town followed the condemned to the scaffold, an old-fashioned trap and cross beam. It was in an open field on the hillside in the suburbs of the town. Haison never flinched, and died game. The drop was over five feet. Six thousand people were present.

A Buffalo, N. Y., dispatch.

The Falconwood Club-House, at Grand Island, six miles from this city, burned this morning. The Falconwood was one of the finest club-houses on the Niagara river, and was patronized by the best society people of Buffalo. The building was elegantly furnished.

A very heavy windstorm passed over Maryaville, Kan., on the St. Joseph and Western railroad, one hundred miles west of St. Joseph, about 10 o'clock this morning. From the fact that all the wires are prostrated, it is thought that serious damage was done to the town. A heavy storm also prevalled at Lincoln, Neb., and through that section of the country, but the telegraphic communication was severed there also, no particulars can be obtained.

A Post-Dispatch Santa Fe, N. M., special says: "At Flagstaff yesterday Jim Brown and 'Blind' Jim murdered two men hame Storey ahd F. P. Deitrich. The whole town pursued, caught and hanged the murderers."

Frank Cobb, aged 23, residing in Texas township, Kalamazoo county, Mich., at the breakfast table, cut his little brother's throat from ear to ear with a razor. The fratricide seeks to paliate his crime by saying the murdered boy had told stories derogatory to his moral character.

A special to the State Register from Edinburg, Ill., says: "Christian county has again been treated with another of the most damnable outrages on record equaled only by the Miss Bond affair. Last night the wife of Jacob Miller, residing six miles north of here, while alone at her house, was assaulted and outraged by a tramp named Copple, who, after accomplishing the deed, fled. Mrs. Miller at once gave the alarm, and a posse of citizens captured the tramp this morning as he was attempting to cross the river. He will be given a hearing Monday. The excitement is high in the vicinity, and there is no telling what will occur."

"If Mr. C. M. Raymond does not make the very best kind of a husband to Annie Louise Cary, he will find about a million men in this country ready to whip him," is the timely warning uttered by the Washington Post.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.,

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

Sold by all Druggists.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM. A perfect dressing, elegantly perfumed and harmless. Removes dandruff, restores natural color & prevents baldness. 50 cents and $1 sizes at druggists.

Floreston COLOGNE. An exquisitely fragrant perfume with exceptionally lasting properties. 25 and 75 cents.

Parker's
Ginger Tonic

An Invigorating Medicine that Never Intoxicates

This delicious combination of Ginger, Buchu, Mandrake, Stillingia, and many other of the best vegetable medicines known, cures Female Complaints, Rheumatism, Nervousness, Wakefulness and all disorders of the bowels, stomach, liver, kidneys, and urinary organs.

If you have lost your appetite and are low spirited, or suffering from age, or any infirmity, take Parker's Ginger Tonic. It will strengthen brain and body and give you new life and vigor.

100 DOLLARS

Paid for anything injurious found in Ginger Tonic, or for a failure to help or cure.

50c. & $1 sizes at druggists. Large saving buying dollar size. Send for circular to Hiscox & Co., 163 Wm. St., N.Y.

Beware
OF Fraud
BENSON'S
CAPCINE
PLASTERS
HAVE BEEN IMITATED,

And their excellent reputation injured by worthless imitations. The Public are cautioned against buying Plasters having similar sounding names. See that the word C-A-P-C-I-N-E is correctly spelled.

Benson's Capcine
Porous Plasters

Are the only improvement ever made in Plasters.

One is worth more than a dozen of any other kind.

Will positively cure where other remedies will not even relieve.

Price 25 cents.

Beware of cheap Plasters made with lead poisons.

SEABURY & JOHNSON,
Manufacturing Chemists, New York.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25cts. MEAD'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT WILL FAIL TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable Balm that will remove Tan Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful: also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 3c stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dreadful disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the preparation used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON; 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence,

JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.
1yr

REED'S

TRADE MARK
GILT EDGE
TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY

In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and Disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. N athan, & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

WELL AUGERS,
ROCK DRILLS

And the Best Machinery in the World for
BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!
Book Free. Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

NEVER FAILS
FREE!
RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

If you feel drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, mouth tastes badly, poor appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from torpid liver, or "biliousness," and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently as to take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR or MEDICINE.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

The cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World.

An EFFECTUAL specific for all diseases of the Liver Stomach and Spleen.

Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common as bad breath, and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons' Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your Appetite, Complexion, and General Health.

PILES!

How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR, is no drastic violent purge; but a gentle assistant to nature.

CONSTIPATION!

Should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache.

ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
MANUFACTURED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

PROVED A SUCCESS

THE PASTILLE
Prof. Harris' Radical Cure
Trade Mark
FOR
NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness—the deplorable disease resulting from indiscreet practices or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, viz: Direct Application acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Gland, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoroughly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G CHEMISTS.
Market and 8th Sts. St. Louis, Mo.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons!

Indiana, April 11, '78.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had ordinary [illegible] for 8 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 15th, '78.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I can be [illegible] hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 25, 1878.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $5. Please send me another box [illegible] for a friend. You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June 25.—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 1, '78.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made such a [illegible] the same way, and wish one No. 3 box.

PROF. HARRIS'
RADICAL CURE
FOR NERVOUS
DEBILITY
AND ORGANIC
WEAKNESS
IN YOUNG
AND MIDDLE-AGED
MEN.

A VITAL FORCE RESTORER
A TRIED REMEDY
THE PASTILLE
OF GREAT VALUE
DON'T FAIL TO GET A BOX

Put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full Directions for using will accompany each box.

Prepared and Sold ONLY by
HARRIS REMEDY CO. Mfg. Chemists,
MARKET AND 8TH STS., ST. LOUIS, MO.

USE
KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE

THE

COLUMBUS BUGGY COMPANY

STILL LEADS WITH THE

LARGEST BUGGY MANUFACTORY IN THE WORLD.

AND SELL THE BEST BUGGY ON THE GLOBE FOR THE MONEY.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND TESTIMONIALS OF HUNDREDS OF LIVERYMEN WHO HAVE USED THEM

ADDRESS

COLUMBUS BUGGY Co.
COLUMBUS OHIO.

Be sure, before buying, to examine the Name Plate to be found on the rear of every Buggy manufactured by us, for NONE ARE GENUINE unless they bear the name

Columbus Buggy Company,
COLUMBUS OHIO.

Many inferior goods are offered as Columbus Buggies, and care should be used to distinguish between 'Columbus Buggies" and Columbus Buggy Co's. Buggies.

TESTIMONIALS.

GENTLEMEN: Your buggies have given me entire satisfaction, both in style and durability. I have used them for the past three years. Your recent improvements on road wagons I consider the best in the market.

JAMES H. RAMBURG.
Frederick Maryland.

DEAR SIRS: We have used buggies of your make that have been in use three years, and no buggy we have that cost twice the amount has given better satisfaction.

JAMES H. ALEXANDER.
Johnstown, Pa.

GENTLEMEN: We have used the Columbus Buggy Company's work for the last five years and can conscientiously recommend it as strictly first class as to style, material, workmanship and durability. Your buggies have given better satisfaction than any other make of vehicles we had in use for the last ten years.

PALMER & WHITTAKER.
Red Oak Iowa.

GENTLEMEN: It gives me pleasure to state that I have been selling your buggies and carriages for four years, and can safely recommend them to any one in want of a buggy or carriage. Yours Truly, J. L. GRIBBLE.
Macomb, Illinois,

GENTLEMEN: With over fifteen years experience in building buggies, wagons, &c., I do not hesitate in saying your buggies and carriages are strictly first-class in workmanship, material and proportions, filling a long-felt want for a reliable article that can be sold at a price lower than any ordinary manufacturer can produce and sell the same quality of Work at. Yours, etc. I. S. ERICK, Conneautville Pa.

GENTLEMEN: I have used your Brewster side-bar buggies for four years, together with buggies that cost me $300 and $350, and your buggies were the first that went out, on account of being side-bar. They have not cost me $5 for repairs, and those I have sold of your make have given good satisfaction. I think that you make the cheapest and best road wagons that are made in the United States for the money. Respectfully, P. H. HAMLIN, Lawrence Kansas.

DEAR SIRS: We have been using your buggies for the last four or five years. They have given entire satisfaction. I think they are the best buggies made for the money.
W. B. GRIMES & CO., Liverymen Whitehall Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: We have been handling your work for two seasons, and have in every instance found your buggies first class. We never have had one of your jobs returned to us for repairs; neither have we had a single complaint on account of work not being perfectly satisfactory. Very Respectfully, H.P. BUCKLEY & CO., Springfield, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN. I have no hesitancy in saying that the buggies manufactured by the Columbus Buggy Company are the best work for the price I have any knowledge of. In not a single instance has there been any dissatisfaction on the part of any one of my customers.

FRANK L. HALL.
Owensboro, Ky

DEAR SIRS: For the past two years we have used your buggies side by side with other makes in both our stables, and are perfectly satisfied with the strength, durability and workmanship, compared with others. As fast as our stock in livery is used up we shall replace them with your manufacture, knowing from experience that it is the best we can do. Respectfully,

SWEET & FOLLANSBEE,
Quincy Illinois.

For sale by dealers everywhere.

Any of our readers who will enclose two 3 cent stamps in a letter to the Columbus Buggy Co., Columbus O., will receive in return a beautiful engraving in colors, representing an Australian scene and their manner of travelling in that country with ostriches as a motor. They give this picture (the packing costing six cents) to all who may send for it, desiring in this manner to make themselves more widely known to the people.

The Little Hatchet Story,

WITH OCCASIONAL QUESTIONS BY A FIVE-YEAR-OLD HEARER.

And so, smiling, we went on: "Well, one day George's father—"

"George who?" asked Clarence.

"George Washington. He was a little boy then, like you. One day his father—"

"Whose father?" demanded Clarence, with an increasing degree of interest.

"George Washington's. This great man we are telling you of. One day George's father gave him a little hatchet—"

"Gave who a little hatchet?" the dear child interrupted with a gleam of bewitching intelligence. Most men would have got mad, but we didn't. We knew how to talk to children, so we went on:

"George Washington. His—"

"Who gave him the little hatchet?"

"His father. And his father—"

"Whose father?"

"George Washington's."

"Oh!"

"Yes, George Washington. And his father told him—"

"Told who?"

"Told George."

"Oh, yes, George!"

We took up the story right where the boy interruped, for we could see that he was just crazy to hear the end of it. We said:

"And he was told—"

"George told him?"

"No, his father told George."

"Oh!"

"Yes; told him he must be careful with the hatchet—"

"Who must be careful?"

"George must."

"Oh!"

"Yes, must be careful with his hatchet—"

"What hatchet?"

"Why, George's."

"Oh!"

"With the hatchet, and not cut himself with it, or drop it in the cistern, or leave it out in the grass all night. So George went 'round cutting everything he could reach with his hatchet; and last he came to a splendid apple tree, his father's favorite, and cut it down, and—"

"Who cut it down?"

"George did."

"Oh!"

"But his father came home and saw it the first thing, and—"

"Saw the hatchet?"

"No; saw the apple tree. And he said:

"'Who cut down my favorite apple tree?'"

"What apple tree?"

"George's father's. And everybody said they didn't know anything about it, and—"

"Anything about what?"

"The apple tree."

"Oh!"

"And George came up and heard them talking about it—"

"Heard who talking about it?"

"Heard his father and the men."

"What were they talking about?"

"About the apple tree."

"What apple tree?"

"The favorite that George cut down."

"George who?"

"George Washington."

"Oh!"

"So George came up and heard them talking about it—"

"What did he cut it down for?"

"Just to try his little hatchet."

"Whose little hatchet?"

"Why, his own, the one his father gave him."

"Gave who?"

"Why, George Washington."

"Oh!"

"So George came up, and he said: 'Father, I can not tell a lie. It was—'"

"His father couldn't?"

"Why, no; George couldn't."

"Oh! George? Oh, yes!"

"'It was I cut your apple tree. I did—'"

"His father did?"

"No, no; it was George said this."

"Said he cut his father?"

"No, no, no; said he cut down his apple tree."

"George's apple tree?"

"No, no; his father's."

"Oh!"

"He said—"

"His father said?"

"No, no, no; George said: 'Father, I can not tell a lie. I did it with my little hatchet.' And his father said: 'Noble boy, I would rather loose a thousand apple trees than have you tell a lie.'"

"George did?"

"No, his father said that."

"Said he'd rather have a thousand apple trees?"

"Said he'd rather loose a thousand apple trees than—"

"Said he'd rather George would?"

"No, said he would than have him lie."

"Oh, George would rather have his father lie?"

We are patient, and we love children, but if Mrs. Caruthers hadn't come and got her prodigy at that critical juncture we don't believe all Burlington would have pulled us out of the snarl. And as Clarence Alencon de Marshemon Caruthers pattered down stairs, we heard him telling his ma about a boy who had a father named George, and he told him to cut down an apple tree, and he said he'd rather tell a thousand lies than cut down one apple tree.—[Burlington Hawkeye.

HONEST WAGONS!!

Is what you want. Call on

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.

and see their home-made

WAGONS!

GIVE THEM A CALL.

CENTRAL CONSERVATORY
—OF—
—M—U—S—I—C—!—!!—!!—
Columbus, Bartholomew Co., Ind.

Cheapest tuition in the U. S. for advantages offered. Limited number boarded in Principal's family. For terms, etc., address:
28-4w. W. E. BATES, Principal.

FORT WAYNE
CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.
(Incorporated 1871.)

For Catalogue and Particulars, address C. F. W. MEYER, Principal.
FORT WAYNE, IND. 27-8.

MUSIC MONEY
$ 5.00 FOR ONLY $1.00

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send 3 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ide

2 CARD COLLECTORS. Send a 2 stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards, photograph, picture & chromo cards. BOYS send a mail a package including mo cards. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA OHIO. 10-13w.

NOTICE. We have just issued a book containing 125 pieces of both vocal and instrumental music, every piece of which is very popular. We will give this book in place of the one given heretofore if desired. In case a book premium is not wanted, we will give a set (6) of beautiful silver-planted teaspoons. Great inducements to any one wishing to get up a club. Address as above for terms

---

THE MYSTERY OF
Love Making Solved
Or an Easy Road to Marriage.

Those in Love will find in this Book strange Secrets always hidden before to mankind, and an Easy Way to Marriage, also many Ancient Secrets that the married should know. If a wife is neglected by her wayward husband this book will surely reclaim him to his first love. It proves that Failure to win the object of your Choice is impossible. We have ransacked every country to get these Secrets of Love Making. They will cause millions of Hearts and Hands to be United in Marriage. What strange things regarding Love Making you can find in this Book. If your Love is not reciprocated, this great Book will open wide the barred door, and makes Love's Pathway clear. Start Right and the Battle is Half Won. Sent by Mail for 10 Three cent stamps. Two for 20 cents. Five for $1.00. Address SUNSHINE PUBLISHING HOUSE, Geneva, O.

The American Popular Dictionary, $1.00

This useful and elegant volume is a complete Library and Encyclopaedia, as well as the best Dictionary in the world. Superbly bound in cloth and gilt. It contains EVERY WORD in THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, with its true meaning, derivation, spelling and pronunciation and a vast amount of absolutely necessary information upon science, Mythology, Biography, American History, Laws, etc., being a perfect Library of reference. Webster's Dictionary costs $8.00, and the American Popular Dictionary costs only $1. "Worth ten times the money."—N.Y. Atlas. "We have never seen its equal, either in price, finish or contents."—The Advocate. "A perfect Dictionary and library of reference."—Leslie's Illus. News, N. Y. One copy of the American Popular Dictionary (illustrated), the greatest and best book ever published, post-paid to any address on receipt of $1. Entire satisfaction guaranteed. Two copies postpaid $2. Order at once. This offer is good for 60 days only, and will never be made again. Six copies for Five Dollars. Get five of your friends to send with you and you get your own book free.

SUNSHINE PUBLISHING CO.,
Geneva, Ohio.

Our readers will find this wonderful book the cheapest Dictionary published. The information it contains is worth many times the amount asked for it, and it should be in the possession of everybody. With this book in the library for reference, many other much more expensive works can be dispensed with, and ignorance of his country, history, business, laws, etc., is inexcusable in any man. Note the price, $1, post paid.

FORT WAYNE & JACKSON R. R.—SHORT Line

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Time-Card in effect June 1, 1882.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am	....
Saginaw	6 30	7 58	....
Lansing	9 25	10 15
Grand Rapids	10 20	6 00	12 25pm
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 05
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 45	5 22
Jackson Lv	6 20am	12 05pm	6 55
Hanover	7 03	12 37	8 00
Jonesville	7 25	1 02	8 55
Bankers	7 38	1 18	9 20
Reading	7 50	1 27	9 45
Montgomery	8 02	1 40	10 10
Fremont	8 19	1 58	10 40
Angola	8 35	2 13	11 17
Pleasant Lake	8 45	2 28	11 50
Waterloo	9 05	2 43	7 00am
Auburn	9 15	2 53	7 25
Auburn Junction	9 20	2 57	7 50
Arrive Ft. Wayne	10 15	3 50	9 20
Indianapolis	5 45pm	10 45	....
Cincinnati	6 00	7 35am	....
Louisville	7 50	7 25	....
St. Louis	....	8 40	....
Washington	2 10	6 47	....
Baltimore	3 20	6 15	....

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Ac'm
Leave Baltimore	11 00am	....	1 30am
Washington	10 40	....	9 35
St. Louis	6 40pm	....	7 50
Louisville	7 12	7 00am	....
Cincinnati	9 00	7 45	2 25pm
Indianapolis	4 20am	10 35
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 40pm	6 00	3 00
Auburn	12 46	08	3 05
Waterloo	12 56	18	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 16	37	4 25
Angola	1 27	6 05	5 00
Fremont	42	7 22	5 33
Montgomery	58	7 40	6 07
Reading	10	7 52	6 30
Bankers	22	8 04	6 53
Jonesville	38	8 18	7 25
Hanover	05	8 45	8 20
Jackson	3 40pm	9 20	9 20
Ann Arbor	5 07	10 26	10 34
Detroit	6 30	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 30	7 10am	4 30pm
Lansing	5 33	8 20	....
Saginaw	8 25	10 55	....
Bay City	9 20	11 55	....

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.: east—12 40, 5 00, 7 05, 9 30 a m., 3 05, 4 05, 9 28 p. m.; west—12 45, 7 02, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J. L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 7 30 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m., 2 30 p. m.; west 9 45 a. m., 1 07, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 42, 11 30 p. m; west 2 25 a. m., 1 35 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 4 34 a. m., 1 48, 10 22 p. m.; west, 2 05 a. m., 12 45, 11 35p. m W., St. L. & P.: east—7:20 a. m. 3 :15 p. m. west —1:57, 11:31 a. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 20 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m. 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 5 00 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 35 p. m., west, 6 10, 10 40 a. m., 4 50 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W. leave 12 10, 6 05 a. m.1 15pm; ar. 2 00, a. m. 2 55, 7 05p.m, P., Ft. W. & C., east 3 05 a. m., 4 10, 11 20 p. m.; west 12 10, 2 40, 11 43 a. m., 3 40 p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Ft. & Pass'r. Agent

LAKE SHORE & MICHIGAN SOUTHERN Railway.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y.Ex.	At. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm
Elkhart	1 20pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 48	11 30	5 25	12 10pm
Corunna	2 58		6 35
Sedan			7 00	00
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30	40
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20	40
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi Ex.	Pac.Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 05	10 10
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	8 25

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:05 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage J. E. CURTIS,
Supt. Mich. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG,
Agent Waterloo Ind.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAILROAD—CHICAGO Division.

IN EFFECT FROM MAY 21, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W.&B. Express	W. & C Ex.
Chicago lv	5 10pm	10 50pm	8 10am
Walkerton Junction	8 11	1 56am	11 14
Milford Junction	9 16	3 10	12 25
Syracuse		3 22	12 35pm
Cromwell		3 38	12 51
Albion		4 00	1 12
Avilla		4 22	1 34
Garrett	10 35	4 45	2 00
Auburn Junction	10 42	4 54	2 08
St. Joe
Hicksville	11 14	5 30	2 42
Defiance	11 52	6 13	3 24
Deshler	12 45am	7 10	4 20
Fostoria	1 30	8 07	5 15
Tiffin	2 02	8 35	5 43
Chicago Junction ar.	3 00	9 45	6 50

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
Chicago Junction lv	9 50pm	6 40pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 38	7 56	9 14
Fostoria	11 02	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 48	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville	1 47	11 42	12 25pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 13am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 45
Avilla		12 58	1 56
Albion		1 02	2 21
Cromwell		1 28	2 45
Syracuse		1 45	3 02
Milford Junction		1 56	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 14	4 30
Chicago ar	8 35	5 55	7 50

FT. WAYNE, CINCINNATI & LOUISVILLE Railroad,

In effect April 16, 1882.

SOUTHWARD. No 3 Express	SOUTHWARD. No. 1 Mail	STATIONS.	NORTHWARD. No 2 Mail	NORTHWARD. No. 4 Ex
5 40pm	10 20am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10pm	9 56am
6 47	11 20	Bluffton	4 05	8 53
7 50	12 18pm	Hartford	3 06	7 47
8 40	1 10pm	Muncie	2 10	6 50
		Cincinnati
10 55pm	6 05	Indianapolis	11 05	4 35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. B. CAMPBELL, General Ticket Agt.

Where Shall I Attend School ?

You will be aided in answering this question by reading the catalogue of the FORT WAYNE (IND.) COLLEGE.
The lowest rates combined with the best advantages. Address;
W. F. YOCUM, A. M.,
29 6w. Fort Wayne, Ind.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 181 and 183 W. Madison St., Chicago. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp.

$1,000 Forfeit!

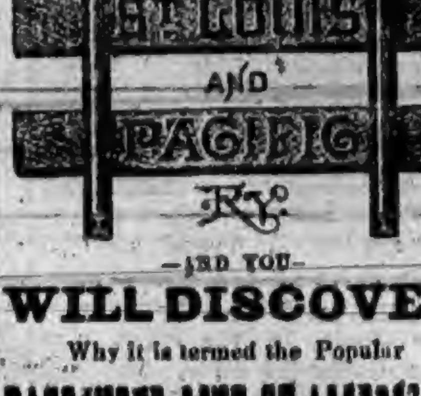
Having the utmost confidence in its superiority over all others, and after thousands of tests of the most complicated and severest cases we could find, we feel justified in offering to forfeit One Thousand Dollars for any case of coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, hoarseness, bronchitis, consumption, in its early stages; whooping cough and all diseases of the throat and lungs, except Asthma, for which we only claim relief, that we can't cure with West's Cough Syrup, when taken according to directions. Sample bottles 25 and 50 cents; large bottles $1.00. Genuine wrappers only in blue. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price. JOHN C. WEST & CO., sole proprietors, 181 and 183 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Health is Wealth.

DR. E. C. WEST'S Nerve and Brain Treatment is a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Spermatorrhoea, Impotency, Emissions, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, self-abuse, or over-indulgence, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind. Orders by mail at regular price.

—Weirick, the Fairfield merchant, buys butter and eggs and other produce. Don't forget it. tf.

TAKE A RIDE
—OVER THE—

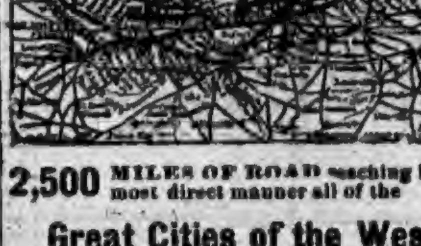


—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!



2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS
TO ALL POINTS.

East, West, Northwest or Southwest!

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind., or G. R. COLE, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, H. C. TOWNSEND,
Gen. Manager, Gen. Passenger Agent
St. Louis

RUBBER ROOFING

Costs only $3.25 per square, 10x10 feet, and will last a lifetime on steep or flat roofs. Send for circular and samples free.
IND. PAINT AND ROOFING CO.,
Indianapolis, Ind.

JOS. ABRIGHT,
—Dealer In—

Watches, Watches, Clocks, Clocks, Castors Castors,
Spoons, Spoons, Forks, Forks, Knives Knives,
Chains, Chains, Rings, Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid,

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER
IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,
GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,
54 S. MERIDIAN ST., INDIANAPOLIS.

HUGHES & HUMPHREYS,
SLATE ROOFERS,

First Premium on Ornamental Work.
All Work Guaranteed Water Proof.
FORT WAYNE, IND.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY

FISTULA RECTAL ULCERS, FISSURES CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED COME BEFORE TOO LATE

BY DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE PATENTED.

OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR BRINKERHOFF. CURE WARRANTED

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, JULY 27, 1882. Number 30.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

Supreme Court.

For the election of Judges of the Supreme Court, the state is divided into five districts. Each Judge must be a resident of the district for which he is elected, but is elected by the vote of the whole state.

The counties of Monroe, Owen, Clay, Park, Morgan, Sullivan, Green, Knox, Daviess, Martin, Dubois, Pike, Gibson, Posey, Vanderburgh, Warrick, Spencer, Perry and Orange constitute the first district. Hon. William E. Niblack, of Vincennes, is the present Judge, and Hon. William M. Franklin, of Spencer, appointed by him, is the Supreme Court Commissioner, for the same district.

The second district is composed of the counties of Ohio, Bush, Switzerland, Dearborn, Shelby, Brown, Lawrence, Crawford, Harrison, Floyd, Clark, Scott, Jefferson, Ripley, Decatur, Bartholomew, Jackson, Washington and Jennings. Hon. George V. Howk, of New Albany, is the present Judge, and Hon. George A. Bicknell, also of New Albany, appointed by him, is the Supreme Court Commisioner for the same district.

The counties following compose the third district: Tippecanoe, Johnson, White, Warren, Fountain, Montgomery, Clinton, Boon, Tipton, Hamilton, Marion, Vermilion, Putman, Hendricks and Vigo. Hon. B. K. Elliot, of Indianapolis, is the present Judge, and Hon. J. B. Black, of Indianapolis, appointed by him is the Supreme Court Commissoner for the same district.

The counties of Allen, Whitley, Huntington, Wells, Adams Grant, Blackford, Jay, Delaware, Randolph, Howard, Madison, Hancock, Henry, Wayne, Fayette, Union and Franklin form the fourth district. Hon. J. L. Worden, of Fort Wayne, is the present Judge and Hon. John Morris, of Fort Wayne, appointed by him, is the Supreme Court Commissioner for the same district.

The following counties make up the fifth district: Lake, Benton, Porter, Laporte, St. Joseph, Elkhart, Kosciusko, Marshall, Starke, Jasper, Newton, Pulaski, Fulton, Wabash, Miami, Cass, Carroll, Lagrange, Steuben, DeKalb and Noble. Hon. W. A. Woods, of Goshen, is the present Judge, and Hon. James I. Best, of Waterloo, appointed by him, is the Supreme Court Commissioner for the same district.

A candidate for judge is to be nominated, at the approaching convention, and elected at the fall election, in the first, second and fourth districts, but not in the third and fifth district.

A Smuggling Locomotive.

A singular adaptation of the locomotive has just been made in Russia. Information having been given to the authorities at Alexandrovo, on the Polish frontier, that the locomotive of the express leaving that station for Warsaw has been ingeniously converted into a receptacle for smuggling goods, it was carefully examined during its sojourn at that station. Though nothing was found wrong, it was deemed advisable that a custom-house official should accompany the train to its destination, where the engine furnace and boiler were emptied and deliberately taken to pieces. In the interior was discovered a secret compartment containing one hundred and twenty-three pounds of foreign cigars and several parcels of valuable silk. Several arrests were made, including that of the driver, but his astonishment at finding the engine to which he had so long been accustomed converted into a hardened offender against the laws was so genuine that he was released and allowed to return to his duties.

A stranger in Austin was very much surprised at the vast number of swallows that have their nests under the Brueggerhoff building. They swarm around the roof by the thousands. The stranger looked at them for a few minutes, and then remarked to a man with a big diamond pin, who was leaning against a post on Austin avenue: "Did you ever see so many swallows before in one place?" "Yaas, I have seen more." "Where?" "In that saloon on the corner. I was bar-keeper there when the legislature was in session."—Texas Siftings.

Grateful to Invalids.

Floreston Cologne is grateful to invalids, because it is refreshing without the sickening effects of most perfumes. 27-4t.

A Mountain Picnic.

HOW THE CHIEF MOURNER ENJOYED HIMSELF AND MADE MATTERS PLEASANT FOR THE LADIES.

I had the pleasure once of acting as chief mourner at a mountain picnic. This subject has been pretty well represented in song and romance already, but I venture to give my experience as being a little out of the ordinary. The joy which is experienced in the glad, free life of the picnicker is always before the picnic. On the evening before he makes the excursion, he is too full of sacred pleasure and lavender colored tranquillity for anything. He glides about the house, softly warbling to himself the fragment of some tender love song, while he packs the corkscrews and matches and other vegetables for the morrow.

I was placed in command of a party of ladies, who had everything arranged so that all I needed to do was to get into the buggy and drive to the mountains, eat my lunch and drive back again. I like to go with a party of ladies, because they never make suggestions about the route or how to drive. They are just as full of gentle trust and childlike confidence and questions as they can be. They get the lunch ready and get into the buggy and keep thinking of things they have forgotten till they get 400 miles from the home, and they sing little pieces of old songs, and won't let the great horrid man in charge of the excursion have any lunch when he gets hungry, because they were hunting for a magnificent spot beneath the boughs of a magnificent elm, when every sane man in the territory knows there isn't an elm, big or little within 1,432½ miles.

We went up in the mountains, because we wanted to go where it would be cool. As a search for cool resort, this picnic of ours was the most brilliant success. We kept going up at an angle of forty-five degrees from the time we left home until we had to get out and walk to keep warm. We got into one of the upper strata of clouds, and a cold mist mixed with fragments of ice cream and large chunks of hail and misery about the size of a burglar proof safe came gathering over us. Then we camped in the midst of the mountain storm, and the various ladies sat down on their feet and put the lap robes over them and looked reproachfully at me. We hovered around under the buggy and two or three little half-grown parasols, and watched the storm. It was a glorious spectacle to a thinking mind. They began to abuse me because I did not make a circus of myself and thus drive away the despair and misery of the occasion. They had brought me along it seemed because I was such an amusing little cuss. It made me a good deal sadder than I would have been otherwise. Here in the midst of a wild and bitter mountain storm, so thick that you couldn't see twenty yards away, with nothing to eat but marble cake soaked in vinegar and a piece of cold tongue with a red ant on it, I was expected to make a hippodrome and negro minstrel of myself. I burst into tears and tried to sit on my feet as ladies did. I couldn't do it so simultaneously and so extemporaneously, as it were, as they could. I had to take them by sections and sit on them. My feet are not large but at the same time I cannot hover over them at the same time.

Dear reader, did you ever sit amidst the silence and solitude of the mountains and feel the hailstones rolling down your back, melting and soothing you, and filling your heart with great surging thoughts of the sweet by and by, and death, and the grave, and other mirth-provoking topics? We had now been about two hundred years without food, it seemed to me, and I mildly suggested that I would like something to eat rather than to die of starvation in the midst of plenty, but the ladies wouldn't give me so much as a ham sandwich to preserve my life. They told me to smoke if I must have nourishment, and coldly refused to let me sample the pickled spiders and cold-pressed flies. So, in the midst of all this prepared food, I had to go out into the sagebush and eat raw grasshoppers and prickly pears.

By and by, when we concluded that we had seen about all the mountain storm we needed in our business, and didn't pine for any more hailstones and dampness, we hitched up again and started home. Then we got lost. The ladies felt indignant and I was delighted. I never was so lost in all my life. When I was asked where I thought I was, I could cheerfully reply that I didn't know, and that would stop the conversation for as much as two minutes.

The beauty of being lost is that you are all the time seeing new objects. There is a charm of novelty about being lost that one does not fully understand until he has been there, so to speak. When I would say that I didn't know where the road led to that we were traveling, one of the party would suggest, with mingled bitterness and regret, that we had better turn back. I turned back seventeen times at the request of various members of the party, for whom I had and still have the most unbounded respect. Finally we got so accustomed to the various objects along this line of travel that we pined for a change. Then we drove ahead a little farther and found the road. It had been there all the time. It is there yet.

I never had so much fun in all my life. It don't take much to please me however. I am of a cheerful disposition, anyhow. Some of the ladies brought home columbines that had been drowned; others brought home beautiful green mosses with red bugs in them, and others brought home lichens, ferns and neuralgia. I didn't bring anything home. I was glad to get home and know that I was all there.

I took the lunch basket and examined it. It looked sick and unhappy. At first I thought I would pick the red ants out of the lunch; then it would save time to pick the lunch out of the red ants; finally I thought I would compromise by throwing the whole thing in the alley. I am now preparing a work to be called the "Picknicker's Guide; or Starvation Made Easy and Even Desirable." It will supply a want long felt, and will be within the reach of all.

The White House Mail.

Several hundred letters are received every day at the White House. They are delivered by a special messenger. the correspondence addressed to the president is not opened by him, and it is very rare that he reads one of the thousands of letters addressed to him. All of his letters are first opened by his private secretary. The majority of them are simply referred elswhere, and never in any form come to the attention of the president. It makes no difference how "personal, private, or confidential" an envelope may be marked, it does not go by the desk of the private secretary unopened. Letters from relatives or intimate friends are sent to the president just as received, but all other letters of a character worthy of being called to his attention are simply "briefed," so that the president can see at a glance what is wanted. Applicants for office who write to the White House are always referred to the departments. It has been the custom of late years to send out to every such applicant a polite formula, saying that the application has been referred to such and such a department. Some of the simple-minded correspondence of the executive construe the receipts of this formula as one of the most important steps in the way of securing the desired office. One happy man who recently received one of these formulas wrote in reply that his gratitude over the receipt of the same "as Big as an Elefent." He then added that when he should get his place his gratitude would be "as big as 2 Elefents." This formula of answer is in reality as full of encouragement as the editor's polite "rejection with thanks," sent under seal with a pile of returned manuscript. But no amount of ill success has any discouraging effect upon the people who write to the president for information, advice, money, or office. Out of the 50,000,000 of people in this country there are always a daily number who flatter themselves that they are not wasting good paper, pens and ink by writing to the president.—Chicago Times Washington Letter.

A new sub-order of odd-toed ungulates, or hoofed quadrupeds, named Condylarthra, has been proposed and extended by Prof. Cope to include early tertiary mammals constituting two families, the Phenacondontidæ and Menisco theriidæ.—The Critic. This news greatly relieves us. We have long suspected that this would have to be done, and are much pleased to have our suspicions confirmed in the above manner.—Harvard Lampoon.

He had lost his knife, and they asked him the usual question: "Do you know where you lost it?" "Yes, yes, of course I do. I'm merely hunting in these other places for it to kill time."

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield, will sell you goods as cheap and as good as you can get anywhere. tf.

The Origin of Ghosts.

On the appreciation of the simple fact that the brain is the true seat of senses rests the whole explanation of the ghosts and appirations which occasionally attend the footsteps and meet the eyes of humanity. When we are conscious of looking at a real object, a sensation of sight is formed in the brain as we have seen. Such a sensation we call an "objective" one because it is derived from a veritable object whose existence, even when unseen, we entertain no doubt; the sensation of sound is then called "subjective." But there are many familiar instances in which the power of the mind to reproduce the sensations, sights and sounds we have received is demonstrated. The day-dreamer can sometimes bring the scenes in which he has once taken part so vividly before his mental gaze that his reverie may actually be broken by the words which unconsciously flow from his lips as his imagination starts into bodily action. Such a power of fancy and imagination is the beginning of faint imitation of a still more powerful means which we possess to bring before ourselves the forms and scenes which have once been objectively present with us. In the dream this power is illustrated typically enough. From the background of consciousness, so to speak, we project forward, in our sleep, the pictures which a busy brain is reproducing, or it may be piecing together from the odds and ends of its fancy to form the ludicrous combinations we are familiar with in the "Land of Nod." And if we carry the idea of this same power being exercised in our walking moments, to form the ghosts of science, the explanation of the otherwise curious and mysterious subjects of illusive visions will be complete.

He Had Her Signature.

The American Express Company is now issuing a "money order" in connection with its other business. A few days since a well-dressed young man entered the office in this city, and stepping up the desk said to the obliging money clerk, that he wished to send some money to his wife; that she lived in Boston, in a flat, and that her mail being sometimes tampered with, he would like to know how to send it so that it would be absolutely safe. Mr. Clark replied by showing him the "advice card" they use in connection with orders, on which is a clause stating that if the sender of the money has in his possession a signature of the payee, and will paste it on the card, the persons calling for the money can identify themselves by duplicating the signature. The gentleman replied that he had lots of them, and putting his hand in his pocket brought out a bundle of letters. After examining several in succession, a broad smile swept over his countenance, and with a half doubtful expression he said: "Are you a married man?" Mr. Clark answered that he was. "Well, then, look at this" handing over one of the letters. Mr. Clark looked and found the cause of the young man's amusement to be that the letter was signed, not with his wife's name, but with the endearing substitute: "Your cotsey tootsey," and it turned out that they all were so. Mr. Clark then said: "Well, cut one of them off and the agent will cause her to duplicate it." The gentleman, after some hesitation, agreed remarking, "I'll do it, but when I get home I will expect some lively hair pulling."—Cincinnati Letter.

Report of the St. Johns School for the term commencing April 24, 1882, and ending June 28, 1882. No. of pupils enrolled 27; average daily attendance 19. Names of pupils who were neither tardy nor absent during the term, LeRoy Faegler and Vinnie Fair.

CORA FARNSWORTH, Teacher.

A visitor, on calling at a friend's house during the session of the legislature, was questioned thus by a little boy: "Where's your ax?" "What do you mean little boy?" asked the visitor. "I heard pa say the reason you came to town was you had ax to grind."

"Your Honor and gentlemen of the jury, I acknowledge the reference of counsel of the other side to my gray hair. My hair is gray and it will continue to be gray as long as I live. The hair of that gentleman is black and will continue to be black as long as he dyes."—N. Y. Independent.

The Highest Rank.

Made from harmless materials, and adapted to the needs of fading and falling hair, Parker's Hair Balsam has taken the highest ranks as an elegant and reliable hair restorative. 27-4t.

ROOT AND

COMPANY

Call your attention to a new and beautiful line of Sheet and Pillow

SHAMS

In match setts of

ANTIQUE LACES

At one-half real value.

ROOT AND

COMPANY

Show in great variety new

ANTIQUE TIDIES ! ! !

Square and Oblong

NOTTINGHAM TIDIES,

APPLIQUE LACE TIDIES,

IM. RUSSIAN TIDIES

ROOT AND

COMPANY

Exibit New

LACE TRIMMED PARASOLS,

BLACK SATIN PARASOLS,

CARDINAL SATIN PARASOLS,

OLIVETTE PARASOLS,

CARRIAGE PARASOLS,

MISSES' PARASOLS,

SUN UMBRELLAS,

SCHOOL UMBRELLAS,

GENTS' UMBRELLAS

In styles surpassing that of any former season

ROOT AND

COMPANY,

46 and 48 Calhoun St.,

FT. WAYNE. INDIANA.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5,00 per annum For each additional line 60 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana Office over Mrs. Jones' Store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections Office over Citizens' Bank, Waterloo, Ind.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING, office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 28 1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor, John Butt Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor,

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M.D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M.D

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence: North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m., except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week. HENRY PROBST.
Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.
WILSON S. DANCER, Trustee.
April 15, 1882. tf

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice, FREDERICK GFILLER, Trustee.
April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice, C. H. BROWN, Trustee.

For Sale.

On account of my wife's illness I offer for sale my threshing machine, clover huller, and ten horse power traction engine all in complete running order. For terms call at my residence two miles west of Waterloo, on Smithfield township line, or address. Wm. Brand, Waterloo, Ind.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, Executrix of the will of Henry G. Bickel, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.
July 1, 1882. MARY C. BICKEL, Executrix.
W. H. Dills, Attorney. 27-3w.

Estray Notice.

Taken up by the suscriber at my home, one-half mile south of Hopewell church, in Jackson township, on June 18, 1882, a two-year-old colt, sorrel, with light mane and tail. The owner can have same by calling on me and paying for this notice,

MRS. REBECCA MAURER.

Normal Music School.

The Northern Indiana Music School will be held at the Fort Wayne college, August 8th to 25th. J. F. Kinsey, principal assisted by Otto A. Schmint and Princess L. Clark. This is decidedly the best and cheapest first class music school in the country.

For circulars stating particulars, address J. F. Kinsey, Fort Wayne, Ind. 27-4t

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

SPECTACLES

Dr. E. C. YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, 133. 9-tf.

MONEY to loan on improved farms in sums of $3000 or more at six per cent. No delay. U. M. STODDORD,
26-4w. Indianapolis, Ind.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

THE immediate cause of the war with Egypt is the attacks upon foreign residents by Arabi Pasha, a subordinate of the Khedive, and his proclaimed purpose to establish a rule of Egypt for the Egyptians. It will be remembered that the lives of many foreign residents have been sacrificed in the crusade, and thousands of them driven from the city.

THE Egyptian artillery is supplied with Krupp breechloading guns, the infantry with the finest Remington rifles, and the cavalry with carbines and sabres. Throughout the army is well equipped, disciplined and in good condition. This is entirely attributable to General Stone. For some time Arabi Bey has been recruiting, and probably has 50,000 men. In a brief period he can have from 75,000 to 125,000 men.

ONE great interest that Great Britain has to protect in Egypt is the Suez ship canal. Without fresh water the canal could not be operated. The canal runs through a sandy waste. No fresh water is within 100 miles on one side or 500 miles on the other side. The fresh water with which Port Said, Ismailia and Suez, the three stations along the canal, are supplied, comes from the Nile through a canal at Boulak, near Cairo. Should Arabi Pasha shut off the supply, the canal would be useless and great distress caused. As he is in possession of Cairo, the people along the canal are at his mercy.

HERE AND THERE.

THE sneaking horse-thief is abroad in the land.

MRS. LINCOLN leaves a fortune of about $75,000.

The city of Alexandria, Egypt, contains 600,000 inhabitants.

ENGLAND is actively enforcing the repression act in Ireland.

THE Sunday liquor traffic appears to be "on top" again in Cincinnati.

CHICAGO is to have a Music Hall which will cost one million dollars.

THE National Turners' Union has issued a manifesto against prohibition.

THE business of the Postoffice Department aggregates over $40,000,000 a year.

OVER fifty deaths from excessive heat were reported in New York city on the 12th inst.

THE Mormons expect to receive, this year, a ship load of converts from Europe every month.

"IRELAND'S opportunity" in "England's extremity" will scarcely be realized in the war with Egypt.

THE House of Congress has passed a bill increasing the pension of the widow of General Custer to $50 a month.

THREE boys died in Lowell, Mass., the other day, from lock-jaw caused by toy-pistol wounds inflicted on the Fourth.

THE "Orange" and the "Green" united in a picnic near Boston, on the 12th, the first instance of the kind in this country.

RELIABLE statistics at the commercial centers, show a general and cheering improvement in the business of this country.

DECATUR, Ill., is to have water works, three months hence, which will furnish three million gallons daily, at a cost of only $8,700.

THE area of corn planted this year in this country is four per cent. greater than that of last year, aggregating an excess of about 2,500,000 acres.

The Central Committee of the Labor Union of New York recommends the placing of a labor candidate in nomination in each Assembly district.

JUDGE JERE BLACK repudiates that Chicago interview in which he was quoted as naming Blaine and Hancock as the Presidential candidates for 1884.

DURING the last year, ending June 30, there were used by the distillers of Peoria, Ill., 4,831,568 bushels of grain, producing 18,563,156 proof gallons of spirits.

THE hay crop of Illinois this year will reach nearly the average. Last year the crop was valued at $24,184,087. The crop is next in importance to that of corn.

IT is reliably estimated that live stock to the value of $300,000 has left Kentucky for other States and countries during the past year, for use and breeding purposes.

IT is estimated that seven millions of boys and girls attend the Sunday schools of the United States, and are given sound and wholesome instruction by one million teachers.

THE Government proposes to sell the old postoffice site in New York city for the minimum sum of $600,000. Some rich editor ought to buy it as a marriage gift to his youngest of eleven daughters.

IT is estimated that several miles of "the rope which hung Guiteau" have been sold, and the business is still flourishing. Persons who crave that kind of relics ought to have their fill of them by fraud.

THE petroleum produced in this country since 1859, when the first well was opened, has added $1,500,000,000 to the wealth of the nation. The amount is almost equal to the national debt at the present time, $1,549,806.

WITH the River and Harbor Appropriation bill in view the Boston Herald wittily says that "streams of water in Congressional districts are now valuable for two purposes—for bathing and for securing an appropriation."

"PUG" WILSON, in his recent "stand up" before Sullivan, the pugilist, was knocked down twenty-seven times in fifteen minutes, but came to time at last and got his $1,000, for his pluck and endurance.

THE United States Fish Commission has made a special report to Congress, which will be the most exhaustive work on food fishes ever printed. It will make three quarto volumes of 800 pages each, and be profusely illustrated.

NEW ORLEANS now has a direct railway connection with San Francisco via the Southern Pacific route, and Memphis will have direct through connection with the Atlantic coast on the completion of the Tennessee portion of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad.

Judge Kelley recently said to a correspondent that Congress would not adjourn before the 10th or 15th of August, and that he had because of his belief in this fact just just declined an invitation to speak at the bi-centennial celebration, which occurs in Philadelphia, Aug. 10.

A COMPANY has been chartered, with an alleged capital of $100,000,000, to construct a double-track air-line freight railway from New York to the Missouri river at Council Bluffs, with branches to Chicago and St. Louis. The projected road is to be called "The Continental Railway Company."

THE Mormon priests have declared their intention of bringing the Edmunds bill before the Supreme Court to test its constitutionality, and they say they have plenty of money to make the fight with the best lawyers, and if the decision is against them they propose to refuse the payment of taxes.

MRS. ABRAHAM LINCOLN, widow of the lamented martyr President, died in Springfield, Ill., on Sunday the 16th, inst. She had been ill for a long time, and on the Saturday evening preceding her death she suffered a stroke of paralysis which resulted in her death. Ever since the death of her husband she has been, physically and mentally, a wreck of her former self.

A GLOOMY outlook for Ireland is shown in a cable dispatch which says: "It is feared another crisis is approaching. The weather threatens utter destruction to what promised to be one of the finest harvests ever reaped in Ireland. Heavy and almost incessant rains have laid low many flourishing fields. Potatoes suffered severely. If the weather improves there is still hope of recovery."

THE census bulletins in regard to the wholesale destruction of our forests have had a tendency to advance the prices of lumber, notably pine, which has been used so extensively in years past for a great variety of purposes. Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas have now the bulk of what white pine is left in the country, and it is predicted that New Orleans will soon be the leading lumber market of the country. The South now has 255,000,000,000 feet of standing pine, which, if rightly utilized, ought to augment her future prosperity very materially.

STATISTICAL returns to the Department of Agriculture at Washington, for July, which are very full, show that the cotton crop has improved since the 1st of June, its average condition being three points better the 1st of July. From Virginia to Georgia and west of the Mississippi, every State shows higher figures. From Florida to Mississippi and Tennessee, the condition has slightly declined. The general average is 92, which is higher than in July 1873 and 1874, and lower than in any other year of the past ten. It was 93 in 1877 and 1879 and 95 last July.

THE New York Times publishes very elaborate tables of the church membership of that city. They show that since 1845, while the population has grown 225 per cent., the total Protestant membership has increased 75 per cent., and the Catholic 900 per cent. The Lutherans have grown 400 per cent., the Episcopalians 215 per cent., the Congregationalists 126 per cent., though there are now only 2,466 members of their churches; Presbyterians and Methodists have increased respectfully 34 and 32 per cent. and the Baptists 45 per cent. The Unitarians have increased 150 per cent., their communicants having grown from 200 to 500. The Catholics, in round numbers, are about 500,000 against 50,000 in 1845, while the Lutherans have increased from 1,500 to 8,200. The Friends have fallen from 1,200 to 600, while the Swedenborgians have doubled their membership of 200 in 1845.

A CUNNING method of bank robbery by which a large sum was stolen is spicily described as follows: "Of all the varied devices for bank-robbing, that of the janitor at Elizabeth, N. J., is the most remarkable. This ingenious janitor would sit on a nail-keg in the cellar, and, with a cord and a waxed plummet, drop on to a $20 bill in the desk-drawer of the paying teller on the floor above, and realize a net profit of $50 or $60 a day. The manner in which this enterprising genius was was able to overcome the laws of gravitation and make his waxed plummet drop upward is not clearly comprehensible; but enough is explained to show that he has talents above the cellar level of the ordinary janitor, and will probably be at once promoted to cashier; with a possible presidency in the future.

THE NEWS

Home Items.

Two snow-white robins have been captured in Pennsylvania.

One New York firm handled 350,000 bushels of peanuts last year.

A young woman of Mansfield, Mo., wears her hair seven feet long.

Forest fires are doing considerable damage in Iosco county, Mich.

Last year $837,000 worth of chewing gum was sold in the United States.

Mrs. Oswald Ottendorfer has given $75,000 for a woman's hospital in New York.

A queen rose in a garden near Boston, measures 13½ inches in circumference.

THE Governor of New York has about 5,000 offices, big and little, at his disposal.

A negro child was born with a full set of whiskers and mustache at Laurensburg, N. C.

The President has signed the bill abolishing the military reservation of Fort Abercrombie, Minn.

The total value of exports of breadstuffs for the twelve months ending June 30, 1882, is $176,977,496.

Secretary Chandler said that he would advise the President to veto the pending River and Harbor bill.

The total enrollment in the public schools of Chicago is 68,614, and the average daily membership, 49,606.

The President approved the act to enable National banking associations to extend their corporate existence.

The feature of the Senate Thursday was the speech of Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, in favor of a protective tariff.

The Italo-American Bank of New York was entered by burglars, who secured $6,000 in greenbacks and then fled.

Gen. Grant thinks an English protectorate in Egypt would develope the country and improve the condition of its people.

An apple that had been poisoned to kill birds was found in a field by two children of Columbus, Tenn., who ate it and died.

Merrick's promised startling evidence in the star-route cases has been entirely repudiated by the District Grand Jury.

Mrs. Mollie McBride has been chosen as one of the delegates to the Illinois Greenback State Convention from Peoria county.

A Merchantile Union has been formed in New York to secure the passage of a constitutional amendment abolishing canal tolls.

Within three days six boys have died of lockjaw in Cincinnati and Covington, having been wounded on the Fourth with toy pistols.

Oil was discovered in Hubbard township, Mahoning county, O., by parties drilling for coal, and much excitement prevails in the neighborhood.

The prospects of the rye crop of Illinois are encouraging. Where harvested the yield is abundant, and the quality far excels the average.

An hysterical hen is a curiosity at Charlotte, N. C. It began cackling a month ago, and has never stopped a moment, awake or asleep.

Miss Clokey, the Washington, Pa., young lady who recently married a negro porter, has been placed in an insane asylum at Pittsburg.

The Pension Appropriation bill as it passed the Senate makes no change in the amount appropriated by the House, which remains at $100,000,000.

They say that this time, for sure, a Coney Island is not only announced but will be materialized soon along the beach, ten miles south of Chicago.

At Dayton, W. T., Thursday night, every store, hotel, and bank in the town was consumed by fire, which destroyed six business blocks. Loss, $300,000.

As there was no probability of securing convictions of the violators of the Smith law in Cincinnati, the cases were dismissed on motion of the prosecuting attorney.

Joseph Wheeling, of Williamsport, Pa., his wife, son, and three daughters together weigh 1,205 pounds, and it is their claim that they are the heaviest family in the State.

A palace car is being built in Sacramento, Cal., for Mrs. Leland Stanford's use. It is to be finished according to her suggestions and taste, and is to cost $25,000 or $30,000.

The estimated number of live stock in Iowa is as follows: Swine, 2,041,933; cattle, 2,044,078; horses, 609,840; sheep, 34,360. The condition as compared with past years is less favorable.

The Grand Jury stood 19 against indictment to 4 for indictment of Brady and Price, and unanimously against the indictment of Senator Kellogg, after hearing Merrick's new evidence.

Two brothers named Flaherty, recent arrivals from America, were arrested in the county Kerry, charged with complicity in the assassination of Cavendish and Burke.

Three men, named Bonestein, Jansen and Wharton, fought about a blanket in Pittaman Valley, N. M. Wharton was terribly mutilated, but killed Jansen and mortally wounded Bonestein.

Wallace Ross announces his readiness to row Hanlan five races on consecutive days, with no postponement on account of the weather, the prize to be $1,000 a side for each race, and the distance three to five miles.

John Goodwin, residing in Orange county, Texas, shot W. Windham's dog. The latter killed Goodwin and his brother-in-law in return, but during the melee received wounds of which he died in an hour.

John Doyle and James Fitzhenry were arrested at Philadelphia Sunday for engaging in a prize-fight. The hackman who drove the men to the battle-ground and two reporters were taken in custody as abettors.

Bishop Levi Scott, senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died at his home near Odessa, Delaware, Thursday morning, aged 80 years. He had been a Bishop thirty years.

Judge Advocate General Swaim, in his report to the Secretary of War, maintains that the proceedings of the Sergeant Mason court-martial were irregular and illegal, but makes no recommendations.

John L. Sullivan and "Tug" Wilson fought four rounds with gloves in New York. Wilson was to receive $1,000 should Sullivan fail to knock him out of time. He won the money, but was dreadfully punished in the contest.

Thomas Egan was hanged at Sioux Falls, Dakota Territory, for wife murder. At the first attempt the rope broke; but the unconscious man was again placed on the drop, and, upon falling, his neck broke with a snap.

Mont Robbins, whose father, ex-Congressman William Robbins, was assaulted by L. Mott, at Statesville, N. C., on account of a bitter political speech, went to Iredell county, where Mott lived and killed Mott for the attack on his father.

Mrs. Heartwell, the wife of Dr. N. B. Heartwell, of Des Moines, eloped with a friend of the family named William Osborne. Miss Dana (niece of Judge Napier), and Edward Norman departed with the couple to make the thing more sensational.

The Sciota Valley Railroad Company voted to extend its line from Columbus to Fort Wayne, and a mortgage was authorized on the property for $7,500,000. The money will be used to cancel all other mortgages heretofore made.

Old Holenson, of Decorah, Iowa, feared there was foul air in a cistern which he was about to clean, and prudently sent his daughter down to find out. His apprehension was not groundless. The girl was suffocated to death.

The New York freight-handlers are elated. Not one-third of the Italians and Russian Jews are working, and hardly any freight is being handled. The companies are depressed, and the strikers are confident of gaining their point.

The crop of flaxseed for the present year is one of promise. Last year in round numbers it footed 7,000,000 bushels. The crop this year in Iowa and Kansas will be much heavier than last; that of Indiana and Illinois much less. Full prices are likely to be realized during the season.

John Grumm, a saloon-keeper of Monticello, Iowa, got so disheartened at at the success of the prohibitory amendment that he wandered off to Council Bluffs, and, through sheer carelessness to live any longer, allowed a train of cars to run over him.

Joseph Addison, who engaged in a duel with Richard Garland, of Luneburg county, Va., and was wounded, died at 6 o'clock Sunday morning. Both men were rivals for a young lady's hand. Garland telling her that Addison was only flirting with her brought on the contest.

A party of six Americans who crossed the border to hunt up stolen cattle were arrested by the Mexicans and thrown into a filthy prison. They were twice whipped, and their personal effects appropriated. They will present their cases to the authorities at Washington.

The iron manufacturers of Pittsburg are more steadfastly opposed than ever to the demands of the operatives. The latter also solemnly affirm their intention of not resuming work until their scale is signed, and prospects for a settlement are nowhere visible.

Nineteen bodies have been taken from the ruins of the Paragon saloon at Texarkana. It is supposed there are eight or ten bodies yet in the debris. Four of the persons wounded will not recover. No news of the damage done by the cyclone in neighboring towns has been received.

At Washington a big scandal is said to be about to break out in one of the departments, one of the leading officials of which has eloped with a handsome nurse. He had employed her to minister to his wife, who has recently been confirmed. His friends have telegraped him to return and thus prevent exposure.

At Musick's Ferry, Mo., Henry Francis, a German laborer, cohabited with a negro women. The colored people there, disliking the arrangement, resolved to end this common source of gossip and scandal. Headed by their preacher they marched to Francis' home, and demand his appearance. He responded by firing at the assemblage through a window, mortally wounding the preacher and another man. Francis has not been seen, and it is believed he was drowned in the Missouri by the negroes.

Foreign.

The summer and winter crops of corn in Russia promise a good yield.

More than twenty-three thousand British soldiers were punished last year, for drunkenness.

The London Press Association announces that John Bright has resigned his position in the Cabinet.

A woman was shot in County Mayo, Ireland, for taking a farm from which the former tenant had been evicted.

Sixty-four ship captains have died of yellow fever at different ports in Cuba since the beginning of the hot season.

Twenty persons were killed and ten wounded by fire and falling walls during the services at Buenos Ayers in honor of Garibaldi.

In the rifle contest at Wimbledon, Lieut. Mitchell, of the Canadian Corps, won the Prince of Wales prize, score being eighty-four.

The bombardment of Alexandria was distinctly heard at Malta by connecting a telephone with the submarine telegraphic cable.

Baron von Schloezer's presence in Berlin gives color to the belief that Germany's negotitations with the Vatican have been suspended.

Utter destruction threatens crops in Ireland. Excessive rains have prevailed, and unless the weather improves suffering will result.

The cereal crops in England were badly rusted by heavy rains. Wheat and flour advanced 1@2s, and oats and corn are also advanced in price.

One hundred and seventy-eight persons were killed Thursday, in a railway accident in Russia. The remainder of the 217 persons on board were more or less injured.

John Bright explained in the House of Commons the reasons for his retirement from the Cabinet. He did not approve the proceedings at Alexandria, and had he remained a member would have been in constant conflict with his colleagues.

The Sultan of Turkey wants to gain the good will of Germany and America. He has presented two black ponies to the Empress, two brown Arabian stallions to the Crown Prince, and a roan hunter to to the Crown Princess of Germany, and a picture of a Turkish girl to General Wallace, the American Minister.

A census of the marriageable princes of Europe appears to have been taken. The general age for the marriage of a prince is from 24 to 40; for a princess from 18 to 28. There are thirty-eight marriageable princes and only twenty-four marriageable princesses. Germany furnishes the chief supply. There are twenty German princes in the market, including King Ludwig of Bavaria, the most eligible bachelor in Europe.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, July 12.

SENATE—The river and harbor appropriation bill was passed with amendments—yeas 39; nays 23.

HOUSE—The sundry civil appropriation bill was further considered.

THURSDAY, July 13th.

SENATE—The House joint resolution appropriating $50,000 to enable the United States to participate in the international fish exhibition at Sweden, in May 1883, was passed. The House internal revenue tax eduction bill was taken up and discussed.

HOUSE.—The sundry civil service appropriation bill was discussed and finally passed—yeas 138; nays 49.

FRIDAY, July 15th.

SENATE—The pension appropiation and other bills were reported. A number of personal pension bills were passed. The internal tax's reduction bill was discussed.

HOUSE.—The Senate amendments in the deficiency appropriation bill were disposed of. The Senate amendments to the river and harbor appropriation bill were discussed. At an evening session forty private pension bills were passed.

SATURDAY, July 15th.

SENATE.—The pension appropriation bill was taken up and passed with amendments:

HOUSE.—The Senate amendments to the river and harbor appropriation bill were all non-concurred in.

MONDAY July 17th.

SENATE. The internal revenue reduction bill was further considered.

HOUSE—Bills were passed to raise the pay of auxiliary letter carriers to $800 a year; to provide industrial training schools for Indian youths; for the sale of the site of the old postoffice building in New York.

TUESDAY, July 18th.

SENATE.—A petition of the Guiteau jurors for an allowance of $5, per day was referred. A long Executive session was held over postoffice nominations. The revenue bill was further considered.

HOUSE—The South Carolina contested election case of Swails vs. Tillman was called up, and finally ordered taken up.

Transatlantic Crop Prospects.

New York Herald

British crop prospects, which were so bright in April, are now dimmed by a long run of wet, chilly weather. The London Times of the 22d ult. reports that "up to the past few days there has been little summer warmth, and even thus early, many trees are beginning to assume autumnal tints," while the hay crop and the outdoor fruits had seriously suffered. But it thinks "a fine July and August would, even now, possibly be followed by a harvest in many respects above the average." The past winter in almost all parts of western Europe was one of the mildest on record, the mean temperature for the five months ending with March, having been the highest, even at St. Petersburg, since 1821-22. This long mild spell was not due, however, to the thermometric conditions of the continent, but to the peculiar barometric conditions which placed Western Europe under tempering Atlantic winds and gulf stream influences. As the arrangement of high and low air pressures is so much affected by change of season the mild winter is no guarantee of a summer agriculturally propitious. Since May much weather unfavorable to growing crops has been reported both from the continent and Great Britain, and there can be little doubt that agriculture there has suffered as it has done here from a backward season. The chilly British weather is prabably due to the vast drifts of ice and icebergs crowding the ocean south of Greenland, but as these glacial masses are now thinning out in the North Atlantic the present month may prove propitious to British and continental crops.

TABLE TALK.

The city debt of Boston in $40,163,812.

Wilkie Collins is writing another novel.

Niagara has been neglected this season.

There are 500 saloon-keepers in Milwaukee.

Coal dust is manufactured into bricks in France.

A Virginian has patened a vaccination pustule shield.

Cleveland has in the neighborhood of thirty millionaires.

A Boston clerk is in jail for non-payment of poll tax for 1881.

Suffering is the surest way to make us truthful to ourselves.

Gladstone is reported to have written a play for Mrs. Langtry.

The temperance movement is growing steadily in Virginia.

One-half the human family die under seventeen years of age.

A bonnet of red currants is trimmed with bands of green leaves.

Prof. Bell now estimates the age of the world at 4,000,000 years.

Minnesota has swamps that are literally coated with cranberries.

Alligator fat is now used for cooking purposes in some parts of Florida.

Some rare specimens of butterflies captured in Florida being $40 a pair.

W. D. Howells is very short and very stout, with a handsome, swarthy face.

It is the prevalence of so many smal trout that is making us a nation of liars.

Ada Cary, a sister of Annie Louise, is about to become a professional singer.

All the Canada railroads get their supplies of coal from the United States.

Boston Corbett, who slew J. Wilkes Booth, is importuning congress for a pension.

"Stonewall" Jackson's candlestick, a three-pronged oak knot, is shown in Atlanta.

A corner in calicoes is threatened by reason of the failure in the cotton crop of Egypt.

Two thousand three hundred and forty-five convicts are in the Illinois penitentiries.

Fifteen lawyers occupy the fifteen places on the three leading tickets in Pennsylvania.

From 100 to 150 dozen frogs are daily served up in the restaurants and hotels of Philadelphia.

Laurensburg, N. C., reports a negro child born with a full set of whiskers and a moustache.

The population of Tombstone, A. T., is 5,300, twenty-four nationalities being represented.

B. E. Bennett, a wealthy Baltimorean, has erected a marble church as a memorial to his son.

Next to cigar-makers there is a larger per cent. of printers that go crazy than any other trade.

Thurlow Weed, the veteran New York journalist and politician, has recently become totally blind.

The tidial wave which made such havoc at Cleveland, was also seen on the Canadian side of Lake Erie.

Small lotteries in the guise of prize packages of tea, candles, etc., are henceforth prohibited in Chicago.

Far more building of costly structures is going on in Buffalo than in any previous year in the city's history.

Of Wisconsin's total population of 1,315 498, there are 910,072 native born Americans and 405,425 foreign born.

"It resembles a walk in the open air on a Sunday morning," is the tribute of a Berlin critic to Longfellow's poetry.

Mr. Walter C. Jones, a munificent Englishman, has recently given $360,000 for the religious missions in Japan and China.

Hon. J. B. Grinnell, of Grinnell, Iowa, is the young man to whom Horace Greeley gave the now famous advice, "go west."

The Turf, Field and Farm estimates the value of the nine living sons and daughters of Miss Russell, the dam of Maud S. at $165,000.

The United States, though having nearly 20,000,000 more population than France, has $350,000,000 less coin than the French republic.

It is said that Annie Louise Cary jilted a Maine minister named Stillwell, to whom she had been engaged four years, to marry Raymond.

A Chickasaw Indian has been intrusted by the American Bible society with 500 testaments, which he is distributing to his fellow Chickasaws.

Mr. Chamberlain, of New York, has left London in indignation because Truth included his daughter's name in a list of professional beauties.

It is said the recent announcement of the retirement of the firm of A. T. Stewart & Co., from business was one of Hilton's advertising dodges.

A Philadelphia father advised his son to "always aim high." He took down his little gun and shot a fat steer—the highest thing in the market.

In London "artists" are employed to paint meat and fish exposed for sale in the markets. A cook, who has purchased a fresh looking salmon is disgusted to see the spots and red tint boil off, leaving a plain codfish in the pot.

A Memphis fellow named Charles Sinnott, detected attempting to pack a jury, was fined $100 by Judge Horrigan, and sent to jail for twenty days.

"Christian Reid," the southern novelist, is Miss Frances C. Fisher, whose father, who fell at the head of his regiment at Bull Run, was the first rebel killed in the battles of the rebellion.

Taking the human race as a whole, it is observed that races living almost exclusively on meat have been the most savage ones. Civilization and the cultivation of plants have just kept pace with each other.

The Umatilla Indians are becoming more self reliant every year. At present they have 12,000 acres of land under cultivation. They have a flour and saw mill, threshers, reapers, and others agricultural implements.

FROM THE WIRES.

War in Egypt.

London, July 14.—Admiral Seymour telegraphs from Alexandria: "I have occupied Ras-el-Tin Palace with marines, and spiked the guns in six batteries opposite. The city is still burning, but I am clearing the streets. The Khedive is safe in the palace, which is garrisoned by 700 marines."

London, July 14.—A dispatch to the News, dated off Alexandria July 14, 4 a. m., says: "The fire in Alexandira is still raging. There are at least two miles of houses burning. More than a third of the city appears to be on fire."

7 a. m.—The fire in the city is still increasing, and men are seen running about with torches, completing the work of destruction.

The Arabs are still looting the town. Admiral Seymour had determined to land a force, but refugees informed him that 9,000 Egyptians occupied a position outside the city, ready for attack, while Admiral Seymour could only land 300 men. He therefore, instead of landing men, ordered shots fired over the city, in order to frighten the rioters. The Khedive's Ras-el-Tin Palace was looted shortly before the marines arrived.

8 a. m.—It is stated that Arabi Pasha has only 4,000 very much disorganized troops.

A party of "blue jackets" landed at Fort Gabarri and spiked nineteen guns in position.

Two hundred marines have been ordered to march through the town and shoot all persons rioting.

A body of 150 marines hold the arsenal gate. At the Custom House gate there are 190 marines with a Gatling gun. The marines have killed many looters.

Arabi Pasha fled from Alexandria in a boat by the canal, but it is not known whither. It is understood his troops are dispersing.

This morning the Monarch fired at and soon destroyed another battery.

Alexandria, July 14—4 p. m.—The marine artillery have occupied Fort Napoleon, commanding the town. Fort Marabout to-day hoisted the Egyptian colors, but lowered them again on the British squadron assembling around it. The fleet has been ordered to do no further damage unless provoked.

Explosions occasionally occur in the city.

A proclamation in Arabic is preparing in the Khedive's name calling on the people to maintain order and on the troops to disband.

A dispatch to the News from Alexandria says: "The number of persons massacred by the mob is estimated at 2 000."

It is reported that six persons were massacred at the French Consulate.

Twenty armed Europeans, who escaped the general massacres, were told by a Pasha whom they met on their way through the town, that the Egyptian killed numbered over 600.

A whole battalion of Arabs was blown up in one fort during the bombardment.

The Khedive, with Dervish Pasha and some of the Ministers, have arrived aboard a vessel in the harbor. About 500 loyal troops follow the Khedive.

The marines who spiked the guns found fifteen Armstrongs of the newest pattern, some of them disabled. Beneath one were seven dead bodies.

London July 14.—A dispatch from Alexandria, dated 5 p. m., says: "The town is totally ruined. The house from the Great Square to the Custom House have been plundered. In the square itself and in other wealthy European quarters there is hardly a building not ruined or still burning. The Court House of the International Tribunal has so far escaped. The Anglo-Egyptian Bank is also preserved. The streets are strewn with empty clock and jewel cases and similar debris. But very few dead bodies have been found. Two-thirds of the troops deserted during the bombardment.

After the Khedive's palace had been surrounded, a party of soldiers entered his apartment and declared that they had orders to kill him and burn the palace. After long parleying, their loyalty was bought with promises of money. They then escorted the Khedive to the British at Ras-el-Tin. His guard was not allowed to enter the palace there with him. All the Ministers except Arabi Pasha have presented themselves at Ras-el-Tin.

At 6 o'clock this evening a detachment of marines marched through the town. Some plunderers caught in flagrante delicto were summarly shot.

The Times this morning says: "By this last outrage, Arabi Pasha has put himself outside the pale of humanity. He must be followed and his army dispersed. It is satisfactory to know that the British preparations are complete, and that we are ready to carry out the will of Europe, if no other nation be found to do the work. Should the Porte still hold back, Lord Dufferin will state in the conference that England is prepared to undertake the task, but will welcome the co-operation of any other Government."

The American squadron has returned to the inner harbor of Alexandria.

London, July 14.—The British gunboat Iris has arrived at Port Said, and lies with one broadside bearing on the town, and the other upon the Egyptian corvette, commanded by one of Aribi Pasha's officers. There are 428 British subjects, 500 Egyptian soldiers and 200 police at Port Said.

A dispatch from Paris, published in semi-official form, says the accord between England and France continues, and they are expected to come to a definite understanding in regard in Egypt.

Athens, July 14.—The Messager d' Athens confirms the report that the Gvernment has expressed its readiness to join with a corps of 7,000 men in intervention in Egypt.

Alexandria, July 15.—It is now possible to walk the streets without escort. Cafes and shops are reopening and confidence is generally reviving. Admiral Seymour telegraphs at 10:20 this morning: "I am organizing a police force as fast as possible, and I have occupied the gates and two forts."

London, July 15—Admiral Seymour telegraphed at 11 o'clock last night that the fire in Alexandria was not spreading. Nearly all looting had stopped. A force of Germans has landed to protect the hospital, and a party of Americans to establish a consulate.

London, July 15.—An Alexandria dispatch to the Times says: "Thirteen hundred Christian refugees were saved in the Coptic Church during the massacre. The fires in the town were undoubtedly directly instigated by the principal supporters of Arabi Pasha, if not by himself. After the looting commenced the soldiers attacked the original plunderers and robbed them of their prey. Arabi Pasha, during the engagement, was at Fort Napoleon, which neither fired nor received a shot. After the firing ceased, he rode through the town accompanied by Mahmoud Lami and other Ministers. Subsequently a party of soldiers deliberately set fire to the French consulate. Another party proceeded in the same systematic manner to set fire to the other side of the great square. The whole district is so ruined that even street openings are indistinguishable."

Constantinople, July 15.—All the ambassadors have received instructions that the conference will meet this (Saturday) morning, and will in the afternoon recommend the Porte to interven in Egypt.

It is reported that a number of Arabian Sheiks have promised to support Arabi Pasha.

Alexandria, July 15.—The bombarding of Tuesday almost exterminated the Egyptian corps of artillerymen, which was the best branch of the army.

London, July 15.—A thousand more marines have been ordered from Malta to Alexandria.

In the House of Commons, this afternoon, Sir Charles Dilke, in reply to a question whether steps would be taken to intercept Arabi Pasha on the road, said: "Our proceedings relate to Alexandria. The other matter is for the Powers to take action upon."

Dilke, Under Foreign Secretary, read a telegram stating that the American marines were assisting in patrolling the streets of Alexandria.

The Daily News believes that there is a growing feeling among the Powers that the time for Turkish intervention has passed, and that the work will be sufficiently done by English and French occupation. Within the past two days France has shown an increasing disposition to undertake joint occupation if invited to do so by the Powers.

In the House of Commons this afternoon Chamberlain, President of the Board of Trade, confirmed the rumor that John Bright had resigned the Chancellorship of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Off Alexandria, July 15—3 p. m.—There have been three heavy explosions on shore since noon.

The English consulate in Alexandria and the quarter containing the great grain and cotton stores escaped the conflagation. There is no telegraphic communication with any place in the interior.

Constantinople, July 17.—Order continues at Cairo.

Alexandria, Juy 17.—General Stone rode on Sunday afternoon six miles in the direction of Arabi Pash's camp, but saw nothing of his army.

The Khedive has received news that a large number of Bedouins have collected three miles from the railway gate, which is opposite the weak point in our defenses

During the alarm Saturday night 150 Bedouins at the Gabanzi gate fled before the attack of a midshipman and twelve sailors.

Admiral Seymour has issued a manifesto announcing that he has undertaken, with the consent of the Egyptian Government, the restoration of order. Nobody is allowed to leave town after sunset.

London, July 17.—A dispatch this morning from Alexandria says: "Four sailors and two of the Khedive's bodyguard rode to Kafrel-Dwar last evening, and reconnoitered Arabi Pasha's outposts. They penetrated to within 300 yards of Arabi Pasha's lines. They found the reports concerning the proximity of the Bedouins untrue."

Port Said, July 17.—There is an immense number of refugees here. The Europeans are imperfectly armed with revolvers and sporting guns. They fear they will be attacked by a large force of Bedouins, who, it is stated, are assembling in the desert. There are also 1,500 Arabs at Fort Gueimi, 6 miles hence, throwing up earthworks. Three British, four French, two Italian and one Spanish men-of-war are in the harbor. The Governor is loyal to the Khedive, but the Egyptian Colonel, who commands 250 men here, is suspected.

Paris, July 17.—The Cabinet Council resolved to accept the invitation to protect the Suez Canal jointly with England.

Alexandria, July 17.—Several fresh fires occurred last night.

Lieutenant Jackson, wounded in the attack on the forts, is dead.

Touiba Pasha, the military commander of Alexandria, is stated to have been personally engaged in arson and looting.

Dervisch Pasha states that he has seent fifteen telegrams to Constantinople for troops and all are yet unanswered.

The Egyptian Gazette was published to-day. It is a native newspaper, and was started under the control of the British authorities.

The Austrian Consul is the only foreign diplomate who thought it neccessary to quit Alexandria. He has gone to Port Said.

During the massacre the soldiers set fire to the house of a Christian merchant. A maid-servant escaped to the garden, where she remained surrounded by fire, the soldiers laughing at her agony and firing at her. but purposely avoiding the infliction of fatal injury, preferring to see her burn to death. Finally she rushed through the flames, and, though wounded by a bayonet thrust, she succeeded in securing refuge in the ruins, where she was discovered by marines and handed over to the Americans.

The Northumberland with 700 men; Tamar with ninety-one marines, and the Salamis and Agincourt have arrived here. The marines will land at Gabari and the regiments at Ramleh. The war steamer Helicon has been intercepted with two regiments going to Port Said from Cyprus, and ordered to land them at Alexandria. These will raise the total British force ashore to 6,000 men.

Simla, July 17.—The imediate equipment of the troops going to Egypt is ordered, and all officers absent on furlough have been ordered to rejoin their commands.

Alexandria, July 18.—The Khedive states that 205 Europeans have been killed at Kafir-el-Dwar.

Alexandria, July 18.—Last night was quiet. The lines are now very strongly guarded. The fires are nearly all extinguished. The police arrangements are thoroughly effective.

The idea of occupying Ramleh Palace has been abandoned. Five hundred marines will occupy seven different centers, which, it is expected, will place the whole town under efficient surveillance. A native police is being organized to act under the military police, and a detective force has been instituted to search for suspicious persons.

A correspondent has opened communication with the camp of Arabi Pasha, which, his informant says, consists of a litte over 6,000 men, who are intensely discontented, and surrounded by starving women and children. Recruits of the lowest class are still being enticed by Arabi, with promises of unlimited plunder. His force is held together by the assertion that the Engligh will kill all returning to the city. Arabi and Touiba Pashas have utterly lost prestige by their gross cowardice during the bombardment. The artillerymen were kept at their guns on the 11th instant by infantry posted under cover.

London, July 18.—The numerous executions at Alexandria excite some comment among the Liberal party in press and Parliament.

The Paris correspondent of the Times says: "The idea of the renewel of the close co-operation of France with England has now forced itself upon the French Government. The Cabinet Council adopted a resolution to this effect. The resolution is conditional on three things, viz.: Turkey's reply to the identical note of the Powers inviting the Porte to send troops to Egypt, the decision of the conference, and the sanction of Parliament. Subject to these conditions, the two governments are now entirely agreed in regard to the terms upon which their forces will undertake to restore order in Egypt."

Marseilles, July 18.—All the French marines retired from service, who have not served fifty-one months, are ordered to return to the navy.

Portsmouth, Eng., July 18.—The troop ship Euphrates is ordered to be in readiness within twelve hours. She will probably take 2,000 men to Alexandria.

Lavaletta, Malta, July 18.—The United States war-ship Galena has returned from Alexandria. The troopship Malabar has arrived from Gibralter.

London, July 18.—The leading article in the Morning Post says; "The behavior of the American Admiral and his men at Alexandria is beyond all praise. Amid the diplomatic protests, European concerts and conferences, and naval demonstrations of imbecility, it is refreshing to find a commander who is able and willing on his own account to say what he thinks and do what he says. Sixty marines, physically speaking, could not do much, but there is a way of giving support which quadruples its value. The conduct of the Americans during the night of the alarm that Arabi Pasha was coming contrasts remarkably with that of the French and Italians."

London, July 19.—In the House of Commons this afternoon, Dilke, Under Foreign Secretary, said the identical note of the Powers to the Porte, regarding the dispatch of Turkish troops to Egypt, is still unanswered.

The Financial Secretary of the War Office said efficient precautions had been taken to project Port Said, Suez and Ismalia, but he could not enter into details.

Alexandria, July 19.—A telegram from the Porte for Dervisch Pasha arrived shortly after he left here for Constantinople. Admiral Seymour sent after him, and he is now returning.

The conduct of the Khedive causes much surprise. He has for the last few days allowed several persons to be at his palace who are well known to have been intimately connected with Arabi Pasha. The Khedive apparently trusts them, but it may be that he is endeavoring to get them thoroughly in his power.

Constantinople, July 19.—Arabi Pasha defends his action, and says he was fully justified by law and by the decision of the Council of Ministers in replying to the British fire.

No Europeans remain in Cairo, except twenty Germans who refuse to leave.

The Consul who was killed at Zagazig, was the Italian Consul.

London, July 19.—The reserve squadron has been ordered to return to their stations.

London, July 19.—The correspondent of the Telegraph at Alexandria says: "I drove yesterday nine miles along the line of Arabi Pasha's retreat, and passed several villages, the people in which are starving. The soldiers robbed them of everything. The entire route is lined with carriages and dead horses. It is reported that the Bedouins harrased the soldiers during their retreat, killing 200."

Berlin, July 19.—The Cologne Gazette and the Berlin North German Gazette print articles of Egyptian question which are regarded as being directly inspired and representing not only the policy of Germany, but of the Powers, except England and France. The articles state that the Egyptian question only will be ripe for Germany after the Western Powers have come to a mutual understanding, to apply for the assent of Europe. In view of the general need of place, England may rely upon support on all sides in her endeavor to bring about a settlement of the question, especially if she strictly adheres to the role of defender of her just rights.

Faster Than the Wind.

London Echo

Now that two successful balloon voyages have been made across the channel, certain Frenchmen think they must exert themselves if they wish to hold first place as æronautists. The municipal Council of Paris has voted the funds for a series of ascents to be made on July 14th for scientific objects, and it has been arranged that two of the balloons shall be connected by telephone in order that verbal communication may be kept up during the ascent. The French authorities think little of a mere voyage across the channel, but they are willing to find the money for an æronautical ascent, if observations can be made on it; for instance: The velocity of sound at different altitudes, the difference of temperature, the changing direction of the wind, etc., but they object to mere exhibition for the benefit of the æronautists, and they hint a doubt as to the possibility of a balloon traveling faster than the wind. It may be remembered that in the last successful voyage across the channel in mid-air, the balloon is said to have traveled 170 miles in an hour and three-quarters, and there is a great doubt whether the wind itself travels so fast—a question which these forthcoming experiments are intended directly to settle. Ice yachts, as used in America, do travel faster than the wind, and there is a satisfactory explanation of the phenomenon; but how a balloon can go quicker than the wind which is supposed to "waft" it is not so easily explained.

The Extermination of the Salmon.

From the San Francisco Alta.

The destruction of fish seems to be going on in a terrible way, both up in Oregon and at Lake Tahoe, as the following two items will show. The first item notes that a gentleman, who came down from the cascades lately, states that one of the fish wheels there caught 4,100 salmon in twenty-four hours. The fish appear to be running in vast numbers, as he saw a man with a dip-net catch seventy-eight at the head of an eddy in less than an hour. He caught three at one scoop. The fish, in making a passage of the cataract, are compelled to keep close to the shore, and so are readily captured. A law must be passed by the next legislature to put a stop to this wholesale destruction of salmon. The second item, from the Reno Gazette, states "that 1,200 pounds of Tahoe trout were shipped below by express one night. Of this amount H. D. Burton caught 400 pounds. For the past two weeks an average of 1,000 pounds has been shipped through Wells, Fargo & Co's. express, at this place, daily. There is little credit in catching trout at Lake Tahoe at present. Women, and babes, and sucklings are catching their strings of from forty to eighty trout in the space of from one to three hours."

A dentist advertises "teeth for seabathing that may be safely chattered."

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICATED

Contagion destroyed. Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant. Fever and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water. Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing. Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about. To purify the Breath, Cleans the Teeth, it can't be surpassed. Catarrh relieved and cured. Erysipelas cured. Burns relieved instantly. Scars prevented. Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed. Gangrene prevented and cured. Dysentery cured. Wounds healed rapidly. Scurvey cured in a short time. Tetter dried up. It is perfectly harmless. For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated. Ship Fever prevented by its use. In case of death, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell. An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c. Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use. Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

Consult and secure the advantages of DR. BUTTS
long experience in curing diseases of the Blood, Skin and Bones.—Nervous Debility, Impotency, Organic Weakness, Gonorrhœa, Syphilitic and Mercurial Affections specially treated on scientific principles, with safe and sure remedies. Call or write for List of Questions to be answered by those desiring treatment by mail. Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss. Address, DR. BUTTS, 12 N. 8th St., St. Louis, Mo.
ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF YOUTH and MANHOOD
A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE.
BY A PHYSICIAN of 25 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks, "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

Parker's Hair Balsam
Never Fails to Restore Grey or Faded Hair to the youthful color.

GET THE BEST.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

Ginger, Buchu, Mandrake, Stillingia & many of the best medicines known are here combined into a medicine of such varied and effective powers, as to make the Greatest Blood Purifier & The Best Health & Strength Restorer Ever Used

It cures Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Sleeplessness, all diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, and all Female Complaints.

If you are wasting away with Consumption or any disease, use the Tonic to-day. It will surely help you. Remember! it is far superior to Bitters, Essences of Ginger and other Tonics, as it builds up the system without intoxicating. 50c. & $1 sizes, at dealers in drugs. None genuine without signature of Hiscox & Co., N. Y. Send for circular
LARGE SAVING BUYING THE DOLLAR SIZE.

A MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of Most Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, Magnificent Horton Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous

"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."

A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.

Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.

Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.

For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the

GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,
At your nearest Ticket Office, or address
R. R. CABLE, Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r.
E. ST. JOHN, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.
CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled
FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable Balm that will remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful: also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 3c stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dreadful disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the preparation used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON; 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence,
JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.
1yr

USE
KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

WHOLESALE LIST
TURNIP SEEDS!

MERCHANTS!
SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST.
D. LANDRETH & SONS,
PHILADELPHIA.

DR. HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice.
DR. ROBERT SAMUELS,
2104 Wash. Avenue.
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 26th, 1881.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC.

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, JULY 27, 1882

Democratic Ticket.

For Congress 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY,
of Allen County.
COUNTY TICKET:
For Representative,
D. D. MOODY.
For Clerk,
D. Y. HUSSELMAN.
For Auditor,
THOMAS H. TOMLINSON.
For Treasurer,
L. J. MILLER.
For Sheriff,
JOHN W. BOYLE.
For Recorder,
JOHN BUTT.
For Surveyor,
J. J. VAN AUKEN.
Fo Coroner,
J. J. LATSON.
For Commissioner North District,
JOSEPH SEWELL.
Southwest District,
CHRISTIAN SHEETS.
Southeast District,
OLIVER H. WIDNEY.

TWENTY-EIGHT car loads of tea and silk went east over the Pittsburg road Monday morning, so the Fort Wayne News says.

THE Allen county democrats are talking of calling another county convention, as there is dissatisfaction as to the number of delegates allowed to the city at the late convention. The matter is not yet decided.

M. KEIL, publisher of the Fort Wayne Gazette was in town Monday on business connected with the interests of his paper. He expects to take an extended trip in southern Michigan, where he also has business interests.

THE Press quotes from the Albion New Era, to say we are a political acrobat. As these editors claim that the "submission" business is not "political," the natural inference must be, that neither knows what he is talking about. They must have wanted a line to fill up.

THERE was quite a battle between Indians and detachments from the Third and Sixth Cavalray in Arizona, the 17th of July. The Indians were defeated. They lost heavily, as fourteen of their dead were found on the field and quite a number were captured The whites also lost several men.

THE Headlight says: "The boys in the court house think the democracy of the COURIER is very thin." Which "boys" are they that have constituted themselves the conscience keepers and teachers in the law for the democracy of the country? Part of the "boys" there are republicans, and a part democrats. The former, we take it are poor judges of democracy, and of the latter, we doubt whether they ever said —But, perish the thought that Joseph should be suspected of misrepresenting. Give the names, and relieve us of this harrowing anxiety.

As far as we are able to judge, the feeling manifested in some parts of this district against Judge Lowry, is quietly dying out. This is as it should be. We know of no good reason why this opposition should continue. He got the nomination as fairly as it was ever obtained in a convention in which there was a lively struggle, and it is suicidal to continue this grumbling over spilt milk any longer. We trust the good sense of the few democrats who kept up their opposition after the convention had decided the matter, will see that no good can come of any further struggle against what is already decided. The Judge is going to be elected any way, gentlemen, and we want you to fall into line in time to help roll him up the largest majority ever given in the district.

IN 1880 the republicans held out promises to the working men, especially those in the various factories, that the success of Garfield and the republican party was necessary to them in order that business of all kinds should go smoothly on. It was especially urged on these men, that the success of the republican party meant the keeping up of a protective tariff on manufactured articles of all kinds, and consequently there would be hight prices for such articles, which would enable the employes of these factories to get high wages. If the Democrats, on the other hand, should succeed it was claimed the tariff would be reduced, and laboring men driven to work at starvation rates. Workmen were in this way, as well as in other ways, bulldozed into voting the republican ticket oftentimes against their will and better judgment. The republican party went into power in all the branches of the federal governmet. The tariff was kept up, was in fact raised in some instances. But wages did not seem to come up for all that. And now all over the land we have had strikes multiplying on strikes until there is scarcely a large manufactoring establishment, or great industry in the country that has not suffered more or less by the stopping of mills and machinery or the clogging of their business. The deluded employes did not find the wages rising or even keeping up with the tariff. The extra profits were gobbled up by the mill owners and coporations by which they were employed. It was just the condition of things that democrats had predicted, but which they would not believe. It seems to take people a long time to realize that all such laws as the tariff for protection requires, gives nothing to the poor or to the laborer, but leaves all the profits as well as all the control of the business in the hands of the few, and those few are the powerful and the wealthy, who need no protection. Let the people study up these tariffs and other financial questions more carefully. You can't cheat a man twice on the same horse trade and with the same horse, but with these matters of tariff and finance the people are cheated regularly and systematically by every new congress, and still so many of them like it.

THE American Bankers' Association meets at Saratoga the 15th and 17th of next month. All the banks of the United States are allowed to become members of this association. A statement showing the number of banks of different kinds in the country, the capital of each class and the deposits may be of interest to such of our readers as have not made a special study of this subject. We append the following table:

BANKS.	No.	Capital.	Deposits.
National bank	2 132	$463,800,000	$1,139,900,000
State banks.	4 016	206,500,000	627,300,000
Savings banks	665	4,200,000	899,900,000
Total	6 813	$674,500,000	$2,667,300,000

The total resources of the banks as given in this table are over three thousand millions of dollars. No wonder that when united for any given purpose they are enabled to influence legislation in congress, as was the case when they bulldozed Hays into voteing the three-per-cent. bill that had passed both houses by good fair majorities. These banks represent a greater am'nt of capital than is represented by the combined paper and coin money issued by the government. It is stated that the paper money of all kinds that may be considered as money used as a circulating medium and that is issued by the government, amounts to about 780 millions. The gold and silver in circulation is about 420 million. This would make a total money issue by the government of about 1200 millions, as compared with over 3000 millions controlled by the banks. No wonder that the money power of the country is beginning to make itself felt in the legislation of congress.

ONE of Arthur's recent appointments goes, as usual, to illustrate the utter disregard of republicans, for anything like moral character as recommendation to a man seeking office. The Indianapolis Sentinel speaks of this particular matter in the following pointed way: "A republican by the name of Willard S. Hickox was recently appointed land receiver in Colorado, and confirmed by the senate. It leaks out that Mr. Hickox, formerly an Ohio man, was at one time extensively entensively engaged in banking in Mansfield, Ohio. In 1873 the bank which Mr. Hickox controlled failed, and it was found that regular assets of the institution, as also funds deposited for safe keeping, had disappeared. Hickox was indicted, and would have been sent to the penitentiary if he had not fled to Canada. After ten years the indicted thief turns up in Colorado, and Arthur gives him a lucrative office. The senate confirms the appointment, and now more stealing is in order. Such incidents do not speak well for Mr. Arthur's administration, though they are strictly in keeping with republican rule."

The Heberling Shirring and Gathering Machine.
(Improved March 1, 1880.)

The only machine in the world that makes the hand-stitch. Simple, practical and perfect in operation. Doing a large range of material; such as silks, satins, velvets, alpacas, cashmeres, white goods, &c., with one or two rows of stitching at the same time.

Work more regular and beautiful than can be done by hand. Shirrs or gathers adjusted full or scant by drawing thread same as handwork. Will do the work of ten or fifteen hands. Call on Miss C. Wolsey and Mrs. Angie Kuhlman, corner of Main and Fifth street, Auburn, Indiana. 28-12t.

Quick and Sure.

Many miserable people drag themselves about with failing strength, feeling that they are steadily sinking into their graves, when by using Parker's Ginger Tonic they would find a cure commencing with the first dose, and vitality and strength quickly and surely coming back to them. 27-4t.

A Foolish Mistake.

Don't make the mistake of confounding a remedy of merit with quack medicines. We speak from experience when we say that Parker's Ginger Tonic is stealing health restorative, which will do all that is claimed for it. We have used it ourselves with the happiest results for Rheumatism and when worn out by overwork. See adv.—Times. 27 4t

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the De Kalb circuit court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Thomas Dalton, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent

M. BOLAND, Adm'r,

30-3t

SELF SATISFYING.

FACT

That our $8.00 Suits are worth $15.00
That our 9.00 Suits are worth 17.00
That our 11.00 Suits are worth 20.00
That our 14.00 Suits are worth 25.00
That our 15.00 Suits are worth 28.00
That our 1.60 pants are worth 2.50
That our two dollar pants are worth $4
That our $20 Satin Lined Suits ARE WORTH $45
That our $15 Diagonal Coats and Vests are worth 30
That our 9.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 17.00
That our 12.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 22.00

We have a stock of Clothing well worth seeing Come and convince yourself.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

ATTENTION,

Country Merchants!

My Stock Embraces ALL Kinds Staple and Fancy Merchandise:

Clocks,
Watches,
Jewelry.
Silver Ware,
Optical Goods,
Musical Goods.
Sewing Machines,
Druggists' Sundries,
White Goods,
Hosiery.
Toys.
Cutlery,
Pictures,
Frames,
Mirrors,
Smokers' Goods,
Sporting Goods,
Japanese Goods
Fancy Goods
Notions,
Stationery
Wallets
Wooden Ware
Glass Ware;
Hardware
Purses
Tin Ware:

5 & 10 Cent Counter, 49 & 99 Cent Store supplies

Look up my Illustrated Catalogue (if you have not one send for it) and notice prices and style of goods on pages 6 to 63 68 to 81, 92 to 115, 150 to 165 and so on through the book, and you will find that I am offering a SAVING to you of 10 to 25 per cent. on a large line of Staple Goods. You can order your STOCK from my Catalogue without leaving your store or paying a traveling man to come and take your order. I guarantee prices and goods to be just as satisfactory as though you were here in person to select When in the city, give me a call before buying and I will show you the most complete stock of Goods in the west to select from at [illegible] Prices.

C. M. LININGTON, IMPORTER,
145 and 147 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO

ANOTHER WAR!

THE CITIZENS OF AUBURN TO BE "BOOTED" AROUND AT EXCURSION RATES!

OPENING FIRE AT THE

BOOT UPSIDE DOWN

All Goods marked down at Manufacturer's prices to give shelf room for the large fall stock now on the road.

DON'T MISS THIS GRAND LAYOUT!

None-of-your-shoddy-half-made-goods in stock, but everything substantial, durable and nobby. Later news next week in regard to the slaughter.

AUSTIN BROS.

Auburn, Indiana, July 27, 1882.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Take the COURIER through the campaign.

—Mrs. Schryock, of Huntertown, was in town Saturday.

—Groceries of all kinds nice and fresh, at Schaab & Beugnot's.

—Mrs. Willett of Bryan, O., is in town, the guest of Mrs. A. S. Leas.

—Don't fail to visit the store of Schaab & Beugnot.

—Ensleys have a fine traction road engine at the Wabash depot.

—The gravel train on the Wabash is busy leveling up the newer parts of the road.

—C. W. Stroh, was in town Monday visiting his brother-in-law W. L. Braun.

—I. K. Shaffer started his threshing machine at work just north of town yesterday.

—Business in town, is brightening up a good deal since harvest work began to close.

—D. S. Cockran, returned from Sandusky, last week and will be at home a month or two.

—Misses Ida and Rose Blair, of Waterloo, were calling on friends in town last Saturday.

—Charles Roberts, of Scipio township, Allen county, was among our callers Tuesday,

—Mr. and Mrs. Fin. Gibson spent a day or two in the country, last week, visiting friends.

—The Presbyterian lawn social at Dr. Ford's was a very pleasant affair and well attended.

—Mrs. J. C. Boyer and Mrs. Henry Willis of Waterloo, were in town visiting friends Friday.

—A great many of our people went to Waterloo, last Sunday to attend the colored campmeeting.

—John S. Jackman candidate before the republican convention for clerk was in town Tuesday.

—Shaffer's hearse was taken to the funeral of Mr. Irvin's daughter north of Waterloo yesterday.

—A. J. Ralston sent to Detroit this week for a lot of cherries which he will sell at reasonable rates.

—The new mailer caused us to miss a few of our subscribers last week. We hope to get them right this time.

—C. L. Martin of Butler, was over last week to pay a short visit to his parents.

—Parasols of latest pattern and cheap as the cheapest are to be found at Schaab & Beugnot's.

—Geo. B. Adams, of Angola, was in town this week. Possibly he had an eye to the business of the next term of court.

—Immense stock of all sorts of goods for Summer wear, now being sold at bottom prices at the popular store of Schaab & Beugnot.

—Gust. Hellmuth, of Keyser township, was in town this week on business connected with the Mader Estate, of which he is administrator.

—Frank Zimmerman is still adding to the beauty of his surroundings. It is the fence that he is improving this time.

—Miss Fanny Clark brought Miss Clara Brown and Miss Lewis, both of Edgerton, over from Waterloo, Saturday.

—A new stock of letter heads and statements at this office. Business men will find it to their interest to lay in a supply now during our dull season.

—Sam. Weaver is now peddling meat and vegetables to the hungry ones in town and country. He takes ice along this hot weather.

—Ye editor's wife is off on a visit to friends in Columbia City, and a pall of gloom rests on his household in consequence thereof.

—Several loads of our citizens went up to Waterloo, Monday evening, to see the famous closing services of the colored camp meeting.

—The corrected Jackson time card will be found in this week's issue. But one train has changed, the one going south at six in the morning.

—The Jackson road will run another excursion for Rev. M. Crosley next Sunday, July 30. Train leaves Auburn at 10:5. Fare for round trip, 50 cts.

—We see by our Butler correspondent, that our friend A. Obendorf has been promoted to a second lieutenancy in the McAllister Battery at that place.

—R. M. Lockhart came over from Waterloo Tuesday, to see what had become of the engine for his mill, which did not seem to come to time as it ought to.

—Mrs. Foust, of Columbia City, was here last week visiting in the family of Rev. W. H. Daniels. She met several of her old-time friends and acquaintances.

—Fine line of white goods, at Schaab & Beugnot's. Just the thing for summer wear.

Dr. Neederhiser, of St. John, was in town awhile last week. He has been wrestling with some kind of malarial disease. Doctors know how it is themselves sometimes.

HORSE FOR SALE.—Emanuel Swander in the Beard school district in Richland township, has a fine three-year-old horse that he will dispose of. Anyone wishing such a horse will do well to call on him.

—List of unclaimed letters remaining in Auburn postoffice for the week ending July 25, 1882: Charles Eckler, Jacob Kiln, Sylvester Rainier, J. V. Lewis, M. D.; Mr. L. O'Neil, Mrs. Sarah Symounds, M. Wagoner.

G. W. GORDON, p. m.

—Over 1300 people were on the excursion train to Pleasant Lake last Sunday. If we add to this, those who came from the north, and in teams from points near at hand, it will be seen that quite a respectable crowd was on the little plot of ground they call a park.

MARRIED.—At the residence of Rev. W. L. Meese in this place on July 23, 1882, Mr. H. M. Phillips to Miss Alice Wise, both of Jackson township. While the community lose an efficient teacher, we have no doubt but Mr. Phillips gains a number one wife and we extend our congratulations.

—The excursion train over the Jackson road last Sunday, had eighteen closely filled coaches. It was drawn by the engine known as the "Grosvenor," which is one of their freight engines and she had all she could do to make the up grade north of the Lake Shore crossing at Waterloo.

—The Press thinks it a waste of time for Lafe Miller to electioneer a man from Noble county. So do we. The fact is, Lafe has votes enough at home, to snow under any man who can be induced to run against him. But we venture the opinion that he didn't lose anything by talking to that foreigner.

—The Wabash road is now running land excursion trains over their lines and over Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road to different parts of Kansas. The next one will go on the 8th, of August. The points to which these excursions go are Newton, Hutchinson Sterling, Larned and Garden City.

—We have received a letter from Mr. Harrison, who begins his normal school here, August 7. He has left the work of looking up the interests of the class, in good hands, and expects a full attendance. We hope he will be well patronized. He will be here in a few days and get things in shape to begin work.

—In an article published a few weeks ago, we made a misstatement in regard to the man supposed to be a brother of J. H. Clifford, of Waterloo. While Mr. C. had the misfortune to lose a brother in Ohio recently, the man alluded to as beingin Auburn, was relation of his. The person who made the report to us, claimed to know, but it now turns out to be a mistake.

—Potatoes are selling so cheap that even a candidate for office will not be afraid to take a half peck home with him in a few days. A few weeks ago it would have been extremely hazardous to do so, as people would be inclined to say that a man who could afford such a high priced luxury could get along without an office.

—John W. Boyle, the next sheriff was in town Tuesday. John wasn't here to put up his fences at all, but on a flying business trip, and when business was over, he lit out for home. He is now hard at work, and has been for some time, as we learn that he had a crop of wheat to harvest, and other farm work that takes his attention. We are sorry to learn the recent death of his father, one of the earliest settlers in Concord township.

To show the value of the Jersey cattle for dairy purposes, we have just been informed that a recent experiment showed a yield of over twenty-two pounds of butter from 205 pounds of milk, the product of one cow in seven days. This would be three pounds of butter a day for one cow, or one pound of butter to nine and a third pounds of milk.

—We again call the attention of our correspondents to the necessity of sending in their communications early in the week. All should be in on Monday's mail except such as we have a special arrangement with in regard to time. Should they reach us Wednesday they cannot often be inserted in that week's paper without putting us to a considerable trouble. We are anxious to have our correspondents see their letters in the first issue, and hope this interesting feature of our paper will be fully sustained.

—The republican judicial convention comes off to-day at Angola. We cannot of course give the result at this early date, but the chances have all been pointing to the nomination of R. Wes McBride, of Waterloo. The democrats have as yet, taken no definite action in the judgeship matter. Some are in favor of a man who is not a professional lawyer, and some do not advocate making any nomination. But others believe the best plan would be to run a straight-out democratic lawyer. But as there is a strong majority against us in this district many are in favor of a union with the greenbackers, in order to run Mr. Goodwin, of Kendallville.

Temperance Meeting.

There will be a grove temperance meeting at Sedan, by the temperance club at that place on Saturday August 5. All friends of the temperance cause are invited to attend and take part in the work and exercises. No hour was given with this notice, so it is presumed that all who wish to attend will find means to ascertain the hour at which the meeting takes place.

Old Shoes.

Austin had a dream the other night, and the run of the midnight wonder, when sifted down, is about like this:

How much a man is like old shoes;
For instance, both a soul may lose;
Both have been tanned, both are made tight
By cobblers. Both get left and right.
Both need a mate to be complete,
And both are made to go on feet.
They both need healing; oft are sold,
And both in time turn all to mould.
With shoes, the last is first; with men,
The first shall be the last; and when
The shoes wear out they're mended new;
When men wear out they're men dead, too.
They both are trod upon, and both
Will tread on others, nothing loth.
Both have their ties, and both incline,
When polished, in the world to shine.
And both peg out—and would you choose
To be a man or be his shoes?

Of course the above will not be considered strange to those who are familiar with this "man upside down." He knows how to buy stock "alee samee" and takes the large dish of huckleberries in the boot and shoe business. Those who have not dealt at this house have missed a "big thing on leather." Keep your eye on the huge advertisement and you will get a pointer that will greatly benefit your financial box.

Auburn Normal School

commences August 7, in the High School room, at Auburn. During a term of eight weeks, an opportunity will be given to teachers of reviewing all the branches which they are required to teach. No pains will be spared to make the review thorough and complete. In many of the branches the recitations will be conducted topically, thus encouraging the use of a variety of text books. As an outline of our work the text books adopted in the district schools of the county will be used. Methods, management and discipline will be discussed, and many of the difficulties of school teaching will be considered. We shall have the use of some excellent physiological charts, outline maps, globes and other apparatus. A course of lectures will be provided on different phases of education. In view of the fact that many of the pupils of the grammar and high schools desire to attend, another class will be formed for their accommodation. We are gratified that we have already heard from so many who are to attend and will be free to answer any questions. We will be in Auburn on the week preceding the opening of school and assist any in securing rooms and board. Mr. Zimmerman will organize a class in penmanship.

M. W. HARRISON,
MRS. LIDA A. LEASURE.

Campmeeting Notes.

Whah's mistah Hall?

Who dat ringing dat bell? You? Uh-uh.

One of the singers came near falling over into the ring at the Sunday p. m. service.

The gate-keepers were most polite and gentlemanly, yet they gathered in the shekels in a business-like way.

One of those who sat at the gate for "the taking in of customs," made it his pride to instruct the children who stood around him more or less at different times, in the morals and manners as taught in the Holy Scriptures. He seemed very earnest, and his simple, unlearned talk had a strangely attractive style that seemed to please his young hearers.

Blind Tommy can't sing very well, but he never fails to lead out in his part of the music.

The preaching was mostly of a fair average as to ability, and more than equal to the common run in earnestness. The singing seemed to suit the audience most. Though the voices were not trained, there was a great deal of life and originality to the music and the words.

For the benefit of those of our readers who did not see them Monday evening we will say that the exercise of placing the memorial stones was rather a nice sight, though somewhat novel. After the sermon had ended and two or three songs had been sung, the company took their torches and marched eastward out of the grand stand to the gate leading to the track. They marched along the track to the grand stand again, and then went twice around the judges' stand and rallied on a center just west of it, and across the track, opposite the grand stand. Here they stopped. Up to this point they had marched to the singing of one of their songs, "I am passing away," but after stopping, they changed the tune, and having sung, and offered a prayer, the stones were taken by one of their number by solemnly walking up to those who carried them, and he then deposited them in a pile in the midst of the circle in which they now stood. They then slowly marched back by twos as they had come, and re-entered the grand stand. At different points along the route Blind Tom gave a most unusual blast on a small tin horn. The services closed by singing the doxology.

Greenback Conference.

The members of the county central committee, officers of clubs and greenbackers generally, will hold a conference at greenback headquarters in Waterloo, on Saturday, August 5th, at ten o'clock a. m. A full attendance is desired. By order of

R. N. Crooks, Chairman.

—Ed. Morell is busy these days at his foundry. Reapers and threshers needing repairs are all around, waiting for his helping hand.

—Our remarks last week about sidewalks took hold on the public mind apparently. The result is a much improved condition of things.

—Denison, the ice man, finds his business getting lively since the hot spell began. Remember he comes Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

—Culbertson's new brick residence on Main street is getting along finely. The mansard roof is now on, and adds greatly to the beauty of the building.

—Dont forget that Schaab & Beugnot have the largest stock of Dry goods and other goods in that line at their mammouth double room in Auburn.

—Some fine saw logs are coming into town now to be taken to Fort Wayne. Better hauling, too, than in a muddy winter. But those fat truck wheels look a little odd for this latitude.

—Denison had to bring a second load of ice Tuesday to accommodate the increased demand. People cannot afford to be without ice when it is only 30 cts. a hundred delivered.

—Coal for winter use is now being delivered to parties in town. Seems pretty early, but those who remember the wood famine of last winter do not propose to be caught again.

—The old Swineford House now standing on Van Buren street, has been repainted and refitted outside and in, and looks as good as new. It will be a comfortable home for some one.

—Frank Leas has been staying at home a few days enjoying himself. If we judge by frequent drives along our most beautiful streets, there is another who enjoys the vacation with him.

—The Girls' Mission Circle connected with the Presbyterian church will give a concert in the church next sabbath evening. Admission free.

ALZA RALSTON, Sec'y.

—Mr. Post, the station agent at New Era, and Mr. Gorell, at LaOtto, are the inventors of a new windmill. They have one of them nearly completed at Morell's machine works, near the Wabash depot.

—Nervous Neuralgia, of no matter how long standing or how severe, will readily yield to the curative power of Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment. Sold at F. E. Davenport's.

—There will be a church fair held here, about the 18th, of September for the benefit of the Catholic church. It will likely be held in the vacant room west of the postoffice. Will give further notice as soon as arrangements are completed.

—Several of the colored campmeeting lads illuminated our street Tuesday. They are an orderly and gentlemanly set of people, and as far as we are able to judge are sincere in their profession and practice of religion.

—Miss Frankie Miller, whom many of our young people will remember, is stopping awhile with her sister, Mrs. Grogg, west of Waterloo. She is teaching at Sedalia, Missouri, and likes her position very much, especially as wages are better there than here.

LOST—By the undersigned, on the road from Concord to St. Joe, about the 15th of June, a canvas wagon cover, somewhat worn, and with the name of S. Beck printed on it. The finder will confer a favor by leaving word in the postoffice at St. Joe. A. P. BENJAMIN.

—The telegraph repairer on the Wabash is getting up an engine to run his car with. It is a neat little affair, and will rate at about one horse power. He is finishing it up at Morell's foundry, the latter doing such parts of the work as castings, etc. It will be a curiosity when it is ready to run.

—We have received a fine string of fish from Dr. James Squires at Churubusco. The doctor don't follow the homœpathic plan when he makes his friends a present. He gives good, big allopathic doses. Thanks, doctor, we'll come down, and "hook a string" for you some day.

—Rainier and Beard were awarded the contract to do the plastering on the new school house. We venture to say the work will be well done. The school building is to be a fine one, and we hope to see every part of the work done in such a manner as to reflect credit on the contractors and the workmen and at the same time be an object of pride to our town.

—Our better half has received a very interesting letter from Miss Jennie Ryerson, formerly of Pierceton. She is now in the great Yosemite Valley, drinking in the marvelous beauties of that wonderful "garden of the Gods." She is bound to see all she can of the great west, and is becoming quite an extensive traveler. Her friends will be pleased to learn that she is in good health.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

HAGUE & RAUT,

North Side Public Square,

Offer at very low prices, an excellent assortment of Boots and Shoes for the

SPRING AND SUMMER TRADE

From some of the best manufacturers in the country, to which they invite the attention of all who wish to buy the

BEST GOODS AT FAIR PRICES

We use the best material for our custom work. Repairing neatly done.

HAGUE & RAUT.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Ed. Foster has a sister visiting him.

R. M. Lockhart has his mill nearly ready to run.

Geo Crane is able to be at his post of duty again this week.

Miss Nora Leas, of Angola, is here visiting relatives and friends.

Charlie Bangs, of Summit, has been stopping here over Sunday.

Mrs. Rinell and son, of Nebraska, are visiting the family of Sam. Beck.

T. E. Purinton and wife visited friends in Coldwater, Michigan, last week.

Miss Ella Leas, of Angola, has been visiting her numerous friends here for a few days.

D. D. Metcalf and his daughter Maud attended the camp meeting Monday evening.

Nevon Fenneman, of Tiffin, Ohio, was here calling on his old friends a few days last week.

Curtis Parnell is quite sick of inflammatory rheumatism. He has suffered greatly for some days past.

Misses Jennie and Emma Patterson visited their sister, Mrs. Ira Bachelor, in Steuben county, last week.

P. B. Nimmons and wife, of Wilmington township, spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. James I. Best.

J. G. Johnson is at home a few days, and, of course, puts in a part of his time tossing up that blessed baby.

The Normal school opened on Monday with a fair attendance of bright looking young ladies and young gentlemen.

The boys here gathered up a volunteer base ball nine and went over to Butler and beat the club there in a score of 12 to 8.

Misses Anice and Jennie Cowan and Frankie Ryan, of Auburn, were the guests of Misses Tillie Williamson and Rally Crane.

Mrs. S. F. Kennedy and son are visiting relatives at Kendallville and Wolcottville, and taking in the Assembly at the same time.

Brand & Duncan have put potatoes down to 75 cents a bushel, we hear.

They are selling the best grade of flour at the mill for $1.60 per sack.

It seemed like old times to have Rev. Fowler occupying the pulpit again. He and his family have many warm friends here who were glad to know that they are prospering.

L. S. Goodwin has been all the winter and spring in the log and lumber business. He employs three teams, and has a great number of logs in the woods ready to be hauled.

Hon. Frank McCartney, of Angola, is here attending at the bedside of his daughter, who is lying quite sick at the residence of G. T. Abbey. She was taken sick while visiting friends here.

Scott Lotzenhiser was at home over Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Smith, of East Toledo, the wife of his employer, who came to visit friends here. Scott is now a member of a cornet band at that place, and does the agreeable with a B flat cornet.

The colored camp meeting is over. They go this week to Hicksville, where they will hold a similar meeting. Their financial success here has been all they could wish. On the other hand, they have been civil and accommodating to their thousands of visitors.

Jay B. Boyer, who has been sick so long, died suddenly at his home in Franklin township on Tuesday forenoon at ten o'clock. Funeral was at his home, but he was buried in the cemetery at Hamilton. Rev. W. H. Daniels of Auburn conducted the funeral services.

A daughter of Mr. Irvin who lives in Smithfield township, died this week and was buried yesterday.

Miss Cora Brown and Miss Lewis, of Edgerton, Ohio, visited over Sunday with Miss Fannie Clark.

Prof. S. W. Straub, of Chicago, was the guest of C. R. Reed and family over Sunday.

Mrs. Wm. Crane was called to Edgerton last Saturday by the sickness and death of her little niece Goldie Chilcoat.

Miss Lou. Patterson had the misfortune to have her pocket picket while at Island Park last week.

Mrs. T. Y. Dickinson spent Sunday at Kendallville, the guest of H. J. Long and family.

Prof. C. R. Reed is at home again after two months work at Goshen. The normal closed last Friday evening with a grand concert.

The campmeeting is a thing of the past, and the colored people have all left us.

A quite a number of our people took in the excursion to Pleasant Lake last Sunday.

Mrs. J. S. Bowers left Tuesday for Toledo, where she had been summoned by telegram on account of the serious illness of her sister Mrs. Swan.

General Blair and family go to-day to attend the china wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Notestine near Cedarville, in Allen county.

ST. JOHN.

Farmers are now finishing up making hay.

This is fine weather for corn. The weather has been somewhat cold.

Harvest is past. We hear the hum of the reaper no more at present.

A reaper and mower combined for sale cheap. Enquire of Mr. Quince.

Ad. Quince is now working for John Wildeson. Adam makes the work fly.

Mrs. Harriet has returned from her visit to Wells county. She enjoyed a good time.

The section boys had to work last Sunday. They think six days are enough for one week at a time.

We notice that Philip Noel has some very heavy wheat—about the heaviest in the neighborhood.

George Larimore is now residing at Auburn, and is learning ornamental painting. We wish George success.

A large crowd from this place attended the Pleasant Lake excursion last Sunday. Between 30 and 40 tickets were sold.

Mrs. Larimore is now on the sick list. She is quite feeble, but is slowly recovering. She has been having a severe time of it.

Perry Fair is learning telegraphy at New Era, Mr. George Post teacher. Perry is progressing rapidly, and no doubt will be an expert at the business.

There will be a Sunday school convention at Cedar Creek Chapel next Sunday. Great preparations are being made for a pleasant time. Come and enjoy yourselves.

BUTLER.

Miss Mamie Quackenbush spent last week in Logansport.

Mrs. S. W. Gilbert and sons, of Buffalo, are visiting friends here.

Miss Genevieve Stoy, who has been quite sick, is now much better.

C. P. Egnew has sold his stock of groceries to Chambers & Kennedy.

E. W. Fosdick & Son have purchased the drug store of F. W. Fanning.

Mrs. V. P. Browne, of Toledo, spent Sunday with the family of C. S. Stoy.

Mrs. J. W. Boyle entertained a number of her friends last Friday afternoon.

Mrs. L. M. Hubbell has returned from an extended visit to Cleveland and vicinity.

Thieves broke into John Baxter's tool-chest one night last week and carried off tools to the amount of $50.00. Somebody must be preparing for work.

Miss Dessie Johnson, of Angola, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. A. G. Jones, returned home Saturday.

Mrs. Esther Seed and a lady from Cleveland have purchased a lot on Broadway and will erect a two-story building, to be used as a millinery and dressmaking establishment.

Our enterprising friend Adolf May sold his brick store building for $3,000, and is now looking up another lot to erect a double brick block. It is the intention of Mr. May to make a hall in the upper story 40x80, a much needed improvement in our fast growing town.

Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Beechler gave a party at their residence Saturday evening in honor of their neice, Miss Dugan, of Bryan, and Herbert Gilbert, of Buffalo. A very pleasant time was enjoyed, the host and hostess sparing no pains to make it one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season.

Monday night was made hideous to the people on the south side, by a trio of young ladies (?) and their beaux. It seems a pity that young misses can not understand that so much boisterousness does not add to their loveliness, but shows a lack of refinement that fine clothes can not hide.

On Saturday evening the McAllister Battery elected officers for the ensuing year, viz. Geo. Spaght, captain; James Rodabaugh, 1st lieutenant; Augustus Obendorf, 2nd; Jeremiah Kepler, O. S.; Emanuel Hendrix, Q. M. Serg't; Alonzo Shaw, 1st duty sergeant; Allen Barnes, 2nd; Wesley Miltenberger, 1st corporal; David Yorks, 2nd; Frank Keller, 3rd; Wm. Deems, 4th; Zion Miller, Co. clerk. C. S. Stoy, presided at the election, and he reports the battery in an improved condition since the encampment at Indianapolis.

SEDAN:

Sam. Sevdel Sundayed in Butler.

Minnie McIntyre of Butler, was the guest of Jennie McIntyre last week.

Mrs. Mesveres of York State, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. W. Bateman.

Children's meeting at the church Sunday night.

Another Assembly.

The Christian sunday-school and missionary associations will hold meetings at Rome City, beginning August 3d and ending August 14, 1882. August 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7, will be sunday-school meetings. August 8 will be the meeting of the Indiana Christian Missionary Society. August 9 will be the meeting of the meeting of the Christian Women's Board of Missions. August 10, the meeting of the Christian Ministerial Association. August 11 and 12, the National Christian Sunday-school Association. August 13 will be devoted to general religious exercises. Reduced fare on the railroads and excursions are promised. Board and other expenses will be much lower than heretofore. For circulars and other information address A. C. Shortridge, Indianapolis, Ind.

—We are under obligations to James Baxter for recent favors.

—E. T. Brysland of Waterloo, came over yesterday to distribute premium lists for the fair.

—The officers of the Waterloo fair are making an effort to have this fair one of the best ever held there. It begins October 2nd. Get a premium list of the secretary.

—The colored camp meeting will raise their standard at Hicksville next week, which will enable the southeast part of the county to attend, as nearly everyone in the rest of the county did at Waterloo.

—The Royal and Watertown Fire Insurance companies, for which W. L. Meese of this place has the agency, in a little more than three years have paid more than $6000 losses sustained in this county. 30-2t

NOTICE

To Owners of Horses, Asses, Mules, Cattle and Swine.

After July 18, 1882, any horses, asses, mules, cattle or swine found running at large within the incorporated limits of the incorporated town of Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, between the hours of sunset and sunrise will be taken up by the marshal.

In pursuance of an ordinance passed by the board of trustees of said town, June 12, 1879. By order of the town board.

Administrator's Sale.

I will offer for sale on Saturday, August 19, 1882, at the late residence of John Davis, deceased, 1½ miles north of Auburn, all his personal property not taken by the widow, consisting of, Cattle, Hogs, two-horse Wagon, Plows, Harness, Grain-seeder, cross-cut drag Saw, Hay-rakes, Harrows, Carpenter Tools, etc. Terms made known on day of sale. Sale at 10 a. m.

S. KUTZNER, Adm'r.

Jery Plum, auctioneer. 30-31

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of John Davis, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

S. KUTZNER, Adm'r.

30-31.

WORK WITHOUT HOPE.

COLERIDGE.

All nature seems at work. Slugs leave their lair—
The bees are stirring—birds are on the wing—
And Winter, slumbering in the open air,
Wears on his smiling face a dream of Spring!
And I, the while, the sole unbusy thing,
Nor honey make, nor pair, nor build, nor sing.
Yet well I ken the banks where amaranths blow,
Have traced the fount whence streams of nectar flow.
Bloom, O ye amaranths! bloom for whom ye may,
For me ye bloom not! Glide, rich streams away!
With lips unbrighten'd, wreathless brow, I stroll;
And would you learn the spells that drown my soul?
Work without hope draws nectar in a sieve,
And hope without an object cannot live.

A MYSTERIOUS SPECULATOR.

Eleanor Moore Hiestand in Phila. Record.

My cousin, Alexander B., is a denizen of Third street, and, in point of veracity, a man among thousands. Last Friday he came up to dine with me after the late call, and the conversation drifted into a channel which brought to my knowledge the strangest of all the strange stories I ever heard.

"You never met Mr. Dorman did you?" Aleck said. "F. C. Dorman, formerly a wool merchant in New York. Fifteen years ago he was at the head of one of the best houses in the country. His fortune was made, and only wanted time to accumulate; but one day he very foolishly sold out his interest in the firm and went to browsing in Wall street. At first he made money, but his luck soon changed, and by the time he had lost a hundred thousand dollars he made up his mind to quit. After that he came to Philadelphia and settled down quietly to live on what he had left: it was still considerable. He allowed himself to dabble in stocks a little, but only for sport. He never carried more than a hundred shares of anything at a time.

"In January, 1879 he came to my office one morning and called for a hundred shares of Kansas Pacific, which was then selling at 9½.

"'I wouldn't buy that,' I suggested fraternally; 'there's nothing in it. Better make it New Jersey or Old Son.'

"'Kansas Pacific,' he repeated gravely; I have a few points, Mr. B.'

"'Ah!' I said with interest, 'What's up?'

"He leaned over and whispered something in my ear.

"'Who told you?' I cried, starting to my feet.

"'Sit down!' he said, trying to speak calmly, but betraying the effort it cost him.

"We were alone in my private office, but he drew his chair close to mine, and continued in a lower key:

"'Did it ever strike you that I was a man likely to become the victim of a hallucination?'

"'No,' I answered, unable to conceal my surprise at this question, put to me by a man whom I had considered very phlegmatic. But what followed surprised me even more.

"He then told me that on the night previous he had been sitting all alone by the library fire, when a strange gentleman entered the room without knocking. His visitor wore a black suit and choker. He was tall, lank and lantern-jawed, with bright, steel-gray eyes, which had a peculiarly penetrating glance, a high forehead, a determined mouth that was drawn into a rather heavy chin, under which he wore a scanty, scraggy fringe of a beard.

"Dorman did not recognize him, although his face seemed familiar.

"'Good morning, Mr. Dorman,' the stranger said. 'I've seen you often on 'Change, and I rather like yer way of flyin'; but yer a mere fledglin' yit, sir. You've a powerful sight to learn yit. I ain't no stranger to stocks, sir. I guess I've squeezed more out of 'em than you ever will.'

"'I've no doubt you have, sir" Dorman said, good-naturedly, for he fancied the man was some poor crazed speculator, and he felt disposed to humor him.

"Then without further preamble the stranger launched forth upon the aspect of the market and the tendency of values with such readiness that Dorman stared at him in astonishment. He was terribly uncouth, but his observations were so pertinent and perspicuous that it was impossible not to credit his sanity.

"'Situated as I am,' he said, 'I can't take a hand in the game myself. P'raps you'll think this is kind a quar, 's I'm not able to give a reason fur what I tell you. But the long 'n short of it is, I'm pinin' fur the flesh-pots or the money-pots, which ever you will. I've a hankerin' after a bit of speculation, n' I thought you might give it to me.'

"His keen gray eyes were fastened upon Dorman in a quizzical way.

"'I!' Dorman exclaimed.

"The stranger nodded.

"'I'm so situated,' he went on to say, 'that I can pick up pynts quick's wink, 'n it makes me feel sick, I tell you, when I can't do nothin' with them. I give it up fur myself long ago, but I thort mebbe I might put a flea in somebody else's ear—in your's if you like.'

"Dorman could hardly conceal a smile. He again began to suspect his visitor as being a crank, but the man amused him and he said politely:

"'You're very kind, sir, I'm sure.

"'I can't buy no stock of my own,' the stranger continued, speaking very rapidly; 'not a damned sheer, an' sometimes I git so full of information that I'm like to bust. I can't stand it no longer. What I want is the privilege of d'rectin' somebody else's operations. I don't want no profits. The other fellow can have 'em all, and I'll guarantee there won't be no losses. Now I noticed you only having a few shares, and it occurred to me it would not make so much difference to you if you did take what other folks might think'd be a risk, though I know it's no sich thing.'

"Dorman was thoroughly interested by this time, and he was willing to put his stock at the stranger's disposal for mere curiosity to see what would become of it.

"'I've no objections,' he said cheerfully.

"'Don't be too hasty,' the stranger interposed. 'It's quite a serious matter with me. If yer willin' to strike the bargain I'll expect you to follow my directions all the time. I'll promise you'll never regret it. But if you ever act agin my advice, that'll be the end of our partnership. Eh!'

"'All right,' Dorman replied. 'What would you have me begin with? How about Reading?'

"The stranger made a quick gesture of disapproval.

"'It wouldn't never do sir! Other men might buy it, but not you. Don't you think of it! Kansas Pacific's your stock.'

"Dorman laughed derisively.

"'Why, it's on its last legs!' he cried.

"The stranger shook his head and laughed in peculiar manner.

"'By this time next year,' he said deliberately, 'it'll have teched 108.'

"'It is selling at 9½ now!' Dorman exclaimed incredulously.

"'Yes,' the stranger replied; 'but that's not saying it won't rise.'

"There was a lead pencil lying on the table. He picked it up and jotted down on a bit of paper certain 'pynts' for Dorman to read.

"I will do as you advise," Dorman said, as he glanced over the paper in astonishment. "But tell me, sir, whom have I the honor of addressing?"

The stranger rose, and it was several moments before he replied.

"I know," he said, slowly, "that I am actin' mighty quar about this thing. I shouldn't blame you if you took me for a lunatic. But, sitiwated's I am, I can't explain to you my motives; I can't even tell you my name. If you feel as though you didn't want nothing to do with me on this account, we'll call it squar and say no more about it"

"His voice had a singular effect upon Dorman. It inspired him with a feeling of confidence for which he was at loss to account.

"I respect your wish to remain unknown," he said hastily. "I am quite willing to proceed on your own terms."

The stranger's eyes brightened.

"You shall not regret it," he said, impressively, and started toward the door. "Good night. Mr. Dorman, I will call and see you once a week, an' oft'ner if there's anything in the wind. You've done me a great service, but I hope to repay you."

"Good night, sir," Dorman replied, and he held out his hand cordially.

The stranger did not seem to see it, for he turned and left the room without taking it.

"So that," I cried, when Dorman told me this, "is your reason for buying Kansas Pacific at 9½? My dear sir, I hope you do not believe that conversation ever had any actual existence?"

"I know it had," he said with emphasis, and as proof he placed in my hand the paper on which the stranger had writen his 'pynts.'

"I confess this staggered me. The writing was somewhat peculiar, besides being crooked and wavering like the hand of an ignorant and decrepit old man. The words were misspelled and quaintly abbreviated, and some of the terms used would have been wholly unintelligible to any but a veteran stock-broker.

"And you propose to humor him?" I queried, being unable to doubt this evidence of the man's actual existence.

"Dorman nodded,

"It's only a hundred shares, he said, and the experiment won't cost much."

"I bought as he advised me that day, and within a month Kansas Pacific had jumped to 22½" * * * "In March, 1880," Aleck resumed "Dorman was on top of the wave. The strange alliance which he had formed with the unknown operator in January, 1879, was still maintained, for subsequent events had shown the man to be gifted with foresight which seemed to me supernatural. The events which he predicted were always coming to pass, and the stock which he recommended always yielded a golden harvest. Dorman had sold his Kansas Pacific at 108, exactly the figure which his counsellor had said it would reach; and in the mean-while he had bought various other things which netted him fabulous profits. In fourteen months he had made a million and a half.

"I had bound myself not to divulge the secret of his success, for that was one of the eccentric speculator's stipulations, and the facts of the case were never dreamed of on 'Change. Dorman's luck passed for a proverb, and whenever it was whispered about that he was buying a stock there was straightway such a demand for shares that the price shot up like a rocket. By this time Dorman was completely carried away by his singular fortune, and he turned everything he had into stock. For every hundred shares he had formerly bought he was now carrying a thousand.

"One morning in March, 1880, as I was about to say, Dorman went on 'Change with me and posted himself in his usual position outside the railing, while I took my seat with the brokers. He had just sold Iron Mountain at 65½, and the money was waiting investment.

"On our way over from the office we had been speaking of the outlook for Reading, and, when the stock was called at 72½, I looked at him expecting him to buy. There was something of a flurry that day, and Dorman was greatly excited. He had met his first losses in Wall street through Reading, and he had always had a mind to have it out of the stock some time.

"Fifteen hundred!" he called to me, and I started to my feet; but, the next instant, I turned quickly in response to his cry:

"'No, no, B.! For God's sake!'

"I went over to speak to him, and he caught me by the arm convulsively.

"'He is here!' he whispered.

"Where?"

"'Look over there just past the door. Don't you see an old man in a rough silk hat leaning over the railing?'

"No."

"'Right there!' Dorman said eagerly, pointing to the spot where he saw the unknown spectator. 'Don't you see him? He has a little fringe beard under his chin. I never noticed him until I told you to buy Reading, and then I happened to glance in that direction and saw him gesticulating frantically.'

"I don't see any such person," I replied, glancing uneasily from my friend's face to the spot where he saw his counselor standing.

"'Why he's right in front?' cried Dorman, impatiently. 'I don't see how you can help seeing him. He has his elbow on the railing now. A moment ago he was shaking his head and pointing down. He disapproves of Reading.'

"'My dear Dorman,' I said earnestly, 'there is positively no one there. You have allowed this cranky operator to work on your mind, and you are morbid about him.'

"'Nonsense!' he cried, indignantly.

"'Well,' I said, 'go over and see for yourself.'

"He obeyed me, but returned in a very few moments.

"'He doesn't want to speak to me here,' he said. 'Whenever he saw me coming, he disappeared in the crowd; but there he is now, standing on the opposite side of the room, next to the wall.'

"I looked again but could see no such person as he described.

"'Dorman,' I said, with considerable anxiety, 'you are the victim of an hallucination. Abandon this notion, for it may be fatal to you.'

"At the time I thought this the first evidence of mental disease, brought on by his infatuated devotion to the man who seemed actually to have the gift of second-sight.

"'Come,' I said, brusquely, 'you are not well to day, and your imagination has played you a trick. Ask Floyd if he sees your man.'

"He turned eagerly to an acquaintance, and pointed out the man whom he saw standing against the wall; but Floyd could not discover him, nor could one of the messenger boys who was next appealed to.

"'You see,' I said, 'you're worked up this morning, Dorman. Try and think of something else.'

"His face was deadly pale.

"'Then I must be going crazy,' he said, in a low tone. 'I will see what it means. B., what are you loafing here for? Fifteen hundred shares of Reading. Do you hear?'

"I bought as he bade me, but when I spoke to him again he was trembling like a leaf.

"'Here's an end to my luck, B.,' he said. 'He has gone, and I see that my course has displeased him. You remember what he said? I will never see him again.'

"As soon as possible I got him home, and it was weeks before he left the house. I had persuaded him to rest for a day or so, and meanwhile the time for the weekly visit passed by without bringing the mysterious speculator. This apparent confirmation of his fears so preyed upon Dorman's mind that he fell a victim to brain fever.

"It was not until May that he was able to return to the street, and meanwhile his unknown friend had never once presented himself. I confess the thing upset me considerably, and I was actually stupefied when Reading took its tremendous tumble to 17½. Dorman held on till July, and sold out at 13½, just too soon to be benefited by the subsequent reaction. His loss in exact figures was just $81,750.

"Like nearly all speculators, he had no sooner lost heavily than he felt a consuming desire to 'make it up' in something else. He was once more left to his own resources, for his former friend had disappeared entirely, and he took a notion to try mining stocks. I warned him away, but I might as well have spoken to the wind. A year and two months of phenomenal success had completely infatuated him. He had imbibed the subtle poison which flows through the street, and a succession of heavy losses only led him to speculate more persistently. People who watched his mad career hardly credited his sanity. His reverses excited as much comment as his success had formerly done. At last I refused to buy any more stock on his account, but that did not deter him. He picked up some bucket-shop broker, and went on as before. By the 1st of January, 1881, every dollar he had had been dissipated on 'Change. He was utterly ruined.

"I never shall forget how he looked that New Year's day when he came in to see me with his satchel in his hand. He was so seedy and careworn that the sight of him made my heart sick.

"'B, my dear fellow,' he said with a ghastly affectation of his old jocular manner, 'as the French people say, the devil is meddling, Philadelphia is getting too hot for me. I'm off this morning.'

"'Where?' I asked.

"'To Williamsport,' he replied. 'I think I have a show at something pretty fair.'

"'Don't go, Dorman,' I said earnestly. 'Stay here. If you will only keep off of Third street I can get you a lift, I am sure.'

"'Thanks!' he said. 'You are very kind, B., but I couldn't think of it. No, I'm off for Williamsport. There is something in this atmosphere that don't agree with me.'

"'You havn't given it a fair trial,' I urged.

"He shook his head in a wise way.

"'I won't take any of it in mine,' he said. 'I came to say good-by. You have been a good friend of mine, B., and I'll never forget you. Perhaps if I had followed your advice I wouldn't be where I am to-day.'

"'Good-by, Dorman,' I said, taking the hand he offered me with a choking sensation in my throat. 'If ever I can help you any, let me know.'

"'Thanks!' he said again, and he waved his hand to me as he started down the steps.

"The sight of his bent figure and faltering steps unnerved me completely. I had not recovered my tranquility when, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, a district messenger brought me a note addressed to Dorman.

"It had been found unopened on the table in his room, and his landlady had sent it to me, not having received any instructions concerning his future address, and fearing a delay might be of serious consequence, inasmuch as the envelope bore the word 'Important.'

"At the sight of it an exclamation escaped my lips, for the superscription was in the quaint wavering hand of Dorman's unknown friend. I felt then that I had done wrong in allowing him to go, and a wild idea entered my head that this might signify a return of the favor under which his affairs had been so astonishingly prosperous.

My first thought was to go to him, and I did not stop to reflect upon it. I jumped into the street car and went directly to the depot at Thirteenth and Callowhill streets.

"You can't go out for several hours yet," the gatekeeper remarked, as I rushed through to catch the 5:30 train. "There's a bad wreck on the road."

"I turned back, and as I went toward the waiting room I hear a shrill voice at my elbow sing out:

"Eve-ning papers! All about the terrible rail-road acci-dent!"

"I bought one, and opened it with a feeling which I cannot describe. It contained an account of the collision of two express trains which had caused the death of nine persons. The third name on the list of the unhappy victims was that of F. C. Dorman, of Philadelphia.

"The paper fell from my hands, and instinctively I drew forth the letter which had arrived too late for my poor friend's cognizance.

"Tearing it open, I read this single sentence, written in that peculiar wavering hand which I shall never forget:

"Do not go by the Reading railroad!"

"And was there no signature?" I cried eagerly.

"Yes," Aleck answered, after a minute's pause. "It bore the name of a prominent speculator who had been dead and in his grave for years. It was signed by Daniel Drew."

JOCOSITIES.

"My Darling's Shoe," is the name of a new ballad, but 'the old man's boot' is generally considered more touching.

The Boston Transcript recommends kerosene oil to take the smell of onions out of the breath, but doesn't state how many barrels are necessary.

Nothing makes a single man more contented with his lot than to see a woman banging her husband over the head with the motto, "God bless our home."

It is said that paper can be compressed into a substance so hard that only diamonds can scratch it. That will be the boss paper on which to print election tickets.

"Yonder go the most disobliging couple in our neighborhood." "You surprise me; please explain?" "Oh, they always close the windows when they have a row."

"Sandy, what is the state of religion in your town?" "Bad, sir; very bad. There are no Christians except David and myself, and I have my doubts about David!"

"Och, thin, but it's yerself that knows how to spake the words of God; shure we niver knew what sin was till ye came amongst us, said an enthusiastic Irish woman to an eloquent revivalist.

The Rochester Democrat thinks that one of the saddest sights in the world is to see a young man trying to treat his sweetheart's small and depraved brother as though he was his dearest friend.

About the dodo: "Student" wants to know "What kind of a bird the dodo is?" From the fact that the species is entirely extinct, we suppose it was the fabled spring chicken, which we still hear of so often and see so never.

Two ladies were talking of a wax figure show about to be opened here: One said, "There are to be costumes of every country since the creation of the world." Eve's will not be hard to make." "But it will be very hard to wear."

The girl who sings to an admiring company in the parlor, "You must wake and call me early, call me early, mother dear," is the same creature who expects her mother to make the fire, get the milk, and bring her breakfast up to her room.

"You love me?" echoed the fair creature, as her pretty head oiled the collar of his summer suit. "Yes," he said, tenderly, "you are my own and only——" "Hush," she interrupted, "don't say that—be original. That sounds too much like a circus showbill."

Well turned: A traveler reports a clever repartee in an old Cathedral in Santa Fe. Several aged Mexican women were kneeling on the bare floor, mourning in prayer. "Well," said a looker-on, "don't that beat the devil?" "I guess that's what they are trying to do," was the quiet reply of a companion.

It has often agitated our curiosity to find out why a woman will spend six weeks working a lot of scallops on the bottom of a garment that nobody in the world but herself will ever get a glimpse of, and then run about the neighborhood in an old dirty wrapper, without any belt, and every other button burst off.

A certain preacher once took for his text, "Husbands, love your wives." Pausing for a moment, he glanced toward Emily, (his wife) and began as follows: "Now, bretheringe, we sartinly don't love our wives as we'd orter. I don't love Emily as I orter, but if I was to have another wife, I'd love her better'n I hev Emily!"

They have kept track of 400 Vassar College girls who have married off in the last fifteen years, and thirty of them are reported to have married husbands worth over $2,000 each. Nevertheless it is a great comfort for a man to return from his work and have his little wife meet him at the gate in four languages and a landscape.

A debtor who was sued by his creditor acknowledged that he had borrowed the money, but declared that the plaintiff knew at the time that it was a Kathleen Mavourneen loan. "A Kathleen Mavourneen loan," replied the Court with a puzzled look. "That is it, Judge, one of the 'it may be for years and it may be forever' sort."

She was decked in flaunting jewelry, and as she sat occupying a double room in the car, she looked the perfect picture of self-sufficiency, selfishness and cheek. A bluff-looking gentleman, evidently from the rural district, halted abreast of her seat, but she did not deign to move. He gave her a searching glance, looked at the rings, and then remarked to the nearest gentleman: "They wear 'em in the sncot out in Ohier!"

A story of a button: "Rosalind, my dear," said her mother, who was sweeping out the front hallway. Does this button belong to your father's overcoat?" "Let me see it. Oh, dear; no, ma! If you were only young and such a very nice young man like George should—should——" "Well, I shan't have any more such works in this house. I've no objection to a little moderate hugging in the house, but young men can't hug their overcoat button's off in my hallway, not much." And Rosalind went to her boudoir to indulge in a weep.

RUSSIAN ATROCITIES.

Why the Jews Are Fleeing to America—Horrible Tales by Refugees

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

A man about 40, named Herman Schoenle, was found sitting on the second floor of the house, on a bed on the floor talking to his wife. The reporter explained his mission, and Mr. Schoenle asked what he wanted to know.

"Tell me why you left Russia."

"Because it was no longer possible to live there. Our lives were not safe a day there."

"They treated you badly?"

"They murdered every Jew they could find; they outraged our women and children; they robbed us of everything."

"Where are you from?"

"Kieff."

"Did you suffer in your own family?"

As this question was translated Schoenle's wife began to cry, and her husband said:

"Yes. Two months ago I saw my own daughter, a girl less than 15 years old, taken by the mob and outreged so that she died that night. Other women of our family were at the sport of the mob for hours. My brother's wife, a young woman of 20 years, was outraged and then whipped to death by a drunken crowd of devils. But it is so with every family. You can not find one in the house who has not lost some one. They spared neither old nor young. Girls of ten and twelve years old were treated as badly as those much older." And tears filled the man's eyes as he went on rapidly to depict the wrongs of his people at the hands of the drunken savages of Kieff.

"The people in the villages suffered most. Here there were no police even to pretend to help the Jews. Women were carried out into the fields, stripped naked and burned. Old men had their beards pulled out and were thrown alive into privy vaults to stifle there.

"Young girls were branded and scorched with red-hot irons. Everything that drunken brutes could think of was done to torture our people."

Here he went into details of brutality utterly unfit for publication, showing how the women were whipped and scorched after the Jew-beaters had robbed them of all that made life worth living for. The story is one of such savage, obscene cruelty that American ears would not credit the details as more than the ravings of a madman. And yet they all tell the same story.

At Leopold Goldsmith's place, 1,022 North Seventh street, the reporter found among the exiles a refined and intelligent lady, Madam Minna Geitel, late of Odessa, who said: "But the people that suffered most were the Jews in the villages about Odessa. At Balte, just one-half the Jews were killed. Two hundred girls were outraged there and in two other villages near them. It is unlucky to be a Jewish girl in Russia now. At Kieff 600 Jewish families were driven out in one day. And the mob was not satisfied with driving us out. They followed after our people and broke the wagons on which they were going away, burnt their bedding and tore off their clothes. They would kill us if we stayed, but they would not let us leave."

"You seem to belong to a different class from these other exiles," remarked the reporter.

"What would you have? A year ago my husband had a large cabinet-making establishment. He employed sixty men. They burned us out, robbed us of everything, took our money, tore off my jewelry, took the very carpets off our floors—in Odessa remember, the principal city of southern Russia, the center of Russian civilization in the south. What had we left? Nothing! Here I stand with these clothes I have on," and she pointed to the cheap duster which she wore; "there is our bed, and that is all that is left to us in this whole wide world." Mrs. Geitel made an indescribable gesture worthy of Judith herself, "And all because we were Jews."

Brother Gardner's View of Only Sons.

Detroit Free Press.

"If I had an only son," began the old man, as the lights were turned up in the Lime Kiln Club, and Biblical disputes suddenly ceased—"If I had an only son, an' he growed up as only sons am pretty sartin to do, an' he went off on a Sunday skule picnic an' got drowned, I should feel a little sorry an' a heap thankful. If I had an only darter, an' she growed up as only darters allus grow, an' she run away wid a lightnin'-rod man an' was left in the po'-house, I should be a leetle sorry but not a bit surprised. De family wid an only son or an only darter needs no odder trouble. When you meet a man who carries his cigars in his hind pocket, an' goes off behind de ba'n to take a chew of terbacker, sot him down fur an only son. When you meet a man who flusters an' brags an' seeks to lord it ober odder people you have found an only son. When you meet a man who thinks de world was made for him alone you have met an only son. De only son am de man who takes up two seats in kyars, who crowds de chill'en at a festival, who eats hisself sick when he pays 2 shillins fur all he kin eat. I doan't say dat he am to blame, but I do say dat de world feels relieved when he goes to his grave. Once in a lifetime you may h'ar of an only son who hasn't turned de family out of doahs, nor had all de nayburs fur a mile aroun' shoot at him an offer to buy him a tombstone, but be keerful how you believe it.

"My exper'ence is dat a family which de Lawd has forsaken arter sendin' one chile has woe an' sorrow in detr household. Selfishness takes root dar' an' grows amazin' fast. Wickedness creeps in dar' an' nebber lets go. De small-pox kin be stamped out—de yaller fever mus' give away to frost—de cholera only settles heah an' dar', but de only chile am allus wid us. He or she meets us ebery day—walks wid us frew life—brings upon us de larger sheer of our miseries. Pity de fodder wid an only son— thrice pity de mudder wid an only daughter. Wid dese few configgerashuns, frown out in a speerit of astonishment an' intensity meant to accomplish no dersirability in partickeler, we will now close de winders, put a leetle mo' wood in stove, and purceed to asphyxiate de transcendent order of de inviduous programme."

The Rev. Penstock arose. He could not stand that motion. He inquired if it was the intention of the chair to let those last remarks be spread upon the regular minutes of the meeting.

"It am," was the quiet reply.

"Den I protest. De language am unparliamentary an' foreign to de plot."

"Brudder Penstock, do you charge dis cheer wid usin foreign language?"

"No, sah! I charge de cheer wid makin' a bad use of de English language."

"Brudder Penstock, you jined dis club fo' ya'rs ago. You am a preacher ob de gospil, an' you has traveled. You has been down to Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, South Carolina, an' Alabama. You imagine dat you has seen de elefant an' took in de circus. On varus occashuns you has disinterrupted de harmony of de meeting to k'rect de language of dis cha'r, an' on varus odder occashuns you has intimated dat de purceedins lacked chic an' tone. Bekase you know what sic simper cum digis solis pluribus curanter means in English you regard de rest of us as poo', ignorant black trash. Brudder Penstock, you has reached de eand ob de clothesline!"

"But, sah—but—"

"An' you must stop! Ize bin 'lected ober all opposition to run dis club. You mus' not disinterfere wid me. If you persist in so doin', I gib you f'ar warnin' dat I shall lay aside Mr. Cushin's manual, walk down the aisle, an' move de prevus queshun in sich a manner as will seriously interfere wid your feelin's. Drap back on your cheer, Brudder Penstock—drap back!"

His Mother's Touch.

Dr. Franklin denied the existence of such a sense as parental or filial instinct. He based his conclusion upon his own experience at the time he visited his mother, after five years of absence, and the old lady did not recognize him, though at the intercession of her gentlemen lodgers, with whom he spent the evening, the "stranger" stayed all night. Belief in such an instinct is, however, a pleasant one, and the evidence at least probable. Frank Moore relates this affecting instance of a dying son's recognition of his mother:

In one of the fierce engagements near Mechanicsville, a young Lieutenant of a Rhode Island battery had his right foot so shattered by a fragment of shell, that on reaching Washington, after one of those horrible ambulance rides and a journey of a week's duration, he was obliged to undergo amputation of the leg. He telegraphed home, hundreds of miles away, that all was going well, and with a soldier's fortitude, composed himself to bear his sufferings alone.

Unknown to him, however, his mother, who had read the reports of his wound, was hastening to see him. She reached Washington about midnight, and the nurses would have kept her from seeing her son until morning.

One sat by his side fanning him, as he slept, her hand on the feeble, fluctuating pulse. But what woman's heart could resist the pleadings of a mother then? In the darkness she was finally allowed to glide in and take the place at his side.

She touched his pulse as the nurse had done. Not a word had been spoken; but the sleeping boy opened his eyes and said:

"That feels like my mother's hand; who is this beside me? It is my mother. Turn up the gas and let me see mother."

The two dear faces met in one long, joyous, sobbing embrace.

The gallant fellow, just twenty-one, had his leg amputated on the last day of his three years' service, underwent operation after operation, and at last when death drew nigh resigned himself in peace, saying: "I have faced death too often to fear it now."

A Husband's Preparations.

Detroit Free Press

The other morning, when a Detroiter seated his wife in a car on the Michigan Central to make the journey to Chicago alone, he took a look around him and said to her:

"Now, love, if you should want the window raised, here are a dozen gentlemen who will break their necks to accommodate you."

"Yes, dear."

"If you feel lonesome and want somebody to talk with about affairs in Egypt, Noah's ark, or the ice period, don't hesitate to call upon any of these gentlemen."

"I understand."

"You won't know enough to leave the car at noon and get your dinner, and you had better ask one of them to accompany you. If they offer to pay for your meal don't be squeamish about it."

"Of course not."

"You may want to read to pass away the time. If so, any of these gentlemen will be only too happy to purchase you half a bushel of the latest books and magazines. Be careful to save 'em for me to read when you get home."

"I'll be certain, love."

"And you can say to them that we have been married four years; we do not live happily together; I am a domestic tyrant; you have strong thoughts of procuring a divorce; you feel that you could love the right sort of a husband; you like organges and peanuts; you are innocent and confiding; you have never traveled; you are afraid of getting lost in Chicago, and you will be ever so much obliged to any one who will get you a hack, see to your trunk, and pay all the expenses. Good-by, love."

"Good-by, darl."

And wasn't it strange that not one single man in that car even spoke to that lady in a ride of three hundred miles?

Society Notes.

Austin Siftings.

Young Hostettler McGinnis, one of the fashionable young bloods of Austin, took a young lady to church last Sunday evening. As he had been up quite late the night before, he was very sleepy, consequently he did not flirt with the fashionable young lady, as he had heretofore been in the habit of doing in church.

"What is the matter with you?" she asked in a whisper.

"I am not feeling well," he whispered back.

"You wake up and giggle a little anyhow. If we don't misbehave ourselves in church, people will think we are married, and I want you to understand I've got a reputation to sustain."

After that Hostettler McGinnis and the young lady acted so improperly that the sexton had to go and whisper to them to keep quiet.

FROM WASHINGTON.

It is now claimed by the jail authorities that Guiteau's remains have never been removed, and that they are still buried under the laundry in the jail. Those in a position to know say, however, that his bones are on top of the Army Museum bleaching every day. It is said that a noted body-snatcher from Chicago came here before the execution and committed a small offense so as to get in the jail and be able to get the exact location of the body with the hope of being able to steal it. He succeeded in the first effort, but not in the second.

The impression prevails here that the Pennsylvania Independents will not accept the proposition of the Stalwarts, and that the fight will go on with renewed vigor.

The President has approved the act to enable national banking associatoins to extend their corporate existence.

Mrs. Garfield has written a member of the Ohio Association, suggesting that the association buy the Garfield residence as the Ohio headquarters, saying she would rather have the building so used than to have it go into private hands. She asks $15,000 for the residence. Real estate men say it is worth only $10,000.

Lieutenant Danenhower has written to members of Congress urging that an appropriation of $25,000 be made to bring the bodies of De Long and party home.

It is said that Senator Logan and others in the Senate are preparing to make a vigercus fight against the reduction of the tobacco tax.

The Texas members of Congress have information that an English company is preparing to run a semi-monthly line of steamers from Liverpool to Savannah, Ga., to connect with the Georgia Central Railroad for Texas. They expect to bring large numbers of immigrants and returning carry Texas cattle and California productions from the Southern Pacific road.

It is said that the principal reason for secrecy as to the whereabouts of Guiteau's bones, lies in the fact that Hicks is afraid that Mrs. Scoville will bring suit to get possession of them.

The friends of the Hennepin canal and of the Mississippi river apropriation are delighted with the substitution of McLane for Reagan on the Conference Committtee of the House. McLane is recognized as a friend of the canal project, and this gives half of the Conference Committee as pronounced supporters of the measure, while the two others are not so opposed but that they may be convinced. The greatest fear in their minds is that the President may veto the bill if too much is added

The prospects of the Internal Revenue bill are poor. If many changes are made in the Senate, the House will probably let the bill fail for the session, and adjourn by the 1st of August.

Kelley is said to be very despondent over the fate of his bill, and, with the prospects regarding the Tariff Commission, he recognizes the fact that he missed the opportunity of his lifetime, in neglecting to go to work on the tariff himself, as the head of the Ways and Means Committee.

It is the general prediction that the Star Route cases will come to an inglorious ending soon. Many believe that Judge Wylie will dismiss them, or if not, it is almost certain the jury will not agree on a conviction.

Pennsylvania Republicans have now little hope of a compromise, and the Democrats are correspondingly hopeful. Cameron is preparing for a most vigorous fight and says he will run.

An employe of the Department of Justice, once the private secretary of the late Senator Sumner, was arrested while trying to sell autograph letters of Washington, Webster, Wirt and others, supposed to have been stolen from the Department of Justice. His name is Williamson. He is over 80, and without family or friends. He was clerk to Sam Ward, "King of the Lobby."

An amendment is to be added to the House Census bill in the Senate, providing rules for the distribution of census reports to libraries throughout the country, so as to be most valuable to the masses.

The report that Ben Hill is dying, telegraphed last night, is not credited here. The Georgia members have no information to that effect, and, if the report were true, it would doubtless be known to them. Nothing has yet been heard from the Georgia Convention, which holds its meeting to-day.

The head of the Life-Saving Service to-day complimented the members of the Life-Saving Station at Louisville, Ky., for their heroic and able work by increasing the salaries of the men and captain to a figure above that paid at any station in the country.

The Lighthouse Board gives notice that the Steam siren will be located at Port Austin Light Station, Michigan, on September 1, to be used during foggy weather.

THE STATE.

Wabash college, in the half-century of its existence, has sent out 422 graduates. Of this number only 14 are farmers.

Muncie has a prospect of a new paper mill, with a capital of $37,500, including $12,500 working capital, the factory to employ from 150 to 200 operatives.

The Elkhart Car Works have suspended work, being closed by an attachment by an iron firm of Chicago. The assets will probably meet all liabilities.

Thomas Hedges, an old man who resides at New Middletown, Harrison county, went to the saloon of that town last Sunday and during the afternoon and evening drank sixty-five glasses of beer. He is now indisposed.

Sylvanus Test, whose disappearance on the day of the soap vat accident at Terre Haute was coupled with the latter horror, has returned, after a long tramp extending to the wilds of Arizona.

The commissioners of Grant county will, in a few days, place court house bonds of the county, to the amount of $65,000, on the market. The temple of justice of Marion has thus far cost $90,000, and it is probable that this sum will be doubled before the structure is completed.

The fasting woman, near Wabash, still holds out, and has passed her sixty-first day. Her fast has not been total, she having eaten a little cracker each day in the early part of it. She cannot bear the sight of food and no nourishment is now given her. The doctors have about given up all idea of saving her life.

William Wohlgamuth, who became infatuated with Mrs. Emma Molloy, has arranged to go back to his wife whom he so shamefully deserted. Mrs. Wohlgamuth prints a card in which she threatens damaging exposures in case she is pushed too hard by the friends of Mrs. Molloy.

The boss wheat crop, so far as heard from in Southern Indiana, is that of David S. Lewis, one-half mile from Six-mile switch, in New Albany township, Floyd county. Mr. Lewis threshed his crop on Saturday last, and it averaged fifty-three and one-third bushels to the acre. He fertilized with bone dust.

C. B. Lynch, of Darlington, has a patent on a new process for weighing grain, which will be of important practical utility to grain dealers. It is an instrument which can be attached to an spout in elevators, warehouses and mills, and will weigh any kind of grain accurately, no matter how slowly or rapidly it may run through.

On Monday night, three miles west of Ewing, Jackson county, a masked mob took James Sally, tied him to a tree, and administered five lashes apiece with huge switches, aggregating about a hundred blows. He was then released upon his solemn promise to leave and never return, which he did. Other parties in the neighborhood were waited upon and promised similar treatment unless they mended their ways. Sally is known as a corn thief and a hard citizen in a general way.

THE statement "going the rounds" that $100,000 has been appropriated by Congress for the removal of the obstruction at the mouth of the Kankakee river is not correct. No appropriation has been made for that purpose, but the Secretary of War is empowered, if he sees proper, to order a survey of the obstruction.

By Telegraph.

A Post-Dispatch special from Texarkana, Ark., says: "Eight corpes have been recovered from the buildings wrecked by the cyclone. Colonel Mayfield, Ferd Smith, Johnnie May and five others whose names have not been learned. Four of those who are seriously wounded will probably die.

"There is a great crowd of excited people around those searching for the dead. There are seven or eight in the ruins yet."

A Cincinnati dispatch:

William Todd, of Pittsburg, a steamboat man, was set upon this morning by the inmates of a gambling house on Longworth street, and stabbed in the back, groin and side. The wounds are regarded as serious. His assailants escaped.

The arrival of 250 Russian Jewish refugees, on Saturday, sent here in a starving condition and without a word of notice, to the Jewish relief committee of this city, has created considerable indignation among the Israelites of this city. They have cabled the relief committees in London and Hamburg to send no more here. In the meantime most vigerous measures have been taken to relieve the immediate necessities of the refugees and to obtain for them permanent homes and employment. Two thousand dollars have been subscribed, and a soliciting committee has been appointed to collect more.

Little Rock, Ark., dispatch:

A tragedy is reported to-day near Clarendon, Monroe county, resulting in the death of a negro, named James Green, whose brains were beaten out by a club in the hands of John Roseberry, colored. The murderer escaped. He recently killed a white man at Friar's Point, Miss.

The Times-Star Little Rock (Ark.) special says: "Thirty bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the building at Texarkana. The funerals of several of the victims took place to-day, attended by great crowds. The work of search for the missing is still going on. Three bodies taken out were burned to a crisp. Fifteen persons are still missing, and are supposed to be under the ruins."

A horrible catastrophe occurred in Buenos Ayres, during the funeral services in honor of General Garibaldi. A curtain in one of the lodges caught fire. The edifice was crowded at the time, and a wall fell down, burying many persons. Twenty dead bodies were subsequently dug out of the ruins, and ten seriously wounded. All were well-known people.

A Peru correspondent says: "A serious railway accident occurred on the Taltal Railway on the 15th of June, in which ten lives were lost. The line reaches the town of Port on a 8 per cent, grade, and it is customary to keep up full steam to assist the brakes by backing. This precaution was forgotton or overlooked, and the train dashed into Port, and swept through the station, and finally brought up in fragments on the beach."

St. Louis, special—"Last night Joe Miller (colored) was stabbed and killed by Kate Hudson, also colored. Cause, jealousy.

For Life or Death.

Boston Special.

The newspaper story recently published to the effect that Gen. William R. Lee, of this city, has now in his possession the piece of paper marked "Death," which he drew when the selection of prisoners of war at Richmond to be held as hostages for certain Confederate naval officers convicted of piracy, was made, and which Jefferson Davis has has taken the pains to deny, is now corrected by Gen. Lee himself. He authorizes the statement that the story, so far as the word "death" is concerned, is a fiction, and he is at a loss to understand how the story in this form came to be circulated. He gives the Advertiser the following narrative of the circumstances: On the 10th of November, 1861, General Winder, with his staff, visited the officers' prison and read to the prisoners an order from Benjamin, the Confederate States Secretary of War, directing the selection of seven officers of highest rank to be held as hostages for the officers and crew of the letter of marque Lady Jeff Davis, who had been convicted, of piracy, in a United States court. Those selected were to be confined in a cell of the common jail, and to be executed if the officers of the privateer were executed by the United States government. Slips of paper containing the names of all the officers were placed in a tin tobacco-box, and the fated names were drawn from the box upon command of General Winder, by ex-Congressman Ely, who was captured at the first battle of Bull Run and was confined with the Union officers. General Lee, then Colonel Lee, was one of the "elected," and the slip of paper drawn from the box designating him had on it odly the words, "Colonel Lee" The fate of the officers selected was not then determined, being contingent on the action of the United States authorities with regard to the convicted crew of the Lady Jeff Davis. This slip of paper with his name upon it was given to Colonel Lee, who indorsed upon the back of it that it was the ballot he drew in the lottery of life and death, and put it in a letter written to his family, which was allowed to be forwarded. On the 14th of November the officers designated as hostages were removed to the county jail, where they were detained about three months under rather disagreeable conditions. About the middle of February, 1862, the Confederate States government having received information that the Lady Jeff Davis crew had been remanded as prisoners of war, the hostages were transferred from the jail to the prison assigned to prisoners of war, and the 22d of that month they were put on board a flag of truce boat to be transferred to a United States steamer in neutral waters.

"Does Prilliant Sparks of Wit."

Texas Siftings.

The next time Ike Schwindlemeyer, the Galveston drummer who puts on so many airs to his Jewish friends, comes to Austin, his uncle, Joseph Schaumburg, will not give him "a nice leedle barty," as he did last week when Ike was here. The elite of the Hebrew society of Austin was present, for Ike's relatives in Galveston are very rich. During the course of the evening Mose Schaumburg said, in a bantering mood, to Ike:

"Vy don't you let fly shome of your prilliant sparks of wit dis evening?"

"Uncle, I don't like to tell you why I don't let fly dose prilliant sparks of wit," replied Ike, who had taken too much wine.

"Vy don't you like ter tole me vy you don't want to let fly dose prilliant sparks of wit?"

"I della you," said Ike, looking at the assembled guests, "I don't let fly dose prilliant sparks of wit pecause there was so much trash lying apout loose I vash afraid somedings might catch fire and burn der house down, and I don't know whether it vas insured too much as vash your store ven you tid pizness in New Orleans."

This unkind reference to a previous disaster of Mose Schaumburg, and the lack of courtesy to the guests, so exasperated Mose that he did not say anything at the time, but he will not entertain Ike Schwindlemeyer on the occasion of his next visit to Austin.

Origin of the Cravat.

An English trade journal gives this account of the early days of the cravat: "In 1639 a foreign regiment arrived in Paris, in the dress of which one characteristic was much admired by the people—a neck wrapper or scarf of muslin or silk for the officers, of common stuff for the men, alike tied in a bow with pendant ends, and used by them, it is said, to support an amulet worn as a charm against sword cuts. Parisians speedily adopted the novelty, styling them at first Croats, from the nationality of the regiment, and afterward cravat. The rich then used embroidered and richly laced cravats, such as we find shortly afterward used by Charles II., who is charged £20 10s in the last year of his reign for 'a new cravat to be worn on the birthday of his dear brother.' James II, paid £36 10s for a cravat of Venice lace to wear on the day of his coronation. Toward the end of the last century the cravat was revived and worn of such extravagant size that whole pieces of muslin were sometimes used, and even shoulder cushions, over which folds of stuff were draped, so that it was as impossible for a man to turn his head without wheeling bodily round as for an early coach to turn within its own length."

PRINCIPALLY PERSONAL.

Girls at Long Branch wear red polo caps, and carry red sunshades on the beach.

A report of ex-Vice President Wheeler's coming marriage is again in circulation.

Arabi Pasha is said to be a great admirer of the United States and its institutions.

The Prince of Wales is to preside at an international lawn tennis match to be held in Paris.

Madame Ristori has caused a sensation in London by her personation of Lady Macbeth.

David Davis is making extensive improvements upon his Illinois farm, near Bloomington.

The widow of a Californian who was once a millionaire is now a chambermaid at a Rockaway Beach hotel.

Prince Bismarck has of late taken to wearing spectacles, a habit by which his looks are by no means improved.

Senator Hill, of Georgia, recently had an artery cut and tied so that his cancer could not eat into it. He is quite hopeful.

Mr. James R Keene pays Cannon, a famous English jockey, $10,000 a year as a retainer, thus having the first call upon his services.

The California Academy of Science has received $1,000,000 from Mrs. F. S. Hopkins the widow of the wealthy Mark Hopkins, of that State.

Mrs. Sarah Raymond, who has been Superintendent of the city schools of Bloomington, Ill., seven years, has just been reappointed for another year.

Barnes, the Kentucky revivalist, is a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary, and was a missionary in India for some years under the American Board of Missions.

Early next year England will receive a visit from the young Nizam of Hyderabad, the foremost Mahometan Prince of India, and the oldest ally of the British Empire there.

Senator Fair, of Nevada, says that he has a house in Virginia city that cost him $50,000 which would not now sell for a thousand dollars, so stagnant is business there.

Burlington Hawkeye: "Don't say where you saw this, but they do say that Sara Bernhardt's present husband is trying to get a quit claim from his predecessors to quiet his title."

H. Victor Newcomb, one of the youngest bank Presidents in New York, and formerly vice-President of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, is credited with a fortune of $3,000,000 to $4,000,000.

At Berlin, on the 9th of June, twenty members of the German Parliament, on the invitation of a Dr. Hermes, sat down to discuss an omelette composed of forty-three eggs laid by one of the serpents in the Berlin Aquarium.

An impudent scoundrel has been personating Mark Twain in Cork, and in spite of the telegrams sent by the humorist to the London Times exposing the fraud, the rascal is still traveling about Ireland deceiving people.

Alanson Townsend, of Phoenix, N. Y., age 95, and a veteran of 1812, celebrated the Fourth of July this year by repeating from memory the entire text of the Declaration of Independence. This has been his annual custom for three-quarters of a century.

Brigham Young's first wife—the one whom he married before he embarked in Mormonism, and who sympathized with him in that delusion—died at Salt Lake city, aged 79 years. Her name was Mary Ann Angell Young, and she was a native of Ontario county N. Y. She was the mother of six children.

Some Germans were recently talking over the subject of an elopement which occurred in Chicago, when one asked another if he would be offended if his wife was to elope. "I bade you," said Hans, striking the beer table with his fist, "of my vife should run avay mit anodder man's vife, I vould shirk him out of her preeches if she vas mine own fadder."

Miss Anderson Sports.

New York World

The rat-a-tat-tat of hammer and calking-mallet heard daily in the neighborhood of Pat McGiehan's boat-building yard at Pamrapo, N. J., for the past six weeks, has ceased, and the cause of all, the Galatea, Miss Mary Anderson's new steam yacht, was yesterday completed and launched. For the past three seasons Miss Anderson has been summering at Long Branch, where, in the Shrewsbury river, are excellent opportunities for steaming along its picturesque shores. Miss Anderson, when not galloping over the country road on her big black Kentucky horse, is on the water, and her fondness for outdoor life is attested by her very brown complexion. She has been looking forward anxiously for the completion of her boat, and yesterday made a trial trip in it. A 10:20 yesterday morning the Galatea laid on the ways. Six minutes later the blocks were knocked away, the boat slid gracefully into the water, while Miss Jennie McGiehan, the pretty daughter of the boat-builder, in the absence of Miss Anderson, smashed a bottle of champagne across the vessel's bow and christened it the Galatea. The workmen cheered, and the Galatea answered with a shriek from its whistle. The boat is a very handsome one, fifty-two feet long, ten feet ten inches wide, and draws three feet of water. It is furnished with all modern improvements. It has two cabins, one fore and the other aft of the engine-room. The after cabin, measuring 12 feet by 7, is furnished in hard woods, and leading from it is a retiring-room and lavatory. The forward cabin is finished in white ash and black walnut. Next to the engine-room, which contains a Harthan engine, there is a cook's galley and pantry. There is ample room on the deck for a party of twelve or fifteen persons. After the boat was launched, Dr. Hamilton Griffin, Miss Anderson's stepfather and manager, and his son started in it for Perth Amboy, where the necessary papers and certificates were signed. From there the Galatea put up the Shrewsbury river and her speed was tried. It is thought that the boat will, after it is broken in, average fifteen miles an hour. In the afternoon Miss Anderson and a party of friends took a trip up the Shrewsbury.

A Man's a Man.

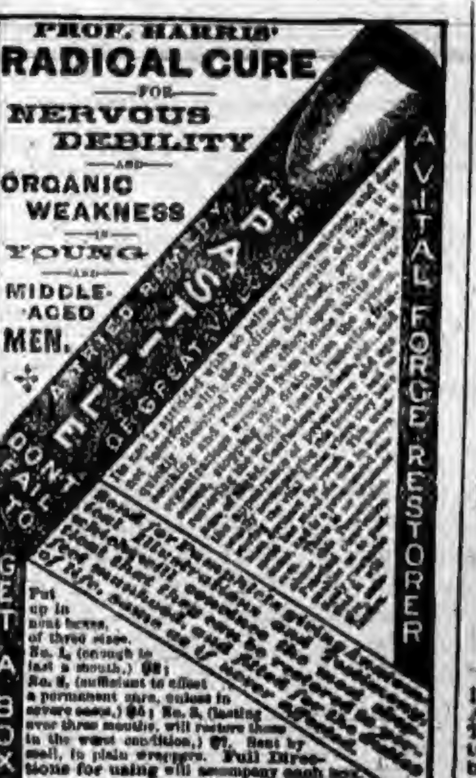
Mr. Labouchere in Truth says: I was struck last week at the servility of the London newspapers. An outrider in attendance on the carriage of the Queen was thrown from his horse. We were asked to be grateful to heaven for its mercies, because if the man's horse had been on the other side of the carriage, and if he had been precipitated into the carriage, her Majesty might have incurred danger. The next morning we were again asked to be grateful, because the Queen was bearing up bravely against the shock of seeing the outrider thrown. Whether the man himself was injured was of too little importance to be alluded to. This reminds me of the report of an accident in a New Orleans theatre many years ago. I was there at the time. A gallery, full of slaves, gave way, and several were killed by being precipitated into the pit. The next morning the newspapers contained a detailed account of a few bruises that some of the white occupants of the pit had received, and of the shock to the sensibilities of some of the white ladies in the boxes As regards the negroes, this is all that was said: "Several of our principal citizens sustained pecuniary loss, owing to a considerable number of deaths among the negroes who fell from the gallery."

"Didn't you tell me, sir, you could hold the plow?" said a farmer to an Irishman whom he had taken on trial. "Arrah, be aisy now," said Pat, "how the deuce can I hould it and two horses drawing it away from me? But give it to me in barn, and be jabers I will hould it with annybody."

Two Iowa girl tore down a tombstone of a relative they did not love.

Benson's
—AWARDED—
Capcine
6
Porous
—MEDALS.—
Plaster.
The Best Known Remedy for
Backache or Lame Back.
Rheumatism or Lame Joints.
Cramps or Sprains.
Neuralgia or Kidney Diseases.
Lumbago, Severe Aches or Pains
Female Weakness.
Are Superior to all other Plasters.
Are Superior to Pads.
Are Superior to Liniments.
Are Superior to Ointments or Salves.
Are superior to Electricity or galvanism
They Act Immediately.
They Strengthen.
They Soothe.
They Relieve Pain at Once.
They Positively Cure.
CAUTION. Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters have been imitated. Do not allow your druggist to palm off some other plaster having a similar sounding name. See that the word is spelled C-A-P-C-I-N-E. Price 25 cts.
SEABURY & JOHNSON, Manufacturing Chemists, New York.
A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25c. MEAD'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure
is Recommended by Physicians!
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!
We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.
It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.



PROF. HARRIS'
RADICAL CURE
—FOR—NERVOUS
DEBILITY
—AND—
ORGANIC WEAKNESS
—IN—YOUNG
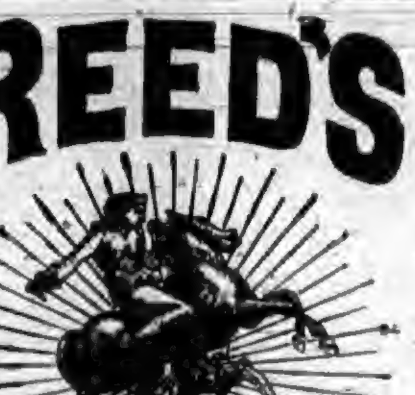
—AND—
MIDDLE-AGED
MEN.
THE PASTILLE
A VITAL FORCE RESTORER
DON'T FAIL TO GET A BOX
Put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full Directions for using will accompany each box.
Prepared and Sold ONLY by
HARRIS REMEDY CO. Mfg. Chemists,
MARKET AND 8TH STS., ST. LOUIS, MO.

WELL AUGERS,
ROCK DRILLS
And the Best Machinery in the World for
BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!
Book Free. Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

If you feel drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, mouth tastes badly, poor appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from torpid liver, or "biliousness," and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently as to take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR or MEDICINE.
SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR
The cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World.
An EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC for all diseases of the Liver Stomach and Spleen.
Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.
BAD BREATH!
Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common as bad breath, and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons' Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your Appetite, Complexion, and General Health.
PILES!
How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR is no drastic violent purge, but a gentle assistant to nature.
CONSTIPATION!
Should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.
SICK HEADACHE!
This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache.
ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE,
MANUFACTURED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Philadelphia, Pa
Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

PROVED A SUCCESS
THE PASTILLE
Prof. Harris' Radical Cure
Trade Mark
FOR
NERVOUS DEBILITY
BY YEARS OF USE!
A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness. [illegible] or at any time of life—by the only true way, viz: Direct Application acting by absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Glands, [illegible] The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. [illegible] The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.
Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoroughly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by
HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G CHEMISTS,
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.
Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons:
Indiana, April 11, '82.—The Remedy is working perfectly. [illegible]
Iowa, Oct. [illegible] [illegible]
West Virginia, Aug. [illegible] [illegible]
From a Physician and Surgeon.
Missouri, June [illegible] [illegible]
From a Druggist.
Maryland, Sept. 1 [illegible] [illegible]



REED'S
TRADE MARK
GILT EDGE
TONIC
IS A THOROUGH REMEDY
In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach, Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.
Chas. Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FREE!
RELIABLE SELF-CURE.
A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of [illegible] Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.
Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

THE

COLUMBUS BUGGY COMPANY

STILL LEADS WITH THE

LARGEST BUGGY MANUFACTORY IN THE WORLD.

AND SELL THE BEST BUGGY ON THE GLOBE FOR THE MONEY.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND TESTIMONIALS OF HUNDREDS OF LIVERYMEN WHO HAVE USED THEM

ADDRESS

COLUMBUS BUGGY Co.

COLUMBUS OHIO.

Be sure, before buying, to examine the Name Plate to be found on the rear of every Buggy manufactured by us, for NONE ARE GENUINE unless they bear the name

Columbus Buggy Company,

COLUMBUS OHIO.

Many inferior goods are offered as Columbus Buggies, and care should be used to distinguish between 'Columbus Buggies" and Columbus Buggy Co's. Buggies.

TESTIMONIALS.

GENTLEMEN: Your buggies have given me entire satisfaction, both in style and durability I have used them for the past three years. Your recent improvements on road wagons I consider the best in the market.
JAMES H. RAMBURG.
Frederick Maryland.

DEAR SIRS: We have used buggies of your make that have been in use three years, and no buggy we have that cost twice the amount has given better satisfaction.
JAMES H. ALEXANDER.
Johnstown, Pa.

GENTLEMEN: We have used the Columbus Buggy Company's work for the last five years and can conscientiously recommend it as strictly first class as to style, material, workmanship and durability. Your buggies have given better satisfaction than any other make of vehicles we had in use for the last ten years.
PALMER & WHITTAKER.
Red Oak Iowa.

GENTLEMEN: It gives me pleasure to state that I have been selling your buggies and carriages for four years, and can safely recommend them to any one in want of a buggy or carriage. Yours Truly, J. L. GRIBBLE.
Macomb, Illinois,

GENTLEMEN: With over fifteen years experience in building buggies, wagons, &c., I do not hesitate in saying your buggies and carriages are strictly first-class in workmanship, material and proportions, filling a long-felt want for a reliable article that can be sold at a price lower than any ordinary manufacturer can produce and sell the same quality of Work at. Yours, etc. I. S. KRICK, Conneautville Pa.

GENTLEMEN: I have used your Brewster side-bar buggies for four years, together with buggies that cost me $300 and $350, and your buggies were the first that went out, on account of being side-bar. They have not cost me $5 for repairs, and those I have sold of your make have given good satisfaction. I think that you make the cheapest and best road wagons that are made in the United States for the money.
Respectfully, P. H. HAMLIN, Lawrence Kansas.

DEAR SIRS: We have been using your buggies for the last four or five years. They have given entire satisfaction. I think they are the best buggies made for the money.
W. B. GRIMES & CO., Liverymen Whitehall Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: We have been handling your work for two seasons, and have in every instance found your buggies first class. We never have had one of your jobs returned to us for repairs; neither have we had a single complaint on account of work not being perfectly satisfactory. Very Respectfully, H.P. BUCKLEY & CO., Springfield, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN. I have no hesitancy in saying that the buggies manufactured by the Columbus Buggy Company are the best work for the price I have any knowledge of. In not a single instance has there been any dissatisfaction on the part of any one of my customers.
FRANK L. HALL.
Owensboro, Ky.

DEAR SIRS: For the past two years we have used your buggies side by side with other makes in both our stables, and are perfectly satisfied with the strenght, durability and workmanship, compared with others. As fast as our stock in livery is used up we shall replace them with your manufacture, knowing from experience that it is the best we can do. Respectfully,
SWEET & FOLLANSBEE,
Quincy Illinois.

For sale by dealers everywhere.

Any of our readers who will enclose two 3 cent stamps in a letter to the Columbus Buggy Co., Columbus O., will receive in return a beautiful engraving in colors, representing an Australian scene and their manner of travelling in that country with ostriches as a motor. They give this picture (the packing costing six cents) to all who may send for it, desiring in this manner to make themselves more widely known to the people.

How He Got His Wife.

[Philadelphia Times.]

In the days when love was young at the McWilliams homestead, a rattlesnake from Gobbam's Rock led a young woman to choose a husband from among many suitors. A party of young people, retiring from a basket picnic on the island, stopped on the hillside to gather wild flowers. Two young men and young woman sat down on a rock to rest. In reaching out his hand to a bed of moss, one of the young men touched something cold and clammy. Instinctively he knew that he had placed his hand upon a rattlesnake.

At the same instant the snake was discovered by the young man and young woman. Both screamed and ran away from the spot. It was a critical moment, but the first young man proved equal to the emergency. Knowing that if he removed his hand the snake would sting him to death, he pressed his arm downward with all his strength, at the same time reaching into his pocket for his knife. Before he could open his knife with his teeth the snake had wounld itself about his arm.

"Run and help him!" screamed the young woman to the young man by her side. "Go and kill the snake!"

The young man, however, had really no desire to die, but remained at a safe distance and shouted lustily for help.

"I'll go myself!" exclaimed the young woman, springing forward.

Her services were not needed. Pale to the lips with the pain caused by the tightening folds of the snake, the young man coolly cut off the snake's head with the knife which he had opened between his teeth. The snake was nearly six feet in length and was so strong that the young man's arm was black and blue for a month afterward.

The sequel need not be detailed. The young woman accepted the brave young man and both have lived happily together ever since; the snake skin, cured and stuffed, occupies a shelf in their parlor. The other young man, driven desperate by the young woman's choice, wandered away westward. He is now serving out a term in the Kansas legislature.

* * *

A New Yorker, who had business in one of the mountain villages last week, was followed to the depot, when ready to take the train, by a native, who continually inquired:

"Are you an undertaker?"

"Oh, no,"

Didn't know but you was an undertaker looking for an opening here, and I'd like to pool with you. I own the graveyard here and we could run the business to suit ourselves. Are you a doctor?

"No."

"Didn't know but you was. I've got the best place in town for a drug store, and I'd furnish the medicines and you do the doctoring, and we'd pool. Maybe you are a lawyer?"

"No, my friend."

"I thought if you was we could fix it all right, one of my brothers being the justice of the peace and the other the constable. I'd be the silent partner and sue every man in town to make business. Like enough you are a preacher."

"Wrong again."

"Well, I'm sorry. I've got a mortgage on the best church building here, and if you was only the right kind of a preacher we'd pool in, and in less than three months we'd have the dead wood on every soul worth saving.

* * *

The Wheat Harvest.

The Western and Northwestern Land Association will run a series of harvest excursions to Jamestown and Bismark, Dakota via the Michigan Central and the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railways, the "Albert Lea Route," and the Northern Pacific Railroad, the first leaving Detroit, Mich., and points west, on the M. C. R. R., August 8, and the second leaving Buffalo and points west, on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern R. R., August 15.

The wheat harvest in Dakota this year, promises to surpass all previous ones; and Eastern farmers can, at comparatively little cost, see the fields of golden grain harvested on a colossal scale, and not only obtain new ideas as to wheat culture, but see for themselves the capacity of the new northwest.

The harvest will commence about July 25 and ending August 20.

Fifty or more harvesters can be seen cutting the grain of a single field; and while the sickle is doing its work, steam threshers are separating the berry from the straw.

These are the only excursions that give patrons who purchase land free tickets one way.

Those who desire to visit the Yellowstone or points west of Bismark, will be furnished tickets at reduced rates from Bismark.

Mr. C. R. Cook, will accompany the excursion, looking after the personal comfort of patrons, and giving facilities for examination of lands.

Don't fail to ask ticket agents for C. R. Cook & Co's repate receipts. For further particulars address C. R. Cook & Co., 18 and 20 Franklin St. Chicago.

HONEST WAGONS!!

Is what you want. Call on

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.

and see their home-made

WAGONS!

GIVE THEM A CALL.

CENTRAL CONSERVATORY
—OF—
—M—U—S—I—C—!—!!—!!—

Columbus, Bartholomew Co., Ind.

Cheapest tuition in the U. S. for advantages offered. Limited number boarded in Principal's family. For terms, etc., address:
28-4w. W. E. BATES, Principal.

FORT WAYNE
CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.
(Incorporated 1871.)

For Catalogue and Particulars, address C. F. W. MEYER, Principal.
FORT WAYNE, IND. 27-8.

MUSIC MONEY
$5.00 FOR ONLY $1.00

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply alike the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send a 3-cent stamp to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. Best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ide

25 CARD COLLECTORS. BOYS send a stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards including photograph, picture & chromo cards. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA OHIO. 10-13w.

NOTICE. We have just issued a book containing 125 pieces of both vocal and instrumental music, every piece of which is very popular. We will give this book in place of the one given heretofore if desired. In case a book premium is not wanted, we will give a set (6) of beautiful silver-planted teaspoons. Great inducements to any one wishing to get up a club. Address as above for terms

THE MYSTERY OF

Love Making Solved

Or an Easy Road to Marriage.

Those in Love will find in this Book strange Secrets always hidden before to mankind, and an Easy Way to Marriage, also many Ancient Secrets that the married should know. If a wife is neglected by her wayward husband this book will surely reclaim him to his first love. It proves that Failure to win the object of your Choice is impossible. We have ransacked every country to get these Secrets of Love Making. They will cause millions of Hearts and Hands to be United in Marriage. What strange things regarding Love Making you can find in this Book. If your Love is not reciprocated, this great Book will open wide the barred door, and makes Love's Pathway clear. Start Right and the Battle is Half Won. Sent by Mail for 10 Three cent stamps. Two for 50 cents. Five for $1.00. Address SUNSHINE PUBLISHING HOUSE, Geneva, O.

The American Popular Dictionary, $1.00

This useful and elegant volume is a complete Library and Encyclopaedia, as well as the best Dictionary in the world. Superbly bound in cloth and gilt. It contains every word in the English language, with its true meaning, derivation, spelling and pronunciation and a vast amount of absolutely necessary information upon science, Mythology, Biography, American History, Laws, etc., being a perfect Library of reference. Webster's Dictionary costs $8.00, and the American Popular Dictionary costs only $1, "worth ten times the money."—N. Y. Atlas. "We have never seen its equal either in price, finish or contents."—The Advocate. "A perfect Dictionary and library of reference."—Leslie's Illus. News, N. Y. One copy of the American Popular Dictionary (illustrated), the greatest and best book ever published, post-paid to any address on receipt of $1.00. Entire satisfaction guaranteed. Two copies postpaid $1.75. Order at once. This offer is good for 60 days only, and will never be made again. Six copies for Five Dollars. Get five of your friends to send with you and you get your own book free.

SUNSHINE PUBLISHING CO., Geneva, Ohio.

Our readers will find this wonderful book the cheapest Dictionary published. The information it contains is worth many times the amount asked for it, and it should be in the possession of everybody. With this book in the library for reference, many other much more expensive works can be dispensed with, and ignorance of his country, history, business, laws, etc., is inexcusable in any man. Note the price, $1, post paid.

FORT WAYNE & JACKSON R. R.—SHORT Line

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Time-Card in effect July 16, 1882.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am	......
Saginaw	6 30	7 55
Lansing	9 25	10 25
Grand Rapids	10 20	6 00	12 25pm
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 05
Ann Arbor	11 17.	8 45	5 25
Jackson Lv.	6 [illegible]am	12 [illegible]pm	6 55
Hanover	7 03	12 57	8 00
Jonesville	7 25	1 02	8 55
Bankers	7 38	1 16	9 20
Reading	7 50	1 27	9 45
Montgomery	8 03	1 40	10 10
Fremont	8 19	1 58	10 40
Angola	8 35	2 13	11 10
Pleasant Lake	8 45	2 28	11 30
Waterloo	9 05	2 43	6 00am
Auburn	9 15	2 53	6 25
Auburn Junction	9 20	2 57	6 50
Arrive Ft. Wayne	10 15	3 50	8 20
Indianapolis	5 45pm	10 45	......
Cincinnati	6 05	7 35am	......
Louisville	7 30	7 25	......
St. Louis	......	8 40	......
Washington	2 10	6 47	......
Baltimore	3 20	5 15	......

NORTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Accom
Leave Baltimore	11 00am	......	1 30am
Washington	10 40	......	2 35
St. Louis	6 40pm	......	7 50
Louisville	7 12	7 00am	......
Cincinnati	9 00	7 45	2 25pm
Indianapolis	4 25am	10 55	......
Ft. Wayne	11 45	5 00pm	1 00am
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 40pm	6 00	3 00
Auburn	12 48	6 03	3 05
Waterloo	12 58	6 15	3 40
Pleasant Lake	1 16	6 37	4 25
Angola	1 27	7 05	5 00
Fremont	1 42	7 22	5 33
Montgomery	1 58	7 40	6 07
Reading	1 10	7 52	6 30
Bankers	2 22	8 04	6 55
Jonesville	2 38	8 18	7 25
Hanover	3 05	8 45	8 20
Jackson	3 40pm	9 20	9 20
Ann Arbor	5 07	10 28	10 34
Detroit	6 30	11 40	11 50
Grand Rapids	10 30	7 10am	4 30pm
Lansing	5 35	8 20	......
Saginaw	8 25	10 55	......
Bay City	9 20	11 55	......

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.: east—12 40, 5 00, 7 05, 9 30 a. m., 3 05, 4 05, 9 28 p. m.; west—12 45, 7 02, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. & A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J. L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 7 30 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m., 2 30 p. m.; west 9 45 a. m., 1807, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p. m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 3 42, 11 30 p. m.; west 2 25 a. m., 1 31 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 4 34 a. m., 1 48, 10 22 p. m.; west, 2 05 a. m., 12 45, 11 35p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m. 3 :15 p. m. west —1:57, 11:31 a. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 20 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m., 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 5 00 7 30 a. m., 2 10, 7 35 p. m., west, 6 10, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W. leave 12 10, 6 05 a. m. 1 15pm; ar. 2 00, a. m. 2 55, 7 07p.m. P., Ft. W. & C, east 2 5 35 a. m., 4 10, 11 20 p. m.; west 12 10, 2 40, 11 43 a. m., 3 45, p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time. same as Ft. W. & J. road. Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Fr. & Pass'r. Agent

LAKE SHORE & MICHIGAN SOUTHERN Railway.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipment! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y.Ex.	A... Ex	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 15pm
Elkhart	1 30pm	10 1[illegible]	[illegible]	7 [illegible]
Kendallville	2 48	11 30	5 25	12 10pm
Corunna	2 56		6 [illegible]
Sedan			7 00	[illegible]
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30	[illegible]
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 [illegible]	[illegible]
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 [illegible]pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi Ex.	Pac.Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 00am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 30am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 [illegible]	10 00
Corunna	2 15		6 1[illegible]	10 15
Kendallville	3 20	3 00	8 25	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	5 00	8 20

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily. Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m. and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:[illegible] p. m. and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage. J. E. CURTIS,
Supt. Mich. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to
H. D. ARMSTRONG,
Agent Waterloo Ind.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAILROAD—CHICAGO Division.

IN EFFECT FROM MAY 21, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C Ex.
CHICAGO lv.	5 10pm	10 50pm	8 16am
Walkerton Junction	8 11	1 56am	11 14
Milford Junction	9 16	3 10	12 25
Syracuse		3 22	12 38pm
Cromwell		3 38	12 51
Albion		4 00	1 12
Avilla		4 22	1 34
Garrett	10 35	4 45	2 00
Auburn Junction	10 42	4 54	2 08
St. Joe
Hicksville	11 14	5 30	2 42
Defiance	11 52	6 13	3 24
Deshler	12 45am	7 10	4 20
Fostoria	1 39	8 07	5 15
Tiffin	2 02	8 35	5 43
CHICAGO JUNCTION ar.	3 00	9 45	6 50

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
CHICAGO JUNCTION lv	9 50pm	6 40pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 38	7 56	9 14
Fostoria	11 02	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 43	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville	1 47	11 42	12 28pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 18am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 45
Avilla		12 38	1 59
Albion		1 02	2 21
Cromwell		1 28	2 45
Syracuse		1 45	3 03
Milford Junction		1 56	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 14	4 30
CHICAGO ar	8 35	5 55	7 [illegible]

FT. WAYNE, CINCINNATI & LOUISVILLE Railroad,

In effect April 16, 1882.

SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS.	NORTHWARD
No 3 Express	No. 1 Mail		No2 Mail	No. 4 Ex.
5 40pm	10 20am	Le Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	9 55am
6 47	11 20	...Bluffton...	4 05	8 53
7 50	12 18pm	...Hartford...	3 04	7 47
8 40	1 10pm	...Muncie...	2 10	6 50
		..Cincinnati..
10 55pm	6 05	Indianapolis	11 05	4 35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. B. CAMPBELL General Ticket Agt.

Where Shall I Attend School ?

You will be aided in answering this question by reading the catalogue of the FORT WAYNE (IND.) COLLEGE.

The lowest rates combined with the best advantages. Address:
W. F. YOCUM, A. M.,
28-6w. Fort Wayne, Ind.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 181 and 183 W. Madison St., Chicago. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp.

$1,000 Forfeit!

Having the utmost confidence in its superiority over all others, and after thousands of tests of the most complicated and severest cases we could find, we feel justified in offering to forfeit One Thousand Dollars for any case of coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, hoarseness, bronchitis, consumption in its early stages; whooping cough and all diseases of the throat and lungs, except Asthma, for which we only claim relief, that we can't cure with West's Cough Syrup, when taken according to directions. Sample bottles 25 and 50 cents; large bottles $1.00. Genuine wrappers only in blue. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price. JOHN C. WEST & CO., sole proprietors, 181 and 183 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Health is Wealth.

DR. E. C. WEST'S Nerve and Brain Treatment is a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Spermatorrhoea, Impotency Emissions, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, self-abuse, or over-indulgence, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our writen guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind. Orders by mail at regular price.

—Weirick, the Fairfield merchant buys butter and eggs and other produce. Don't forget it. tf.

TAKE A RIDE
—OVER THE—

WABASH
ST. LOUIS
AND PACIFIC
RY.

—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!

2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS
TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest!

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address I. M. ZENT, agent, Auburn, Ind., or G. R. COLE, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, Gen. Manager. H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen. Passenger Agent
St. Louis.

RUBBER ROOFING

Costs only $3.25 per square, 10x10 feet, and will last a lifetime on steep or flat roofs. Send for circular and samples free.
IND. PAINT AND ROOFING CO.,
Indianapolis, Ind.

JOS. ABRIGHT,
—Dealer In—

Watches,
Watches,

Clocks,
Clocks,

Castors
Castors,

Spoons,
Spoons,

Forks,
Forks,

Knives
Knives,

Chains,
Chains,

Rings,
Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN INDIANA

This Looks Pretty Solid.

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST.

STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER

IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stump than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself. Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,

GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,

54 S. MERDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.

HUGHES & HUMPHREYS,

SLATE ROOFERS,

First Premium on Ornamental Work.
All Work Guaranteed Water Proof.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY

FISTULA RECTAL ULCERS FISSURES

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

COME BEFORE TOO LATE

BY DR A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE PATENTED.

OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR BRINKERHOFF. CURE WARRANTED.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, AUGUST 3, 1882. Number 31.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana Office over Mrs. Jones' Store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections Office over Citizens' Bank, Waterloo, Ind.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING, office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 28 1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor John Butt Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M.D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M.D

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m., except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week HENRY I'NOBEY. Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.
WILSON S. DANCER, Trustee.
April 15, 1882. tf

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice. FREDERICK GFALLER, Trustee.
April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. C. H. BROWN, Trustee.

For Sale.

On account of my wife's illness I offer for sale my threshing machine, clover huller, and ten horse power traction engine all in complete running order. For terms call at my residence two miles west of Waterloo, on Smithfield township line, or address. Wm. Brand, Waterloo, Ind.

The Heberling Shirring and Gathering Machine.

(Improved March 1, 1880.)

The only machine in the world that makes the hand-stitch. Simple, practical and perfect in operation. Doing a large range of material; such as silks, satins, velvets, alpacas, cashmeres, white goods, &c., with one or two rows of stitching at the same time.

Work more regular and beautiful than can be done by hand. Shirrs or gathers adjusted full or scant by drawing thread same as handwork. Will do the work of ten or fifteen hands. Call on Miss O. Wolsey and Mrs. Angie Kuhlman, corner of Main and Fifth street, Auburn, Indiana. 26-12t.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries

SPECTACLES

of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address

Dr. E. C. YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, 133. 2-tf.

MONEY to loan on improved farms in sums of $2000 or more at six per cent. No delay. U. M. STONDONN, Indianapolis, Ind. 28-1w.

ROOT AND COMPANY

46 and 48 Calhoun St.,

For the Fly and Mosquito Season, have a full line of

BED CANOPIES!

Their own manufacture, full size and with latest improvements—made up of White, Pink and Blue

Mosquito Net

—AND—

Blonde Nets!

$1 50, $2 00, $3 00, $3 50, $4 00 each. Also Offer 1,000 Pieces

MOSQUITO BARS!

White, Pink, Blue, Green, at lowest market price

SCOTCH ZEPHYR GINGHAMS

20 cents per yard; in Black and White Gray and white, and Fancy Plaids, reduced from 28 and 30 cts., to close them out.

THIN BLACK GOODS

For summer use in great variety

BLACK LACE BUNTINGS,
BLACK BROCADE GRENADINES,
PLAIN MESH GRENADINES,
BLACK NUN'S VEILINGS,
PLAIN BLACK BUNTINGS,

12½, 15, 20, 25, 35, 50, 60, 75 cents per yard and upwards.

Also an extensive line of summer

DRESS GOODS

At Reduced Prices. Such as

LENO CHECKS,
SUMMER SILKS,
FOULE CLOTHS,
SCOTCH ZEPHYRS,
COLORED LACE BUNTINGS

FOULARD SILKS,
NUNS VEILINGS,
PLAIN COLORED BUNTINGS,
FANCY ORGANDIES AND
LAWNS, ETC., ETC., ETC.

Just Received 25 Cases

PALM LEAF FANS,

$1.50 per hundred

ROOT AND COMPANY

FT. WAYNE, INDIANA.

Dairy Hints.

EDITOR COURIER: The question of the manufacture of dairy goods in DeKalb and surrounding counties, has at times engrossed the minds of our citizens. But these paroxisms have been of their duration, not because of the new adaplibility of this section of country for that purpose, but because the people do not understand that branch of industry. In order to bring this matter before the minds of the people, I will endeavor to write a short article occasionally for publication, and in doing so shall to some extent quote news reports that I receive in my dairy productions. Aside from my investigation, my personal experience is too limited to be held up as criterian for others to follow. The dairy business requires study and careful thought in all of its relations; Therefore I shall endevor to handle the subject carefully and honestly, giving facts as I understand them, and in such a manner as not to mislead any one. After traveling considerable and investigating this matter, I am satisfied that DeKalb and surrounding counties are as well adapted to dairy purposes as any portion of country that I was ever in. But I will drop this for the present and give the reports of a few tests of different cows on milk and butter yield. Mr. S. N. Wright, one of Kane county, Illinois, successful dairymen gives the following statements of the amount of milk given by one of his cows for seven days, commencing June 30, ending July 6; She gave 488 pounds 1; ounce, an average of a little over 69 pounds per day. This was a six-year-old-cow three-quarters Holstein blood. She had good pasture and three quarts of bran per day. The same man has four one-half blood Holtein that gave in ten months or 303 days 44,400 pounds of milk, an average of a fraction over 36 pounds and 6 ounces per day, these were from four to six years old. From the county gentlemen I have the following: One Mr. Campbell runs a Jersey cow that gave in seven days 205 pounds and 7 ounces of milk from which he made 22 pounds and 2½ ounces of butter, an average of 1 pound of butter to 9½ pounds of milk.

J. E. THOMSON.

THERE will evidently be plenty of Dorsey's style of "soap" ready for service in carrying the election in Indiana in a short time. Hubbell, the chairman of the republican congressional committee, is levying an assessment on each of the employes of the federal government. He calls for two per cent. of the amount of their annual salary. If a man draws $1200 a year, he must pay $24, and so on from the lowest to the highest. This assessment he is collecting all over the country, in the face of a recent law passed by the congress of which he is a member, forbidding any such assessments on the employes of the government. The money is to be employed for election purposes, and we may soon expect a second lot of crisp new bills such as did Dorsey's work so affectually in this state two years ago. Dorsey himself, will likely be free in a short time to distribut these funds where they will do the most good, as he is likely to escape his star route prosecutions soon.

IN Egypt, Arabi Bey, has taken up a strong position between Alexandria and Cairo, and has not only strengthened his position by earthworks, but has flooded the country in front of him. This he succeeded in doing by cutting the fresh water canal that supplies Alexandria with water. In the latter city they are saving what little water was in the canal below the break, by cleaning out the old cisterns built by the Romans, and filling them from the canal. Salt water in the harbor is also being condensed and so made fresh, in order to lengthen out the supply. In these ways the people expect to have a supply for at least three weeks, and by that time they hope to drive Arabi away from his position and repair the canal.

THERE is a strong probability that there will be a famine in some parts of Ireland, owing to the failure of the crops. All the woes of a bad government and of bad seasons seem to fall on that unfortunate country.

THIRTEEN boys have died in Baltimore of lockjaw, caused by accidents with toy pistols on the Fourth of July.

Ed. Eldridge purchased a fine piano for his son James at F. B. Straw's music store. We are glad to note the success of this new music house.

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield, will sell you goods as cheap and as good as you can get anywhere. tf.

The Codfish.

MR. NYE'S TRIBUTE TO THE QUALITIES OF THIS WELL KNOWN CHARACTER.

This topical bird very seldom wings his way so far west as Wyoming. He loves the sea breeze and the humid atmosphere of the Atlantic Ocean, and when isolated in this mountain clime pines for his native home.

The codfish cannot sing, but is prized for his beautiful plumage and seductive odor.

The codfish of commerce is devoid of digestive apparatus, and is more or less permeated with salt.

Codfish on toast is not as expensive as quail on toast.

The codfish ball is made of the shattered remains of the adult codfish mixed with the tropical Irish potato of commerce.

The codfish has a great weath of glad, unfettered smile. When he laughs at any thing, he has that same waste of mirth and back teeth that Mr. Talmage has. The Wyoming codfish is generally dead. Death, in most cases, is the result of exposure and the loss of appetite. No one can look at the codfish of commerce, and not shed a tear. Far from home, with his system filled with salt, while his eternal economy is gone, there is an air of sadness and homesickness and briny hopelessness about him that no one can see unmoved.

It is in our home life, however, that the codfish makes himself felt and remembered. When he enters our household we feel his all-pervading presence, like the perfume of weed violets, or the seductive odor of a dead mouse in the piano.

Friends may visit us and go away to be forgotten with the advent of a new face, but the cold, calm, silent corpse of the codfish cannot be forgotten. Its chastened influence permeates the entire ranch. It steals into the parlor like an unbidden guest, and flavors the costly curtains and the high-priced lambrequins. It enters the dark closet, and dallies lovingly with your swallow-tail coat. It goes into your sleeping-apartment, and makes its home in your glove-box and your handkerchief-case.

That is why we say it is a solemn thing to take the life of a codfish. We would not do it. We would pass him by a thousand times, no matter how ferocious he might be, rather to take his life and have our once happy home haunted forever by his unholy presence.

Life in the Polar Regions.

It is impossible to form an idea of a tempest in the polar seas. The icebergs are like floating rocks whirling along a rapid current. The huge crystal mountains dash against each other, backwark and forward, bursting with a roar like thunder, and returning to the charge until losing their equilibrium they tumble over a cloud of spray, upheaving the ice-fields which fall afterward like the crack of a whiplash on the boiling sea. The sea gulls fly away screaming, and often a black shining whale comes for an instant puffing to the surface. When the midnight sun grazes the horison, the floating mountains and the rocks seem immersed in a wave of beautiful purple light. The cold is by no means so insupportable as is supposed. We passed from a heated cabin at thirty degrees above zero to 47 degrees below zero in the open air without inconvenience. A much higher degree of cold becomes, however, insufferable if there is no wind. At fifteen degrees below zero a steam, as if from a boiling kettle, rises from the water. At once frozen by the wind, it falls in a fine powder. This phenomenon is called ice-smoke. At 40 degrees the snow and human bodies also smoke, which smoke changes at once into millions of tiny particles, like needles of ice, which fill the air and make a light, continuous noise, like the rustle of a stiff silk. At this temperature the trunks of trees burst with a loud report, the rocks break up and the earth opens and vomits smoking water. Knives break in cutting butter. Cigars go out by contact with the ice on the beard. To talk is fatiguing. At night the eyelids are covered with a crust of ice, which must be carefully removed before one can open them.

Experience the Best Guide.

The reason why women everywhere use Parker's Ginger Tonic is, because, they have learned by experience—the best guide—that this excellent medicine overcomes despondency, periodical headache, indigestion, pain in the back and kidneys, and other troubles of the sex.—Home Journal. 31-4t.

Auburn Normal School

commences August 7, in the High School room, at Auburn. During a term of eight weeks, an opportunity will be given to teachers of reviewing all the branches which they are required to teach. No pains will be spared to make the review thorough and complete. In many of the branches the recitations will be conducted topically, thus encouraging the use of a variety of text books. As an outline of our work the text books adopted in the district schools of the county will be used. Methods, management and discipline will be discussed, and many of the difficulties of school teaching will be considered. We shall have the use of some excellent physiological charts, outline maps, globes and other apparatus. A course of lectures will be provided on different phases of education. In view of the fact that many of the pupils of the grammar and high schools desire to attend, another class will be formed for their accommodation. We are gratified that we have already heard from so many who are to attend and will be free to answer any questions. We will be in Auburn on the week preceding the opening of school and assist any in securing rooms and board. Mr. Zimmerman will organize a class in penmanship.

M. W. HARRISON,
MRS. LIDA A. LEASURE.

A State Without Creeks.

"There is only one State in the United States, and only one representative in Congress, that has no interest in the River and Harbor Bill," said representative Cassidy, of Nevada, "and I am the reeresentative. We haven't got a river or creek even in the entire state of Nevada. I did not like the idea of our state getting left in this combination affair, and hunted up and down the moutains, but could not find a bit of water we wanted to improve. It is a cold day when Nevada is left, but we got the go-by in this bill. Still there will be some money left after this bill is passed, and I'll make a big pull to get some of it for a public building at Carson City, which we need very much. This haul on the Treasury," continued Mr. Cassidy, "reminds me of an occurance in the early days of California. The State Legislature had been in session the allotted time and was about to adjourn. Everybody had got his bill and appropriation through. Just before the motion to adjourn was put, a member rose to a question of privilege. "What is it?" asked the Speaker. "Mr Speaker, answered the member, "I ask you, as a question of privilege, now that all the bills and drains and hauls have got through, how much money is left in the Treasury?" The Speaker made a little calculation and answered, "About $100,000. "Then," said the member, "I move we rake her." In the taking in this case I want to get money enough to put up our public buildings in Carson City."

A Natural Screen.

The "tattie," used universally in India, is a large curved or sloping screen, which accurately fits into each door or window facing the west, and is made of the roots of the khuskhus grass, which singularly combines strength and porosity with the most delicious and refreshing fagrance. The screens are about an inch in thickness, and during the hot and dry west wind, are saturated from outside with water, which immediately commences evaporating under the fierceness of the blast: and as evaporation always implies cold, the wind which, in the veranda, would raise the thermometer to one hundred and twenty degrees Fahrenheit, passes into the house at seventy-five or eighty degrees, laden with a delicious fragrance. While tatties are in working order all other cooling appliances are unnecessary. In the neighborhood of Gwallor and Jhansi there is another of tattie. A small creeping, thorny variety of the bur is largely found in the jungles; this is colloted and dried, and at the proper time the whole west veranda is closed with thorny walls nine to ten inches thick, and these being saturated from the outside, all doors are thrown open, and a delightful temperature is secured. Tatties are of no use during the easterly wind which ushers in and accompaines the rains. Laden with moisture it is a damp wind, and therefore retards evaporation.

Faded Colors Restored.

Faded or gray hair gradually recovers its youthful color and lustre by the use of Parker's Hair Balsam, an elegant dressing, admired for its purity and rich perfume. 31-4t.

Waiting for Her Lover Sixty Years.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

A number of years ago some miners in Wales, in exploring an old pit that had long been closed, found the body of a young man dressed in a fashion long out of date. The peculiar action of the air of the mine was such as preserved the body so perfectly that it appeared asleep rather than dead. The miners were puzzled at the circumstance. No one in the district had been missed within their remembrance, and at last it was resolved to bring in the oldest inhabitant—an old lady long passed her eightieth year, who had lived single in the village the whole of her life. On being taken into the presence of the body a very strange scene occured. The old lady fell on the corpse and kissed it and addressed it by every term of endearment spoken in a bygone generation. He was her only love, and she had waited for him during her long life. She knew he had not forsaken her. The old lady and young man had been betrothed sixty years before. The lover had disappeared mysteriously, and she had kept her faith during the long interval. The miners removed the old lady to her house, and that night her faithful spirit rejoined that of her long-lost lover.

The Pretzel.

This delicious fruit grows best in the shade and the shade of a beer garden being preferred. It is ripe at birth, and is ready to eat as soon as picked. In North Germany, where the benighted people do not know any better, the pretzel is called a "kringle." This is enough to spoil the pretzel, only that it is impossible.

The pretzel is always planted on free lunch counters.

The genuine pretzel has a heart like a marble yard, and the hide is varnished to keep it dry. It is varnished with a hot lye, and sprinkled with salt and aniseed to give it tone. Before it assumes the expression so familiar to the lovers of this peremial fruit, the pretzel is about the size of a garter snake. After it is tied up in that intricate knot which makes the eater wonder where to take the first bite, no man can guess at its length. Enough is known however, to warrant scientific authorities in saying that if a man should swallow a pretzel whole, and it should suddenly straighten out in him, it would kill him in a minute. It is not possible, however, for a man to eat a pretzel whole. You can eat all the rest of it, but while there is more hole than pretzel to begin with, yet the more you eat the pretzel the more hole there is left.—Robert Burdette.

The Fall of Lake Ontario.

As an illustration of the manner in which the lakes and streams are gradually falling away as the result of the rapid decimation of our forests, the case of Ontario Lake may be cited. An exchange says: "No little concern is felt by persons interested in the harbor accommodations of Lake Ontario, by reason of the assured fact that the lake has fallen steadily, and in a marked degree, for many years. The records have been accurately kept, and leave no room for doubt. Many wharfs in many ports were formely accessible to vessels which cannot now come near them. The entrance to the harbor of Toronto has been kept open only by means of thorough dredging, and now when rock bottom has been reached, there is scarcely enough water to float the largest of the vessels which seek to pass." It is easy to set forth the remedy, but the habits of the entire people must first be changed. When a man cuts down a tree, will he take the trouble to plant another as a substitute? No, he never will until human nature shall have been reconstructed.

The stage of a western theater took fire the other evening, but a panic and rush for the door was averted by the manager who, with great presence of mind, slipped to the front and said: "Ladies and gentlemen—we have prepared a little surprise for you. An immense kettle of whisky punch is now being heated and in a few moments waiters will pass through the audience and distribute it." After that the audience had to be pulled out, one by one.—Philadelphia News.

Administrator's Sale.

I will offer for sale on Saturday, August 19, 1882, at the late residence of John Davis, deceased, 1½ miles north of Auburn, all his personal property not taken by the widow, consisting of, Cattle, Hogs, two-horse Wagon, Plows, Harness, Grain-seeder, cross-cut drag Saw, Hay-rakes, Harrows, Carpenter Tools, etc. Terms made known on day of sale. Sale at 10 a. m.

S. KUTZNER, Adm'r.
Jery Plum, auctioneer. 30-31

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of John Davis, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

S. KUTZNER, Adm'r.
0-31.

DREAMS.

They are far away and silent,
Those voices sweet and dear,
There is space and time between us
This many and many a year.

The sounds of care and labor
Fill all my world by day,
I heed not mirth nor music,
Nor mourning by the way.

Only the mill wheels turning,
And the hammer-throbs of pain,
In brain and spirit burning
For ends of need and gain.

But when the night is quiet,
And weary brow and breast,
Thought's endless, loveless riot,
At last are hushed to rest.

Then comes the old life's longing,
A fierce and flooded stream;
On sense and spirit thronging
And voices crowd my dream.

I see the eyes before me
Beloved and mourned and missed,
And sweet lips hover o'er me
That once I fondly kissed.

The darling of my bosom
Clings to my heart once more;
And the dead years bud and blossom,
Fair as they bloomed before.

Ah me! I wake to sorrow.
For dream and day are done,
And the weary, weary morrow
Of toil and pain begun!

Will it be so when I'm sleeping
Under the quiet sod,
When mine eyes have done their weeping,
And my soul is safe with God?

Shall the heart that life was breaking
With days of lonely pain,
In a last long sleep be waking,
And dream its dreams again?

Out of that tranquil glory,
By the living river's flow,
Shall I turn to the old, old story
Of mortal loss and woe?

Or will death put out this ember
Of lone and vain regret?
It is anguish to remember!
Is it heaven to forget!
—Rose Terry Cooke.

TOM HALIFAX, M. D.

She had been resting her head upon her hand, full of thought, when suddenly she heard the sound of a horse's hoofs clattering down the street. She looked up, wondering who the rider could be, and looking up half startled. It was Dr. Halifax himself, and as he reached the gate he slackened his speed, and dismounting, came up the garden walk with a hurried step. She did not wait for the servants, but, stepping into the hall, flung open the shade blinds in response to his summons, and stood before him.

He certainly had not expected to see her, but he did not wince, merely bowing and coloringly slightly.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Ashby," he said; but I have come to solicit charity on the behalf of one of my patients. I am not a rich man myself," with the calm, handsome eyes on her face, "and your father told me that I might rely on him in this terrible trouble."

"I am very glad to be of service," said Bessie. "What is most needed, Dr. Halifax?"

He made a few suggestions, as he thought proper, and, under his directions, she filled a large basket with food and wine. It seemed as though he was at least ten years older, and Bessie's heart grew very full at the sight of his pale, grave face as she completed her task.

"Can I do nothing more?" she asked, as she gave him the basket. "O, Dr. Halifax, if I only could!" And in spite of herself, the thick, gathering tears filled her eyes.

He looked surprised, and then his face softened. "Thank you!" he replied. "I will remember what you have said."

When Tom Halifax mounted his horse again, it was with a thrill of pleasurable pain and a backward glange at the slender figure on the piazza. He had looked down upon the pretty face beneath its veiling curls, the wet lashes and tremulous mouth, thinking a little sadly of the days when her eyes would have met his with a warmer glow. Yes, it all came to the same thing in the end. The old wound was not completely healed, and a soft glance from the girlish eyes had set it throbbing again almost as fiercely as ever. That night he came upon Captain Housted.

"Cannot I help you, Halifax?" said the kind-hearted fellow. "You are killing yourself. Let me do something, if it is only to grind powders."

"You must not run the risk of infection," said Tom. "You have something at home to take care of."

"Yes," said Captain Fred. "But I don't think the little somebody cares much." His voice had dropped a tone or so, and he was tapping his boot with his whip, as though musingly.

"Ask her," suggested Tom, with a short laugh, that almost choked him.

"I am going to ask her to-night," said the Captain, raising his head suddenly, with a half smile. "It's all a lottery, you know. It remains to be proven whether my prize is a blank or not."

Three hours after Bessie stood with her cousin in the garden.

"It is no use," she said, with impetuous tremor. "I don't love you Cousin Fred—at least not as I must love the man I marry. I thought I did, but lately"— She stopped, dropped her face, and then added, almost in a whisper: "I have, been very wicked and foolish. Please forgive me."

The Captain looked down a little gravely. "When did you change your mind, Bessie?"

"A few weeks ago, since this dreadful plague. It made me think, and I saw that—I had not been doing rightly."

It was fully three minutes before Fred Housted spoke again.

"See here, Bessie!" he said, at last. "I am learning something, too. I never believed the gossip before now"—a moment's pause, and his smothered doubt burst forth: "Bessie, why did you quarrel with Tom Halifax?"

"Oh, Fred, don't," she said.

"Don't cry," said Fred. "I want to know the truth."

I have said Bessie Ashby never did anything by halves. In her grief and excitement she she forgot she had flirted with her cousin; forgot about the "position;" forgot everything, but that she was frightened, and miserable, and tired of acting.

"I have been so horribly selfish," she sobbed. "I didn't think I cared so much, and—and he was so poor, and then we quarrelled, and I thought I would like you well enough. I don't think I should have been so wicked, but he was so proud, and things got worse every day; but lately it has all come back, and I can't help it."

"You have not treated me well, Bessie," said the honest young captain, after a short silence. "Men don't want women to marry them because they think they can like them well enough; but I think you see how you have wronged me. It is all over now, so we will say no more about it."

I have said before that hearts do not break. They may strech and, perhaps, suffer a little in the rebound, but really breaking is out of the question; and warm and true though our brave captain's might be, it was not likely to disgrace the general india-rubber reputation by snapping, even in this painful strain; so, pray do not blame poor, penitent Bessie for any misfortunes which may hereafter befall him.

The next morning Dr. Halifax met his rival in the street.

"I prophecied rightly, old fellow," said the gentleman, quietly. "The affirmative proves to be a negative after all."

"Mademoiselle is changeable," said Tom. "I hope I am not going to have you for a patient, Housted. You are as pale as a ghost."

"Broken heart," laughed the captain. "No, I don't think you will. The warmth gives me a slight headache; that is all."

But there was something more. As the day grew, the slight headache became a severe one, throbbing and pulsing, the pale face flushed, and the strong limbs trembled and failed as they had never done before.

At about 6 o'clock, as Tom sat in his office writing out some prescriptions, Captain Housted entered the room and staggered into a chair.

"I am afraid you are going to have a patient, Halifax," said he, smiling feebly. "I feel rather faint." And as he said it he dropped his deathly face upon the table, and lay there without moving.

He had braved it a long time, but the dreadful pest had come upon him at last. Tom sent for Colonel Ashby, and the sick man was carried home. At the door Bessie met them with a pale face but steady eyes.

"She ought to have been sent away," said Tom.

"But I am not afraid!" she answered, firmly. "Please let me stay?"

I dare say you will decide that Dr. Halifax was shockingly unstable when I tell you that from that time his mind began to waver as regarded Bessie Ashby. Meeting her every day in her cousin's sick-room, it was not easy to feel cold and stern. She was so sweet and girlish in her new humility, now the old capricious coquetry was thrown aside, and in all her appealing obedience to his orders he could not fail to see a little sensitive fear which sometimes troubled but always stirred his heart. He must take care of her, too; every shadow that crossed the pretty face must be inquired into. He was not going to fall in love again, of course; he was merely doing his duty as a medical man. Still, it was rather interesting.

Captain Housted was the last serious case of sickness, but it was a very severe one. For months the poor fellow's life lay trembling in the balance—one day fevered and delirous, the next seemingly sinking into death. But in time he began to struggle through it, and, thanks to Tom's skill and patience, the shadowy face began to light with a faint glimmer of returning strength.

Gradually the fearful scourge weakened its power, and little by little seemed passing away. There were still patients to be visited and work to be done, but the awful rage of the pestilence had swept by. Then it was that Tom Halifax began to reap his reward. People who had never heard his name six months before, sent for him in all critical cases. Men of wealth and high standing in society courted his acquaintance as the brave young doctor who did his work so nobly throughout the sickness at Dorning. Men and women pointed him out to each other on the street, saying: "But for him I should have been laid in my grave." "He saved my children for me." "When my old mother died he was the last man she knew." When we were in trouble he worked for us day and night. God bless him!" Had there been nothing else, the warm, loyal young heart would have thrilled with tender thankfulness at the simple gratitude of the humble sufferers to whom he seemed almost a savior, but apart from this, reality came to him.

There was no lack of practice now, and the name and fortune that had seemed so far away a year ago, became a promise of truth. Of course, as yet, they were not quite perfected, but still each day brought them nearer, and showed something of solid advancement in life and prospects. The Chateaux en Espagne were beginning to stand on a substantial foundation. Perhaps this might have made him very happy. Naturally he felt thankful, but being a very warm-hearted and (in some things) a very unscientific M. D., he could not feel quite restful.

The truest of all truths is, that whatever we love, we can forgive, and whatever we forgive, it is not difficult to love. Bessie Ashby had refused Captain Housted. Why had she done it? Could it be that foolish little heart was subdued at last? It is easy to be magnanimous when one has been injured, and it is hard not to be magnanimous when the injurer is a pretty girl whom one has loved. If this were more than a simple record, I should certainly decide that my hero could not forgive my heroine under any circumstances, and, consequently, should doom them both to misery and despair. But as it is, I am compelled to say that Tom Halifax, M. D., forgave Bessie Ashby, for the simple reason that, in spite of her faults, he loved her.

And Bessie? During her cousin's sickness she had learned the extent of the M. D.'s power. She had found out that she could look up to him and rely on his strength, that she could trust him implicitly. She began to discover that he had a higher object in view than the regard for self, which had been the ruling power of her life, and his example taught her the true nobility of generous sacrifice. Still, in spite of the change in the hearts of both, they had not advanced much outwardly from the old coldness. But in the second month of Captain Housted's illness the denouement came as a denouement always comes, unexpectedly.

One evening there had been a slight return of the fever, and after a heavy sleep the patient awakened, restless and wandering. Bessie was standing at one side of the bed, and Dr. Halifax at the other, holding the Captain's hand as he opened his eyes.

"It was you she loved after all, Halifax," he said, smiling faintly. "I am 'only Cousin Fred.'"

The blood rushed into Bessie's face. The handsome eyes told her she understood—told her with one glance that burnt her cheek and set her heart beating swiftly. The next moment she had brushed by him and left the room.

Half an hour after Dr. Halifax came down stairs, and walked straight into the parlor, as though with some object in view. A very pretty figure stood in the dusky night by the window—a pretty head, with long, shining curls, resting upon an equally pretty hand. I wonder if Miss Ashby knew what was coming? Certainly her pulse fluttered very fast, and she looked out in the garden quite resolutely.

"Bessie!"

She did not move.

"Bessie!"

He certainly was a determined gentleman, this Dr. Halifax, for he drew the pretty hands away and turned Miss Ashby to the light.

"Was it true?" he whispered, bending very low over her.

The long curls drooped a little nearer. It certainly looked as if Miss Ashby was going over to the enemy.

"I—I think it was," she said, very softly. "I think it has been true for a long time, Dr. Halifax."

"It was dreadfully undignified, but Miss Ashby has positively made an unconditional surrender, and the curls lay in a shining heap against Dr. Halifax's broad shoulder.

"My dear little girl," he said, tenderly kissing the pretty, tremulous face. "My dear, dear little girl, how happy you have made me."

What more have I to say? I have ended my record, bringing both hero and heroine through their adventures, and leaving them in a properly dramatic position. I have only to tell you that Captain Housted has proved my theory of the elasticity of hearts, and, recovering from his sickness, recovered from his disappointment in a very sensible and decorous manner. In all probability he forgot his penchant for brown eyes and married a blonde. If he did, could there be a better proof that love is a lottery, and "variety the spice of life?"

A Romantic Murder.

Little Rock Special.

The trial of Miss Sarah Stokes, which was set for the July term of the Clark County Circuit Court, has been postponed, and will, it is understood, come up at a special term of the court, to meet within the next sixty days. This case has excited general interest, not only in Arkansas, but also throughout the Southwest. Sarah Stokes is young and beautiful. She lives with her father, a substantial farmer of Howard county, taking care of the household and a number of younger brothers and sisters. Her mother has been dead some years. On an adjacent farm lives a farmer named Stevens. He has a large family, including several girls. Between one of these latter and Miss Stokes a jealousy grew up, both being considered country belles. About one year since Miss Stevens made some allusion to Miss Stokes, which, coming to the ears of the latter, so aroused her that, mounting a horse and accompanied by a married sister named Elizabeth Shelton, she hastened to Miss Stevens' residence, intending to have an explanation of the remark. The girl was absent—it is said she was apprised of the visit and had hidden herself. The women searched the adjacent village of Mineral Point, and not finding her, returned to the house. Malinda Stevens, a younger sister of the girl they sought, was in the yard and became involved in a quarrel with Miss Stokes and advanced toward her threateningly. The latter, furious with anger, sprang from her horse and plunged a long, keen-bladed knife into the bosom of the approaching girl. Miss Stevens sank on the ground with a cry of agony and died in a few moments. Later, Miss Stokes and her companion were lodged in jail. Both were indicted, one as principal in the murder, the other as accessory. They are now at large, having given bail. Both the Stevenses and the Stokeses are reputable people, and the families have become reconciled and are trying to save Miss Stokes from the consequences of her terrible deed, and keep it out of the newspapers. The trial, if it ever occurs, promises to be one of absorbing interest.

Remarkable Statements.

Cincinnati Gazette.

The Gazette stated that settled beer drinkers, men who drank from fifteen to twenty glasses a day, were stupid and unfit for business. This is a fact. We also stated that life insurance companies would not take risks on the lives of settled beer drinkers. This is also a fact. We furthermore stated that nearly all the home made beer is adulterated, and to that extent unhealthy and poisonous. Will our German contemporaries deny that? or will they deny that the German beer drinkers in this country are degenerating? Or will they deny that the beer made and sold in this country would not be permitted in Germany? When they deny these propositions we shall get ready with the proof.

The Gazette also stated that the majority of divorce cases in this city were German, and the causes were traceable to the intemperate use of beer. This is shown by the court records. We did not talk about New England, but Cincinnati. It is true, also, that mortality is greatest among the children of German beer drinkers. People who know anything on the subject will not deny that. It is not whether Germans bear more children than Americans, but what becomes of the children.

The Philosophers and Their Shirts.

Detroit Free Press.

Once a woman who was called in to do Garibaldi's washing, ventured to remark that she could not find his shirts. "My shirts! I have but two," he replied. "You must have one in the wash; I have the other on. With a little order and calculation, two shirts are plenty!" Garibaldi's philosophy was never surpassed, unless by that Kentucky gentleman who possessed but one shirt, and was accustomed to lie in bed one day each week to have the sacred garment washed. One morning while he was at rest, his wife rushed in and cried: "Bill, the durned calf haz et your shirt!" Upon this Bill remarked tranquilly that "them ez hez must lose!"

ADVICE TO TELEMACHUS.

Advised to Keep Up With the Procession—The Man Who Hangs Back.

Burlington Hawk-Eye.

Keep up with the procession, my boy. Don't hang back in the breeching. You may be able to make things drag a little, but you can't stop the team, and you'll have to come along. There was a man, an eminent mathematician, Dr. Lardner, of England, who published a treatise to prove that no steamship could ever cross the Atlantic ocean, and the steamer Sirius, a few weeks later, brought the first copies of his pamphlet to America. This same eminent scientist also "staked his reputation as a man of science," before the House of Commons, on his statement that no railway train could ever go faster than ten miles an hour, and the slightest curve would invariably throw it off the track. Babinet, the French calculator, declared that no telegram could ever be transmitted from Europe through the Atlantic to America. There was a man right here in America, only one hundred years ago, who opposed the rebellion of the colonies because he knew it would be a failure. There was a man who laughed himself sore at Fulton's absurd ideas about steamboats. There were members of Congress who wanted Morse shut up in an insane asylum because he talked about a telegraph which was an impossibility. There was a man who said you could never build a bridge across the Mississippi. There was a man who said you could never raise wheat on the Great American Desert. There was a man who swore he would call the roll of his slaves in the shadow of Bunker Hill monument. There was a man who "knew" that nothing but a steam horse could ever trot inside of 2:40. There was a man who "knew" you couldn't make the sun draw your portrait. There was a man who "knew" you never could find a better light than a whale-oil lamp. There was another man knew you could never beat lard-oil. There was another man who said Colonel Drake was a gibbering idiot because he said he could pump a better oil than lard oil out of the ground like water. There was another man who said Edison was insane when he talked about an electric light. There was another man who said the phonograph was a clever trick of ventriloquism. There was a man who said the telephone was a newspaper lie. There was a man in England who led mobs of agricultural laborers to destroy threshing machines. There was a man in America who "knew" the invention of the sewing machine meant starvation for the poor seamstress. And there is a man to-day who says all people may come to America, save only the Chinese. There is a man who "knows" the Indians can never be civilized. There is a man who knows we have reached the limit of human progress. There is a man who knows the gigantic corporations will devour the country. There is a man who knows the people are hopelessly enslaved, and will never rise to assist themselves. There is a man who knows that all politics are corrupt, all politicians are mercenary, the civil service rotten to the core, and our social life is honey-combed with decay. Now, my dear boy, there's only one way for you to escape that man's whining and obstinate, mulish opposition to everything. Keep so far ahead of him you can't hear him. And do you keep moving and drag him along. Rasp him with the doubletrees; he has to come, for the old chariot never stands still a second. The difference between you and that man my boy, is that you run and he is dragged. You spring along, with your eyes open, your head erect, and you help to keep things moving. He has his feet set in the road, his eyes shut tight, his back up to his shoulders and his heart under the wheels. Every time you leap you throw the dust back into his face. Don't, my boy; whatever you do, don't get back beside that man. Don't have any breeching on your harness. Put on a breast collar, and that is enough; you'll run more lightly and feel freer. Let the men in the breeching hang back. All that you have to do is to step out, keep pace with the times, sing as you march and keep the man in the breeching so covered with dust the world will only know he is there by the dirt around him. It may be, Telemachus, you will run a little fast sometimes; it may be that you will kick over the traces in your exuberance of spirit; you may sometimes want to strike a 2:19 gait on a 3:20 road; you may need more curb than whip, but go it, my boy. There is a good driver on the seat and a firm hand on the lines, and I would rather see you coming down the long vistas of history with the bit in your teeth, your heels in the air, the brake-rod sprung, and the dash-board flying, than down on your haunches, your eyes shut, and your back bowed, the lash on your flanks and your collar up to your ears, your legs set like crow-bars and the dust of the whole team flying in your face, while you hang back in the breeching and only come along because you can't help it.

Cowardice of Elephants.

London Sportsman.

I once had a grand scrimmage with a tigress. She had mauled my own tusker badly, had crunched the mahout's foot into a jelly, while she had caused me to be thrown off, and, after mauling two other elephants, not badly, she had forced us to retreat for the time, as it got dark, and not an animal would go near her; we had no howdahs. Next morning we found her dead and took her into camp. As an experiment, we had all the tuskers brought to the front. My own beast, which was badly mauled about the head and jowl, and had its back fearfully cut by the carah ropes, went up to her at once when told, and struck the carcass with its trunk and stood by unconcernedly; but none of the other five tuskers would go near her. They were then jammed together and driven forward. They advanced with heads lowered until their tusks plowed up the ground, uttering most pitiful cries. When within a yard or so of the dead tigress, they jerked up their heads, scattering earth upon the body, and, notwithstanding the punishment they received from their mahouts, broke away and ran for their lives. It was the most absurd sight I ever saw. The next day, although the place where we were encamped was as bare of vegetation and level as a billiard table, not an elephant would advance alone to drink water or be bathed. The bheel was not 100 yards off; so the mahouts, holding on to a tip of the ear of an elephant, led them in a body down toward the water. Suddenly a young tusker, Jerry, which had been born in captivity, and was of a most uncertain temper, trumpeted and bolted, followed by every animal in camp, and it gave us a great deal of trouble to recapture them, one tusker, who had wandered upward of fifty miles, not being recovered for a week. There was not the slightest cause for this stampede. It interfered with our sport considerably; but in a few days the elephants appeared to have got over their panic, and allowed us to kill four, buffaloes and other game off them without showing any undue fear. I have always found elephants born in captivity the most uncertain in their tempers. They lose all fear of man, while, from not being accustomed to wild beasts, they dread them, and are thus useless for sport.

Two Western Towns.

The Century.

The two smart towns of Fargo and Morehead look at each other across the muddy Red river ditch with jealous eyes. They will not bridge the stream, because each is afraid the other would profit by it by a convenient crossing. Vehicles ferry over on a rude flat-boat, worked by hand-power applied to a rope stretched from bank to bank, and pedestrians are beholden to the railroad company for the use of its bridge. Morehead, the Minnesota town, has three thousand inhabitants; Fargo, the Dakota town, boasts of six thousand, and styles itself the Red river metropolis. Both welter in a sea of black mud in the season of thaws and rains; both are largely devoted to speculation in lots and lands, and both are equally unattractive to the eye. They are in reality a single town, commercially speaking, and a remarkably prosperous one, too. The railroad system has made them the business center and distributing point for the entire Red river valley, and out of their present jumble of muddy streets, cheap-pine cottages and shanties, vacant lots, saloons, stores, and lumber-piles, will grow up a handsome city of fifty thousand inhabitants within the present generation. Already there is a handsome hotel, rejoicing in the architectural oddities of the Queen Anne craze, a street railway, an electric light company, water-works, half a dozen banks, a daily newspaper, a number of creditable churches and school buildings, and a few pretty dwellings. Real estate speculation runs wild. Visions of a second change have turned the heads of the inhabitants. The talk is all about lots and values—how much this or that corner is worth, what Jones paid for his strip of mud, or what Smith holds his at. The real-estate agents have their offices in the hotels, in order to watch the arrival of guests and seize upon the supposed capitalist seeking investments, or the immigrant looking for a farm. No well-dressed stranger need wait long for the offer of a free ride about the future city, and a valuable guide to explain the many choice openings waiting for him and his money.

The Difference Between a Cyclone and a Tornado.

New York Journal

The difference between a tornado and a cyclone is defined by Mr. William Ferris, of the United States Coast Survey to be this: A cyclone is usually a broad, flat, gyrating disk of atmosphere, very much greater in width than altitude; a tornado is a column of gyrating air, the altitude of which is several times greater than its diameter. Cyclones are born of conditions extending over large areas; tornadoes depend rather upon the verticle relations of the atmosphere, and occur when, owing to local changes of temperature, the under strata of air bursts up through the overlaying strata. The enormous velocities of the ascending currents of tornadoes are supposed to be caused by the difference between the gyrating velocities above and those on the surface. It is these ascending currents which carry up the vast bodies of water afterward precipitated in the form of a deluge of rain. The water is sometimes kept from falling by the ascending currents, and is often projected outside the area of the tornado, when it falls in a gentle shower over a large area. When the weight of the water overbears the force of the ascending currents, there occurs the tremenduous fall of rain known as cloud-bursts. When the area of a tornado is very small, a land spout or water spout may be formed, according as it is over land or water. The width of these spouts ranges between two feet and 200, and their height from thirty to 1,500 feet. A white squall is an invisible spout formed when the dew point is low. The accompanying cloud is invisible because of its height, but below there is a raging and boiling sea, with a gyrating current of air above it. Land spouts and water spouts are hollow.

Another Fable—The Wise Peasant.

A wealthy peasant who felt that his hours were numbered, called his sons around his bedside, and began:

"James, you are the eldest, and I bequeath you my blessing."

The second son came forward, with bowed head and the father said:

"John Henry, you have been a good boy, and I bequeath you my good name."

The third son showed up, and the old man kindly remarked:

"Andrew Jackson, you are my youngest, and I bequeath you the care of my grave. Good-bye my dear sons. Each of you press my hand for the last time, and then skip back to the field, for this is glorious weather for corn."

"But, dad, you are worth $20,000!" they protested in chorus.

"That is true, boys, but I have tried to make an equal division. I have left all the honor to you, and all the money to the lawyers. They would have got the sugar, anyhow, and in the getting would have left you nothing, and proved your mother a fool and your father a lunatic; besides I die happy and full of peace. Bury me just to the left of the old cow-shed, and pay for my tomb-stone on the monthly installment system."

MORAL:

The lawyers were of course dissatisfied with the will, and carried the case into court.

JOCOSITIES.

"What is love?" asks an exchange. Love, my friend, is thinking that you and the girl can be an eternal picnic to each other.

It is reported that a New Jersey cigar maker has discovered that the leaf of the tobacco plant makes a very good cigar.

A point well taken: Many a self-made man would have done better by himself had he let the contract go out to somebody else.

A Philadelphia man who had been jilted by a wide-mouthed girl had a terrible revenge. He sent her a scrubbing brush for a tooth brush.

Times are so hard it is said that married men at summer resorts this season will have to smoke five cent cigars and flirt with their own wives.

A medical journal devotes a whole column to explaining what caused cold perspiration. Any one who has gone up a dark alley and stepped on a dog would be wasting valuable time in reading it.

When a boy feels called upon to go West and tackle grizzlies he should be shut up in a yard for fifteen minutes with a dog about as big as a cider barrel. If that doesn't cure him then he was cut out for a great bear hunter.

Highly intelligent darling: "The robbers can't steal mamma's earrings, 'caus pappa's hid them." Interested lady visitor: "Is that so, dear? Why, where has he put them, I wonder?" "I heard him say he's put them up the spout, and expects they will stay there."

A Buffalo pianist has "suddenly and mysteriously disappeared." If he was in the habit of jerking wild strains from the instrument at eleven o'clock p. m. and four a. m., with the windows of his room open, the explanation is easy. The only wonder is that more pianists do not "suddenly and mysteriously disappear."

"Now, Jane," said an Indiana young man, "we'll get married if you'll agree to shoo the flies out of the mosquito bar every day just before you put it down; for a fly in the bar in the morning does worry me powerful." Jane said she would, and these two happy persons lived together fourteen years before they got a divorce.

Spinster Lady—"Then you and your mamma want the same rooms you had last year?" Young lady—"Yes, Miss Spriggins; only it isn't mamma who is with me, but my husband. I've got married since last year." S. L.—"Lor, now, have you? I'm glad to hear it. Yet, after all, I don't know why I should be glad; you never did me any harm, poor dear!"

A gentleman, whose custom it was to entertain very often a circle of friends, observing that one of them was in the habit of eating something before grace was asked, determined to cure him. Upon a repetition of the offense, he said: "For what we are about to receive, and for what James Taylor has already received, the Lord make us truly thankful."

"Jim, lemme a quarter till Saturday night." "By George, Bill, I can't do it, with things lookin' as they are in East. Egyptian troubles and the interference with the navigrtion of the Suez Canal is a shakin' the confidence in all classes of securities, I see, an' I ain't goin' to make no more investments until this war cloud blows over an' the crop prospects is a lookin better."

The only way to deal with a liar is to beat him at his own game. What started this item was reading about an American who had been to Europe, and who was telling a friend, who knew he was a liar, about his trip across the Atlantic, and how on the 25th of the month they encountered a swarm of locusts which carried away every stitch of canvas off the ship." The listener looked thoughtful a moment, and then said, hesitatingly: 'Yes, I guess we met the same swarm of locusts the next day, the 26th. Every locust had on a pair of canvas pants." The first liar went around a corner and kicked himself.

Business is business: When the boys of Poker Valley, Nev., sent one of the boys up into Nebraska to find and hire a preacher, he had his instructions, and he asked: "Can you give sinners——right from the shoulders?" The clergyman modestly replied that he thought he could. "And do you play a fair game of seven-up?" "Mercy, no!" He was horrified at the thought. "Well, I didn't know," required the delegate. "The boys said as how if you played poker or seven-up or wanted to run a sweat board the salary would be only $500, but if you was one of the sort who squared off at salvation and had a claim in Heaven all staked off and a shaft going down, they'd make it $800 and throw in the rent of a cabin. It's a matter of business with us, you see. We are bound to get hold o' some one who can outhowl and outpreach that fellow at Davis' Hill if we have to get up to $1,000 a year and furnish him a mule and a bar'l of whisky."

Swindling the Insurance People.

New York Tribune.

It has been discovered that the bark L. E. Cann, whose captain and crew were landed in Philadelphia a month ago by a schooner which had picked them up at sea, was scuttled. Captain Brooks told a graphic story of how his fine ship, laden with a cargo which had been insured for $120,000, had foundered, and of the lucky escape of himself and crew. The insurance companies were suspicious that the captain's story was more interesting than accurate, and sent a steamer in search of the drifting bark. She was found and towed into the Chesapeake Bay, and the discovery was made that she contained a lot of shavings which had been fraudulently invoiced as vanilla beans. Three days ago the bark was towed into Norfolk, and there the whole truth appeared upon the examination of her hulk. Five large auger holes and five smaller ones were found in her below the water line, and there is evidence to show that in addition a hole six inches square had been cut in her port bow. Four other vessels cleared from Vera Cruz and Toculata for New York by the same consignors have been abandoned at sea, and there is reason to suppose that the Cann is the fifth in a series of outrageous frauds.

FROM WASHINGTON.

President Barrios, of Guatemala, called on President Arthur, and the usual formalities were exchanged. Those familiar with the history of Barrios, say he is anything but the charming character indicated by the press. It is said he is extremely cruel, vindictive and tyrannical at home; brutal in his habits, having revived all the Spanish customs of the use of spies, punishing minor offenses by flogging, ordering men to execution without sufficient cause and upon ex-parte evidence. The story of his talking English fluently is untrue, and communications with him are made through an intepreter.

The Postmaster General has sent for the Superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and will arrange to put on a fastmail on that line if satisfactory time can be made.

Senator Dawes is preparing to push Pound's Indian School bill through the Senate, as recently passed by the House. It authorizes the establishment of schools at old barracks. The Carlisle school is looked upon a satisfactory solution of the Indian problem.

The printing of the new 3 per cent. bonds has begun from plates prepared since the passage of the act. Plates are being made to print the new currency o be furnished banks reorganizing under the bank charter extension act. Special efforts are making to prevent counterfeiting. The new notes will be about the size of the others, but will be chocolate brown on the back, instead of green. The front will contain a fine vignette of Garfield.

The new rule adopted by the House yesterday will give an opportunity of clearing up much work during the remainder of the session, as it expedites business greatly. This was needed, as over a thousand bills are now on the calendar awaiting the action of the House.

The House passed Deuster's Immigration bill, prescribing the rules regarding the bringing of immigrants by steamships. This is the bill vetoed by the President, but as this time it conforms to the President's views, it will doubtless be passed by the Senate and promptly signed.

President Garrett, of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, says the negotiations regarding fast mails have so far progressed as to cause the belief that a fast mail will soon be put on, which will materially reduce the time from Washington to Chicago and St. Louis.

The Attorney General has prepared an opinion on the question of political assessments and delivers it to Secretary Folger, by whom it will be made public in time. The opinion is understood to take the grounds that employes have a perfect right to use their own money as they see fit.

It is stated that Secretary Teller is preparing to make important changes in the management of Indian Bureau affairs, and that among them will be the removal of Assistant Secretary of Interior Alonzo Bell. Those to whom have been confided the outlines of Mr. Teller's proposed Indian policy, speak in high terms of it.

Walker Blaine, ex-Assistant Secretary of State, has been appointed Assistant Attorney of the United States before the Alabama Commission.

The conference committee on the River and Harbor bill will undoubtedly report in favor of the Hennepin, Maryland and Delaware Canals.

Alexander H. Stephens is receiving many congratulations upon his nomination as Governor of Georgia. He looks very much improved in health.

Secretary Folger says there is no truth in the report that Colonel Irish is to be retired as Superintendent of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Secretary Teller has received 4,000 applications for the 800 new clerkships in the Pension Office.

Mr. Carlisle, who has made a canvass of the Democrats, thinks the Tax bill will fail. The quorum in the House has almost disappeared, and by the last of the week there certainly will not be a working majority in that body.

The Free Ships bill was beaten in the House, having been recommitted to the Ways and Means Committee without instructions. This kills it for this session.

The Senate has agreed to the conference report on the River and Harbor bill. The total reduction is only one million, the reduction being made in Potomac Flats to $400,000, and in Mississippi river improvement. Hennepin is retained in the bill.

The friends of the River and Harbor bill are very much discouraged at the failure of the bill to pass the House Tuesday. This was due entirely to the absence from the House of the friends of the bill, enough of whom were in the city to have passed the bill; but they did not care to endure the heat of the chamber during the latter part of the day, when the conference report was unexpectedly called up. The opponents of the bill were present in full force. The stumbling block is the appropriation for the Potomac flats. The fear is increasing that the President will veto it. There is some doubt as to the title to the flats, one Kidwell having obtained a patent a year ago to a portion of their submerged parts.

President Arthur has a new turnout, a stylish four-in-hand, which is the most gorgeous equipage ever seen here.

It is said that Don Cameron, who is a very warm personal friend of Senator Butler, of South Carolina, warned Congressman Miller, of Pennsylvania, to tone down his attack on Butler. The gossip is that "Boss" Cameron would have made it uncomfortable for Miller in his district had he refused.

Alarming reports reach here of the spread of small-pox in Baltimore, notwithstanding the great heat. A serious epidemic is feared next winter.

General Walker is receiving very sharp criticisms for having projected so extensive a plan for the census, one which involves such a large deficiency appropriation. Senators very plainly say that it never was the intention of Congress to enter upon such a comprehensive census plan.

George H. Bethard, "who would have shot Guiteau if he had been able to borraw a pistol during the trial," was to-day ordered by the District Commissioners to be released from the Work House, and transportation to Pittsburgh was furnished him, with the understanding that if he comes back to Washington he shall be again sent to the Washington Asylum.

The Court of Inquiry in the case of General Warren find substantially that General Sheridan was justified in relieving General Warren from his command at the battle of Five Forks, and that he did not exceed his authority in so doing. It is understood that the Judge Advocat General expresses a doubt of the propriety of this investigation so long after the occurrence, as, under our laws and procedure, there could be no remedy, on account of the statute of limitations, and disputed questions would have to remain undecided.

By Telegraph.

Little Rock, Ark., dispatch:

Rev. James Van Valkenburg has been holding protracted meetings in the interior of Howard county, which a gang of outlaws attempted to break up. The preacher's horse was stolen, and his life threatened by Merrill, the leader of the gang. Two men attempted to arrest the outlaw, when a fight ensued, and Merrill was shot at and killed. It is feared the balance of the band, ten in number, will avenge his death.

Des Moines, Iowa, dispatch:

The body of a floater was found Monday in the Des Moines river, which from papers on his person, is identified as that of Frank Over, who came here from Fond du Lac, Wis., and was arrested as insane, and discharge June 20. The supposition is that he drowned himself.

Christianburg, Va., dispatch:

Captain John S. Wise, Readjuster candidate for Congressman-at-Large, and John S. Crockett, Commonwealth Attorney of Wythe county, came to this place on an early train this morning and fought a duel near by with pistols. In the first round both fired at the word without effect. At the second round Crockett's pistol went off prematurely. After reloading the weapon, both combatants were placed in position for another exchange of shots. Wise's pistol missed fire, and Crockett's fire was again harmless. Crockett, the challenging party, expressed himself as satisfied, and the fight terminated. The meeting had its origin in a personal encounter that took place on Monday, the 17th inst., at Marion, when Captain Wise met Crockett and interrogated him about certain language which Crockett attributed to Wise. Crockett acknowledged he made the statement, and said it was true. Wise denounced it as false, and struck Crockett. Before the latter could resent the blow, outsiders intervened, and both were arrested and fined for a breach of the peace. This caused subsequent correspondence, which resulted in the duel. No arrests.

Cario, Ill., dispatch:

The fast passenger train No. 4 on the Illinois Central run into the rear end of a freight train last night between Irvington and Centralia, telescoping the caboose of the freight train and badly damaging the engine and train of No. 4. Engineer Van Paten and Wedon, the fireman of No. 4, were badly hurt. No others are reported hurt, beyond a shaking up.

San Francisco dispatch:

The British steamer Triumph arrived to-day from Hong Kong via Hakogdate and Honolulu. She brings 795 coolies. At Hakogdate she took on the Chinese passengers of the wrecked steamer Mary Fatham and landed them at Honolulu.

Astoria, Ore., dispatch:

Yesterday a sudden gale capsized and swamped a number of fishing boats on the bars. Only two lives are known to be lost.

A dispatch from Clebourne, Tex., says a shipment of 50,000 bushels of wheat was made from that point yesterday direct to Florence, Italy, via Galveston, and another lot of the same amount was sent to Liverpool.

A DISTRESSING CASE.

The Sister of a Methodist Bishop in Want—Charity Which Began and Ended at Home.

Ohio State Journal.

Mrs. Smith, who is lying at death's door at the residence of her son-in-law, at No. 112 East Spring street, is a sister of Bishop Jesse Peck, of Syracuse, N. Y., of the Methodist Episcopal Church. On Monday, the physicians feared she would live but a few hours, but later she rallied, and in the evening was able to talk quite freely. Mrs. Smith is about seventy-four years old, and has resided with her son-in-law here about seven years. She has been quite feeble since last fall.

There are some painful circumstances connected with Mrs. Smith's case, which, after careful examination, we feel it our duty to lay before the public. It is a well-known fact in Methodist circles that Mrs. Smith has not received that aid from her distinguished brother which she needed, although he has been notified of her destitute condition. It is claimed that his remittences have been very small, almost nothing, in fact, but that he informed her that he would arrange to give her the interest on $1,000 at 5 per cent, but he does not inquire about her health or circumstances.

The son-in-law, with whom Mrs. S. resides, earns about $40 per month, $15 of which is needed for rent, leaving a mere pittance to support three persons on, one of whom is a confirmed invalid.

On the occasion of the golden wedding anniversary of the Bishop, in October last, which was celebrated at his home, Mrs. Smith was an invited guest. She visited her brother, after great sacrifice to pay her expenses, arriving at her brother's house a day or two before the anniversary. She says she was received very coldly by her sister-in-law, and consigned to a servant's room, with very few of the comforts of a sleeping apartment. At the anniversary dinner, Mrs. Peck declined to be present if Mrs. Smith was allowed to sit at the table. The Bishop insisted that his sister must be present, and as a result Mrs. Peck did not appear.

This, with other unsisterly treatment, caused Mrs. Smith's serious illness while at her brother's house. About this time the Bishop left home, whereupon his wife said that she would not have sick people at her house, and began to prepare for Mrs. Smith's removal to the hospital. This intention being telegraphed to the Bishop, he returned, and protested that it would be ruinous to him to have his sister so treated. Instead, he sent word to her daughter here to go to Syracuse and get her mother at once, but before the daughter could go Mrs. Smith was sent to Columbus in company with a niece, Mrs. Smith paying the expenses of both, which exhausted her means. During the trip Mrs. Smith was so helpless that she had to call on strangers for assistance, as she was unable to help herself, or to pass from one train to another.

The condition of Mrs Smith is well known in Methodist circles in this city, and many members of the church are highly incensed thereat, realizing that it constitutes a scandal to the organization of which the Bishop is an honored member, and injury to the sacred cause of religion.

Mrs. Smith has quite recently received intelligence that her granddaughter, aged nineteen, and her grandson, aged four years, had died in great poverty, and that their parents had not sufficient means to bury them, which is the immediate cause of her present illness.

We are very reluctant to publish the above statement, but with a full knowledge of its substantial truth, we cannot reconcile it with our duty to the public to suppress it. It is no excuse to cite a man's high position in church or state in behalf of such suppression. On the contrary, that constitutes an additional argument in favor of publicity. The church papers should take up such cases and demand redress, but they will not.

Mrs. Smith does not find fault with her brother in the matter, but excuses him on the ground that he is under the domination of his wife. If this be true, the church should see to it that he has a more judicious guardian.

Running a Locomotive.

Brooklyn Eagle.

"Well, I've had a little experience in running an engine," said a long specimen of the genus Yankee, putting one elbow on the bar counter and holding his whisky straight up to the light, "and if it would amuse you I'll give you a yarn or two."

"Stave ahead," said his companion, "but I've been there myself. I used to run an engine from New York to Philadelphia."

"Oh, you did," said the Yankee.—"Well, that just amounts to nothin'. I've been a special engineer for the last ten years, and there ain't a mile of track atween here and 'Frisco I haven't traveled over. You see us specials are obliged to be ready for anything at a moment's notice, and when we travel we just go right over the ground, and don't you forget it."

"I've made some pretty good time myself," said the second engineer. "I took a train through from New York to Philadelphia in eighty minutes."

"Oh, that's child's play," said the first engineer. "Why, man, I've made that run myself, and with one piston-rod gone at that. I'd just got back from a special run up through the coal regions, when word came that one of the big guns of the company wished to start at once for Philadelphia. I knew what that meant, so I jumped aboard long-legged Jim, hitched a construction car behind the tender, and drawing-room coach behind that and reported for duty. I knew my engine, and I ran up forty pounds of steam more nor she was marked to carry. When the word came I let everything slide and the old boy just jumped in the air. Then he settled down to his work. Everything was clear in front of us, and I let him out for all he was worth at the start. In less 'en five minutes you couldn't a counted the telegraph poles they flew by us so fast. I had two firemen un' just made 'em earn their passage from the word go. Old Jim must have eat up two ton o' coal inside of ten miles."

"What!" ejaculated the second engineer.

"Sure!" said the first engineer. "And we hadn't been out of the station fifteen minutes before every blasted boiler pipe was red hot, and we had to keep flooding the cab with water to keep from burning the darn thing up. Oh, we was just gettin there, my boy, and I didn't let up a pound. Every time we took a curve the outside wheels would be at least a foot up in the air, and once or twice the tender jumped clean on to the ties, and old Jim would yank her back again, and—"

"Ain't you kind of stretching a point?" asked the second engineer.

"Not a bit of it," said the first engineer. "Why, afore we was half way to Philadelphia, both o' those stokers was down on their knees praying, and I had to do the feeding myself until I swore 'em back to their senses again. Well, everything went well the first two-thirds o' the run, and I was just a whistling to myself over the record I was piling up, when there came a report like a rifle, and I knew one o' the blasted piston rods had busted. There was nothin' to do but stop, and I lost ten minutes fixin' up. The big gun left the coach and came down to see what was up. 'What's to be done?' said he. 'I've got one piston rod left,' says I, 'and I'll take you through on time.' He knew me, and he just lit a fresh cigar and walked back to the coach as contented as a lamb. Well, I just set those praying firemen to work for all they was worth, and I had her up to sixty pounds over the limit in less 'en no time. Then I let her slide. Lord, Harry, I thought old Jim would jerk the stuffin' out of everything behind him. We just played hop scotch and I don't believe we touched the rails more nor four or five times to a mile. I knew it was a $100 check or nothin', and I was after that check. Well, those firemen got to praying worse than ever, and I had to swear I'd throw 'em overboard afore they'd come to time. I tell you we was just movin'. Why, the towns got runnin' all together, and we had no more 'en got a squint at one station afore we was five miles past the next one—"

"Hear! hear!" said the second engineer, "that's laying it on too strong."

"True as you're here," said the first engineer. "I'd introduce you to the praying firemen, but they cut the business after that run, and I kinder lost sight of 'em. Well, we got within ten miles of Philadelphia and I begun to stop her."

"Stop her?"

"Yes; I knew I couldn't do it inside o' ten miles, and I didn't quite fetch it at that; for when we ran into the station we smashed in the bumpers and ripped up about twenty feet o' the platform afore old one-legged Jim 'ud agree the run was over, but I got the check."

And the Yankee engineer thoughtfully drained his glass, as his friend ordered the bar-keeper to "set 'em up again."

An Unbeliever.

"Dar's no use ob talkin', sar, said Brother Washington, slamming his hat down on a chair in front of him. "Dis yer spirit bus'ness am all prostrus nonsense, sar."

"Wel', I's not so sure 'bout dat," said Brother Johnson, tipping his chair back against the wall, and feeling around in his overcoat-pocket for a fresh chew. "I jus' tell you, chile, I has saw some queer tings in my day, Yes, sar, some queer tings."

"Go 'way, nigger," said Brother Washington. "Dar's nothin' in de unamverse what ain't 'cordin' to natur, sar. All dese stories 'bout spirits am de 'ventions of wickid posters, sar; but da can't scar dis nigger for a cent, no sar. I's a tearnlist, I am. Don't believe in nuffin' I don't see, sar. Honest, now, Mr. Jonnsin, hab you ebber seen a spirit?"

"Yes, sar," said Brother Johnson.

"Mister Johnsin, if I wasn't a gentleman, I should call you a liar," said Brother Washington.

"It's berry lucky for you, Mister Washington, dat you am a gen'l'man," said Brother Johnson. "But let dat pass. Dar am such tings as spirits, for I hab seen 'em sar. Yes, an' hear 'em talk too—"

"Look yer, nigger," said Brother Washington, gazing around him uneasily, "you need'nt t'ink you're goin' to scar dis chile. Go an' tell dem lies to de white trash. Da is too dephafanus for educated colored pussons."

"Can't help it," said Brother Johnson. "I tell you, sar, jus' after my uncle died I seen him jus' plain's I see you now, sar. Yes, sar, dar he was at de foot ob de bed."

"Shut up," cried Brother Washington, half rising from his chair, and looking toward the door. "I say dar am no such ting as spirits, and what you see was jus' a lucamnation. Don't you try to scare dis nigger. You jus' waste you'r time."

"Yes, an' dat am not de only spirit I eber see," said Brother Johnson. "One time I was sitting up with a corpse, and de fus' ting I knowed dar was de fellow's spirit lookin' at me 'cross his own body."

"Stop!" cried Brother Washington, springing from his chair, and looking suddenly behind him. "Don't you tell me no more ob dem lies 'cose I wont stand it."

Dem ain't lies," said Brother Johnson. "What I tell you, chil am de truf. An dar was anudder time after a nigger was murdered dat I seen de poor fellow's face all covered with blood an' a great lash—" But Brother Washington bolted the for door, an cut his friend's acquaintance for an entire week.

The Sullivan - Wilson Slugging Match.

Fifteen thousand people, including many prominent persons, witnessed the "slugging" match between John L. Sullivan, champion of America, and "Tug" Wilson, champion of England, at Madison Square Garden, New York, recently. The terms were that they were to fight four rounds of three minutes each, with a minute interlude, fifteen minutes in all, with ten seconds to recover from a knock down; and if Wilson was not knocked out of time, Sullivan was to pay him $1,000 and half the gate money. Sullivan fought at 190 pounds and Wilson at 160 pounds. In the fifteen minutes Sullivan knocked his opponent clear off his feet twenty seven times, but the latter's wonderful endurance enabled him to come to the scratch every time, and won him the $1,000. Sullivan did not succeed in punishing his adversary badly, that is, he was not apparently damaged by the contest, for he met Sullivan afterwards in Harry Hill's saloon and received his money. Sullivan's backers lost heavily.

A Pug Dog's Sagacity.

In affectionate loyalty to a four-footed friend, a correspondent in Tarrytown, who has been annoyed by the charge of stupidity preferred against the entire race of pug dogs in an article copied by The Sunday Tribune, very handsomely vindicates the intelligence of at least one pug. He writes: "He acknowledges but one master, and that is his mistress, and seems to be unhappy away from her. He is delighted to go with her to walk, as he often does, but never thinks of asking to go if she takes a bag with her to go to the city. On such occasions he seems to know about the time she returns in the afternoon, and has been known to sit on a chair for two hours, looking from a window where he could see a carriage turn toward the house, when he would manifest his joy by barks and yelps, and rush to the door to receive her. When she leaves with a trunk for a long time, he shows his grief, not only by his countenance, but by shedding tears which I have seen roll down his face. He has been taught many tricks. When living in town, he would always run to the basement window, when the postman whistled, to receive the letters, and would give them only to his mistress. Once an advertisement was thrown in, and the cook tossed it in the coal scuttle, but he insisted on having it, and went with it up-stairs. He will walk on his hind legs, or bark for his dinner; will sneeze when he wants to take a walk; will eat nothing that you tell him has 'cost money' unless you say it is 'paid for;' will sit on his hind legs, with a piece of cake or cracker on his nose, until five is counted, when he will eat it; and though he is very fond of going to walk, he will not go with the children until he first goes to his mistress and asks permission."

Over 5000 Druggists AND Physicians

Have Signed or Endorsed the Following Remarkable Document:

Messrs. Seabury & Johnson, Manufacturing Chemists, 21 Platt St., New York:

Gentlemen:—For the past few years we have sold various brands of Porous Plasters. Physicians and the Public prefer Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster to all others. We consider them one of the very few reliable household remedies worthy of confidence. They are superior to all other Porous Plasters or Liniments for external use.

Benson's Capcine Plaster is a genuine Parmaceutical product, of the highest order of merit, and so recognized by physicians and druggists.

When other remedies fail get a Benson's Capcine Plaster.

You will be disappointed if you use cheap Plasters, Liniments, Pads or Electrical Magnetic toys.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25cts. MEAD'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

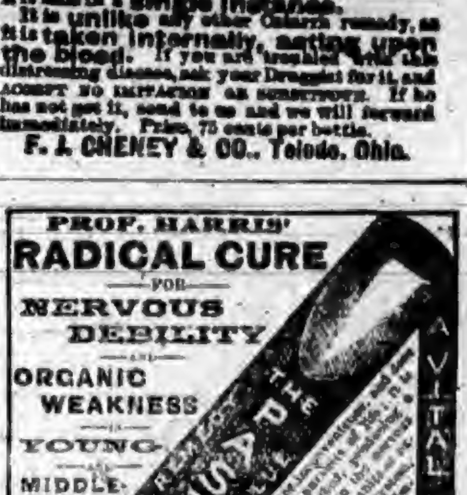
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

PROF. HARRIS' RADICAL CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY AND ORGANIC WEAKNESS IN YOUNG AND MIDDLE-AGED MEN.



Prepared and Sold ONLY by HARRIS REMEDY CO. Mfg. Chemists, MARKET AND 8TH STS., ST. LOUIS, MO.

WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS And the Best MACHINERY in the World for BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power! Book Free. Address LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

If you feel drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, mouth tastes badly, poor appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from torpid liver, or "biliousness," and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently as to take Simmons Liver Regulator or Medicine.

The cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World.

An Effectual Specific for all diseases of the Liver Stomach and Spleen.

Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common as bad breath, and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons' Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your Appetite, Complexion, and General Health.

PILES!

How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. Simmons' Liver Regulator, is no drastic violent purge; but a gentle assistant to nature.

CONSTIPATION!

should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache.

ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE, MANUFACTURED BY J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

PROVED A SUCCESS

THE PASTILLE Prof. Harris' Radical Cure FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE

[illegible]

HARRIS REMEDY CO., MF'G CHEMISTS, Market and 8th Sts., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons:

[illegible]

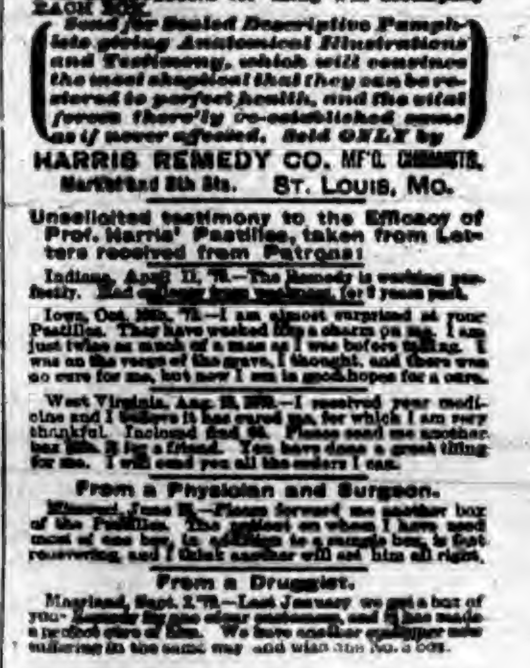
From a Physician and Surgeon.

[illegible]

From a Druggist.

[illegible]

REED'S GILT EDGE TONIC



IS A THOROUGH REMEDY in every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague, while for disorders of the Stomach, Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and Disturbances of the Animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equal, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with the imitated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere. Chas. F. Adams & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FREE! RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

[illegible]

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

WHOA, EMMA!

GO TELL YOUR SISTERS, COUSINS AND YOUR AUNTS

That a large stock of goods is coming to the

BOOT UPSIDE DOWN

And another train of cars have been chartered to bring on the remaining FALL STOCK. Just about this time of the season we are firing out

BOOTS & SHOES!

At these prices: A large lot of Children's Shoes at 35 cts. a pair. Good ones for youths at 60 and 75 cts. Rattlin' good ones for Misses at $1.25, sold everywhere for $2.00. Give us the first call and we will endeavor to suit you in goods and prices.

AUSTIN BROS.

Auburn, Ind., August 3, 1882.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, AUG. 3d, 1882

Democratic Ticket.

For Congress 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY,
of Allen County.
COUNTY TICKET:
For Representative,
D. D. MOODY.
For Clerk,
D. Y. HUSSELMAN.
For Auditor,
THOMAS H. TOMLINSON.
For Treasurer,
L. J. MILLER.
For Sheriff,
JOHN W. BOYLE.
For Recorder,
JOHN BUTT.
For Surveyor,
J. J. VAN AUKEN.
Fo Coroner,
J. J. LATSON.
For Commissioner North District,
JOSEPH SEWELL.
Southwest District,
CHRISTIAN SHEETS.
Southeast District,
OLIVER H. WIDNEY.

THE Record says, "The republican is the only party that ever prosecuted its own offenders against the law." Who are they? We would like a list to keep. What ones have been punished? Hundreds of shining lights in the great party of moral ideas have been brought to trial for their crimes, and thousands more should have been tried, but what one was punished? In the language of the scripture, "Many were called to trial, but few were chosen for punishment." Let the Record trot out a list of Republican rascals that have been punished by that party and we agree to match it by a list of those who have gone scot free, and have been given fat places at the public manger.

THE Press denies our statement in regard to Speaker Keifer's boots in the following unique manner:

a. The COURIER says Speaker Keifer made the government pay five cents for shining his boots.

b. Keifer was not at that time the Speaker of the house.

c. Therefore, the COURIER has not told the truth and the shining of the boots was not paid for by the government.

Such an argument should be preserved in alcohol. We may never see its like again.

It is laughable to hear every republican editor, although he may be, as some are, a drinking man, and often under the influence of liquor when he writes it, boast of temperance principles and that his is the temperance party.

IT is well known, too, that at the last session of the legislature many measures in the interest of temperance were proposed by leading temperance men throughout the state and brought before the legislature for consideration. Action on them was delayed and finally refused, the leaders giving as their reason for refusing to pass temperance measures that it would ruin the party. "Party first and temperance afterwards" said one of their leaders. So to escape all responsibilities for their action, they turned the whole matter over to the people by proposing an amendment to the constitution.

DR PARKER, of the Kendallville News, was burglarized one night last week. The thief got into his room, and took his pocket book from his pants pocket, stole his railroad passes, and some other small articles. Two of the doctors daughters slept in an adjoining room, and when the thief went in there, one was awakened, and called to the doctor, who got up and made a racket, when the thief left. This is about the second instance we know of a thief trying to rob an editor. They are beginning to find out that it is poor picking.

AFFAIRS in Egypt, are still in a state of ferment. The English are still acting alone, no other nation seeming to feel interest enough in the matter to send a force there to assist them. Arabi Bey, in the meantime is gathering in all the forces he can. He has been driven from one or two points where he had fortified, but is still in a position to do much harm. He also, threatens to injure the canal, if hard pressed. Armed vessels, of different nations are in the canal to protect it.

THE Press reminds us that the Garfield funeral party was under the charge of John G. Thomson, a democrat. We can't see what difference that makes. He had a right to go along. What we object to is, the drinking of liquor on such an occasion and then making the government pay for it.

As we predicted last week, R. Wes. McBride, of Waterloo, was the successful candidate for the judgeship nomination. We believe the nomination suits republicans generally, although some of them were anxious to see an older man, at least a man with greater experience put forward for the position.

THE fasting woman, in Wabash, is getting better, and can now take a little food. The doctors believe if she can be kept alive a little longer, her stomach will be able to retain food, and she will then recover.

THOMAS B. HUNT, of Henry county, is announced as a candidate for State treasurer before the democratic State convention.

AT Kendallville, they have a man who can poison a dozen dogs in one day. He would be a godsend in this part of the country. Pass him around.

As will be seen by the recent report of the Auditor the commissioners have reduced the indebtedness of the county $8,541.82 during the year ending June 1, 1882. This is a good showing.

—A flying visit to Columbia City, last week found that flourishing little city moving quietly on in the even tenor of its way. Of course like other towns they have their temporary excitements. Their most recent event in that line was a shooting affray indulged in by two of their citizens. One man was shot in the hip, but not dangerously. We did not have an opportunity to visit the newspaper offices, but got a glimpse of Bro. Baker on Sunday, and had a pleasant chat with Col. McDonald of the Herald. He always makes his visitor feel at home, by his old fashioned hospitality. The Colonel is one of the wealthiest men in the place, and an active energetic business man. We passed some time under the hospitable roof of his near neighbor A. F. Martin, a retired farmer, who still goes out every day or two, to see if "the farm is still there," and when necessary give the boys a lift with the work. His brother John is still as hearty and jolly as ever, and except that he has devoted his life to single blessedness, is one of the liveliest men in the city. We also found our old-time friends, Dr. Marshall and his aimable wife, enjoying life in the same happy way as of yore, and making their friends as welcome as ever. Their son T. R. Marshall is still a bachelor, and enjoys his home and his parents as well as he did in his boyhood days. He is now one of the rising young men of this country and fast taking rank as a leading member of the bar. J. L. Ferguson the marble dealer and "sculpist," is engaged on a fine piece of statuary, that will add to his already fine reputation. All in all, these friends made our stay quite enjoyable.

Obituary.

DIED—At his residence in Franklin township, DeKalb county, Indiana, of hemorage of the lungs, Monday July 24, 1882, Jay B. Boyer, aged nearly 32 years. Deceased was a young man of exemplary character and habits. He was a member of Union Lodge Knights of Honor, of Waterloo. His remains were interred at Hamilton, and buried by the order, a large number of breatheren attending. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in that part of the country and it was evident that Bro. Jay was loved and respected by all who knew him, and all will unite in hoping that when the record of deeds of Brother Boyer is sent to the great inspection room of the hereafter it will be marked, "Approved." Rev. Daniels, of Auburn, delivered the discourse assisted by Rev. Slusser of Hamilton.

—Plows! Plows!! Plows!!! For sale by W. H. Kiblinger. 31-3t.

—W. L. Braun put on the block this week, some of the nicest beef we have seen for a long time. He also got hold of some fine mutton.

—W. H. Kiblinger just received the third car load of Burch plows for this season. 31-3t.

Lake Side and Put-In Bay.

The B. & O. will run an excursion to Lake and Put-in-Bay via Sandusky on Saturday, August 5. A special train leaves Garrett at 4:45 in the morning, passing Auburn Junction at 4:54, and St. Joe at 5:14. Fare for round trip to Lake Side is $2:75 from all points in this county, and to Put-in-Bay $3:00. This includes the ride of forty miles up Lake Erie on the steamer Jay Cook. The Lake Side camp meeting is in progress and this will enable everyone to attend at a cost within the reach of all.

Permit No Substitution.

Insist upon obtaining Floreston Cologne. It is pre-eminently superior superior in permanence and rich delicacy of fragrance. 31-4t.

Have You Ever

Known any person to be seriously ill without a weak stomach or inactive liver or kidneys? And when these organs are in good condition do you not find their possesor enjoying good health? Parker's Ginger Tonic regulates these important organs, makes the blood rich and pure, and strengthens every part of the system. See other column. 31-4t.

—The Burch steel plows are made of the best material. 31-3t.

—List of letters remaining in the postoffice Aug. 1, 1882: Fred Hurni, Sarah Lease, J. B. Smith, J. F. Shoffer.

—No other plow is as cheap as the Burch, taking into consideration all that pertains to a good plow. 31-3t.

—Fleming, at the greenhouse is now selling nice cabbage and delivering them in any part of the town. Wait for the wagon.

—Mental Decression, Loss of Memory, Impaired Vision, Permature Decay, and Loss of Power cured by D. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment. Sold at F. E. Davenport's.

—Dr. Shepherd, of Ada, Ohio, will be in Auburn, at the residence of B. F. Culbertson, Monday p. m., August 7th, for medical consultation; also in Waterloo Tuesday and Wednesday following.

—The Royal and Watertown Fire Insurance companies, for which W. L Meese of this place has the agency, in a little more than three years have paid more than $6000 losses sustained in this county. 30-2t

—The Chicago and Northwestern Railway will run an excursion from Indinnapolis to St. Paul, Minn., August 9 for $15.00 the round trip. Two different routes may be taken, and tickets are good until August 31. For information apply to J. H. Martin, Union depot, Indianapolis, Ind.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the De Kalb circuit court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Thomas Dalton, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

M. BOLAND, Adm'r.

30-3t

SELF SATISFYING.

:o:

FACT

That our $8.00 Suits are worth $15.00
That our 9.00 Suits are worth 17.00
That our 11.00 Suits are worth 20.00
That our 14.00 Suits are worth 25.00
That our 15.00 Suits are worth 28.00
That our 1.60 pants are worth 2.50
That our two dollar pants are worth $4
That our $20 Satin Lined Suits ARE WORTH $45
That our $15 Diagonal Coats and Vests are worth 30
That our 9.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 17.00
That our 12.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 22.00

We have a stock of Clothing well worth seeing Come and convince yourself.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

ATTENTION,

Country Merchants!

My Stock Embraces ALL Kinds Staple and Fancy Merchandise:

Clocks,
Watches,
Jewelry,
Silver Ware,
Optical Goods,

Musical Goods.
Sewing Machines,
Druggists' Sundries,
White Goods,
Hosiery.

Toys,
Cutlery,
Pictures,
Frames,
Mirrors,

Smokers' Goods,
Sporting Goods,
Japanese Goods
Fancy Goods

Notions,
Stationery
Wallets
Wooden Ware Tin Ware:

Glass Ware,
Hardware
Purses

5 & 10 Cent Counter, 49 & 99 Cent Store supplies

Look up my Illustrated Catalogue (if you have not one send for it) and notice prices and style of goods on pages 6 to 63, 68 to 81, 92 to 115, 150 to 165, and so on through the book, and you will find that I am offering a SAVING to you of 10 to 25 per cent. on a large line of Staple Goods. You can order your STOCK from my Catalogue without leaving your store or paying a traveling man to come and take your order. I guarantee prices and goods to be just as satisfactory as though you were here in person to select. When in the city, give me a call before buying, and I will show you the most complete stock of Goods in the west to select from it INSIDE PRICES.

C. M. LININGTON, IMPORTER,
145 and 147 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Court grinds this month.

—Tarney has a new butcher.

—Austin Bros., on the other page.

—The Swineford supports another clerk.

—The brick for the school house are all delivered.

—Good fancy shirts for 50c at Mrs. Jones & son's.

—The oats crops is simply immense in this county.

—Billy Murphy is painting J. L. Davis' residence.

—Another lot of atlas men are infesting the county.

—Mrs. Jones & son are selling summer goods at cost.

—Picker & Bumpus' force are working on the school house.

—Pupils for the Normal school have been coming in all the week.

—Sam. Weaver was making a race track of Main street Saturday.

—Chris. Baldock is all jaw. Dentist Elson pulled the wrong tooth.

—We will have many storms this month, according to Vennor.

—The marshal has no right to take up your stock during the daytime.

—Dave Cochran is building a house opposite Clint Headley's residence.

—The Burch plow is the plow. For sale by W. H. Kiblinger, Auburn, Ind.

—We notice Joe. Ashley has his head bandaged. Wonder if he hit anyone.

—The court house officials are working up matters for the next term of court.

—The head boss of the COURIER is among the "Burbons" at Indianapolis, this week.

—Mike Douglas has put a coat of paint on his house. Doc. Ryan did the striping.

—Frank Hoff and Chris. Fell had a little "set to" Monday evening. There was no 'craut spilt.

—Prosecutor Peterson will make it hot for the boys. He's a member in the prohibition ranks.

—Capt. Bill Stahir took his company to Pleasant Lake, Sunday. They didn't take "nuffin'" with them.

—Zek. Mosier remains in jail. The sentiment of the people is, "that he ought to up for life."

—The Lockwood property, corner of Ninth and Main streets, has been touched up with paint.

—A fellow from Fort Wayne has bought out the "Little Parlor Saloon." He is not a prohibitionist.

—The little misses gave Edna Davis a pleasant little surprise party last Friday. It was her birth day.

—The concert at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening was largely attended and very entertaining.

—Someone has opened a lemonade stand at the Junction. It should be moved here the 12th of August.

—The town board ought to provide for the destruction of weeds, or require the owners of lots to cut them.

—A man who can't tell the difference between one fashion plate and another is a married man, and don't you forget it.

—There is no multiplication table in the almanac or arithmetic big enough to multiply numbers large enough to represent the present fly crop.

—The rain that began on Monday morning could not have been better or more opportune if it had been made to order.

—Harry Rush and Billy Little have consolidated their business. Small base ball boys who want "strap oil" to limber their backs can get it there for nothing.

—The doctors now gaze with an admiring eye upon the deadly cucumber, the pain-giving cucumber, the cucumber of cramps and colic that is now in the market.

—Doc. Cowan took in Pleasant Lake Sunday, with the expectation of delivering a sermon, but when it was announced that a collection would not be taken up he squealed.

—Long-pointed finger nails are fashionable among the ladies. They are a new "women's weapon" and are first rate to have on midnight strolls with susceptible musculines.

—Sim. Tarney takes a prominent part in all religious exercises. We hear that he was high boy at Pleasant Lake, and also at the display of coon "religion" in progress at Waterloo, the other week.

—Sheriff Leas went to Indianapolis this week to take Mr. Shimp to the asylum. He has been deranged for some time, and it is hoped the treatment there will restore him.

—The social at Dr. Ford's last Wednesday evening was one of the best attended that we have seen this summer. In addition to our own townspeople, we noticed a few from Garrett and quite a number from Waterloo.

—No other plow will work as well as the Burch. 31-3t.

—It was reported on the streets Monday that Jake Nye, the famous horse jockey, was stopping with Sheriff Leas. There is no truth in the rumor.

—The "gal" who was the owner of a rubber coat was in full bloom Monday. The weather clerk should give us a few extra sprinkles for the benefit of the ladies.

—We have not mentioned heretofore that J. C. Henry, esq., has purchased the stock of drugs formerly owned by J. H. Ehlers. Henr-i, we wish you a big outcome.

—Some stock that butcher Braun had bought last week, got out of the enclosure on Sunday and went back to the old home. They didn't like the prospect in town.

—Mrs. Myers' class of little ones is getting along nicely. They seem to enjoy the plan of part study and part work. Besides they have the usual amount of time for play.

—The man who endeavored to discover perpetual motion and failed, somehow never thought of getting a situation as a newspaper reporter. If he had he would have found it.

—Isn't it singular that mineral waters are only beneficial to the wealthy? In all our experience we never knew a physician to advise a poor man to go to Saratogo, or any other watering place.

—There were no bidders last week at the sale of Clark's stallions. The horses have been moved to the farm of Jeff. Clark. One of them, however, is under the guiding hand of Wash. Teeters.

—A lawn social will be entertained by the ladies of the M. E church on next Friday evening at the residence of Mr. Boland. Refreshments and music. Mite ten cents. All are invited to attend.

—Several horse traders put up in front of Tom. Sommers' Monday. They had a poor out-fit of "pelters," and left town with the same stock they came in with. Judge Cool's ball-faced pacer was among the lot.

—A young lady has shown us a volume entitled, "The Progressive Ages, or Triumps of Science. There is valuable scientific knowledge wrapped up in its covers, and we hope she will meet with popular patronage.

—R. Wes. McBride, of Waterloo, was nominated for judge by the republicans, at the Angola convention last week, on the fourth ballot. Mr. Peterson, of Auburn, was nominated for prosecutor on the first ballot.

—The latest news from the south brings the astonishing intelligence that Tom. Mays has purchased a farm. It would be worth a trade dallar to see him baste those coons about with a padded club, when they "don hoe de corn."

—Another large installment of our citizens went to Pleasant Lake last Sunday to attend the second excursion of Rev. Crosley. This excursion came up over the Wabash road and brought about the same number of coaches as the train of the previous Sunday.

—J. W. Baxter, M. Boland, D. D. Moody, John Leas, William H. Leas, and others whose names we cannot recall took the 11 a. m. train on the Wabash Monday, for Indianapolis, where they go to attend the state convention.

—We wish to say to our merchants who don't like to advertise because times are dull, that those who do, sell the goods. Hanging a horse blanket, role of six cent muslin or a string of straw hats in front of your store to attract flies, don't draw trade.

—The Grove Bethel Band have a picnic and ice cream festival near Jackson center, on Saturday of this week. See their bills for particulars. Still we might say that the boys always have a pleasant time. They are good fellows and we hope the gathering will prove a success every way.

—Commissioners Kelham and Shoub were in town last week. They also took a trip to St. Joe and to Butler, for the purpose of letting the contracts for building bridges—one over Bear creek, near St. Joe, and the other over Big run, near Butler. The former was let to H. Griswold for about $390 and the latter to Geo. Werntz for $420.

—We have received a letter from Appleton, Wis., containing the mystic words, "Mr. & Mrs. J. F. Canon," and beneath that the name of Miss Rowie Griffith. All this looks like a matrimonial venture of our friend J. F. And it all happened on the 26th of July. We hope the 26th of July will always be a bright day to him and his wife.

—A flying trip to Garrett last week, found everything going on as usual in that thrifty town. We found Brother Powell on duty as usual and full of work. Garrett is getting lively on political questions and is cultivating a healthy crop of republican candidates. They expect to take their share of the political persimmons at the coming convention.

—A Michigan paper says: "Men's night-gowns are made with pockets in them." This in case the wife of a man's bosom calls for a new bonnet in the dead hour of night he can immediately pull out his pocket book and furnish her with the funds. With two pockets and a rubber flask that would hold "brine" what a family convenience a night-gown would be.

Sporting Notes.

The kite and marble amuse the youth.

Fishermen seem to be in good luck just now.

Shorty Harter has put away his professional card this season.

Jim. McDowell had his finger split while catching behind the bat Saturday.

Parties from Garrett and this place are talking up a ten dollar rooster fight.

Sullivan and Tug Wilson will fight with gloves August 4. We have no desire to take a hand.

The Garrett and Auburn rifle clubs had a contest last Friday. The shooting was about "even steven."

Pool and billiards are below par in the dives. The games of pedro and dice are mostly used in playing for the drinks.

Doc. Ryan is cut out for a lightning ball thrower. To make his career a perfect success, however, the die should be moved about twenty feet closer to the pitcher's position.

The Auburn boy is after the game cock. The writer has one, but he is too old to stand the knocks, and the next time we catch Foltz's boy slipping around after him, we'll be the rooster and do the knocking ourself.

Shad. has made another "hoss" trade. This time he swapped sight-unseen. It would have been an average trade if he hadn't set up a dollar's worth of drinks, which was of more real value than both horses—we mean the dollar, not the drinks.

Auburn has a ball nine. The first game of the season opened with happy results last Saturday. The "old bawl nine" laughed at the organization and challenged them to come out on the green. They came out. Yes, we should remark they came out. 20 to 4 in favor of the new nine.

Rolling hoops occupies the mind and time of the average juvenile of to-day. We have a boy in the north end who can keep two going at the same time with perfect ease. We get this information from lawyer Dills and don't wish to be cross-questioned on the subject.

Next Saturday the "Sullivan" ball nine from this place will go over to Garrett and knock the stuffin' out of the "Tug Wilson" club at that place. This being their first game away from home, and then they want a little encouragement, we hope a large number of the b'hoys will stand Buck Allen off for a hack and go over.

* * *

—If the marshal would pound several hundred book agents who are bothering the people in town, and let the cows alone, the citizens would present him with a leather medal and a cork screw. We have made an offer for Forepaugh's cannon and after this week will fire them out through open windows and doors regardless of brick buildings across the street, or the acts of the last legislature.

—One of our packages of the COURIER met with quite an accident the other day. The express messenger on the train got a little lazy, and in putting the packages off, one of them fell under the wheels and the train ran over it. The trucks cut it partly through, but a bundle of paper is rather a tough thing to cut, and ten or fifteen extra quires repaired the loss. It shows, however, that the baggage smasher must look to his laurels if he expects to remain at the head of the destructive fraternity. The express messenger is beginning to get in his work.

—The season for garden seeds must be over. A dray load of boxes marked "garden seeds" was taken to the Jackson depot on Tuesday to be re-shipped, we suppose, to the dealers at Detroit, and elsewhere. We understand it is the custom to return these seeds each year after the season is over, so they can be sorted out by experts and only such kept as will grow the next year. Seedsmen who have studied the subject are aware that certain kinds lose their vitality at different ages. Some are worthless after one year. Some at the end of two years and so on for different kinds. If handled till next summer many would be worthless when sold.

—The first sabbath-school convention of Butler township met in the grove near Cedar Chapel, on Sunday, July 30, 1882, with a large number attending. The object of the meeting was to create a greater interest in sabbath-school work and to appoint a time and place for the organization of a township union. The day was pleasant, the exercises interesting and instructive, and all had a good time. The exercises of the day consisted of singing, speaking, essays and discussions on various topics concerning sabbath-school work. There were present several ministers and a large number of sabbath-school workers. Meeting adjourned at 4 o'clock to meet at St. John's school-house, Tuesday evening, August 15th, for the purpose of organizing a permanent township union.

ELLEN KEERAN, President. LAURA KEERAN, Secretary.

—Burch Plow! BURCH PLOW! The season for plows is here. W. H. Kiblinger is ready to supply customers with the celebrated Burch plow. 3t.

"The Docs."

The second meeting of the Medical society met at Butler, last week, and thoroughly constituted a "healthy" organization. The boys are bound to keep apace with other large places if it costs a millon—for their patients to pay.

Arm Broken.

A son of Henry Wolf had the bad luck to break his arm the other day. He was assisting his brother in hauling brick from Groscop's yard and accidently fell from a loaded wagon, two of the wheels passing over his arm making an ugly wound.

Gathered In.

Marshal Smith took a man named Rennels to the "cool off" the other day. When this officer found him he pushed the hair back on his forehead and said, in tones sweet and sublime:

Here rests his head upon the lap of earth;
A youth to fortune and to fame unknown.
Too much benzine crept underneath his girth.
And played mischief with his temperate zone

The same day we noticed seven different drunken men on Seventh street, but this was the only arrest. Why such partiality?

Stock Law.

There is about as much attention paid to the stock law as if that august trio had not effected one at all. Cows "promenade" the streets the same as of yore, and are only molested by the faithful cur, while trying to open the garden gate. The marshal don't seem to understand the ordinance, as we hear that he threatened several times to take up stock during the day. He has no right to pound any stock only between sunset and sunrise. Will this officer please paste this on his cane?

"Hopped Not."

The harvest dance advertised last week was a fizzle. The managers had the orchestra and other conveniences at the hall door, but Mr. Ensley went fishing and took the key along with him. A couple of "hay seeds" at the foot of the stairs made sport of the harvest hop, and Eue. Kuhlman came near jumping down their throats and galloping their insides out. We are sorry that the arrangement was a failure, and in order for the boys to get square with their former bank account, we suggest they prepare for a "grand corn cutting hop;" but by all means hide the old man's fish-pole on the morning of the occasion.

Dirty Streets.

There is no use in laying the flattering unction to our souls that Auburn is a clean town. It is clean morally and socially, of course, but as to the streets, they are bad. Odds and ends in overwhelming variety and profusion have to be stumbled over at night and walked around in the daytime. Wood-piles are scattered over the thoroughfares, and some two or three hundred goats would find exhilarating and wholesome exercise in our streets. They could jump delightfully from one rubbish pile to another, while between times they could demolish all sorts of cast-off underwear and chew the succulent sock.

Journalistic Cheek.

Journalists are very prone to hear the expression, "Newspaper men have lots of cheek." But we humbly beg have to plead a modified plea of not guilty. In their natural state, newspaper men are the most modest, innocent, unpretending guileless creatures of the genus homo. But alas! how changed they become after a few years existence in this wicked world and contact with its inhabitants. Not that journalists haven't a little boldness commonly called cheek, but we contend in defence that it is because of the class of individuals with which they must of necessity associate. There is the local beer-bloated politician who doesn't take a paper, and more does not deign to notice the editor. But this same politicion is nominated for office. Then he comes rushing in and wants to dictate a fulsome eulogy of himself, and because the editor refused to use it with all assurance of a rooster on his dunghill, he proceeds to threaten utter annihilation for the poor editor, and goes out breathing dire vengeance. A would-be-artist brings a daub into the office, and then because the editor will not print a criticism so excellent that the avreage from Messonier Landseer, or Raphael would be incomparably flattered, this aspiring artist threatens to use influence against the paper. A preacher or a lawyer comes in and wants a puff of some late mediocre effort. A lady gives a party and wants a full detailed account, with all the fringe work, including costumes, distinguished guests, menu etc. A fellow gets mad at his neighbor and wants a paper to blow his hostile friend sky high. A man calls in, boots muddy, smoking a cigar that should be put in a quarantine, or smoked in a ten acre lot, sits down in the editor's chair, which he left to consult an encyclopedia, and the stranger coolly proceeds to haul over the exchanges and examine the editorial note book, and O ye Gods! people persist in saying: "Haven't newspaper men cheek?" Then some of these same people will talk so much of cheek, if they pick up a paper and find that in giving an account of some family difficulty the reporter has not pried into domestic matters and household secrets a century old, the paper has failed of its duty. So we must conclude that a little cheek is necessary for our self defence and the average newspaper man is as modest and gentlemanly as the boors around him permit.

* * *

—Farmers, look at the Burch plow before buying. 31-3t.

People and Their Friends.

—Mr. Harrison is in town.

—W. Rakestraw and wife have lady visitors.

—Frank Clock is "ticking" about the streets.

—Thos. Cuppy and wife are in town rusticating.

—Lawyer Penfield is home from his southern trip.

—Johnnie Stahl has returned after quite a stay abroad.

—Jimmy Baxter talks of going west. He's big enough now.

—Dr. J. H. Stough of Waterloo, was in town a short time last Friday.

—"Bid." Eldridge writes home that he expects to be in Auburn soon.

—Atwood Robinson went east Monday night. He wants a purer climate.

—Miss Ella Leas of Angola, was in town last week visiting with Miss Zora Baird.

—Tom. Scott has gone back to his labor. He says he came home to see his girl.

—We had a pleasant but brief call from Mrs. F. P. Day of Waterloo, last Friday.

—Chris. Baker is much better and took in the sights about town Monday evening.

—The Misses Slaybaugh's, who have been visiting in Ohio, will not return until fall.

—W. A. Shreve of Garrett, dropped in to talk business to the COURIER a little while last week.

—Wm. Merica of Butler township, dropped in to see his old friends in Auburn, the other day.

—Mrs. Fair has returned to her native home. Many of her old frinds will greet her cordially.

—Messrs. Janet and Blanch Conrad of Summit, came down Saturday to attend teachers' examination.

—Two charming young ladies have been stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Swineford, for several days.

—Albert Case is engaged at the Auditor's office. Al. Robbins, the "big injun," is overseeing his farm.

—A sister of L. J. Miller has been stopping with him for a few days. She has a position in the school at Butler.

—H. D. Winebrenner reached his headquarters here via east bound train on the B. & O. last Friday afternoon.

—U. E. Babb of Hicksville, viewed our city, his former home, from a cosy seat on the B. & O. Mail train last week.

—C. A. O. McClellan and his daughter Jennie, were over from Waterloo, to attend the social at Dr. Ford's last week.

—Miss Josie Thomas was in town Saturday to attend examination. She will have charge of a department in the Butler schools.

—H. M. Bicknell and Dr. S. M. Sherman of Garrett, were in town several times last week. They were trimming their hedges.

—Johnny McIntyre came down from Walkerton on the afternoon train Friday last. He has been stationed there for some time as operator.

—T. Franks, trustee of Richland, made the COURIER a friendly call last week. He is getting his township out of debt and in good shape generally.

—We noticed quite a number of Waterloo people on our streets last Friday Among them were S. Beck, B. L. Duncan and John Leas and wife.

—C. R. Wanamaker, Stafford, was in town last week. He is now engaged in putting up windmills for Flint, Walling & Co., of Kendallville.

—Mrs. A. J. Little and Miss Lida Hogue took a buggy ride to Butler township last Sunday. They are terribly opposed to Sunday excursions.

—Frank Griswold dropped down on us Tuesday, looking like a New York broker. We are always ready to give Frank the hand of welcome when he comes home.

—Henry Getts of Sedan, made us a brief visit this week. Mr. Getts is well known in his section as a teacher of vocal music, having taught in different places in the western part of the county.

—F. P. Blair, formerly associate editor of the COURIER, called around Tuesday to chat with the boys and look over the office. Frank is one of steadiest young men in Watealoo, and the COURIER folks will always make him welcome when he comes around.

* * *

G. S. McCord has a rattle snake in alcohol.

—400 Burch plows in use in DeKalb county. 31-3t

The "Moral" Party Next.

On the twelfth inst. the great "reform lemonade party" (with a fly in it) will hold their county convention in a "twenty acre field" east of the pound. We must expect the old cry of soldier and the new dodge of prohibition to be spread all over the platform, and the bands to send forth for their opening piece, "Way Down in Dixie." We are glad to see the boys make an effort, at least, to be recognized at the fall election, while at the same time we are sorry to say that they will be the slickest cleaned out set that ever struggled for a county office.

What's Coming.

There will be some fun when the grand jury meets. It is said that some of our rosy dealers have been selling "arsenic essence" to minors, and a father of one of the boys is on his "stilts," threatening to prosecute them as far as the law will let him go. He is not a bad, that is real naughty, boy and the old man should not be so hard on him. He must remember when those of generous dispositiou fall through habits of disipation we should know that the demon of temtation walks hand in hand with the most lovable traits of human nature

WATERLOO:

Clark Long of Chicago, is town.

Miss Carrie Abby has been very sick but is now out of danger.

Mrs. Amos Walsworth is in town smiling on her friends.

G. W. Morrell is home again.

Rev. Christine is on the sick list.

Dr. Farrington has gone to Chantauqua, to attend the assembly.

Miss Alvord of Fremont, Ohio, is visiting Miss Fannie Clark.

D. Y. Husselman and family spent Sunday in town.

Mrs. Curt Klotz is quite sick.

Born, July 31, to the wife of F. P Haskins a son.

Miss Mary Zimmerman, formerly of this place, started for Gallatin, Mo., Tuesday night.

Miss M. M. Eberly returned Saturday night from Hiawatha, Kan.

Charley Bassett was in town Sunday.

Mr. W. Crane came home from Edgerton, Ohio, Friday.

A. V. Sinclair went to Travers City, Mich., Wednesday.

Mrs. Thos. Segner has a sister from Canton, Ohio, visiting her.

Charley Voss went to South Bend, Saturday.

Mrs. Feagler of Smithfield was visiting Mrs. H. Lieb this week.

Miss Ida Blair is spending a few days in Butler, with friends.

J. M. Uric, formerly of this place now agent at Burr Oak, Mich., is here shaking hands with his old friends.

Mrs. E. G. Dickinson, of Chicago, Ill., is visiting her daughter Mrs. C. W. Gillett.

Miss Lizzie Clark is spending her vacation in Angola.

BUTLER.

Mrs. Rowly, of Michigan, is visiting her invalid brother Mr. Geo. Egnew.

The Kendallville ball club will play the Butler first nine on Friday next.

Thomas Blackwell is preparing to build three new houses, on the south side.

Mrs. Sanders, of Ypsilanti, Michigan, is visiting with the family of C. H. Crane.

Mrs. Ed. Sargent and Mrs. D. W. Ocker, of Garrett, spent a few days last week.

A valuable cow belonging to James Bunker, was killed last Tuesday by train No. 4 on the Lake Shore road.

Mr. Will Duboise has rented Alonzo Wade's house on Walnut street, the latter having moved into the country.

Mrs. Cora Cassel and Miss McCabe, who has been visiting in this place for some time, spent Saturday, in Detroit.

Rev. Mason, of Litchfield Mich., delivered a very able temperence lecture at the M. E. church on Monday night.

Mrs. Waite and Selina Rensch started for Trenton, Mo., on Monday night in response to a dispatch announcing the severe illness of their mother.

The game of base ball on Wednesday last between the Pleasant Lake nine and the Butler nine, resulted in some dissatisfaction. Those who witnessed the game are unanimous in saying that Butler did the best playing and that the one tally given to the Pleasant Lake club was not fairly won.

* * *

—The Ladies' Literary Club met at the residence of J. E. Rose, on Monday afternoon. They had a pleasant gathering, but it required several umbrellas to accommodate them.

—The Burch plow runs light and holds easy. 31-3t.

—W. H. Kiblinger, of Auburn, Ind. sells the Burch plow. 31-3t.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

HAGUE & RAUT,

North Side Public Square.

Offer at very low prices an excellent assortment of Boots and Shoes for the

SPRING AND SUMMER TRADE

From some of the best manufacturers in the country, to which they invite the attention of all who wish to buy the

BEST GOODS AT FAIR PRICES

We use the best material for our custom work. Repairing neatly done.

HAGUE & RAUT.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

CAIRO, Ills., had an earthquake shock Thursday morning, July 20.

A KANSAS man ran 100 yards, the other day, in Chicago, in ten seconds.

THE negotiations for a union of the two Republican factions of Pennsylvania have utterly failed.

RECENT severe storms have destroyed one-half the crops in the Black Hills region of Dakota.

A BILL has passed the House of Congress, providing that a five-dollar postoffice money order can be sent for three cents, and other sums in proportion.

A petition is being largely signed by Boston merchants asking Congress to take into consideration the decline in shipping, and institute inquiries touching its speedy revival.

GEN. GRANT thinks an English protectorate in Egypt would develope the country and improve the condition of its people, who are worse off than the negroes of the South.

OVER 185,000 head of cattle from the grazing lands of the great Southwest have passed through the Indian Territory this season, on the trail for Northern and Eastern markets.

The Northern Pacific Railway syndicate Thursday concluded negotiations with two of the largest banks in Germany for the sale of $3,000,000 general mortgage 6 per cent bonds.

OPPOSITION to his renomination for Congress from the Springfield, Ohio, district has been worrying Speaker Keifer, but his friends who now claim 93 votes for him, 83 only being necessary to a choice.

MISS EMIE MCTAVISH, granddaughter of General Winfield Scott, startled her friends, the other day, by taking the white veil and becoming a nun. She is a resident of Baltimore, and is worth half a million dollars.

ONE of the greatest of living Englishmen, John Bright, says that he knows of but one war since the days of William the Conqueror that was justifiable, and that was the war for the preservation of the American Union.

DURING the fiscal year ending June 30, 1881, the imports of foreign merchandise into the port of New York amounted to $423,590,400. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1882, imports of foreign merchandise at the same port amounted to $474,977,712, an increase of $51,387,222.

DR. LORING, the United States Commissioner of Agriculture, at Washington, is much criticised because he stopped the experiments begun by his predecessors in the manufacture of sorghum sugar. A committee of expert chemists had reported in favor of the enterprise.

THE oil excitement continues in Western Pennsylvania. New wells are flowing profusely, and in Butler county oil has been struck in a territory long since condemned as exhausted. This latter event leads to the possible reconstruction of some geological theories of oil production.

AFTER many days the assassins of Lord Cavendish in Dublin have been discovered and one of them arrested in Puerto Cabello, a seaport town in Venezuela. He has disclosed the names of his associates in the crime, and it is probable the perpetrators of the outrage will be brought to justice.

THE "Regular" Republican Committee of Pennsylvania is said to have abandoned all hope of a compromise with the Independents, and to be planning its campaign accordingly. It is sending out campaign documents charging the failure to agree upon the Independents, and claiming that their course is factious, insincere and dishonorable.

THE Naval Court of Inquiry into the loss by fire of the Arctic ship Rodgers concludes it report thus: "We do not find that there should be any blame attached to anyone for the unfortunate loss of the Rodgers, but, on the contrary, all hands deserve praise for their untiring and continuous efforts to save the ship. In our opinion, no further proceedings are neccessary in the matter."

THE Cincinnati Gazette asserts that nearly all the beer made in that city is adulterated, and challenges contradiction of the statement. As to the consumption of beer, the Gazette says "it is equal to 467 glasses to each man, woman and child in Hamilton county, the cost of which is $23.55 per capita This adulterated beer, which costs the consumer five cents a glass, does not cost the brewer one cent per glass."

Congress has directed the department of agriculture to undertake work which will be of much practical utility. The division of statistics has been directed to collect and publish monthly for the information of farmers the freight rates of the various railroad and steamboat lines, for the purpose of enabling them to judge when and over what lines it will be the most profitable to ship their products.

A NEW YORK dispatch says: "Tug Wilson has challenged Sullivan to fight for the championship of the world, and $2,500 a side, under the new London prize ring rules. Wilson is as fresh as a daisy after the mill of Monday night, but Sullivan was badly injured by the few blows Wilson was able to get in. The men and their backers divided over $18,000 among them, Wilson's share, together with the $1,000 forfeit, being $5,700. He announces his intention of becoming an American citizen."

SENATOR LOGAN, as the Chairman of the Senate Military Committee, has reported a bill to retire all enlisted men of the army who who have served in either the regular or the volunteer service for a term of thirty years, and have been honorably discharged at the end of each enlistment. This is to be done at the soldiers' own request, made to the President. The pay of the soldier thus retired shall be at three-fourths of the pay of their grade.

A WASHINGTON dispatch of the 25th says: "The Cabinet meeting to-day, was attended by all the members except Secretary Lincoln. The principal topic of discussion was the opinion of the Attorney General on the subject of political assessments. The President presented his views freely and fully. They were, in substance, that no person in any one of the Executive Departments declining to contribute shall on that account be subjected to discharge or criticism, and no attempt to injure him on this ground will be countenanced or tolerated."

THE NEWS

Home Items.

Seventy gold mines have been worked in Georgia.

The President approved the act to divide Iowa into two judicial districts.

The House declared the seat of Shelley, Fourth Alabama District, vacant.

John Springer, aged 108 years, died Wednesday, in the County Infirmary, at Marietta, Ohio.

John Church Hamilton, son of Alexander Hamilton, died at Long Branch in his 90th year.

Eleven deaths by lockjaw from the toy pistol have occurred at Rock Island and Davenport.

The Monitors Montauk and Nantucket are to be got ready for a test of their sea-going qualities.

A MEMBER of the New York Produce Exchange was expelled recently, for frauds in selling flour.

J. E. Rudd, substitute route agent at Little Rock, was arrested for and confessed to robbing the mails.

Seventy-one million dollars were coined at the Philadelphia Mint for the year ended June 30 last.

The Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors has decided women eligible to admission as attorneys at law.

IT is estimated that there are 7,000,000 bushels of old grain in store, on Western railroads leading into Chicago.

A Spokane Indian, living on the Klamath Reservation, killed a physician for not being able to cure his sick son.

Mrs. N. Baker and Mrs. Anderson were suffocated at Grand Haven, Mich., by the burning of their residence.

The Utah Commission has elected ex-Secretary Ramsey for Chairman, and Mr. Pettigrew for temporary Secretary.

One hundred acres of potatoes have brought a Sumner county, Tenn., farmer $10,000. He has planted a second crop.

Reuben Miller, a Mormon Bishop, died Saturday. He was very old, very wealthy, and closely resembled Brigham Young.

A VERY large reduction of the internal revenue tax on tobacco will be made if the tax reduction bill is passed by Congress.

Fanny Parnell, sister of the Irish Land League chief, died suddenly from paralysis of the heart at Bordenstown, N. J., Thursday.

The Secretary of the Ohio Board of Agriculture estimates this year's wheat yield in that State at 39,282,000 bushels, and corn at 66,500,000 bushels.

STATISTICAL authorities estimate the corn crop of Texas, this year, at 140,000,000 bushels—six times the greatest in the history of the State.

At the Cleveland track W. J. Gordon's four-in-hand team trotted to beat the best recorded time, 2:56, doing the mile in the second heat in 2:48.

The ship Theobald, with a crew of nineteen men, which sailed from Philadelphia for San Francisco December 16th last, is supposed to be lost.

John Donaldson, of Milwaukee, wants to fight any man in America ("Tug" Wilson preferred and John L. Sullivan excepted), for $5,000 a side.

Tug Wilson and ex-Alderman James Dunne, of Brooklyn, are matched for a prize-fight for $2,500 a side, the battle to occur in Mississippi or Louisiana.

The Jewish relief committee of Philadelphia has shipped back sixty of the Russian refugees consigned to it, having no means of providing for them.

The profits of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company and the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company for the year up to date, are $5,011,614.

Southern tobacco-dealers enter a solemn protest against the proposed amendment to the revenue law permitting growers to sell "weed" of the value of $100 free of tax.

Mr. J. H. Boardman's residence at Nevada City was consumed by fire Monday night, and his two boys, aged 6 and 8 years, it is supposed, are buried in the ruins of the dwelling.

Geo. Hinds and Geo. McAtee, two employes of the Union Hotel at Galesburg, Ill., indulged in a fight, one of the combatants losing his upper lip and mustache in the conflict.

Eighty thousand boxes of cheese were received at New York the past week, and the amount of butter now in store there is larger than ever before known at this season of the year.

A number of the striking employes of the Pittsburg iron mills have accepted situations from a Colorado firm at an advance on the scale demanded by the Amalgamated Association.

Fannie Crosson, an employe of the Robinson House at Fort Wayne, took an overdose of oil of tansy to produce a miscarriage, Wednesday night, and died in great agony.

The mangled bodies of six negroes were found on the Mobile and Ohio railroad near DeSoto, Miss. It is supposed they were robbed and murdered and the remains then placed on the track.

Three American prospectors were found dead in the Sonora Valley, Mexico. It is believed they were murdered by the natives, who, however, charge the Apaches with the crime.

The Arraegement Committee of the Army of the Cumberland voted against uniting with the Grand Army of the Republic on the occasion of the reunion of the former body at Milwaukee, Sept. 20.

T. H. Foster, a jeweler of Montgomery, Ala., has been arrested on a charge of theft. He sent a number of watches by express to Philadelphia, and the same night reported to the police that he had been robbed on the way home.

The President has referred the supplemental petition, bearing 49,000 signatures, from the Garfield Club of New York, asking the pardon of Sergeant Mason, to the Secretary of War, together with several other and similar petitions.

Mont Robbins, whose father, ex-Congressman William Robbins, was assaulted by L. Mott, at Statesville, N. C., on account of a bitter political speech, went to Iredell county, where Mott lived and killed Mott for the attack on his father.

The Hon. J. B. Hall, President, and H. N. Henderson, Secretary, of the Home Insurance Company of Columbus, Ohio, were arrested for perjury recently in swearing that the assets of their company amounted to $250,000 when there were only $100,000.

Atrocities innumerable are charged against President Barrios, of Guatemala, who is now on a visit to this country. His government's chief support is the musket, and his cruel deeds are only equalled by the tyranny and persecutions of the Czars of Russia.

Toledo proposes to adulterate red winter wheat with not more than 10 per cent. of inferior white, but Chicago declines to participate in any such scheme, intending to maintain its reputation and the high grade of its grain.

Comptroller Knox reports that forty-nine national banks reorganized by liquidation in advance of the passage of the law to extend their charters. A $5 note of the new design, ornamented with a portrait of President Garfield, is about ready to be issued.

The San Francisco doctors composing the Board of Health quarantined a vessel and all the passengers because a boy had small-pox. It turned out he had a "ring-worm." The delayed passengers are threatening suits for damages, and promise to make it lively.

The minority report of the House Judiciary Committee declares it should be the policy of the government to withhold any further patents of lands, and declare forfeited all grants to the Northern Pacific Company not earned under the provisions of the granting act.

Two young couples of Coshocton, O., thought it would be a romantic idea to elope down the river to Marietta by moonlight in a row-boat. The trip was only half made, however, when the men were arrested for stealing the boat, and the girls were sent home unmarried.

E. A. Willard, a banker and broker, of Jonesboro, Union county, Ill., has fled to parts unknown, leaving liabilities to the amount of $150,000. The farmers of the county lose considerably, and threats of lynching against the fleeing defaulter are freely uttered.

ADVICES from Nebraska leave little doubt that the people of that State are arranging a vigorous prohibitory campaign. The liquor men, while conceding that an amendment would be adopted readily if submitted to the people, still hope to beat the measure in the Legislature.

The Greenback-Labor Convention of New York, nominated Epenetus Howe for Governor. The resolutions condemn monopoly, denounce the penal code, and sympathize with the labor movement for higher wages.

Vennor predicts that there will be unusual rainfalls and storms during August, with snowfalls in the extreme Western and Northwestern sections, and cold rains in Southern parts after the middle of the month. October will also be wet, stormy and cold.

Mr. Alexander Jones appeared before the Tariff Commission, and advocated the rights of the chemists to a fair share in the government's policy, whether free trade or protection. As a manufacturer, he urged that the duty on quinine should be restored, and answered questions on the subject propounded by the Commissioners.

The new clause to the Arrears bill, which passed in the House of Commons, empowers boards of guardians to borrow money at a low rate of interest to promote emigration, and permits the Board of Works to make a free grant of £100,000 to impoverished unions for the same purpose.

The renegade Indians from San Carlos Agency were engaged in a fight by Major Chaffee, commanding portions of the Third and Sixth Cavalry, Monday, in a wild and remote section of Arizona. Twenty-six Indians were killed, and all their baggage, hores and mules captured. The military casualties were slight.

Near Christiansburg, Va., there occurred a duel between John S. Wise, Readjuster candidate for Congressman-at-Large, and John S. Crockett, State's Attorney for Wythe county. After three shots had been harmlessly exchanged, Crockett, the challenging party, said he was satisfied, and the affair ended. It originated in a political quarrel.

IN the Smalls-Tillman contest for a seat in the House of Congress as a Representative from South Carolina, Tillman, Bourbon Democrat, was ejected by a unanimous Republican vote, but to the surprise of the House, Mr. Calkins voted against seating Mr. Smalls. The latter was seated, however, making the second colored Republican who has been given his rights at this session.

Foreign.

The Cuban sugar crop is estimated at 601,500 tons.

Thomas Guardia, President of Costa Rica, is dead.

General Ulysses Heureux was elected President at San Domingo.

A railway car at Waterford, Ireland, was rifled of muskets and cartridges.

Crops in the Northwestern section of Ireland are in a deplorable condition.

George P. Marsh, American Minister at Rome, died suddenly at Vallambrosa, Monday.

Colonel Philipolon, charged with leniency to Nihilist prisoners under his charge, has been degraded and exiled to Siberia.

Fourteen persons were killed in a riot between railway laborers and the peasants at Dombrava, Province of Dolnau, Austria.

The British Foreign Office confirms the reported arrest of one of the Phœnix Park assassins at Puerto Cabello, in Venezuela.

The shock of earthquake in the City of Mexico, lasted two and one-half minutes. Many walls fell. One lady was slightly injured.

The King of Italy has sent messages of condolence to President Arthur and to the family of the late Minister Marsh in their bereavement.

Meiling, who was convicted at Berlin of selling plans of the coast defenses of Germany to the Russian Government, gets six years' imprisonment.

Parnell and other Irish members of Parliament are organizing a movement in Ireland to counteract the projects of the Land Corporations.

Eighty-three business structures were destroyed by fire at Port-au-Prince, Hayti. Plundering was indulged in during the conflagration.

Charles Bradlaugh and three others were committed for trial in London for publishing blasphemous libels in the Freethinker. Bradlaugh was bailed.

Three hundred houses were destroyed by fire at Radziwillow, Russia; and a boiler explosion sunk the steamer Moskow, causing the loss of 200 lives.

The disasters caused by the earthquake in Mexico are slowly being reported. A church callapsed at Yantepec, killing four persons, and another church at Izula is in ruins.

Great disasters have occurred in Bohemia by excessively wet weather. Numbers of persons have been drowned by floods, and the greater part of the crops is destroyed.

President Gonzales, of Mexico, is desirous of cultivating friendly relations with the Central American Republics, and to that end has ordered General Loueze to make a tour of those counties.

The City Council of Marseilles has instructed the Mayor to apply for a rehearing of the suit, recently decided against that city, to compel the ex-Empress Eugenie to relinquish the chateau presented to Napoleon III.

Three Americans and an Austrian while on a debauch at Ningpo, China, brutally assaulted a Chinese captain of a war junk, and at latest accounts the safety of all foreigners was jeopardized by the indignation among the natives.

Colonel Brackenbury, in charge of criminal investigations in Ireland under the repression act, resigned his position because the Lord Lieutenant disagreed with his scheme to have the police join the secret societies, and then turn informers.

John Dillon, M. P., in an address at Mallow, said if Parnell had sixty firm supporters in Parliament they could render inoperative the repression bill, as for every person arrested under its provisions, they would waste two days' time in discussing it in the House.

THE STATE.

W. C. DePauw and family will sail from Europe on the 29th of August, and reach their home, in New Albany, September 10th.

Charles Sypes, a Shelbyville sport, chased his grandmother from the house with a butcher knife, and she had to take refuge with a neighbor.

All the manufacturers of agricultural implements at Richmond are crowded with orders. One of them received a $20,000 order by telegraph the other day. Many farmers in the northwest seem to have just discovered that they have enormous crops to take off.

The citizens of Morristown have tired of free liquor. Charles Daily, a druggist, has been arrested in five cases for selling liquor without license, and one for selling liquor on Sunday. "Doc." Daily, in the same store, also furnished bonds for selling liquor without license.

The Jeffersonville water company has been organized, with a capital of $125,000. The contractor agrees to lay eleven miles of pipe in the city limits, with ninety-four fire plugs, the city to be charged $9,500 a year for the fire plugs, and the citizens to pay the same rates for water as are charged at Louisville.

Mr. Albert Mackay, living near Madison, has a pumpkin of last year's growth that is perfect in form and color as when taken from the vine. It is regarded among farmers as a curiosity, from the fact that it has dried as thoroughly as if it had been sliced. The seed of the pumpkin will be saved and planted next spring.

On her wedding day an Indiana girl wrote something, sealed it in an envelope, and gave it to an intimate friend. "If I am alive six months from now," she said, "give this back to me unopened. If I am dead, read it." On the day that the half year expired the bride committed suicide, and the inclosure was found to be a statement that she expected no joy from the marriage, but was willing to give it a trial before deciding to take her own life.

Alonzo D. McCarthy, a young lawyer of Decatur, Ind, had great difficulty in winning Miss Rhodes for a bride. She loved him, but feared that his habit of frequent intoxication would make him a sot, and would only consent to marry him on his solemn promise of total abstinence. On the day appointed for the wedding he committed suicide, leaving letters to explain that he could not keep his pledge, and would die rather than break it.

A smart Warsaw man who wanted to put a stop to his cow's switching her tail while he was milking, tied that appendage to a picket fence. The bovine became frightened, and the man says he wouldn't mind repairing the fence, as it would be a just judgment on him for being a fool, but he does think it pretty rough that she should drag a 10-foot section of it through his garden and tear up about every growing thing there.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

WEDNESDAY, July 19.

SENATE—A bill modifying the Chinese investigation bill as to permit the passage of Chinamen through this country from other countries to China was discussed. The internal tax reduction bill was further discussed.

HOUSE—The Swalls-Tillman South Carolina contested election case, was settled by unseating Tillman and giving Robert Swall, Republican, the place.

THURSDAY, July 20.

SENATE—The tax bill was further discussed.

HOUSE—In the Alabama contested seat case of Smitte vs. Shelly the seat was declared vacant.

FRIDAY, July 21st.

SENATE—The conference report on the river and harbor bill was concurred in, and the bill sent to the President. The revenue tax bill was further discussed.

HOUSE—After taking action in several conference reports, the bill to modify the postal money-order system was taken up and passed; also the Senate bill classifying the salaries of railway postal agents into fiv classes anging from $:00 to $1,400 a year; also the house bill to fix the salaries of fourth class Postmasters at not more than $2,50 a master, r $1,000 a year.

SATURDAY, July 22.

SENATE.—The House bill to provide training schools for Indian children was passed; also the House bill directing the payment of $50,000 to Mrs. Garfield, less payments already made on account of salary to the late President. The tax bill was further discussed.

HOUSE.—The bill to regulate carrying passengers by sea was passed; the bill to allow a draw-back of duties on foreign articles used in ship-building failed to pass. Several bills of minor importance, relating to postal affairs, were passed.

MONDAY, July 24.

SENATE—After the disposal of some routine business, the Revenue Tax bill was further considered. An amendment reducing the tax on tobacco to 8 cents per pound was rejected—yeas, 18; nays, 28.

HOUSE—The principal business of the day was the discussion of District of Columbia affairs.

TUESDAY July 25th.

SENATE.—The tax reduction bill was further considered.

HOUSE—No business of any general importance was transacted.

Transplanting Teeth.

Interview with Dentist in Philadelphia Press.

I performed an operation of transplanting under romantic circumstances on a certain occasion. A young lady, as pretty as a peach, and a fine looking young fellow came to see me one morning. After no little hesitation, they told me they were betrothed, and that he was in the army and was going away to the plains for at least a year, hunting Indians. "And we are very unhappy at parting," whimpered she. "Yes, we are," almost blubbered he. "We heard of transplanting teeth, and want you to take one out of each one of our mouths and transfer them." For a moment I was transfixed with laughter and astonishment, and I attempted to reason them out of their foolish proposition—both had excellent teeth, by the way—but they insisted, so I extracted one of her largest back teeth and one of his smallest. Hers fitted his jaw all right, and he went off a few days afterward to his post with his lady lover's molar. His tooth, however, would not stick in; for within a week the young lady come back with her face dreadfully swollen. I reduced the inflammation and eased the pain, but could not replant her lover's fang, and she went away with it wrapped up in paper. Oh! the inconsistency of woman! Six months after she married a man old enough to be her father. When the young Lieutenant subsequently returned he indignantly told me of the manner in which he had been jilted, and requested me to immediately extract the false love's tooth, which I did, and he threw it into the cuspadore.

A certain breed of Texas hogs have solid hoofs.

TABLE TALK.

Sarah Bernhardt is, it is said, learning fencing.

The more unwieldy the fan the more bonton it is.

Bonnets are gradually encroaching over the ears.

Two thousand Choctaw Indians still live in Mississippi.

This is the only month this year that has two full moons.

A New York police officer has just died worth $200,000.

There are fort-nine Knights of Pythias lodges in Kansas.

The prospects of the Louisiana rice crop were never better.

In Paris a lady can get a nobby tailor-made suit for $45.

Many of the "Chinese" fire crackers are made in this country.

It is only American grapes that resist phylloxera in France.

There are only thirty-five Jewish families in Salt Lake City.

There are 7,000 homeopathic physicians in the United States.

About 4,000 men are engaged in the Sacramento river fisheries.

The favorite beverage of the drummers should be sell-air water.

Lawyers and physicians are excluded from the Knights of Labor.

"Pinafore" is to be rendered in Pennsylvania Dutch at Allentown.

A Rockville, Conn., firm have an order for 200,000,000 envelopes.

The high price of beef has materially increased the demand for fish.

A factory to make needles by machinery is to start in Brooklyn.

A woman is a professor in the medical college at Des Moines, Iowa.

Gen. Garfield's writings will be published in book form in November.

One apricot tree in Fresno, Cal., hasn't less than a ton of fruit on it.

A man should not resign—not even an umbrella—while under a cloud.

Small red ants are destroying the army worms in Lyon county, Ky.

An anvil weighing 24,000 pounds has just been cast in Pottstown, Pa.

The Mills' building in New York city will be lit by 5,000 electric lamps.

At Coney Island three tons of lobsters are sometimes eaten in one day.

Mr. Blaine says he has made $75,000,000 in his Virginia railroad speculation.

Eighteen hundred bouquets were given Boston's public school graduates.

A rosebush over 1,000 years old is still thriving in the cathedral at Hildesheim.

Paris and Washington are the only cities where Herdic coaches are successfully run.

Four thousand pounds of turtle were shipped per express, last week, from Cedar Keys.

A poet looks unutterable things. So does the man with a red-hot potato in his mouth.

The Prince of Wales is to preside at an international lawn tennis match to be held in Paris.

The Eourpean bathing dresses without sleeves are adopted here by ladies who swim well.

To repent without mending one's way is to pump out the ship without stopping the leak.

Already seven of the "most noted scout and frontiersmen in Colorado" have died this year.

The poster plays a truly neutral part during a political campaign—it is always on the fence.

The indications are that this will be the most active tourist season ever known in California.

Charles Stewart Parnell's brother owns, in Alabama, the largest peach orchard in the world.

Lead pencils were first made in the United States by Wm. Monroe, in 1811, Concord, N. H.

A little girl in Chester county, Pennsylvania, died last week from eating horse chestnut flowers.

A bull recently died at Warkarusa, Kansas, having three pounds of wire fence barbs in his stomach.

A water-spout on Crooked creek, Idaho, a few days ago, washed out and left on land thousands of trout.

A black turtle, weighing 1,000 pounds was recently offered for sale in the market at Morehead City, N. C.

A New York doctor knows at least a dozen instances where failures in business have cured men of dyspepsia.

That kind of religion is likely to be most popular which does not seriously interfere with what you intend to do.

A man in White county, Tenn., has a clock made entirely of wood, which for sixty-three years has kept perfect time.

It is said that the rising generation of the Philadelphia Quaker families are the dressiest and gayest of the city's society.

Young men bicyclers around Boston go armed with torpedoes charged with cayenne pepper, for protection against barking dogs.

The Lowell Courier is not surprised that car wheels are being made out of paper, as we have had "stationary" engines for a long time.

People who want to be very fashionable in their correspondence must use fancy colored sealing wax and a big seal to close the envelopes.

Charles M. Ahstrom, a Swede, writes from Stockholm that he proposes to bring to America Swedenborg's little summer house, the only thing connected with that theologian remaining in Sweden.

Even a thirteenth cousin may be of use. From such the present Earle of Breadalbane inherited his title and the finest seat in all Scotland.

A merchant at Morilla, Mexico, caught a thief in his store and locked him in a room with a fierce dog. The thief was maugled to death.

The man who is diligent in his business will never be sold out by the sheriff, though he may occasionally compromise with his creditors at twenty cents on the dollar.

Only twenty-seven copies of Guiteau's "Truth and Removal" have been sold. The edition consisted of 500 copies. This shows that so many Americans are not cranks as is supposed.

FROM THE WIRES.

War in Egypt.

London, July 21.—A long dispatch from Lord Granville to Earl Dufferin, the English Ambassador at Constantinople, dated July 11, is published. After justifying the bombardment of Alexandria, the dispatch stated that Her Majesty's Government now sees no alternative but a recourse to force to put an end to the intolerable state of affairs in Egypt. It would be most in accordance with the principles of international law that the force should be that of the sovereign power. If this is impracticable, on account of the unwillingness of the Sultan to act, it will become necessary to devise other measures. Her Majesty's Government still holds that any intervention should represent the united action and the authority of Europe. They have in fact no interests or objects in regard to Egypt inconsistent with the rest of Europe or of the people of Egypt. Their desire is that the navigation of the Suez canal shall be unrestricted; that Egypt shall be well and quietly governed, and free from the predominating influence of any one power; that international engagements shall be observed, and those British commercial and industrial interests, which have been so largely developed in Egypt, shall receive due protection from outrage, a principle which is essential for our interests in all parts of the world. The Government's policy has been consistent; they have loyally kept their engagements with France, and been anxious that other Powers be informed and consulted on all matters materially affecting the position of Egypt. The action which their Admiral has been compelled to resort to has not altered their views.

Woolwich, July 22.—Several steam transports arrived during the night.

Alexandria, July 21.—The official native report of the bombardment of Alexandria, says eight ironclads were sunk, two burned and four captured, and that the latter would be brought to Cairo.

On the evacuation of Alexandria, Arabi Pasha issued the following proclamation:

> Mudirs! At the Khedive's instigation the English killed with sword and shot in revenge the Egyptians who were left to guard the city of Alexandria. The Khedive remains at night with his women afloat among the English and returns to the shore in the day time to order a continuance of the slaughter, therefore, I issue my order to continue raising soldiers.

To-day 250 rifles, under an aide-de-camp of General Alison, pushed beyond Milaha, six miles hence, to blow up the railway. They met some of Arabi Pasha's cavalry, and several shots were exchanged. The Egyptians fled, after loosing two dead and several wounded. The Rifles having finished their work withdrew.

The British troops now occupy Aboukir and will occupy Ramleh to-morrow.

Arabi Pasha has levied a war tax upon the land to the nominal amount of £500,000.

The Khedive has received advices that Arabi Aasha is well supplied with provisions and ammunition, but his forces are not increasing.

London, July 22.—A dispatch from Alexandria to the Telegraph, dated 9:30 this morning, says: "Major General Alison is just moving out with two regiments of infantry and a mounted squadron in the direction of Arabi Pasha's entrenchments. This movement will probably lead to an engagement."

Reconnoissances are being made to-day in the direction of Ramleh and Milaha. Several dead bodies have been found in the Mahmandieh canal.

Every European has left Cairo.

Port Said, July 22.—At a meeting of the foreign Consuls yesterday, it was agreed to call on the Admirals and Captains of the men-of-war in the harbor to ask what steps shall be taken for the security of the Europeans on shore, in the event of an outbreak. Fresh earthworks have been thrown up by the Egyptians at Fort Guemiel, six miles from here.

The Arabs at Ismalia are murdering Copts.

London, July 22.—The Times says the English force for Egypt, with the troops already sent, will number fourteen thousand men. The Duke of Connaught, General Allison, and General Wood will command the brigades. General Wood has been ordered to be ready to embark in a few days. The Government has engaged ten vessels for the transportation of troops. The transport Nyanza has been fitted out as a condensor for Alexannria. She can condense 32,000 gallons of water daily. The embarkation of the whole force will be completed within a fortnight. Cyprus will be the rendezvous of the force.

London, July 22.—The troop ship Euphrates left Portsmouth to-day. She took 1,700 men. The captain received sealed orders. It is presumed her destination is Alexandria, not Malta.

London, July 11.—A correspondent of the Times at Alexandria writes that he is convinced that the report of the number of persons massacred at the time of the bombardment is grossly exaggerated.

The British have appointed Achmet Rifaat Governor of Alexandria. His duties will be mainly nominal, but his use as figure head will enable authority to be exercised without wounding native susceptibilities.

Some correspondents having reported that they were fired upon yesterday at a village a few miles out from Alexandria, a party of military proceeded thither last evening. They found the houses filled with plunder, and brought forty prisoners here for trial.

Alexandria, July 24—12:15 p. m. The Sixtieth Regiment marched out to occupy Ramleh this morning. A skirmish is now proceeding, but we have no particulars. The Thirty-fifth infantry has been ordered to support the Sixtieth.

Arabi Pashi occupies an extended line from Mareotis to Aboukir. His force is estimated at 7,000. The first skirmish lasted an hour. One or two English were hit. Several Egyptians were seen to fall. Arabi is again advancing.

Alexandria, July 24.—The bulk of Arabi Pasha's infantry is reported to be concentrated at Damietta, the troops at Kafr-el-Dewar being chiefly artillery and cavalry. The Inspector of the Cadastral Survey has arrived from the interior. He reports the total force of rebels as nearly a hundred thousand. He says a volunteer cavalry regiment is forming to attack Alexandria.

2 p. m.—The rifles and mounted infantry occupied Ramleh early this morning. They stationed one Gatling and one field gun at the bridge over the canal. The enemy's cavalry appeared and galloped boldly along the railway at 300 yards range, but fled upon a volley being fired. After a short time they reappeared with two guns, with which they opened fire, ineffectually, upon the British, who took to cover. By 9 o'clock firing had ceased, but the enemy is expected to reappear with reinforcements.

Crowther, one of the English engineers reported massacred at Tantah, has arrived here.

The commander of the fort at Aboukir, though flying a flag of truce, has refused to allow any Englishman to enter the fort. He is probably really holding the fort in the interest of Arabi Pasha.

London, July 24.—The Times, this morning, says the question of Turkish intervention is practically decided by the fact that an expedition cannot be sent without denuding the district provinces of troops and even reducing the garrison at Constantinople.

Arabi Pasha wrote the following letter to Gladstone a few days before the bombardment, but Gladstone did not receive it until after the bombardment:

> The Koran commands us to resist if war is waged against us, hence England may rest assured that the first gun she fires in Egypt will absolve the Egyptians from all treaties. The control will cease; the property of Europeans will be confiscated; the canals destroyed, and jehad preached in Syria, Arabia and India. The first blow which England strikes Egypt will cause blood to flow through Asia and Africa, the responsibility for which will be on the head of England. Egypt is still ready to be fast friends with England and keep her road to India, but she must keep within the limits of her jurisdiction. Finally, England may rest assured we are determined to die for our country.

London, July 24.—Fifteen steamships have been accepted or are under survey as transports.

The ironclads Devastation and Dreadnaught have been ordered to prepare for special service.

The infantry for Egypt will embark on the 4th of August, and the cavalry on the 9th, and sail direct for Alexandria.'

The authorities have decided not to send militia to garrison Malta and Gibraltar.

Paris, July 24.—It is announced that the French Government will for the present send only 6,000 marines for protection of the Suez canal.

London, July 24.—Major General Sir John Miller Adye starts for Paris to-night to consult with the French authorities as to the plan of the allied expedition.

Paris, July 24.—De Freycinet, President of the Council, in conferring with the committee of the Senate on the naval credit, declared that if the Powers indirectly interested in Egypt remained neutral in regard to the intervention of the other Powers in Egypt, France would leave England to act alone, and would confine herself to the protection of the Suez Canal. This declaration seems to be due to the refusal of General Billot, Minister of War, to undertake operations in Egypt unless he has a force of 40,000 men, which would require the calling out of a portion of the reserves, and the Government has refused to sanction such action.

Alexandria, July 25—10 a. m.—The military authorities are of the opinion that Arabi Pasha will not attack the British. He is, however, strengthening his position hourly. At daybreak this morning, his men, many of them without uniform, and driven like slaves, could be seen working in the intrenchments. The British experience great difficulty in moving guns (without which it is impossible to assume the offensive) to Ramleh. Directly after a sufficient number of heavy guns are placed in position, an attempt will be made to dislodge Arabi Pasha without exposing the troops. Guns and gunners from the fleet are going to the front.

The Khedive has dispatched a vessel to Port Said to bring Cherif Pasha here.

THE "MONITOR EGYPTIAN" has reappeared here, withholding "the offical journal of the Government of the Khedive." It contains a proclamation dismissing Arabi Pasha from the Ministry.

The Inspector of Cadastre, at Tantah, in speaking of the massacre, says: "I saw women carrying, tied to bludgeons, the dismembered arms and legs of massacred Europeans. The soldiers and the rabble fought for loot. A Bedouin Sheik, with twenty Bedouins, saved the inhabitants of the Jewish quarter and took them to his village. Another Sheik saved myself and party. A mob from Alexandria murdered three employes of Cadastre and their families and burnt their bodies with petroleum. The mob killed twelve Greeks. They tied the viscera of one of their victims to the tail of a dog and covered him with petrolium, which was set on fire amidst cries of joy from women and children. The mob was dispersed eight times. Finally two sheiks arrived and dispersed it."

London, July 25—In the House of Commons this afternoon the Speaker read a message from the Queen, announcing the calling out of the reserves in consequence of the troubles in Egypt. Gladstone moved that the message be considered to-morrow.

A number of reserves left this morning to join the regiments ordered to Egypt.

Aberdeen, Scotland, July 25.—An order has been issued to the reserves of the Gordon Highlanders to join their colors.

Alexandria, July 26.—The British have mined the railway embankment at Ramleh, as a precaution against a night attack.

London, July 26.—In the House of Commons, the address thanking the Queen for calling out the reserves was approved without division.

The News says: "The statement that Turkey has consented to send troops to Egypt is misleading. The Porte has not recognized the appropriateness of the suggestions to send troops, and now proposes to discuss the conditions under which they shall be sent, a process which, if carried out in accordance with Turkish notions of diplomacy, might occupy six months."

Dublin, July 26.—The weather in Ireland has improved considerably during the past few days. Though the potato blight has appeared in badly drained ground, still there is a splendid crop in most parts of the country.

Hon. Francis Fitzgerald, a Baron of the Exchequer of Ireland, has finally resigned his office, owing to objections to the duties imposed on him under the Repression bill.

A detective of the Irish constabulary will be sent to Caracas to receive O'Brien, held on suspicion of being one of the murderers of Lord Cavendish.

Not Very Much.

A young man with a nose like a razor and an eye which would have raised a blister on sheet-iron on a hot day halted a pedestrian of Gratiot avenue and stated that he was trying to raise money to reach the bedside of a dying aunt in Chicago. He was too proud to beg, but if the citizen would give him a quarter he would show him a trick worth five dollars.

"Vhash ish dot trick?" queried the citizen.

"It is to make ten cents go further than a dollar. You can play it on the boys and make ten dollars a day."

"My friendt, I nefer blays mit der poys."

"Yes but you can have lots of fun you know."

"I vhas no handt for fun. If I effer git off some shokes I nefer laff."

"Yes, but this is something new. When you come down to the grocery of an evening you—"

"I doan' come down. I vhas home on dher shteps all der efenings."

"But you could have a little fun with your neighbors."

"I told you I whas not a funny man. I likes to schmoke und read der morning bapers."

"Well, I don't want to beg, and I am offering you this trick very low in order to get home and see my sister die. Have you a dying sister?"

"I doan' expect I have. Vhas ish dot dricks?"

"To make ten cents go furthur than a dollar."

"Und vhill she do it?"

"She will."

"Und five cents goes more ash a half a dollar?"

"Just so."

"Und a cent goes petter ash a dime?"

"That's the ratio."

"Und nottings at all goes petter ash five cents?"

"I—I—I think it does."

"Vhell, you shust consider you haf all der nottings efer vhas und you vhil be in Chicago to-morrow! Gif my love to dot dying syster und tell her dot you saw me well. You'd petter git some oxbress vaggons to draw dose nickels down to der railroad, und you look a leedle oudt for some Dutchmans who has been eating grass und vhas green!"

◆

Commodore Shufeldt's charge that the old Empress Dowager of China is "an ignorant, capricious, and immoral woman" was very indiscreet, to say the least. He has been recalled from China, on the complaint of the Chinese Governmnent.

◆

President Arthur signifies his intention of being present at the opening of the Exposition in Cincinnati.

PRINCIPALLY PERSONAL.

Bradlaugh, the English atheist, is coming to the United States.

Fashionable people at Long Branch affix bouquets to the blinders worn by their horses.

For five months past Senator Ben H. Hill, of Georgia, has subsisted on liquid food alone.

Admiral Seymour, in command of the English fleet operating against Egypt, is 80 years old.

The Prince of Wales is said to be $3,000,000 in debt, notwithstanding his immense income.

Senator Edmunds is said to do more miscellaneous reading than all the other Senators together.

The will of the late Mary B. Kelly, of Philadelphia, bequeaths $13,500 to the Roman Catholic Church for various purposes.

Nelly Grant Sartoris, instructed by her husband, has become expert with the rifle and pistol, and is as skillful an angler as he.

Charles Longfellow, the son of the poet, hobnobs with Jim Bennett. Both have just reached Constantinople in the latter's new yacht.

Upon the wedding-ring which Abraham Lincoln placed upon the finger of Mary Todd, at their marriage in 1842, this inscription was engraved: "Love is eternal."

Among the guests at Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs, Va., next month, will be James G. Blaine, Ulysses S. Grant, Winfield S. Hancock and J. Donald Cameron.

An exchange informs us that a Berkshire pig was killed by sunstroke, in Georgia, last Friday. This should admonish our friends of the uncertainty of life.

Francis Key, author of the "Star Spangled Banner," is to have a $60,000 monument in San Francisco. Money was left for the purpose by the late James Lick.

It is a singular fact that Mrs. Lincoln died in the same house, and within ten feet of the spot where she stood November 2, 1842, and was maried to Abraham Lincoln.

Bishop Hunter denies that he has located Mr. Emerson's soul in an undesirable place in the next world. He insists, however, that the Sage of Concord was not a Christian.

The death of Bishop Scott makes Mathew Simpson the senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, with with Willirm L. Harris, elected but ten years ago, next on the list.

John Doyle, a young man employed in a currying shop in Woburn, Mass., on a salary of $9 a week, was agreeably surprised last Friday, by a notification from a Boston lawyer that he had fallen heir to $100,000, by the death of a cousin.

John Babcock is under arrest at Norwich, Conn., for destroying the stone that marked his daughter's grave. The marble had been put in place by the dead girl's betrothed, and Babcock had forbidden it.

Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, is an extensive land-owner in Iowa. He has considerable property in Des Moines, forty acres adjoining Council Bluffs, and several thousand acres of land in northern counties.

Thurlow Weed has an odd pet, a dove, that never voluntarily quits his side. The bird entered the window of his sitting-room over a year since, and has never shown the least disposition to go away, although no confinement has kept it from doing so.

Ismail, the present Khedive's predecessor, who, by his wicked and luxurious extravagance, got Egypt into all her present financial and international troubles, is living in Rome on an ill-gotten income of $1,000,000 a year.

Thomas Adair, of Leesville, Ohio, during a violent fit of coughing, is said to have thrown a piece of cloth three-fourths of an inch square off his lungs. It is believed to have been a fragment of coat shot into his side by a gun some time since.

Edwin Booth seems to be making a great deal of fame, but no money, in London. Audiences are enthusiastic, and critics praise him unstintedly, but his engagement is at a time of year when it is unfashionable to go to the theater, and the receipts are not large.

A Colorado constable had a warrant for the arrest of a circus man for an alleged assault, but the circus man betook himself to the lion's cage, and, safely ensconced therein, taunted the constable and invited him in. The constable withdrew with his warrant unserved.

The Cincinnati Enquirer remembers now, with tenderness, how, when Mr. Lincoln was nominated, and received the dispatch announcing the triumph, he hastened away from the crowd of excited people pressing their congratulations upon him, saying he "must show the dispatch to the little woman at home."

◆

Carlyle's Religion.

Blackwood's Magazine.

He was a Calvinist without the theology. He had been bred in a Calvinistic home, and was by nature firmly and ardently religious. His conviction was intense as to the broad fact of the divine government of the universe, and as to the divine origin of a moral law—the right reading of which was essential to human welfare, the revelation of which lay through experienced fact—and generally as to the spiritual truth of religion. He flung away the whole of miracle and the supernatural; it is as certain as mathematics, he said, that no such thing ever has been or can be. The natural was far more truly wonderful than the supernatural, and all historical religions were bona fide human efforts to explain human duty. On the other hand, he rejected skeptism as to right and wrong, and as to man's responsibility to his Maker. He rejected also the materialistic theory of things—that intellect is a phenomenon of matter, that conscience is the growth of social convenience; he would have nothing to say to utilitarian ethics. It is unnecessary to pursue this into further detail. It is the Christian religion minus its theology, miracles, and eschatology. Carlyle said that the fragments contained his real conviction, which lay at the bottom of all his thoughts about man and man's doings in the world—a truth which he was specially sent to insist upon.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed.
Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant.
Fever and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water.
Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleans the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.
Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Lucorrhoa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Consult and secure the advantages of Dr BUTTS

long experience in curing diseases of the Blood, Skin and Bones.—Nervous Debility, Impotency, Organic Weakness, Gonorrhoea, Syphilitic and Mercurial Affections specially treated on scientific principles, with safe and sure remedies. Call or write for List of Questions to be answered by those desiring treatment by mail.

Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss.

Address, DR. BUTTS, 12 N. 8th St., St. Louis, Mo. ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF YOUTH and MANHOOD
A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE.

By A PHYSICIAN of 25 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks, "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM.

The Best, Cleanest and most Economical Hair Dressing. Never Fails to Restore the youthful color to grey hair. 50c and $1 sizes at druggists.

Floreston Cologne.
A new and exceedingly fragrant and lasting perfume. Price 25 and 75c.

PARKER'S
GINGER TONIC

A Pure Family Medicine that Never Intoxicates.

If you are a mechanic or farmer, worn out with overwork, or a mother run down by family or household duties try PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

If you are a lawyer, minister or business man exhausted by mental strain or anxious cares do not take intoxicating stimulants, but use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

If you have Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Kidney or Urinary Complaints, or if you are troubled with any disorder of the lungs, stomach, bowels, blood or nerves you can be cured by PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

If you are wasting away from age, dissipation or any disease and require a stimulant take GINGER TONIC at once; it will invigorate & build you up from the first dose but will never intoxicate. It has saved hundreds of lives; it may save yours.

HISCOX & CO., 163 William St., New York. 50c. and one dollar sizes, at all dealers in medicines.

GREAT SAVING BUYING DOLLAR SIZE.

A MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of Most Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, Magnificent Horton Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous

"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."

A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.

Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.

Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.

For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the

GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,
At your nearest Ticket Office, or address
R. R. CABLE, Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r, E. ST. JOHN, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.
CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled
FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable Balm that will remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 3c stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dreadful disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the preparation used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence,

JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.
1yr

USE
KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

WHOLESALE LIST
TURNIP SEEDS!

MERCHANTS!
SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST.
D. LANDRETH & SONS,
PHILADELPHIA.

Dr HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, [illegible] Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic is a necessity in my practice. Dr. ROBERT M. ARNOLD.
ST. LOUIS, MO., Nov. 8th, 1881. 2501 Wash. Avenue.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC.

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

THE
COLUMBUS BUGGY COMPANY

STILL LEADS WITH THE

LARGEST BUGGY MANUFACTORY IN THE WORLD.

AND SELL THE BEST BUGGY ON THE GLOBE FOR THE MONEY.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND TESTIMONIALS OF HUNDREDS OF LIVERYMEN WHO HAVE USED THEM

ADDRESS

COLUMBUS BUGGY Co.

COLUMBUS OHIO.

Be sure, before buying, to examine the Name Plate to be found on the rear of every Buggy manufactured by us, for NONE ARE GENUINE unless they bear the name

Columbus Buggy Company,

COLUMBUS, OHIO.

Many inferior goods are offered as Columbus Buggies, and care should be used to distinguish between 'Columbus Buggies" and Columbus Buggy Co's. Buggies.

TESTIMONIALS.

GENTLEMEN: Your buggies have given me entire satisfaction, both in style and durability I have used them for the past three years. Your recent improvements on road wagons I consider the best in the market.

JAMES H. RAMBURG.

Frederick Maryland.

DEAR SIRS: We have used buggies of your make that have been in use three years, and no buggy we have that cost twice the amount has given better satisfaction.

JAMES H. ALEXANDER.

Johnstown, Pa.

GENTLEMEN: We have used the Columbus Buggy Company's work for the last five years and can conscientiously recommend it as strictly first class as to style, material, workmanship and durability. Your buggies have given better satisfaction than any other make of vehicles we had in use for the last ten years.

PALMER & WHITTAKER.

Red Oak Iowa.

GENTLEMEN: It gives me pleasure to state that I have been selling your buggies and carriages for four years, and can safely recommend them to any one in want of a buggy or carriage. Yours Truly, J. L. GRIBBLE.

Macomb, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: With over fifteen years experience in building buggies, wagons, &c., I do not hesitate in saying your buggies and carriages are strictly first-class in workmanship, material and proportions, filling a long-felt want for a reliable article that can be sold at a price lower than any ordinary manufacturer can produce and sell the same quality of Work at. Yours, etc. I. S. KRICK, Conneautville Pa.

GENTLEMEN: I have used your Brewster side bar buggies for four years, together with buggies that cost me $300 and $350, and your buggies were the first that went out, on account of being side-bar. They have not cost me $5 for repairs, and those I have sold of your make have given good satisfaction. I think that you make the cheapest and best road wagons that are made in the United States for the money. Respectfully, F. H. HAMLIN, Lawrence Kansas.

DEAR SIRS: We have been using your buggies for the last four or five years. They have given entire satisfaction. I think they are the best buggies made for the money.
W. B. GRIMES & CO., Liverymen Whitehall Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: We have been handling your work for two seasons, and have in every instance found your buggies first class. We never have had one of your jobs returned to us for repairs; neither have we had a single complaint on account of work not being perfectly satisfactory. Very Respectfully, H.P. BUCKLEY & CO., Springfield, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN. I have no hesitancy in saying that the buggies manufactured by the Columbus Buggy Company are the best work for the price I have any knowledge of. In not a single instance has there been any dissatisfaction on the part of any one of my customers.

FRANK L. HALL.

Owensboro, Ky

DEAR SIRS: For the past two years we have used your buggies side by side with other makes in both our stables, and are perfectly satisfied with the strenght, durability and workmanship compared with others. As fast as our stock in livery is used up we shall replace them with your manufacture, knowing from experience that it is the best we can do. Respectfully,

SWEET & FOLLANSBEE,

Quincy Illinois.

For sale by dealers everywhere.

Any of our readers who will enclose two 3-cent stamps in a letter to the Columbus Buggy Co., Columbus O., will receive in return a beautiful engraving in colors, representing an Australian scene and their manner of travelling in that country with ostriches as a motor. They have this picture (the packing costing six cents) to all who may send for it, desiring in this manner to make themselves more widely known to the people.

Buying Boots.

In the last few weeks of the war a confederate, serving under Lee, wrote home to his father in North Carolina that he was almost barefooted, and completely discouraged. As soon as the old man received the letter he mounted his mule and set off at a gallop, but was soon halted by an acquaintance, who called out.

"Hello! has there been another fight?"

"Not as I've heard of, but I've got a letter from Cyrus."

"What does Cyrus say?"

"He's out o' butes an' clean discouraged."

"And where ye going?"

"Down to Abner Smith's to borry $700,000 to send to Cyrus to git a cheap par o' shoes, and we're going to write him a long letter and send him a box o' pills, and tell him to hang on to the last for if Cyrus gets low-spirited and begins to let go the infernal Yanks will be riding over us afore we kin back a mule outer the barn."

"That's so, that's so," nodded the other. "I kin let you have the money myself as well as not. I was saving up to buy three plucks o' tobacker and a box o' matches all to once, but the army mustn't go barefut when it only takes $700,000 or $800,000 to buy a purty good pair o' shoes. Go home and git a cart, and I'll have the money tied up fur ye."—Wall Street News.

* * *

There was an accident up the road the other day, and when the Derrick reporter arrived at the scene of the wreck and desolation, and profanity, and Italian expletives, and kindling wood, and mad passengers, he was directed to the most solemn man on the spot for an explanation of the mishap.

'Was it a freight train?' asked the reporter.

'Yes,' said the solemn man, 'I'm a freight it was."

Two of the passengers were carried away in a fainting condition, and the reporter was steadied up against the fence until he recovered.

The solemn man continued: "It was rail bad."

This knocked two Italians down and broke the guy rope.

"No," said he, "I can't tender you any more information; you can track it."

When the baggage man hit him over the head with a wrench, but his last words were, "lok-a-motive for the accident up yourself."—[Oil City Derrick.

A Queer way of Building Houses.

There are in the world many queer ways of building houses, and one of the queerest is found in the city of Palembang, in Sumatra. The town extends for three or four miles on both sides of a rather wide river, and both shores are lined with houses. First comes a row built upon piles driven into the bottom of the river, and outside of that another row resting on great bamboo rafts, which are held by cables of ratten to the piles of the next houses. Of course these rafts rise and fall with the tide, and the doors open upon the water so that they are reached by boats. The threshholds are not more than a foot above water, and one steps directly from a boat into a house. One can buy anything there is for sale in this town without getting out of his boat. The people are Malays and it is said that they never go anywhere on foot if they can reach the place by boat.—Anon.

Reports of the Bureau of Statistics.

The Indiana Bureau of Statistics, Indianapolis, announces a few hundred copies of the late report, volume 3d, still on hand for distribution. It is a book of over 400 pages, full of valuable facts in regard to Indiana and her people. In addition to other important matters, the work contains statistics on Agriculture and Production by counties, on Labor and wages; a great variety of Economic topics; Society; Social questions; Education; the minerals of the state; Criminals and Public Expenditures for all purposes by counties; Railroad and Meteorological statistics, influence of drainage on health etc, etc.

Those wanting a copy may leave their names at this office. The cost will be only express charges, not exceeding 5 cents per copy.

Cheap Excursion Rates to Colorado.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, commencing July 15th and continuing to September 25th, 1882, will sell round trip tickets to Denver at greatly reduced rates, good returning to October 31st, 1882.

The National Mining exposition, representing the mining wealth and wonders of the Rocky Mountains, will open at Denver, August 7th.

For information regarding routes, rates, etc., address Agents of B. & O. road, or W. E. Reppert, Pass. Agent, 205½ North High street, Columbus, Ohio. 20-4w.

A correspondent writes to ask us if wool is a sure investment. No, it is not. The southern people had millions invested in wool, and they lost every cent of it. Exchange.

—Now, while work is pressing, you can save time and money by getting your supplies at Weiricks, at Fairfield. tf.

HONEST WAGONS ! !

Is what you want. Call on

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.

and see their home-made

WAGONS!

GIVE THEM A CALL.

CENTRAL CONSERVATORY
—OF—
—M—U—S—I—C—!—!!—!!—

Columbus, Bartholomew Co., Ind.

Cheapest tuition in the U. S. for advantages offered. Limited number boarded in Principal's family. For terms, etc., address:
28-4w. W. E. BATES, Principal.

FORT WAYNE
CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.
(Incorporated 1871.)

For Catalogue and Particulars, address C. F. W. MEYER, Principal.

FORT WAYNE, IND. 27-8.

MUSIC MONEY
$5.00 FOR ONLY $1.00.

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send 3 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. Best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ide

2 CARD COLLECTORS. stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards photograph, picture & chromo cards. BOYS send a mail a package including Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA OHIO. 10-13w.

NOTICE. We have just issued a book containing 125 pieces of both vocal and instrumental music, every piece of which is very popular. We will give this book in place of the one given heretofore if desired. In case a book premium is not wanted, we will give a set (6) of beautiful silver-planted teaspoons. Great inducements to any one wishing to get up a club. Address as above for terms.

THE MYSTERY OF
Love Making Solved
Or an Easy Road to Marriage.

SUNSHINE PUBLISHING HOUSE, Geneva, O.

The American Popular Dictionary, $1.00

SUNSHINE PUBLISHING CO., Geneva, Ohio.

Our readers will find this wonderful book the cheapest Dictionary published. The information it contains is worth many times the amount asked for it, and it should be in the possession of everybody. With this book in the library for reference, many other much more expensive works can be dispensed with, and ignorance of his country, history, business, laws, etc., is inexcusable in any man. Note the price, $1, post paid.

FORT WAYNE & JACKSON R. R.—SHORT Line

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Time-Card in effect July 16, 1882.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am	.....
Saginaw	6 30	7 50	.....
Lansing	9 25	10 25	.....
Grand Rapids	10 20	6 00	12 25pm
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 05
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 45	5 22
Jackson Lv.	6 30am	12 02pm	6 55
Hanover	7 08	12 37	8 00
Jonesville	7 25	1 04	8 55
Bankers	7 38	1 16	9 20
Reading	7 50	1 27	9 45
Montgomery	8 00	1 40	10 10
Fremont	8 19	1 50	10 40
Angola	8 25	2 13	11 10
Pleasant Lake	8 45	2 23	11 30
Waterloo	9 08	2 43	6 00am
Auburn	9 18	2 52	6 20
Auburn Junction	9 20	2 57	6 30
Arrive Ft. Wayne	10 15	3 50	8 20
Indianapolis	5 45pm	10 45	.....
Cincinnati	6 05	7 35am	.....
Louisville	7 30	6 25	.....
St. Louis	.....	8 40	.....
Washington	2 10	6 47	.....
Baltimore	3 20	5 15	.....

NORTH.	Ex.	Accom	Ex.
Leave Baltimore	11 00am	1 30am	.....
Washington	10 40	2 25	.....
St. Louis	6 40pm	7 50
Louisville	7 12	.....	7 00am
Cincinnati	9 00	9 25pm	7 45
Indianapolis	4 2'am		10 56
Ft. Wayne	11 45	1 00am	5 00pm
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 47 pm	3 40	6 00
Auburn	12 48	3 05	6 08
Waterloo	12 58	3 40	18
Pleasant Lake	1 16	4 25	37
Angola	1 27	5 00	7 05
Fremont	1 42	5 23	7 23
Montgomery	1 55	6 07	7 40
Reading	2 10	6 30	7 52
Bankers	2 22	6 55	8 04
Jonesville	2 38	7 25	8 18
Hanover	3 05	8 20	8 45
Jackson	3 40pm	9 20	9 20
Ann Arbor	5 07	10 34	10 26
Detroit	6 30	11 50	11 40
Grand Rapids	10 30	4 30pm	7 10am
Lansing	5 35	.....	8 20
Saginaw	8 25	.....	10 55
Bay City	9 20	.....	11 55

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.: east—12 40, 5 00, 7 05, 9 30 a.m., 3 05, 4 05, 9 25 p. m.; west—12 45, 7 02, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V. 1 10, 7 30 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m. 5 30 p. m.; west 9 45 a. m., 12 07, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p. m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 42, 11 30 p. m; west 2 25 a. m., 1 35 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 4 34 a. m., 1 48, 10 22 p. m.; west, 2 05 a. m., 12 45, 11 35 p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m. 3:15 p. m. west—1:37, 11:31 a. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 20 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m., 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 5 00 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 35 p. m., west, 6 10, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W leave 12 10, 8 05 a. m. 1 15pm; ar. 2 00, a. m. 2 55, 7 05 p.m. P., Ft. W. & C. east 3 35 a. m., 4 10, 11 20 p. m.; west 12 10, 2 40, 11 43 a. m., 3 40, p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Fr. & Pass'r. Agent

LAKE SHORE & MICHIGAN SOUTHERN Railway.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipment! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y.Ex.	Atl Ex	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm
Elkhart	1 20pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 48	11 30	5 25	12 10pm
Corunna	2 58		6 35
Sedan			7 05	00
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30	40
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20	40
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi Ex.	Pac.Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	8 20

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 3:05 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage J. E. CURTIS,

Supt. Mich. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG,

Agent Waterloo Ind.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAILROAD—CHICAGO Division.

IN EFFECT FROM MAY 21, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C Ex.
CHICAGO lv	5 10pm	10 10pm	[illegible]
Walkerton Junction	8 11	1 56am	[illegible]
Milford Junction	9 16	3 10	[illegible]
Syracuse		3 22	12 25pm
Cromwell		3 38	12 51
Albion		4 00	1 12
Avilla		4 22	1 34
Garrett	10 35	4 45	2 00
Auburn Junction	10 42	4 54	2 08
St. Joe
Hicksville	11 14	5 30	2 42
Defiance	11 52	6 18	3 21
Deshler	12 45am	7 10	4 20
Fostoria	1 50	8 07	5 15
Tiffin	2 18	8 35	5 42
CHICAGO JUNCTION ar.	3 10	9 45	[illegible]

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail
CHICAGO JUNCTION lv	9 50pm	6 40pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 38	7 50	9 14
Fostoria	11 02	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 43	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 53	11 42
Hicksville	1 47	11 42	12 28pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 13pm	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 45
Avilla		12 48	1 56
Albion		1 02	2 21
Cromwell		1 28	2 45
Syracuse		1 45	3 02
Milford Junction		1 56	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 14	4 30
CHICAGO ar	8 35	5 55	7 10

FT. WAYNE, CINCINNATI & LOUISVILLE Railroad,

In effect April 16, 1882.

SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS.	NORTHWARD
No 3 Express	No. 1 Mail.		No 2 Mail	No. 4 Ex.
5 40pm	10 20am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	9 55am
6 47	11 20	Bluffton	4 05	8 53
7 50	12 18pm	Hartford	3 04	7 47
8 40	1 10pm	Muncie	2 10	6 50
		Cincinnati
10 55pm	6 05	Indianapolis	11 05	4 35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. B. CAMPBELL, General Ticket Agt.

Where Shall I Attend School ?

You will be aided in answering this question by reading the catalogue of the

FORT WAYNE (IND.) COLLEGE.

The lowest rates combined with the best advantages. Address:

W. F. YOCUM, A. M.,
28-8w. Fort Wayne, Ind.

$500 Reward !

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 181 and 183 W. Madison St., Chicago. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp.

$1,000 Forfeit !

Having the utmost confidence in its superiority over all others, and after thousands of tests of the most complicated and severest cases we could find, we feel justified in offering to forfeit One thousand Dollars for any case of coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, hoarseness bronchitis, consumption in its early stages; whooping cough and all diseases of the throat and lungs, except Asthma, for which we only claim relief, that we can't cure with West's Cough Syrup, when taken according to directions. Sample bottles 25 and 50 cents; large bottles $1.00. Genuine wrappers only in blue. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price. JOHN C. WEST & CO., sole proprietors, 181 and 183 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Health is Wealth.

DR. E. C. WEST'S Nerve and Brain Treatment is a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Spermatorrhoea Impotency Emissions, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, self-abuse, or over-indulgence, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our writen guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind. Orders by mail at regular price.

—Weirick, the Fairfield merchant buys butter and eggs and other produce. Don't forget it. tf.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—

WABASH
ST. LOUIS
AND PACIFIC
RY.

—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA !

2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent

THROUGH TICKETS

TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest!

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address I. M. ELNT, agent, Auburn, Ind., or G. B. COLE, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, Gen. Manager, H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen. Passenger Agent
St. Louis.

RUBBER ROOFING

Costs only $3.25 per square, 10x10 feet, and will last a lifetime on steep or flat roofs. Send for circular and samples free.

IND. PAINT AND ROOFING Co.,
Indianapolis, Ind.

JOS. ABRIGHT,

—Dealer In—

Watches, Watches,
Clocks, Clocks,
Castors Castors,
Spoons, Spoons,
Forks, Forks,
Knives Knives,
Chains, Chains,
Rings, Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid.

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER

IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES !

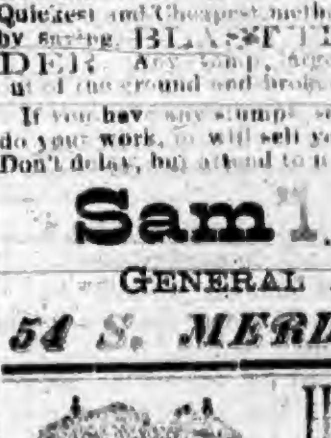
It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stump than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and teach you to do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,

GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,

54 S. MERIDIAN ST., INDIANAPOLIS.



HUGHES & HUMPHREYS,

SLATE ROOFERS,

First Premium on Ornamental Work.
All Work Guaranteed Water Proof.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY

FISTULA RECTAL ULCERS, FISSURES CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED COME BEFORE TOO LATE

BY DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE PATENTED.

OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR BRINKERHOFF. CURE WARRANTED.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, AUGUST 10, 1882. Number 32.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana Office over Mrs. Jones'Store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections Office over Citizens' Bank, Waterloo, Ind.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING, office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Halston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 28 1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor John Butt Proprietor, Waterloo. Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m., except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week HENRY PROBST Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.
WILSON S. DANCER, Trustee.
April 15, 1882. tf

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice, FREDERICK GFELLER, Trustee.
April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

NOTICE

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice, C. H. BROWN, Trustee.

For Sale.

On account of my wife's illness I offer for sale my threshing machine, clover huller, and ten horse power traction engine all in complete running order. For terms call at my residence two miles west of Waterloo, on Smithfield township line, or address. Wm. Brand, Waterloo, Ind.

The Heberling Shirring and Gathering Machine.
(Improved March 1, 1880.)

The only machine in the world that makes the hand-stitch. Simple, practical and perfect in operation. Doing a large range of material; such as silks, satins, velvets, alpacas, cashmeres, white goods, &c., with one or two rows of stitching at the same time.

Work more regular and beautiful than can be done by hand. Shirrs or gathers adjusted full or scant by drawing thread same as handwork. Will do the work of ten or fifteen hands. Call on Miss C. Wolsey and Mrs. Angie Kuhlman, corner of Main and Fifth street, Auburn, Indiana. 28-12t.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,
—THE—
EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

SPECTACLES

Dr. E. C, YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box. 138. 2-tf.

MONEY to loan on improved farms in sums of $300 or more at six per cent. No delay. U. M. STODDORD,
28-4w. Indianapolis, Ind.

ROOT AND COMPANY

46 and 48 Calhoun St.,

For the Fly and Mosquito Season, have a full line of

BED CANOPIES!

Their own manufacture, full size and with latest improvements—made up of White, Pink and Blue

Mosquito Net
—AND—
Blonde Nets!

$1 50, $2 00, $3 00, $3 50, $4 00 each. Als Offer 1,050 Pieces

MOSQUITO BARS!

White, Pink, Blue, Green, at lowest market price

SCOTCH ZEPHYR GINGHAMS

20 cents per yard; in Black and White Gray and white, and Fancy Plaids, reduced from 28 and 30 cts., to close them out.

THIN BLACK GOODS

For summer use in great variety

BLACK LACE BUNTINGS,
BLACK BROCADE GRENADINES,
PLAIN MESH GRENADINES,
BLACK NUN'S VEILINGS,
PLAIN BLACK BUNTINGS,

12½, 15, 20, 25, 35, 50, 60, 75 cents per yard and upwards.

Also an extensive line of summer

DRESS GOODS

At Reduced Prices. Such as

LENO CHECKS,
SUMMER SILKS,
FOULE CLOTHS,
SCOTCH ZEPHYRS,
COLORED LACE BUNTINGS

FOULARD SILKS,
NUNS VEILINGS,
PLAIN COLORED BUNTINGS,
FANCY ORGANDIES AND
LAWNS, ETC., ETC., ETC.

Just Received 25 Cases

PALM LEAF FANS,

$1.50 per hundred

ROOT AND COMPANY

FT. WAYNE, INDIANA.

Essay on Early English History.

READ BEFORE THE LADIES' LITERARY SOCIETY, BY MRS. W. H. MCQUISTON, JULY 24, 1882.

About the middle of the fifth century the foreign or Latin culture ceased, as the Romans were unable longer to retain Britian, which had been subject to Rome for nearly four hundred years. The war-like energy of the people having been destroyed by civilization, they were unable, when left to themselves, to resist the attacks of the Picts and Scots, who, when they found the Britons abandoned by the Romans, swept down from the mountainous districts and endeavored to regain what they considered their birthright. The Britons sought assistance from the Angles and Saxons of the Lower Elbe. They obeyed the summons, but, after they had repulsed the enemy, turned their swords on the Britons themselves After a fearful contest, they subdued the country, which henceforth was called England (Angle land). The greater number of the Celtic inhabitants fell by the sword, while those who were able took refuge in Gaul. It was only in the mountainous districts of Wales and Cornwall that the Celts asserted their independence and national peculiarities, till as late as the thirteenth century. The rest of the kingdom fell into the power of the Anglo-Saxons. These retained their language, their genius, and manners, creating in Britian, a Germany outside of Germany. The true parentage of the English nation may be traced to the Teutonic race. The language spoken by the Northern invaders was a Low Germanic dialect, akin to the modern Dutch, but with many Scandinavian forms and words. Like the people who spoke it, it was possessed of a character at once real and ideal, at once practical and imaginative, and required but the influence of civilization to become a noble vehicle for reasoning, for eloquence and for the expressing of the social and domestic feelings. The conversion of the Anglo-Saxons to Christianity in the sixth century, brought them in contact with more intellectual forms of life and a higher type of civilization, the transfer of their religious allegiance from Thor, Woden, Tuisk and Freya to the Savior, while it softened their manners, exposed their language to the modifying influence of the corrupt but more civilized Latin literature of the Lower Empire, and gave proof how improvable a tongue was that in which they had hitherto produced nothing but rude war songs. Sages like that of Beowulf, a varied and extensive literature, soon arose among the Anglo-Saxons, and we meet the Venerable Bede, Alcuin and John Scotus Eugena. The Venerable Bede was born in 672 and died in 735. He was considered the most perfect type of the outward repose and intellectual activity of the monastic life in its best aspects. At the age of seven, he was placed under the teachings of Benedict Biscop, at nineteen became a deacon, and a priest at thirty. His works embrace the whole compass of the learning of his age, numbering some forty-five books. These may be divided into four classes: Theological, consisting chiefly of commentaris on the Scripture; scientific treatises, showing a knowledge of science from Pliny to his own time; gramatical works and historical composition. His greatest work is the Ecclesiastical History of the Anglo-Saxons from their first settlement in England. Bede was surrounded by a body of literary friends, as Acca, Egbert Archbishop of York and St. Boniface Winfield. The eighth century closes with the great name of Alcuin (A. D. 735–804). Lake Bede, he was placed in a convent in infancy. Trained in the school of Archbishop Egbert, he became the favored pupil of that prelate's kinsman and successor, Albert, who on appointment to the Archbishopric intrusted the school to Alcuin, just ordained deacon. Eanbald, a pupil of Alcuin, on succeeding to the Archbishopric in 780, sent Alcuin to Rome, and this mission caused his introduction to Charlemagne, at whose court he resided in magnificent appointment till his death. In 877, Ireland sent forth John Scotus, surnamed for his native place, Eugena. The Anglo-Saxon literature showed the inpress of the religious culture under which it was formed, the chief subjects being moral, religious, historical and didactic, instead of being written in the vernacular was composed in the Latin language. The war with the Danes, which took place in the ninth century, under the reign of Egbert and his successors, was one of great devastation and bloodshed. They plundered the coasts and shores of the rivers, destroyed the churches, and endeavored to treat the Saxons as the Saxons had treated the Celts. Alfred, the most perfect type of a patriotic warrior, king and philosopher, was thrust from his throne for a short time. By dint of cunning courage and watchfulness, he finally contrived to put an end to their inroads, after which he devoted his powers to the internal improvement of his people. Not only did he look after their bodily welfare, but he founded schools and built churches. His early love of the old national poetry, the growing neglect of Latin, even by the priests, few of whom could understand in English their Latin prayers, or translate any Latin writings into English; his eager desire that the people might enjoy the treasures of learning, collected in the churches for security from invaders, urged him to the culture of the native tongue for popular instruction. Having learned Latin only late in life, he found it difficult to instruct, where he himself needed correction. While Boethus had for his audience senators and men of culture, who understood as well as we, the slightest mythological allusion, Alfred is obliged to take up and develope them. Still he does not despair. He invites learned men to repair the decay of scholarship, and sets the example himself by translating existing works into the Vernacular. His most important translations were those of Bede's Ecclesiastical History, The ancient history of Orosius and Boethins de Consolatione Philosophim, and for the use of the clergy, the Pastorale of St. Gregory. According to William of Malmesbury, Alfred had commenced an Anglo-Saxon version of the Psalms shortly before his death. The new intellectual impulse, given by Alfred's policy of calling foreign scholars into the realm, which was followed by other kings down to the eve of the conquest, sustained the revival of Anglo-Saxon literature in full activity for some time.

New Line between Cincinnati and the West.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway has put on through cars between Cincinnati and Davenport, via Seneca, Kankakee and Indianapolis, making close connections with fast express trains to and from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Des Moines, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and intermediate points.

This constitutes a quick and short line between the Ohio River the Missouri and the upper Mississippi, with practically no change of cars, and no re-ticketing or re-checking of baggage.

This route ought to and undoubtedly will become immensely popular with travelers, as they will have the benefit not only of a journey through a beautiful country, but the privilege of riding over first class roads, in cars which have gained the reputation of being as comfortable and beautiful as any in the world.

* * *

We have recently been shown a very neatly bound and printed volumn, entitled: "The Progressive Ages, or Triumphs of Science, and Treasures of Nature, History and Literature, by Prof. H. L. Harvey." Published by J. A. Ruth & Co., Chicago and Philadelphia. The work is finely and profusely illustrated, and contains 488 royal quarto pages, fairly glistening with the rarest jewels of natural history and science, embracing scenic descriptions of the surpassing grandeur and sublimity of portions of our western country, its great plains, awe-inspiring waterfalls and remarkable subterranean caverns, together with an authentic account of the Antarctic and Polar regions, with a spice of variety including "Sporting in the Tropics."

There is also valuable scientific knowledge contained in the subject of "Alchemy and Chemistry," while "More Than One Universe" abounds in radiant astronomical truths regarding the rapidity of the motions of light,—Alcyone, the Sun King, around which all the heavens revolve. The meteoric aerolites, and wanderers through space are not forgotten, but are unerringly traced in their mad flight through the ether blue.

"Ocean Waves," the wonders of the trackless deep, "Sounds and Silence," earth treasures and "precious stones" are themes possessing wonderful and fascinating interest.

An adequate description is given of important historical events. "Ancient Ruins," "The Temple of the Sun," and the culture and manufacture of our best known and most essential natural products.

The chapter, "Natures Teachings," is replete with rich and useful information, affording a subject for deep and earnest thought, while the life sketches of our noted scientists, inventors and masters of art, inspire within the reader's mind a desire to cultivate, even though in a small degree, the talents with which God has endowed him.

The author has not only adapted his work to every thinking, intelligent mind, but has woven around the whole that felicitious and pleasing style of language that never fails to fascinate the young mind. But it is impossible for us to fully delineate the beauties of this charming volume. We advise all our readers to procure a copy. The agent is at work in our community, and we commend him to the courtesy and patronage of our people. We would like to see a copy of the work in every family.

Communication.

CENTERVILLE, MON. TER.
July 21st, 1882.

EDITOR COURIER.—Having delayed writing to you longer than I intended on account of pressing work I now hasten to give you a few more items concerning Montana, and will endeavor to confine myself to the general outlook of the country. In the first place a great many people have conceived irreoneous ideas about Montana. A great many think it too near the north pole to be pleasant. It is true that there are marked changes here in the mercury both winter and summer, yet it is not any more noticeable to persons who are acclimated here than the sudden changes in Indiana. The air here is pure and dry, and when mercury stands at 40 degrees below zero it does not seem as cold as 25 degrees in Indiana, where the air is saturated with dampness. During the summer season at times the mercury reaches 104 degrees, and has in several instances reached 110; but this never occurs except from the middle of July to the middle of August, while the rest of the season is about the same temperature as in Indiana. The nights are cool enough to require a good blanket cover to keep one comfortable, no matter how high the mercury rises during the day. This affords rest to the weary laborer, and a luxury that States people do not enjoy. There is but little rain here during the season. The rains for the summer fall almost entirely in June, and generally not much then. I don't think a healthier climate can be found than Montana affords. The principal business of the territory is stock raising, farming, mining and all kinds of mercantile traffic. Stock raising is probably the best paying business. I have met several old settlers who came here in 1862 to '65, and started with a single pair of cattle and a team, which they drove across the plains. They settled upon a ranch site and farmed enough to live on until markets were established. By that time their herds had increased so that their entire attention was turned to stock raising, and now their resources from sales of stock are thousands of dollars, and the hills are dotted with their herds. I know that it seems hard for Indiana people to believe that stock will live and do well out on the hills and valleys with no other substance than dried up grass, and the snow from one to three feet, yet they live and come out in the spring looking well. The native grass is called bunch grass. It resembles cheat that grows among wheat. This attains a hight of from two to three feet, and during the month of August is cures just like hay. This affords pasture stock in the winter, and graze where the snow blows away and leaves a great many acres bare. The particular advantage in stock raising is the pasture is free; all it costs is to spend a week twice a year on the general round-up. That is, all the stock raisers on a range go out in a company and gather all the stock together. These they corral each evening, and each man selects his brands with their increase. They then brand the young ones and turn them all out again. Stock buyers follow the round-up parties and buy all the stock that is for sale. When I say stock, I mean horses and cattle. Sheep are herded; and in connection with this, butter dairying is a profitible business. A man with twenty-five good milch cows and well fixed for butter making, will make from $1,000 to $1,500 per year, besides the increase. Butter here is always ready sale, and commands a price of from thirty cents to one dollar per pound. The average price is fifty cents the year around. Good milch cows are ready sale at from forty to fifty dollars each, and stock cattle from twenty-five to thirty-five per head on the range. Next to stock raising is farming. All the lands in the valleys have been surveyed and are for sale at $1.25 to $2.50 per acre, or subject to either the homestead premption or timber acts, but no land can be farmed in this country except by irrigation (a description of which I will give in a future letter); and there are thousands of acres of as fine farming land as a man ever saw, that never can be farmed until some artificial means of obtaining water is brought into use, as the mountain streams do not afford sufficient water for the valley lands, and in many cases the rivers cannot be utilized on account of the water being below the surface of the ground. But it is thought the time is not far distant when other modes of obtaining water will be brought into use such as constructing flumes along the river courses from a high point or by artesian wells, which can be obtined at a depth of from five hundred to two thousand feet. Farming is not confined entirely to valley lands, as some of the bench lands that lay a thousand feet higher than its connecting valley are able to produce as heavy a crop as the valley. These lands, when farmed, are irrigated from the mountain streams. These streams are formed from the snow on the mountains that is constantly melting. One of these streams will furnish water for from fifteen to twenty ranches. The crops consist in winter and spring wheat and oats. Barley is a successful crop, but few raise it; Why I do not know. The winter wheat is very fine and often yields 40 bushels per acre. The general average scarcely ever runs below 30 bushels. Spring wheat has a larger grain than winter wheat, and makes a shade whiter flour and makes larger yield per acre, and weighs about sixty-five pounds to the bushel measured when well matured, but is sometimes subject to frost in the fall before ripening as it is not harvested until September. Wheat in the fall and spring will net the farmer an average of two cents per pound. At this time of the season it will net two and a half. Oats is the chief crop, and will yield 60 bushel per acre, but the average crop is 40 bushels saved, as a great deal is wasted by shattering out. Sometimes one man will have a hundred or more acres that will be ready to cut at the same time. As it ripens fast a great deal of it will be too ripe before it can be cut. It is a sure crop and will net the farmer from two to two and a quarter per bushel in the fall and spring. At this time it is ready sale in the market at Helena, at three twenty-five per hundred. It may look like big figures to Indiana farmers to obtain from 74 cents to $1,22 per bushel for oats, but it is a fact just the same. The great demand for oats is largely due to the great number of overland freight lines, all over the territory. These companies are compelled to feed their mules the year around as they are in constant use, and no time to graze except at night. As no corn is raised here at all, oats is the only stock feed that is grown. Vegetables of allmost all kinds can be grown here with but little trouble. Potatoes are an immense crop. When planted late as the middle of June, they will yield as much as three hundred bushels per acre, and command a price of from two to two and a half per pound. Cabbage and cauliflower are raised in large quantities and command a price of from 4 to 5 cents per pound. The wages paid to farm hands is $40 to $50 per month and board. Agricultural implements range at the following prices, which may seem exorbitant, but they are paid here with less grumbling than the low prices in the states. Nothing is offered in the markets here but the best. Cheap goods don't find buyers: Self-binding harvesters, $400; 18 inch sulky plows, $90; wagons to carry 4500 pounds, $140; heavy draft horses and mules, $400 to $500 per span. In my next I will write you concerning mining, game and customs of the country. We are all enjoying the best of health and like the country splendid.

Respectfully Yours,
JAMES WANTZ.

The Oriole.

ITS SEPTEMBER FESTIVITIES IN BALTIMORE.
[From the Baltimore Sun.]

The order of the Oriole of Baltimore will hold a general meeting on Wednesday evening of this week, when plans that have been matured for the September pageant will be reported, together with plats, drawings and a descriptive outline of the entire procession, so as to show conclusively in advance the character of the work which the young men of the city propose to present this year. In 1881 the Oriole display was purely experimental, and owing to the inexperience of those who had the affair in charge the result was very far from being as brilliant or successful as had been anticipated, though money was not wanting to secure far different ends had it been properly applied. Since then, however, the Order of the Oriole has been organized on a basis somewhat similar to the Mardi Gras secret orders of New Orleans. A large and intelligent committee was sent to the Crescent City last March to witness the Mardi Gras procession, and a sub-committee penetrated the sanctum sanctorum of the most exclusive of the orders, and the veil was lifted for the first time to the gaze of non-residents. This initation of several energetic and intelligent young Baltimore business men furnished the key for the work which for the last three months has been steadily pursued in secret. In this work, too, the Order of the Oriole has been stimulated by an ambition to present results which will do no discredit to the New Orleans sponsors, who will be largely invited to the celebration and most royally entertained without cost. The pagent will have as the raison d'etre that it is for the celebration of the anniversary of the defense of Baltimore, the heroism of those who held Fort McHenry against the British fleet, and the birth of the "Star-Spangled Banner." In all the history of Baltimore, the city has never witnessed such a celebration of these events as this September will present under the auspices of this Order of the Oriole. In addition to this patriotic foundation buisness will be combined with sentiment and pleasure. The celebration will inaugurate the fall business season—a time of year when the weather and the city are usually at their brightest and best. Special invitations have been extended to the boards of trade of St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Mobile, New Orleans, Charleston, Savannah, Augusta, Atlanta, Galveston, Norfork, Richmond and Wilmington, N. C.—fourteen leading cities of the west, south and southwest. Some of these commercial bodies will be provided with special through cars to insure every comfort possible for long distance traveling, and for merchants and business men generally, who may be coming north at the opening of the season. Special inducements will be offered to stop in Baltimore, where there will be the certainty of unrivaled amusement for the time being. The celebration will last three days, covering the anniversary of the city's defense, September 12, and the two succeeding days. The programme will include a splendid military display, a royal day pageant incident to the reception of Cecilius, Lord of Baltimore, and a grand night pageant of brilliant tableaux, comprising a larger number of floats than has ever before been put on wheels in any city of America. There will also be a brilliant assemblage and a royal reception by card at the Academy of Music, where it is expected Rex and perhaps the beautiful Queen of the Carnival of New Orleans, the maids of honor and many of the royal dukes and dignitaries of the Mardi Gras festival last year will be guests of the ladies and gentlemen of Baltimore. It is very greatly desired by all the members of the Order of the Oriole to extend the utmost hospitality to dignitaries of the carnival from New Orleans in return for their kindness and consideration shown the ladies and gentlemen of Baltimore last spring, and the social aspect of the celebration will therefore be, no doubt, one of the brightest features.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

THE revenues of Mexico for the last fiscal year were $375,000,000.

WASHINGTON gossip accuses Eugene Hale of having the Presidential longing.

IT IS predicted that the corn crop of Texas will average 50 bushels to the acre.

THERE are 2,400 applications for office on file in the Interior Department at Washington.

THE sundry civil appropriation bill, as amended by the Senate of Congress, appropriates $25,764,000.

ALL the great Powers of Europe are gradually turning a cold shoulder to England's war policy in Egypt.

THE river and harbor fund has $4,500,000 remaining to its credit of unused appropriations from last year's bill.

IT is thought that General Wade Hampton will receive the Democratic nomination for Governor in South Carolina.

YELLOW fever has broken out at Matamoras, Mexico, and a panic is reported among the people of the lower Rio Grande region.

THE publication of the names of those who receive or apply for pensions is much and earnestly urged as an aid to pension reform.

SINCE 1879 the amount of revenue collected at Milwaukee for beer has increased from $300,000 to $879,754 last year, a gain of 250 per cent.

A CLEVELAND physician says that plumpness, milky whiteness of complexion, puffy eyelids and a swollen skin, are the marks of an arsenic eater.

A CONSPICUOUS increase is noted in the importation of foreign wares into this country. The entries for dry goods alone for July, at New York, foot up $11,370,000.

SINCE Alexander H. Stephens's nomination for Governor of Georgia, all opposition appears to have vanished, and it looks as if he would be elected without a contest.

JOHN R. POPHAM, of Richmond, Va., Superintendent of the folding-room of the House of Congress, has been arrested for securing $2,100 by forgery in a bankrupt case.

A PARTY of Chippewa Indians are in Washington for the purpose of concluding negotiations for the transfer of 3,200,000 acres of their lands, near Red Lake, Minn., to the Government.

AT a convention of brewers in Ohio it was shown that the capital invested in the business in that State is $12,000,000, which is considerable more than is invested in the colleges of the State.

RIVER and harbor appropriations are permanent, no portion thereof being subject to return to the Treasury, and it is safe to say that, sooner or later, every dollar so appropriated will be expended.

THE prohibitionists of Iowa, in State convention ask the Governor to call a special session of the Legislature to provide penalties for selling ale and beer and further legislation under the recent constitutional amendment.

Biglow, the receiving teller of the National Bank of the Republic, at Washington, and who absconded in June on account of a $25,000 deficit in his accounts, permitted himself to be arrested at Port Huron, Mich., Friday morning.

CHAIRMAN COOPER, of the regular Pennsylvania Republican committee, thinks the independent movement is losing strength, and predicts that Stewart will not receive as many votes as Armstrong, the labor candidate, to whom he concedes 3,000.

AT the new oil town, Garfield, in Pennsylvania, there is no water, and the supply required for human existence has to be brought from a spring some distance from town. It costs sixty cents a barrel, while oil is worth only fifty-six, and the water venders will not give a barrel of water for a barrel of oil.

THE Queen has sent a message to the British Parliament, calling out the military reserves. This step is deemed necessary by the war in Egypt. The call will no doubt receive the sanction of Parliament. The British Government apparently is just beginning to realize the grave character of the troubles in Egypt.

THE public debt statement shows a decrease during July of $13,860,027. Cash in the Treasury, $241,098,031; gold certificates, $5,017,940; silver certificates, $67,119,210; certificates of deposit, $12,780,000; refunding certificates, $452,750; legal tenders, 346,781,016; fractional currency, $7,046,469.

THE indications are that the knit goods tariff amendment, or, rather, correction, will not pass at this session of Congress, and the wearers of such goods will still have the privilege of buying them at the same old price, if the American manufacturers stay in the market and prevent a foreign monopoly by domestic competition.

NINE Judges of the Federal, State and County Courts at Chicago, including Judges Blodgett and Drummond, of the United States Court, and Dickey, of the Illinois Supreme Bench, have united in assuring George Scoville that he has special claims upon Congress for compensation for his services in defending Guiteau.

THE discovery has been made that eight oleomargarine factories are running at night in the lower part of New York city, where butter and fat are mixed and sent West in tubs marked "Pure Orange County Butter." It is alleged that the resulting mixture sells better than the unalloyed, and presents a more attractive appearance.

LEOPOLD, King of Belgium, is plaintiff in a suit pending in the Massachusetts Supreme Court. Leon Barnard, a Belgian, fled with $1,700,000 belonging to the King, and Leopold has sued for an injunction to restrain the Union Safe Deposit Company, of Boston, from permitting Barnard to remove certain deposits made by him upon his arrival in this country.

THE Commissioner of Internal Revenue has submitted a report which shows that the internal revenue taxes collected during the last fiscal year aggregated $146,520,273; and for the last 6 years $748,331,100. The expense of collecting these taxes was 6 3-6 per cent. No defalcation has taken place during these six years, and the illicit manfacture and sale of spirits and tobacco has been entirely broken up. No department on earth can make so good a showing.

THE new national bank notes to be issued by the national banks that have had their charters extended are now being printed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Their backs are printed with brown ink instead of the usual green ink. They will be known as brown backs, which will indicate money issued by banks whose original character has expired and been extended. In every other respect they are like the ordinary national note.

THE New York Sun says: "Most army officers will swear when they are excited. Ganeral Scott used to swear; General Sheridan will put in an oath now and then to give emphasis to his ideas; General Sherman can make the air lurid with his cursing; not so General Grant; we have been with him in some of the most trying circumstances of his military career, and can testify that no cause of anxiety or of anger has ever drawn any sort of an oath from his lips.

THE new postal money order system promises to be a measure of real convenience to the public. Orders for a sum less than $5 will cost three cents, and the service is extended so as to raise the limit of orders from $50 to $100. Further, persons will not be required to fill out a blank, as at present, for an order, but will receive an order payable to the bearer at the money-order office designated by the applicant. The new notes are to be handsomely engraved, and in appearance will not be unlike bank notes.

THE vote of the House of Congress, giving a month's extra pay to its already well-paid employes is universally condemned, but when the sum thus expended is recouped by cutting down, and crippling, the Signal Service, which is proving itself so valuable to commerce and agriculture, and the National Board of Health, which should be sustained and strengthened as a public benefactor, the condemnation blazes into hot indignation. Few voices are raised anywere in defense of this most unwise and unjust use of the people's money

THE Boston Herald gives some flagrant instances of office brokerage in Washington, among which is the following: "The other case is that of a beautiful woman, a native of Savannah, Ga., the daughter of a once wealthy and respected cotton merchant, who was disgraced and ruined by the licentiousness of his wife. The daughter married a gentleman in New York, but soon followed her mother into forbidden paths. She became the mistress of a man in public life who still has power to keep in office three persons who pay monthly tribute to this courtesan. Those who know these facts do not expose them to the Government officials, because to do so would result in the dimissal of poor women, whose whole livlihood depends upon retaining their hard-won places."

THE NEWS

Home Items.

The city directory of Minneapolis contains 28,928 names.

DESTRUCTIVE forest fires are raging again in Northwestern Michigan.

Charles H. Reed has a bill of $5,000 against the government for defending Guiteau.

Orin Hickok purchased the pacing mare Lucy at the Cleveland track for $6,000.

The Reformed Roman Catholics, under the direction of Bishop McNamara, are holding a camp-meeting at Highlands, N. J.

The validity of the State tax upon railroads has been affirmed by the Supreme Court of Maine.

The amount of butter at present in cold storage in New York is estimated at nearly 126,000 packages.

A vein of coal six feet in thickness was discovered at Niantic, Macon county, Ill., at a depth of 400 feet.

James Hogan, the tramp who murdered Marshal Snodgrass, of Crestline, Ohio, was sentenced to the penitentiary for life.

Commissioner Raum reports the entire collections of internal revenue taxes for the past fiscal year amounted to $146,520,278.

A determined effort is being put forth in New York to eliminate the pool-rooms. The police evidently mean business.

Two shipments of 50,000 bushels each of wheat were made Tuesday from Clebourne, Texas, to Florence (Italy) and Liverpool.

Up to the present month emigration from Germany to the United States has decreased 10,000, as compared with the same period last year.

A blacksmith of Nantucket buys the livers of all sharks caught there, and makes them into cod liver oil. One liver yields three gallons of oil.

The ten mile equestrian race at Milwaukee between the Misses Burke and Williams, for a purse of $1,000, was won by the latter. Time, 21:43¼.

The seconds who assisted in the recent duel in Virginia, wherein Addison was killed by Garland, have been arrested as accessories to the murder.

The colored voters of Newport, R. I., are very much dissatisfied because some of their race were not appointed as letter-carriers in recent vacancies.

Aaron C. Burr, the adopted son o Aaron Burr, died in New York City Monday, aged 74. He was the son of a French Count, and was born in Paris.

The State Committee of the Independent Republicans of Pennsylvania have formarlly rejected the propositions for harmony proposed by the Stalwarts.

Mrs. Mary Reading, of Chicago, was arrested on Saturday night, with five girls, who live with her on Newburg avenue, and whom she uses as shoplifters.

Heavy rains have subdued the Michigan forest fires. Three bears and six cubs, driven out of the woods by the flames, were seen near East Tawas, Tuesday.

The bronze doors of the Capitol at Washington, are being defaced by vandals who chip off projections as souvenirs, in spite of the watch kept upon them.

In the village of Westwood, Antrim county, Mich., containing but thirty families, there are seventeen cases of small-pox. The place is thoroughly quarantined.

There were several deaths from yellow fever at Brownsville, Tex., and Matamoras, Mex., Sunday, and surrounding towns have established a strict quarantine.

Martin Becket, who was in jail at Hampton Court House, Del., for criminally assaulting a 12 year-old white girl, was taken thence by a mob Tuesday night and lynched.

The Forty-fourth Congress sat until late in August, 1876. With that exception the present Congress has remained in continuous session longer than any one since the war.

Minnie Brooks, of Chicago, who last winter experienced religion, and turned her brothel into a mission, being deeply in earnest in an attempt to reform, has fallen back into a criminal life.

The House passed the River and Harbor bill over the President's veto by a vote of 123 to 66. The Senate also passed it over the veto—41 ayes to 16 nays.

Indians attacked a wagon team near Clifton, N. M., Tuesday morning and killed two of the teamsters. The teamsters captured a wounded Indian, scalped him, and then roasted him alive.

Three American prospectors were found dead in the Sonora Valley, Mexico. It is believed they were murdered by the natives, who, however, charge the Apaches with the crime.

The Indianapolis and St. Louis Railroad has been sold to the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis Company for $1,396,000. This second mortgage bondholders well contest the sale.

A waterspout at Millersburg, Holmes county, O., occasioned great destruction of property. Live stock was drowned, hay and harvested crops ruined, and bridges and culverts all washed away.

The forest fires in Iosco county, Mich., are burning up fences, orchards, crops, and cedar and pine timber. Live stock, in some instances, have succumbed to the flames, and farmers are deserting their homesteads.

On Aug. 31, 1865, the National debt was $78.25 per capita of our population. It is now $31.72 per capita. The annual interest charge on the National debt in 1865 was $4.29 per capita. It now is $1.09 per capita.

George K. Proctor, a prominent citizen of Salem, Mass., recently deceased, was about to be interred Monday, but the medical examiner stopped the ceremonies, having discovered a mysterious bullet-hole in the back of the dead man's skull.

Hettie Engley, of Providence, R. I., who has lived with Dr. Wilson for some time as his wife, sues him now for $50,000 for breach of promise; and Miss Engley's father enters suit for another $50,000, alleging the seduction of his daughter.

Becky Crone, a young woman of malodorous reputation, was found dead near Wabash, Ind., near the grounds where Forepaugh's circus exhibited the day before. Morphine, whisky, and abuse by the canvasmen caused her death.

Mont Robbins, whose father, ex-Congressman William Robbins, was assaulted by L. Mott, at Statesville, N. C., on account of a bitter political speech, went to Iredell county, where Mott lived and killed Mott for the attack on his father.

Edith Kelly, a well-known young lady of Greensburg, Pa., went out walking with a man named Thomas Biggert Saturday evening, and, not returning at a seasonable hour, a search was instituted, and at 2 o'clock Sunday morning she was found dying in the man's arms.

Commodore Shufeldt claims full authorship for the Corean treaty, and states the Corean convention with America opened that country to Chicago also. The agreement with America will be the basis upon which other governments may enter into commercial relations with Corea.

It has just beenannounced that Geo. F. Doughty, lately deceased, while Secretary of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railroad Company, made a fraudulent over-issue of $400,000 worth of the stock. President Cook makes an official statement of the affair to the stockholders

Near South Bend, Ind., Tuesday morning, two Lake Shore freight trains came in collision, both being completely wrecked and then consumed by fire. It is stated seven tramps were burned to death. The two engineers were rescued from the blazing pile, badly injured, the arm of one of the men being parboiled by steam.

Hecker & Co.'s flour mills, 205 to 207 Cherry street, New York; also the mill of Sanger, Beers & Fisher, together with a number of tenements, were destroyed by fire Monday morning. The employes and dwellers in the tenements were compelled to run for their lives. Two firemen were injured by falling walls. The loss will exceed $1,000,000.

The father of Miss Bond, the young school teacher so foully outraged recently at Taylorsville, Illinois, says he has positive evidence that Pettis Clements and John and William Montgomery, are the guilty parties. He says, further, that he will connect Dr. Vermillion with the affair. The girl is still in a critical condition, and her recovery is hardly hoped for.

Dr. F. L. Dord, of Plano, Ill., was decoyed from his house about midnight recently, under pretense that a patient in the country needed his presence. Two miles from home he was held up and robbed of his watch and thirty-five cents in money. He was then tied to a fence, and the robbers drove off with his buggy. On releasing himself and walking home he found his horse hitched to a neighbor's fence.

The members of the German Lutheran church at Oshkosh, Wis., have been in a turmoil for a week or ten days over the question of predestination, and havedivided into two factions, the minority being led by the pastor. Pugilistic encounters have been frequent, and four persons have become insane through the excitement. Saturday the majority party served an injunction on the pastor and his adherents to restrain them from occupying the church Sunday, and they were compelled to hold services in the school house, while the anti-predestinationists occupied the sacred edifice. A rancorous feeling exists, and the courts will ultimately be called on to settle the question.

An outbrake among the Creeks in the Indian Territory, bordering on civil war, has occurred. The two factions are the Chicota and the Sands. Captain Scott, of the Chicota military service, and several followers, were killed lately by the Sands party. Chief Chiota thereupon ordered all able-bodied men of the nation to turn out and capture the murderers; all responded, and are seeking the Sands rendezvous in the interior, near Eufuala. Reports of the result may come to-day or to-morrow. During the rebellion the Sands were loyal, the Chicotas were confederates.

Foreign.

America was largely represented at the performance of "Parsifal" at Bayreuth.

Archbishop Croke addressed a meeting in Tipperary, and advised his countrymen not to immigrate.

The son of the Russian Consul in Roumania has been arrested at Odessa, for supplying dynamite to the Nihilists.

The weather in Ireland has considerably improved lately, and in most parts of the country there will be a bountiful potato crop.

A large meeting in the Alhambra Theater at Madrid resolved that the naval forces of the country should be increased and strengthened.

The London Times sarcastically criticises the action of the Canadian Parliament for its address to the Queen to grant home rule to Ireland.

Judge Fitzgerald, a Baron of the Irish Exchequer, has resigned because of objection to the duties imposed on him by the repression bill.

Fifty houses on Krestovsky Island were consumed by fire. This island is on the Neva, and one of those on which St. Petersburg is built.

Parnell has sent urgent messages to the Irish members of the Commons to be on hand to oppose the Lord's amendment to the arrears of rent bill.

A Dublin detective does not place trust in the story of O'Brien, arrested in Venezuela, who charges himself with complicity in the Phoenix Park murders.

Anna Parnell is dangerously ill with brain fever, superinduced by the sudden death of her sister Fanny. The physicians are not sanguine of her recovery.

The London Times says the wheat crop of England will be no better than for the past five years. Oats will show a good yield, but barley will be less than the average.

The Italian Government has authorized the embalming of the remains of the late Minister Marsh, after which they will lie in state at the Foresters' Institute at Vallambrosa.

Engineer Melville and Seamen Neros and Ninderman, of the Jeannette's crew, have arrived at Tobolsk. They believe that Lieutenant Chipp and companions perished in a snow storm.

Westgate, alias O'Brien, who charges himself with being one of the Phoenix Park assassins, is a Scotchman; and it is positively known that he was not in Ireland at the time the tragedy occurred.

The Bishop of Lincoln (Church of England) authorizes the statement that the report that he has violently denounced the temperance pledge as a deadly blasphemous evil is "merely another revival of a mixture of lies and garbled truth."

THE STATE.

Bourbon Bitters is the name of a new paper issued last week at Bourbon.

Mrs. Amanda Clark, a wealthy old lady of Muncie, who preferred to live alone, was found dead in her house.

The Peru manufacturing company has closed its doors. The company employed about eighty hands, and was engaged in the manufacture of sewing-machine wood-work.

The biggest yield of wheat in Vanderburg county is said to be that of Mr. Thos. N. Thomas, who raised 1,087 bushels on thirty acres, making an average of a little over 34¼ bushels to the acre.

The United Brethren of Reedsville, have just finished their new church and on Saturday mounted an 800 pound bell of superior quality. The building will accommodate 500 people and cost $1,500. Uncle George Muth, age eighty-three, is pastor, a regular old father in Israel.

On Saturday, near Goshen, a three-year old son of Joseph Weaver followed some of the older children to a field without their knowledge. They had to pass through a gate with a broken hinge, and when returning found the child pinned down by the gate, and dead.

The one-year old child of Joseph Kopp, of Shelbyville, climed up by a wash tub on which was fastened a clothes wringer. By some means it got the fingers of one hand betwee the rollers, and turned the crank with the other, mashing the fingers so badly that two of them may have to be amputated.

On the farm of Alfred Johnson, four miles west of Washington, one acre of wheat in a forty acre field was thrashed for the purpose of estimating the number of bushels in the field. This acre turned off forty-four bushels, no doubt the largest yield per acre in the State. The wheat was not picked, but taken in a manner to make a fair estimate.

The Princeton Clarion says that Charles Orr, living near town, has probably the most extensive plum orchard in southern Indiana, and cultivates a quality of fruit that is always in great demand. He has been cultivating these plums for over forty years, having brought the seed with him from South Carolina. He now has more than 1,000 trees in the orchard, and he estimates his crop this year at from 3,000 to 4,000 gallons. The usual price for these plums is 30 cents per gallon.

About two weeks ago Harry Whallen, son of John Whallen, of New Albany, aged eleven years, complained of a very sore neck. It became badly inflamed from under the left ear, around past the median line. Several physicians made an examination of the case, one pronouncing it cancer, another tumor, and a third said he could not tell. Applications of poultices were placed upon the neck, and it developed pus and opened. While the mother was dressing the sore she detected a foreign substance in the flesh, and drew forth a beard of wheat three inches long, and with eight heads of wheat upon it. How this came to be in the flesh is a mystery, as the family has no recollection of his swallowing the wheat.

THE Treasurer of Huntington county recently sold $46,000 worth of gravel road bonds to William Fleming for $47,650.

AN immense blackberry crop i Jennings county makes the luscious fruit a drug in the market at three cents a quart.

For a mistake in a lawsuit, impugning the honor of the firm of Craft & Co., two libel suits have been entered against the proprietors of the Indianapolis Journal for $20,000 each.

A WRITER in the Indianapolis Journal, comparing the statistics of pauper expenses in the State, shows that the Cass county poor asylumn costs more than any other in the State except that of Marion county, and more than half as much as that populous and pauper ridden center of our commonwealth.

The Indiana stock law gives county commissioners power to say what stock shall run at large. The commissioners of Jackson county have ordered that no stock at all shall run at large. Many owners of stock which has been creating depredations are full of wrath, and swear vengeance on the commissioners.

St. John, N. B., dispatch:

Miss Maggie Chestnut and a little daughter of Mrs. John Babbitt, while in the river, got beyond their depth. Mrs. Babbitt rushed to save them, and succeeded in rescuing her child. She returned for Miss Chestnut, when both were drowned.

TABLE TALK.

California cherries are thrice the size of ours.

Atlanta has been flooded with bogus silver coin.

Blue pond lilies are now "the rage" at Newport.

A Frenchman is raising mushrooms in Mammoth cave.

The state of Kansas is exactly twice the size of Scotland.

Pedestrian Weston is temperance lecturing in England.

Mayor Grace, of New York, will be a candidate for re-election.

No society man wears boots nowadays except to go fishing in.

Daniel M. Thing is one of the candidates for congress in Maine.

The wool clip in Texas this year will bring flock masters $7,500,000.

Anthracite coal of good quality has been found in Washington territory.

The New York Herald is getting $200,000 worth of new printing presses.

A rich guano bed eight feet thick, is found in Hillsborough county, Florida.

The capacity of the ice houses along the Hudson is more than 1,000,000 tons.

The largest brush-handle factory in the world is at Keene, New Hampshire.

Ex-Governor Tilden's morning exercise on horseback always lasts just one hour.

The mayor of Kansas City issues permits to carry concealed weapons at $2 each.

More snow fell in eastern Maine in May than during all the winter months.

The four officers of the Austrain army highest in command in Russia are Irishmen.

A scamp abroad is selling confederate money to thoughtless immigrants embarking for America.

They seriously think out in Iowa that they can turn aside a tornado by firing a cannon ball at it.

A Frenchman and his wife made a tour of 2,000 miles on a tricycle, doing about fifty-five miles a day.

Miss Fox, who sues Mr. Low, of New Orleans, for breaking his promise to marry her, places the damage at one dollar.

Mrs. Langtry is to receive $500 a night, and all expenses of herself and maid, for one hundred nights in America.

One hundred acres of potatoes brought a Sumner county, Tennessee, farmer $10,000. He has planted a second crop.

It isn't that a man means to lie about snakes, but when one two feet long comes at him it looks as big as a fire-engine hose.

Eternal fitness was never more appropriately dove-tailed in than in the euphonious name of the German pianist Hammersitt.

For forty years Captain A. W. Calden has sailed between Boston and Nahant, making during the season a voyage of fifty-six miles per day.

Adam Forepaugh says he will at the end of the present season present his big elephant Bolivar to the Queen of England, to take the place of Jumbo.

Mr. George L. Seney has given the Wesleyan Female College, Georgia, another check for $25,000, making his gifts to this college aggregate $125,000.

General Bate, the debt compromise Democratic candidate for Governor of Tennessee, was once a cabin boy on a Mississippi steamboat.

Miss Effie Stowell, a daughter of the mayor of Milwaukee, is lying seriously ill. A peculiar feature of her ailment is a triple perception of all objects.

A brother and sister who had been separated thirty years and lost all track of each other, were reunited accidentally last week near Lincoln, Neb.

The average salary of the ministers in the New York east conference last year was $1,163, but the average salary of the Mississippi conference ministers was only $400.

You are as full of airs as a music-box, is what a young man said to a girl who refused to let him see her home. That may be, was the reply, but I don't go with a crank.

A Dublin medical student sought to bribe a London doctor to go to Dublin, and, under a disguise, pass the examination which he himself felt incompetent to undergo.

A Boston school teacher is charged with saying to his graduating class: "Young ladies, if Providence plants you upon a barren rock, grow into it, and extract the honey from it."

Ex-Rev. W. H. H. Murray ("Adirondack") lectured to a crowded house at San Antonio, Texas, last Sunday evening a week ago. He writes to his friends, "that he is walking upright before God."

A chicken at Americus, Ga., swallowed a piece of wire umbrella rib seven inches in length. It was extracted from its crop by making a small incision, and the fowl soon recovered.

The new trade mark treaty with Spain makes it a criminal offense to counterfeit the brands of Havana cigars. It will therefore soon be impracticable to buy choice Havanas at five for a quarter.

General O. O. Howard superintendent of the United States Military Academy, West Point, which position he is about to relinquish, continues his good moral and religious teachings to the cadets, the regulars and the religious people in the vicinity. Sunday nights he preaches in the Soldiers' Chapel, and never uninterestingly.

It is estimated that one English ironclad would walk her way into New York harbor without firing over a dozen shots, and those would be fired simply to scare the hackmen away from her intended landing place.

A Polish woman, a fresh importation, told a Milwaukee directory canvasser her name was "Sullwan." He asked her to spell it. She couldn't; but brought him an envelope directed to her. It was "Mrs. Czalawzcyancz."

Along the southern base of of Schooley's mountain, New Jersey, is an intermittent spring, whose waters flow only when the wind is in a certain quarter. It was visited by the Indians, among whom it was celebrated for its medicinal properties.

FROM THE WIRES.

War in Egypt.

London, July 28.—An unconfirmed report has been received that Arabi Pasha has proposed terms of peace, the conditions being voluntary exile and the retention of the rank and pay of a colonel for himself and nine of his colleagues. It is added that the Khedive had submitted the proposals to General Alison. It is believed that this step has been taken at the instigation of the Sultan. The report has caused a rise in Egyptian stocks.

A dispatch from Alexandria states that there will be no cessation of military preparations, as it is thought the offer may be only to gain time.

London, July 28.—A dispatch from Alexandria says: "Arabi Pasha offers to retire to a Mussulman monastery in Syria. Among his colleagues, for whom he asks the same terms are Toulba Pasha, Ali Fehey, Abdullah Pasha and Mahmoud."

The same telegram states that an armed engine was dispatched by the British to meet Raouf Pasha and two Ulemas, who came to discuss this proposal.

London, July 28.—The House Commons last evening agreed to the supplementary vote for 10,000 men for the army.

Gladstone, before the vote of credit was taken in the House of Commons last evening, said nothing had happened to affect the duty of the Government to press the vote in connection with the acceptance by the Porte of intervention in Egypt.

Alexandria, July 28.—The bombardment of Aboukir has been postponed.

12:45 p. m.—The sound of heavy firing is heard in the direction of Aboukir fort.

Arabi Pasha yesterday sent a train to the Junction, and an armed engine and tender were sent out to meet it. A few shots were exchanged.

Alexandria, July 28.—Lord Charles Beresford states that without the assistance of the American marines, he would have been unable to discharge the numerous duties of suppressing fires and preventing looting, burying dead and clearing streets.

A loyal native, just arrived from Cairo, states that a number of natives dressed in European clothes and wearing helmets, had been paraded through the streets as captured British.

Constantinople, July 28.—The rumors that Arabi Pasha has declared that he would resist the Turkish forces is untrue. He has renewed his assurances of fidelity to the Sultan.

At a meeting of the conference yesterday, Lord Dufferin, the British Ambassador, renewed his proposal for the issue of a proclamation declaring Arabi Pasha a rebel. Said Pasha, the Turkish Prime Minister, thought that such a proclamation should not be issued until Turkish troops landed in Egypt.

Alexandria, July 28.—Persons competent to judge believe that half the cotton crop of Egypt will be lost, and also the greater part of the wheat crop of Lower Egypt, in consequence of neglected irrigation.

Paris, July 29.—The Cabinet maintains its demand upon the Chamber for a credit for the protection of the Suez canal.

In the Chamber of Deputies De Freycinet, in proposing the second vote of credit, declared that it was a question of confidence in the Cabinet.

The Deputies rejected the credit demanded by the Government by a vote of 459 to 75.

Alexandria, July 29.—Osman Pasha, Rifki, and twenty-six Circassian officers, implicated in the recent plot to assassinate Arabi Pasha, arrived to-day from Constantinople, having been summoned by telegraph by the Khedive. They were received with great cermony.

London, July 29.—General Sir Garnet Wolseley is seriously indisposed.

The Duke of Westminister was married to Lady Catharine Cavendish today.

Alexandria, July 29.—The fort at Gabari was destroyed this morning. The large powder magazine at Mekherren, from which it was said Arabi Pasha had recently taken stores, has been blown up by the British.

Admiral Seymour will reconnoiter the Aboukir forts to-morrow. There appears some doubt as to whether a bombardment of the forts will take place, because it is supposed that the prisoners held by the Egyptian are confined there.

Constantinople, July 29.—Mouhktar Pasha has made arrangements which will enable the Porte to dispatch 20,000 men to Egypt in successive detachments.

The German representative was instructed yesterday from Berlin to recommend the Sultan to issue a proclamation declaring Arabi Pasha a rebel, as demanded by England.

Alexandria, July 31.—An unconfirmed report prevails that the garrison of Aboukir has surrendered to the British.

Midshipman DeChair, of the ironclad Alexandria, who was sent to Ramleh on Saturday morning with a message, has not since been heard of.

Later—It seems that Midshipman DeChair stepped beyond his lines and was taken prisoner.

Alexandria, July 31.—Arabi Pasha is still parleying with the Khedive. The latter has intimated that no terms would be acceptable except unconditional.

Arabi Pasha's whole family is located in a village a few miles from Ismalia.

A traveler just arrived from Sioutt reports that Arabi Pasha has issued a manifesto declaring that the Khedive Tewfik has sold Egypt to the British and retired to England. Arabi has therefore ordered the people to obey him until the Prophet enlightened him to find a worthier Khedive.

Six Mudirs of Upper Egypt have been ordered to supply 500 horses and 650 camels to the army of Arabi Pasha. Murders are constantly occurring in the railway trains. Mobs search every train for Christians.

The German Consul General will depart on leave of absence to-morrow. There now only remain the French, Italian and English diplomatic agents at Alexandria.

Detachments have landed at Ismaila from English and French men-of-war.

The Commander of the German gunboat Moewe, at Port Said, has been instructed on no account to land troops, but, if necessary, to take the German subjects aboard his vessel.

Constantinople, July 31.—Lord Dufferin says the Porte, by its inactivity, has compelled England to assume alone the task of restoring order in Egypt, but England will accept Turkish co-operation provided the Porte makes an unambiguous declaration of its intentions.

Berlin, August 1.—The refusal of Italy to co-operate with England in putting down Arabi Pasha may be taken as representing the attitude of Germany and Austria. High authorities at Berlin assert that Russia is about to quit her passive attitude in favor of one directly hostile to British pretensions in Egypt.

London, August 1.—The Times says: "The time has gone by when Turkey could be allowed to take the whole matter into her own hand. If Turkey goes to Egypt she must not go as an ally, but as a subordinate of England."

Alexandria, August 1.—The state of the town is causing serious disquietude. Many of the natives who remained are incendiaries, and a majority of those who returned are looters, looking after their concealed plunder. It is impossible to mistake the bitterly hostile attitude of that class and of the native police.

Fears in regard to the failure of the water supply have subsided.

The number of Christians murdered at Damanhour, Tantah and Mihalla is estimated at 550.

The Khedive has dispatched a native emissary to the camp of Arabi Pasha for the purpose of procuring the release of Midshipman De Chair.

Constantinople, August 1.—According to intelligence received from diplomatic sources, the action of Russia is due to the personal initiative of the Czar Alexandria, who is dissatisfied with the independent attitude of England, and Gladstone's repeated declaration that England, under certain circumstances, would undertake the task of restoring order in Egypt.

Manchester, Eng., August 1.—The London correspondent of the Guardian says he understands that if the Turkish expedition starts without the Sultan previously complying with the conditions demanded by England, Admiral Seymour will be ordered to conduct it back again.

Alexandria, August 2.

It is reported that Arabi Pasha had ordered the houses of obnoxious natives in Cairo to be burned.

Nineteen natives who refused to recognize the authority of Arabi Pasha have been shot at Cairo.

Buying an Overcoat in Detroit.

Detroit Free Press.

Yesterday morning a tall young man of twenty landed at the Union Depot with a bundle under his arm, and after three or four minutes spent in getting his bearings, he walked up Jefferson avenue and turned into a clothing store.

"Do you wish to try on some coats and wests for a dollar?" asked the proprietor, as he rushed from behind the counter.

"No, I guess not. Do you deal on the square?"

"My frent, dot is exactly vhat I does. I vas so square dot I loss $8,000 last year. Can I sell you an overcoat for ten dollar?"

"No, I guess not. Here is an overcoat that I bought of you four weeks ago."

"Bought of me?"

"Yes, I think you are the man. When I got it home we found that it was moth-eaten. I can pick it to pieces in a dozen places."

"Is dot possible? Und how much you pay?"

"Eight dollars."

"My shtars! Und what you vaut now?"

"I want my money back."

"Vhell—vhell. My frent, I am sorry for you. You seem like an honest poy, and it vhas too bad!"

"Yes, it was a swindle, and I want my money back."

"Dear me, but I vish you vhas here yesterday. Let me explain to you. You bought dot coat four veeks ago!"

"Yes, four weeks ago to-day."

"Vhell, I had sold oudt to my cousin hill p shust one day before. Philip is not a square man."

"What have I got to do with Philip?"

"Let me explain. In dree days Philip makes assignment to my brudder Louis. Dot Louis is a leedle off. He would sheat your eye teeth away from you."

"Yes, but I haven't anything to do with Louis."

"Let me explain. Louis kept der blace a week, und he gif a shattel mortgage to my fadder-law, und was pounced out."

"I don't know anything about that?"

"Let me explain. My fadder-law was took mit a fit and died, and he leaf dis blace to my wife. My wife was gone to Europe for two years, and she leaf me as agent. Now you see how it vhas. I gan not tell you who sold dot coat. May be it vhas Philip, may be Louis, may be my fadder-law. It couldn't haf been me, for I vhas in Shicago. If you leaf dot coat I will write to my wife. She is square, shust like me, and may be writes back dot you can take a linen duster and two white vests and call it all right."

"Say, this is a sneaking swindle," exclaimed the young man.

"May be it vhas. Philip vhas a great liar."

"I'll go to the police."

"Vhell, dot is all right; may be der police vhill help me catch Louis. I shust found oudt last night dot he cut all der blind buttons off all der coats in der store before he left."

"If you'll step outdoors I'll mash you!"

"Vhell, I like to oblige you, but you see I vhas only agent for my wife."

"Well, you'll hear from me again, and don't you forget it!" said the victim as he walked out.

"I hope so—I hope so. I like to make it right. I vhas only agent for my wife, but I feel so square dot I take dot coat back for $3 if you vhant to trade it out in paper collars.

Reform in Titles.

Texas Siftings.

The American habit of calling Tom, Dick and Harry Judge, Colonel or Major has frequently been the subject of adverse criticism. It is, indeed, a very absurd habit to apply titles indiscriminately; and it is surprising that no reforms in this direction have ever been suggested. In European countries nobody is called by a military title unless he has something to do with the Army or Navy, but with us the man who may never have had any connection or relation of any kind with the Army is more apt to be dubbed General than anybody else.

How would it do to give men titles derived from their trade or profession? For instance, the Pope of Rome is called "Your Holiness." Here we have a starting point. Instead of calling a lawyer Colonel or Major, would it not sound better to address him as "Your Impudence," or "Your Disputatiousness." A landlord might be addressed as, "Your Suavity," or "Your Obsequiousness." When you meet a doctor, you could take off your hat and say, "Good morning, Your Ignorance," or "How does Your Healthfulness reel today," as was most appropriate to the individual. The title could always be varied to suit the peculiarities of the individual. Some clergymen who are given to banging the Bible might be addressed as "Your Extreme Violence," others as "Your Drowsiness," or "Your Sonorousness."

The same rule might apply to the different trades. It sounds ridiculous to address a milkman as Colonel, or a butcher as Captain, or a man who sells butter as Professor. If our idea is carried out, we shall hear such talk as, "What has Your Chalkiness been doing to the milk?" or "How much does Your Fertility ask for beets this morning?" In speaking to a tanner, referring to hides, he might be called "Your Hideousness."

We merely throw out the crude idea for what it is worth. We do not propose to elaborate it at all. We only propose to furnish the corner-stone. Those who desire to can build the edifice.

A Case of Double Sight.

From the Des Moines Register.

In Vermont, Ill., week before last, occurred the death of Mrs. Emma Enochs, wife of Thomas B. Enochs. The circumstances connected with her death are strange indeed. On the 29th ultimo she gave birth to a child, but some months before the birth of the child she had a presentiment that she would not survive it, and so firmly was this fixed upon her mind that she made arrangements for her funeral, making her choice of the minister to perform the burial service, and asked that some of her early companions should sing. When the child was born she gave evidence of recovery, and when the physician visited her he found her laughing and joyous and hopeful. He left her, expecting that she had passed the most critical period. In about three hours after the physician had left her she cried out, and her brother ran to her. She clasped him around the neck, told him she was dying, and in a few moments had expired.

On the same morning of the day of her death, her mother, who resided in Lewiston, Ill., some distance from Vermont, arose early, and stated that she felt like some calamity was impending. The family laughed at her, and thought nothing of it, but before the day was done she received a telegram announcing her daughter's death. What is still more strange, on the morning afterward several gentlemen, relatives of the deceased, were talking together, all ignorant of her death. Their number was joined by another gentleman, who asked after her health and that of her parents, and remarked upon the fact that he was present at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Enochs, but while they were talking the telegram was received announcing her death.

Romance of the Egyptian Question

A highly romantic explanation of the Egyptian question has been arranged by a lady correspondent in Alexandria. Early in his career, it appears, the amiable Dictator Arabi loved and wooed a dark Egyptian maid, the daughter of a fellah. Ismail, the ungodly ex-kehdive, however, also took a fancy for the lady, and being all-powerful, as well as unscrupulous, had her carried off to his harem. To pacify the luckless Arabi, thus cruelly cheated of his inamorata, he raised him to the dignity of a bey. But Arabi never forgave the injury, and from that moment vowed dire vengence against Ismail and all his family. And now you have the key to the Egyptian mystery.

The mind profits by the wreck of every passion, and we may measure our road to wisdom by the sorrows we have undergone.

PRINCIPALLY PERSONAL.

Theodore Tilton attended the recent prize fight in New York.

Jefferson Davis attends the Methodist camp meetings in Southern Mississippi.

Mr. Gladstone has of late been very closely guarded, even at church being attended by two policemen.

Oscar Wilde pronounced Miss Alsatia Allen, of Montgomery, Ala., the most beautiful young lady he had seen in the United States.

Rev. Mr. Taylor, a Presbyterian minister, is making the journey from St. Augustine, Fla., to New York city on horseback, and is enjoying his ride.

Queen Victoria has just given at Windsor Castle a ball to the servants of the Royal household, for the first time since the marriage of the Princess Louise, eleven years ago.

A hat flirtation is the latest idocy among the girls. There is no way that a man can wear a hat that doesn't mean something, and the only way you're safe is to go bareheaded.

When the German Empress travels in summer the roof of her railroad carriage is covered with a layer of turf, which is watered frequently during the day as a device to keep her cool.

The ex-King of Naples lives with his wife, in great obscurity, at a small hotel in Paris. Occasionally they vary the monotony of their existence by a visit to the seaside. This summer they have been at Coburg.

Governor Bloxham, of Florida, has got himself into hot water. He has undertaken to designate the prettiest girl in Tallahassee. It is safe to say that he will never again be elected Governor of Florida.

A monsterous mushroom has forced its way through the solid 9-inch flouring of concrete and asphalt in a Buffalo grain elevator. The bulge in the floor was first noticed the latter part of last week, but the break did not occur until Wednesday evening.

A clever London actress has written a letter to the Lord Chamberlain (the Earl of Kenmare), who revises plays and their "business," asking that he will abate the nuisance of decollette dresses in the stalls and boxes as annoying to ladies on the stage.

Dr. William N. Hill, one of the city vaccinators of Baltimore, Md., is down with the small-pox. Though he has vaccinated thousands within the past few months, he has not himself been vaccinated since early childhood

Colonel Mapleson writes that the Royal Opera of St. Petersburg has offered him $50 000 to cancel his Patti engagement for this country, and $10,000 to release Rabelli. These figures may be considered large, but some margin is to be allowed for managerial exaggeration.

A performer at the London theaters, in "Babel and Bijou," calls herself "Marian, the Giant Amazon Queen." She was born, it is stated, in 1866, at Benkendorff, a village near the Thuringian Mountains, Germany, and has attained the remarkable height of 8 feet 2 inches, and is still growing.

The youngest bride ever heard of in the United States is Miss Catoe, who, though only 11 years and 7 months of age, was recently married to Thomas Payne by a regularly ordained minister in South Carolina. Her husband is bowed under the weight of only 20 years.

Mrs. Henry Labouchere, who instructed Mrs. Langtry for her famous debut at Twickenham last winter, will accompany her pupil and protege on her tour in the United States. Mrs. Labouchere is a charming person, known formerly on the stage as Miss Henrietta Hodson, an actress of great talent and vivacity.

Seated one balmy afternoon on the veranda of Mrs. Howe's residence in Newport, Oscar Wilde was heard to remark to a lady who was present: "Strange that a pair of silk stockings should so upset a nation," whereupon a well-known gentleman, sitting a little remote from the poet, interposed: "It's the calf that is in the stockings."

A member of the Maine Legislature had been courting an Augusta girl all winter, and had taken her to attend the sessions until she was well posted in the rules. On the last day of the session, as they came near the peanut-stand by the door, he said to her: "May I offer you my handful of peanuts?" She responded promptly: "I move to amend by omitting all after the word 'hand?'" He blushingly accepted the amendment, and they adopted it unanimously.

Almond-Eyed Belles.

New Haven Register.

To one who has to any extent made the Chinese in San Francisco anything of a study, nothing is more scientifically amusing than the changes that the lady Chinese have made in their dress during the past ten or twelve years. At and before that time the damsels aired themselves on the fashionable boulevards of Chinatown, or rested in the shades of its alleys, attired in gorgeous silken garments, white hose, petite shoes of the latest Canton brand, green bangles on their arms and smaller ditto in their ears, and last, but not least, a head of hair which rose in small pinnacles, wings, and turrets of bangs, montagues and things, for a foot or two above their heads. That was the style ten years ago; but it is all changed now. The neat white Canton slipper, which flip-flopped against the sidewalk and appeared at all times upon the point of falling off, or at least tripping up its owner, has been largely superseded by the common female gaiter of commerce; the silken robes have given place to common cambric, well glazed; the ear-rings that the sportive hoodlums failed to pull out by the roots are filed away for more peaceful times; the bangles have nearly all followed suit, and as for the elaborate head-gear it is safe to say that it would be rather difficult to find a Chinese woman in this city who now luxuriates in its possession. The Greek and German style is now all the rage. By the former we mean the coil of hair at the back of the head, deftly secured by a couple of long brass pins, and by the latter a simple pig-tail, which needs nothing but a bright bit of ribbon at the end to remind one of the Caucasian school girl of sweet 16.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALLPOX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed. Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant. Fever and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water. Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing. Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about. To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed. Catarrh relieved and cured. Erysipelas cured. Burns relieved instantly. Scars prevented. Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed. Gangrene prevented and cured. Dysentery cured. Wounds healed rapidly. Scurvey cured in a short time. Tetter dried up. It is perfectly harmless. For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated. Ship Fever prevented by its use. In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell. An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c. Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use. Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

Consult and secure the advantages of Dr. BUTTS long experience in curing diseases of the Blood, Skin and Bones.—Nervous Debility, Impotency, Organic Weakness, Gonorrhœa, Syphilitic and Mercurial Affections specially treated on scientific principles, with safe and sure remedies. Call or write for List of Questions to be answered by those desiring treatment by mail. (Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss.) Address, DR. BUTTS, 12 N. 8th St., St. Louis, Mo. ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF YOUTH and MANHOOD
A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE.
BY A PHYSICIAN of 35 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks. "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM. A perfect dressing, elegantly perfumed and harmless. Removes dandruff, restores natural color & prevents baldness. 50 cents and $1 sizes at druggists.

Floreston COLOGNE. An exquisitely fragrant perfume with exceptionally lasting properties. 25 and 75 cents.

Parker's Ginger Tonic
An Invigorating Medicine that Never Intoxicates

This delicious combination of Ginger, Buchu, Mandrake, Stillingia, and many other of the best vegetable medicines known, cures Female Complaints, Rheumatism, Nervousness, Wakefulness and all disorders of the bowels, stomach, liver, kidneys, and urinary organs.

If you have lost your appetite and are low spirited, or suffering from age, or any infirmity, take Parker's Ginger Tonic. It will strengthen brain and body and give you new life and vigor.

100 DOLLARS
Paid for anything injurious found in Ginger Tonic, or for a failure to help or cure.
50c. & $1 sizes at druggists. Large saving buying dollar size. Send for circular to Hiscox & Co., 163 Wm. St., N.Y.

A MAN WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of Most Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, Magnificent Horton Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous

"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."

A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.

Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.

Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.

For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the

GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,
At your nearest Ticket Office, or address
R. R. CABLE, E. ST. JOHN,
Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.
CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable Balm that will remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 3c stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dreadful disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the preparation used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn. St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence,
JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.
1yr

USE KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

WHOLESALE LIST
TURNIP SEEDS!
MERCHANTS! SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST.
D. LANDRETH & SONS, PHILADELPHIA.

DR. HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any Iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice.
DR. ROBERT SAMUELS,
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 25th, 1881. 2104 Wash. Avenue.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC.

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, AUG. 10th, 1882

Democratic State Ticket.

For Secretary of State,
WILLIAM R. MYERS, of Madison.
For Auditor of State,
JAMES H. RICE, of Floyd.
For Treasurer of State,
JOHN J. COOPER, of Marion.
For Attorney General,
FRANCIS T. HORD, of Bartholomew
For Clerk of Supreme Court,
S. P. SHEFRIN, of Cass.
For State Superintendent,
JOHN W. HOLCOMBE, of Porter.
For Judge Supreme Court—First dis't.
W. E. NIBLACK, of Knox.
Second District,
GEORGE T. HOWK, of Floyd.
Third District,
ALLEN ZOLLARS, of Allen.

COUNTY TICKET.
For Congress 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY,
of Allen County.
COUNTY TICKET:
For Representative,
D. D. MOODY.
For Clerk,
D. Y. HUSSELMAN.
For Auditor,
THOMAS H. TOMLINSON.
For Treasurer,
L. J. MILLER.
For Sheriff,
JOHN W. BOYLE.
For Recorder,
JOHN BUTT.
For Surveyor,
J. J. VAN AUKEN.
Fo Coroner,
J. J. LATSON.
For Commissioner North District,
JOSEPH SEWELL.
Southwest District,
CHRISTIAN SHEETS.
Southeast District,
OLIVER H. WIDNEY.

AT the elections in Alabama on Monday, the democrats carried the state by about the usual majority.

YELLOW fever is reported on the Rio Grande, especially at Matamoras and Brownsville. But efforts will be made to prevent its spreading any further.

THE recent state convention of the republicans in Illinois voted against prohibition by a decided majority. They probably could not see any way to make votes by voting in favor of it.

LATE Washington papers speak of the recent democrat state convention as an unusally intelligent one, and of the candidates and the platform as very strong. It is generally conceded by all parties that the ticket will win.

THE entire veto message of the president will be found on the inside of this week's paper. It ought to be carefully studied. This appropriation business will get the start of us unless soon checked.

BARNUM'S elephant, Emperor, got away in Troy, N. Y., and among other places he visited he went into a rolling mill, where he burnt his feet so that in his rage he seriously injured quite a number of persons, some of whom may die.

The great Chicago horse show begins Sept. 16 and ends the 23d. Some of the finest horses in the world are to be present. All kinds will be represented from heavy draft to thoroughbreds. The secretary is D. L. Hall, 116 Monroe street, Chicago.

SOME of the ablest lawyers in the country do not believe the constitution gives congress the power to vote money to improve streams and harbors that are of no benefit to any one but those living near them. Only such as are of use to the country at large should be made at the general expense.

SOUTHERN California has been visited by destructive water spouts. One of these came from the wilder parts of the hill country and swept down many wild animals. Several grizzlies and coyotes, and hundreds of jack rabbits and snakes were washed against a railroad bridge where they hung on for their lives till the storm was over.

IT is estimated that Jay Hubbell, of the republican congressional committee, will have a million dollars collected from government employes by the time the fall campaign is fairly opened It is well known that republicans believe in a pure and free ballot box. Several of their platforms have said so.

THE Bristol Banner makes the startling assertion that Blackford is the smallest county in the state. Oh, Bro. Mosier, how could you? And you a prospective member of the legislature. When you get into that august body, such a whopper might tickle the "member from Ohio," but the "member from Blackford" would never "second a motion" for you as long as you live. Take it back.

FIGHTING with an armed railway train is one of the many inventions of modern warfare. On Saturday last, the British at Alexandria, sent a train that carried a number of cannons, mounted in a way nearly similar to to those used on ships. The train was attacked near Mahala Junction and in the fight which ensued, this "train-of-war" was effectively used against the Egyptians, who were driven off with some loss.

The Platform.

The resolutions adopted at the State convention, after arraigning the republican party for its various short comings, advocates the use of surplus revenue for the payment of the national debt, and favors a re-adjustment of the tariff on a revenue basis.

That Oats Bill.

We have heard some talk about a law passed by the last legislature changing the weight of oats from thirty-two to thirty-three pounds, which makes quite a difference to our farmer friends. We are glad to be able to state that that the House Journal shows that Mr. Moody always looks out for the best interests of the farmer.

THE bombardment of Alexandria, was heard at Malta 1000 miles distant by means of a telephone attached to the submarine cable

EX-SENATOR McDONALD is having a boom for president in 1884. Too early. These early booms are apt to get stale before they are needed.

KENTUCKY held its election for a part of its state officers, including a clerk for the court of appeals, and supreme judges. The democrats as far as can be at present stated, elected all their candidates.

THE platform of principles set forth by the democracic convention, at Indianapolis is one which commends itself to every citizen of the state. It is clear, concise and outspoken. Every voter in the state should read it.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR vetoed the River and Harbor Bill, but both houses passed it over his veto. So it now becomes a law. For our part, we think the president did right. He was willing to sign the bill, if it was so changed as to give public money where it was needed.

A CONDUCTOR on the Vandalin road at Indianapolis, overslept his time a few minutes last Sunday evening, and wakened up to find his train gone without him. He took a revolver from his sachel and shot himself. It is believed that the mere fact of his being too late worried him into the rash act. He had been a conductor on the line twenty years.

THE colored people of Wabash, and vicinity celebrated the first day of August, as the anniversary of their freedom, that being the day on which the English government set free its first batch of slaves in 1834. Those in the West Indies, their most important slave holding possession were set free four years later. The British government paid for the slavery thus liberated, as sum equal to one hundred millious in federal money.

IF there had been any doubt as to the standing of the democrats of this state on the proposed amendment in regard to prohibition, those doubts are set at rest by the plank in our platform on that subject. But republicans will go on all the same and say we are opposed to submitting these questions to the people. They have evidently been told to do this by their leaders, and will stick to it till their leaders tell them to stop.

IF Mr. Colerick, our present efficient congressman, had been as corrupt and dishonest as the rest, he would have had an appropriation tacked on to the appropriation bill, to improve Cedar Creek from Waterloo down to Auburn. It would not be half so ridiculous as some of the appropriations made. But Mr. Colerick being an honest man, left the people of his district to dig their own little ditches, just as he ought to do. If the country had more such men, it would be better off.

THE brightest star in the galaxy of the republican party is the fact that it has always attempted to carry out the wishes of the majority of the people of this country.—Butler Record.

The republican firmament is studded with those bright stars which have been shedding ethereal light over a free, happy and prosperous people for the past two years.—Bristol Banner.

Another bright star in the republican galaxy, in fact the main star in the star route trials, is S. W. Dorsey, now on trial for stealing millions of dollars from the government. Yet such is the love of the "moral ideas" party for "stars" of this kind, that he is still retained as secretary of the republican national committee. Strange that the two editors named above should have forgotten the useful and luminous Dorsey.

THE president's objection to the River and Harbor Bill, was that vast sums of public money were given to improve worthless little streams and harbors that would be of no benefit to any one, except a few living in their immediate vicinity. In this he was right. The government has no business to throw money away to accommodate a few congressmen who want to gain votes at the public expense. There were many good provisions in the bill, but there was also a large amount of corrupt jobs, and if congress had done its duty, it could have assisted in getting up a decent appropriation bill, and put the public money where it would do the people some good.

—The Burch plow is the plow. For sale by W. H. Kiblinger, Auburn, Ind.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Della McClellan came home Monday on the afternoon train.

Charlie Buckland came down from Angola, the first of the week, to take a look over the town and chat with old friends. He is getting to be something of a printer. He and Frank have spent a part of the summer in the government printing office in Washington where they found work at good prices.

The greenback meeting here last week was well attended.

Town rather dull this week with so many candidates absent looking up their political chances.

M. W. Johnson went to Pierceton last Tuesday, to spend a few days visiting his uncle who resides there.

C. M. Phillips was over to the county seat Thursday on business.

The normal school here numbers over forty pupils, everything is moving off finely and Mr. Harrison and his able assistant, Mr. Coe, are giving good satisfaction.

Miss Metta McBride is in town, spending a few days visiting in the family of her uncle R. M. Lockhart.

J. B. Hoover is still tearing up the old side walks and crossings and putting down new ones.

Ed. Long was in town a short time on Monday.

F. P. Day is putting a coat of paint on the store building owned by Childs, Groff & Co., of Toledo. It is the room formerly occupied by W. B. Johnson & Co., and now occupied by Richard Shull. It looks bright and new with its glistening coat of olive colored paint.

Dr. Chamberlain is beginning to talk up the interests of the fair which begins here the first week in October.

J. A. Shull is around the store as usual, and as if there was nothing at stake at the convention.

Brand & Duncan, are still up to their elbows in business.

Wm. Crane boarded the early train Wednesday morning on his way to Ft Wayne. He wanted to get a buzz saw sharpened.

Quite a little stir was caused in town Tuesday evening by the arrest of the young men supposed to be concerned in the breaking open of the safe at the postoffice and at S. J. Lock's.

Brand & Duncan have been doing a thriving business in huckleberries shipped from Jackson. These sold like hot cakes at $4.50 a bushel.

Mrs. O. L. Hall died at the home of her parents in Lagrange, last Sunday. E. S. Patterson and wife and sister Lou attended the funeral.

Miss Dickinson returned from her prolonged trip through Iowa and Kansas Tuesday looking bright and well.

J. P. McCague has returned from his western trip. He thinks Des Moines, Iowa, is a thriving town and says the Lockhart Bros. are doing well with their mill there.

The lightning played a strange freak here Tuesday. During a thin little shower a streak of the fluid ran along the telephone wire into O. T. Clark's house and made itself uncomfortably familiar with things generally. Fanny was at home at the time and don't seem to think the visitor as agreeable as it might be.

Misses Ola and Jennie Leib were away visiting Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bassett went to Rome City, Wednesday to attend the Sunday-school encampment.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barnes were in Waterloo shaking hands with their friends Tuesday.

Mrs. J. S. Bowers has returned from Toledo, Ohio.

A Faucett and wife spent Sunday in Auburn.

The band gave some splendid music at the at the soldiers, supper Saturday night.

M. Zerwes is back again and at work in his shop once more. He thinks there is no place like home after all.

J. W. Zimmerman finds his business increasing so fast that he needs more room and will proceed at once to move his shop back so as to give room for a large addition at the south end that may reach to the street. This will make his room over seventy feet long.

David McEnterfer, the good natured trackmaster of the Jackson road, together with Mrs. M. went to Fort Wayne, this week.

F. P. Blair went to Wawaka to spend the Sabbath.

H. Leib was home over Sunday.

Mr. Marion Griswold, wife and daughter Lilly, were visiting in town a few days.

Charley Buckland passed through this place to his home in South Bend.

Born August 8th, to the wife of Rev. Christine a son.

Israel Rose died Friday August 4th, 1882, and was buried Sunday by the soldiers association, of which he was a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Fields are again citizens of our place. They returned from N.Y. Wednesday

Mrs. H. K. Leas, has returned home after a three weeks absence. And he's happy again.

Mrs. F. E. Work, of Angola, was the guest of Mrs. L. J. Blair, Saturday.

FAIRFIELD.

Wm. Tubbs our former miller has gone to Edon, Ohio.

Mr. Beck, of Corunna, has taken charge of the mill here and is producing most excellent flour. He warrants all work.

Wm. Nussdorfer has sold his farm, John Row and David Martz, being the purchasers. Mr. N. will move to Oceana county, Michigan, early in the fall.

Mrs. John Bear, of Fostoria, Ohio, who has been visiting relatives in this vicinity has returned home.

Mrs. Abraham Reinoehl and son of Central City, Nebraska, are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Stbair.

The annual Lutheran Charge Communion will be heald at Husselman's grove, about two miles east of here, on Sunday August, 20th. The Union sabbath-school exercises will also be held there on that day.

Alf. Werich's face wears a broad smile that denotes success in business. He sells great quantities of goods not on account of his smiles but because they are cheap. ITEMIZER.

BUTLER.

Miss Ida Blair, of Waterloo, spent last week visiting the family of W. L. Blair.

Mrs. J. P. Jadwin, of Orland, Ind., is visiting with friends and relatives in this place.

Dr. E. L. Fosdick and wife are visiting at Kewaunee, Ind. They expect to be gone two weeks.

Born, to the wife of C. H. Crane, on Wednesday August 2, a girl, usual weight.

Mrs. F. T. Zimmerman, of Auburn, and Mrs. Lizzie Failing, of Chautauqua, N. Y. are the guests of Mrs. R. H. Weamer.

C. S. Hyde, of Valparaiso, Ind, was in town last week, looking for a position in the public schools of this place.

Mrs. Anna Waite and Miss Selina Rensch who were called to the bedside of their dying mother, at Trentonville, Missouri, arrived at their destination just ten hours after her death.

On Wednesday night, of last week, a barn belonging to Jacob Fetter who lives about one mile and a half northwest of Butler, was struck by lightning, and the barn and the entire contents were burned. The loss was estimated at from $1,000 to $1,200. There was no insurence.

Permit No Substitution.

Insist upon obtaining Floreston Cologne. It is pre-eminently superior superior in permanence and rich delicacy of fragrance. 31-4t

EVERY county in the state was represented at Indianapolis last week.

HON. JOHN B. STOLL, of Ligonier, is the new member of the democratic state committee for this congressional district. He is well fitted for the place.

—W. H. Kiblinger, of Auburn, Ind. ells the Burch plow. 31-3t.

In 1881, congress appropriated 190 millions for public improvements and the other national expenses. This year they foot up to 300 millions. How do the taxpayers like such financial management as that?

—The Burch plow runs light and holds easy. 31-3t.

THE names of the candidates on the state ticket will be found in this issue of the COURIER. The entire ticket is one of great strength and popularity, and will no doubt be triumphantly elected.

—W. H. Kiblinger just received the third car load of Burch plows for this season. 31-3t.

Two ladies spoke in the democratic state convention last week. Mrs. Helen M. Gougar, of the Women's Christian Temperence Union, and Mrs. Mary E. N. Price, on behalf of the woman suffrage. Both were enthuseastically cheered.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Samuel Morr, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent. NOAH MORR,
James E. Rose Attorney. Administrator.
August 8th, 1882. 32-3w.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of Union township, DeKalb county, Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of the state of Indiana, over the age of twenty-one years, will apply to the board of commissioners of said county at its September session, 1882, for license to retail vinous, malt and spirituous liquors in a less quantity than a quart at, and with the privilage of permitting the the same to be drank on the following premises, to-wit: Lot No. nineteen (19), in Spangler's original plat of the town of Auburn Junction, in said township.
August 9, 1882. CHRISTOPHER BAKER.

Administrator's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned administrator of the estate of Samuel Morr, deceased, will offer for sale at public auction at the late residence of said decedent, in Concord township, DeKalb county Indiana, on Saturday, September 2d, 1882, the personal property of said estate, consisting of horses, cows, hogs, cattle, wagon, buggy and farming implements, hay grain, household and kitchen furniture and various other articles. Sale to commence at nine o'clock a. m. Terms: Sums of five dollars or under, cash; over five dollars, a credit of nine months will be given, the purchaser giving his note at interest, waiving benefit of valuation and appraisement laws with approved security.
32-3w. NOAH MORR, Adm'r.

CIDER.

PRESS (hand and power) GRATER, Elevator Jelly Pans, Sorghum Mills, Circular Mills, all Cider Mill Supplies. Illustrated Catalogue free. Address, C. G. HAMPTON, Detroit, Mich

SPORTSMEN'S HEADQUARTERS
C. H. MILLER and C. RAQUET,
24 West Main St., Fort Wayne, Ind. Breech and Muzzle Loading

SHOT GUNS,
RIFLES,
REVOLVERS,
AMMUNITION.
FISHING TACKLES

We carry the largest stock of Firearms in Northern Indiana, and our prices are lower than New York, Pittsburgh or Chicago houses. Our guns are all selected, and we warrant every one to give satisfaction. Repairing done to order. 32-4w.

DON'T MISS THIS CHANCE !

BUY NOW WHILE GOODS ARE CHEAP !

Everything Fifty per cent. Cheaper

No Need of Going Barefooted

AUSTIN BROTHERS
—WILL SELL—
BOOTS
—AND—
SHOES

Cheaper than they can be stolen!

A big stock has been ordered, and there must be room made for them. Fifty per cent. can be saved by buying now. The

BOOT
UP-SIDE
DOWN

Is the cheapest house in Indiana, and we want everybody to know it. Call before buying.

AUSTIN BROS., Auburn, Ind.

SELF SATISFYING.

FACT

That our $8.00 Suits are worth $15.00
That our 9.00 Suits are worth 17.00
That our 11.00 Suits are worth 20.00
That our 14.00 Suits are worth 25.00
That our 15.00 Suits are worth 28.00
That our 1.60 pants are worth 2.50
That our two dollar pants are worth $4
That our $20 Satin Lined Suits ARE WORTH $45
That our $15 Diagonal Coats and Vests are worth 30
That our 9.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 17.00
That our 12.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 22.00

We have a stock of Clothing well worth seeing Come and convince yourself.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

ATTENTION,

Country Merchants!

My Stock Embraces ALL Kinds Staple and Fancy Merchandise:

Clocks,
Watches,
Jewelry,
Silver Ware,
Optical Goods,
Musical Goods.
Sewing Machines,
Druggists' Sundries,
White Goods,
Hosiery.
Toys,
Cutlery,
Pictures,
Frames,
Mirrors,
Smokers' Goods,
Sporting Goods,
Japanese Goods
Fancy Goods
Notions,
Stationery
Wallets
Wooden Ware
Glass Ware,
Hardware
Purses
Tin Ware:

5 & 10 Cent Counter, 49 & 99 Cent Store supplies

Look up my Illustrated Catalogue (if you have not one send for it) and notice prices and style of goods on pages 6 to 63 68 to 81, 92 to 115, 150 to 165, and so on through the book, and you will find that I am offering a SAVING to you of 10 to 25 per cent. on a large line of Staple Goods. You can order your STOCK from my Catalogue without leaving your store or paying a traveling man to come and take your order. I guarantee prices and goods to be just as satisfactory as though you were here in person to select. When in the city, give me a call before buying, and I will show you the most complete stock of Goods in the west to select from at INSIDE PRICES.

C. M. LININGTON, IMPORTER,
145 and 147 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—400 Burch plows in use in DeKalb county. 31-3t

—Harry Fisher, of Waterloo, was in town yesterday.

—Our correspondents are coming up to the work in good style.

—Don't forget to call at the photo gallery, east of the postoffice.

—E. T. Brysland, of Waterloo, was in town Tuesday on business.

—Apples are scarce and high, and the quality is below the average.

—A few blackberries are coming to town and sell at 12 cents a quart.

—The colored camp meeting folks are succeeding finely in Hicksville.

—The enrollment at the Normal school yesterday showed 53 pupils.

—Plows! Plows!! Plows!!! For sale by W. H. Kiblinger. 31-3t.

—Miss Dougherty, of Wabash, is visiting in the family of J. L. Davis.

—Quite a number of our citizens made a trip to Cedar Beach yesterday.

—McQuiston & Long had a lively run in the huckleberry trade this week.

—Jerry Plum, of Waterloo, was in town Monday talking politics with the boys.

—J. M. Goetschius stood around town and chatted with the boys last Friday.

—Ex-Senator Christiancy was in Ft. Wayne, last week. At least so says the News.

—Mrs. Dills went to Ft. Wayne on the early freight train Wednesday morning.

—New stock of ladies' calling cards of latest styles, can be seen by calling at this office.

—Our county was well represented at the State convention, at Indianapolis, last week.

—A large quantity of wall paper will be sold regardless of former prices at the book store. 32-2w.

—Miss Mansfield from Detroit, Mich. is visiting with the family of John L. Davis this week.

—F. P. Day and wife of Waterloo, spent Sunday night in town, the guest of J. W. Baxter.

—Charles Best, of Pierceton, was in town last week, and returned to his home on Tuesday.

—Among our callers last week were David Heitz, of New Era, and T. S. Merica, of Garrett.

—J. E. Thomson was in town on business Tuesday. He don't waste much time on politics.

—Albums, bibles, hymn-books, pocket-books, cutlery and notions in great variety at the book store. 2w.

—Sheriff Leas went to Indianapolis this week with an insane man who lives north of Waterloo.

—We have a new lot of letter heads and statements. Our business men should call and see them.

—A. B. Walsworth was in town Friday. It took sharp dodging to get along between the showers.

—Blackberries are getting quite plenty at present and sell at fair prices, but seem to be rather small.

—Miss Clara Wanamaker and Miss Mino Andrews, of Newville, are among the students at the Normal school.

—Josiah Shull, now in Montana, has changed his location from Warm Springs to Beartown in the same county.

—It rained every day last week, and some of the showers were the hardest ever known in this part of the country.

—The fair at Hicksville begins September 19 and ends the 22d. They are making arrangements for a grand time.

—L. J. Miller took a flying trip to Waterloo Monday to meet his better-half who was on her way home from Corunna.

—Columbia City has an amusement association. This is a new feature and one that may assist to bridge over these dull times.

—The Normal opened up with an attendance of over forty pupils Monday. The total number enrolled on Wednesday was —Mrs. Myers is now holding her Kindergarten school at her own home, and the little chaps seem to enjoy the change very much.

—The busy republican bee, is improving each shining hour this week. He tries hard to gather honey from every opening flower.

—There is a brief lull in the Sunday excursion business, and ministers who want to go to Europe will have to raise the funds some other way.

—Isaac Ochs and E. Kuhlman started south with a train of buggies Monday morning. We understand the buggies were made in Ligonier.

—Idle Hours, for July, is received. Mr. Gubiky still holds the helm and makes his little paper a welcome guest to all who delight in solving puzzles.

—No other plow is as cheap as the Burch, taking into consideration all that pertains to a good plow. 31-3t.

—Among those who were talking business in town this week, we noticed Joseph Walter and Alexander Provines, of Jackson township.

—Quite a number of the leading republicans went to Indianapolis Monday and Tuesday to attend the republican state convention there.

—Miss Ida Carpender, the accommodating postmistress of Butler, and Miss Ida Blair, of Waterloo, were visiting yesterday with Mrs. J. A. Barns.

—It looked like old times to see a wagon load of four-foot wood drawn by a pair of oxen, come to town on Tuesday. Are we returning to the good old ways of our forefathers?

—A sort of Manitoba wave struck this region Tuesday evening after the last little showers. It was nearly cold enough for frost. A poor season for corn at this rate.

—Joe Rothenberger moved down to the Junction this week. He expects to occupy the old hotel and saloon there and deal out the ardent to thirsty travelers who pass that way.

—Our readers will find the entire democratic state platform on the inside of this paper, as well as the proceedings of the convention. It will pay to read it over carefully.

—The republicans will be sweating and tugging at the convention Saturday to set up a lot of nominations that will "take the run" for three months and then be heard of no more.

—The Normalites now in attendance here are a bright looking set of young people, and will no doubt add greatly to our already efficent corps of teachers.

—The boys who went to Garrett to play ball speak highly of the colored man who took a hand in the game. He treated the boys with great politeness.

—C. P. Houser, W. L. Penfield, Albert Robbins, A. S. Leas, H. C. Peterson and Charley Beugnot were among the republicans who attended their State convention at Indianapolis.

—Mrs. Dr. Sears has been spending several days at home, and her husband will join her next Monday. Those wishing to consult the doctor will find him at Shaffer's furniture store.

—A Fort Wayne man named Gause has invented a plan by which he can give motion to the cutter for a mower or reaper, without a pitman. It is considered a great thing in mowers.

—Many of our subscribers are finding that it is easier to pay up regularly every year, and are coming in promptly with the cash. That's business and makes it easier for both parties.

—I. O. Bechtel, our popular miller is knee deep in business now, turning out quantities of his A No. 1 flour. With the good quality of wheat as claimed for the new crop, he will do better than ever.

—Quite a large party gathered at the residence of Wm. McIntyre last evening "unbeknownst" to him. That is, it was a surprise party, the occasion being the anniversary of his fifty-second birthday.

—J. M. Rice & Son took a nice picture of the little misses who attended Edna Davis' birthday party. It is a nice little group and you can see the girlish happiness shine out from every face.

—We believe it is generally understood that Miss Sadie Hare is to be married to-day to Fred. Yesbera, of Morenci, Mich. The best wishes of the whole community go with her to her new home.

—Mr. Folts "kicks" against the statement that his boy was implicated in a recent cock fight, stating that the boy was with him in the rural districts each day during the week. This lets the boy out, of course.

—A wagon a day is about the average of my sales, yet I have some left to sell cheap; also a few nice baby carriages and dolly cabs. Call and see them before purchasing.

32-2w. M. B. Willis.

—Remember the lawn social at the residence of A. J. Little on Friday (tomorrow) evening. Mite only ten cents. Call and see us, and bring your friends and neighbors and the stranger that is within your gates.

—Our friend O. Z. Hubbel, of Butler, received the nomination for joint representative for this district last week. The district is composed of the counties of Noble, Elkhart and DeKalb, and have, we believe, a majority in his favor.

—The Presbyterian lawn social at Mrs. Little's Friday evening will be entertained by her, Mrs. Isaac Ochs, Mrs. Dr. Ford, Mrs. E. D. Hartman, Mrs. A. W. Allen and Mrs. J. A. Barns. These ladies will make you welcome, so do not forget to attend.

—The people of the west owe a debt of gratitude to Dr. Ayer for the production of Ayer's Ague Cure. Its timely use will save much suffering and much discouragement, and we recommend it with the greatest confidence in its ability to do all that is promised for it.

—The Burch steel plows are made of the best material. 31-3t.

—While at Waterloo this week we had the pleasure of meeting the new principal of the school, Mr. B. B. Harrison. We learn that he is succeeding finely, and is winning golden opinions from his students and the people.

—The boys in town have the base ball fever pretty bad. The game at Garrett, in which they made twenty runs, seems to encourage them. Keep on boys, and you can beat that next time, if the day is long enough.

—To-morrow will be the extra meeting of township trustees. It has been called as a preliminary step to secure a more full and thorough report at the September meeting. No other business will be done except to talk up the coming county institute.

—Joseph Conrad, of Corunna, made the Courier a brief call this week. He came to bring his nephew, Elmer Shook, who is now attending normal school. Joe is one of our most successful veteran teachers, and is never without a "call" from two or three districts.

—Columbia City is making preparations for a big tournament in that city on the 16th, 17th and 18th inst. There will be trotting, running, base ball playing, foot racing, bicycle riding, etc., each day of the tournament. Some of the best base ball clubs in the state are expected to be present during the tournament and compete for the prizes.

—Harry Reed, who made one of the picked-up nine that went to Garrett to play last Saturday, is spoken of as a good hand at the business. The boys say that he rakes in the balls like a hen gathering her chickens under her wing. But in spite of some good playing, and a great deal of bad playing on both sides, our boys got left.

—They had a bad washout on the Jackson road last Thursday evening. The heavy rains had filled Spy Run, a little north of Fort Wayne, and taken off the railroad bridge that crossed it. No trains passed for several days, but passengers were transferred from one train to another. The high water caused a good deal of other damage near the city.

—There was a pleasant party at F. D. Ryan's residence last Saturday evening. It was given in honor of Miss Josie Thomas and Miss Maggie Dolan, of Garrett. Miss Dolan is a teacher in the public school there. Miss Thomas has been teaching in Keyser township. These social gatherings are very much to the advantage of the young people of both towns.

—Miss Sadie Hare bade farewell to her class in Sunday school last Sunday, to the great grief of the little ones under her charge. Some of the little girls sobbed aloud at the announcement, and would not be comforted. We learn that she looks to Morenci as her future home. Miss Hare has been an amiable and useful member of society and will be greatly missed.

—The west bound train on the Wabash, going through here at 11:50 a. m. broke a beam in its tender truck at Churubusco, causing quite a delay, and some consternation on the part of the delegates who were on their way to Indianapolis. An extra engine happened to be running ahead of the train, and was called back from Columbia City. It hooked on and pulled the train to Peru.

—The delay caused by the breaking down of the engine at Churubusco, last Tuesday, gave us a chance to look over that thriving village. The first man we struck was Billy Latson, who is holding forth there. He seems to be doing well. A sign near by read, "J. W. Squires, M. D.," and we sauntered up stairs to give him a call. But he was off on a professional visit, so we left a card and concluded to wait till next time.

—The Butler Record expresses its obligation to Hon. J. A. Hubbell, of Michigan, for valuable documents. "My Dear Hubbell" has been sending out quite a number of valuable documents lately—about a hundred thousand of them—and they call for a "voluntary contribution of two per cent. of your salary." Is that the sort of document you've got, Bro. Garrison? Harper's Weekly, of August 5, has a notice of "My dear Hubbell" that fits the occasion much better.

—The following are the names of those who attended the State convention from this county: J. J. Van Auken, W. I. Work, John Leas, John W. Baxter, M. Boland, W. H. Leas, A. J. Baxter, L. D. Britton, D. D. Moody, Sol. Barney, D. Tomlinson, M. J. Bolan, Henry Hines, T. H. Sprott and J. A. Barns. The county had but thirteen votes and fifteen men were on hand to see that the votes were cast. It shows well for the democracy of old DeKalb.

—The barn of Jacob Fetter, near Butler, was struck by lightning last Wednesday night during the heavy rainstorm. His family and some others who were visiting them were all in bed at the time of the stroke, but were awakened and hurried to the burning building in time to save a team belonging to the visitor, but most of the property in the barn was destroyed. It contained two buggies and a large amount of hay, wheat and oats. The total loss is estimated at near $1500. No insurance.

Quite a Lawsuit.

A lawsuit of interest to teachers and school officers came off in 'Squire Walker's court, in Smithfield township, on Monday and Tuesday. The question involved is, the power of a teacher to make a valid contract while under age. The case as we understand it is this: In the spring of 1377, Miss May Shoemaker contracted with the trustee of Smithfield township, James W. Clark, to teach a school, for which the contract read that she was to receive fifty dollars. About that time, or previous to that time, E. R. Shoemaker, May's father, had a talk with Mr. Clark and a verbal understanding was had, that if Miss Shoemaker taught a school in every way as good as that taught by the older teachers of the township, she was to receive the same wages as they did—fifty-four dollars. When school closed, it was admitted that she had taught an excellent school, and Mr. Shoemaker demanded the fifty-four dollars, while Mr. Clark was willing to pay only what the contract called for. This was refused by Mr. Shoemaker, and the matter has not been settled until now. The case was brought up before 'Squire Walker and a jury, C. M. Phillips, of Waterloo, was employed by E. R. Shoemaker, and W. H. Dills, of Auburn, on the part of the township. After a long and ably conducted trial, the jury brought in a verdict of $65.00 for Miss Shoemaker. This was apparently allowing her the original $50 for which she had contracted and five years interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum. The whole question seemed to be: Can a teacher, though a minor, make a valid contract? The decision of the jury would seem to indicate that they believe this can be done. But it has always been a principle of common law that minors cannot make a binding contract without the consent of the parent or guardian. Still there are plenty of those who incline the opinion, that the statute in this case removes the disability of a minor, when it permits them after receiving a certificate of qualification from the county superintendent, to go and contract with a trustee to teach a certain school. If this is not so—if these contracts cannot be enforced, then more than half the schools of the State are at all times in a very precarious condition. The matter ought to be settled, and if a contract made with a teacher is not good, let the statues be so changed as to put this branch of the public service on a firmer basis.

—The commissioners were in town Tuesday to make arrangements for the winter's supply of fuel, and look after the safety of the heaters in the jail building.

—Miss Brink, sister to Frank Brink, took the train for Waterloo Tuesday evening. Frank is getting along very well with his foot, and he now has strong hopes that it will heal and a cure be effected.

—W. J. Austin and family, including Mrs. Birdsall and Dave Hampton, John L. Davis and family, Miss Daugherty, of Wabash, and Miss Mansfield, of Detroit, C. A. O. McClellan and daughter Della, of Waterloo, form a very pleasant excursion party who are at present at Cedar Beach, sporting with the "sad sea waves."

—We have received a copy of the "Texan Oddities," a paper published at Dallas, Texas, and devoted to fun and light reading. It is intended to follow in the wake of "Texas Siftings," but will have to hurry up if it ever overtakes that publication. It looks rather "woody" as to its typography, but it contains a great deal of readable matter and plenty of fun.

—John C. Stearns, of Corunna, was in town this week on business. He is now traveling for Randall, Mills & Edsall, paper makers, of Delaware, Ohio. Mr. Randall is well known to all the printing fraternity in this section of the country, as he sold paper for a number of years for Bradner, Smith & Co., of Chicago. He is now foreman and part owner of the paper mill at Delaware, and will devote his time to the manufacture and sale of that article hereafter.

—The ladies of the M. E. church desire to tender their hearty thanks to their many friends for favoring them with their presence at the lawn social given at Mr. Boland's last week, and hope to see them at all subsequent ones. The net receipts of the social were over twenty-one dollars.

The ladies of the M. E. church in the Fourth Division will entertain a Pink Tea social on next Wednesday evening, at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Humphrey and Mrs. M. B. Willis. Refreshments and mite ten cents. A very cordial invitation is extended to all.

—Our boys went to Garrett, Saturday, to have a little game of ball, and were defeated by a score of 21 to 32. They had practiced but once and have no organization as a club, and could not, of course, expect to win against a well organized and well drilled club. There is generally one objectionable feature to these friendly contests, and that is the cheering and yelling when one side makes a good play. This is unfair as it is apt to make the playing of the losers unsteady, and in that way works to their disadvantage. It is especially injurious to unskilled players. Wait till the game is over and then do the cheering.

Greenback Meeting.

Greenback Conference, at Waterloo, was held at greenback headquarters, with a full attendance, at 10 o'clock a. m., chairman R. N. Crooks presiding, and Wm. Francis, secretary.

The central committee was re-organized by the appointment of the following gentlemen, chairmen of their respective townships: Franklin, Allen F. Fretz; Smithfield, Henry Hood; Fairfield, Geo. W. Rowe; Richland, Albert Harding; Union, north, Andrew Plum; south, Robert Reed, Wilmington, Ward Kennedy; Stafford, H. H. Smith; Newville, M. E. Chapman; Concord, Evan Dermott; Butler, S. D. Bassett, Keyser, S. L. Lamb; Jackson and Troy to be filled by the committee

This committee was directed to elect their chairman and report to the conference at 1 o'clock.

On re-assembling the committee reported the name of Herman Lydecker which was accepted by the conference. At the very earnest desire of Mr. Lydecker to be retired, by reason of age and infirmity of the duties. His request was reluctantly granted.

Another effort being required the committee promptly reported the name of R. N. Crooks, which the conference as promptly confirmed.

Besides other important business, with stirring speeches, it was ordered that a convention be held at Auburn, on Saturday August 26, at 10 o'clock a. m., to decide their purpose, and place a ticket in the field; and also to extend an invitation to the Hon. H. Z. Leonard, candidate for Secretary of State, to be present and address the people.

Wm. FRANCIS, Sec'y.

—J. M. Kinsey, the postmaster of Waterloo passed through on the north bound train over the Jackson road Tuesday evening. He had with him Harry Fisher and John Haskin, of Waterloo, who had been assisting in doing the detective work in bringing the truth in regard to the recent safe robberies in Waterloo. They think they have the right men at last. Our readers will remember, that a short time ago, S. J. Locke's safe was opened, by some parties who broke into his house, and that same night the postoffice safe was drilled and opened. Though not a great deal of money was taken, yet the boldness of the burglary was a matter of astonishment. From the way the work was done it was apparent that parties living in town must be the guilty ones, as their operations showed a familiarity with the premises, that no stranger would have. For instance in gaining an entrance to Locke's building, they had bored a hole through a side door at the very point at which a hook on the inside could be reached. As these things were studied up, the more it became apparent that home talent had been at work. Parties were engaged to work up the matter. Among others, we learn that John Haskin, so well known to our citizens, and Harry Fisher, clerk at Campbell's drug store in Waterloo, have assisted. Tuesday one of the burglars was arrested in Fort Wayne. His name is Fremont Young and he has been living in Waterloo with his parents for some time. He claims to have been assisted by Frank Bevier, but the story is not generally believed. Frank was taken to Fort Wayne yesterday for examination. His parents are highly respectable people, and this trouble falls hard upon them. But they still feel hopeful that their son is innocent.

—The Knights of Honor in Waterloo will give a social and festival at their hall there this week on Saturday evening, to which all their friends throughout the county are invited. Give the boys a lift.

—Impaired vigor of mind and body, in both male or female, old or young cured by the timely use of Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment. Sold at F. E. Davenport's.

—There will be a select school in Spencerville, beginning September 11, to continue ten weeks. It will be under the charge of Mr. T. J. Sanders and Mrs. Gertrude Sanders. Tuition will be from three to five dollars for the term.

—Mrs. Ford, Ochs, Barns, Allen, Hartman and Little will entertain a lawn social at the residence of A. J. Little on next Friday evening, to which all are cordially invited. Refreshments, music, etc. Mr. Boland has kindly offered the use of his lawn. Mite ten cents.

—Mike Long took the p. m. train north Tuesday evening to join his wife in Kendallville. The youngest child of his brother, H. J. Long, editor of the Kendallville Standard, died that day and was buried yesterday. Mr. Long has the sympathy of the fraternity and of his many friends everywhere in his sad bereavement.

—There seems to be a tidal wave of weasles or something of that sort in town, as quite a number of chickens have "keeled" over suddenly with a suspicious hole in their sides. We move for a tariff on weasels that shall be high enough to keep them out of the country, whether the government gets any revenue for it or not. Our home manufactured chickens ought to protected.

—Call on J. M. Rice & Son for first-class pictures of all kinds.

Obituary.

Elizabeth Lingafelt, of Allen county, Ind., departed this life July 26, 1882, at the age of 84 years, 4 months and 14 days.

She was the mother of six children, four of them are still living. She had twenty-eight grand children and twenty three great grand children. She had lived some sixty years with her husband who survives her. She had long identified herself with the M. E. church, but eventually changed her church relationship and united with the German Baptist church. She was an honest member of both churches.

She adorned her profession with a godly walk. She was a mother in Israel and was gathered home as a shock of corn fully ripe. She realized that her treasures were in heaven and was anxiously waiting the summons to be called from the church militant to the church triumphant in heaven.

Her remains were laid in the Leo cemetery to await the general resurrection when the dead in Christ shall rise first.

May the bereft friends console themselves with the thought that mother is not dead but sleepeth.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer, J. H. Elson.

The following lines were written by Mrs. F. A. Proser on the death of her mother, July 26, 1882:

Our mother has fallen to sleep,
In the arms of the Savior above,
Why grieve we in sadness and weep,
While she is with angels of love?

Our mother has fallen to sleep,
Oh, the waking how bright it will be
When her body is free from all pain,
In heavens its beauties to see.

Our mother has fallen to sleep.
She oft talked of home and of rest,
Her visions were brightened by faith.
In the promise of God to his blest.

Our mother has fallen to sleep,
But our hope alleviates pain,
There will be a re-union of friends,
And then we shall see her again.

Our mother has fallen to sleep;
Shall awake in her beautiful home,
Without pain or sorrow or care,
Will wait for her loved ones to come.

Died.—July 27, 1882, Mrs. Caroline E. Magginnis, aged 47 years, 9 months and 20 days.

Mrs. Magginnis was born in Stark county, Ohio, October 7, 1834, and in the year of 1840 emigrated with her parents, George & Margaret Essig to DeKalb county. On March 23, 1858, She was united in marriage to Daniel Magginnis and shortly afterward moved to the farm on which she resided at the time of her death. She was the mother of three children, all of whom survive her. She united with the Evangelical Lutheran church in the year 1858, but has since become a member of the United Brethren church in which she remained until called from the church militant to the church triumphant. She was a devoted christian, a kind, patient and indulgent mother, a loving companion and a good neighbor, loved and respected by all who knew her. She was a long sufferer but bore it all with patience rarely witnessed, putting her whole trust in Him that doeth all things well.

J. Colgan, Pastor.

Have You Ever

Known any person to be seriously ill without a weak stomach or inactive liver or kidneys? And when these organs are in good condition do you not find their possessor enjoying good health? Parker's Ginger Tonic regulates these important organs, makes the blood rich and pure, and strengthens every part of the system. See other column. 31-4t.

—Farmers, look at the Burch plow before buying. 31-3t.

—A fine line of gold pens and jewelry at bottom prices. Come and see me.

2w. M. B. Willis.

—No other plow will work as well as the Burch. 31-3t.

—Young onions and cabbage at the green house. You can have them delivered if you wish.

—All kinds of house plants and garden flowers at Fleming's green house, first door south of the Presbyterian church.

—Burch Plow! Burch Plow! The season for plows is here. W. H. Kiblinger is ready to supply customers with the celebrated Burch plow. 3t.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the De Kalb circuit court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Thomas Dalton, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

M. BOLAND, Adm'r.

30-3t

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, } In the DeKalb Circuit
DeKalb County, ss. } Court, Sept. term, 1882.

Charles M. Lovington and the Singer Manufacturing Company, impleaded with others, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, to foreclose a mortgage and appoint a receiver, by Jacob Somers, and that the same will be heard and determined on the first juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences on the 25th day of September, 1882.

Witness, The Clerk of said court, this 5th day of August, 1882. John W. Baxter, Clerk.

W. H. Dills Attorney. 32-3w.

Liquor License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of Jackson township, in DeKalb county, Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of said state, over twenty-one years of age, will apply to the board of commissioners of said county at their September session, 1882, for license to retail vinous, malt and spirituous liquors in a less quantity than a quart at, and with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following premises, to-wit:

The two-story frame building on the west part of the following bounded tract of land, viz: Bounded on the east by the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific railroad (Eel River division), on the south by the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago railroad, on the west by the Fort Wayne and Jackson railroad, and on the north by the north line of said township.

August 7, 1882. Joseph P. Rothenberger.

A PASTORAL PICTURE.

WILLIAM H. HAYNE.

Across the darkness of the night
I see a slender thread of light—
Light that approaches swift and clear—
The earliest firefly of the year.

A disembodied pulse he seems,
Lit by soft phosphorescent gleams—
As if beneath his restless ray
Some ocean wave had gone astray.

A slow breeze wafts along the rill
The mandate of a whippoorwill,
Whose note revengeful seems to be
Softened by mocking fantasy.

The cricket's voice, an iterant trill,
Teases the silence of the hill.
The stars are cold and high to-night,
As vestal virgins robed in white.

The darkness deepens; overhead
Fragments of cloud are thinly spread;
A meteor's brief and baleful spark
Of hurrying fire insults the dark.

A radiance of rare splendor born,
Like some red miracle of morn,
Falling from measureless heights of sky
On night's black breast to throb and die.

WITH HIS OWN WEAPON.

"What are you thinking about, Maude? You have not spoken a word for five minutes. I can not say that you are remarkably entertaining this evening."

"Am I not? And do you really wish to know my thoughts?"

"Certainly I do."

"Very well, then. No woman is satisfied with a man's devotion, even if she knows it to be genuine, if he appears to slight her in the presence of others; and I think, my dear George, that I occupied the position of a slighted woman last evening, when you devoted yourself so openly to Clara Vaughan."

"I only danced with her three times," said George.

"And sat out three more with her," suplemented Maude; "while I, owing to the lack of men, was obliged to play the part of wall-flower. Do you think that was a pleasant position for an engaged young woman?"

"My dear child, how plainly you talk?" cried George, disconcerted by her frank appeal.

"Why not? Pique should not be allowed to interfere between lovers—you know pride's chickens are an expensive brood to keep. I confess that your conduct made me very unhappy. I was not jealous, remember—I have perfect faith in you; but I felt neglected and annoyed that you should give Clara the opportunity to triumph over me, even in semblance; for she delights in such victories—little coquette that she is!"

"Maude," said George, seeing his chance and improving it at once, only too glad to bolster up a weak cause, "I am surprised to see that you dislike Miss Vaughan. Why is it women never uphold each other? In my opinion she is a sweet girl without an atom of coquetry about her."

"Then you have less discrimination than I gave you credit for possessing," replied Maude, quietly, though her deepening color showed that she resented his words. "But we will not discuss Clara, if you please—I wish to talk of ourselves."

"What do you want me to do?" cried George, irritated at the cool way in which his attack was met. "Surely you would not tie me to your side every moment of the time?"

"Not one moment of it, sir, if it is your wish to be free!" haughtily exclaimed Maude, now really angry. "You can leave at once—I shall make no effort to detain you."

"What nonsense!" the young man rejoined, in a much humbler tone. "You know I could not live without you, Maudie. But you are unreasonable; I can't promise never to speak to another girl, you know."

"Nor do I exact such a promise; only I wish others to see by your conduct that you have sworn allegiance to me. I am only a woman, and have all a woman's vanity. George suppose our positions had been reversed last evening, would you have liked to see me as openly pleased with another man's attentions as you were with Clara?"

"Certainly I should," he answered, with an air of virtuous self-denial refreshing to see. "I would never interfere with your enjoyment that way."

Maude looked deeply perplexed, and then faintly smiled.

"You are quite safe in saying that beause I do not believe there is another eligible man in the village. Which fact probably accounts," she added, with a shy laugh, "for Clara's absorption of you."

George bowed.

"Thanks for the compliment, Miss Arthur."

"Not at all."

Maude had the sweetest temper in the world, and her mood was fast regaining its wonted sunniness.

"Well, George, I wont scold any more, but we'll made a bargain; you can flirt all you chose, give me equal liberty; are you agreed?"

"On one condition: that neither of us abuse the privilege."

"The umpires shall be our own consciences?"

"Yes."

"Then my dear George, I'm affaid your career will be positively reckless!"

* * * * * *

Maud stood waiting for her lover, who was to escort her to a ball at Bedford Hall; and in her rose-colored dress, with roses in her dark hair, looked pretty enough to woo a hermit from his seclusion.

George, who, despite of his little predilection for flirting, was very much in love with the girl, was loud in his admiration of her appearance; and when the pair entered the hall together happiness had lent a new light to Maude's beautiful eyes.

Clara Vaughan, a charming little sylph in blue and silver, came tripping across the floor to meet them.

"Oh, Maude," she cried, when the first greetings were over, "who do you think is here—just returned from London?"

"I'm sure I can't imagine," said Maude.

"Another pretty girl?" asked George, looking admiringly into Clara's rather bold blue eyes.

"Pretty girl, indeed? As if I should be interested in her!" said Clara in disdain. "No, indeed—its a handsome young man—none other than your old admirer, Maude—Stephen Black."

"Is it possible," cried Maude with a blush of undisguised pleasure. "Why yes—there he is, sure enough! And how handsome he is looking."

"Humph. Women have strange ideas of beauty," grumbled George, by no means delighted with this turn of affairs.

"Oh, we don't expect you to see how charming he is," Clara flippantly answered; "it would scarcely be natural under the circumstances. But Maude and I think differently. And oh! he put his name on my card for three dances!" And she flourished the bit of pasteboard in triumph.

George stretched out his hand for it.

"Is there room for my name there, Miss Clara?" he asked stiffly, not relishing her enthusiasm, and inclined to think that, after all, the "sweet girl" had considerable "coquetry about her."

"I believe there are one or two dances left," she answered, with an indifference which made Maude smile, remembering how different her reception of George's attentions had been on a former occasion.

"You had better take what dances you wish before my card is filled," she said quietly, when her lover had returned Clara's card.

"Oh, I'll attend to that after the first dance," he answered, and in another moment they had taken their places on the floor.

Maude said nothing, but her quiet smile meant volumes.

George spoke little while dancing; he was nettled by the marked change in Clara's manner. He did not care a straw for the girl, but his vanity was wounded. He furtively watched her as she danced with Stephen Black—a singularly handsome man, he acknowledged to himself—and observed all her little arts and graces, the very arts which she had employed to please him not so long ago. The moment the dance was over he seated Maude beside some friends, and rushed off to seek Clara, determined to divert her attention from this interloper. Clara, on the other hand, was bent on retaining Mr. Black by her side, and her chargin could not be concealed when he, glad of the pretext afforded by George's approach, bowed himself away and walked across the room to Maude.

Ten minutes after, when George, mercilessly snubbed by Clara, disconsolately sought his betrothed, his smarting vanity needing the balm of her unwavering devotion, he found her talking gaily with Mr. Black, who made no effort to conceal his appreciation of her society. With easy grace she introduced the two gentlemen, who bowed stiffly to each other, then resumed her conversation, which, consisted of old reminiscences in which George had no share; therefore he could take no part in their talk.

In one moment he had forgotten all about Clara and his pretty annoyance on her account, while a pang of real jealousy seized his heart. For the first time in his knowledge of her he saw Maude entirely engrossed with another man, that man a former suitor, and his experience was not a pleasant one. He stood beside her for some time, waiting for a word or look; she had seemingly forgotten his very existence. By-and-by he quietly touched her hand.

"Will you give me your card, Maude?" he asked as she looked around.

"Certainly," she smilingly answered; "but I am afraid all the dances are gone."

He looked at it without a word; as she said, there is not one dance left.

"I told you when we entered the room that you had better secure as many as you desired," she said, in answer to his look of reproach. And remembering this indifference, could answer nothing.

That was the most miserable evening George Campbell ever spent. Maude, in the gayest of spirits, was so absorbed by Stephen Black that he had no opportunity to exchange more than half a dozen words with her during the entire evening. Nor was he the only sufferer; Clara Vaughan, always on the lookout for fresh conquests, had determined to secure Stephen's attention, and was made absolutely furious by his side for three consecutive minutes; her brandishments fell powerless on this man of the world, who knew every phase of a coquette's art, and thought Clara a rather clumsy workwoman, though she did very well for a village girl. Maude's simple frankness and absence of self-consciousness suited him far better, and he remained as much as possible by her side.

But Clara had determined on one grand effort, and late in the evening proceeded to make it.

Mr. Black and Maude were still laughing and talking together in a corner of the ball-room. Near by George Campbell, his face dark with anger, when Clara came tripping towards him, her face wreathed with artificial smiles.

"Oh, Mr. Campbell!" she cried; "I am in such a quandary! Uncle and aunt have gone home without me, and I have no escort; and it is so late!"

She paused and looked appealingly—not at George, but at Stephen, fully expecting that he would offer to do escort duty. But he seemed blind and deaf to all but his companion, and George was forced to respond.

"I shall be glad to see you to your home, Miss Clara, if Miss Arthur will wait here until my return," he said slowly and reluctantly.

At this moment Stephen suddenly recovered sight and hearing.

"Allow me to relieve you of the care of Miss Arthur," he courteously said, turning to George. "I have a carriage below, and shall be delighted to take her home."

Before the irate lover could answer, Maude spoke:

"Thank you, Mr. Black; that will adjust matters nicely," she said with a bright smile. "You need give yourself no concern on my account, Mr. Campbell, but attend to Clara if you please."

What could George say? His face grew darker than before as he stammered out something about being "glad to oblige all parties," then offered his arm to the no less discomfited Clara, and strode rapidly away. And it is certain that the little coquette never had a less entertaining escort than young Campbell was that night.

An hour later Maude stood on the steps of her house, bidding Stephen Black good night.

"And I may call to take you to ride to-morrow?" he said, on parting.

"Yes, I shall be delighted to go," said Maude; and then Mr. Black sprang into his carriage and drove rapidly away.

Maude turned to enter the house, when a well known voice arrested her.

"Maude—one moment—I must speak to you!"

A gleam of amusement crossed the girl's arch face as she turned to confront her lover. Not that there was anything calculated to create amusement in the young man's appearance, for he was absolutely white with passion and jealousy.

"Why, George! Is that you?" asked Maude, in innocent surprise. "Where is Clara?"

"Confound Clara!" he exclaimed, too much in earnest to appear ridiculous. "If it had not been for her—but never mind that. Maude, are you going to ride with that fellow to-morrow?"

"Certainly I am," she coolly answered. "Why not?"

"Because I forbid it!" he hotly answered.

"My dear boy, you have as yet no right to forbid me to do anything," was the lofty response.

George ground his teeth together in impotent rage. He felt that it would not do to take too high a hand with the girl in her present mood.

"I think," said Maude, as he remained silent, "that you have forgotten our agreement of last night. If you remember——"

"I remember nothing except that I was a fool, Maude!" burst out George, seizing her hand and holding it tight. "My darling, I have suffered so much to-night that I can understand how unfairly I treated you when I flirted with that artful little coquette——"

"My dear George," said Maude, solemnly. "I am surprised to see that you dislike Miss Vaughan. In my opinion she is a sweet girl, without—"

"Ah, Maudie, show me some mercy!" begged George, encouraged by the sly mischief in the girl's eyes to carry the hand held to his lips. "I have behaved like an unmitigated idiot, and don't deserve forgiveness; but you won't be cruel to me, will you, dear?"

For answer, Maude extended her other hand.

"Yes, George, I forgive you," she said, meeting his ardent gaze with her frank, truthful eyes. "But you'll let me accept Stephen's invitation for to-morrow?"

"No, no, Maude—I cannot consent to that."

"Not if I tell you that he is my cousin's husband, and has been for the last two years, you dear, jealous simpleton. Oh, Georgie, I've only been giving you a lesson that you needed, and Stephen helped me with it. Don't you think he succeeded?"

And Georgie, now radiantly happy again, admitted that they had.

Well, the lesson cured him. From that time there was no more devoted man in the world than George Campbell.

She Feared the Worst.

Chicago Tribune.

"Give me the pie."

Out upon the lawn of the Castle McMurtry stood a young girl just in the springtide of youth. The scarlet roses that swung lazily to and fro in the breath of a June morning were not more beautiful than those which bloomed so brightly in the peachy cheeks of the Lady Constance McMurtry, and her slight but faultlessly moulded figure, set off to perfection by a plain morning dress of white muslin, had in its movements more of grace and beauty than those of the grayhound which lay silently at the feet of its mistress, watching her every movement with intelligent and loving eyes. The girl's rippling, golden hair was simply tied with a blue ribbon; the lovely, half-childish face was a poem complete in itself. It was a face that changed with every thought—one moment gay and bright; in another thoughtful and sad. As she spoke the words with which the chapter opens there was a wistful look upon the pretty face, and the brown eyes shot forth a yearning will-I-ever-find-the-hair-brush glance that was pitiful in its sad beauty.

For an instance Lord Wyverne did not reply. Then, placing his hand on the girl's shoulder, and, looking into her eyes with a grave tenderness that told how the horror of the scene told upon him, he said, in tones that were almost a sob, "You must be brave, my child; must nerve yourself to bear a great grief."

"My God!" exclaimed the girl. "Tell me what has happened. It surely cannot be that there is no pie?"

"No, my darling," replied the Earl. "It is not so bad as that. Your aunt is dead."

"Ah!" said Constance, "how you frightened me. I thought surely it was the pie."

He Didn't Know Him.

Weekly Review.

At a station on one of the railroads leading out of Detroit the train had arrived and departed the other day, when the station agent, who had been in the place about three weeks, and was looking for a man every hour to come to Detroit and take charge of the line, was approached by a quick, well-dressed man, smoking a cigar, who asked:

"Keep you pretty busy here?"

"Yum," was the jerky reply.

"Business on the increase?"

"Yum," again.

"Do you run this station?" asked the quiet man after a turn on the platform.

"Nobody else runs it," growled the agent. "Have you got a patent car-coupler?"

"Oh, no."

"I was going to tell you to go to thunder with it if you had. Want special freight rates, I suppose?"

"No, sir."

"I don't give any passes."

"I don't want any."

"Waiting for the next train?"

"Not particularly."

"Want to charter a car?"

"No."

The agent left him on the platform, and entered his office and busied himself for half an hour, when the quiet man looked in on him and asked:

"What's the salary of a position like this?"

"That's my business," was the prompt reply.

"What's the income from this station?"

"Ask the baggageman."

"Your name is —— ——, isn't it?"

"Suppose it is."

"Oh, nothing much—only I'm the general manager of the line, and I'd like to exchange cards with you."

ANECDOTES OF SKOBELEFF

Stories About the Great Russian General's Valor and Daring—His Unique Place Among Generals—An Idol of His Men—His Experience with the Khokandians—A Conspicuous Figure.

From the London Times.

No military commander of the present generation has succeeded in gaining the enthusiastic attachment of his soldiers in anything approaching the same degree as General Skobeleff, and, indeed, he appears to have been able to exercise as complete a fascination over all who were brought into contact with him. The military annals of Russia during the last ten years are full of anecdotes of his personal valor and daring, some of which were highly characteristic, while they all contributed to make him the idol of his men. The general feeling of his soldiers toward him was one of intense personal attachment and devotion, which irresistibly remind the reader of the sentiment felt by the veterans of Napoleon toward their great chief. In this respect Skobeleff stood alone among Russian Generals, and this unique position, which was growing stronger every day, because the feeling of admiration on which it was based was passing from the ranks of the army into the hearts of the people, seemed to warrant a belief that the young General would play a foremost part in the crisis when the house of Romanoff, brought to its long threatened trial, will be rehabilitated in popular esteem or ruined forever. We propose to briefly record some of the principal of these anecdotes, as throwing light upon the character of one of the few heroes of our time.

Skobeleff found no opportunity of special distinction until the time of the expedition against Khiva. He was appointed to the command of a regiment of Cossacks in the column sent from Kinderly Bay, on the Caspian, to join the corps under the orders of General Vereikin, which operated from Orenburg. The sufferings incurred during this march were dreadful, and have been feelingly recorded by Lieutenant Stumm, a German officer attached to it. Several times it seemed that the absence of water would entail not merely the failure of the expedition, but the destruction of the whole force, and a rapid retreat to the Caspian seemed to afford the only means of escape. During this critical time Colonel Skobeleff was always to the front with his Cossacks, and it was his fortunate capture of a large convoy of provisions from a stronger body of Turcomans that gave the troops the first encouragement they had met with during their march. In the operations before the town of Khiva, Skobeleff took a more prominent part than his rank warranted, owing to General Vereikin being incapacitated by a wound. Indeed, he may be said to have effected the capture of the place, for, having battered down the Kazavat Gate, he made his way, at the head of a thousand men, to the palace of the Khan. He effected his purpose, but, on learning that General Kaufmann had entered the town by another gate, he at once withdrew, leaving the Governor General the nominal credit of the victory. Before the Russian troops recrossed the Oxus, Skobeleff, on the principle that "adventures are still for the adventurous," made the opportunity of gaining fresh distinction. The difficulties of the desert, which had nearly proved too much for his own column, had completely baffled that sent under Colonel Markozof from Chikishlar and the Attreck. It advanced a short distance beyond the Igdy wells, when it had to beat a retreat, and the operations culminated in disgrace and disaster. The desire was often expressed to ascertain whether, if Markozof had persisted in his attempt, he could have made his way to Khiva, and the only means of settling the point was for some one to explore the route between Khiva and Igdy. This was the task to which, when the operations of the war were concluded, Skobeleff set himself with characteristic energy. Dressed in Turcoman costume, and accompained by three Turcomans attached to his person, he rode for ten days through the desert, and succeeded in making the necessary examination to establish the fact that Markozof had had no choice save to retreat. This adventurous journey, in the midst of a cruel and infuriated enemy, spread the fame of Skobeleff's gallantry, and his exploration of the old bed of the Oxus was acknowledged to be the most intrepid feat of the war.

In 1875 the outbreak of disturbances in the Khanate of Khokand, where the people rose up against their Prince, Khudayar, resulted in the dispatch of a Russian expedition into that State, and Skobeleff was intrusted with one of the principal commands. It was mainly due to his valor and to the energy with which he followed up the beaten detachments of the enemy that the Khokandians were so speedily disheartened. At Makhram he showed for the first time the capacity of a leader of men in out-maneuvering a greatly superior force of his opponents. He obtained the reward of his merit in his appointment to the post of first Governor of Ferghana; but, having exposed something of the corruption prevailing throughout the public departments, he made powerful enemies, and found himself obliged to hasten to St. Petersburg to meet and refute the charges brought in retaliation against himself. He was still under a cloud when the Turkish war began, and the utmost favor he could obtain was to be appointed en disponibilite to the staff of the Grand Duke Nicholas. Neither the jealousy of his brother Generals—for Skobeleff was now a Major General, and decorated, moreover, with two Crosses of St. George—nor the disfavor of the Court could keep such a man in the background when reputation was to be won by valor and skill shown in the face of the enemy. The first act of the war showed Skobeleff in the character of the Bayard of the Russian army. He attached himself as aid-de camp to the General commanding the advance guard, and, while the rest of the troops were crossing the Danube in boats, he swam his horse across in view of the whole army. The Danube at this point is twice the width of the Thames, and the effect of the act was to bring home as a vital fact to the army in Europe Skobeleff's reputation for gallantry, which had been up to that an Asiatic production. What this passage of the Danube showed the later incidents of war confirmed. In the second battle at Plevna—that fought on the 30th of July—his skillful manipulation of the cavalry checked the Turkish advance and virtually saved the Russian army from annihilation. But it was at the struggle at Loftcha that he shone to the most conspicuous advantage; for the results of that battle, which was fought on the lines he sketched out, were that Osman Pasha was cut off from his communication with Shipka and constrained to hold on to his position at Plevna. The Grand Duke Nicholas acknowledged that Skobeleff was "the hero of the day." The struggle at Loftcha being successfully concluded, Skobeleff hastened to take part in the desperate assault on the Gravitza and adjoining redoubts, which resulted in, perhaps, the most awful slaughter of modern times. It will be remembered that Skobeleff, at the head of 18,000 men, succeeded in effecting a lodgment within the line of Turkish redoubts, but that he was driven out the following day. His loss amounted to 8,000 men, but instead of his soldiers being disheartened and disgusted with him personally by this disastrous failure, they worshiped him more than ever as the General who had shared all their perils and who had performed almost incredible feats of valor.

Skobeleff received his reward in being raised to the rank of Lieutenant-General with the command of the Sixteenth Division, which he at once set himself to work to make the most efficient, in the army. His attention to the comfort of his men was unfortunately not so much as attempted to be imitated by any other Russian commander. When the war was concluded he advanced out of his own pocket a sum of money to enable his sick and wounded to reach Odessa a few weeks earlier than they otherwise would have reached it—a thoughtfulness to which, no doubt, some of them owed their lives. On the other hand, he expected from them in return the greatest self-sacrifice and the most unquestioning obedience. This they willingly gave, as they found he never asked them to incur any danger he was unwilling to share. His figure, clothed in white uniform from head to foot, and mounted on a white charger—whence he derived his name of "the White General"—was always conspicuous where the fire was hottest; and the manner in which he escaped unhurt from the worst fields of carnage was nothing short of miraculous and excited his own wonder, as he was fully persuaded that he would not come out of the campaign alive. Like Nelson, he always dressed with exceptional care for the day of battle, and one of his greatest friends and admirers, Lieutenant Greene, of the United States army, says that "he went into battle in his cleanest uniform and fresh underclothing, covered with perfume, and wearing a diamond-hilted sword, in order, as he said, that he might die with his best clothes on." From these personal traits and characteristics some idea may be gathered of the man. The historical characters to whom he bore most resemblance appear to have been Charles XII., of Sweden and the eccentric Lord Peterborough.

She Took no Risks.

Cincinnati Musical People.

"Have ye any gud piannies?" she asked, as she stepped into a piano ware room on East Fourteenth street the other day, displaying a prosperous-looking pocketbook. "I want one fur me darter, who is comin' home from the seminary wid a finished education."

"What style of instrument do you prefer?" said the clerk displaying an upright. "This piano is the double-patent quadruple stringing board never stay in tune and celluloid keys."

"Och! never a happorth do I care about the stoile, so long as it's a strong case. Have ye any wid iron cases?"

"No, ma'am; but all our cases are made extra strong."

"How much'll ye take for the piannie?"

"Four hundred dollars, ma'am."

"Do you sell on the slow-pay plan?"

"Yes, occasionally we sell to reliable purchasers on the installment plan. The installment on this piano would be $15 a month."

"Will ye throw in a cover and sthule?"

"Hardly fair to ask it ma'am, but we will throw in those articles this time for you."

"An' a buk of music?"

"Yes, we won't be mean about it."

"Now, if ye'll insure the piannie I'll take it."

"Well, really, ma'am, the purchaser usually insures the instrument; but to close a bargain, we'll insure the piano and agree to take all risks."

"Ye se, betwane me an' you," said she, after she had made her mark on the necessary papers and deposited the first installment receipt in her bosom, "I'm glad to feel aisy about the insurance, as I want to get the better of me ole man, who tuk an oath that ef I brought a piannie into the house he'd smash it up wid an ax. An' faith he's the bi to do it the next time he gets dhrunk."

An Irresistible English Courtier

Stories from State Papers.

Young, handsome, a scholar and a poet, with a courage which was noted even in those days, when courage was considered everything, he had all the gifts to seduce the affections of a woman of the temperament of Elizabeth. From the first hour when he had been presented at court by his stepfather, the favorite Leicester, he had won the regard of the Queen. He was different from the scheming servile courtiers who surrounded her. Educated at Cambridge, and the friend of Burghley, the young man was well read in his sovereign's favorite classics, his conversation had all the charms of culture and yet of originality, and he was of the age when poetry becomes the most fascinating of studies. Elizabeth took no pains to conceal her liking for the boy Earl. He was, during the first months of his life at court, her constant companion. He read aloud to her; he composed sonnets to her; and there was the sympathetic relationship between them which often exists between a lad and a woman much older than himself. Like most whose character is naturally domineering, the Queen fully appreciated the cool audacity of the young Earl, who declined to be intimidated by her presence, offered his opinions, and maintained them in spite of all opposition from Her Majesty.

JOCOSITIES.

Most people who visit Niagara Falls are disappointed in the roar. They expect to hear something like the voice of a chairman at a ward caucus.

Said Kate to her new husband, "John what rock does true love split upon?" Quoth John, and grinned from ear to ear, "The rock of yonder cradle, dear."

Wife—"But, my dear, I shall catch cold coming down so late to let you in." Husband—"Oh, no, my love, I'll rap you up well before you come down."

"Is the howling of a dog always followed by a death?" asked a little girl of her father. "Not always, my dear; because sometimes the man who shoots misses him," was the reply.

A witty lady, who is, however, somewhat given to exaggeration, was trying to tell a friend what a poor appetite she had, and said, "I eat very little; a flea would be a barbecue for me."

"Heaven lies about us in our infancy," says the poet. The inference is that as soon as we get big enough to talk we can be relied on to lie about ourselves. If we do not, our enemies will lie about us.

The Boston Transcript tells of a relative of the immortal Mrs. Malaprop, who lives in a suburban town. The other evening a caller asked if Mr. —— was at home, and could be seen. "I believe my husband has expired for the night."

A man in Georgia lost a gold collar-button two years ago, and recently the missing jewelry was found in the fat of the digestive organs of a slaughtered cow. How the cow got under the bureau in the bedroom, where a detached collar-button always rolls, is an inexplicable mystery.

Elderly Spinster (who is being measured for a pair of boots)—"And mind that you make one larger than the other." Attendent with astonishment)—"They won't be fellows, ma'am!" E. S. (with asperity)—"Certainly not; I don't like fellows, an I will have nothing whatever to do with them!"

"Don't you have any schools here?" "Had a kind of a school here last chowder season, but the teacher was too willing." "How so?" "Oh, some of the blue fishers asked if he taught that the world was round or square, and he said seem' as he was outen a job he'd teach her round or square—just as the school board wanted it teached. Said it was immaterial."

A Sunday-school teacher was examining his class as to their Biblical knowledge. "Who was it that betrayed his master?" First boy—"Abraham betrayed his master." "That's not right. Next!" Second boy—"It was Judas Iscariot who betrayed his master." "That was right." A good little boy looked reproachfully at the teacher and said: "I am going to tell my ma you said it was right for Judas to betray his master.

Two provincials, a man and his wife visited the Louvre, in Paris. "What struck you most at Louvre?" asked one of their friends, when they returned home and began to tell of the wonders they had seen. "Oh" replied the husband, "a picture which represented Adam and Eve, with the apple and the serpent." And his excellent wife chimed in: "Yes, we found that very interesting, because, you know, we knew the ancedote."

Burlington Hawkeye: Last week, a boy down in Lee county rigged himself up in a sheet one night, and sneaked around the house to stand at the window of his brother's room and play ghost. But he forgot to count on the dog, who didn't believe in ghosts, and pretended to sleep by the kitchen chimney. The ghost materialized about five feet from the chimney, and when the doctor came he cauterized nineteen holes in it, while the dog, with his tail standing straight up in the air like a mast, walked around the yard on his tip-toes, and talked bass, and asked everybody he met what he should fly at next.

Two Crops Potatoes in One Season.

It has been discovered that two crops of Early Rose potatoes can be grown on the same land in a single season, and it is worth testing in this section. Take young potatoes of this year's growth and dry for a few days in the cold frame, throw water over them, cover with a few inches of dirt, and then place straw over the frame to prevent too much evaporation. At sundown place over them a glass sash, and remove it the next morning. In four or five days the potatoes will sprout, when they can be cut to two eyes and planted. Whole potatoes do not answer as well as those that are cut. Plant in checks two and a half feet apart, or in drills three feet by eighteen inches, and cover lightly. From the digging of early potatoes to the middle of August is the proper time for the second crop. Cultivate them on the level method, and do not hill. The points to be observed are to use plenty of fertilizer, as two crops exhaust the land; select good seed, be sure that the tubes were sprouted before planting; plant shallow, and endeavor to take advantage of the season, Or, to give a more economical method the smaller potatoes, provided they are good, together with large ones, if desired, may be cut and bedded like the sweet potato, and when they are well sprouted can be taken up in the same manner, removing all but the most vigorous sprout, and transplanted. In doing this it is well, if possible, to take up the plant entire, with the earth and decaying potato adhering. The above is recommended by a fruit-grower and farmers' association, and it appears to be a good method for growing early potatoes as well as late ones.

Marriage of Two Children.

From the Troy Times, July 8.

Much comment is expressed at Averill Park and Sandlake on the marriage, last evening, by the Rev. A. W. Ashley, the Baptist minister at the former place, of Josie Bailey, aged but 13 years, and Willard Lent, 20 years old. Their relatives and friends were not informed of the event until the matrimonial knot had been tied. The youthful couple this morning went to work for an Averill Park farmer.

"How is the name of Arabi, the revolutionary leader in Egypt, pronounced?" asks a querist. The correct pronunciation is Ar-ab-i, with the accent on the middle syllable.

The Democrats.

A Large and Enthusiastic Assemblage.

Prohibition and Submission the Watchword for the Coming Campaign.

Indianapolis, August 2.

The convention was called to order at 10:40 o'clock at English's Opera House, by Hon. Wm. H. English, Chairman of the State Central Committee. The delegates number 1,121. It was a strictly representative gathering, and the faces of the wheel-horses who had done service for two or three generations were visible in every direction. It was altogether a well-dressed and substantial looking body of men. The delegates occupied the first and second floors, the Marion county delegation being in the latter locality.

When Mr. English dropped the gavel the building was crowded in every part. The stage was occupied by editors from different parts of the State, a few Republicans, the Vice-Presidents and candidates. The distinguished gentlemen who usually figure in the foreground, being scattered among the delegations. The echoes of "Dixie's Land" and "Marching through Georgia," by the band, having died away, the refrains demonstrating that there was nothing mean about the orchestra, Mr. English stepped forward and introduced Rev. O. H. P. Abbott, of this city, who offered a brief prayer.

Mr. English then addressed the convention in a speech of an hour, that was conspicuous more for abuse of Republicans than for any particular advocacy of Democratic principles.

PERMANENT ORGAIZATION.

The Secretary of the State Central Committee, James H. Rice, then proceeded to call the roll, and a full representation was reported without a contest. J. A. S. Mitchell, of Elkhart, then reported the officers of the convention as made up last night, and the rules arranged for the convention, which prohibited any nominating speeches.

Judge John R. Coffroth, of Tippecanoe county, was then introduced and immediately assumed the chair, without a speech, except to thank the convention for the honor conferred.

The Chairman having announced the next thing in order to be the report of the Committee on Resolutions, Governor Hendricks came forward as its chairman, amid a perfect whirlwind of applause. Governor Hendricks announced that the committee had made Hon. Joseph E. McDonald a member of the committee, and on his motion the action of the committee in this regard was ratified by the convention. Mr. Hendricks then read the platform as follows:

The Democratic party of Indiana in convention assembled, renews its pledge of fidelity to the doctrines and traditions of the party as illustrated by the teachings of Thomas Jefferson, its founder, and exemplified in the administration of the Government under Democratic rule. And we insist upon an honest and economical administration on the principles upon which it rests. Conceding to the Federal Government its Federal constitution, and claiming for the States and the people respectively the powers therein reserved to them.

We arraign the Republican party at the bar of public opinion for its long and continued course of usurpation and misrule. It has disregarded the rights of the people and the States. It has held on to its ill-gotten power in defiance of the popular will, by the corrupt use of money in the elections, and it has corrupted public morals by elevating to high places men who are known to be dishonest.

We condemn the Republican party for enacting and enforcing laws designed to place the elections under Federal control in violation of the rights of the State.

We condemn it for the fraud and perjuries of 1876 by which the will of the people was set aside and a usurper placed in the Presidential office for four years.

We condemn it for having kept up and maintained in time of peace an onerous and unjust system of taxation by means of which large sums of money have accumulated in the treasury which ought to have been left in the pockets of the people; and we condemn it for its wasteful extravagance in the expenditure of public money.

We condemn it for its shameless disregard of its pledges in favor of "civil service reform," and its corrupt use of the public patronage under the "spoils system."

We condemn it for its systematic levy of blackmail upon the clerks and union office holders of the United States, in violation of law, to raise a fund for the corruption of the ballot-box; and we call especially upon the voters of Indiana to vindicate their honor and to erase the stain that was placed upon them by the "Dorseyites" in 1880.

We demand that the present wasteful and unnecessary expenditure of the public money shall be stopped, and that the surplus revenue shall be faithfully applied to the payment of the national debt.

We demand that Federal taxes be reduced to the lowest point consistent with the wants of the government under an honest and economical administration of its affairs, and that such taxes be so adjusted as to secure an equitable distribution of these burdens.

We demand that there shall be such reforms in the civil service as will again result in the employment in the public service of those only who are honest and capable, and that no assessments or exactions of any kind shall be required of them for political purposes.

We demand protection to our citizens, native and adopted, at home and abroad, and we denounce and condemn the present Republican administration for its neglect of duty toward those lately imprisoned as "suspects" in the jails of Ireland, by the arbitrary action of the British authorities.

We demand a revision of the present unjust tariff. The constitution of the United States confers upon Congress the power to establish a tariff for revenue; and as a just and proper exercise of that power, we favor such an adjustment of its provisions, within the revenue standard, as will promote the industries of the country and the interests of labor without creating monopolies.

The Democratic party is now, as it has always been, opposed to all sumptuary legislation, and it is especially opposed to the proposed amendment to the constitution of Indiana, known as the prohibitory amendment, and we are in favor of the submission of said proposed amendment, as well as other proposed amendments, to the people, according to the provisions of the constitution for its own amendment, and the people have the right to oppose or favor the adoption of any or all the amendments at all stages of their consideration, and any submission of constitutional amendment to a vote of the people should be at a time and under circumstances most favorable to a full vote, and therefore should be at a general election.

That we freely endorse and approve the laws passed pursuant to the demands of former Democratic conventions making provisions for the safety and protection of laborers and miners and providing for the collection of their wages and are in favor of all other enactments to that end which may be necessary and proper.

The free schools of Indiana are the pride and glory of the State, and we will see to it that they are not poisoned by the breath of sectarianism, nor destroyed by waste and extravagance in their management.

In the relation between capital and labor, we favor such policies as will promote harmony between them, and will adequately protect the rights and interests of labor.

We esteem D. W. Voorhees as an able and faithful representative of our State in the Senate, and specially commend him for his active sympathy in behalf of the soldier.

Gov. Hendricks then moved, by instruction of the committee, that the platform be adopted, and on that motion he moved the previous question. Under the gag law the vote was taken, resulting in an overwhelming majority in favor of acceptance. Three or four negaitves were head.

John R. East, of Monroe, secured the attention of the chair and insisted upon presenting the following amendment:

We declare that the Democratic party is now, and ever has been opposed to legislation merely sumptuary, but as the Republican party has made the probibitory amendment an issue in this State, we favor the agreement of the same by the next Legislature to the end that the merits of such amendment may be tested by a direct vote of the electors of the State thereon.

Referred to the Committee on Resolutions.

The following was handed to the President:

Indianapolis, August 2.

To the President of the Democratic Convention and the honorable body assembled:

On behalf of the Women's Christian Temperance Union we ask admission for the purpose of presenting a memorial, asking that the prohibition amendment be submitted to a direct vote of the male people of the State.

HELEN M. GOUGAR,
ANNE B. CAMPBELL.

Consent was given. Mrs. Helen M. Gougar, representing the W. C. T. U., then was introduced, and much to the common surprise, warmly endorsed the resolution of the platform referring to a general submission, and with that was pleased to say that she was satisfied.

Mrs. Mary E. M. Price, of Kokomo, on behalf of the woman suffrage amendment, engaged the attention of the convention by request of Senator Dykeman, and submitted a written address, making a pathetic appeal for the Democracy of the State to recognize the suffrage movement. She was received with cheers, when she asserted that this was her debut as a public speaker, and that she knew no more fitting for a debut than a Democratic convention. Her demand, briefly put, was:

That the Democratic party of Indiana believes that the right of suffrage is based upon citizenship, and we believe the right to vote should not be denied nor abridged on account of sex.

No action was taken.

The nominations being in order, the names of Wm. A. Peele, of Marion, W. R. Myers, of Madison, and W. W. Woollen, of Indianapolis were presented for Secretary of State. Upon the second ballot Mr. Myers was elected.

A. B. Pitzer, of Tipton county; Daniel McDonald, of Marshall, and James H. Rice, of Floyd, were then nominated for Auditor. On the second ballot Mr. Rice raised a majority and was declared the nominee.

The nominees for Treasurer were Thomas B. Byrnes, of Vanderburgh, William M. McPheeters, of Washington; Bernard Schweitzer, of Owen; Thomas B. Hunt, of Henry; and John J. Cooper, of Marion. Upon the second ballot John J. Cooper received a majority and was declared the nominee.

The nominees for Attorney General were David Turpie, of Marion; Joel Williamson, of Vanderburgh; William C. Forrey, of Fayette; Francis T. Hord, of Bartholomew. It took just two ballots to settle this contest, the result being in favor of Hon. Francis T. Hord.

For the office of Clerk of the Supreme Court there were seven names placed in nomination. The two principal ones being Hon. B. S. Sutton, of Shelby county, and Hon. S. P. Sheerin, of Cass county. The first ballot showed Mr. Sheerin to be slightly in the majority over Sutton, his vote being 349 to Sutton's 298; necessary to a choice 561. On the second ballot being called the nomination of Mr. Sheerin being so apparent, as county after county changed their vote in his favor that it was finally made unanimous amid noisy demonstration.

For this office Hon. John Holcomb, of Porter county, received the nomination on the second ballot.

For this distinguished place on the ticket the following three gentlemen received the nominations: Judges Zollars, Howk and Niblack.

FROM WASHINGTON.

With one exception, no Congress since the war has remained in continuous session so long as the present one. The exception was the first session of the Forty-fourth Congress, which lasted till late in August, 1876. Even now it is impossible to state whether there will be an adjournment in one, two or three weeks.

River and harbor improvements will not entirely stop if no appropriations shall be made, for the appropriations in the general appropriation bills do not lapse at the end of the fiscal year, if not used, but continue a permanent appropriation.

The Secretary of the Treasury expects that the applications for the exchange of bonds for the new three per cents, which will arrive here Tuesday morning, amount to a car-load. The Secretary will make no further call for outstanding bonds until the time for the exchange into three per cents is closed. The reason is that until that time it cannot be determined what denominations and numbers of the present issue will be offered.

Legislation is not progressing in Congress with such rapidity as promises final adjournment this week. The conferences are slow in reporting.

The best opinion this afternoon is that the President will sign the River and Harbor bill, with a reservation that he will expend only a portion of the amount appropriated.

The President has approved the order permitting the shipment of a suitable supply of liquors to Sitka, Alaska, for medicinal purposes during the prevalence of measles and scarlet fever.

The Cabinet, which had a majority at one time opposed to the bill, has now reversed its majority, two of the members having been won over.

The House Appropriations Committee concurred in the Senate amendments relative to the monitor, and decided to fight all the others. This may result in prolonging the session. It was said in committee this morning that the Senate had increased the personal and decreased the material force of the navy.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

MONDAY, July 26th.

SENATE.—The further discussion of the tax reduction bill was postponed, and the naval appropriation bill taken up.

HOUSE.—The conference report on the river and harbor bill was agreed to—yeas, 111; nays, 82. Considerable routive business was disposed of.

THURSDAY, July 27.

SENATE—The naval appropriation bill was further considered.

HOUSE—A bill was passed fixing the salary of the Collector of Customs at Chicago at $7,000 per annum. A considerable amount of routine business was disposed of.

FRIDAY, July 28th.

SENATE—The day was devoted to the further consideration of the naval appropriation bill. The resolutions providing temporarily for government expenses passed the Senate and also the House.

HOUSE—Private bill day. Senate bill establishing posts of delivery at Kansas City and St. Joseph was passed. Adjourned until Monday.

SATURDAY, July 29.

SENATE.—The House bills to regulate the carriage of passengers by sea and to regulate immigration were passed. The naval appropriation bill was further considered.

HOUSE.—The House met and adjourned.

MONDAY, July 31.

SENATE—The naval appropriation bill was passed with amendments. The sundry civil appropriation bill was taken up and considered.

HOUSE—Two or three bills of no general interest were passed. The Senate bill for the retirement of General Grant with army rank and pay, was referred to the proper committee. At an evening session a number of private pension bills were passed.

TUESDAY, Aug. 1.

SENATE—The sundry civil appropriation bill was further considered.

HOUSE—The principal business was concurring and non-concurring in the Senate amendments to the naval appropriation bill. A message was received from the President vetoing the river and harbor bill

Falmouth, Ky., dispatch;

The farmers along the Licking river, beteen this place and Lovengwood, four miles distant, have literally lost all their crops. In that space the loss of crops is estimated at $30,000, besides there were a number of cattle and horses drowned. The losses at other points along the Licking are equally heavy. The river is falling.

ARTHUR'S VETO.

Knocks the River and Harbor Bill into "Pi."

Text of the Veto Message.

To the House of Representatives:

Having watched with much interest the progress of House bill No. 6,242 entitled, "An act making appropriations for the construction, repair and preservation of certain works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes," and having, since it was received, carefully examined it, after mature consideration, I am constrained to return it herewith to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, without my signature, and with my objections to its passage.

Many appropriations in the bill are clearly for the general welfare, and most beneficent in their character. Two of the objects for which provision is made were by me considered of so much importance that I felt it my duty to direct to them the attention of Congress. In my annual message in December last I urged the vital importance of legislation for the reclamation of the marshes and the establishment of harbor lines along the Potomac front; in April last by special message, I recommended an appropriation for the improvment of the Mississippi river. It is not necessary that I say, that when my signature would make a bill appropriating for these and other valuable national objects a law, it is with great reluctance, and only under a sense of duty, that I withhold it. My principal objection to the bill is, that it contains appropriations for purposes not for the common defense or general welfare, and which do not promote commerce among the States. These provisions, on the contrary, are entirely for the benefit of the particular localities in which it is proposed to make the improvements. I regard such appropriation of public money as beyond the power given by the constitution to Congress and the President. I feel more bound to withhold my signature from the bill because of the peculiar evils which manifestly result in this infraction of the constitution. Appropriations of this nature, devoted to purely local objects, tend to increase in number and amount. As citizens of one State find that the money, to raise which they, in common with the whole country, are taxed, is to be expended for local improvements in another State, they demand similar benefits for themselves, and it is not unnatural that they should seek to indemnify themselves for such use of the public funds by securing appropriations for similar improvements in their own neighborhoods. Thus, as the bill becomes more objectionable, it secures more support. This result is invariable, and necessarily follows the neglect to observe the constitutional limitations imposed upon the law-making power.

The appropriations for harbor improvements have, under the influence to which I have alluded, increased yearly out of proportion to the progress of the country, great as that has been. In 1870, the aggregate appropriation was $3,975,900; in 1875, $6,648,517, 50; in 1880, $7,976,500, and in 1881, $11,457,300; while by the present act there is appropriated $18,743,875. While feeling every disposition to leave to the Legislature the responsibility of determining what amount should be appropiated for the purposes of the bill, so long as the appropriations are confined to the objects indicated by the grant of power, I cannot escape the conclusion that, as part of the law making power of the government, the duty devolves upon me to withhold my signature from a bill containing appropriations which, in my opinion, greatly exceed in amount the needs of the country for the present fiscal year. It being the usage to provide money for these purposes by annual appropriation bills, the President is, in effect, directed to expend so large amount of money within so brief a period that the expenditure cannot be made economically and advantageously. The extravagant expenditure of public money is an evil not to be measured by the value of that money to the people, who are taxed for it. They sustain greater injury in the demoralizing effect produced upon those who are entrusted with offical duty through all the ramifications of the government.

These objections could be removed, and every constitutional purpose readly obtaintained, should Congress enact that one-half only of the aggregate amount provided for in the bill be appropriated for the expenditure during the fiscal year, and that the sum so appropiated be expended only for such objects named in the bill, as the Secretary of War, under direction of the President, shall determine—provided, that in no case shall the expenditure for any one purpose exceed the sum now designated by the bill for that purpose. I feel authorized to make this suggestion because of the duty imposed upon the President by the constitution, to recommend to the consideration of Congress such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient, and because it is my earnest desire that the public works which are in progress shall suffer no injury. Congress will also convene in four months, when this whole subject will be open for their considera tion.

CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

Executive Mansion, August 1, 1881.

An Expert Forger.

The New York Times of June 29 says: "The trial of Edward J. Courtney for forging the signatures of H. J. Jewett, President, and B. W. Spencer, Treasurer, of the Erie Railroad, to a check for $3,310.50 drawn to the order of H. S. Horton on the Marine National bank, resulted in a verdict of guilty, and Courtney was sentenced to five years' imprisonment. Inspector Byrnes, who arrested Courtney, says that the prisoner is one of the most expert and clever forgers in the United States, and an examination of the forged check bears out this statement. The signatures of President Jewett and Treasurer Spencer, of the Erie Railroad, were pronounced by the latter very clever imitations. Finding it impossible to procure a blank check of the Erie Railroad, Courtney obtained a slip of blank check paper of the same tint, and executed a marvelously perfect imitation of the genuine lithograph check. The penmanship was absolutely perfect, and so faultlessly was it executed that it was impossible without the aid of a glass to determine that it was not a lithograph. Three colors had been used; and even the revenue stamp on a superficial examination defied detection. The most minute lettering on the check had been reproduced with the pen, and even the imprint of the lithograpers, Henry Seibert & Brothers, in letters so small as to be almost illegible, had been affixed to the bottom of the check. Under the microscope it was discovered that the entire check had been written with a pen, and the discovery was verified by the fact that when Inspector Byrnes passed a wet handkerchief over the words, "Marine National Bank," the red ink with which it had been written became obliterated. Only one error could be detected in the whole check and that was in the minute imprint, in which "Henry" had been spelled "Heny," the letter "r" being omitted. The check was pronounced by experts one of the most perfect and beautiful specimens of penmanship ever seen in a court. Its execution must have occupied many weeks of the forger's time.

A Flower in a Dead Baby's Hand

From the Lewiston (Me.) Journal July 17.

After a young child had died and had been laid in its casket, in Auburn, a few days ago a rosebud was plucked from a neighboring garden, and the stem was placed in one of the lifeless little hands. A day or two elapsed between the incident and the funeral ceremony. In the interval the rosebud in the hand of clay was seen to gradually unfold. When the service was held the bud had become a blossom. The phenomenon gave peculiar pleasure to the afflicted family, and was very prettily referred to by the clergyman, who compared the unfolding of the rosebud to the blossoming in heaven of the child.

Back Ache

POSITIVELY CURED BY

Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters.

Reasons Why they are Preferred to All Other Porous Plasters or External Remedies:

First.

Because they possess all the merit of the strengthening porous plaster, and contain in addition thereto the newly discovered powerful and active vegetable combination which acts with increased rubefacient, stimulating, sedative and counter irritant effects.

Second.

Because they are a genuine pharmaceutical preparation, and so recognized by the profession.

Third.

Because they are the only plasters that relieve pain at once.

Fourth.

Because they will positively cure diseases which other remedies will not even relieve.

Fifth.

Because over 5000 physicians and druggists have voluntarily testified that they are superior to all other plasters or medicines for external use.

Sixth.

Because the manufacturers have received the only medals ever given for porous plasters.

Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster!

SEABURY & JOHNSON,
Manufacturing Chemists, New York.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25cts.
MEAD'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

HALL'S

Catarrh Cure

is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

PROF. HARRIS' RADICAL CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY AND ORGANIC WEAKNESS IN YOUNG AND MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

A TRIED REMEDY IN THE PASTILLE OF GREAT VALUE

A VITAL FORCE RESTORER

DON'T FAIL TO GET A BOX

[illegible]

Put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full Directions for using will accompany each box.

Prepared and Sold ONLY by
HARRIS REMEDY CO. Mfg. Chemists,
MARKET AND 8TH STS., ST. LOUIS, MO.

WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS

And the Best Machinery in the World for BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!

Book Free. Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

If you feel drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, mouth tastes badly, poor appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from torpid liver, or "biliousness," and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently as to take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR or MEDICINE.

The cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World.

An EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC for all diseases of the Liver Stomach and Spleen.

Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common as bad breath, and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your Appetite, Complexion, and General Health.

PILES!

How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of all pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR is no drastic violent purge; but a gentle assistant to nature.

CONSTIPATION!

Should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache.

ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

MANUFACTURED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

PROVED A SUCCESS

THE PASTILLE

Prof. Harris' Radical Cure

Trade Mark

FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE!

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Weakness, [illegible] deplorable disease resulting from indiscreet [illegible] or excesses in youth or at any time of life, by the only true way, viz: Direct Application acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and Glands, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease undermines the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoroughly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MFG. CHEMISTS,
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons!

Indiana, April 11, '81.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had [illegible] for 8 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 15th, '81.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 22, 1881.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $5. Please send me another box. [illegible] You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June [illegible].—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 1, '81.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now suffering in the same way and wish one No. 3 box.

REED'S

GILT EDGE TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY

In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach, Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. Neahau & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FREE!

RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

THE

COLUMBUS BUGGY COMPANY

STILL LEADS WITH THE

LARGEST BUGGY

MANUFACTORY

IN THE WORLD.

AND SELL THE BEST

BUGGY ON THE GLOBE

FOR THE MONEY.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE

AND TESTIMONIALS OF

HUNDREDS OF LIVERYMEN

WHO HAVE USED THEM

ADDRESS

COLUMBUS BUGGY Co.

COLUMBUS OHIO.

Be sure, before buying, to examine the Name Plate to be found on the rear of every Buggy manufactured by us, for NONE ARE GENUINE unless they bear the name

Columbus Buggy Company,

COLUMBUS OHIO.

Many inferior goods are offered as Columbus Buggies, and care should be used to distinguish between 'Columbus Buggies" and Columbus Buggy Co's. Buggies.

TESTIMONIALS.

GENTLEMEN: Your buggies have given me entire satisfaction, both in style and durability I have used them for the past three years. Your recent improvements on road wagons I consider the best in the market.

JAMES H. RAMBURG.

Frederick Maryland.

DEAR SIRS: We have used buggies of your make that have been in use three years, and no buggy we have that cost twice the amount has given better satisfaction.

JAMES H. ALEXANDER.

Johnstown, Pa.

GENTLEMEN: We have used the Columbus Buggy Company's work for the last five years and can conscientiously recommend it as strictly first class as to style, material, workmanship and durability. Your buggies have given better satisfaction than any other make of vehicles we had in use for the last ten years.

PALMER & WHITTAKER.

Red Oak Iowa.

GENTLEMEN: It gives me pleasure to state that I have been selling your buggies and carriages for four years, and can safely recommend them to any one in want of a buggy or carriage. Yours Truly, J. L. GRIBBLE.

Macomb, Illinois,

GENTLEMEN: With over fifteen years experience in building buggies, wagons, &c., I do not hesitate in saying your buggies and carriages are strictly first-class in workmanship, material and proportions, filling a long-felt want for a reliable article that can be sold at a price lower than any ordinary manufacturer can produce and sell the same quality of Work at. Yours, etc. I.S. KRICK, Conneautville Pa.

GENTLEMEN: I have used your Brewster side-bar buggies for four years, together with buggies that cost me $300 and $350, and your buggies were the first that went out, on account of being side-bar. They have not cost me $5 for repairs, and those I have sold of your make have given good satisfaction. I think that you make the cheapest and best road wagons that are made in the United States for the money. Respectfully, P. H. HAMLIN, Lawrence Kansas.

DEAR SIRS: We have been using your buggies for the last four or five years. They have given entire satisfaction. I think they are the best buggies made for the money.

W. B. GRIMES & CO., Liverymen Whitehall Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: We have been handling your work for two seasons, and have in every instance found your buggies first class, We never have had one of your jobs returned to us for repairs; neither have we had a single complaint on account of work not being perfectly satisfactory. Very Respectfully, H.P. BUCKLEY & CO., Springfield, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN. I have no hesitancy in saying that the buggies manufactured by the Columbus Buggy Company are the best work for the price I have any knowledge of. In not a single instance has there been any dissatisfaction on the part of any one of my customers.

FRANK L HALL.

Owensboro, Ky.

DEAR SIRS: For the past two years we have used your buggies side by side with other makes in both our stables, and are perfectly satisfied with the strenght, durability and workmanship compared with others. As fast as our stock in livery is used up we shall replace them with your manufacture, knowing from experience that it is the best we can do. Respectfully,

SWEET & FOLLANSBEE,

Quincy Illinois

For sale by dealers everywhere.

Any of our readers who will enclose two 3 cent stamps in a letter to the Columbus Buggy Co., Columbus O., will receive in return a beautiful engraving in colors, representing an Australian scene and their manner of travelling in that country with ostriches as a motor. They have this picture (the packing costing six cents) to all who may send for it, desiring in this manner to make themselves more widely known to the people.

St. Johns Items.

(Last Week.)

P. N. Fair is now on the sick list but is slowly recovering.

Miss Ella Reever is now visiting with relatives near Auburn.

Harvest is past. The golded grain is now bound together for the better.

Oats harvest will soon be here, then we will hear the hum of the reaper again.

The band boys are making preparations for August 12. We expect good music.

We see our friend John Miller has a new buggy. We expect now the girls will enjoy themselves.

Farmers are having their wheat threshed in this vicinity. Wheat not very good yield from 7 to 15 bushel per acre.

The boys felt like they would like to have a little recreation after their excursion to Pleasant Lake. We suppose they got it.

A. M. Harkey has resigned his position as constable, and now he can take more time at the Junction buggy riding with his best girl.

The Sunday-school convention at Cedar Creek Chapel, was largely attended. People from all directions were there. All the Sunday-schools of Butler township were present and a good time followed.

THE new railroad at Fort Wayne will be opened to business about the first of October next.

THE Sultan of Turkey, has not yet sent troops to Egypt to restore order, and many believe he never will.

ARABI BEY is the new summer color. It has its origin in Egypt and a lot of Englishmen are over there trying to secure the first specimen.

DELESSEPS, the originator and engineer of the Suez canal, does not like the idea of English interference, and opposes them in all possible ways. He even threatens to raise a force of Arabs and drive the English away.

—WABASH county has a mystery. The Courier says there are parties in that county who have received money in drafts from Santa Barbara, California, with instructions not to ask who sent it as no information would be given. It is believed to come from some one who has wronged them out of money at some past time, and now the quilty parties are trying to still their consciences in this way.

STEEL rails for railroads have always been considered a good thing to illustrate the beauties of a high tariff. The following from the Sentinel is in order just now:

"Steel rails are bought in England for about $28 per ton. The duty on these rails is about $28 a ton, exactly 100 per cent. This 100 per cent., with frieght added, is the measure of protection afforded the monopoly barons of this country by the present tariff iniquity. Off with at least hal of it. Any American industry which can not get along with a 50 per cent. tariff does not deserve to live.

Sylvan Lake Rowing Association.

The officers and members of the Sylvan Lake Amateur Rowing Association, met at the Sylvan Lake Hotel, at Rome City, June 3d, 1882, and determined upon the 7th and 8th days of September next, as the time for holding the second annual regatta, there will be a match game of base ball and bicycle racing, and other amusements. Boat racing on the afternoon of each day. The celebrated Hillsdale crew will row on this occasion.

Free to All.

A Handsome Mantle Ornament consisting of an Artst's Easel and a beautiful Landscape Picture in Colors, will be mailed free to every person who will send us the names and postoffice addresses of ten young people. Each addresses to be different and plainly written. Address, The Assistent Publishing Co., 5th and Chestnut Sts., St. Louis, Mo.

Experience the Best Guide.

The reason why women everywhere use Parker's Ginger Tonic is, because they have learned by experience—the best guide—that this excellent medicine overcomes despondency, periodical headache, indigestion, pain in the back and kidneys, and other troubles of the sex.—mHoe Journal. 31-4t.

Cheap Excursion Rates to Colorado.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, commencing July 15th and continuing to September 25th, 1882, will sell round trip tickets to Denver at greatly reduced rates, good returning to October 31st, 1882.

The National Mining exposition, representing the mining wealth and wonders of the Rocky Mountains, will open at Denver, August 7th.

For information regarding routes, rates, etc., address Agents of B. & O. road, or W. E. Reppert, Pass. Agent, 205½ North High street, Columbus, Ohio. 29-4w.

A correspondent writes to ask us if wool is a sure investment. No, it is not. The southern people had millions invested in wool, and they lost every cent of it. Exchange.

—Now, while work is pressing, you can save time and money by getting your supplies at Weiricks, at Fairfiel tf.

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield, will sell you goods as cheap and as good as you can get anywhere. tf.

FORT WAYNE

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

(Incorporated 1871.)

For Catalogue and Particulars, address C. F. W. MEYER, Principal.

FORT WAYNE, IND. 27-8.

Administrator's Sale.

I will offer for sale on Saturday, August 19, 1882, at the late residence of John Davis, deceased, 1¼ miles north of Auburn, all his personal property not taken by the widow, consisting of, Cattle, Hogs, two-horse Wagon, Plows, Harness, Grain-seeder, cross-cut drag Saw, Hay-rakes, Harrows, Carpenter Tools, etc. Terms made known on day of sale. Sale at 10 a. m.

S. KUTZNER, Adm'r.

Jery Plum, auctioneer. 30-3t

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of John Davis, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

S. KUTZNER, Adm'r.

0-3t.

MUSIC MONEY

$5.00 FOR ONLY $1.00

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send 3 3-cent stamps to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ideas

2 CARD COLLECTORS. Boys send a stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards including photograph, picture & chromo cards. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA OHIO. 10-13w.

NOTICE. We have just issued a book containing 125 pieces of both vocal and instrumental music, every piece of which is very popular. We will give this book in place of the one given heretofore if desired. In case a book premium is not wanted, we will give a set (6) of beautiful silver-plated teaspoons. Great inducements to any one wishing to get up a club. Address as above for terms

ROAD SUPERINTENDENTS

—AND—

GRAVEL ROAD MEN,

Try the Best ROAD WORKER,

THE PENNOCK.

700 IN USE.

Manufacturers of "Hatchless" Dump-Scraper.

S. PENNOCK & SONS CO.,

Kennett Square, Pa., and Fort Wayne, Ind.

CENTRAL CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC,

Columbus, Bartholomew Co., Indiana.

Cheapest Tuition in the U. S. for advantages offered. Limited number boarded in Principal's family. For terms, etc., address

W. E. BATES, Principal.

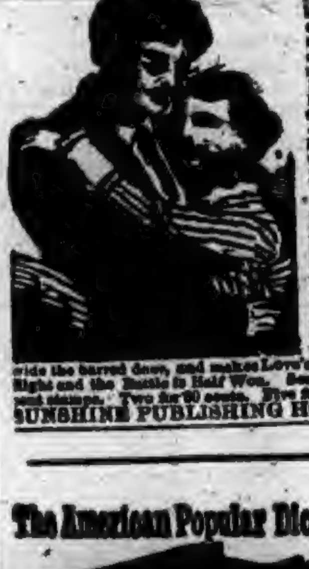
TO ADVERTISERS. Holman's "Gilt Edge" List of best Indiana Newspapers will be sent to any address free.

S. M. HOLMAN, Fort Wayne, Ind.

THE MYSTERY OF

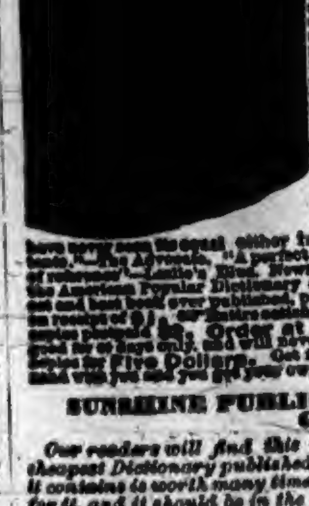
Love Making Solved

Or an Easy Road to Marriage.



Those in Love will find in this Book strange Secrets always hidden before to mankind, and an Easy Way to Marriage, also many Ancient Secrets that the married should know. If a wife is neglected by her wayward husband this book will surely reclaim him to his first love. It proves that Failure to win the object of your Choice is impossible. We have ransacked every country to get these Secrets of Love Making. They will cause millions of Hearts and Hands to be United in Marriage. What strange things regarding Love Making you can find in this Book. If your Love is not reciprocated, this great Book will open wide the barred door, and make Love's Pathway clear. Sent by Mail for 10 Three cent stamps. Two for 50 cents. Five for $1.00. Address SUNSHINE PUBLISHING HOUSE, Geneva, O.

The American Popular Dictionary, $1.00



This useful and elegant volume is a complete Library and Encyclopedia, as well as the best Dictionary in the world. Superbly bound in cloth and gilt. It contains EVERY WORD IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, with its true meaning, derivation, spelling and pronunciation, and a vast amount of absolutely necessary information upon science, Mythology, Biography, American History, Laws, etc., being a perfect Library of Reference. Webster's Dictionary costs $8.00, and the American Popular Dictionary costs only $1. "Worth ten times the money."—N. Y. Atlas. "We have never seen its equal either in price, finish or contents."—The Advocate. "A perfect Dictionary and library of reference."—Leslie's Illus. News, N. Y. One copy of the American Popular Dictionary (illustrated), the greatest and best book ever published, post-paid to any address on receipt of $1. Entire satisfaction guaranteed. Two copies postpaid $2. Order at once. This offer is good for 60 days only, and will never be made again. Six copies for Five Dollars. Get five of your friends to send with you and you get your own book free.

SUNSHINE PUBLISHING CO., Geneva, Ohio.

Our readers will find this wonderful book the cheapest Dictionary published. The information it contains is worth many times the amount asked for it, and it should be in the possession of everybody. With this book in the library for reference, many other much more expensive works can be dispensed with, and ignorance of his country, history, business, laws, etc., is inexcusable in any man. Note the price, $1, post paid.

FORT WAYNE & JACKSON R. R.—SHORT Line

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Time-Card in effect July 16, 1882.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am	....
Saginaw	6 30	7 55	....
Lansing	9 25	10 25	....
Grand Rapids	10 20	6 00	12 20pm
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 05
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 46	5 22
Jackson Lv.	6 30am	12 05pm	6 55
Hanover	7 08	12 27	8 00
Jonesville	7 25	1 02	8 55
Bankers	7 38	1 16	9 20
Reading	7 50	1 27	9 45
Montgomery	8 03	1 40	10 16
Fremont	8 19	1 58	10 40
Angola	8 35	2 13	11 10
Pleasant Lake	8 46	2 23	11 50
Waterloo	9 05	2 45	6 00am
Auburn	9 15	2 53	6 25
Auburn Junction	9 20	2 57	6 30
Arrive Ft. Wayne	10 15	3 50	8 20
Indianapolis	5 45pm	10 45	....
Cincinnati	6 05	7 35am	....
Louisville	7 30	7 25	....
St. Louis	....	8 40	....
Washington	2 10	5 17	....
Baltimore	3 20	5 15	....

NORTH.	Ex.	Accom	Ex.
Leave Baltimore	11 00am	1 30am	....
Washington	10 40	2 35	....
St. Louis	6 40pm	7 50	....
Louisville	7 12	....	7 00am
Cincinnati	8 00	2 25pm	7 45
Indianapolis	4 22am	....	10 45
Ft. Wayne	11 45	1 00am	5 00pm
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 46pm	3 00	6 00
Auburn	12 48	3 05	6 03
Waterloo	12 17	3 40	15
Pleasant Lake	1 42	4 25	37
Angola	1 55	5 00	7 05
Fremont	1 10	5 33	7 22
Montgomery	1 0	6 07	7 40
Reading	2 38	6 30	7 53
Bankers	2 22	6 55	8 04
Jonesville	2 48	7 28	8 16
Hanover	2 58	8 20	8 45
Jackson	3 40pm	9 20	9 20
Ann Arbor	5 07	10 34	10 28
Detroit	6 30	11 50	11 40
Grand Rapids	10 30	4 30pm	7 10am
Lansing	5 35	....	8 20
Saginaw	8 25	....	10 55
Bay City	9 20	....	11 55

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.: east—12 40, 5 00, 7 05, 9 30 a.m., 3 05, 4 05, 9 28 p. m.; west—12 45, 7 05, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 5 50 p. m. J L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 7 30 a. m., 12 30, 6 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m. 2 30 p. m.; west 9 45 a. m., 1907, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 3 42, 11 30 p. m; west 2 25 a. m., 1 55 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 4 34 a. m., 1 48, 10 21 p. m.; west, 2 05 a. m., 12 45, 11 55p. m W., St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m. 3 :15 p. m. west—1:57. 11:31 a. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 20 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m, 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 5 00 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 35 p. m., west, 6 10, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W leave 12 10, 8 05 a. m. 1 15pm; ar. 3 00, a. m. 2 55, 7 05p.m, P., Ft. W. & C, east 3 25 a. m., 4 10, 11 20 p. m.; west 12 10, 2 40, 11 43 a. m., 3 40, p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt

H. BROMLEY Gen'l Ft . & Pass'r, A gt

LAKE SHORE & MICHIGAN SOUTHERN Railway.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y.Ex.	A. Ex	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm
Elkhart	1 30pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 48	11 30	5 25	12 10pm
Corunna	2 58		6 35
Sedan			7 05
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi Ex.	Pac. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	6 20

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m. and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:05 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage J. E. CURTIS,

Supt. M.ch. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG,

Agent Waterloo Ind.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAILROAD—CHICAGO Division.

IN EFFECT FROM MAY 21, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N Y. Fast.	W.&B. Express	W. & C Ex.
Chicago lv	5 10pm	10 50pm	8 10am
Walkerton Junction	8 11	1 56am	11 14
Milford Junction	9 16	3 10	12 23
Syracuse		3 22	12 35pm
Cromwell		3 36	12 51
Albion		4 00	1 12
Avilla		4 22	1 34
Garrett	10 35	4 48	2 00
Auburn Junction	10 42	4 54	2 08
St. Joe
Hicksville	11 14	5 30	2 42
Defiance	11 52	6 13	3 24
Deshler	12 45am	7 10	4 30
Fostoria	1 30	8 07	5 15
Tiffin	2 08	8 36	5 42
Chicago Junction ar.	3 00	9 45	6 50

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
Chicago Junction lv	9 50pm	6 40pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 36	7 56	9 14
Fostoria	11 08	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 48	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 52	11 52
Hicksville	1 47	11 42	12 20pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 35	12 18am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 45
Avilla		12 38	1 58
Albion		1 02	2 21
Cromwell		1 28	2 48
Syracuse		1 45	3 02
Milford Junction		1 56	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 14	4 30
Chicago ar	8 35	5 55	7 30

FT. WAYNE, CINCINNATI & LOUISVILLE Railroad,

In effect April 16, 1882.

SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS.	NORTHWARD
No 3 Express	No. 1 Mail.		No2 Mail	No. 4 Ex.
5 40pm	10 30am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	9 55am
6 47	11 20	Bluffton	4 05	8 53
7 50	12 18pm	Hartford	3 04	7 47
8 40	1 10pm	Muncie	2 10	6 50
		Cincinnati
10 55pm	6 05	Indianapolis	11 05	4 35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.

GEO. B. CAMPBELL General Ticket Agt.

Where Shall I Attend School ?

You will be aided in answering this question by reading the catalogue of the

FORT WAYNE (IND.) COLLEGE.

The lowest rates combined with the best advantages. Address:

W. F. YOCUM, A. M.,

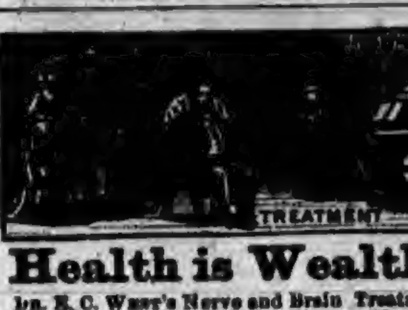
28-6w. Fort Wayne, Ind.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigeston, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 181 and 183 W. Madison St., Chicago. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp.

$1,000 Forfeit!

Having the utmost confidence in its superiority over all others, and after thousands of tests of the most complicated and severest cases we could find, we feel justified in offering to forfeit One Thousand Dollars for any case of coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, hoarseness, bronchitis, consumption, in its early stages; whooping cough and all diseases of the throat and lungs, except Asthma, for which we only claim relief, that we can't cure with West's Cough Syrup, when taken according to directions. Sample bottles 25 and 50 cents; large bottles $1.00. Genuine wrappers only in blue. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price. JOHN C. WEST & CO., sole proprietors, 181 and 183 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.



Health is Wealth.

DR. E. C. WEST'S Nerve and Brain Treatment is a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency Emissions, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, self-abuse, or over-indulgence, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our writen guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind. Orders by mail at regular price.

—Weirick, the Fairfield merchant buys butter and eggs and other produce. Don't forget it. tf.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—

WABASH
ST. LOUIS
AND PACIFIC
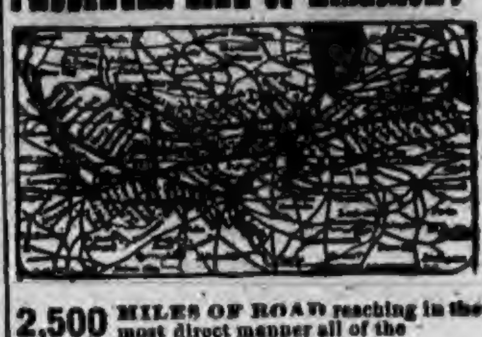
Ry.

—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!



2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS

TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest!

And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address I. M. ZENT, agent, Auburn, Ind., or G. B. COLE, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, Gen. Manager, H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen. Passenger Agen St. Louis.

RUBBER ROOFING

Costs only $3.25 per square, 10x10 feet, and will last a lifetime on steep or flat roofs. Send for circular and samples free.

IND. PAINT AND ROOFING Co.,

Indianapolis, Ind.

JOS. ABRIGHT,

—Dealer In—

Watches, Watches, Castors Castors,

Clocks, Clocks,

Spoons, Spoons, Knives Knives,

Forks, Forks,

Chains, Chains, Rings, Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid.

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER

IN THE WORLD FOR

REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stump than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,

GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,

54 S. MERDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.

HUGHES & HUMPHREYS,

SLATE ROOFERS,

First Premium on Ornamental Work. All Work Guaranteed Water Proof. FORT WAYNE, IND.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY

FISTULA RECTAL ULCERS FISSURES CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED COME BEFORE TOO LATE

BY DR A.W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE PATENTED.

OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR BRINKERHOFF. CURE WARRANTED.

[redacted]

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, AUGUST 17, 1882. Number 33.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum. For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUNSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana. Office over Mrs. James' Store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC, will give prompt attention to collections. Office over Citizens' Bank, Waterloo, Ind.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite south side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING, office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 25 ly

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor. John Butt Proprietor, [illegible], Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.

T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Dancer's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m. except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

[illegible]

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week. HENRY [illegible], Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.

June 14, 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. WILSON S. DANCER, Trustee.

April 14, 1882.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice. FREDERICK [illegible], Trustee.

April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. C. H. BROWN, Trustee.

For Sale.

On account of my wife's illness I offer for sale my threshing machine, clover huller, and ten horse power traction engine all in complete running order. For terms call at my residence two miles west of Waterloo, on Smithfield township line, or address: Wm. Strand, Waterloo, Ind.

The [illegible] Shirring and Gathering Machine.

(Improved March 1, 1882.)

The only machine in the world that makes the hand-stitch. Simple, practical and perfect in operation. Does a large range of material, such as silks, satins, velvets, alpacas, cashmeres, white goods, &c., with one or two rows of stitching at the same time. Work more regular and beautiful than can be done by hand. Shirrs or gathers adjusted full or scant by drawing thread same as hand work. Will do the work of ten or fifteen hands. Call on Mrs. C. Wolsey and Mrs. Angie Kuhlman, corner of Main and [illegible] street, Auburn, Indiana. 24-12t.

SORE EYES.

Dr. E. C. Yetter,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

Is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his own successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the [illegible]. He uses no caustics, mercury, [illegible] or anything to injure the most delicate eye. [illegible]

SPECTACLES

of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

Dr. E. C. YETTER,

BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.

P. O. Box, 133.

MONEY to loan on improved farms in sums of $500 or more at six per cent. No delay. U. M. [illegible], Indianapolis, Ind. 29-10t.

Standard Time.

PROVING A UNIFORM SYSTEM OF TIME RECKONING.

[New York Tribune.]

At an informal meeting of the American members of the association for the Reform and Codification of the Law of Nations, at Columbia College, on June 28, the chairman, Dr. F. A. P. Barton, presented a letter from Prof. William Thompson, of Glasgow, in reference to what has been done in regard to providing a uniform system of time-reckoning. In view of the limited time remaining before the conference to be held at Liverpool this month, it was decided to secure a general comparison of views on the subject to be submitted to the conference. A committee has made a report in regard to the matter. It states that, admitting that the standard usually employed is an accurate artificial time-keeper, it is liable to error of rate, as the standard must be regulated by reference to the natural standard. Within the territory of the United States and the Dominion of Canada, the report called attention to the fact that there are at present probably in use not fewer than one hundred different standards. The report adds that "this state of things is growing to be intolerable; public opinion is beginning to demand the adoption of some effectual means for abating the evil. Legislation on the subject is beginning to be evoked, and it can not fail soon to be resorted to. What is wanted is practical uniformity of time reckoning througnout the continent."

One of the suggestions made is to employ five standard meridians for the western continent, with intermediate intervals of exactly one hour each of time, or fifteen degrees each of longitude, a system capable of being extended to the whole world by the adoption of twenty-four equi-distant meridians. The scheme was originally proposed in the American Meteorological society in 1878, by Prof. Abbe, of Washington. It combines the advantage of a universal time system, dependent on a single meridian for all the world, and those of the numerous local time system in which of each place is determined by its own meridian, or at least by one not widely distant from it. If universaly adopted, the times shown by all the clocks and watches throughout the world would be identical as to the minute and second, and would differ only as to the hour, which would always be that of the nearest standard meridian. Whatever the system adopted may be, it seems to be important that the standard meridian fixed on for local reference should be determined by their relation to the zero meridian employed in the reckoning of longitudes. And in order that the system adapted for one hemisphere may be capable of extension to the other, this zero meridian should be one accepted by all nations. The committee believe that the prime meridian finally adopted will be the interior meridian of Greenwhich—that is, the meridian 180 degrees distant from Greenwhich.

A more important proposition is to abandon the division of the day into two equal portions of twelve hours each, and to count the hours continuously from one to twenty-four. The proposed change is a return to a usage once prevalent in Italy, and one which has its advantages. For special purposes, as with a view to promote exactness in chronology and to facilitate synchronous observations in science, it is suggested that the day and the period of the day, as determined by the prime meridian, should be employed as a kind of universal time reckoning, under the name of "cosmic time." The American committee are: Dr. F. A. P. Barnard, Charles A. Peabody, David Dudley Field, Vincenzo Botta, George W. Cullum and Charles H. Baldwin.

* * *

The prevailing style of dog for this season will not be hanged in any marked degree. The windowbrush dog continues to continue in favor among women who have been crossed in love and have the dyspepsia. A favorite style of dogs has a princesse nose, and is trimmed with an ostrich plume tail lightly curled over the polonaise. The Prince Albert cutaway sausage dog is not used in warm weather City dogs that undertake to depopulate the country fields of the ornate and festive bull will be gored. Shaggy dogs will be worn with the hair bouffant around the neck, plain about the waist and polonaise and a pompadour tail.

* * *

Faded Colors Restored.

Faded or gray hair gradually recovers its youthful color and lustre by the use of Parker's Hair Balsam, an elegant dressing, admired for its purity and rich perfume. 31-4t.

Coincidences in Inventions.

Coincidences in inventions and discovery are the rule rather than the exception. When any notable advance is made in the knowledge of the laws of nature or in applying that knowledge old or new, to the service of men, it is hardly ever one person alone who makes the discovery or the application. Almost always more than one claimant appears, and frequently several make good their claims to the honor of having pursued independently and to valuable results the same line of thought or experiment that has made one of their number famous by associating his name permanently with the great inventor or discovery. Le Verrier and Adams almost simultaneously reasoned out the existence of the planet Neptune, and directed astronomical observers how to point their telescopes in order to find it. Prof. Morse's title to distinction as the inventor of the magnetic telegraph was stubbornly contested by men who had labored with the same idea before it occured to him. Half a dozen others had toiled upon the problem of steam navigtion before Fulton solved it. Morton, Jackson and Wells were experimenting with anaesthetics at the same time, and the merit of the discovery is still claimed for each of them. Bell and Gray invented their respective telephones almost at the same time. Edison and Hughes dispute each other's claim to priority in the invention of the microphone. In some of these cases probably one claimant has knowingly or unconsciously borrowed something from his rival; but those where two or more persons have pursued independently substantially the same line of research and experiment, tending to the same result, are very numerous. Miss Hosmer's discovery and improvement of it in her magnetic engine is an instance in point. Already two persons in New York and one in Boston appear to assert their claims to an invention based upon the same or a similiar principle to that which Miss Homer is said to have discovered.

* * *

Vanderbuilt's Danger.

[Utica Observer.]

President William H. Vanderbuilt, Vice President Tillinghast, Superintendent Toucey, General Priest, and other magnates of the Central Hudson Road, passed through Utica on Saturday on a special train en route to Denver, Col. All switches were locked, crossings flagged, and things generally made clear and safe. Ten miles east of Rome the highest rate of speed known in this country was attained—one, and one-fourth miles in a minute at which rate they swung off from the straight track on the curve at Vernon Station. As the switch rods clattered by, a heavy thumping sound was heard in the coaches, accompanied with unusual jolts of the train. At Oneida they fairly flew over the road. Every switch bar and every cross rail gave undisputable evidence of its presence by a really alarming jar to the train. A multiplicity of these projections at last alarmed the occupants of the train, and the bell-cord was pulled with a sudden jerk. Engineer Keuns instantly applied the air brakes, and the train came to a stop a half a mile west of Oneida, on a sharp curve. An examination of the train was made, resulting in showing that the ponderous break beams under the tender were resting on the ground. It was then apparent that the party had traveled fully ten miles with the heavy beams ploughing along the track. William H. Vanderbuilt was never before known to weaken at any crisis he ever encountered; but when he stood and realised the terrible peril which they seemed to have escaped by only a miracle, his countenance showed plainly evidences that he was greatly agitated.

* * *

Canal Curiosities.

Last Saturday while workmen were engaged in digging away the surface of the old canal bed near Belden they discovered a number of partially petrified fish, frogs and snakes. They were not wholly fossilized but were rapidly becoming so. Doubtless they had been swimming about in the old canal when the water was running and after the water run out they lodged in the mud and gradually hardened. One specimen obtainhd is quite curious, it being about a foot long and six inches in diameter. It looks as though in might have been the head of a large snake. The specimens were carefully gathered and are now the treasures of the men who found them. The petrification, beyound question took place within the last three years and since the water was finally let out of the old ditch.

The Exhumed Whale Bones.

[Montreal Gazette.]

Some curious remains recently found during excavations at Smith's Falls, on the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, are likely to excite a good deal of interest among savants. The remains consist of a perfect vertebra and a portion of a rib of an immense whale, together with another bone, which probably belongs to the same animal, but whose place in the animal is not easily recognized. The backbone is ten inches broad and seven inches thick. The piece of the rib is fifty inches long, and as a large portion has evidently crumbled away, the whole rib must have measured nearly six feet. These bones were found thirty-five feet below the surface of the earth and twenty-eight miles inland from the St. Lawrence River.

* * *

Ginger Beer—A healthful summer drink. Take three-quarters of a pound of white sugar, one ounce of cream of tartar, one ounce of ginger and the juice and grated rind of one lemon. Put these altogether in a jar, and pour over it all four quarts of boiling water; let it stand until it is luke-warm; then add one tablespoonful of fresh yeast, and nearly one tablespoonful of wintergreen, or of sassafras; let this stand for twenty-four hours, then put in bottles, cork tightly, and seal; it will be ready for use in a few days. Ginger beer is made of two pounds of white sugar, two ounces of tartaric acid, three eggs; into the whites of the eggs beat a half a cup of flour: flavor with half an ounce of the essence of wintergreen or of lemon; put in bottles and keep in a cool place. When you wish to have a refreshing drink, take two tablespoonfuls of this syrup and a quarter of a teaspoonful of soda, and add to one tumbler of cold water, stir it vigorously, and then drink.

* * *

At St. Eloi, in the Faubourg St. Antoine in France, a nest full of eggs was found under the ruins of the old palace where King Dagobert lived. So they knew that 1,200 years before some hen had stolen her nest, just as our hens do nowadays; and had been disturbed, and left the nest before the eggs had been sat upon. The workmen, who in clearing away the ruins to the old church that still stands there had found the nest, were going to throw away the eggs; but the Abbe Denis, who was then the curate of the parish, remembering that wheat had grown from grains that were found with the mummies in Egyptian tombs which must have been 30,000 years old, thought there might be life in these old eggs. He set them under a hen and she come off the nest with a fine brood of "King Dagobert" chickens, as they have since been called; and they have so increased that the abbe of the parish has organized a sale of the eggs for the benefit of the poor of his parish.

* * *

The experimen with Pyrethrum, is thus described by Prof. Riley: "I placed ten cabbage caterpillers in two small wooden boxes, which were covered with wire gauze. In one box I dusted the least possible amn't of Pyrethrum mixed with flour in proportion of one part of Pyrethreum. To twenty parts of flour. I sprayed those in the other box with a liquid mixture using one tablespoonful of Pyrethum to twenty gallons of water. In five minutes all the larvæ were on their backs, nor did any of them recover. A large number of caterpillars on the cabbage plants were sprinkled or dusted. In one hour the plants were examined and in every case the caterpillars were dead."

* * *

The Detroit Post says: Some time since a curious freak of nature occurred on the farm of Robert Johnson, in Barry County, Mich. In a corner of one of his fields, where there never had been any appearance of water and where the land was high and dry, there suddenly burst forth a stream of water about the size of a man's body. A large oak tree which stood in close proximity was forced out, and now lies prostrate upon the ground. The water is highly charged with sulphur, and the odor of the same can be noticed a considerable distance from the spring.

* * *

Experience the Best Guide.

The reason why women everywhere use Parker's Ginger Tonic is, because they have learned by experience—the best guide—that this excellent medicine overcomes despondency, periodical headache, indigestion, pain in the back and kidneys, and other troubles of the sex.—Home Journal. 31-4t.

A western lawyer, when the opposing council had concluded a flowery and learned speech, arose and said: "May it please the court and gentlemen of the jury; my opponent has ripped with old Euripides, soaked with old Socrates, sissed with old Cicero, and chanted with old Cantharides but I should like to know, what had any of them old heathens to do with tearin' my client's breeches? I simply put it to you, gentlemen, and may the shade of the great mercy hover over you and direct your decision when a fellow tears my client's breeches, whether he (my client) ougthn't to have the rip made good, in spite of old Euripides, and all the rest of 'em?, The jury thought the rip should be made good, and rendered the verdict accordingly.

* * *

The heaviest brain ever weighed in this country was taken from the skull of James H. Madden, who died in Leadville, last month. The doctor who attended him during his last sickness had observed the immense frontal and lateral development of his head, and determined to weigh the brain, but his astonishment was great when it brought down the scales at sixty-two and one-quarter ounces. Culver's brain weighed sixty-four and one-half ounces—considerably surpassing all other records—but the brains of Napoleon, Agassiz and Webster, though phenomenally heavy, were much lighter than Madden's. It is an interesting circumstance that Madden was not a naturalist, a soldier of statesman, but a gambler.

* * *

A pagan: A certain clerk in a western village recently made the following comment on Pocahontas. Said he: "Pocahontas was a great man; Pocahontas was a kind-hearted man." "Hold on! cried his companion. Pocahontas was a woman." "She was, eh?" said he. "Well that's just my luck. How am I expected to know? I never read the bible."

* * *

A woman in Rome, Georgia, the Courier of that town says, has made from the juice of one watermelon a pint of thick, golden syrup. Georgia papers are agreed that there is a fortune for the man or woman who succeeds in making sugar from melons.

* * *

The Delphos Courant claims to have a clear case of wheat turning to cheat. The stalk of wheat and cheat both grown from the same root, are for inspection at the Courant office.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the De Kalb circuit court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Thomas Dalton, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

M. BOLAND, Adm'r.

30-3t.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss. } In the DeKalb Circuit Court, Sept. term, 1882.

Charles E. Lovington and the Singer Manufacturing Company, impleaded with others, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, to foreclose a mortgage and appoint a receiver, by Jacob Somers, and that the same will be heard and determined on the first juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences on the 25th day of September, 1882.

Witness, The Clerk of said court, this 5th day of August, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.

W. H. Dills Attorney. 32-3w.

MUSIC MONEY

$5.00 FOR ONLY $1.00

THE GREATEST OFFER EVER MADE.

Foster's Illustrated Musical Journal contains the latest vocal and instrumental music every month, Musical News, Literature, Romance, Instruction, etc. The amount of music therein during the year would amount to over TWENTY DOLLARS in sheet form. The music is selected with the aim to supply, alike, the beginner and the practiced musician with the best music. The JOURNAL is printed on heavy, calendered, tinted paper with illustrations from eminent artists. Another essential is "Answers to Correspondents;" while one of the prominent features is the prize department, whereby EVERY SUBSCRIBER RECEIVES CASH PRIZES. Again the MUSICAL LIBRARY, a bound book containing about $15 worth of the latest and choicest music, will be given as a premium. Of these there are several volumes, vocal and instrumental, easy and difficult. State which you wish or send for contents. Lastly, to prove the superiority of our music, one of our latest 50c. pieces, with illustrated title page, will be included in above offer. This is truly the greatest offer ever made considering the excellency of the JOURNAL and the value of premiums. Subscribe at once and learn particulars of prize department and if desirous of getting up a club, send for our unequalled terms. If not satisfied after subscribing money will be refunded. Send a 3-cent stamp to pay postage on premiums, to the STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

MUSIC COMPOSERS, Teachers, Amateurs having Composition ready for publication should send to STANDARD MUSIC PUBLISHING HOUSE, GENEVA, O. best terms ever given. Chance to get rich. New ide

CARD COLLECTORS. Send a 3c stamp and receive by next mail a package of Beautiful Fancy cards, photograph, picture & chromo. Address to SUNSHINE PUB. HOUSE, GENEVA, OHIO.

BOYS send a [illegible] mail a package [illegible]

NOTICE. We have just issued a book containing 125 pieces of both vocal and instrumental music, every piece of which is very popular. We will give this book in place of the one given heretofore if desired. In case a book premium is not wanted, we will give a set (6) of beautiful silver-plated teaspoons. Great inducements to any one wishing to get up a club. Address as above for terms.

ROOT AND COMPANY

46 and 48 Calhoun St.,

For the Fly and Mosquito Season, have a full line of

BED CANOPIES!

Their own manufacture, full size and with latest improvements—made up of White, Pink and Blue

Mosquito Net

—AND—

Blonde Nets!

$1 50, $2 00, $2 00, $2 50, $4 00 each. Also Offer 1,500 Pieces

MOSQUITO BARS!

White, Pink, Blue, Green, at lowest market price

SCOTCH ZEPHYR GINGHAMS

20 cents per yard; in Black and White Gray and white, and Fancy Plaids, reduced from 25 and 35 cts., to close them out.

THIN BLACK GOODS

For summer use in great variety

BLACK LACE BUNTINGS,
BLACK BROCADE GRENADINES,
PLAIN MESH GRENADINES,
BLACK NUN'S VEILINGS,
PLAIN BLACK BUNTINGS

12½, 15, 20, 25, 35, 50, 60, 75 cents per yard and upwards.

DRESS GOODS

At Reduced Prices. Such as

LENO CHECKS,
SUMMER SILKS,
FOULE CLOTHS,
SCOTCH ZEPHYRS,
COLORED LACE BUNTINGS

FOULARD SILKS,
NUNS VEILINGS,
PLAIN COLORED BUNTINGS,
FANCY ORGANDIES AND LAWNS, ETC., ETC., ETC.

Just Received 25 Cases

PALM LEAF FANS,

$1.50 per hundred

ROOT AND COMPANY

FT. WAYNE, INDIANA.

THE TWO MYSTERIES.

We know not why it is, dear,
[illegible] deep and still,
The folded hand, the awful calm—
The cheek so pale and chill—
The lids that will not lift again,
Though we may call and call—
The strange white solitude of peace
That settles over all.

We know not what it me[ans], dear,
This desolate heart pain,
This dread to take our daily way
And walk in it again;
We know not to what other sphere
The loved who leave [us] go,
Nor why we're let to wonder still,
[illegible]

But this we know; our loved and dead,
If they should come this day,
Should come and ask us: "What is life?"
Not one of us could say.
[illegible] as deep
As ever death can be;
Yet, ou! [illegible] sweet it is to us,
This li[illegible]

Then might they say—the vanished ones—
And blessed is the thought,
"So death is sweet to us, beloved!
Though we may [illegible] naught
We may not tell [illegible]
This mystery of death:
Ye may not tell us, if ye would,
The mystery of breath."

The child [illegible] comes not
With knowledge or intent,
So those who enter death must go
As little children sent.
Nothing is known; but I believe
That God is overhead,
And as life is to the living,
So death is to the dead.

—[San Francisco Call.

WHY PEGGY MARRIED SILAS.

Her Own Account of it to a Sympathising Friend.

From the Springfield Republican.

I used to be called an old maid. I think old Nancy Vincent was jealous, or she never would have started out all over the neighborhood on purpose to tell folks that I was cut out for an old maid. But thanks to my knowledge of human nature, I have at last got a good man, and Nancy may storm and whistle till her mouth is all out of shape, for what I care. I married Silas Harris one year ago, and I am going to tell you all about it.

You see old Mrs. Harris got took down sick, an' they had no one to do the house-work, such as bakin', washin', ironin', and sweepin'; so I, feelin' kinder tender hearted—I always was a tender hearted creetur—I went up there an' told Mr. Harris, which was Mrs. Harris' son, that I would stay an' help 'em, if they couldn't get anybody that would suit 'em better.

"Nancy Vincent has been here and offered her services," said the old lady.

"Then she has been here, has she?" I was afraid after I had spoken that they would notice how mad I was, but they didn't; and I told 'em plainly that all Nancy Vincent was after was a husband—told 'em about her cookin', what miserable bread she made, what a figger she cut at the meetin' house, with a-a-her bustle clean up to her shoulders—and told all about her tryin' to catch Parson Smith's son, who was then only about 20 and she 51, and I didn't know but she might be 70.

"Well, if she is such a creature, we don't want her here," said Mrs. Harris.

You'd better believe that I was glad to hear her say so. Mr. Harris had a good farm, a nice house an' barn, and I had no notion of lettin' old Nance come in ahead of me, though I never did care anything about the men sex, never; still I didn't intend to have wool pulled over my eyes. I always knew her to be a pesky old gossip. I don't tell storries about my neighbors, and I don't gad all over town—unless there is something to gad about.

"She is all I've told you, and more too," said I, and the Mr. Harris, which is now my husband, told me to come and stay with his mother and he would pay me.

"I don't ask no pay," said I. "She is my neighbor, and neighbors should help each other in the case of sickness."

"Well, come if you can, and I will see that you don't lose anything by it."

Of course I went right up there; what else could I do? Mrs. Harris made me bake some riz' bread the fust thing, then I baked some pies, and then, as it was near supper time, I cooked some nice slap-jacks, for I knew Silas liked slap-jacks. Then I put a clean white spread on the table, placed some of my riz' bread on, together with some of my best quince sauce, that I had brought from home, fixed the slap-jacks, butter and tea in their places, then I blowed the horn to to call Silas to supper.

Pretty soon he came in and who do you think was with him? Why, nobody but old Nancy Vincent. I was mad. She went right up to Mrs. Harris, and, taking a paper parcel from under her old yaller shawl, said: I thought you'd need some cookin' done bein' so unwell like an' not bein' able to work, an' I took the liberty to bring you some chicken an' cheese;" then she laid her vittals on the table and looked at Silas, while her old mummy face wrinkled up into what she mean to be a sweet smile, but it looked more likeapt dried piece of bacon, 60 years old.

"Thank you very much, but we've got a good cook," said Mrs. Harris.

"Is she the one?" and Nance pointed at my face, while her squinting green eyes fairly snapped sparks.

"I came with the intention of helping our sick neighbor until she was able to help herself," I answered.

"You did, did you? I don't see what you are meddling around in ——"

"She is not to blame. I told her to come," suddenly broke in Silas.

"Then I s'pose it's all right, if you told her to come, but there's folks in the world that knows more about sickness an' nussin', I can tell you," and Nance flounced toward the door.

"Stay and take supper with us won't you?" asked Silas.

"I don't know but what I will, seein' as how your mother is so unwell."

"That's right, Nancy, sit down and be neighborly once in your life," and I placed a chair for her at the table. I could see that Nance was uneasy, though I felt all right, except that I was kinder mad. Silas praised my sauce, and he said my slap-jacks were the best he had ever ate. And Mrs. Harris also said my bread couldn't be beat.

Nance never said a word, but she was the spitefulest lookin' critter I ever did see. I determined that I wouldn't touch her old chicken and cheese, and so she thought she'd pass it round herself.

"Try some of my chicken Mrs. Harris, you'll like it, I know you will."

Mrs. Harris took a small slice, but she only just tasted it.

"Have some cheese," and she passed the plate, but the sick lady only took a small piece, she gave a glance at it and laid it on the table, with the remark that she dare not eat cheese.

"You'll take a piece, Silas?"

"I don't care if I do," said he.

She again passed her plate, and Silas reached out his hand and took a piece, but just as he was going to bite off a chunk, a little shower of white skippers rattled off into his tea.

You'd better believe he didn't eat much of that cheese. He got up, sudden like, and said his head ached. I didn't see him again very soon. Mrs. Harris said she felt sick to her stomach, and left the room. Nance didn't know what to make of it all, but she bustled up to me and said I'd been a tellin' stories about her, so that I could catch Silas myself.

"You lie, you know you do, Nancy Vincent!" I didn't care if I did talk plain, bein' as how Silas and Mrs. Harris was out of the room.

"You lie yourself, you old cap-settin' snipe!"

Now to be called a cap-settin' snipe—to be called so by old Nance Vincent—was more than I could stand; so I went at her, "hammer and tongs."

"Nance Vincent," said I—and you'd better believe I felt mad—"do you think you can come here, with your old fly-blown cheese, full of skippers, with your old chicken, so tough that a—a dog couldn't eat it, with the expectation of catchin' Silas Harris for a husband?"

"You may talk and talk," said she, sniveling, "but I can tell you one thing," and she looked vindictively at me. "I didn't come here to lie about folks, and I didn't come here to set a trap to catch Silas Harris."

"No, I don't think you did," said I, "skipper cheese ain't quite the thing to bait him with; and I don't think he would have such an old withered gad-about as you be, even if you should ask him."

Nance swept her old cheese and chicken into a paper bag, then she tied her old bonnet on her head, and stepped out on the piazza as mad as a hornet.

"You may go," said I; "nobody wants you here with your old maggoty cheese."

"I'll write a letter to Silas," she screamed, as she switched down the path, "and tell him what a mean thing you be."

Mrs. Harris now called me, and I went into her room.

"Has that spiteful creature gone?" she inquired.

"Yes, I hope so."

"Good riddance to bad rubbage," said she.

"I hope so," said I.

"If Nance Vincent comes here again, I'll get Silas to turn her away. I can't have my nerves disturbed again in such a manner. Now, Peggy, you may do up the housework."

I went at it with a will. I washed and put away the dishes, swept the floor, blackened the stove, and then, as Silas appeared with two pails of milk, I went into the milk-room to help him strain it and put it on the shelf.

"You had quite a time with old Nance, didn't you?" and then he burst out laughing.

"I couldn't help it; she provoked me."

"You did just right, but you both acted as though you had a deal of temper," and he actually laughed right in my face.

I felt kinder ashamed that he had heard my quarrel with Nance, but I didn't care much, for I always do speak right out when I get a little mad.

After I had strained the milk, and he had put it away, he laid his hand on my shoulder, and said:

"Peggy, you and I are getting pretty well along in years, and I guess we'd better have a wedding. Don't you think it would be a good plan for us to get married?"

I looked at him, kinder startled, it come so sudden. Finally, I thought that as I was 45 years old and he only 40, and as I was all alone in the world, it would be a good plan, especially as he owned a nice farm. So I told him that I'd have him—though I never did care anything about the men sex—and we were married just about a year ago.

But Nance ain't married, and I hope she never will be.

Animals That Dig for Water.

Los Angeles Times.

For years the water question has been a conundrum on the plains of Arizona and Southern California. It is well known that some of the land on the deserts is of the best quality, and would produce the best crops in the world if rain would fall or if water were plentiful enough for irrigation. This problem has been solved by a South American gentleman who has traveled over most the world. He has been in this city for the past few days, and a Times reporter, learning through a third party that he had made a discovery, called upon him and gathered the following facts: It seems that the gentleman was traveling in a dry part of South America about eighteen months ago, all alone, looking for a new range for stock. He had journeyed about thirty miles from water and was beginning to get used up, when he discovers one of those green spots on the desert that makes the lonely traveler's heart feel light. On nearer approach he saw that there was a town of small animals, similar to the prarie dog of this country. They had mounds all around the green spot, and seemed to be very numerous. When he rode up among them they all scampered into their holes, but soon came out again, and became quite tame. He rode up to the spring or well, and found it to be an excellent quality of water. After quenching his thirst he began to look around and investigate the new camp. The strangest thing that his attention was called to the similarity to the hole from which the water flowed to the holes made by the dogs. The spring flowed from the entrance of a mound just the same as that in which the dogs lived, but it is much larger, and on the top was a large basin. Noticing this fact, and knowing that water was a great distance off, he began an investigation, and came to the conclusion that the little dogs had bored the well. Acting upon this decision he captured two of them and started for his ranch. On arriving there a pen was made in a dry place, and the little fellows was put in it. In a few days the work began. They worked very rapidly, and soon had a hole fifty or sixty feet deep. They seemed to be able to penetrate the hardest kind of soil, as they kept right on, stopping for nothing. One would work in the bottom of the hole while the other brought the dirt to the top. On the fifth day they seem to be exhausted, and he gave them some water. This stopped work or several days, but they soon got thirsty and went to work as hard as ever. On the morning of the eighteenth day they both came up with a rush, followed by a stream of water. How deep they had gone it was impossible to tell, as the hole was not straight.

"What kind of looking animals are they?" asked the reporter.

"Very similar to the common prairie dog in size, and color, only they have a bony snout and the claws are much longer and larger. They soon become tame and make nice pets. But I will have several of them down here in a few days and you can take a look at them."

"What do you propose doing?"

"I think there is a large country south of here that can be utilized with the assistance of my pet dogs. I feel sure that every part of Southern California and Arizona can be cultivated where the land is rich enough to raise grain. These animals will find water if it is within 4,000 feet of the surface. I know it because I have tried them."

A Regular Romance.

Woonsocket, R. I., special.

The mystery surrounding "Dr." Levi Wilson, of Uxbridge, Mass., who has in the past few years acquired vast wealth, and who is now defendent in a $100,000 breach of promise and seduction suit, has probably been solved by a newspaper here, which worked up the case eight years ago. Wilson was an operative in a cotton mill in Uxbridge. He left there and started on a tramp for Worcester. In passing through a tract of heavy woods he discovered the hut of a sick hermit for whom he cared. This hermit is alleged to be the son of a wealthy Worcester manufacturer, a fugitive from justice, who was reported dead. During his hiding he had been making experiments in coiling a piece of wire. This was transferred to Wilson and taken to Washburn & Moen, Worcester, and from it originated the famous barbed fence. With Wilson's aid the hermit soon went to Europe, where he has since been visited by Wilson. In addition to the sum of $300,000 received from one of the partners of the Worcester firm, it is alleged that Wilson has been paid fat sums for the care of the hermit, who is reported to be the said partner's son. Both members of the firm have left Worcester, it is alleged, to avoid questioning. A few weeks ago Wilson agreed to give the secret of his late life to the reporter, who had worked up the case, but afterward decided to withhold the facts. This is believed to be his true history, however.

The Methodist Bishops.

The mortality among the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church has been great during the last few years. Kingsley, Thompson, Baker, Ames, Janes, Gilbert Haven and E. O. Haven have all died within a very short time, and now Levi Scott, the oldest Bishop in point of service, has gone the way of all flesh. The duties of a Methodist Bishop until 1872, when the number of Bishops was largely increased, were very severe. The character of the work soon tells on a man with less than an iron constitution, and broken health, or death itself, is the result. Bishop Scott served on the Bench for thirty years, and except during the last two, he was on the effective list. One of his colleagues of the Conference of 1852, the venerable Bishop Simpson, of this city, alone survives him.—Philadelphia Press.

The Methodist Bishops recently lingering on the threshold of death have obtained a new lease of life. Bishop Bowman has already made a journey West, and Bishop Boss has taken several airings in a carriage. Both expect to assume active duties in the Fall. Bishop Peck is recovering his strength but slowly, and will abstain from any considerable exertion for some time to come.—New York Herald.

An Egyptian Pie.

London Letter.

One of the receipts for a state dish of the time of Saladin inspires the reflection that the old English cooks may have derived some of their singularly elaborate—and to the taste of modern days incongruous—combinations directly from the Orient at the time of the crusades. The paste of the pie was made of 30 pounds (?) of meal kneaded with 54 pounds of sesame oil. One half of it was rolled thin and employed to line a copper pan in which, upon a layer of mince-meat were placed 30 roasted lambs, stuffed with pistachio nuts, ginger, pepper, cinnamon, mastic, coriander, caraway and nuts, drenched with rosewater flavored with nutmeg. On and between the lambs were packed 40 fowls and young chickens, and 50 smaller birds stuffed with meat or eggs, and roasted in the juice of grapes or lemons, there being an additional garnishing of meat-patties and sweet tarts. With pieces of meat and toasted cheese the whole mass is built up into a dome and roofed with the remainder of the paste, pressed down so closely that the steam of the cooking could not escape; then, having been drenched with attar of roses and essence of nutmeg or aloewood, the pastry was put in the oven and baked, being moistened during the process with rose-water and nutmeg.

Arabi's Napoleonic Ambition.

Arabi Pasha recently gave orders to have the life of Napoleon I. translated into Arabic, saying to his friends: "Napoleon is my model. I will do what he did—nay, I will do more. I will found an Arabian Empire." He has also tried to play the role of prophet by frequently quoting the Koran, and professing to have familiar interviews with the ghost of Mahomet. One day, a month ago, while on his way to the mosque, he suddenly stopped and stared wildly at the air, as if seeing a vision. Then he stamped upon the ground and cried out that a gun was buried underneath the spot. Excavations were afterward made, and, surely enough, a gun was found at a depth of several feet.

THE LIGHT OF HOPE.

The course of the weariest river
[illegible]
The acorn, forever and ever,
Strives upward to the tree.
The rainbow, the sky adorning,
Shines promise through the storm;
The glimmer of coming morning
Through midnight gloom will form.
By time all [illegible]
Complex [illegible] they be,
And peace will at last be given,
Dear, both to you and me.

Then, though the path may be dreary,
Look onward to the goal;
Though the heart and the head be weary,
Let faith inspire the soul.
Seek the right, though the wrong be tempting,
[illegible]
Vain is all weak exempting
When once the game is lost.
Let strong hand and keen eye be ready,
For plain and ambushed foes;
[illegible] earnest and fancy steady
[illegible]

The heavy clouds may be raining,
But with evening comes the light;
Though the low winds are complaining,
Yet the sunrise gilds the height;
And love has its hidden treasure
For the patient and the pure;
And time gives his fullest measure
To the workers who endure;
And the word that no law has shaken
Has the future pledge supplied;
For we know that when we "awaken"
We shall be "satisfied."

AN ALLIGATOR FARM.

Judge Speed's Collection of One Thousand Reptiles.

[Correspondence Detroit Free Press.]

"If you want to see the alligator as he is," observed the colonel, "if you want to talk with a man who has been brought up with 'em, if you want a square view of the reptile in his native swamp, ride over to Judge Speed's plantation. The judge is the only man in South Carolina who can talk alligator and not tell a lie."

I did want to see the alligator in his native jungle, and I rode across the country and got down in front of an old time, old fashioned southern residence, with its long verandas and beautiful shade. Half a mile away were the first signs of the big bayou, and it was in that bayou that the alligator passed his years in basking and eating and keeping one eye out for the flash of a shot gun.

"Yes, I own that bayou," said the judge, as we got seated; "own alligators and all. I was figuring up the other day, and I calculated that I was the owner of at least 1,000 alligators. Of course, they come and go, but I calculate on 1,000 reptiles which are steady tenants."

"Any very big ones in there?"

"A few. There are seven or eight old sockers which have been there for thirty years. If I was pinched to it, I think I could exhibit two or three reptiles at least fourteen feet long, and there is one there that will measure twenty to an inch."

"How long do they live?"

"Well, that's a hard question. The big one I speak of has been personally known to us for over forty years, and he doesn't show any signs of second childhood yet. I reckon the average alligator puts in from fifty to seventy years in this world of trouble."

"What must they eat?"

"Most everything. An alligator is always hungry. When he can't get food he will chew away at a pine log, just as a hungry man will chew a toothpick. That big one devoured a steer for me this spring, and was nosing around after more meat in a half an hour. I had a calf tied up to that tree down there one day last fall, and a reptile came out of the bayou and took him off, chain and all, and if he didn't swallow the chain we have never been able to find it. I have seen a darky throw 'em an old plow point and it would be swallowed at a gulp."

"Are they dangerous to human beings?"

"Not if you sit here, but if there is a man in this country who dares cross that bayou in a skiff at sun down he can have my plantation. As near as I can figure up, these reptiles have got away with fifty darkies, eight or ten white men, thirty cattle, five or six mules and no end to pigs and geese in the last twenty-five years."

"When are they the liveliest?"

"Early in the morning and after sundown. Let's see. It's after 10 now, and the sun is pretty hot, but I guess we can stir up a few."

We walked down to the edge of the bayou, and the noise we made in the grass and reeds brought a score of snouts to the muddy surface. The judge had a billet of wood in his hand, and presently gave it a toss far out on the water. In an instant there was a grand rush from all directions, followed a furocious fight over the billet, and his honor quietly observed:

"There weren't over thirty in that crowd. Let me call the dog."

He whistled to one of the dogs left behind on the veranda, and when the animal reached us it was encouraged to bark. That fetched 'em. I believe that at least 300 alligators put in an appearance inside of a minute, some content to remain stationary, others longing about and blowing and fighting.

"Louder, King, louder!" commanded the judge, and the dog barked as if he had treed a coon. The number of reptiles increased by at least a hundred, and the waters were thrashed and paddled until the odor from them was quite stiff.

"Cant fool the old veterans that way," observed the judge, as he turned away. "They are down on the muddy bottom or lying in the weeds, and they know that this is only a false pretense. Let a darky come down with a fish pole that would mean business. They swim the bayou and do not leave a ripple, and crawl through the grass as softly as a snake."

"Is the alligator possessed of intelligence?"

"You bet! I regard him as keener than the serpent and sharper that the fox. Let one start to crawl to the house and he will take advantage of the ground, and bushes, and grass just as a wolf or tiger would."

"And can't you get rid of them?"

"Good lands, but I don't want to! I want to foster them. I want 'em to thrive and increase and multiply until the bayou won't hold 'em. Ten, fifteen or twenty years hence the price of alligator hides will be four times what it is now. And then I'll turn on 'em and make some money. That bayou is my alligator farm. The seeds are there and plants are growing, and when I figure that I own 3,000 good sized alligators, I shall let cotton go for one season and send alligator hides to market. Bless you, my boy, but I wouldn't let a man crack away here with a rifle for a twenty dollar gold piece. He'd get 'em nervous and skeery, and like enough my whole alligator farm would sail off down the river in search of a new owner. I want to keep 'em right here. There's going to be big money in that sort of live stock before we are ten years older."

Strange Infatuation.

Memphis Appeal.

Considerable excitement was occasioned on Carolina street, Fort Pickering, by the report that Mrs. Dora Sharp, widow of the late Judge Sharp, had tried to commit suicide by poisoning. Investigation showed the report to have been true. The cause of the attempt lies in that part of nature that is stranger than fiction. Mrs. Sharp has been the victim of a most remarkable infatuation, and from it has resulted suffering to herself and great pain to a worthy gentleman, Capt. Robert M. Leech. About two years ago she met this gentleman casually, and fell very much in love with him. He, however, did not reciprocate; in fact, for some time he was totally unaware of her feeling toward him. He was very much surprised when he began to receive tender letters from her. These he always returned, and, in fact, did everything he could to discourage her. He conceived the idea that perhaps she was not of sound mind. A short time ago he happened to go to church with his daughter and a lady. Mrs. Sharp saw him. Shortly afterward she sent for him to come to her. She reproached him bitterly for going with the lady to church. He didn't know what to make of it. She asked him to look over her deeds and other papers and see if her estate was all right.

"My dear madam," said he, "if I were to undertake it I would be twice as long as anybody else, and I wouldn't know any more about it when I was through than I did at first. You ought to get your lawyer to examine your estate."

This did not suit her at all. She wanted him to examine the papers. Thinking that perhaps she was pushed for money, he offered to lend her any amount she needed. She said she did not need any money. She wanted his love, and she wanted him to marry her. She had plenty of property. At the word marry, he thought it time to leave. This was not the end of it. She she sent him costly presents, which he returned. She gave his little girl a handsome diamond pin, which he had returned. Mrs. Sharp thought some one was interfering in the matter, and was keeping her letters and presents from him. Day before yesterday she met him on the street, and again pleaded with him. He told her, as gently as he could, that she ought not to go on that way. She said she was going to kill herself. He told her, laughingly, not to do that, as a coffin would cost $100, and it was too expensive. He did not for a moment suppose she would do it. She said that he would see she loved him better than he thought. She made her will in his favor, and asked him to take care of her sister. Yesterday he was very much horrified when the news was brought to him that she had really attempted to take her life. The affair is very lamentable. Capt. Leech is very much distressed about the matter, and is afraid lest his position should be misconstrued, but he has acted, it seems, most honorably throughout. He says he entertains the highest respect for Mrs. Sharp; that she is a lady in every sense of the word, but that she is a monomaniac on this subject. The Captain said that, on his honor, his relations with her had been only those above set forth.

From last accounts Mrs. Sharp was improving, and was expected to recover.

Whoa Emma!

By Murat Halstead.

"Back, I say!"

The silvered foam of the sea was plashing in rythmic cadence on the white sands of the beach, while here and there a fleck of wavering light from the signal buoy on Sardine Shoals—that dreaded spot beneath whose treacherous waves so many goodly ships freighted with precious burdens from far Cathay and Muskegon had disappeared forever—brought into bold relief against the western sky Girofle McClosky's off foot as she stood by Bertram Perkins' side that soft June evening.

"You do not love me," said the girl, speaking slowly, "or you could not speak so cruelly. On this beautiful night, when the hills are suffused with amber haze, through which the stars glow and throb in silent splendor, we should think of naught but love—pure, passionless love, that will bind our hearts together in a chain whose every link shall be a kiss; whose every fold is a sweet caress."

For an instant the man did not reply. Then the girl stretched forth to him her bare white arms that glistened like marble in the growing dusk, but he heeded them not.

"Will you not speak to me, sweetheart?" she said, an infinite pathos in the words.

No answer came. Again the outstretched arms pleaded mutely and with pitiful eloquence for the joy that was never to be. Looking at her with a haughty, almost Vice President Davis expression on his face, Bertram again said: "Back, I say."

With a despairing gleam in her darksome eyes, Girofle turned away and began to sob as if her corset would break. "God help me," she said, in despairing accents, "I cannot back."

"Why not?" asked Bertram.

"Because," was the reply in tear-stained tones, "my polonaise is too eternally tight."

Cracking His Heels at Eighty-Four

Albany Journal.

The other morning in a grocery store some one remarked to Mr. Thomas Dunn, one of our wealthiest citizens, now in his eighty-fourth year, that he was "getting old." "Pshaw!" said Mr. Dunn. "I will show you that if I am old I have some life in me yet." Hanging his cane on the railing of the desk and placing his hat on a pyramid of canned goods Mr. Dunn stepped to an alcove formed by the arrangement of goods and suddenly springing into the air with the lightness of a latter-day acrobat, cracked his heels together twice before touching the floor again. As if this was not sufficient to convince the most sceptical of his agility, he repeated the feat. Others present attempted it, but did not succeed.

TABLE TALK.

Canada thistles overrun Toledo.

Floridians cook with alligator fat.

Pennsylvania has a "Youngwomanstown."

Genius is eternal patience—[Michael Angelo.

Flowers are not worn as head dresses this season.

A third of all the canned corn is put up in Maine.

The Canadians want to send a regiment to Egypt.

Overwork and worry hastened Miss Parnell's end.

Saratoga hotels are said not to be making money.

Cakes of soap are used for small change in Mexico.

Lemons are coming into market from Florida groves.

Camp meetings are becoming very popular in Australia.

It is remarkable that nurses are generally long lived.

Jay Hubbell refuses to take cord-wood on subscription.

About 800 men in New York vend saw-dust for a sustenance.

"Please make yourself less adjacent," is a polite invitation to get out.

In a lofty double house in Berlin 1,255 persons make their home.

Tony Pastor will drop varieties and go into comic opera in the fall.

A Vermonter has built a hotel at the Natural Bridge of Virginia.

General J. E. B. Stuart's widow is principal of a Virginia seminary.

There are to-day upon the naval pension list forty-six rear admirals.

"Debuts in the surf" are chronicled as society items by a seaside journal.

What I have been taught I have forgotten; what I know I have guessed.

Getting tin-typed in short bathing clothes is one of the Cape May vanities.

An ice machine at Rome, Ga., exploded the other day and killed one man.

The question whether it pains a goose to lug it by the neck still agitates New York.

London fashion authorities say that brides hereafter are to discard the long train.

Upward of 18,000,000 letters and postal cards are posted daily in the world.

A western voter asked his congressman for a sulky-plow from the agricultural bureau.

A suit to interdict Sunday railroad trains is occupying the attention of the Canadian courts.

A worm with fifty-eight blue horns and nineteen yellow ones has been found in Missouri.

A yacht is more like a Christian than the average man. She can stand on a tack without swearing.

Many a self-made man would have done better by himself had he let the contract out to somebody else.

Judge Tourgee is said to have cleared the comfortable sum of $30,000 from the sale of "The Fool's Errand."

Mr. Tilden had a library of over sixteen thousand volumes, and has just added four thousand six hundred.

Peoria's new opera house is now rapidly approaching completion. The cost will amount to fully $100,000.

The Hawaiin newspapers complain that their legislature wastes money, and that their forests are disappearing.

There are 267 islands in Lake Winnipesaukee, the largest, Long island, having an average of over 1,000 acres.

One hundred and sixty men are now working daily on what will be the largest building ever erected in Rochester.

Street preachers of temperance and other evangelists in New York never had so large audiences as at the present time.

A Virginia woman of four score years has just taken her thirteenth husband. That woman must have property.

"God Save the Queen" is being translated for practical use into fourteen different languages and dialects of India.

A Cincinnati paper reports the wedding of Adolph [illegible]urger and Augusta Schweitzer. In union their is strength.

The Hollanders appear to have caught on to the fonetik style. One of their war vessels is put down as the Krokodil.

The oldest American vessel in the carrying trade is a bark, the Amethyst, now in San Francisco harbor. She was launched in 1822.

At the recent wedding of General Corse and Miss Fanny McNeil, the bride wore roses from a bush planted by her great-grandmother 100 years ago.

Charles Rider, of West Italy, N. Y., was troubled by mosquitoes, and kindled a fire near the house to drive them away. The house caught fire and was burned.

Schuyler Crosby, who has just been nominated by President Arthur for Governor of Montana, has been United States consul at Florence for the last six years.

During the first half of the present year there were fourteen fatal colliery explosions in Great Britain. The loss of lives amounted to 183—double the number killed during the entire year of 1881.

[illegible] born in Bismarck, Dakota, with the name of the City Hammer, and is going for a living in this world charged with the motto: "Vim, vinegar, vitriol and victory."

While its mother was engaged for several hours in playing Piute poker in Alida Valley, Nevada, a little Indian child, left in the shade of a sagebrush, was attacked by a cloud of mosquitos, the effect of the numerous bites causing death the next day.

The great devourers of novels in England are factory workers, who fly to them from the dull, ugly routine of their daily toil, and persons of leisure, of moderate means, who cannot afford society, travel, theatres, etc. Such persons abound in English watering places.

FROM THE WIRES.

Bombay, August 9.—Five transports with troops, sailed for Egypt yesterday. Seven more start to-day. Gen. Sir Herbert McPherson and staff start to-day.

London, August 9.—The Royal Irish Dragoon Guards left Aldershot this morning for Southampton, where they will embark for Egypt.

The London Telegraph correspondent in Egypt will not be permitted to accompany the army.

THE IRISH CONSTABULARY.

Limerick, August 9.—The police, as a consequence of the interview between the county inspector and the Clonmel delegation, in which the former acknowledged that their claims were justifiable, but recommended the men to keep within the legal rules of the force, have telegraphed all over Ireland that they are resolved to suspend agitation for the present pending action of the government. If the decision of the government is unfavorable they are resolved to resign in a body. Replies to telegrams are arriving from all parts of the country to-day approving the resolve and exhorting the men to stand firm.

AN OCEAN STEAMER AGROUND.

London, August 9.—The steamer Mosel, from Bremen to New York, is aground under Lizard Point. Her position is a precarious one. She has a hole through her bow. She sunk at 8:30 this morning. Tugs have been sent to her assistance. The passengers are landed at Penzance. The vessel had mails for New York. She also had a full complement of passengers, and a full cargo, including French jewelry, valued at 91,000 francs. She is full of water, an will probably be a total wreck. There was a dense fog when the steamer went ashore.

Mr. L. G. Smith, of Ft. Howard, Wis., has in his possession a plain silver hunting-case watch, which Charles J. Guiteau, Garfield's assassin, gave him as a pledge for a loan of $5 in 1880. From an engraving on the inside of the case, it appears that the watch was a present to Charles J. Guiteau from his father, L. W. Guiteau, when the former was a boy. Mr. Smith says that the legal limitation for the redemption of the watch will expire to-morrow, when he will claim it as his property.

Con Galiger, a car repairer, was run over and killed by a switch engine in the Illinois Central yard at Cairo. He had sat down on a rail to wait for some cars to be switched in, and fell asleep, with the above result.

New York dispatch says:

A murderous assault was made this afternoon on E. O. Hill, Superintendent of the Eastern Division of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad Company, in the company's freight yard in Jersey City. The assailant was John Ahearn, a night watchman, who was dismissed a few days ago for drunkenness. Ahearn rushed in drunk and pointed a revolver at the Superintendent's head. He quickly threw his head forward toward his right side. As he did Ahearn discharged the weapon, the bullet grazing Hill's neck and passing through two sheets of slate, embedded itself in a plank at the end of the freight office, to which the slate was nailed, Hill immediately seized Ahern, who is a powerful fellow, and in the short struggle both fell. Ahearn, when down, freed his right arm and was taking aim at Hill a second time, when Sergeant McGinnis grasped the pistol and wrenched it from the drunken and desperate fellows hand.

Cleveland, O., dispatch:

A Leader special reports that the stockholders of the Pittsburgh, Youngstown and Chicago Road met in Youngstown to-day and voted to sell all their interest in the road between Newcastle Junction and Akron to the Pittsburg, Cleveland and Toledo Company. Shortly afterward the officials of the latter road met and decided to issue $2,400,000 in bonds to complete and equip the line.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., dispatch:

The army worm is making heavy ravages in the vicinity of Pine Plains. Farmers are compelled to harvest their oats before they are fully ripe. It is feared the worm will attack the corn crop. The extreme drought is proving disastrous to the corn and potatoes of Dutchess county.

Worcester, Mass. dispatch:

The fining of the proprietor of Bigelow's Garden for giving Sunday concerts resulted in his filing complaint against the proprietors and editors of the Spy, the Shrewsbury Railroad, and a boatman on one of the city parks for doing business on the Lord's day.

Bradford, Pa., dispatch:

William Hale, thirty-five years old attempted to ravish a six-year-old daughter of Henry Aiken, last evening, at Gosport, but did not accomplish his object. He was caught by the citizens, tarred and feathered, and driven out of town.

Wabash, Ind., dispatch:

Miss Elizabeth Oswalt, the female faster, is now able to sit up, and is growing stronger every day. She eats as much as the Doctor will let her, and is considered to be wholly out of danger.

Hickman, Ky., August 8.

The steamer Gold Dust exploded her boilers at 3 p. m. yesterday, just after leaving the wharf, going up the Mississippi. Forty-seven persons were scalded and seventeen are missing. The boat was landed in the eddy just above the town, and through the exertion of citizens the passengers, officers and part of the crew and deck passengers were taken ashore and removed to hotels and residences. Twenty-four of the injured were lying in Holcomb's dry goods store at one time, where they received every attention before being removed to more comfortable places. The people have done and are doing all they can for the sufferers.

A New York dispatch says:

Proceedings had in the Supreme Court last March, and again yesterday, brought to light the fact that the Rev. Stephen Tyng, jr., formerly the Rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Madison avenue, and now the agent of the Equitable Life Insurance company in Paris, before the termination of his pastorate engaged in stock speculation. Edward L. Owen, a stock broker, has brought suit to recover $5,055 for margins on disastrous expressions of judgment on Wall street.

Cairo, Ill., August 8.

This morning as the steamer Silverthorn was taking a delegation of colored citizens to the emancipation celebration at Metropolis, Ill., George W. Tanner, a prominent colored politician, stabbed A. G. Leonard, editor of the Cairo Gazette, three times. The last and most dangerous cut, it is thought, will prove fatal. Tanner is in jail at Metropolis.

Richmond, Ind., dispatch:

George H. Boyd, of Racine, Wis., was run over and fatally injured by a freight train on the P., C. & St. L. road at Weaver's Station, east of this city, last night. He commenced work as a brakeman in the morning. The remains will be sent to Racine for interment.

Tallahasse, Fla., dispatch:

John Hoper, a road worker, left Milton yesterday with a jug of whisky, drunk. He sat down in a swamp and was sucked to death by mosquitoes. He was black with insects when found

In Chattahoochee county, Georgia Jack Hollis chased Frank Sims's out of the former's field. They quarreled, and Sims stabbed Hollis dead.

Evansville, Ind., dispatch:

There is a telephone war raging here. Subscribers protest paying quarterly in advance. Two hundred discontinued their subscriptions yesterday

Heavy rains have fallen in most parts of Michigan during the present week. The result has been floods carrying away bridges, dams, overflowing low land and damaging if not destroying such wheat as had been allowed to stand in shock in fields, and of this there is considerable. Muggy weather is adding to this injury greatly. The floods last night between Ionia and Grand Rapids are reported to have done $50,000 damage.

Wabash, Ind., dispatch:

Lightning last night set fire to a big barn belonging to A. R. Starbeck, a prominent farmer residing seven miles southwest of here. Many valuable implements, twenty tons of hay and several bushels of corn and wheat were destroyed. The loss foots up about $2,700. No insurance.

At Ft. Wayne, Mrs. Nellie Coleman, a handsome young widow, committed suicide by taking morphine. She was betrothed to Perry Alexander, a well-known horse-dealer, but recently learned that he was very attentive to another woman. The discovery drove Mrs. Coleman frantic, and she resolved on suicide, leaving a piteous note to her lover, reproaching him for infidelity and desertion.

A telegram from Jacksonville, Fla., this afternoon, announces that Wm. D. Neff and wife, formerly of Ottawa, Ill., and recently removed to an orange plantation at Spring Garden Center, Volusia county, on the St. John river, 100 miles above Jacksonville, were murdered and the house burned over them to conceal the crime on the 1st instant. Further particulars are lacking.

Columbus, O., dispatch:

Information to-day is that the trains on the Ohio Central road are not running further south than Moxahala, and that it will require several weeks of repair before they can get beyond that point. The company's loss by the waterspout of Thursday is much greater that at first supposed. From three miles north of Corning, Ohio, to South Bend, in Hamilton county, and up the west branch of the Ohio Central to Buckinham, a distance of sixteen or eighteen miles, the track is almost entirely destroyed. It cannot be observed that a rail was located there. Most all the live-stock in two valleys was swept away. It is believed the loss to railroad, mines and private individuals, will approximat $500,000.

Philadelphia dispatch:

Up to this afternoon the list of victims of Charles M. Hilgert, the absconding member of the firm of John Hilgert's Sons, is as follows: Mechanics' Bank, $80,000; Philadelphia National Bank, $44,000; Hall & Kennedy, brokers, $3,200; Evans Edwards' Sons, coopers, $2,500; Maitland & Phelps, New York, $50,000; Kensington National Bank, $1,698; Newbold & Sons, note brokers, $86,190; George C. Carson & Co., $177,501; Provident Life and Trust Company, $28,000; J. Lawler Welsh, $25,000; Remsen & Tate, $25,000; miscellaneous, $2,500; total, $496,558.

Sandwich, Mass., August 9.

The forest fire reported yesterday is rapidly reaching its height. Wind south and blowing harder than ever. Fifteen valuable houses and out-buildings are on the line of the flames, all of which seem to be fated. The tenants are packing their household goods, watering their roofs and plowing up ground, anxiously waiting for a moments notice. The loss of property will be much larger for the next forty-eight hours if the winds keep in the present quarter. The fire is now six miles wide, and progressing toward Monument township.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Secretary Chandler yesterday cabled the United States Minister at St. Petersburg that Congress had made provision for bringing home the remains of Lieutenant Commander DeLong and his companions, and asked that he telegraph Lieutenant Harber at Yakutsk to have sledges built and to bring the bodies to Orenburg, where metalic cases would be found in waiting.

A large number of new appointments of pension clerkships under the new bills have been made, but no ladies thus far have been appointed. The lady applicants for clerkships will hold an indignation meeting to-morrow evening, and demand recognition.

The petition of Dr. S. A. Mudd, of Maryland, was presented to the House to-day, asking compensation for acting as surgeon at Dry Tortugas during the time he was held there as a prisoner under the charge of connection with the conspiracy to murder President Lincoln. He says while there the yellow fever broke out among the soldiers and citizens, and he served for them as best he could, saving many lives. Mudd is the man who dressed Wilkes Booth's broken leg, and was supposed to be one of the conspirators. He was finally pardoned, no sufficient proof appearing against him.

The Committee on Mississippi River appointed yesterday met to-day, and determined to meet at Cairo on November 10 to begin their inquiries under the resolution.

A private letter from Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, announces the death of Mrs. Bartlett, sister of Col. George Corkhill, District Attorney. A singular fatality has seemed to pursue the family during the last fifteen months. Within that time Col. Corkhill has lost his father and mother, one child, wife and two sisters.

Advices from Brownsville, Texas, to-day, state that there are about fifty cases of yellow fever there and the epidemic is developing. The people are organized and prepared for the worst, but no aid is required from the government at present.

THE STATE.

The oat crop in Pike county averages forty bushels to the acre.

Jackson county has $130,000 invested in thirteen iron bridges, the latest one being across the White Qiver, one mile north of Brownstown, which cost $14,000.

Sam Able shot a man at a picnic five miles north of Seymour, with intent to kill. The ball failed to hit the one intended and struck Eddie Tally, a harmless boy. Able has disappeared.

Rev. Garrison, of New Albany, a Presbyterian minister who has been preaching at Pleasant View Church, four miles south of Corydon, professes to heal the sick and afflicted by anointment, and several have gone forward to be restored.

The Christian church at Crawfordsville was robbed of its communion service and wine Sunday morning, and the administration of the sacrament had to be postponed.

It is now almost certain that Peter Palmer, who disappeared so suddenly from Jeffersonville, on Saturday night, ended his life by a plunge into the Ohio river. He had been melancholy for several days. He was a worthy man.

Several barrels of flour which were sunk in the accident to the steamer J. D. Parker, have been recovered and brought to Madison. In the center of each barrel, although submerged for a year, was a quantity—say fifty to eighty pounds—of good flour that had never been affected by the water.

Peter Sappenfield, an old citizen residing near Fredericksburg, Washington county, was taken from his house and severely whipped with switches, a few nights ago. It is the general belief that the lynchers were instigated to the act by the old man's wife, whom he had not treated very well.

A baby having four ears has been born in Illinois. When the child grows up he will make an excellent president to listen to the demands of Ohio office seekers.

MRS. LINCOLN'S BROTHER.

His Tragic Death at the Battle of Shiloh.

Richmond (Va.) State.

When the War broke out, Mrs. Lincoln had two brothers, Dr. Todd and Sam Todd, residing in New Orleans and in business there. Dr. Todd was early appointed a surgeon in the Confederate Army, and, we believe, came to Virginia. Young Sam Todd was a gay and happy youth, not over thirty, of good social standing and pleasing address, handsome in person, very popular, and in every respect a manly fellow. He was, of course, known as the brother-in-law of the President, or "Old Abe," as he was generally called; but being an ardent Southerner that did not affect his relations with his friends. In March, 1862, when Beauregard was appointed to the West and sent out to stay the progress of the Federal Army under Grant and Sherman through Kentucky and Tennessee, he made a call upon Louisiana, his native State, to come to his aid. This was promptly responded to by several thousand young men of New Orleans, of all grades of society, who eagerly volunteered, and among the number was young Sam Todd. He enrolled himself in the Crescent Regiment. A month after volunteering the great battle of Shiloh was fought. On the day before that battle the writer and others gave "a dinner" to some half-dozen of their personal friends of the Crescent Regiment, Washington Artillery, Seventh Texas, etc., and Sam Todd was one of the favorite guests. Jovial Sam Todd! Who that knew him can ever forget him! All soul, all fun and all fire, too! They separated for the march, and the next day were all in the midst of battle by sunrise. The first day went merrily enough for our side. It was a delightful game of base ball, and, though the battle was fierce, desperate and hotly contested, when night came we had scored a great victory.

The night was a fearful one, and we slept on the field in the most drenching rain storm that was ever experienced, accompanied by some of the very loudest thunder, which could only be distinguished from the roar of the columbiads fired at intervals on the gunboats by the fact that the first was harmless, but the latter being loaded, their shrieking shell and rolling shot caused our fellows often to change the logs selected for their pillows.

Betimes on the morning of the 7th we were all up and in line, but rested for a while to cook breakfast before advancing. While engaged over a pot of boiling potatoes, while somebody else was preparing coffee, surrounded by many of the staff and correspondents of Beauregard's army proper, the Louisiana and Texas men, a young fellow in the uniform of the Crescents came up and expressed a wish for "one of them murphys when they were done." Turning and recognizing our friend Todd, we grasped his hand and congratulated him upon his good fortune in the fight; for although the Crescents were in reserve they had yet participated largely in the battle, and it was the leading regiment in the capture of Prentiss and his men; its Colonel, Marshall J. Smith, of Norfolk, receiving his sword; but the next moment a number of round shot came plunging over the field in which we were assembled, one of which overturned our potato pot, and the order was to fall in at once, as the enemy was advancing in force. It was the new troops of Buell and Nelson, and we were at once hotly engaged. Sam Todd's regiment was thrown to the front promptly, soon followed by ours, when almost the first object that met us as we passed over the field was the lifeless body of poor Sam, Mrs. Lincoln's brother, with a bullet in his forehead! Driven back and still back, our dead were all left on the disastrous field for Grant to bury; and among those who shared these grim and hasty funeral rites there was no better or more devoted soldier of the Confederacy than this gallant young brother of the "Lady of the White House."

Changed Color.

Omaha (Neb.) Republican.

Last evening there died at St. Joseph's Hospital, after a brief illness, a well-known sporting character named Samuel Stevenson, a negro by birth but who during his lifetime turned almost white. He was seventy-eight years of age, and from his early manhood he had been a professional gambler and faro dealer among the colored people. In 1869 he came to Omaha and resided here ever since. During these years he dealt a faro game for the colored fraternity. His bank roll was his own money, and although he never had any very large sums he was generally in funds sufficient to conduct his game, pay his living expenses and contribute to the support of his family, who reside in Louisville. At times he had as high as $2,000. About three years ago he was drinking pretty heavily one day, and, as he always claimed, he was drugged, and the consequence was that the outside gamblers who were playing against him broke him, and he was never able to recuperate from his loss.

About thirty years ago he began turning white, and the transformation continued until a few years ago, when his skin became as white as that of any white man. There were two small dark spots over his eyes and a few on his hands, but they could never have been noticed unless attention was directed to them, and even then they were perceptible only upon close observation. His hair also turned white and straight, and he appeared upon the streets as a well-dressed, dignified and genteel old man, and no one unacquainted with his history would ever have suspected that he was a negro, and at one time was as black as the average colored man. Many years ago, when he was partly white and partly black in spots, he was frequently solicited by circus men to travel with them as a natural curosity, but he always refused such offers, some of which were quite liberal, as he was opposed to exhibiting himself for money. He was rather reticent concerning his history. All who knew him in Omaha respected him, as he was honorable in all his dealings. He died without leaving any property or money. His remains were removed last evening to Jacob's undertaking establishment, from which place the funeral will take place.

A Supreme Judges Perquisites.

[Washington letter.]

But for high-toned perquisites, privileges, and luxuries the jolly old owls on the supreme court bench would take the premium at a world's fair—they would tak the cake, the oven, the baker, and the farmer's wheat-field. In the first place, every one of the judges has a room in his house, furnished by the government luxuriously—a perfect library in itself. The walls are covered with rich book-cases filled with law books of great value and usefulness, the floors are richly carpeted, a great, massive desk occupies the center of the room, morocco lounges and easy chairs invite you to repose, the body-servant is just without the door awaiting the tinkle of the silver bell. These, including the body-servant, are paid out of Uncle Sam's pouch. If you go to dine with a judge, a secretary, an assistant secretary, or or an assistant anything, or a senator, behind your chair you will probably find a waiter, paid for by the government as a messinger or a laborer. Each judge has his own man. The supreme court has more officers and men than any similar institution in the world three over.

An exchange says several stores in New York sell worms for angling purposes. We hope our esteemed contemporary doesn't suppose we thought they sold them for vermicelli or chewing-gum.

When a man knows he is in the right and is obstinate he is a christian, but when he knows he is wrong and is still obstinate he is a fool.

The Empress of Germany has for many years given much of her time to the study and improvement of the people's stoves and kitchens.

Beware
OF Fraud
BENSON'S
CAPCINE
PLASTERS
HAVE BEEN IMITATED,

And their excellent reputation injured by worthless imitations. The Public are cautioned against buying Plasters having similar sounding names. See that the word C-A-P-C-I-N-E is correctly spelled.

Benson's Capcine
Porous Plasters

Are the only improvement ever made in Plasters.

One is worth more than a dozen of any other kind.

Will positively cure where other remedies will not even relieve.

Price 25 cents.

Beware of cheap Plasters made with lead poisons.

SEABURY & JOHNSON,
Manufacturing Chemists, New York.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25cts. MEAD'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure
is Recommended by Physicians!
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

PROF. HARRIS'
RADICAL CURE
—FOR—NERVOUS
DEBILITY
—AND—
ORGANIC WEAKNESS
—IN—YOUNG
—AND—
MIDDLE-AGED
MEN.

A VITAL FORCE RESTORER

DON'T FAIL TO GET A BOX

Put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full Directions for using will accompany each box.

Prepared and Sold ONLY by
HARRIS REMEDY CO. Mfg. Chemists,
MARKET AND 8TH STS., ST. LOUIS, MO.

WELL AUGERS,
ROCK DRILLS
And the Best Machinery in the World for
BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!
Book Free. Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

If you feel drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, mouth tastes badly, poor appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from torpid liver, or "biliousness," and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently as to take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR OR MEDICINE.

The cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World.

An EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC for all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen.

Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common as bad breath, and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your Appetite, Complexion, and General Health.

PILES!

How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of all pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR is no drastic violent purge, but a gentle assistant to nature.

CONSTIPATION!

Should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache.

ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

MANUFACTURED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

PROVED A SUCCESS.

THE PASTILLE
Prof. Harris' Radical Cure
Trade Mark
FOR
NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE.

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness [illegible] deplorable [illegible] or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, viz: Direct Application, acting [illegible] upon the Vesicles, Ducts, and Glands, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the [illegible] organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoroughly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by
HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G. CHEMISTS.
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons:

Indiana, April 11, '81.—The Remedy is working perfectly. [illegible] for 3 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 26th, '81.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. [illegible]

West Virginia, Aug. [illegible]—I received your medicine and I [illegible] I am very thankful. [illegible] a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June [illegible]—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, [illegible] is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. [illegible]—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. [illegible] in the same way, and wish one No. 2 box.

REED'S
TRADE MARK
GILT EDGE
TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY
In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the stomach, Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. Nathan, & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FREE!
RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of [illegible] in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, AUG. 17th 1882

Democratic State Ticket.

For Secretary of State,
WILLIAM R. MYERS, of Madison.
For Auditor of State,
JAMES H. RICE, of Floyd.
For Treasurer of State,
JOHN J. COOPER, of Marion.
For Attorney General,
FRANCIS T. HORD, of Bartholomew
For Clerk of Supreme Court,
S. P. SHEFRIN, of Cass.
For State Superintendent,
JOHN W. HOLCOMBE, of Porter.
For Judge Supreme Court—First dis't.
W. E. NIBLACK, of Knox.
Second District,
GEORGE T. HOWK, of Floyd.
Third District,
ALLEN ZOLLARS, of Allen.

COUNTY TICKET.
For Congress 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY,
of Allen County.
COUNTY TICKET:
For Representative,
D. D. MOODY.
For Clerk,
D. Y. HUSSELMAN.
For Auditor,
THOMAS H. TOMLINSON.
For Treasurer,
L. J. MILLER.
For Sheriff,
JOHN W. BOYLE.
For Recorder,
JOHN BUTT.
For Surveyor,
J. J. VAN AUKEN.
Fo Coroner,
J. J. LATSON.
For Commissioner North District,
JOSEPH SEWELL.
Southwest District,
CHRISTIAN SHEETS.
Southeast District,
OLIVER H. WIDNEY.

It may be a relief to some to know that congress adjourned last week.

The democratic majority in Kentucky at the election last week was about 35,000.

There are rumors that the small-pox has broken out in Etna township in Whitley county.

Negroes are still emigrating from the Carolinas, and forming settlements on the west coast of Africa.

Over seven hundred thousand immigrants from across the sea landed on our shores during the year just past.

Mr. Colerick voted to sustain the president in his veto of the obnoxious appropriation bill. Three cheers for Colerick.

It is apparent that republicans have reached the height of ironical expression when they speak of "W. C. Glasgow, our next congressman."

The yellow fever reported from points on the Rio Grande, is said to be on the increase. It is feared we are to have another season of the scourge.

Why would it not be the fairest way to sell all kinds of grain by the "cental" or hundred weight, as is now done in California and some other of the extreme western states.

The St. Jacobs oil man, Charles A. Vogeler, is dead. He lived in Baltimore, and it is understood that he became quite wealthy through the sale of the medicines he owned.

A tramp in Fort Wayne stole a Knight-templar's sword from a gentleman residing in that city. The sword has been recovered, but no clue as to what on earth a tramp wanted of such a bauble.

The republican state convention last week, re-nominated all the present state officers. The Sentinel says the attendence was much less than at the democratic convention held in the same hall the week before.

In our remarks last week about th "Oats Bill" the compositor, by skipping a line of copy left out a very important point. The reading should be, that Mr. Moody voted against the passage of the bill, and hence in the interest of farming community.

We have received a copy of the "Daily Optic" a spicy western paper published at Las Vegas, New Mexico. Like most western papers, especially those published in the mountain regions, it is a lively, dare-devil sheet, and is no doubt a power in that far away little city.

A boy living near Huntertown, Allen county, fell on a pitchfork last week, running one of the tines into his head. It entered below the chin, passed through the roots of his tongue, and his palate, and came out below the right eye. It was taken out with great difficulty, but it is believed that he will survive, unless blood poisoning sets in.

An agreement has been entered into by the state department and the Mexican government, which authorizes the military forces of each to cross the border into the country of the other when in pursuit of Indians, the troops to return as soon as they fight the Indians or lose the trail, and notice of the facts to be given to the authorities of each country. This agreement to remain in force two years.

We have to remind the Press that the Courier said John G. Thompson had as good a right to go along with the Garfield funeral drinking party, and take his bitters as the rest had. But we did not say, as the Press would unfairly intimate, that John G. had a right to swindle the government out of $3000, for railroad fare. The Courier condemns the drunkenness of the funeral procession and the accompanying steal, whether it was for whisky or car fare, and whether it was perpetrated by republicans or democrats. When the Press will do as much, it will produce a pleasant ripple of surprise among its readers. But all of these drunken funerals, and other debauches, and other glaring steals can be entirely stopped if the republican party wishes, as they have a majority in all branches of the government. Hence, we propose to hold them accountable for these disgraceful proceedings.

It is the republicans, at last, who are not in favor of submitting the constitutional amendments to the people. They have always believed in putting such questions to vote at a special election, when but few will turn out, and who will be mostly such as favor the new clauses. This was the case, when the late amendments were adopted, and now in their recently constructed state platform they favor submitting it to the people at a special election, when but few will turn out. They also, forget that a special election will cost the state thousands of dollars. Democrats, on the other hand, as shown by their platform, wish to have the amendments voted on, at a general election, when all the people are out, and when there will be little or no extra expense attending it. Democrats are not only anxious to save expense, but willing to give time and opportunity for all to turn out and assist in deciding the matter.

The republican convention last Saturday nominated Jere Lewis of Franklin township for representative; E. D. Hartman, of Auburn, for clerk; J. A. Shull, of Waterloo, for auditor; J. Hazlett, of Wilmington, for sheriff, Charles Beugnot, of Auburn, for treasurer; Thad. Meese, of Wilmington, for recorder; S. G. Flint, of Newville, for surveyor; and J. A. Cowan, of Auburn; for coroner. The ticket is considered a very fair one in point of ability and character, but there is a good deal of complaint as to the way some of them secured their nominations. There is nothing in the make up of the ticket to create enthusiasm, and while they may draw a good vote in their own party, there is no reason to fear that any democrat will scratch his ticket on account of them. The prospect now is, that every man on the democratic ticket will be triumphantly elected.

The Press fears another flop on the part of the Courier. The position of the editor of this paper has always been, that while we have no faith in the success of the prohibition business, we are willing the people shall decide for themselves. We have said before: "If a majority of the people want prohibition, they have a right to it, and if a majority of the people do not want prohibition, then we do not think it right to force it on them." This we have said, in effect a number of times, with the addition, that we do not think it fair that a small portion of the people should be allowed to change our constitution as was the case when the last amendments were voted on. At that special election, less than one third of the votes of the state, were in favor of the change.

The congress just adjourned, in its unusually long session of eight months, passed 186 public and 179 private bills, and thirty-eight public and private resolutions. Of the public acts, thirteen were regular appropriation bills. The important acts of a general nature are: The Anti-Polygamy Bill: the bill for the more efficient organization of the life-saving service; the bill restricting Chinese immigration; the bill creating the Tariff Commission; the bill to extend the commission on Alabama claims, and the bill for re-chartering National banks. Thirty-two of the public bills are for the erection of public buildings, ten for the construction of bridges, and twenty-four donating condemned cannon. The private bills and resolutions relate chiefly to the payment of pensions.—Times-Star.

The New Era tries to make a pun on the name of the "next member" as follows: Lowry will have to "blow glass before he goes to congress." There's campaign eloquence for you. If Judge Lowry could have foreseen that he would be called upon to pass through such attenuated witticisms as that, he would have hesitated long before entering on an undertaking so hazardous.

The Photographers Association for America, met last week in Indianapolis. Verily, our State Capital is becoming the grand rallying place for the whole country. Its convenient central location, and its numerous railroads, and fine hotels, make it one of the most desirable places in the United States for general meetings of any kind.

Syracuse Items.

A visit this week to the "Saratoga of Indiana" convinced us that though the season had been a dull one, there is still any amount of life in this pleasant resort. Pleasure seekers are everywhere, though in small groups, and may be found from the popular up-town hotel of Dr. Kelley, all the way around by Oakland Grove, the Club House at Cedar Beach, to Hartsell's Hotel beyound Jarrett's Landing.

A. M. Jones, and the little steamer "Roxy" are as popular as ever, and on all possible occasions, are on hand to help pleasure seekers while away the hours pleasantly. Mr. Jones is now keeping a limited number of boarders. A number of Sunday schools made his grounds their headquarters for a picnic Wednesday of this week.

Dr. Kelley, and his aimable wife, are making arrangements to go to Colorado for a time at least. They believe it may benefit Mrs. Kelley's health, which is not very good.

Joseph Henderson is still a democrat, in spite of the fact that he believes in the virtues of cold water—in turning a mill. He is full of business.

Dan. Zahner still holds the fort at the meat market. His daughter Sarah, is attending the normal school here. As she brings a good reputation as a teacher, from DeKalb county, the people here, are going to make an effort to give her a place in our public schools.

Several Sunday-schools will hold a picnic on the grounds at Hartsell's next Wednesday.

Mrs. John Coy, in Syracuse, is just recovering from a severe attack of billious fever, and his daughter became temporarily the "head of the household." Mr. Coy himself, is still working as industriously as ever, for the B. & O.

Chris. Whistler enjoys life on the rolling hand car as much as ever, and is a very popular section boss.

Pete Finnegan is looking "too thin." But it was the fever that did it.

Alvin Bair, still rides his lightning railroad horse, when possible to get away from his work a few minutes. As wheat is now coming in, he has but little time to be away.

Among those who were out on the steamer, Roxy in the storm Tuesday were, Mrs. B. A. Davis, of Laporte, wife of Hon. E. W. Davis, representative of that county. Mr. Vawter, of Franklin, Ind., with his two friends, Miss Maud Kelly, Warren Kelly, Gertie Clark and Mrs. J. A. Barnes, of Auburn. All but your correspondent were probably somewhat scared. It was a hard storm.

Hartsell's establishment at the extreme point of the lake has a fine situation, but is too far away to be convenient. The host, however, is a pleasant gentleman and makes all possible efforts to have his guests feel at home. The mineral spring there is not likely to bring him much fame however, as it is not of a very strong quality.

The chalybeate spring at Jarrett's, is not of a very decided mineral character to the taste, but is a fine healthful spring. It probably holds a considerable amount of carbonic acid gas, as is shown by the bursting of bottles containing the water.

The little "Roxy" and your correspondent got caught in two hard storms Tuesday, and had to run up to Oakland Grove, for safety. She had in tow Mr. Vawter's fine sail boat and row boat, as he did not deem it safe to cross the lake in such a storm.

ST. JOE.

A few of our republicans took in the convention Saturday last.

Our would be representative from St. Joe got it bad. Some republican as well as democrats cannot carry their own township delegation.

Will our friend H. M. arise now and say that the good people of St. Joe hurt him in his aspiration for sheriff.

O. H's. friends think he will just have a walkaway on commissioner. Good bye R. G.

O. H. Widney has rented his town property to Alec Donaldson, and will soon become a tiller of the soil again.

The game of croquet has taken this town by storm. J. D. Leighty, H. Widney, Doc. McClaren, Dick Barney, Mort Olds are the champions, to hear them tell it.

It is town rumor that an estimable young lady has been the recipient of several letters lately from a married man in town who should know better. You would not like to see your name in print. So do not do the like again.

Mrs. B. A. Woodcup attended the sunday-school convention at Rome City Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Mark Barney and Beeks Erick received another fine lot of buggies last week. The boys are wide awake and it is to the interest of those wishing to purchase buggies to give them a call.

E. J. Boyle will soon become a resident of the town of St. Joe. E. J. has purchased the J. A. Reed property and expects to make this his permanent home. J. A. Reed has another residence under way and will soon have it complete.

Have You Ever

Known any person to be seriously ill without a weak stomach or inactive liver or kidneys? And when these organs are in good condition do you not find their possessor enjoying good health? Parker's Ginger Tonic regulates these important organs, makes the blood rich and pure, and strengthens every part of the system. See other column. 31-4t.

The county officers in Columbia City played the legal gentlemen of the same place in a game of base ball one day last week. The lawyers made 83 scores and the officers 16. The game is said to have been an exciting one. When the score runs up above fifty or sixty we should think it would be a little that way.

Hysteria, Dizzyness, Fits (or Falling Sickness,) Insanity, Diseased Brain and enfeabled Mind cured by Dr. E.C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment. Sold at F. E. Davenport's.

—Mrs. Veley, who begins her select school next Monday, is a teacher of wide experience, having been engaged in the work several years ago.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Samuel Morr, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent. NOAH MORR.
James E. Rose Attorney. Administrator.
August 8th, 1882. 32-3w.

License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of Union township, DeKalb county, Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of the state of Indiana, over the age of twenty-one years, will apply to the board of commissioners of said county at its September session, 1882, for license to retail vinous, malt and spirituous liquors in a less quantity than a quart at, and with the privilage of permitting the the same to be drank on the following premises, to-wit: Lot No. nineteen (19), in Spangler's original plat of the town of Auburn Junction, in said township.
August 9, 1882. CHRISTOPHER BAKER.

Administrator's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned administrator of the estate of Samuel Morr, deceased, will offer for sale at public auction at the late residence of said decedent, in Concord township, DeKalb county Indiana, on Saturday, September 2d, 1882, the personal property of said estate, consisting of horses, cows, hogs, cattle, wagon, buggy and farming implements, hay grain, household and kitchen furniture and various other articles. Sale to commence at nine o'clock a. m. Terms: Sums of five dollars or under, cash; over five dollars, a credit of nine months will be given, the purchaser giving his note at interest, waiving benefit of valuation and appraisement laws with approved security.
32-3w. NOAH MORR, Adm'r.

Liquor License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of Jackson township, in DeKalb county, Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of said state, over twenty-one years of age, will apply to the board of commissioners of said county at their September session, 1882, for license to retail vinous, malt and spirituous liquors in a less quantity than a quart at, and with the privilege of permitting the same to be drank on the following premises, to-wit:

The two-story frame building on the west part of the following bounded tract of land, viz: Bounded on the east by the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific railroad (Eel River division), on the south by the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago railroad, on the west by the Fort Wayne and Jackson railroad, and on the north by the north line of said township.
August 7, 1882. JOSEPH P. ROTHENBERGER.

COLUMBIA BICYCLES
made of the very best material, by the most skillful workmen, expressly for road use.

COLUMBIAS!

Are the favorites with riders, and their superiority in beauty, structure and beauty is acknowledged by all. It is a practicable road vehicle, and can be ridden 500 miles a week over average roads. Professional and business men all join in bearing witness to its merits.

Send 3 cent stamp for 36 page illustrated catalogue with price list and full information
THE POPE MFG. CO.,
tf. 597 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

HONEST WAGONS!!
Is what you want. Call on
J. W. SHAFFER & CO.
and see their home-made
WAGONS!
☞ GIVE THEM A CALL. ☜

SPORTSMENS HEADQUARTERS!
C. H. MILLER and C. RAQUET,
24 West Main St., Fort Wayne, Ind. Breech and Muzzle Loading
SHOT GUNS,
RIFLES,
REVOLVERS,
AMMUNITION,
FISHING TACKLES.
We carry the largest stock of Firearms in Northern Indiana. And our prices are lower than New York, Pittsburgh or Chicago houses. Our guns are all selected, and we warrant every one to give satisfaction. Repairing done to order. 32-4w.

DON'T MISS THIS CHANCE !
BUY NOW WHILE GOODS ARE CHEAP !
Everything Fifty per cent. Cheaper
No Need to Going Barefooted
AUSTIN BROTHERS
—WILL SELL—
BOOTS
—AND—
SHOES
Cheaper than they can be stolen'

A big stock has been ordered, and there must be room made for them. Fifty per cent. can be saved by buying now. The

BOOT
UP-SIDE
DOWN

Is the cheapest house in Indiana, and we want everybody to know it. Call before buying.

AUSTIN BROS., Auburn, Ind.

SELF SATISFYING.
FACT
That our $8.00 Suits are worth $15.00
That our 9.00 Suits are worth 17.00
That our 11.00 Suits are worth 20.00
That our 14.00 Suits are worth 25.00
That our 15.00 Suits are worth 28.00
That our 1.60 pants are worth 2.50
That our two dollar pants are worth $4
That our $20 Satin Lined Suits ARE WORTH $45
That our $15 Diagonal Coats and Vests are worth 30
That our 9.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 17.00
That our 12.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 22.00
We have a stock of Clothing well worth seeing. Come and convince yourself.
SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

ATTENTION,
Country Merchants!
My Stock Embraces ALL Kinds Staple and Fancy Merchandise:
Clocks, Watches, Jewelry, Silver Ware, Optical Goods,
Musical Goods. Sewing Machines, Druggists' Sundries, White Goods, Hosiery.
Toys. Cutlery, Pictures, Frames, Mirrors,
Smokers' Goods, Sporting Goods, Japanese Goods Fancy Goods
Notions, Stationery Wallets
Glass Ware, Hardware Purses
Wooden Ware Tin Ware:
5 & 10 Cent Counter, 49 & 99 Cent Store supplies
Look up my Illustrated Catalogue (if you have not one send for it) and notice prices and style of goods on pages 6 to 63, 68 to 81, 92 to 115, 150 to 165 and so on through the book, and you will find that I am offering a SAVING to you of 10 to 25 per cent. on a large line of Staple Goods. You can order your STOCK from my Catalogue without leaving your store or paying a traveling man to come and take your order. I guarantee prices and goods to be just as satisfactory as though you were here in person to select. When in the city, give me a call before buying, and I will show you the most complete stock of Goods in the west to select from it INSIDE PRICES.
C. M. LININGTON, IMPORTER,
145 and 147 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Too much rain.

—See Schaab & Beugnot.

—Frank Loss is in the city.

—Miss Mary Griswold is home again.

—Spring Hoe Drills at Snyder & Co's.

—Quite a thaw Saturday and Sunday.

—The blackberry season is about over.

—New style bedroom sets at Snyder & Co's.

—400 Burch plows in use in DeKalb county. 31-3t

—The officers are working up court matters.

—The sprinkling wagon supports a new horse.

—The Burch plow runs light and holds easy. 31-3t.

—Clothing to suit all at Schaab & Beugnot's.

—Mr. Veley has friends from Chicago visiting him.

—Sim Tarney has been sick for several days.

—The Burch steel plows are made of the best material. 31-3t.

—Elmer Lowrey, of Cedar Beach, was in town Saturday.

—The amatuer horse thief is very certain of his acquital.

—Mr. A. J. Little has added a new porch to his residence.

—The Victor and new South Bend huller at Snyder & Co's.

—Plows! Plows!! Plows!!! For sale by W. H. Kiblinger. 31-3t.

—Clint. Potter has resigned his position at the stave factory.

—Moses Perry, of Concord, took us by the hand last Saturday.

—Call and see the new South Bend clover huller at Snyder & Co's.

—Our "dear captains" got beautifully left on the republican ticket.

—Wilson Shull, of Waterloo, came over to see the boys (?) Sunday.

—Miss Louie Henry has returned from her recent trip to Fremont.

—Miss Jennie Francis, of Waterloo, took a drive to Auburn Tuesday.

—Schaab & Beugnot are selling their goods at the lowest living prices.

—Miss Lillie Morse, of Angola, is visiting in the family of W. J. Austin.

—Don't forget the soldiers' reunion at Garrett next Thursday and Friday.

—See the immense stock of goods at Schaab & Beugnot's. They sell cheap.

—Billy Kessler is learning the tonsorial business with Charley Pommert.

—The Burch plow is the plow. For sale by W. H. Kiblinger, Auburn, Ind.

—Mrs. Dawson went to St. Joe last week to visit in the family of J. W. Dills.

—Miss Dora Trout, of Waterloo, is paying her brother Gene a visit this week.

—W. H. Kiblinger just received the third car load of Burch plows for this season. 31-3t.

—The Butler base ball nine passed through here yesterday on route for Garrett.

—S. S. Sheffer, of the Angola Herald, dropped in to see us a few minutes last week.

—Dr. Sears and wife have been visiting in C. C. Shaffer's family for a few days past.

—Bashelier has sold out his brine mill and joined his "slippery" spouse at Bryan, Ohio.

—The republicans on Saturday were divided—in practice — on the temperance question.

—A large quantity of wall paper will be sold regardless of former prices at the book store. 32-2w.

—Miss Lizzie McConnell, of Angola, spent last Friday and Saturday visiting Miss Kittie Dills.

—Rev. W. H. Daniels preached an excellent discourse at the M. E. church Sunday evening.

—Frank Zimmerman is now painting the posts on his fence. It is in colors this time.

—James E. McDonald, of the Ligonier Banner, dropped in to make a two-minute call last week.

—Albums, bibles, hymn-books, pocket-books, cutlery and notions in great variety at the book store. 2w.

—George Houk, one of Spencerville's solid men, dropped in to see us Saturday, as did Hon. S. S. Shutt.

—Rev. Matthews preached a most excellent discourse sabbath forenoon. There was a large attendance.

—C. A. Dugan returned from Michigan Tuesday with the remains of his father, who died there last week.

—The republican party will certainly be "whitewashed." They are "going to the lordy," and don't you forget it.

—Mrs. Frank Zimmerman and Miss Failing, of Maysville, N. Y. spent Sunday in Butler, visiting friends there.

—Mrs. Lizzie Kelly, of Smithfield, was in town Tuesday and reports a busy season among the farmers there.

—We are pained to learn that Martin Hook, of Franklin township, was severely hurt by a reaper last week. The Butler papers think he will recover.

—Mr. Shaffer's son, of this place, came near drowning last week. A son of Mrs. Weaver is credited for his rescue.

—Billy Headly, of Butler, who has been visiting his brother Clint, for the past week, returned home last Tuesday.

—B. B. Rothschild, of the enterprising firm of Lowenstein & Rothschild, Waterloo, was over on a business trip Monday.

Mr. Wm. Jones, of Indianapolis, used Brown's Iron Bitters with great benefit. He likes it better than any tonic he ever used.

—The juvenile base ball nine of this place went over to Garrett Tuesday and "wound the boys up" in a score of 19 to 14.

—The Continental Insurance Co. of New York has over $4,000,000, capital. G. B. Zimmerman, agent, Auburn, Indiana. 33-2t.

—Geo. Weamer's has "gone back" on the republicans, and announces the concern as a one-horse "rig" for the "moral voters."

—Johnny McKay boarded a Jackson train Tuesday for Fort Wayne where he is employed in erecting a new bridge.

—Our old friend Henry Ernest, of Fairfield, called on us Saturday and ordered the COURIER sent to his two sons in the west.

—Miss Carrie Cutter, of Waterloo, who has been visiting in the family of Rob. Donaldson for the past two weeks, returned home Sunday.

—Sam Beck, the jolly butter and egg buyer of Waterloo, purchased 1,200 dozens of eggs and 600 pounds of butter one day last week.

—Among our callers Saturday were Reuben Sawvell, of Franklin, and Jos. Conrad, of Corunna. It is needless to add they were not delegates.

—Noah Morr, of Jackson township, administrator of the estate of Daniel Morr, was in town last Friday on business connected with the estate.

—When you have butter, eggs, etc, to sell, give Schaab & Beugnot a chance to buy. They aim to do a large amount of business in this line.

—Prohibition did not prohibit on Saturday, as we saw a great many thirsty republicans going in and out—but, no, republicans don't drink.

—Dr. J. W. Squires and Billy Lateon, of Churubusco, were in attendance at the convention Saturday. They bring good news from that thriving town.

—Matt. Zerwes, of Waterloo, was over here helping Sherman Hollister in the restaurant Saturday. Matt. is always in sight of a good square meal.

—The wooden bowl fiend did not get rich Saturday. The crowd "bowled up" some, of course, but he didn't seem to carry the right kind of stock.

—Phillip Gushwa, one of the reliable farmers of Fairfield township, increased our financial box to the extent of one year's subscription Tuesday last.

—An esteemed exchange says there are seventeen red-headed girls in a neighboring town, and gets himself out of trouble by remarking that they are all belles.

—Rev. W. H. Daniels assisted at the M. E. quarterly meeting at Waterloo Sunday, and many of his congregation the forenoon services at the Presbyterian church.

—James Henderson, one of Jackson's sterling farmers, was in town Saturday looking over the republican convention. Nor did he fail to pay his regards to the COURIER.

—Friend Quince, the efficient trustee of Butler township, gave us a brief business call Saturday. We are sorry to see him in such poor health. Hope it is nothing serious.

—Mrs. E. W. Smith and son Roy Sundayed with the family of Cyrus Kelley, in Smithfield. They are making their visits preparatory to removing to their western home.

—G. W. Weamer is the happy father of a nice little daughter. This happened last Friday, and, while George thinks the little one very nice, he would have thought just as much of it if it had been a voter.

—E. D. Hartman had the misfortune to have his horse injured last week by a train on the Jackson road. One of its legs was so badly hurt that it became evident he could not live, and it was shot Monday evening.

—Charlie Bassett, the Hicksville jeweler, was in town Monday morning, but left for home by the overland route. Charlie is prospering, so the Hicksville papers state, and it gives us pleasure to record the fact.

—B. B. Harrison, principal of the Waterloo schools, spent Sunday here visiting his brother, M. W. Harrison. Both these gentlemen, as principals of their respective schools, are winning the good will of their patrons.

—The people of Garrett are preparing for the soldiers' reunion that is held there the 24th and 25th of August. Hon. Ben Harrison is expected to address the meeting, and other distinguished persons are to be present.

—No other plow will work as well as the Burch. 31-3t.

Mr. C. J. Stockton, Southport, Marion Co., says Brown's Iron Bitters is the best remedy for dyspepsia and general debility.

—The Sunday-school at the Presbyterian church was well attended last sabbath, and the exercises were quite interesting.

—Dr. Sears and wife returned this week to their home at Quincy, Michigan. We understand he has a fine practice there.

—Quite a number of our subscribers remembered the COURIER last Saturday with their annual subscriptions. Thanks, gentlemen.

—Elder Ward has our thanks for as fine a head of his choice cabbage as heart could wish. It is a nice, tempting specimen, and like its generous donor, is sound to the core.

—Dry goods and groceries both, at the great double room of Schaab & Beugnot. You can buy all you want of both without the trouble of running all over town. Come and see us and get prices.

—Schaab & Beugnot have a splendid assortment of ready made clothing which they are selling at low figures. Do not forget to give them a call, at the mammouth double room opposite the court house.

—A wagon a day is about the average of my sales, yet I have some left to sell cheap; also a few nice baby carriages and dolly cabs. Call and see them before purchasing.

32-2w. M. B. WILLIS.

—Cows are climbing the small shade trees in town and destroying them. It is poor encouragement to property owners who try to beautify their premises when they may look any morning to find their trees torn down.

—G. S. McCord has mounted a fine deer's head for Dr. Ford. It is the head of a regular old patriarch. The Dr. also is the fortunate owner of a white woodpecker that Mr. McCord has stuffed for him. It is quite a curiosity.

—Among our callers last Saturday were Chancey Ringler and his son Israel, of Fairfield. We remember the former for his hospitality and the latter as one of the former teachers in that part of the county. Both are excellent citizens.

James McDowell, Will. Bittner, Will. Ryan and Barton Sthair went to Butler Sunday via Waterloo. They drove a pair of Baalam's favorites, and when they returned, there was not a sufficient amount of the whip left to make a respectable toothpick.

—The republican convention of Saturday was very well attended, although the crowd was not as large as at the democratic convention. There was a good deal of figuring and trading and it ended in something like bitterness on the part of many of the faithful.

—The scissors grinder, who flourished about the streets Saturday, got a little too full for convenience, and when the boys would run away with his bell, the marshal had to come to his rescue, as tangled feet couldn't keep up with Auburn's fleet-footed boys.

—Dave Zimmerman and Frank Groscop indulged in a little row at the foot of the COURIER office steps last Tuesday evening. It seems that Zimmerman had been talking about Groscop's family, for which Frank gave him a threshing. No arrests.

—Elza Shaffer, of Albion, is here again this week. He goes from here to Churubusco, where he will join the Albion base ball nine and compete for the county prize at the tournament. Elza is said to be one of the best players in the nine, and we hope he will be successful.

—S. H. Ford had the good fortune to draw $150 in the Louisiana lottery last week. He had a fifth of a ticket that drew $750. The same ticket was within three numbers of the $75,000 capital prize, Mr. Ford's ticket being number 56024 and the grand prize number 56021. Seems like a close call for a big pull, don't it?

—Feeling that a vacation would be greatly enjoyed by the members of the M. E. choir, and in appreciation of the excellent music furnished by it, and of the faithfulness of its members at considerable sacrifice of time and comfort, the quarterly conference has granted the members of the choir a vacation for one month.

—Those who visit the Syracuse lakes, speak in glowing terms of the accommodating proprietor of the new pleasure ground at Oakland Grove, or, as some still call it, Jones' Landing. Mr. Jones is especially complimented by the Goshen people who were there this summer. Mr. Jones is proprietor of the steamer "Roxy" and always tries to make his friends feel at home with him.

—We were agreeably surprised at the appearance in our sanctum last Saturday of Phillip Parnell, of Smithfield, and Milton Randle, of Waterloo. Both are old soldiers—men who fought for their country without shoulder staps or the hope of getting them And when peace returned, they turned again to the pursuits of peace, and are now among our most useful and industrious citizens.

The Crops.

According to the last report from the bureau of staticies, Indiana has produced more wheat this year than any other state in the union. The total acreage for the state is 2,659,818 which produced, as reported, 47,132,048. Last year we produced about 30 millions of bushels. The oats crop is very large, and is estimated at 19 millions, as against 14 millions last year. It is the largest crop of oats ever raised in the state. The report of the condition of the corn crop is unfavorable. Most of the trouble has been the wet weather, which prevented keeping the fields clean. It is thought to be about 81 per cent. of the yield of 1881. Hay and clover are good. Apples and peaches poor, and for the entire state are about 62 per cent. of last year's yield.

Jackson Road.

A prominent officer of the Lake Shore road passed through Waterloo last week, and was interviewed by several of the citizens. He stated that his line had leased the Jackson road at last and would hereafter operate it in their interests. This will settle the question of the location of the Lake Shore depot there. It will undoubtedly go to the crossing of the two roads on the west side of town, and a union passenger house be erected for the accommodation of both roads. While a station at one side of town will seem a little out of the way to those who have so long been used to its present location, it will be better, all things considered, and will prove a great convenience to the traveling public.

Banner Clothing store.

Fort Wayne starts out with a new clothing house, which opens up the 20th of this month at No. 27 Calhoun street, S. Schirmeyer & Co. proprietors. The new house is starting out with the best of ability, experience in their line, and will conduct their business on a sound basis. New goods, and of the latest styles, at popular prices, and all transactions conducted on a business basis. This will be their motto. Give them a call as soon as they open up their stock to the public. Look at their stock, examine it and you will go away pleased with your bargains. The name of the new house will be the "Banner Clothing Store." No. 27, Calhoun street.

—The Presbyterian social at Mr. Little's residence last week was one of the largest, if not the largest, of the season. The receipts at ten cents each amounted to $25.55. This would show an attendance of over 250 persons. The ladies feel very proud of this achievement, and feel thankful to their friends for assisting to make it a success. Mr. Boland kindly gave them the use of his fine lawn and grounds, as well as the Chinese lanterns. A good word ought to be said also of the host, Mr. A. J. Little, for his forethought in arranging tables and seats for the company. Quite a number were present from Waterloo. Among these were Judge McClellan and his son Charlie and daughter Della, Ed. Best and Grant Fisk. Mrs. H. M. Henning, of Smithfield, and Mrs. R. Wes. McBride, of Waterloo, were also in attendance. This part of town seems to be favorably situated for gatherings of this kind, as it was at the same place that the M. E. social was such a success a week earlier.

—Mrs. Dills and other members of the Presbyterian church concluded it would be no more than right to remember the long and faithful services of Miss Sadie Hare, now Mrs. Fred. Yesbera, in some suitable and substantial manner. A hasty canvass was made, and, armed with the necessary amount of daddy dollars, Mrs. Dills boarded a south bound Jackson train and went to Fort Wayne. In due time she returned with a nice set of China dishes, and stepping up to the young couple, she might well have repeated a part of one of our interesting ceremonies: "With all these earthly goods, I thee endow." At all events, the young people started out on the road of life with a fine set of Chinaware and the blessings and good wishes of the whole community.

—The game of base ball Saturday between the first nine of Butler and the boys of this place was a sort of half-and-half business. Our boys started out well and kept the lead for awhile, but soon the Butler boys drew ahead, and when our boys again began to catch up with them, they suddenly remembered that it was about train time. Thereupon they stacked their bats and started for the depot, leaving the Auburn nine while in position to finish the game. The game then stood Butler, 31; Auburn, 21. The umpire, under such circumstances, very properly gave the game to the Auburn nine.

—Miss Sadie Hare was last Thursday united in marriage to Mr. Fred. Yesbera, a very promising young man, formerly of this place, but now of Morenci, Michigan. Rev. Henry Johnson, the brother-in-law of the bride, officiated. We understand that a number of friends and relatives were present, though the wedding was a very quiet one. They remembered the printer, of course, and have our thanks for a supply of nice cake. They went to their future home the same day, followed by the good wishes of all.

Sedan Temperance Meeting.

The following resolutions were adopted by the grove temperance convention, held at Sedan August 5th, with request to be published:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that the public sentiment of the commonwealth of Indiana is now ripe for prohibition, and imperatively demand the submission of the proposed amendment to the constitution of the state to a vote of the whole people; and that any interference with this proposed amendment, this side of a free and unhindered expression of the whole people, is unpatriotic and dangerous to the future well being and prosperity of the state.

Resolved, That we shall cast our votes irrespective of party affiliations, in support of such measures as shall yield to the people the sacred right of self-government, purchased by the blood of our fathers.

Committee: Rev. Kelso, Rev. Kain, L. D. Britton, N. McIntyre, A Buchanan.

L. W. TRESSER, Pres. J. W. BATEMAN, Sec'y.

Greenback Convention.

Complying with instructions of the conference at the meeting in Waterloo August 6th, I hereby call a county convention at Auburn, Saturday, August 26th, at 10 o'clock a. m. We have the assurance that the Hon. H. Z. Leonard, of Logansport, one of the liveliest speakers in the state, will be present and address the people. By order of committee.

2w. R. N. CROOKS, Chairman.

Select School.

Mrs. J. C. Veley will open a subscription school, for primary scholars, in the brick ward school building at the north side of town, on next Monday, August, 22. Terms 75 cents a month. Send in your names this week and next, so as to have the attendence as full as possible the first week.

—In speaking last week of the safe breaking case and the subsequent arrests at Waterloo, we expressed the belief that Frank Bevier would be fully exonerated from all blame in the matter. This proved to be the case. He went to Fort Wayne Wednesday morning and had an examination. It was soon very plain that there was no case against him. Fremont Young denied having told John Haskin that Frank had been connected with the burglary. In fact, Young denied the whole business. So Frank was acquitted and went home, but Young is still held for trial. It is a satisfaction to know Frank is innocent of the charges made against him. He is now an industrious and efficient assistant in his father's drug store, and will, we trust, in time become a useful citizen. There is one good thing that it is to be hoped may come of all this trouble: It will show young men how advisable it is to be careful in selecting their companions. Then, suspicion will not be so easily directed to those who would not otherwise be thought of in connection with such misdemeanors.

—The party that went from here to Cedar Beach last week report a pleasant visit at that place, but agree that it has been a dull season so far. The unusual coldness of the summer, has prevented the usual influx of strangers and visitors. The accommodations at the Beach have been in every way improved, however, and the stockholders are sanguine in their belief in its success as a watering place. The whole party from here returned looking a little sun burnt, but happy withal. The young men were particularly well pleased with the trip, as they reckoned among the party some of the best looking ladies that Auburn, Wabash and Detroit could boast.

—Frank Zimmerman's residence is one of the nicest and tastiest in town. As he is a carpenter on his own hook, he has planned and carried out the details of his building himself, and the result is an exceedingly tasty residence. The inside is especially beautiful and convenient. The finishing is of natural oak, selected with especial reference to its beauty and compactness of grain. This is carefully worked to advantage and brought out in the finishing. The plan of the interior is a model of convenience, and all in all, it looks as if Frank was prepared to "take his ease in his own inn."

—Mrs. E. W. Davis, of Hatch's Mills, Laporte county, has been here a few days visiting in the family of her brother, ye editor of the COURIER. A few trips to surrounding towns have served to show her some of the beauties of this section of the state. Her trip to Syracuse and Cedar Beach was especially gratifying, and she is quite certain that no other part of the state, not even Laporte county, can boast of such fine scenery.

—Our friend J. C. Veley, had quite an adventure this week. While transferring a swarm of bees, they went back on him, stinging him about the head and hands until it became a serious affair. He was quite ill the next day, but is now around once more, and when the swelling goes down a little more, his nearest neighbor may be able to recognize him.

—Burch Plow! BURCH PLOW! The season for plows is here. W. H. Kiblinger is ready to supply customers with the celebrated Burch plow. 3t.

—For bottom prices on furniture, stoves and hardware, call on Snyder & Co.

Waterloo Items.

Ed. Blattner's night-blooming cereus bloomed last week, but Ed. had to lose the sight, as his business trip interfered. It is a sight worth seeing, and when the next one blooms, which we believe will be soon, we intend to call around and see it.

About the usual amount of our people were at the county seat Saturday, taking a hand in the convention.

Matt. Zerves went over to Auburn Saturday, and as he always has an eye to business, looked up a good job and made money enough to pay his way.

Look out for a new depot at the railroad crossing.

Mrs. H. Lieb has a niece from Fort Wayne visiting her this week.

Duncan Bros. are now selling their flour in Auburn and several other towns.

The republican friends of J. A. Shull are jubilant over his nomination last Saturday. They forget that the next step is a very much more difficult one.

Normal school is still gaining, and promises to be a complete success.

There have been many rumors going the rounds in regard to the sale of the Ft. W. & J. road to the Lake Shore. It is now stated that the change in management will occur this week without doubt. This information comes from a reliable source.

Mr. Frank Adams started yesterday for Toledo, to make a two weeks' visit with friends.

Charles Bassett, Jr., and the Misses Ainsworth, of Hicksville, Ohio, spent Sunday in town.

The Reform Sunday-school will picnic at Pleasant Lake Saturday.

A. V. Sinclair came home Monday from Traverse City, Michigan.

Train No. 4 was three hours late Tuesday on account of a wreck at Osceola, on the western division.

Clark Long has returned to Chicago.

The Catholics are building a new fence around their church.

Miss Ida Blair returned home Saturday.

Born to the wife of Rev. Gaff Aug. 12th, a son.

Mrs. William Ettinger has gone to New Era, having been called to the death bed of her father.

FAIRFIELD.

Prof. S. B. Kaufman, of Marshallville, Ohio, is organizing a singing class at Custer. The professor is an able musician, and never fails to give satisfaction. He is also introducing one of his own works entitled Welcome Prize, for sunday-school purposes.

M. A. Boughman who obtained one of the books recommends it highly, and we think it will take the lead wherever introduced.

Mrs. S. M. Mercer wife of Dr. Mercer, of Montpelier, Ohio, who has been visiting friends in this section returned home last Monday.

Ida Werrick daughter of Joe Werick fell from an apple tree and sustained a fracture of her left arm. She is doing well however at this writing.

Communion service on next Sabbath at Husselman's grove. It will be held at 10:30 a. m. Sunday-school exercises at about 2 p. m.

Rumors are afloat of organizing a temperance society in this place. We hope such may be the fact, as the majority would heartily endorse it.

Mrs. Ernest is preparing for a trip to Missouri.

Mr. Leslie Ash and Mr. Chaney of Waterloo, were in town on last Sabbath. Mr. Chaney intends getting up a singing class in this place.

ITEMIZER.

—Farmers, look at the Burch plow before buying. 31-3t.

—Large assortment of new furniture at Snyder & Co's.

—W. H. Kiblinger, of Auburn, Ind. sells the Burch plow. 31-3t.

—Snyder & Culbertson received one car load of Victor clover hullers.

—A fine line of gold pens and jewelry at bottom prices. Come and see me.

2w. M. B. WILLIS.

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield, will sell you goods as cheap and as good as youcan get anywhere. tf.

—No other plow is as cheap as the Burch, taking into consideration all that pertains to a good plow. 31-3t.

—Now, while work is pressing, you can save time and money by getting your supplies at Weiricks, at Fairfield. tf.

—Owing to insurance business that demands my attention and time, I am compelled to defer teaching a class in penmanship, as had been expected, until, probably fall or winter.

Very Respectfully,
G. B. ZIMMERMAN.

The people of the west owe a debt of gratitude to Dr. Ayer for the production of Ayer's Ague Cure. Its timely use will save much suffering and much discouragement, and we recommend it with the greatest confidence in its ability to do all that is promised for it.

Permit No Substitution.

Insist upon obtaining Floreston Cologne. It is pre-eminently superior superior in permanence and rich delicacy of fragrance. 31-4t

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, : : INDIANA

HERE AND THERE.

THE Republicans of Georgia appear to be dividing on the color line.

AMONG the wonders of Missouri is a girl-mother only eleven years old.

SPEAKER KEIFER has been renominated for Congress by the Republicans of his district.

THE Female College at Oxford, O., has been closed, and will probably be converted into a home for invalids.

CONGRESS passed a bill to establish diplomatic relations with Persia, and providing a Consul General at $5,000 a year.

GEN. GRANT and William Henry Trescott have been appointed Commissioners to negotiate a commercial treaty with Mexico.

IT is said by recent authority that the liquor traffic costs the people of Ohio $2,500,000 a year, and pays back less than $800,000 in taxes.

THE total number of immigrants to this country during the year ending June 30, was 789,003, the largest number in any year in our country's history.

THE President has decided to enforce the eight-hour in the Government navy yards, giving the employes the benefit of the doubts on the subject.

THE headless body of a woman which had been used to bait an eel-pot, was found in the river at Philadelphia, the other day. The body could not be identified.

AT a recent liquor dealers' picnic near Chicago, the receipts for drinkables footed $15,000, representing an average expenditure of $2 per head of the number present and participating.

THE long-threatened suit for divorce has been commenced by Mrs. Francis M. Scoville against her husband, in the Circuit Court at Chicago. She alleges cruel treatment as the ground of her complaint.

POOR'S railway manual calculates that in 1900 we shall have over 200,000 miles of railroad in this country. This would give us a mile for every 325 people to support against one to 535 in 1880 and one to 486 to-day.

THE Democratic convention of the Twelfth Illinois District ballotted 1,304 times for a candidate for Congress, and then adjourned for several days to recruit for another struggle. The vote was divided between three candidates.

THE Ohio Republican Association of Washington has adopted a resolution declaring "That this Association cordially approves the action of the Congressional Committee and the circular by it issued, inviting contributions to the campaign fund."

FOUR Irish-Americans are yet confined in British prisons. All have been offered their liberty if they would return to America, but they refused this offer, and Minister Lowell has been instructed to demand and urge their speedy trial.

IT is thought the usefulness of Evangelist Harrison, at Cincinnati, is at an end, because of his conduct at Loveland camp-ground. The sisters raised money, last year, to build him a cottage, and last week he endeavored to sell it at a slight discount. The circumstance has aroused much feeling.

Some time ago a tramp named Delmach appeared at Wrallonsburg, Essex county, New York, paid suit to a wealthy widow, and finally induced her to marry him. A day or two ago her dead body was discovered by the roadside, covered with leaves and grass, and Delmach languishes in prison to answer to the charge of murder.

THE Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer says the increase in the number of cotton spindles during the year of 1881-2 has been as follows: "Georgia, 106,000; Alabama, 34,000; Tennessee, 24,000; Mississippi, 32,000; Louisiana, 21,000; North Carolina, 48,000; South Carolina, 96,000; total new spindles, 361,000. This represents an investment of $12,000,000."

IN an address at the convention of the Catholic Total Abstince Union, recently held at St. Paul, Minn., Bishop Ireland declared that the woes of the people of Ireland were mostly brought about by intemperance, and that, if the people of that country could be made temperate, and kept so for fifteen years, they could buy out the entire island with the money they would otherwise spend for strong drink.

QUEEN VICTORIA has felt greatly annoyed over the oft published statement that she was annually saving largely out of her revenue for private investments in securities. She has therefore had a full return to be made of all money received in her name during her reign and all sums expended, having it tabulated and so clearly arranged that any one may see at a glance that, with the exception of a very small sum indeed, she has not saved anything, after working for nearly half a century for the nation.

EAST Tennessee is a progressive region, and has the most solid and live town in the State—the city of Knoxville. The Southern car works, located there, turn out $400,000 worth of railroad cars and $175 000 worth of wheels every year. Three furniture factories do an annual business of $300,000; a barrel factory, $150,000; a handle factory, $125,000, and an iron company, $250,000. There are besides, two foundries doing a business of $100,000, and six flouring mills, all doing well.

JOHN A. BROOKS, President of the Missouri Prohibition Alliance, is a Democrat, and is very indignant at the "efforts" of Senator Vest and others to take from the Democratic party the glory of having been the pioneers in prohibitory legislation. Among his claims are that Maine was a Democratic State when her prohibitory law was enacted in 1846, and amended in 1851; that Vermont had a Democratic Governor when her law was passed; and the Supreme Court of the United States was Democratic, with Taney at its head, when this law was first declared constitutional; that the Democratic Supreme Court of Missouri has so decided, and that the amendment resolution hung fire in the Kansas Legislation until the wife of a Democratic member importuned her husband upon the floor to cast his vote for the resolution, Kansas thus owing her triumph to that Democratic vote. And those most actively engaged in the prohibition movement in Missouri, he says, are with scarcely an exception, Democrats.

THE NEWS

Home Items.

The cotton crop is rated at "from fair to good" this season by experts.

It is said the hop crop of this country will be about 25 per cent. short of last year's.

The coinage of the mints for July was $3,153,850, of which $2,160,000 was standard dollars.

The assessment roll of Nebraska just compiled places the value of property in that State at $98,537,475.

Twenty-five Apaches, captured by Mexican troops in the recent actions, have been shot at Chihuahua.

It is estimated that the Lake Shore Road will lose about $200,000 by the recent collision at South Bend.

There were 1,248 deaths in Chicago during the month of July, against 1,786 for the corresponding month in 1881.

From Saturday last no railroad in Texas will be permitted to charge over three cents a mile for passenger fares.

Gas has been struck in one of the oil wells at Litchfield, Ill., and arrangements are making to illuminate the town.

Mrs. Betty Johnson White, the oldest person in Hancock county, Ohio, died on Tuesday in the Poor House, aged 110.

On account of the reduction of the appropriation of salaries of lighthouse keepers, the assistant keepers will be dismissed.

Judge Mallory, of the Municipal Court of Milwaukee, has decided that concert saloons are not nuisances under existing ordinances.

The British imports for July, as compared with the same month in 1881, increased £2,500,000. The comparative increase of exports is £945,000.

The Democratic convention of the Twelfth Illinois district reassembled at Bardstown, but adjourned after the 1,449th ballot failed to nominate.

Johannes Stroh, a German, died of yellow fever at New Orleans. The health officers are using the utmost precautions against a spread of the disease.

The number of printed columns occupied in the Congressional Record by the proceedings of the House during the session is 9,223, and the Senate 6,008.

As James Brown, a farmer, was driving under the telegraph wire on Rock Island Railway, at Belknap, Ia., lightning struck the wire, killing Brown.

President Arthur has been invited to visit the West this summer, and it is understood, if business will permit, he will make the trip about the beginning of September.

The case of Rev. H. O. Hoffman, of Bloomington, Ill., found guilty of the seduction of a servant girl, will come up at the approaching conference, and a bitter fight is expected.

Nine persons in Mason county, Ky., and a whole family near Manchester, Ohio, were drowned by floods. The farmers along the Licking river are great losers by the overflow.

Judge McCreary has filed an opinion in the Missouri bond suit against the Hannibal & St. Joseph railroad. The latter will be compelled to pay an amount estimated at $100,000.

Captain Brackett, special agent of the Treasury, has reported on the charges preferred against Appraiser Howard, of the New York Custom House, most of which are sustained.

The town of Corning, Perry county, Ohio, was overwhelmed by a waterspout, the flood carrying off business and dwelling houses, even loaded coal cars floating off on the surging waters.

The select committee of the House to examine contracts for work for the improvement of the Mississippi river, organized and agreed to meet in Cairo early in November and proceed with the work.

Special favors are being shown the members of the German embassy by the Sultan. He has decorated Von Hischfeld, representative in the conference, with the order of the Medjidie of the first class.

The business men and real estate owners of Milwaukee have entered a solemn protest against the uncleanliness of the streams of that city, whose disease-breeding odors permeate the atmosphere.

Wallace Wilson, 15 years old, stole a valuable horse from an Indiana farmer and then let himself and the animal out to hire for the season, but before doing much work found himself under lock and key.

The Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Railroad Company, for a gift of real estate and a bonus of $25,000, have decided to move their machine and repair shops from Louisville to Lafayette, Ind.

The Rev. Mr. Henselman, of the Disciple Church, at Canton, Ohio, is charged with being too lavish of his caresses to female members of the flock, and an investigation is pending. Blackmail is also hinted at.

Three American prospectors were found dead in the Sonora Valley, Mexico. It is believed they were murdered by the natives, who, however, charge the Apaches with the crime.

The Republican State Committee of New York has fixed the date of the convention for the 20th of September at Saratoga. It is surmised that this is not as early as Governor Cornell desired.

Two Kentuckians, named Emberton and Speakman, who had outraged Mes. J. B. Garrett, of Tompkinsville, a week ago, while being taken to Glasgow for safe-keeping Tuesday, were shot to death.

During this season 455 blooded cattle have been sold in Kentucky at an average of $300 each. Of the total 229, costing on an average $318 each, remain in the State, and 226, averaging $282 each, go to other States.

Since October 1 there have been sold in Danville, Va., market, 22,214,000 pounds of leaf tobacco, at the average of $9.78 per 100 pounds, against 25,128,000 pounds at the average of $9.92 per 100 pounds the preceding year.

William Walsh and J. J. Hely, of New Orleans, rivals for the hand of a woman, met before her residence, drew their pistols and began the bombardment. At the seventh shot Walsh fell dead with a bullet through his brain.

A large order has been received at St. Louis from Arkansas and Tennessee for London purple, to be used to destroy the army worm, which is said to have appeared in great numbers, and is damaging cotton in the States named.

Mont Robbins, whose father, ex-Congressman William Robbins, was assaulted by L. Mott, at Statesville, N. C., on account of a bitter political speech, went to Iredell county, where Mott lived and killed Mott for the attack on his father.

A fight occurred Wednesday at Phœnix, Arizona, between three cowboys and officers and citizens. One of the latter was killed and one wounded; and the cow-boys narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of the populace.

Captain Thomas Kirkman, living on a plantation near Grenada, Miss., Thursday night murdered a negro woman with whom he had been cohabiting, and her four children. He beat their skulls in with an ax and then took a large dose of morphine.

It is announced that W. D. Neff and wife, recent residents of Ottawa, Ill., who had been cultivating an orange grove on the St. Johns river, Florida, were murdered, their house fired, and the bodies of both consumed. The henious crime was undoutedly preceded by robbery.

When the steamer City of Sydney arrived at San Francisco she was not allowed to dock til her Chinese crew, who were unprovided with return certificates, were transferred to a hulk. The Mail Company will make a test case by petitioning for a writ of habeas corpus.

Lewis Sisley, whose wife was found dead two days after marriage in Lancaster, Wis., supposed to have committed suicide, after a few weeks' examination, was bound over to the Grand Jury. It will be remembered that Mrs. Sisley's father testified that he had received a communication from the spirit world that his daughter had been murdered.

A suit is pending at Racine regarding the proper ownership of the incandescent electric light patent W. R. Freeman, electrician of the United States Company, claims the light as his invention, and claims that Edison plagiarized the scheme and took out a patent for it. Edison's company are the defendants.

Sunday evening at Greenfield, Ind., James Week, while intoxicated, accused Albert Daily of stealing his "chips." The latter declared his innocence, and they parted. Twenty minutes later Week met Daily, put a pistol to his forehead, and fired, inflicting a mortal wound. Week then suicided by firing a shot through his brain.

Twenty-five fireman entered the burning building of McKelvey Bros., at Pittsburg, early Sunday morning, and ten of this number ascended to the second story, which they had barely reached when a side wall and the floor gave away. Four were fatally injured and the others less seriously. The fifteen men on the ground floor escaped unhurt.

A Lansing, Mich., special says the rains for the past week have caused an entire suspension of harvest in that section. Two-thirds of the wheat crop is still in the fields, either in stacks or uncut, and is more or less damaged, much of it ruined. The standing wheat is badly sprouting. The reports of sections north of there are to the same effect.

Martin Coleman, 22 years old, was arrested here last night for the murder of his mother in Richland Center, Wis., July 19. The cause of the crime was his mother's opposition to his marriage. He broke her skull with a club, secreted the body and fled. He has been taken to Richland Center. The officers fear that summary vengeance will be dealt out to him.

The report of the Commissioners of Public Works of Chicago shows that during 1881 twenty-five miles of pavement were laid, and 137 of side-walk. The cost of street repairs and cleanings was $172,858, and of lighting with gas $284,495. The receipts of the water department were $1,026,528, and the expenses $840,387. Twenty-three and a third billion gallons of water were pumped. The cost of the system is nearly $9,000,000. Twenty-five miles of sewers were built, at an expense of over $339,000.

Foreign.

Senator Le Blond is announced as the coming French Premier.

Connell, the informer, says there exists in Ireland a secret organization whose object is the deposition of Queen Victoria.

Two men were struck dead at Paris by catching hold of an elastic wire used in the illumination of the Tuilleries Gardens.

From Madagascar come reports of ill-feeling between the native and American authorities, on one side, and the French officials, on the other.

Discontentment prevades the ranks of the Irish constabulary. They demand increased pay and quicker promotion, and a strike is now imminent.

An Irish editor has been arrested for publishing an article written by James Redpath, which, the government alleges, encourages the murder of landlords.

The movement among the Irish policemen for increased pay and quicker promotion shows no signs of abating. In some towns their meetings have been prohibited, but their agitation is peaceful and within the law.

Excitement is still prevalent at Trieste over the throwing of the bombshell into the procession of the veterans a week ago. Eight persons have been arrested for participation in the crime, but the real culprit is not yet in costody.

While the veteran society were marching in Trieste to do honor to the brother of Emperor Joseph, a petard was thrown into their ranks, and many of them injured. It is supposed to be the work of Italian fanatics, and the windows of houses occupied by them were subsequently wrecked.

Parnell's scheme for checkmating the operations of the Land Corporation Company has assumed form. The Lord Mayor of Dublin will be asked to call a meeting during the exposition, for the inauguration of a fund to aid evicted tenants. Parnell claims evictions will be increased if tenants are left defenseless.

STATE ITEMS.

A new postoffice has been established at Blaine, Jay county.

George Barcheit, a Batesville lad of fifteen years, committed suicide, sending a load of shot through his brain.

THE Republicans of the Twelfth district, have nominated W. C. Gasgow, of Lagrange, as their candidate for Congress.

W. R. Crail, from Effingham, Ill., was ridden on a rail through the principal streets of Liberty, accompanied by a large crowd with a martial band playing the rogue's march, because he had insulted some ladies on the streets, and the courts failed to punish him.

Mr. Crain of Goosetown, near Richmond, had an unfortunate encounter with his neighbor, Mr. Allen, on Sunday, in which he had his cheek bitten off. Mr. Crain of Goosetown, near Richmond, is not an insurance agent.

Mr. W. H. Culbertson, president, and J. J. Brown, vice-president of the New Albany water works company, have disposed of their stock to Ed. Hangary, cashier of the Merchant's National bank, for $17,500 cash. The price paid was 10 per cent. above par.

A catfish was taken from the tank of freight engine 15 on the J., M. & I railroad at Madison, which measured nine inches long. The fish had been in the tank for some time, and, it is thought, was sucked in while the tender was being supplied from some tank on the road.

Al Burton, of Muncie, was unloading a carboy of carbolic acid when it broke, drenching his leg from the knee down. His trousers were burned from his leg in an instant, and the acid running into his boot burned him terribly. Fortunately there was some soda at hand and the application of it relieved him at once, but not till he was seriously burned.

Terrible Accident.

Red Wing, Minn., August 8.

As Fred Horn and his brother-in-law, William Pope, were hitching their horses to a reaper here to-day, Pope fell, and the horses starting, he was caught by the grain divider, and it was drawn through his body, killing him instantly. Horn, in trying to stop the horses, fell and was caught by the muscles of his back by the guards and sickles and, it is thought, fatally crushed.

Just as Good as the Natural Product.

Paris, August 8.

Two men, while attempting to climb over the railing of the Tuilleries gardens, during a display of fireworks, caught hold of the electric wire used in the illumination of the grounds, and both were struck dead instantly.

An Agricultural Society's Failure.

Xenia, O., August 8.

The Shawnee Agricultural Society has made an assignment to John S. Ankeny. The liabilities are supposed to be not less than $25,000; assets somewhat less.

ALEXANDRIA.

What the World Owes to it in Learning and Christianity.

Sermon of Rev. Dr. Blackburn, of Cincinnati.

He opened with a sketch of its founder, Alexander the Great, touching upon the impression that he produced upon the age as evinced by the extent to which his musical name of Alexander—translated, the helper, spread. Although he is chiefly thought of as the great conqueror, yet was he a man of prophetic mark, foretold by Daniel as one "who leaps, who touched not the ground," as indicative of the rapidity of his conquests. He was chosen by the Almighty to overthrow the nations and pave the way for the spread of Christianity. Struck with the beauty of its location and the harbor, which all the navies of the world could enter, he built a monument to his own greatness. He claimed a divine mission to unite and reconcile the world. He it was who offered the spoils of the East to have his name inscribed on the temple of Ephesus, which was declined. In carrying out his assumed mission he built better than he knew. He gathered together the elements of the highest civilization for his city of Alexandria, and placed at the head of it the best man of his day for the place, Ptolemy Soter. For fifteen centuries it continued to be the emporium of the world. Within its granaries were stored all the wheat of Egypt, and it was said that the most effective plan for the reduction of Constantinople was the blockade of its port. This was before Rome reached the limit of her greatness, and when it was controlled by Greeks. To its wider thought and richer culture the after time owes much. To Greece we are indebted for philosophy, to Italy for art, and to each of several cities for something, but to Alexandria for Greek philosophy clothed in Christian forms. Aristotle helped to found Alexandria. His works were studied there, and led to the establishment of the famous museum. Thence philosophy passed into Europe and became established in universities. Modern astronomy had its beginning there, and there Euclid gave his lectures and perfected his mathematics that is a text book in our schools. Medical science, too, there had its beginning, and geography first became a study. Paul never handled a geography, yet did not believe that the gods dwelt on Mount Olympus, or golden apples grow in the western Hesperides. Yet the people, ignorant of locality or the world's extent, peopled localities with forms and phantasies, and many had fearful reputations. It was Ptolemy of Alexandria, who, seventy years after Paul, gave maps and views to Europe, and placed a limit, though a confined one, to the world. The spirit of inquiry became universal, and all were philosophers of some sort, as now. But how should it be determined that the reasoning largely derived from Aristotle passed in the Christian schools of Alexandria. This free spirit of inquiry resulted in the encouragement of all forms of thought, and the collection of manuscripts until in its library were supposed to be 400,000 volumes, while at Serapis were gathered what were supposed to number 700,000 the largest collection in the ancient world. At Alexandria the bible was first translated from the Hebrew, and Christianity found a ready entrance and encouragement there, where were represented nearly all nations, languages and creeds. There Origen laid down his philosophy with which he had resolved to oppose it and took up the bible. He became the champion of the Alexandrian, the Christian philosophy. Although adhering to the errors of transmigration and the final salvation of all, he started the work of systematizing the truths of the bible. There lived and died many Christian bishops in the city where he had lived whom they preached. There Arius advanced his creed, now held by Unitarians. And Athanasius was dragged from his hiding place to become the champion of the Nicene theology. Five times he went into exile, yet his creed, our modern orthodox Christianity, finally triumphed. There a bishop headed the Coptic schism, a creed which still has followers in Egypt. In 640 the Mohammedans took Alexandria and burned the library. Under their rule it has ever since been, and has steadily degenerated, while England, then just emerging from barbarism, has attained to her high civilization under the Christianity fostered at Alexandria.

An Antiquarian Ananias.

A. W. Hoffman in Fort Wayne Gazette.

The scene became intensely interesting to us, and we still looked for more wonders, and were struck dumb and speechless as we approached, lying upon a marble slab, a skeleton of a giant, whom we quickly measured and took the dimensions of. We found him to have been thirty-one feet and six inches tall, and across the breast he measured five feet and eight inches. The skull, which had become detached from the body, we set up erect and took its dimensions and found that it would hold at least four bushels of shelled corn, and a hat number forty-two would just have fitted it. There is no doubt but that this cavern was made for him, here he had lived and here he had died. He was straightened for the grave the same as our dead are now, but was permitted to lie in state for all these thousands of years. His limbs were perfectly arranged, and at one time some fine fabric must have been wound around his mammoth body, but it had all fallen to decay and nothing but the huge bones remained of what was once a living monster. We have now one of his teeth before us, which is three by five and one half inches thick. We further noticed that on the east, south and west sides of the cavern lay, near the wall, an object different from anything we had yet seen. At first we thought it might be some object that had answered the purpose of a seat, as it well nigh encircled the whole cave; but we soon found out what it was; to our surprise we found ourselves standing within a few feet of a monster snake not less than 200 feet long. It was useless to run so we remained long enough to take the dimensions of his snakeship as best we could. The thickest part of his body must have been at least seven feet in diameter; his head was somewhat flattened and measured about nine feet across. We do not think that he lives in water much of the time, as his skin seemed dry and husky. He was of a dark brown color, with some white spots. We could not ascertain to what species he belonged, as on nearing his head we noticed a pair of eyes about half open. He seemed of a sleepy nature. A large round hole in the southwest corner of the cave told us plainly where his exit was, and we have no doubt but what the passage leads to some other cave, where the snake may have a mate, or even a family of his own kind, whose proportions are like his own. Having seen more than we expected, we retired from the cave in haste, leaving the giant and the snake alone in all their glory, thinking only of the works of an Almighty One who does all things well, and has made everything for some use and noble purpose. The cave was made by human hands, and the giant, who was perhaps the largest and last of his race, has lain there for thousands of years. His race is now no more. Perhaps he was one of those that heard the "morning star sing together, and the trees clap their hands and all the sons of God shout for joy." He has left no record of his birth nor of his ancestors; his father, mother, sisters and brothers were silent as himself. That tongue that may have been that of an orator is hushed forever. His serpentship is an exile, and perhaps has never seen the sun or the light of day, as if he is the one that beguiled our ancient Mother Eve in the fields of Eden.

The Fashionable Gin-Fiz.

[N. Y. Letter to Philadelphia Times.]

Gin-fiz is the drink of the day. The hotter the hour the longer the fiz.

Personally, I never could "a-bear" the taste or smell of gin. It was associated in my mind with low people, cheap dissipation and vulgar taste. Of late it has largely taken the place of whisky as a fancy beverage. Gin and seltzer, gin and milk, and gin-fizzes are ordered a thousand times a day where in former years they were asked for once. I was standing at the door of one of our great grocery stores to-day and noticed more than a dozen demijohns and soda boxes on their way to an express wagon. A clerk told me there was gin, "fine old Tom," in the demijohns and plain soda in the cases. "For what?" said I. "Gin-fiz," said he. He told me his orders for both were constant, and his shipments to private customers in the country were so great and so regular that the expresses called half a dozen times a day for the freight. I chanced to pass a night in a Long Island village one day this week. Having missed the last returning train I went to a tavern for lodging. The landlord was in the barroom. Entering, I found him and a neighbor drinking gin-fizzes. He recommended me to a family near by, where summer boarders are tolerated. I went. About 9 o'clock a young fellow said to his sister, "Em, if you'll get the glasses and ice I'll rig up a fiz." Eight glasses and a bowl of ice were soon brought. Em, her cousin and the young fellow rolled lemons on the table to make them juicy, squeezed the juice into the glasses, put in the ice, heaped in sugar and added a mere drop of water. An egg cup twice filled with gin, was emptied into each of the eight glasses. Five bottles of plain soda supplied the fiz, and in much less time than I can tell it sixteen lips pronounced the eight drinks "delicious." Being a stranger I took one in, and am free to say I liked it. But that isn't the point. I was struck with the obvious fact that this fiz biz was a regular evening habit, and subsequent revelation disclosed that two or three fizzes during the evening are frequently called for and enjoyed. Now, I don't believe that two lemonades, tinged with stimulants, will hurt Em or her friends. They are in the fresh-aired country. They go to bed, bathe daily and are brown and fat. But are they not forming habits? Are they not gaining a "taste for liquor"? And if they are, they are like tens of thousands of their age and position in all sections of the land. I presume gin is less injurious than whisky and purer than the "brandy" offered in barrooms, and possibly a fiz is more refreshing than simple water. It's none of my business, you know. I am an artist only, and paint my portraits as the subjects offer. Having yielded to the temptation once—or possibly twice—it may be that I shall fiz myself, and thence on to fizzle, a fearful fate which Em and her brother would be sorry to find laid at their hospitable door, I am sure.

The State Ball in England.

From London Vanity Fair.

The prettiest sight at the ball is the supper procession of the royal family, followed by the Ambassadors, and attended by the great officers of the household. Shortly after midnight Lord Kenware waves his hand, and the band plays "God Save the Queen," whereupon the company draws up in two lines down the room, and the great folks pass along between them, returning in about half an hour in the same manner; after which the great company go and refresh themselves. The supper-room looks very fine, with all the gold plate displayed, and, although you have to eat standing—what Theodore Hook describes as "tables against the wall, covered with cold negus and warm ice; where men, women and children take perpendicular refreshment, like so many horses with their noses in the manger"—yet when once the first crush has subsided, and you can get to the table, you find that the meal is an excellent one. The champagne is dry, properly iced, and in all respects unexceptionable. The Queen in this sets an admirable example to the herd of ball-giving people, who too often do not scruple to half poison their guests with the filthy liquor that they place before them. In Lothair, Lord Beaconsfield alludes to Lord St. Jerome's "giving the same champagne at his balls that he gave at his dinners," as being a fact sufficient to stamp him at once as a host of the right sort.

The guests at Baroness Burdett-Coutts's first garden party were treated to a sight of the smallest pony in the world—Lady Jumbo. The tiny creature, who looks like a thoroughbred race-horse seen through the wrong end of an opera glass, stands thirteen inches high and is five years old.

A Catholic priest of Brenham, Tex., who denounced a member of his church from the pulpit as a horsethief, was publicly cowhided by the accused.

SAVING FRED DOUGLASS'S LIFE

An Incident of the Days of the John Brown Raid—The Delayed Telegram.

Philadelphia Record.

"Yes, sir; I am the man who saved Fred Douglass from being hanged when 'Old John Brown' was captured at Harper's Ferry. I suppressed a dispatch addressed to the sheriff of Philadelphia instructing him to arrest Douglass, who was then in that city, as [illegible] his complicity in the [illegible] was discovered when John Brown was taken into custody."

Seated on the doorstep of his cosy cottage, [illegible] miles outside of Vineland, [illegible] John W. Hurn, a pleasant, gray-headed man of sixty, who, when questioned, answered as above respecting the aid rendered by him to the noted abolitionist.

"At that time I was a telegraph operator located in Philadelphia. [illegible] When I received the dispatch I was frightened nearly out of my wits. As I was an ardent admirer of the great ex-slave, who was doing [illegible] could for the [illegible] the abolition question, [illegible] to warn Douglass of his impending fate, [illegible] what the result might be [illegible]. The news had just been spread throughout the country of the bold [illegible] of John Brown and his [illegible] followers [illegible] town of Harper's Ferry. [illegible] was excited and public feeling ran high. Before the intelligence came that [illegible] had been captured, the dispatch which I have mentioned was sent by the sheriff of Franklin county, Pennsylvania, to the sheriff of Philadelphia, informing him that Douglass had been one of the chief conspirators, and [illegible] that he should be immediately apprehended. Though I knew it was illegal to do so, I quietly put the dispatch in my pocket, and, asking another operator to take my place, started on my search for Fred Douglass. I went directly to Miller McKim, the secretary of the contraband, underground, fugitive railway office in Philadelphia, and inquired for my man. Mr. McKim hesitated to tell me, whereupon I showed him the dispatch and promised him not to allow it to be delivered within three hours. I told him that I would not do this unless he agreed to get Mr. Douglass out of the State. This he readily assented to, for it was his business to spirit escaped slaves beyond the reach of the authorities. I returned to the telegraph office and kept a sharp lookout for similar dispatches. None arrived, however, and when the allotted time expired I sent the belated message to its destination.

"In the meantime those intrusted with my secret saw Mr. Douglass, and urged him to leave the town as quickly as possible. He was loath to do so at first, but the expostulations of his friends overcame his objections, and in an hour he left on a railroad train which placed a gap of forty miles between him and Philadelphia every hour. He reached his home in Rochester, N. Y., in safety, destroyed the compromising documents, and then packed his grip-sack and started for Canada. It was fortunate for him that he left as soon as he did, for immediately after his departure from Rochester his home was surrounded by officers.

"Those were queer times, and persons had to be careful what they did and said. I did not tell my share in the rescue, for I feared the power of the slave party, as they could have had me imprisoned. When I look back and think what I did to save that man from the gallows—for he would undoubtedly have gone there had he been arrested—I feel that I am rewarded by contemplating that the life saved was well worth saving."

Love of Genius.

London [illegible] Chicago Inter-Ocean.

B[illegible] making love to her husband in this play "draws" of course; but [illegible] all that when seated before [illegible] and watching the tragic [illegible] of Dona Sol to her faithful [illegible] very funny about [illegible], whose stage name is Jacques Damall. He does [illegible] up for the stage at all. Is this part of the clever Sarah's tactics, to give us all a chance to see as he is, sans wig or false mustachios, the youth whom she has married?

SHE SAYS SHE LOVES HIM.

It [illegible] him. [illegible] just [illegible] temperament often get control of all the forces of the nature of a woman like Bernhardt, nervous [illegible] restlessly seeking [illegible] of herself. [illegible] the [illegible] of the marriage of George Eliot with the young Mr. Cross, about which we all puzzled ourselves so much when the strange news was flashed over to America.

I heard a good deal about that wedding, not long ago, from an old gentleman who knew them all well—George Eliot and Mr. Lewes and Herbert Spencer and this young lover, who won "Marian Evans, spinster," for his wife, [illegible] short time before her death.

When, as a young girl, she first came up to London to seek her literary fortune, she lived in the family of this kindly old man. He introduced her to Lewes and to Spencer, and he knew for years of Cross' affection for her before the death of Lewes.

WHAT SHE MARRIED HIM FOR.

"But what in the world did she marry Cross in the end for?" I asked.

"For the simple reason that she loved him, my child," said the old gentleman, looking at me over his spectacles.

I smiled incredulously. "That would sound very well in a novel, but George Eliot was sixty years old, and all the world knows that she had been in love with Herbert Spencer all her life. Or at least people believe that who don't think that she cared about Mr. Lewes."

"Stuff and nonsense! George Eliot was in love with Cross in just the same way that any young woman is in love at eighteen. Her youth came late in life. She was all intellect in her girlhood, and when she married Lewes it was in the belief that the intellectual congeniality was that which the poets write about. Certainly later on she did care deeply for Herbert Spencer, but it was only an exalted species of the same sort of feeling that she entertained for Lewes. The idolotry of young Cross awakened new and richer emotions. He is a man of much finer temperament; more likely to win real affection."

"Well, it is all very strange. I have always wondered," said I, "why she signed her name as 'spinster' in the church register when she was married."

"The simplest thing in the world!" cried George Eliot's old friend. "The law requires it. That was merely a legal form. Do you know, young Cross is writing her biography? The book is sure to have a great sale, coming from him, but I think it a very ill-advised act. The very fact of his attachment to her will make it more a panegyric than an impartial biography."

Crossing the Legs.

Clara Belle, N. Y., Correspondence.

The neatest way to modestly display a foot is to cross the leg to which it belongs over the other. This lifts the foot about six inches from the floor, and lets it hang in easy, graceful suspension. The lower edge of the skirt should [illegible] that only the front half of the foot is shown, but that is sufficient, in the present fragmentary state of slippers and sandals, to show a good bit of finely embroidered or delicately woven stocking. The position is a common one to the most elegant and refined girls in the politest circles of society, not only here, but in London and Paris. It is not in the least bold or awkward. Still, my grandmother—dear old lady—says that it is vulgar for a woman to cross her knees. She was taught so when she was young, and she stoutly maintains that the law on the subject has never yet been changed. She well remembers a week spent in the same house with Mme. Jerome Bonaparte in Baltimore, than whom she believed no more ladylike woman ever [illegible] the [illegible] her knees two inches apart—no more and no less. She declares that no girl with pretentions to delicacy should sit cross-legged. I have thus stated both sides of the subject, leaving my readers to decide whether they will practice a pose that is both comfortable and artful, or avoid it because there is a tradition that it is impolite. I suppose that the sticklers will pretty soon object to women crossing one foot over the other. Even that feminine habit of sitting on one foot, to the peril of getting it caught in the bustle and making the owner go hop-scotch on raising, will next be assailed.

A Bear Panic in Vermont.

Ruthland Herald

The village of Pownal was thrown into a state of excitement on Wednesday by the appearance of a huge black bear on the streets. At first it was sought to drive the animal away with dogs, but for a considerable time the bear was monarch of all he surveyed. Finally, after smelling about the village to his heart's content, he moved on up the railroad track in the direction of North Pownal. At this juncture one Brown appeared upon the scene, armed and equipped to do battle. The first intimation that the bear had of the appearance of this new enemy was a bullet whistling about his ears. The bear turned upon Brown but the latter sought cover. When the bear reached the railroad bridge, midway between Pownal and North Pownal, he faced about and stood upon his haunches. But Brown had no inclination to tackle the bear at close quarters. Bracing himself along-side a telegraph-pole, he took aim and pulled the trigger. The ball took effect in a vital portion of the bear's anatomy. Brown had killed the bear, and the news of his victory soon spread to both villages. The body of the dead bear was carried in triumph through the streets of the village, but in the midst of the general rejoicing two Italians arrived upon the scene, and, after discovering the cause of the commotion, broke out in the most terrible tirade of blasphemy ever heard in the valley of the Hoosac. Explanations followed, when it was learned that the bear was their property, and that they were traveling about the country exhibiting him.

A Surgical Revelation.

About two weeks ago a daughter of Mr. [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] and in her struggles on the floor swallowed something which she had in her mouth, and which was supposed to be a hair-pin, from the information that could be obtained. The child has been in a precarious state ever since, suffering from extreme pain. The [illegible] that Dr. Eddy, the attending physician, decided that an operation was necessary if the child's life was to be saved at all, and this morning performed it, with the assistance of Dr. Clarke. To the astonishment of the operating physicians and all concerned, the foreign substance was found to be, not a hair-pin, but a steel hat-pin a little over five inches long and having a large jet head, and which was found in the stomach and very successfully removed. A slight protuberance appeared on the left side just above the lower rib. This was cut into and the point of the pin was revealed. There are hopes for the recovery of the child.—[Oswego Palladium.

Wholesale Telegraphing.

Boston Herald.

It has remained, however, for Albert L. Parcelle, a skilled mechanic and talented inventor, to produce a mechanism by which the barriers to rapid and cheap telegraphy are swept down and which, by simple applications of known principles, promise to entirely revolutionize the telegraphy of the world. His system is called "Harmonic Automatic Telegraphy," and differs from that in use by the Rapid Telegraph Company in two important points. The first is an improved and abbreviated construction of the alphabet, in which position is used to the great saving of characters and consequent saving of time in preparing the copy in the perforator. The second is the employment of a system of sympathetic resonance, by which, with the use of a single wire and unskilled operatives, the same amount of work which is now done by ten wires and skilled labor can be accomplished. Thus, for the first time in the history of telegraphy, the Morse alphabet and system are done away with, as are also the translating and transcribing by receivers. Instead of requiring the ordinary handling and delay, the message, be it long or short, is rapidly prepared in a perforating machine, fed into the transmitter, and is instantly reproduced in clear Roman letters on sheets of paper ready to be sent by messinger to the party addressed. The actual number of words sent, on an average, by the American Rapid is from 600 to 700 per minute, while the lowest computations, made from results obtained from an instrument only partially completed, show a speed by the new method of 5,000 words per minute. A great advantage, too, is that, being sent over a single wire, the matter comes consecutively, and is, therefore, free from liability to error, as is often the case where several wires are used for the sending of a single dispatch. For press work the new method will prove of inestimable value, as by the use of this device a speech of 2,000 words, occupying about one column of the Herald, can be perforated, sent over the wire, given to a messenger at the other end of the line for delivery, and all ready for the type setter in three and a half minutes. Of course in order to attain this speed, the copy is originally cut up into "takes" and distributed to several boys or girls, who transcribe the matter by means of the perforating machines, after which the several pieces are pasted together in one continuous strip. This strip runs through the instrument at great speed; and it will thus be seen that the celerity with which a dispatch is transmitted depends principally upon the number of perforators employed. It will thus be understood that, from beginning to end, the system demands only unskilled labor, by reason of the high degree of automatic perfection attained, and herein lies the great secret of cheapness. The speed is another valuable consideration; and when the both elements are combined the result seems to be, indeed, the long-sought desideratum.

A Wealthy Girl's Hard Lot.

Philadelphia Record.

From a home of luxury and all that wealth can bestow to a private madhouse in this city has been a chapter in the history of Josephine Winterer, a handsome young lady who resided near Easton, Pa. Her father, who was a well-known merchant, died when Josephine was a toddling child, leaving a large fortune, which he bequeathed to his wife and four children. Happiness and contentment ruled in the little family circle until in March last, when the mother became stricken with a fatal disease. When her eyes were closed in death Josephine's grief was so intense, her incessant watch, day after day and night after night, had so affected her nervous system that she was completely prostrated. All efforts to remove her thoughts from that death-bed and newly-made grave proved unavailing, until one of her sisters became afflicted with that dread disease, small-pox. This had the effect of arousing her from her melancholy reveries, and she devoted her attention to her sick sister. Misfortunes never come singly, and so it was in this instance. The other two sisters were stricken with the disease. Josephine was a ministering angel, and anticipated every want of her suffering sisters. But death was stronger than her efforts, and she was alone in the world. The blow was more than she could bear. Her reason gave way to her great grief, and she became violent. The best medical skill was secured, but there appeared no improvement in her condition. As a last resort her friends decided to place her in a private insane asylum in this city, in the hope that medical skill and good nursing may restory her wonted health.

It is also said of the Astors that they make the best landlords in the city, and in their own methodical way do a great deal of humble good. A widow wants a boarding-house, and has not the money to pay the advance rent; and if she has been a good tenant they give her time. In this way their real estate is handled without the ravages on their conscience and care that stocks, railroads and even merchandise enforce. They buy real estate quietly when the opportunities are good, build strong and plain, and receive their rents; and they are hardly ever heard around the undignified purlieus of the Stock Exchange.

Saw His Father for the First Time.

Schwenksville Item.

On Tuesday of this week a singular occurrence took place at the residence of Abraham Souder at Frederick Station, Montgomery county. Mrs. Geo. Bilger, a sister-in-law of Mr. Souder, died in Philadelphia last week, and on Tuesday was buried at Goschenhoppen church. After the burial the friends and relatives of the diceseased returned to the house of Mr. Souder for refreshment. Among the relatives was Mr. Aaron Bout, well known in the community about 50 years ago; about that time he left this neighborhood and has not since been here until last Tuesday. Shortly after he left a son was born to him, who is now a man of 50 years. He resides near Frederick Station and bears the name of his father. Mr. Bout having been informed that his father was in the neighborhood, he called upon him and the two had a pleasant conversation. The old Mr. Bout now resides in Philadelphia and is a well-to-do merchant. He was married three times and is the father of 26 children, the youngest being about 2 years. Mr. Bout is hale and hearty at the age of 70 years.

Lady Byron's Letters.

The London Athenæum promises to publish some hitherto unpublished Byron papers, including a collection of poems by Lady Byron, written during her residence with her husband, some having his emendations, and also a correspondence between her and Lord Byron's sister during her engagement and early married life and to the date of the poet's death; also documents referring to the destruction of the memoirs and other interesting papers. "This large body of correspondence," says the Athenæum, "will be found to demonstrate the baselessness of various statements made by Lady Byron in later years to her sister-in-law's discredit, and more especially of the hideous imagination to which Mrs. Beecher Stowe gave such wide and lamentable publicity thirteen years ago."

EXPRESSIONS.

Pleasure is the reward of moderation.

False friendship, like ivy, decays and ruins.

Experience is the extract of suffering.

Manners are the shadows of virtues.

Poetry comes nearer the vital truth than history.

Wisdom is to the soul what health is to the body.

The dignity of truth is lost with much protesting.

Honors come by diligence; riches spring from economy.

What we need most to realize the ideal is to idealize the real.

The man who never excites envy never excites admiration.

If you are [illegible] quitted way in [illegible] labored.

One day of glorious active life
is worth an [illegible] an aim.

Advice is [illegible] welcome. Those who heed it most [illegible] least.

Remember [illegible] lamenting becomes [illegible] action wise folk.

The only reward of virtue is virtue. The only way to have a friend is to be one.

Action is eloquence, and the eyes of the ignorant are more learned than their ears.—Shakespeare.

Of all earthly music, that which reaches the farthest into Heaven, is the beating of a loving heart.

"Wishing" is the stumbling block of knowledge and reform. "Doing" is the lever that moves the world.

The virtue of a man ought to be measured, not by his extraordinary exertions, but by his every-day conduct.

There is, in all this cold and hollow world, no fount of deep, strong, deathless love, save that within the mother's heart.

If you will follow this rule you will save yourself many a heartache: "Never bite till you find out whether it is bread or stone."

Iron becomes magnetized by the magnet against which it grinds, and then the soul becomes assimilated to that which it thinks continually.

After men have traveled through a few stages in vice, shame forsakes them, and returns back to wait on the few virtues they have still remaining.

The essence of true nobility is neglect of self. Let the thought of self pass in, and the beauty of a great actions is gone, like the bloom from a soiled flower.

It is always easier to pay an undeserved compliment to a rich man than to be commonly courteous to a poor man. Human nature is thus proven to be not entirely a success.

It is hard sometimes to speak a kind word to others when the shadows rest on your own heart, but nothing will tend more to lighten our own cares than the effort to help another.

When you have an opportunity to speak a cheering word you can send a beam of sunshine into the heart of an absent sorrowing friend by writing a good, warm hearted, helpful letter.

If we could only sooner give up thinking to "gather grapes from thorns and figs from thistles," we should be spared some of life's disappointments. But we can never quite believe that in our garden like will invariably produce like; and so we go on and on industriously cultivating the ugly, thorny stalks we have so long cherished, sure that some day they will bud, and blossom, and bear delicious fruit. We dig and plant, and water and wait—for a full harvest of thorns.

Mr. Johnson, of Boone, Philosophizes.

The Indianapolis Journal has discovered a mysterious poet, alleged to be a resident of Boone county, who "does up" sense and sentiment of the highest grade, in excellent rhyme, using the ruggedest of vernacular. Following is a fine specimen of his work:

I aint ner don't p'tend to be,
Much posted on philosophy;
But there is times, when all alone,
I work out ideas of my own.
And of these same there is a few
I'd like to jest refer to you—
Pervidin' that you don't object
To listen clos't and ricollect.

I allus argy that a man
Who does the very best he can
Is [illegible]
That [illegible]
No matter of [illegible]
Is subject fer his neighbor's talk,
And critic-minds of ev'ry whim
Jest all git up and go fer him!

I knowed a feller onc't that had
The yaller-janders mighty bad,
And each and every friend he'd meet
Would stop and give him a recete
Fer curin' of 'em. But he'd say
He kind o' thought they'd go away
Without no medicin', [illegible]
That he'd git well without [illegible].

He kep' a yallerin' on—and they
Perdictin' that he'd die some day
Before he knowed it. Tuck his bed,
The feller did, and lost his head,
And wundered in his mind a spell—
Then rallied, and, at last, got well;
But every friend that said he'd die
Went back on him eternaly!

Its natchural enough, I guess,
When some gits more and some gits less,
Fer them-uns on the slimmest side
To claim it aint a fair divide.
And I've knowed some to lay and wait,
And git up soon, and set up late,
To ketch some feller they could hate
Fer [illegible].

The signs is bad when folks commence
A findin' fault with Providence,
And balkin' cause the earth don't shake
At every prancin' step they take.
No man is great till he can see
How less than little he would be
Ef stripped to self, and stark and bare,
He hung his sign out anywhere.

My docterin is to lay aside
Contensions, and be satisfied.
Jest do your best, and praise or blame
That follers that, counts jest the same.
I've allus noticed grate success
Is mixed with troubles, more or less,
And its the man who does the best,
That gits more kicks than all the rest.

—Benj. F. Johnson.

A man in Washington County, Pa., jumped in front of a moving train to rescue a $2 bill that he had dropped. His funeral expenses were thereby reduced by $2, the bill being found tightly grasped in his mutilated hand.

A colored woman died at Ottawa, Can., last week, who was brought over to this country from Africa in 1808, in the last slave ship that legally landed its human freight here.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER

DARBY'S

Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed. Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant. Fever and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid added to the water. Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing. Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about. To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed. Catarrh relieved and cured. Erysipelas cured. Burns relieved instantly. Scars prevented. Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed. Gangrene prevented and cured. Dysentery cured. Wounds healed rapidly. Scurvey cured in a short time. Tetter dried up. It is perfectly harmless. For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

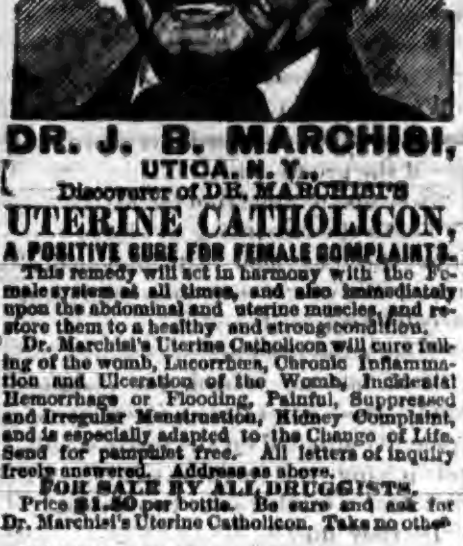
DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated. Ship Fever prevented by its use. In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell. An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c. Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use. Yellow Fever Eradicated

In fact it is the great DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER

PREPARED BY J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!



DR. J. B. MARCHISI, UTICA, N. Y., Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S UTERINE CATHOLICON, A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition. Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS. Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Consult and secure the advantages of DR. BUTTS [illegible] ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF YOUTH and MANHOOD A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE.

BY A PHYSICIAN of 25 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks, "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

Parker's Hair Balsam

Satisfies the most fastidious as a perfect Hair Restorer and Dressing. Admired for its cleanliness and elegant perfume. Never Fails to Restore Grey or Faded Hair to the youthful color. 50 cts. and $1 sizes at all druggists.

Get the Best

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

Ginger, Buchu, Mandrake, Stillingia and many of the best medicines known are here combined into a medicine of such varied and effective powers, as to make the Greatest Blood Purifier & the Best Health and Strength Restorer Ever Used.

It cures Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Sleeplessness, all diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, and all Female Complaints.

If you are wasting away with Consumption or any disease, use the Tonic to-day. It will surely help you. Remember! It is far superior to Bitters, Essences of Ginger and other Tonics, as it builds up the system without intoxicating. 50c. and $1 sizes, at all dealers in drugs. None genuine without signature of Hiscox & Co., N. Y. Send for circular. LARGE SAVING IN BUYING THE DOLLAR SIZE.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of [illegible] Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, [illegible] Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous

"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."

A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.

Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.

Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.

For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the

GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,

At your nearest Ticket Office, or address

R. R. CABLE, Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r. E. ST. JOHN, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.

CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO. ACORN STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!

Every Style & Price.

Guaranteed Unequaled FOR OPERATION, ECONOMY, DURABILITY and WORKMANSHIP.

Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.

Always Reliable.

POPULAR EVERYWHERE.

For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable Balm that will remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 3c stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dreadful disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the preparation used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON; 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York. 1yr

USE KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE

WHOLESALE LIST

TURNIP SEEDS!

MERCHANTS! SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST.

D. LANDRETH & SONS, PHILADELPHIA.

Dr HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SAMUELS, St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 26th, 1881. 2104 Wash. Avenue.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC.

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, INDIANA

HERE AND THERE.

THE Republicans of Georgia appear to be dividing on the color line.

AMONG the wonders of Missouri is a girl-mother only eleven years old.

SPEAKER KEIFER has been renominated for Congress by the Republicans of his district.

THE Female College at Oxford, O., has been closed, and will probably be converted into a home for invalids.

CONGRESS passed a bill to establish diplomatic relations with Persia, and providing a Consul General at $5,000 a year.

GEN. GRANT and William Henry Trescott have been appointed Commissioners to negotiate a commercial treaty with Mexico.

IT is said by recent authority that the liquor traffic costs the people of Ohio $2,500,000 a year, and pays back less than $300.000 in taxes.

THE total number of immigrants to this country during the year ending June 30, was 789,003, the largest number in any year in our country's history.

THE President has decided to enforce the eight-hour in the Government navy yards, giving the employes the benefit of the doubts on the subject.

THE headless body of a woman which had been used to bait an eel-pot, was found in the river at Philadelphia, the other day. The body could not be identified.

AT a recent liquor dealers' picnic near Chicago, the receipts for drinkables footed $15,000, representing an average expenditure of $2 per head of the number present and participating.

THE long-threatened suit for divorce has been commenced by Mrs. Francis M. Scoville against her husband, in the Circuit Court at Chicago. She alleges cruel treatment as the ground of her complaint.

POOR'S railway manual calculates that in 1900 we shall have over 200,000 miles of railroad in this country. This would give us a mile for every 325 people to support against one to 535 in 1860 and one to 486 to-day.

THE Democratic convention of the Twelfth Illinois District ballotted 1,304 times for a candidate for Congress, and then adjourned for several days to recruit for another struggle. The vote was divided between three candidates.

THE Ohio Republican Association of Washington has adopted a resolution declaring "That this Association cordially approves the action of the Congressional Committee and the circular by it issued, inviting contributions to the campaign fund."

FOUR Irish-Americans are yet confined in British prisons. All have been offered their liberty if they would return to America, but they refused this offer, and Minister Lowell has been instructed to demand and urge their speedy trial.

IT is thought the usefulness of Evangelist Harrison, at Cincinnati, is at an end, because of his conduct at Loveland camp-ground. The sisters raised money, last year, to build him a cottage, and last week he endeavored to sell it at a slight discount. The circumstance has aroused much feeling.

Some time ago a tramp named Delmach appeared at Wrallonsburg, Essex county, New York, paid suit to a wealthy widow, and finally induced her to marry him. A day or two ago her dead body was discovered by the roadside, covered with leaves and grass, and Delmach languishes in prison to answer to the charge of murder.

THE Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer says the increase in the number of cotton spindles during the year of 1881-2 has been as follows: "Georgia, 106,000; Alabama, 34,000; Tennessee, 24,000; Mississippi, 32,000; Louisiana, 21,000; North Carolina, 48,000; South Carolina, 96,000; total new spindles, 361,000. This represents an investment of $12,000,000."

IN an address at the convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union, recently held at St. Paul, Minn., Bishop Ireland declared that the woes of the people of Ireland were mostly brought about by intemperance, and that, if the people of that country could be made temperate, and kept so for fifteen years, they could buy out the entire island with the money they would otherwise spend for strong drink.

QUEEN VICTORIA has felt greatly annoyed over the oft published statement that she was annually saving largely out of her revenue for private investments in securities. She has therefore had a full return to be made of all money received in her name during her reign and all sums expended, having it tabulated and so clearly arranged that any one may see at a glance that, with the exception of a very small sum indeed, she has not saved anything, after working for nearly half a century for the nation.

EAST Tennessee is a progressive region, and has the most solid and live town in the State—the city of Knoxville. The Southern car works, located there, turn out $400,000 worth of railroad cars and $175 000 worth of wheels every year. Three furniture factories do an annual business of $300,000; a barrel factory, $150,000; a handle factory, $125,000, and an iron company, $250,000. There are besides, two foundries doing a business of $100,000, and six flouring mills, all doing well.

JOHN A. BROOKS, President of the Missouri Prohibition Alliance, is a Democrat, and is very indignant at the "efforts" of Senator Vest and others to take from the Democratic party the glory of having been the pioneers in probibitory legislation. Among his claims are that Maine was a Democratic State when her prohibitory law was enacted in 1846, and amended in 1851; that Vermont had a Democratic Governor when her law was passed; and the Supreme Court of the United States was Democratic, with Taney at its head, when this law was first declared constitutional; that the Democratic Supreme Court of Missouri has so decided, and that the amendment resolution hung fire in the Kansas Legislation until the wife of a Democratic member importuned her husband upon the floor to cast his vote for the resolution, Kansas thus owing her triumph to that Democratic vote. And those most actively engaged in the prohibition movement in Missouri, he says, are with scarcely an exception, Democrats.

THE NEWS

Home Items.

The cotton crop is rated at "from fair to good" this season by experts.

It is said the hop crop of this country will be about 25 per cent. short of last year's.

The coinage of the mints for July was $3,158,850, of which $2,160,000 was standard dollars.

The assessment roll of Nebraska just compiled places the value of property in that State at $98,537,475.

Twenty-five Apaches, captured by Mexican troops in the recent actions, have been shot at Chihuahua.

It is estimated that the Lake Shore Road will lose about $200,000 by the recent collision at South Bend.

There were 1,248 deaths in Chicago during the month of July, against 1.786 for the corresponding month in 1881.

From Saturday last no railroad in Texas will be permitted to charge over three cents a mile for passenger fares.

Gas has been struck in one of the oil wells at Litchfield, Ill., and arrangements are making to illuminate the town.

Mrs. Betty Johnson White, the oldest person in Hancock county, Ohio, died on Tuesday in the Poor House, aged 110.

On account of the reduction of the appropriation of salaries of lighthouse keepers, the assistant keepers will be dismissed.

Judge Mallory, of the Municipal Court of Milwaukee, has decided that concert saloons are not nuisances under existing ordinances.

The British imports for July, as compared with the same month in 1881, increased £2,500,000. The comparative increase of exports is £945,000.

The Democratic convention of the Twelfth Illinois district reassembled at Bardstown, but adjourned after the 1,449th ballot failed to nominate.

Johannes Strob, a German, died of yellow fever at New Orleans. The health officers are using the utmost precautions against a spread of the disease.

The number of printed columns occupied in the Congressional Record by the proceedings of the House during the session is 9,223, and the Senate 6,008.

As James Brown, a farmer, was driving under the telegraph wire on Rock Island Railway, at Belknap, Ia., lightning struck the wire, killing Brown.

President Arthur has been invited to visit the West this summer, and it is understood, if business will permit, he will make the trip about the beginning of September.

The case of Rev. H. O. Hoffman, of Bloomington, Ill., found guilty of the seduction of a servant girl, will come up at the approaching conference, and a bitter fight is expected.

Nine persons in Mason county, Ky., and a whole family near Manchester, Ohio, were drowned by floods. The farmers along the Licking river are great losers by the overflow.

Judge McCreary has filed an opinion in the Missouri bond suit against the Hannibal & St. Joseph railroad. The latter will be compelled to pay an amount estimated at $100,000.

Captain Brackett, special agent of the Treasury, has reported on the charges preferred against Appraiser Howard, of the New York Custom House, most of which are sustained.

The town of Corning, Perry county, Ohio, was overwhelmed by a waterspout, the flood carrying off business and dwelling houses, even loaded coal cars floating off on the surging waters.

The select committee of the House to examine contracts for work for the improvement of the Mississippi river, organized and agreed to meet in Cairo early in November and proceed with the work.

Special favors are being allown the members of the German embassy by the Sultan. He has decorated Von Hischfeld, representative in the conference, with the order of the Medjidie of the first class.

The business men and real estate owners of Milwaukee have entered a solemn protest against the uncleanliness of the streams of that city, whose disease-breeding odors permeate the atmosphere.

Wallace Wilson, 15 years old, stole a valuable horse from an Indiana farmer and then let himself and the animal out to hire for the season, but before doing much work found himself under lock and key.

The Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Railroad Company, for a gift of real estate and a bonus of $25,000, have decided to move their machine and repair shops from Louisville to Lafayette, Ind.

The Rev. Mr. Henselman, of the Disciple Church, at Canton, Ohio, is charged with being too lavish of his caresses to female members of the flock, and an investigation is pending. Blackmail is also hinted at.

Three American prospectors were found dead in the Sonora Valley, Mexico. It is believed they were murdered by the natives, who, however, charge the Apaches with the crime.

The Republican State Committee of New York has fixed the date of the convention for the 20th of September at Saratoga. It is surmised that this is not as early as Governor Cornell desired.

Two Kentuckians, named Emberton and Speakman, who had outraged Mrs. J. B. Garrett, of Tompkinsville, a week ago, while being taken to Glasgow for safe-keeping Tuesday, were shot to death.

During this season 455 blooded cattle have been sold in Kentucky at an average of $300 each. Of the total 229, costing on an average $318 each, remain in the State, and 226, averaging $282 each, go to other States.

Since October 1 there have been sold in Danville, Va., market, 22,214,000 pounds of leaf tobacco, at the average of $9.78 per 100 pounds, against 25,128,000 pounds at the average of $9.92 per 100 pounds the preceding year.

William Walsh and J. J. Hely, of New Orleans, rivals for the hand of a woman, met before her residence, drew their pistols and began the bombardment. At the seventh shot Walsh fell dead with a bullet through his brain.

A large order has been received at St. Louis from Arkansas and Tennessee for London purple, to be used to destroy the army worm, which is said to have appeared in great numbers, and is damaging cotton in the States named.

Mont Robbins, whose father, ex-Congressman William Robbins, was assaulted by L. Mott, at Statesville, N. C., on account of a bitter political speech, went to Iredell county, where Mott lived and killed Mott for the attack on his father.

A fight occurred Wednesday at Phoenix, Arizona, between three cowboys and officers and citizens. One of the latter was killed and one wounded; and the cow-boys narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of the populace.

Captain Thomas Kirkman, living on a plantation near Grenada, Miss., Thursday night murdered a negro woman with whom he had been cohabiting, and her four children. He beat their skulls in with an ax and then took a large dose of morphine.

It is announced that W. D. Neff and wife, recent residents of Ottawa, Ill., who had been cultivating an orange grove on the St. Johns river, Florida, were murdered, their house fired, and the bodies of both consumed. The henious crime was undoutedly preceded by robbery.

When the steamer City of Sydney arrived at San Francisco she was not allowed to dock till her Chinese crew, who were unprovided with return certificates, were transferred to a hulk. The Mail Company will make a test case by petitioning for a writ of habeas corpus.

Lewis Sisley, whose wife was found dead two days after marriage in Lancaster, Wis., supposed to have committed suicide, after a few weeks' examination, was bound over to the Grand Jury. It will be remembered that Mrs. Sisley's father testified that he had received a communication from the spirit world that his daughter had been murdered.

A suit is pending at Racine regarding the proper ownership of the incandescent electric light patent W. R. Freeman, electrician of the United States Company, claims the light as his invention, and claims that Edison plagiarized the scheme and took out a patent for it. Edison's company are the defendants.

Sunday evening at Greenfield, Ind., James Week, while intoxicated, accused Albert Daily of stealing his "chips." The latter declared his innocence, and they parted. Twenty minutes later Week met Daily, put a pistol to his forehead, and fired, inflicting a mortal wound. Week then suicided by firing a shot through his brain.

Twenty-five fireman entered the burning building of McKelvey Bros., at Pittsburg, early Sunday morning, and ten of this number ascended to the second story, which they had barely reached when a side wall and the floor gave away. Four were fatally injured and the others less seriously. The fifteen men on the ground floor escaped unhurt.

A Lansing, Mich., special says the rains for the past week have caused an entire suspension of harvest in that section. Two-thirds of the wheat crop is still in the fields, either in stacks or uncut, and is more or less damaged, much of it ruined. The standing wheat is badly sprouting. The reports of sections north of there are to the same effect.

Martin Coleman, 22 years old, was arrested here last night for the murder of his mother in Richland Center, Wis., July 19. The cause of the crime was his mother's opposition to his marriage. He broke her skull with a club, secreted the body and fled. He has been taken to Richland Center. The officers fear that summary vengeance will be dealt out to him.

The report of the Commissioners of Public Works of Chicago shows that during 1881 twenty-five miles of pavement were laid, and 137 of side-walk. The cost of street repairs and cleanings was $172,858, and of lighting with gas $284,495. The receipts of the water department were $1,026,563, and the expenses $840,887. Twenty-three and a third billion gallons of water were pumped. The cost of the system is nearly $9,000,000. Twenty-five miles of sewers were built, at an expense of over $339,000.

Foreign.

Senator Le Blond is announced as the coming French Premier.

Connell, the informer, says there exists in Ireland a secret organization whose object is the deposition of Queen Victoria.

Two men were struck dead at Paris by catching hold of an elastic wire used in the illumination of the Tuilleries Gardens.

From Madagascar come reports of ill-feeling between the native and American authorities, on one side, and the French officials, on the other.

Discontentment prevades the ranks of the Irish constabulary. They demand increased pay and quicker promotion, and a strike is now imminent.

An Irish editor has been arrested for publishing an article written by James Redpath, which, the government alleges, encourages the murder of landlords.

The movement among the Irish policemen for increased pay and quicker promotion shows no signs of abating. In some towns their meetings have been prohibited, but their agitation is peaceful and within the law.

Excitement is still prevalent at Trieste over the throwing of the bombshell into the procession of the veterans a week ago. Eight persons have been arrested for participation in the crime, but the real culprit is not yet in costody.

While the veteran society were marching in Trieste to do honor to the brother of Emperor Joseph, a petard was thrown into their ranks, and many of them injured. It is supposed to be the work of Italian fanatics, and the windows of houses occupied by them were subsequently wrecked.

Parnell's scheme for checkmating the operations of the Land Corporation Company has assumed form. The Lord Mayor of Dublin will be asked to call a meeting during the exposition, for the inauguration of a fund to aid evicted tenants. Parnell claims evictions will be increased if tenants are left defenseless.

STATE ITEMS.

A new postoffice has been established at Blaine, Jay county.

George Barcheit, a Batesville lad of fifteen years, committed suicide, sending a load of shot through his brain.

THE Republicans of the Twelfth district, have nominated W. C. Gasgow, of Lagrange, as their candidate for Congress.

W. R. Crall, from Effingham, Ill., was ridden on a rail through the principal streets of Liberty, accompanied by a large crowd with a martial band playing the rogue's march, because he had insulted some ladies on the streets, and the courts failed to punish him.

Mr. Crain of Goosetown, near Richmond, had an unfortunate encounter with his neighbor, Mr. Allen, on Sunday, in which he had his cheek bitten off. Mr. Crain of Goosetown, near Richmond, is not an insurance agent.

Mr. W. H. Culbertson, president, and J. J. Brown, vice-president of the New Albany water works company, have disposed of their stock to Ed. Hangary, cashier of the Merchant's National bank, for $17,500 cash. The price paid was 10 per cent. above par.

A catfish was taken from the tank of freight engine 15 on the J., M. & I railroad at Madison, which measured nine inches long. The fish had been in the tank for some time, and, it is thought, was sucked in while the tender was being supplied from some tank on the road.

Al Burton, of Muncie, was unloading a carboy of carbolic acid when it broke, drenching his leg from the knee down. His trousers were burned from his leg in an instant, and the acid running into his boot burned him terribly. Fortunately there was some soda at hand and the application of it relieved him at once, but not till he was seriously burned.

Terrible Accident.

Red Wing, Minn., August 8.

As Fred Horn and his brother-in-law, William Pope, were hitching their horses to a reaper here to-day, Pope fell, and the horses starting, he was caught by the grain divider, and it was drawn through his body, killing him instantly. Horn, in trying to stop the horses, fell and was caught by the muscles of his back by the guards and sickles and, it is thought, fatally crushed.

Just as Good as the Natural Product.

Paris, August 8.

Two men, while attempting to climb over the railing of the Tuilleries gardens, during a display of fireworks, caught hold of the electric wire used in the illumination of the grounds, and both were struck dead instantly.

An Agricultural Society's Failure.

Xenia, O., August 8.

The Shawnee Agricultural Society has made an assignment to John S. Ankeny. The liabilities are supposed to be not less than $25,000; assets somewhat less.

ALEXANDRIA.

What the World Owes to it in Learning and Christianity.

Sermon of Rev. Dr. Blackburn, of Cincinnati.

He opened with a sketch of its founder, Alexander the Great, touching upon the impression that he produced upon the age as evinced by the extent to which his musical name of Alexander—translated, the helper, spread. Although he is chiefly thought of as the great conqueror, yet was he a man of prophetic mark, foretold by Daniel as one "who leaps, who touched not the ground," as indicative of the rapidity of his conquests. He was chosen by the Almighty to overthrow the nations and pave the way for the spread of Christianity. Struck with the beauty of its location and the harbor, which all the navies of the world could enter, he built a monument to his own greatness. He claimed a divine mission to unite and reconcile the world. He it was who offered the spoils of the East to have his name inscribed on the temple of Ephesus, which was declined. In carrying out his assumed mission he built better than he knew. He gathered together the elements of the highest civilization for his city of Alexandria, and placed at the head of it the best man of his day for the place, Ptolemy Soter. For fifteen centuries it continued to be the emporium of the world. Within its granaries were stored all the wheat of Egypt, and it was said that the most effective plan for the reduction of Constantinople was the blockade of its port. This was before Rome reached the limit of her greatness, and when it was controlled by Greeks. To its wider thought and richer culture the after time owes much. To Greece we are indebted for philosophy, to Italy for art, and to each of several cities for something, but to Alexandria for Greek philosophy clothed in Christian forms. Aristotle helped to found Alexandria. His works were studied there, and led to the establishment of the famous museum. Thence philosophy passed into Europe and became established in universities. Modern astronomy had its beginning there, and there Euclid gave his lectures and perfected his mathematics that is a text book in our schools. Medical science, too, there had its beginning, and geography first became a study. Paul never handled a geography, yet did not believe that the gods dwelt on Mount Olympus, or golden apples grow in the western Hesperides. Yet the people, ignorant of locality or the world's extent, peopled localities with forms and phantasies, and many had fearful reputations. It was Ptolemy of Alexandria, who, seventy years after Paul, gave maps and views to Europe, and placed a limit, though a confined one, to the world. The spirit of inquiry became universal, and all were philosophers of some sort, as now. But how should it be determined that the reasoning largely derived from Aristotle passed in the Christian schools of Alexandria. This free spirit of inquiry resulted in the encouragement of all forms of thought, and the collection of manuscripts until in its library were supposed to be 400,000 volumes, while at Serapis were gathered what were supposed to number 700,000 the largest collection in the ancient world. At Alexandria the bible was first translated from the Hebrew, and Christianity found a ready entrance and encouragement there, where were represented nearly all nations, languages and creeds. There Origen laid down his philosophy with which he had resolved to oppose it and took up the bible. He became the champion of the Alexandrian, the Christian philosophy. Although adhering to the errors of transmigration and the final salvation of all, he started the work of systematizing the truths of the bible. There lived and died many Christian bishops in the city where he had lived whom they preached. There Arius advanced his creed, now held by Unitarians. And Athanasius was dragged from his hiding place to become the champion of the Nicene theology. Five times he went into exile, yet his creed, our modern orthodox Christianity, finally triumphed. There a bishop headed the Coptic schism, a creed which still has followers in Egypt. In 640 the Mohammedans took Alexandria and burned the library. Under their rule it has ever since been, and has steadily degenerated, while England, then just emerging from barbarism, has attained to her high civilization under the Christianity fostered at Alexandria.

An Antiquarian Ananias.

A. W. Hoffman in Fort Wayne Gazette.

The scene became intensely interesting to us, and we still looked for more wonders, and were struck dumb and speechless as we approached, lying upon a marble slab, a skeleton of a giant, whom we quickly measured and took the dimensions of. We found him to have been thirty-one feet and six inches tall, and across the breast he measured five feet and eight inches. The skull, which had become detached from the body, we set up erect and took its dimensions and found that it would hold at least four bushels of shelled corn, and a hat number forty-two would just have fitted it. There is no doubt but that this cavern was made for him, here he had lived and here he had died. He was straightened for the grave the same as our dead are now, but was permitted to lie in state for all these thousands of years. His limbs were perfectly arranged, and at one time some fine fabric must have been wound around his mammoth body, but it had all fallen to decay and nothing but the huge bones remained of what was once a living monster. We have now one of his teeth before us, which is three by five and one half inches thick. We further noticed that on the east, south and west sides of the cavern lay, near the wall, an object different from anything we had yet seen. At first we thought it might be some object that had answered the purpose of a seat, as it well nigh encircled the whole cave; but we soon found out what it was; to our surprise we found ourselves standing within a few feet of a monster snake not less than 290 feet long. It was useless to run so we remained long enough to take the dimensions of his snakeship as best we could. The thickest part of his body must have been at least seven feet in diameter; his head was somewhat flattened and measured about nine feet across. We do not think that he lives in water much of the time, as his skin seemed dry and husky. He was of a dark brown color, with some white spots. We could not ascertain to what species he belonged, as on nearing his head we noticed a pair of eyes about half open. He seemed of a sleepy nature. A large round hole in the southwest corner of the cave told us plainly where his exit was, and we have no doubt but what the passage leads to some other cave, where the snake may have a mate, or even a family of his own kind, whose proportions are like his own. Having seen more than we expected, we retired from the cave in haste, leaving the giant and the snake alone in all their glory, thinking only of the works of an Almighty One who does all things well, and has made everything for some use and noble purpose. The cave was made by human hands, and the giant, who was perhaps the largest and last of his race, has lain there for thousands of years. His race is now no more. Perhaps he was one of those that heard the "morning star sing together, and the trees clap their hands and all the sons of God shout for joy." He has left no record of his birth nor of his ancestors; his father, mother, sisters and brothers were silent as himself. That tongue that may have been that of an orator is hushed forever. His serpentship is an exile, and perhaps has never seen the sun or the light of day, as if he is the one that beguiled our ancient Mother Eve in the fields of Eden.

The Fashionable Gin-Fiz.

[N. Y. Letter to Philadelphia Times.]

Gin-fiz is the drink of the day. The hotter the hour the longer the fiz.

Personally, I never could "a-bear" the taste or smell of gin. It was associated in my mind with low people, cheap dissipation and vulgar taste. Of late it has largely taken the place of whisky as a fancy beverage. Gin and seltzer, gin and milk, and gin-fizzes are ordered a thousand times a day where in former years they were asked for once. I was standing at the door of one of our great grocery stores to-day and noticed more than a dozen demijohns and soda boxes on their way to an express wagon. A clerk told me there was gin, "fine old Tom," in the demijohns and plain soda in the cases. "For what?" said I. "Gin-fiz," said he. He told me his orders for both were constant, and his shipments to private customers in the country were so great and so regular that the expresses called half a dozen times a day for the freight. I chanced to pass a night in a Long Island village one day this week. Having missed the last returning train I went to a tavern for lodging. The landlord was in the barroom. Entering, I found him and a neighbor drinking gin-fizzes. He recommended me to a family near by, where summer boarders are tolerated. I went. About 9 o'clock a young fellow said to his sister, "Em, if you'll get the glasses and ice I'll rig up a fiz." Eight glasses and a bowl of ice were soon brought. Em, her cousin and the young fellow rolled lemons on the table to make them juicy, squeezed the juice into the glasses, put in the ice, heaped in sugar and added a mere drop of water. An egg cup twice filled with gin, was emptied into each of the eight glasses. Five bottles of plain soda supplied the fiz, and in much less time than I can tell it sixteen lips pronounced the eight drinks "delicious." Being a stranger I took one in, and am free to say I liked it. But that isn't the point. I was struck with the obvious fact that this fiz biz was a regular evening habit, and subsequent revelation disclosed that two or three fizzes during the evening are frequently called for and enjoyed. Now, I don't believe that two lemonades, tinged with stimulants, will hurt Em or her friends. They are in the fresh-aired country. They go to bed, bathe daily and are brown and fat. But are they not forming habits? Are they not gaining a "taste for liquor"? And if they are, they are like tens of thousands of their age and position in all sections of the land. I presume gin is less injurious than whisky and purer than the "brandy" offered in barrooms, and possibly a fiz is more refreshing than simple water. It's none of my business, you know. I am an artist only, and paint my portraits as the subjects offer. Having yielded to the temptation once—or possibly twice—it may be that I shall fiz myself, and thence on to fizzle, a fearful fate which Em and her brother would be sorry to find laid at their hospitable door, I am sure.

The State Ball in England.

From London Vanity Fair.

The prettiest sight at the ball is the supper procession of the royal family, followed by the Ambassadors, and attended by the great officers of the household. Shortly after midnight Lord Kenware waves his hand, and the band plays "God Save the Queen," whereupon the company draws up in two lines down the room, and the great folks pass along between them, returning in about half an hour in the same manner; after which the great company go and refresh themselves. The supper-room looks very fine, with all the gold plate displayed, and, although you have to eat standing—what Theodore Hook describes as "tables against the wall, covered with cold negus and warm ice; where men, women and children take perpendicular refreshment, like so many horses with their noses in the manger"—yet when once the first crush has subsided, and you can get to the table, you find that the meal is an excellent one. The champagne is dry, properly iced, and in all respects unexceptionable. The Queen in this sets an admirable example to the herd of ball-giving people, who too often do not scruple to half poison their guests with the filthy liquor that they place before them. In Lothair, Lord Beaconsfield alludes to Lord St. Jerome's "giving the same champagne at his balls that he gave at his dinners," as being a fact sufficient to stamp him at once as a host of the right sort.

◆

The guests at Baroness Burdett-Coutts's first garden party were treated to a sight of the smallest pony in the world—Lady Jumbo. The tiny creature, who looks like a thoroughbred race-horse seen through the wrong end of an opera glass, stands thirteen inches high and is five years old.

A Catholic priest of Brenham, Tex., who denounced a member of his church from the pulpit as a horsethief, was publicly cowhided by the accused.

SAVING FRED DOUGLASS'S LIFE

An Incident of the Days of the John Brown Raid—The Delayed Telegram.

Philadelphia Record.

"Yes, sir; I am the man who saved Fred Douglass from being hanged when 'Old John Brown' was captured at Harper's Ferry. I suppressed a dispatch addressed to the sheriff of Philadelphia instructing him to arrest Douglass, who was then in that city, as [illegible] in the [illegible] when John Brown was taken into custody."

Seated on the doorstep of his cosy cottage [illegible] outside of Vineland, N. J., [illegible], a pleasant [illegible] man of sixty, who, when questioned, answered as above respecting the aid rendered by him to the noted abolitionist.

"At that time I was a telegraph operator located in Philadelphia," continued Mr. [illegible]. "When I received the dispatch I was frightened nearly out of my wits. As I was an ardent admirer of the great ex-slave, who was doing all [illegible] could do [illegible] the [illegible] question, I determined to warn Douglass of his impending fate, [illegible] what the result might be [illegible]. The news had just been spread throughout the country of the bold attempt of John Brown and his twenty followers to capture the little town of Harper's Ferry. Everybody was excited and public feeling ran high. Before the intelligence came that Brown had been captured, the dispatch which I have mentioned was sent by the sheriff of Franklin county, Pennsylvania, to the sheriff of Philadelphia, informing him that Douglass had been one of the chief conspirators, and [illegible] that he should be immediately apprehended. Though I knew it was illegal to do so, I quietly put the dispatch in my pocket, and, asking another operator to take my place, started on my search for Fred Douglass. I went directly to Miller McKim, the secretary of the contraband, underground, fugitive railway office in Philadelphia, and inquired for my man. Mr. McKim hesitated to tell me, whereupon I showed him the dispatch and promised him not to allow it to be delivered within three hours. I told him that I would not do this unless he agreed to get Mr. Douglass out of the State. This he readily assented to, for it was his business to spirit escaped slaves beyond the reach of the authorities. I returned to the telegraph office and kept a sharp lookout for similar dispatches. None arrived, however, and when the allotted time expired I sent the belated message to its destination.

"In the meantime those intrusted with my secret saw Mr. Douglass, and urged him to leave the town as quickly as possible. He was loath to do so at first, but the expostulations of his friends overcame his objections, and in an hour he left on a railroad train which placed a gap of forty miles between him and Philadelphia every hour. He reached his home in Rochester, N. Y., in safety, destroyed the compromising documents, and then packed his gripsack and started for Canada. It was fortunate for him that he left as soon as he did, for immediately after his departure from Rochester his home was surrounded by officers.

"Those were queer times, and persons had to be careful what they did and said. I did not tell my share in the rescue, for I feared the power of the slave party, as they could have had me imprisoned. When I look back and think what I did to save that man from the gallows—for he would undoubtedly have gone there had he been arrested—I feel that I am rewarded by contemplating that the life saved was well worth saving."

Love of Genius.

London [illegible] Chicago Inter-Ocean.

B[illegible] making love to her husband in this play "draws" of course; but [illegible] all that when seated before the footlights and watching the tragic [illegible] Dona Sol to her faithful Hernani [illegible] very funny about [illegible] whose stage name is Jacques Damall. He does [illegible] up for the stage at all. Is this part of the clever Sarah's tactics, to give us all a chance to see as he is, sans wig or false mustachios, the youth whom she has married?

SHE SAYS SHE LOVES HIM.

It [illegible] him. [illegible] just [illegible] temperament often get control of all the forces of the nature of a woman like Bernhardt, nervous, [illegible] restlessly seeking [illegible] of herself. [illegible] the secret of the marriage of George Eliot with the young Mr. Cross, about which we all puzzled ourselves so much when the strange news was flashed over to America.

I heard a good deal about that wedding, not long ago, from an old gentleman who knew them all well—George Eliot and Mr. Lewes and Herbert Spencer and this young lover, who won "Marian Evans, spinster," for his wife, a short time before her death.

When, as a young girl, she first came up to London to seek her literary fortune, she lived in the family of this kindly old man. He introduced her to Lewes and to Spencer, and he knew for years of Cross' affection for her before the death of Lewes.

WHAT SHE MARRIED HIM FOR.

"But what in the world did she marry Cross in the end for?" I asked.

"For the simple reason that she loved him, my child," said the old gentleman, looking at me over his spectacles.

I smiled incredulously. "That would sound very well in a novel, but George Eliot was sixty years old, and all the world knows that she had been in love with Herbert Spencer all her life. Or at least people believe that who don't think that she cared about Mr. Lewes."

"Stuff and nonsense! George Eliot was in love with Cross in just the same way that any young woman is in love at eighteen. Her youth came late in life. She was all intellect in her girlhood, and when she married Lewes it was in the belief that the intellectual congeniality was that which the poets write about. Certainly later on she did care deeply for Herbert Spencer, but it was only an exalted species of the same sort of feeling that she entertained for Lewes. The idolatry of young Cross awakened new and richer emotions. He is a man of much finer temperament, more likely to win real affection."

"Well, it is all very strange. I have always wondered," said I, "why she signed her name as 'spinster' in the church register when she was married."

"The simplest thing in the world!" cried George Eliot's old friend. "The law requires it. That was merely a legal form. Do you know, young Cross is writing her biography? The book is sure to have great sale, coming from him, but I think it a very ill-advised act. The very fact of his attachment to her will make it more a panegyric than an impartial biography."

Crossing the Legs.

Clara Belle, N. Y. Correspondence.

The neatest way to modestly display a foot is to cross the leg to which it belongs over the other. This lifts the foot about six inches from the floor, and lets it hang in easy, graceful suspension. The lower edge of the skirt should [illegible] that only the front half of the foot is shown, but that is sufficient, in the present fragmentary state of slippers and sandals, to show a good bit of finely embroidered or delicately woven stocking. The position is a common one to the most elegant and refined girls in the politest circles of society, not only here, but in London and Paris. It is not in the least bold or awkward. Still, my grandmother—dear old lady—says that it is vulgar for a woman to cross her knees. She was taught so when she was young, and she stoutly maintains that the law on the subject has never yet been changed. She well remembers a week [illegible] in the same house with Mme. Jerome Bonaparte in Baltimore, than whom she [illegible] ladylike woman ever [illegible] that the ma[illegible] her knees two inches apart—no more and no less. She declares that no girl with pretentions to delicacy should sit cross-legged. I have thus stated both sides of the subject, leaving my readers to decide whether they will practice a pose that is both comfortable and artful, or avoid it because there is a tradition that it is impolite. I suppose that the sticklers will pretty soon object to women crossing one foot over the other. Even that feminine habit of sitting on one foot, to the peril of getting it caught in the bustle and making the owner go hop-scotch on raising, will next be assailed.

A Bear Panic in Vermont.

Ruthland Herald

The village of Pownal was thrown into a state of excitement on Wednesday by the appearance of a huge black bear on the streets. At first it was sought to drive the animal away with dogs, but for a considerable time the bear was monarch of all he surveyed. Finally, after smelling about the village to his heart's content, he moved on up the railroad track in the direction of North Pownal. At this juncture one Brown appeared upon the scene, armed and equipped to do battle. The first intimation that the bear had of the appearance of this new enemy was a bullet whistling about his ears. The bear turned upon Brown but the latter sought cover. When the bear reached the railroad bridge, midway between Pownal and North Pownal, he faced about and stood upon his haunches. But Brown had no inclination to tackle the bear at close quarters. Bracing himself along-side a telegraph-pole, he took aim and pulled the trigger. The ball took effect in a vital portion of the bear's anatomy. Brown had killed the bear, and the news of his victory soon spread to both villages. The body of the dead bear was carried in triumph through the streets of the village, but in the midst of the general rejoicing two Italians arrived upon the scene, and, after discovering the cause of the commotion, broke out in the most terrible tirade of blasphemy ever heard in the valley of the Hoosac. Explanations followed, when it was learned that the bear was their property, and that they were traveling about the country exhibiting him.

A Surgical Revelation.

About two weeks ago a daughter of Mr. [illegible] [illegible] fell [illegible] and in her struggles on the floor swallowed something which she had in her mouth, and which was supposed to be a hair-pin, from the information that could be obtained. The child has been in a precarious state ever since, suffering from excruciating pain. The [illegible] became [illegible] that Dr. Eddy, the attending physician, decided that an operation was necessary if the child's life was to be saved at all, and this morning performed it, with the assistance of Dr. Clarke. To the astonishment of the operating physicians and all concerned, the foreign substance was found to be, not a hair-pin, but a steel hat-pin a little over five inches long and having a large jet head, and which was found in the stomach and very successfully removed. A slight [illegible] appeared on the left side just above the lower rib. This was cut into and the point of the pin was revealed. There are hopes for the recovery of the child.—[Oswego Palladium.

Wholesale Telegraphing.

Boston Herald.

It has remained, however, for Albert L. Parcelle, a skilled mechanic and talented inventor, to produce a mechanism by which the barriers to rapid and cheap telegraphy are swept down and which, by simple applications of known principles, promise to entirely revolutionize the telegraphy of the world. His system is called "Harmonic Automatic Telegraphy," and differs from that in use by the Rapid Telegraph Company in two important points. The first is an improved and abbreviated construction of the alphabet, in which position is used to the great saving of characters and consequent saving of time in preparing the copy in the perforator. The second is the employment of a system of sympathetic resonance, by which, with the use of a single wire and unskilled operatives, the same amount of work which is now done by ten wires and skilled labor can be accomplished. Thus, for the first time in the history of telegraphy, the Morse alphabet and system are done away with, as are also the translating and transcribing by receivers. Instead of requiring the ordinary handling and delay, the message, be it long or short, is rapidly prepared in a perforating machine, fed into the transmitter, and is instantly reproduced in clear Roman letters on sheets of paper ready to be sent by messenger to the party addressed. The actual number of words sent, on an average, by the American Rapid is from 600 to 700 per minute, while the lowest computations, made from results obtained from an instrument only partially completed, show a speed by the new method of 5,000 words per minute. A great advantage, too, is that, being sent over a single wire, the matter comes consecutively, and is, therefore, free from liability to error, as is often the case where several wires are used for the sending of a single dispatch. For press work the new method will prove of inestimable value, as by the use of this device a speech of 2,000 words, occupying about one column of the Herald, can be perforated, sent over the wire, given to a messenger at the other end of the line for delivery, and all ready for the type setter in three and a half minutes. Of course in order to attain this speed, the copy is originally cut up into "takes" and distributed to several boys or girls, who transcribe the matter by means of the perforating machines, after which the several pieces are pasted together in one continuous strip. This strip runs through the instrument at great speed; and it will thus be seen that the celerity with which a dispatch is transmitted depends principally upon the number of perforators employed. It will thus be understood that, from beginning to end, the system demands only unskilled labor, by reason of the high degree of automatic perfection attained, and herein lies the great secret of cheapness. The speed is another valuable consideration; and when the both elements are combined the result seems to be, indeed, the long-sought desideratum.

A Wealthy Girl's Hard Lot.

Philadelphia Record.

From a home of luxury and all that wealth can bestow to a private madhouse in this city has been a chapter in the history of Josephine Winterer, a handsome young lady who resided near Easton, Pa. Her father, who was a well-known merchant, died when Josephine was a toddling child, leaving a large fortune, which he bequeathed to his wife and four children. Happiness and contentment ruled in the little family circle until in March last, when the mother became stricken with a fatal disease. When her eyes were closed in death Josephine's grief was so intense, her incessant watch, day after day and night after night, had so affected her nervous system that she was completely prostrated. All efforts to remove her thoughts from that death-bed and newly-made grave proved unavailing, until one of her sisters became afflicted with that dread disease, small-pox. This had the effect of arousing her from her melancholy reveries, and she devoted her attention to her sick sister. Misfortunes never come singly, and so it was in this instance. The other two sisters were stricken with the disease. Josephine was a ministering angel, and anticipated every want of her suffering sisters. But death was stronger than her efforts, and she was alone in the world. The blow was more than she could bear. Her reason gave way to her great grief, and she became violent. The best medical skill was secured, but there appeared no improvement in her condition. As a last resort her friends decided to place her in a private insane asylum in this city, in the hope that medical skill and good nursing may restory her wonted health.

It is also said of the Astors that they make the best landlords in the city, and in their own methodical way do a great deal of humble good. A widow wants a boarding-house, and has not the money to pay the advance rent; and if she has been a good tenant they give her time. In this way their real estate is handled without the ravages on their conscience and care that stocks, railroads and even merchandise enforce. They buy real estate quietly when the opportunities are good, build strong and plain, and receive their rents; and they are hardly ever heard around the undignified purlieus of the Stock Exchange.

Saw His Father for the First Time.

Schwenksville Item.

On Tuesday of this week a singular occurrence took place at the residence of Abraham Souder at Frederick Station, Montgomery county. Mrs. Geo. Bilger, a sister-in-law of Mr. Souder, died in Philadelphia last week, and on Tuesday was buried at Goschenhoppen church. After the burial the friends and relatives of the diecseased returned to the house of Mr. Souder for refreshment. Among the relatives was Mr. Aaron Bout, well known in the community about 50 years ago; about that time he left this neighborhood and has not since been here until last Tuesday. Shortly after he left a son was born to him, who is now a man of 50 years. He resides near Frederick Station and bears the name of his father. Mr. Bout having been informed that his father was in the neighborhood, he called upon him and the two had a pleasant conversation. The old Mr. Bout now resides in Philadelphia and is a well-to-do merchant. He was married three times and is the father of 26 children, the youngest being about 2 years. Mr. Bout is hale and hearty at the age of 70 years.

Lady Byron's Letters.

The London Athenæum promises to publish some hitherto unpublished Byron papers, including a collection of poems by Lady Byron, written during her residence with her husband, some having his emendations, and also a correspondence between her and Lord Byron's sister during her engagement and early married life and to the date of the poet's death; also documents referring to the destruction of the memoirs and other interesting papers. "This large body of correspondence," says the Athenæum, "will be found to demonstrate the baselessness of various statements made by Lady Byron in later years to her sister-in-law's discredit, and more especially of the hideous imagination to which Mrs. Beecher Stowe gave such wide and lamentable publicity thirteen years ago."

EXPRESSIONS.

Pleasure is the reward of moderation.

False friendship, like ivy, decays and ruins.

Experience is the extract of suffering.

Manners are the shadows of virtues.

Poetry comes nearer the vital truth than history.

Wisdom is to the soul what health is to the body.

The dignity of truth is lost with much protesting.

Honors come by diligence; riches spring from economy.

What we need most to realize the ideal is to idealize the real.

The man who never excites envy never excites admiration.

If you are [illegible] quitted way in life, [illegible] bored.

One day of glorious active life
Is worth an age without an aim.

Advice is seldom welcome. Those who heed it most like it least.

Remember in all miseries lamenting becomes fools, and action wise folk.

The only reward of virute is virtue. The only way to have a friend is to be one.

Action is eloquence, and the eyes of the ignorant are more learned than their ears.—Shakespeare.

Of all earthly music, that which reaches the farthest into Heaven, is the beating of a loving heart.

"Wishing" is the stumbling block of knowledge and reform. "Doing" is the lever that moves the world.

The virtue of a man ought to be measured, not by his extraordinary exertions, but by his every-day conduct.

There is, in all this cold and hollow world, no fount of deep, strong, deathless love, save that within the mother's heart.

If you will follow this rule you will save yourself many a heartache: "Never bite till you find out whether it is bread or stone."

Iron becomes magnetized by the magnet against which it grinds, and then the soul becomes assimilated to that which it thinks continually.

After men have traveled through a few stages in vice, shame forsakes them, and returns back to wait on the few virtues they have still remaining.

The essence of true nobility is neglect of self. Let the thought of self pass in, and the beauty of a great actions is gone, like the bloom from a soiled flower.

It is always easier to pay an undeserved compliment to a rich man than to be commonly courteous to a poor man. Human nature is thus proven to be not entirely a success.

It is hard sometimes to speak a kind word to others when the shadows rest on your own heart, but nothing will tend more to lighten our own cares than the effort to help another.

When you have an opportunity to speak a cheering word you can send a beam of sunshine into the heart of an absent sorrowing friend by writing a good, warm hearted, helpful letter.

If we could only sooner give up thinking to "gather grapes from thorns and figs from thistles," we should be spared some of life's disappointments. But we can never quite believe that in our garden like will invariably produce like; and so we go on and on industriously cultivating the ugly, thorny stalks we have so long cherished, sure that some day they will bud, and blossom, and bear delicious fruit. We dig and plant, and water and wait—for a full harvest of thorns.

Mr. Johnson, of Boone, Philosophizes.

The Indianapolis Journal has discovered a mysterious poet, alleged to be a resident of Boone county, who "does up" sense and sentiment of the highest grade, in excellent rhyme, using the ruggedest of vernacular. Following is a fine specimen of his work:

I aint ner don't p'tend to be,
Much posted on philosophy;
But there is times, when all alone,
I work out ideas of my own.
And of these same thare is a few
I'd like to jest refer to you—
Pervidin' that you don't object
To listen clos't and ricollect.

I allus argy that a man
Who does the very best he can
Is plenty good enough to suit
This lower mundane institute—
No matter ef his daily walk
Is subject for his neighbor's talk,
And critic-minds of ev'ry whim
Jest all git up and go fer him!

I knowed a feller onc't that had
The yaller-janders mighty bad,
And each and every friend he'd meet
Would stop and give him a receet
Fer curin' of 'em. But he'd say
He kind o' thought they'd go away
Without no medicin', and boast
That he'd git well without one dose!

He kep' a yallerin' on—and they
Perdictin' that he'd die some day
Before he knowed it. Tuck his bed,
The feller did, and lost his head,
And wundered in his mind a spell—
Then rallied, and, at last, got well;
But every friend that said he'd die
Went back on him eternaly!

Its natchural enough, I guess,
When some gits more and some gits less,
For them-uns on the slimmest side
To claim it aint a fair divide.
And I've knowed some to lay and wait,
And git up soon, and set up late,
To ketch some feller they could hate
Fer goin' at a faster gait.

The signs is bad when folks commence
A findin' fault with Providence,
And balkin' cause the earth don't shake
At every prancin' step they take.
No man is great till he can see
How less than little he would be
Ef stripped to self, and stark and bare,
He hung his sign out anywhare.

My doctern is to lay aside
Contensions, and be satisfied.
Jest do your best, and praise or blame
That follers that, counts jest the same.
I've allus noticed grate success
Is mixed with troubles, more or less,
And its the man who does the best,
That gits more kicks than all the rest.
—Benj. F. Johnson.

A man in Washington County, Pa., jumped in front of a moving train to rescue a $2 bill that he had dropped. His funeral expenses were thereby reduced by $2, the bill being found tightly grasped in his mutilated hand.

A colored woman died at Ottawa, Can., last week, who was brought over to this country from Africa in 1808, in the last slave ship that legally landed its human freight here.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D.

Contagion destroyed. Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant. Fever and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water. Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing. Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about. To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed. Catarrh relieved and cured. Erysipelas cured. Burns relieved instantly. Scars prevented. Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed. Gangrene prevented and cured. Dysentery cured. Wounds healed rapidly. Scurvey cured in a short time. Tetter dried up. It is perfectly harmless. For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated. Ship Fever prevented by its use. In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell. An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c. Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use. Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport,

Consult and secure the advantages of DR. BUTTS
long experience in curing diseases of the [illegible] [illegible] Nervous Debility, Impotency, [illegible] Weakness, [illegible] and Mercurial Affections specially treated on scientific principles, with safe and sure remedies. Call or write for List of Questions to be answered by those desiring treatment by mail. (Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss.) Address, DR. BUTTS, 12 N. 8th St., St. Louis, Mo. ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF YOUTH and MANHOOD
A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE.
BY A PHYSICIAN of 25 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks, "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address
THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

Parker's Hair Balsam
Satisfies the most fastidious as a perfect Hair Restorer and Dressing. Admired for its cleanliness and elegant perfume. Never Fails to Restore Grey or Faded Hair to the youthful color. 50 cts. and $1 sizes at all druggists.

Get
the Best

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC
Ginger, Buchu, Mandrake, Stillingia and many of the best medicines known are here combined into a medicine of such varied and effective powers, as to make the Greatest Blood Purifier & the Best Health and Strength Restorer Ever Used.
It cures Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Sleeplessness, all diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, and all Female Complaints.
If you are wasting away with Consumption or any disease, use the Tonic to-day. It will surely help you. Remember! it is far superior to Bitters, Essences of Ginger and other Tonics, as it builds up the system without intoxicating. 50c. and $1 sizes, at all dealers in drugs. None genuine without signature of Hiscox & Co., N. Y. Send for circular.
LARGE SAVING IN BUYING THE DOLLAR SIZE.

A MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y
By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of Most Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, Magnificent Horton Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous
"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."
A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.
All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.
Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.
Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.
For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the
GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,
At your nearest Ticket Office, or address
R. R. CABLE, E. ST. JOHN,
Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r. Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.
CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!
RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES
LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled
FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIMPLES.
I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable Balm that will remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 3c stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.
The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dreadful disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the preparation used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.
Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.
A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence,
JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.
1yr

USE KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

WHOLESALE LIST
TURNIP SEEDS!

MERCHANTS!
SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST.
D. LANDRETH & SONS,
PHILADELPHIA.

DR. HARTER'S
A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice.
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 25th, 1881. DR. ROBERT SAMUELS, 3104 Wash. Avenue.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.
IRON TONIC.
MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

THE COLUMBUS BUGGY
COMPANY
STILL LEADS WITH THE
LARGEST BUGGY
MANUFACTORY
IN THE WORLD.
AND SELL THE BEST
BUGGY ON THE GLOBE
FOR THE MONEY.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE
AND TESTIMONIALS OF
HUNDREDS OF LIVERYMEN
WHO HAVE USED THEM.
ADDRESS
COLUMBUS BUGGY Co.
COLUMBUS OHIO.

Be sure, before buying, to examin the Name Plate to be found on the rear of every Buggy manufactured by us, for NONE ARE GENUINE unless they bear the name

Columbus Buggy Company,

COLUMBUS OHIO.

Many inferior goods are offered as Columbus Buggies, and care should be used to distinguish between "Columbus Buggies" and Columbus Buggy Co's. Buggies.

TESTIMONIALS.

GENTLEMEN: Your buggies have given me entire satisfaction, both in style and durability I have used them for the past three years. Your recent improvements on road wagons I consider the best in the market.

JAMES H. RAMBURG.

Frederick Maryland.

DEAR SIRS: We have used buggies of your make that have been in use three years, and no buggy we have that cost twice the amount has given better satisfaction.

JAMES H. ALEXANDER.

Johnstown, Pa.

GENTLEMEN: We have used the Columbus Buggy Company's work for the last five years and can conscientiously recommend it as strictly first class as to style, material, workmanship and durability. Your buggies have given better satisfaction than any other make of vehicles we had in use for the last ten years.

PALMER & WHITTAKER.

Red Oak Iowa,

GENTLEMEN: It gives me pleasure to state that I have been selling your buggies and carriages for four years, and can safely recommend them to any one in want of a buggy or carriage. Yours Truly, J. L. GRIBBLE.

Macomb, Illinois,

GENTLEMEN: With over fifteen years experience in building buggies, wagons, &c., I do not hesitate in saying your buggies and carriages are strictly first-class in workmanship, material and proportions, filling a long-felt want for a reliable article that can be sold at a price lower than any ordinary manufacturer can produce and sell the same quality of Work at. Yours, etc. I.S. KRICK, Connersville Pa.

GENTLEMEN: I have used your Brewster side bar buggies for four years, together with buggies that cost me $300 and $350, and your buggies were the first that went out, on account of being side-bar. They have not cost me $5 for repairs, and those I have sold of your make have given good satisfaction. I think that you make the cheapest and best road wagons that are made in the United States for the money.

Respectfully, P. H. HAMLIN, Lawrence Kansas.

DEAR SIRS: We have been using your buggies for the last four or five years. They have given entire satisfaction. I think they are the best buggies made for the money.

W. R. GRIMES & CO., Liverymen Whitehall Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: We have been handling your work for two seasons, and have in every instance found your buggies first class. We never have had one of your jobs returned to us for repairs; neither have we had a single complaint on accoun of work not being perfectly satisfactory. Very Respectfully, H.P. BUCKLEY & CO., Springfield, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: I have no hesitancy in saying that the Buggies manufactured by the Columbus Buggy Company are the best work for the price I have any knowledge of. In not a single instance has there been any dissatisfaction on the part of any one of my customers.

FRANK L. HALL.

Owensboro, Ky

DEAR SIRS: For the past two years we have used your buggies side by side with other makes in both our stables, and are perfectly satisfied with the strenght, durability and workmanship compared with others. As fast as our stock in livery is used up we shall replace them with your manufacture, knowing from experience that it is the best we can do. Respectfully,

SWEET & FOLLANSBEE,

Quincy Illinois.

For sale by dealers everywhere.

Any of our readers who will enclose two 2 cent stamps in a letter to the Columbus Buggy Co., Columbus O., will receive in return a beautiful engraving in colors, representing an Australian scene and their manner of travelling in that country with ostriches as a motor. They have this picture (the packing costing six cents) to all who may send for it, desiring in this manner to make themselves more widely known the people.

A Little Damp.

"Have we had any rain in Indiana this spring?" he ejaculated as he turned in his seat.

"Yes."

"Well, it has been a little damp out there," he softly answered. "The day before leaving home I had to hang up twenty-eight of my ducks. They had become so water-soaked that they could no longer swim. During the month of April it rained on twenty-nine different days."

"What about the other day?"

"Oh, that was the day in which it snowed twenty-two straight hours."

"How is corn?"

Well, I planted mine in two feet of water, and 'tween you and me, I don't expect over thirty bushels to the acre."

"Wheat looking well?"

"Tolerable well, but the sturgeon and catfish are doing considerable damage."

"Didn't you get any dry weather in May?"

"There was about fifteen minutes one day when it tried to clear up, but I hadn't commenced to bring out my sheep before the rain came down again."

"Grass must be good?"

"Shouldn't wonder, but cant say. When I get back I'm going down in a diving-bell to see.

"Got your potatoes in?"

"Not yet; I've got them loaded on a scow, and the scow anchored in the field in three feet of water."

"Then the prospect looks gloomy?"

"Not any, sir—not any. I've got an ark almost ready to sail, and if it will only rain another week I'll be the best fixed man in Indiana."—[Wall Street News.

Idaho.

When he had finished with the climate, soil and productions of Idaho, one of the group ask:

"How about education facilities?"

"That's the only thing we lack," replied the old man with a mournful sigh. "We've got schools enough, but we can't keep no teachers."

"What's the trouble?"

"Well, take my school, for instance—only two miles from nearest house, eminently situated on the top of a hill, and paying the highest salary. We can't keep a teacher over two weeks."

"Do they die?"

"Some do, though it's no place for dying. We had a young fellow from Ohio, and he met a grizzly and whistled for him. The grizzly cum. We had another and a widder run him down and married him inside of a month. The third one was lame, and the Injuns overtook him. Then we tried women folks. The first one got married the night she lit down there; I took the second about the middle of the third week, and the next one was abducted by a stage robber."

"Why don't you get the ugliest, homeliest woman you can find—some perfect old terror, like that lanterned-jawed, razor-faced female over by the ticket window?"

"Why don't we? Stranger, you eastern folks will never understand us pioneers in the world—never. That's my wife—the identical school-teacher I married, and she was the handsomest one in the drove!"—Detroit Free Press.

"Julia" wants to know what "a platform is?" Well, a platform, Julia, is one preamble and twenty resolutions, strong in non essentials, vague in essentials; round the bush on tariff and rough as thunder on the Mormons; clamorous for civil service reform, with a reserved definition of civil service reform; down on corruption, loud in its praise of purity, and determined to have it if it takes every cent the party raise. The platform, you understand, Julia, is a legitimate and necessary part of campaign pomp and circumstance; it goes along with the banners, transparencies and torches, and when the campaign is over—well, it is stored away in the cellar or garret, along with the rest of the uniforms. A campaign platform is very much like the campaign torch, indeed; it gives out a great deal of smell and smoke, with a very uncertain, flickering light.—Burlington Hawkeye.

An Atlanta woman eloped from her husband. No trace was obtained of her for two months, although detectives were sent in all directions. It happened that the wife had been cultivating a water lily, and when she left she carried it with her. A few days ago an officer, who had been employed in the case, in passing a house in Atlanta saw a water lily in the window. When he entered the house he was not greatly surprised to discover that its owner was the mising wife, who had never been from Atlanta. While her husband was searching elswhere for her, she remained quiet under his very eyes.

Congress authorizes the treasury to loan money to corporations at one per cent. (bank take), and refuses it to the people; they must go to these corporations to borrow and pay all that the necessities of the case demand. It seems this is not favoring the banks enough, so congress is trying to give them some additional favors by abolishing the bank tax.—Sentry.

FORT WAYNE

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

(Incorporated 1871.)

For Catalogue and Particulars, address C. F. W. MEYER, Principal.

FORT WAYNE, IND. 27-3.

BROWN'S
IRON
BITTERS

will cure dyspepsia, heartburn, malaria, kidney disease, liver complaint, and other wasting diseases.

BROWN'S
IRON
BITTERS

enriches the blood and purifies the system; cures weakness, lack of energy, etc. Try a bottle.

BROWN'S
IRON
BITTERS

is the only Iron preparation that does not color the teeth, and will not cause headache or constipation, as other Iron preparations will.

BROWN'S
IRON
BITTERS

Ladies and all sufferers from neuralgia, hysteria, and kindred complaints, will find it without an equal.

ROAD SUPERINTENDENTS
—AND—
GRAVEL ROAD MEN,
Try the Best ROAD WORKER,
THE PENNOCK.
700 IN USE.

Manufacturers of "Matchless" [illegible]
S. PENNOCK & SONS CO.,
Kennett Square, Pa., and Fort Wayne, Ind.

CENTRAL CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
Columbus, Bartholomew Co., Indiana.

Cheapest Tuition in the U. S. for advantages offered. Limited number boarded in Principal's family. For terms, etc., address
W. E. BATES, Principal.

TO ADVERTISERS. Holman's "Gilt Edge" List of best Indiana Newspapers will be sent to any address free.
S. E. HOLMAN, Fort Wayne, Ind.

THE MYSTERY OF
Love Making Solved
Or an Easy Road to Marriage.

[illegible]
SUNSHINE PUBLISHING HOUSE, Geneva, O.

The American Popular Dictionary, $1.00

[illegible] Order at once. [illegible] Five Dollars. [illegible]

SUNSHINE PUBLISHING CO.,
Geneva, Ohio.

Our readers will find this wonderful book the cheapest Dictionary published. The information it contains is worth many times the amount asked for it, and it should be in the possession of everybody. With this book in the library for reference, many other much more expensive works can be dispensed with, and ignorance of his country, history, business, laws, etc., is inexcusable in any man. Note the price, $1, post paid.

FORT WAYNE & JACKSON R. R.—SHORT Line

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Time-Card in effect July 16, 1882.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 20pm	7 00am	...
Saginaw	6 20	7 50	...
Lansing	9 25	10 25	...
Grand Rapids	10 20	6 00	12 25pm
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 05
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 45	5 22
Jackson Lv.	5 30am	12 05pm	6 55
Hanover	7 03	12 27	8 00
Jonesville	7 25	1 04	8 55
Bankers	7 38	1 16	9 20
Reading	7 50	1 27	9 45
Montgomery	8 03	1 40	10 10
Fremont	8 19	1 55	10 40
Angola	8 35	2 12	11 10
Pleasant Lake	8 45	2 25	11 30
Waterloo	9 05	2 42	6 00am
Auburn	9 15	2 53	6 25
Auburn Junction	9 20	2 57	6 30
Arrive Ft. Wayne	10 15	3 50	8 30
Indianapolis	5 45pm	10 45	...
Cincinnati	6 05	7 35am	...
Louisville	7 50	7 25	...
St. Louis	...	6 40	...
Washington	2 10	6 47	...
Baltimore	3 20	8 15	...

NORTH.	Ex.	Accom	Ex.
Leave Baltimore	11 00am	1 30am	...
Washington	10 40	2 30	...
St. Louis	6 00pm	7 50
Louisville	7 12		7 05am
Cincinnati	9 00	9 15pm	7 45
Indianapolis	4 25am		10 [illegible]
Ft. Wayne	11 45	1 00am	5 45pm
Arrive Auburn June.	12 40pm	5 00	6 00
Auburn	12 48	3 05	6 05
Waterloo	12 17	3 40	15
Pleasant Lake		4 25	37
Angola		5 00	7 05
Fremont		5 33	7 22
Montgomery		6 07	7 40
Reading		6 30	7 52
Bankers		6 55	8 04
Jonesville	3	7 25	8 18
Hanover	3	8 20	8 45
Jackson	3 40pm	9 20	9 20
Ann Arbor	5 07	10 34	10 28
Detroit	6 30	11 50	11 40
Grand Rapids	10 30	4 30pm	7 10am
Lansing	5 35	...	8 20
Saginaw	8 25	...	10 45
Bay City	9 20	...	11 55

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C. east—12 40, 3 00, 7 05, 9 30 a. m., 3 05, 4 05, 9 38 p. m.; west—12 45, 7 02, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 55, 11 05 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 6 50 p. m. J. L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 7 30 a. m., 12 30, 4 50 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 58 a. m., 2 30 p. m.; west 9 45 a. m., 1 07, 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p. m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7 40 a. m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 3 20 p. m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 42, 11 30 p. m.; west 2 35 a. m., 1 35 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 4 34 a. m., 1 48, 10 22 p. m.; west, 2 05 a. m., 12 45, 11 55 p. m. W., St. L. & P.; east—7 31 a. m. 3 15 p. m.; west—1 37, 11 31 a. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 20 a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 40 a. m., 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 5 00 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 35 p. m., west, 6 10, 10 40 a. m. 1 50 8 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W leave 12 10 6 05 a. m., 1 15pm; ar. 2 00, a. m. 2 35, 7 00 p. m., P., Ft. W. & C., east 3 35 a. m., 4 10, 11 20 p. m.; west 12 10, 3 40, 11 45 a. m., 3 40 p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt
H. BROMLEY Gen'l Ft. & Pass'r. Agen

LAKE SHORE & MICHIGAN SOUTHERN Railway.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y.Ex.	A. Ex	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm
Elkhart	1 30pm	10 10	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 48	11 30	5 25	12 10pm
Corunna	2 58		6 35
Sedan			7 05
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi Ex.	Pac. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 33pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 30
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	8 20

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:05 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage J. E. CURTIS,

Supt. Mich. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG,

Agent Waterloo Ind.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAILROAD—CHICAGO Division.

IN EFFECT FROM MAY 21, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. &B. Express	W. & O Ex.
Chicago lv	5 10pm	10 30pm	8 10am
Walkerton Junction	8 11	1 50am	11 16
Milford Junction	9 16	3 10	12 25
Syracuse		3 22	12 38pm
Cromwell		3 38	12 51
Albion		4 00	1 13
Avilla		4 22	1 34
Garrett	10 35	4 45	2 00
Auburn Junction	10 43	4 54	2 06
St. Joe
Hicksville	11 14	5 30	2 42
Defiance	11 52	6 13	3 24
Deshler	12 40am	7 10	4 20
Fostoria	1 30	8 07	5 15
Tiffin	2 08	8 35	5 43
Chicago Junction ar.	3 00	9 45	6 50

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
Chicago Junction lv	9 50pm	6 40pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 38	7 50	9 14
Fostoria	11 02	8 35	9 40
Deshler	11 52	9 43	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville	1 47	11 42	12 26pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 28	12 18 m	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 [illegible]	1 48
Avilla		12 58	1 56
Albion		1 02	2 21
Cromwell		1 28	2 45
Syracuse		1 45	3 02
Milford Junction		1 [illegible]	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 14	4 30
Chicago ar	8 38	5 55	7 [illegible]

FT. WAYNE CINCINNATI & LOUISVILLE Railroad.

In effect April 16, 18[illegible]

SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS	NORTHWARD
No. 1 Express	No. 3 Mail		No. 2 Mail	No. 4 Ex
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

All trains daily except Sunday. [illegible] connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. B. CAMPBELL' General Ticket Agt.

Where Shall I Attend School ?

You will be aided in answering this question by reading the catalogue of the FORT WAYNE (IND.) COLLEGE.

The lowest rates combined with the best advantages. Address:

W. F. YOCUM, A. M.,
28-6w. Fort Wayne, Ind.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 181 and 183 W. Madison St., Chicago. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp.

$1,000 Forfeit!

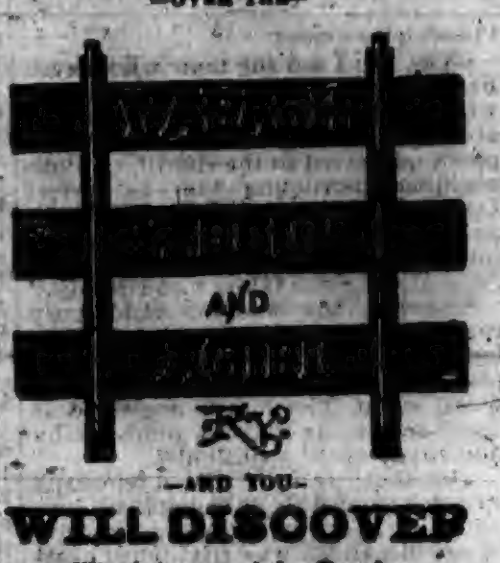
Having the utmost confidence in its superiority over all others, and after thousands of tests of the most complicated and severest cases we could find, we feel justified in offering to forfeit One Thousand Dollars for any case of coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, hoarseness, bronchitis, consumption, in its early stages; whooping cough and all diseases of the throat and lungs, except Asthma, for which we only claim relief, that we can't cure with West's Cough Syrup, when taken according to directions. Sample bottles 25 and 50 cents; large bottles $1.00. Genuine wrappers only in blue. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price. JOHN C. WEST & CO., sole proprietors, 181 and 183 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Health is Wealth.

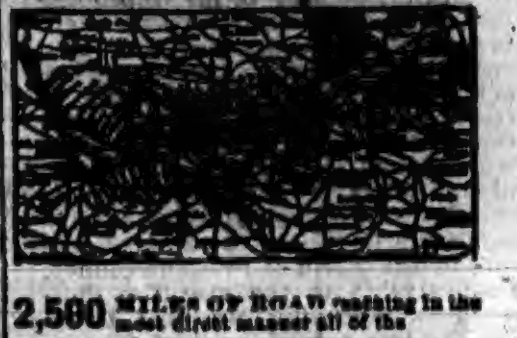
DR. E. C. WEST'S Nerve and Brain Treatment is a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Spermatorrhea, Impotency, Emissions, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, self-abuse, or over-indulgence, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind. Orders by mail at regular price.

—Weirick, the Fairfield merchant buys butter and eggs and other produce. Don't forget it. tf.

TAKE A RIDE
—OVER THE—



—AND YOU—
WILL DISCOVER
Why it is termed the Popular
PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA !



2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS
TO ALL POINTS
East, West, Northwest or Southwest
And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address I. M. ZENT, agent, Auburn, Ind., or G. R. COLE, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, H. C. TOWNSEND,
Gen. Manager, Gen. Passenger Agen
St. Louis.

RUBBER ROOFING

Costs only $3.25 per square, 10x10 feet, and will last a lifetime on steep or flat roofs. Send for circular and samples free.

IND. PAINT AND ROOFING CO.,
Indianapolis, Ind.

JOS. ABRIGHT,
—Dealer In—

Watches, Watches,
Clocks, Clocks,
Castors Castors,
Spoons, Spoons,
Forks, Forks,
Knives Knives,
Chains, Chains,
Rings, Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid,

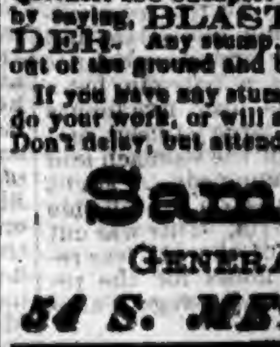
BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER
IN THE WORLD FOR
REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stump than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,
GENERAL AGT'S, ÆTNA POWDER CO.,
54 S. MERIDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.



HUGHES & HUMPHREYS,
SLATE ROOFERS,
[illegible] FORT WAYNE, IND.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY
FISTULA, FISSURES, [illegible] CURED
DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW SURE PAINLESS CURE PATENTED
OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR BRINKERHOFF. CURE WARRANTED.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, AUGUST 24, 1882. Number 34.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5,00 per annum For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana. Office over Mrs. Jones' Store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections Office over Citizens' Bank, Waterloo, Ind.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING, office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th st., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 28 1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor John Butt Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor,

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m. except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week HENRY PROBST.
Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of each township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.
WILSON S. DANCER, Trustee.
April 15, 1882. tf

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice. FREDERICK GRILLER, Trustee.
April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. C. H. BROWN, Trustee.

For Sale.

On account of my wife's illness I offer for sale my threshing machine, clover huller, and ten horse power traction engine all in complete running order. For terms call at my residence two miles west of Waterloo, on Smithfield township line, or address. Wm. Brand, Waterloo, Ind.

The Heberling Shirring and Gathering Machine.

(Improved March 1, 1880.)

The only machine in the world that makes the hand-stitch. Simple, practical and perfect in operation. Doing a large range of material; such as silks, satins, velvets, alpacas, cashmeres, white goods, &c., with one or two rows of stitching at the same time.

Work more regular and beautiful than can be done by hand. Shirrs or gathers adjusted full or scant by drawing thread same as handwork. Will do the work of ten or fifteen hands. Call on Miss C. Wolsey and Mrs. Angie Kuhlman, corner of Main and Fifth street, Auburn, Indiana. 23-12t.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries of the finest quality and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

(SPECTACLES)

Dr. E. C. YETTER,

BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, 12. 9-tf.

Sending a Telegram.

AN EXPERIENCED TRAVELER'S LABORIOUS EFFORTS.

[Burlington Hawkeye.]

One man reached a long arm over the little crowd clustered at the operator's window and asked for a "blank telegraphic form," explaining that he "wished to send a telegraphic dispatch to his family."

Now, when a man speaks of a "telegraphic dispatch" I always wake up and look at him, because the cumbersome title is all at utter variance with the spirit of the telegraph. It is too long. The use of it betrays the man who has little use for the telegraph. The more he uses the wire, the shorter his terms.

The more nearly he can come to saying "msg," the more content he is. And he doesn't call it a "telegraphic form;" he asks for a "blank," black or red, as the case may be. And he never "telegraphs" anybody. He "wires" them. And he doesn't explain to the operator what he wants to do with the blank. Presumably he wants to write a message. And as for the matters referred to in that "msg" and the party for whom it is intended, the operator will know all that he wishes to know—and sometimes much more than you want him to know—soon enough.

So I watched this passenger write his "telegraphic dispatch." First he asked the operator: "What date of the month is this?" There was nothing unusual in that All men asked that. It is the opening line in the regular formula of sending a "msg." You may know what date it is before entering the office, you may even have it impressed upon your mind by having a note fall due on that day, but the moment you poise your pencil over the blank, that date flies from your mind like the toothache from the dentist's stairway. So when the man asked: "What day of the month is this?" I was not surprised. I courteously answered him, as a cover to approaching his position, but he did not believe me. He repeated his question and made the operator answer. Then I knew he was very new at it. He spoiled three blanks before he got a "telegraphical dispatch" written to suit him. But even that, is not very uncommon. A man always uses stationery more extravagantly in another man's office than he does at home. Then he wrote every word in the body of the dispatch very carefully and distinctly, but scrambled over the address as though everybody knew that as well as he did, and dashed off his own signature in a blind letter style, as though his name was as familiar to the operator as it was to his own family. And even this is not uncommon. A man will write "Cunningham" so that no expert under the skies will tell whether it was Covington or Carrington, or Cummagen, or Carrenton, and when the operator points to it and asks: "What is this?" the writer will stare at him in blank amazement for a moment, and then answer: "Why, that's my name!" "Well, yes, I know that," the operator will say; "but what is your name?" Then the man will gasp for breath and catch hold of the desk to keep himself from falling, and finally shout: "Why, Cunningham, of course!!!" and looking pitying upon operator, and then glance about the room with a pained, shocked expression, as one who should say, "Gentlemen, you may not believe it, and I do not blame you, but heaven is my witness—here is a man who does not know that my name is Cunningham!" This is not unusual. Any operator will tell you that he has met Cunningham scores of times, and has mortally offended him every time by asking his name.

Well, my tall man with the thin neck got along a little better than that when he handed the operator the following explicit message:

Mrs. Sarah K. Follinsbee, Dallas Center, Iowa:

MY DEAR WIFE: I left the city early this morning after eating breakfast with Prof. Morton, a live man in the temperance cause. I expected to eat dinner with you at home, but we were delayed by a terrible railroad accident, and I narrowly escaped being killed. One passenger was terribly mangled and has since died, but I am alive. The conductor says I cannot make connections so as to come to Dallas Center this morning, but I can get there by eight o'clock this evening. I hate to disappoint you, but can not help it. With love to mother and the children, I am your loving husband,

ROGER K. FOLLINSBEE.

The operator read it, smiled and said:

"You can save considerable expense, and tell all that is really necessary, I presume, by shortening this message down to ten words. We have no wire directly into Dallas Center and will have to send this message part of the way over another line, which adds largely to the cost of transmission. Shall I shorten this for you?"

"No, Oh, no," the man with shawl replied, "I'll fix it myself. Ten words, you say?"

"Yes, sir."

It was a stunner, for a fact, and the man heaved a despairing sigh as he prepared to boil his "letter" down to ten words. He sighed again after reading it through once or twice, and then scratched out "Dallas Center, Iowa," as though everybody knew where he lived. Then he erased "early" and drew his pen slowly through "breakfast with" and "in the temperance." Then he scratched over "dinner with" and went on to erase "narrowly escaped." And so he went on through the dispatch. Occasionally he would hold it at arm's length after making an erasure, to get at the general effect. And at last, after much scratching and erasing and with many sighs, he came to the window and said:

"Here is this telegraph dispatch to my wife. I have not been able to condense it into ten words, and do not see how it can be done without grabling the sense of the dispatch, but if you can do it, you would oblige me greatly as I do not wish to incur any really unnecessary expense. And with that he handed the operator the following expunged edition of his original message:

Mrs. Sarah H. Follinsbee:

MY DEAR WIFE: I left the city—morning after eating—Prof. Morton a live—cause I expected to eat—you at home. But we were delayed by a terrailroad accident on the railroad. I—being killed—terribly mangled and since died; but I am—the conductor—I can not—come to Dallas Center—but I can.—I hate—mother and the children. Your loving husband,

ROGER K. FOLLINSBEE.

The operator smiled once more, and in his quick, nervous way that grows out of his familiar association with the lightning, made a few quick dashes with his pencil, and without adding or changing a letter in the original message, shriveled it down to its very sinews, like this:

Sarah K. Follinsbee, Dallas Center, Iowa:

Left city 'smorning; delayed by accident; all right; home 'evening.

ROGER K. FOLLINSBEE.

"There, that is all right," he said in the cheery, magnetic way these operators have. "Fifty cents, sir; only twenty-five cents if we had our own wire into Dallas, sir; we'll have one next spring, too; saves you several dollars, sir. That's right, thank you." And the man went and sat down on a chair by the stove and stared at the operator until the rescuing train came along, as though he were a worker of miracles. And when he got off the train at the junction for Dallas I heard him whispering softly to himself: "Shfollinsbee—clishn smorning; nothin' smatter; home saftnoon." And I knew that he was practicing his lesson and had "caught on."

An Iowa Girl.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

Near Garner, Iowa, a little girl engaged in herding cattle has employed her idle hours in moulding from mud the statue of a woman. It is said to be such an artistic piece of work that it has been placed on exhition, and is commended by all who have seen it. "It is the figure of a woman, about a foot high and well proportioned, molded into almost perfect form out of pure black dirt. The skirt and basque of the dress are clearly defined, with buttons and other trimmings. The hat is of stylish make, and can be removed from the head. A grass blade is put on for a collar and fastened with the foot of a crawfish for a pin. But the hand of the artist is shown more especially in the formation of nose, cheek, bust, and general build of form and expression of countenance.

Experience the Best Guide.

The reason why women everywhere use Parker's Ginger Tonic is, because they have learned by experience—the best guide—that this excellent medicine overcomes despondency, periodical headache, indigestion, pain in the back and kidneys, and other troubles of the sex.—mHoe Journal. 31-4t.

First boy—"Are you going off to be a pirate this summer?" Second boy—"I dunno." "I knew you would'n't. You hain't got any girl." "I hain't, eh? I've got just as much as you have, but when a fellow's mother is willing to buy him a goat and a pair of roller skates and a fish-line, what's the need of his turning pirate?"

An aged Scotch lady, knowing the habits of her old and spoiled servant, when she wished a note taken without loss of time, held it open and read it over to him, saying: "There, noo, Andrew, ye ken a' that's in it; noo, dinna stop to open it, but send it aff."

No Bet.

"I do not believe you."

Ethelbert McGuire winced as Myrtle Hathaway spoke them words—cruel, bitter words that seemed to sear his very soul as he stood there in the gloaming, the time of silence and shadows. The swallows were twittering among the trees in their noisy way, the ice-cream[illegible] were casting their baleful light across the broad throroughfare from which the rattle the roar, and crash of life in a great city had but just departed.

"You cannot mean it, Myrtle," the young man says, his voice choked with emotion. "You surely cannot doubt my word—the word of one to whom you plighted your troth, and in whose life your future is bound up."

"But I do mean it," replies the girl, "although God knows my life would not so. I have loved you with a strong, country-butter love that has become a part of my existence. And it is when I have taught my heart to beat responsive to every word, when I have come to believe in you with all the passionate trustfulness of a woman's nature, that you come to me, and here, on this beautiful evening, when the heavens are panoplied with stars, and the air is balmy with the perfume of roses, you say to me that you have never bet on a horse-race—you tell me this solemnly and earnestly, knowing that my heart will not let me judge harshly any action of yours. No, Ethelbert; I love you with a maddening ninety-days-or-ten-per-cent-off-for cash trust that is beyound compare, but I cannot let you abuse the trust. I am a girl—a sensative, passionate, one-bustled-and-a-four-dollar-bang girl, but I am not a chump—" and, sticking her chewing gum on the door post, Myrtle turned to enter the parlor.

"But I swear it, "exclamed Ethelbert. "I swear to you that I would not bet four dollars against ten that Maud S. could beat three minutes."

"You would not?" asked the girl.

"No," was Ethelbert's reply. "I would not bet anything."

"Then," said the girl, speaking slowly, and with grave tenderness, you better head for the gate. I can never place my happiness and chances for spring bonnets in the hands of a man who would let as sure a thing as that get away."—Chicago Tribune.

The Torment of a Monkey.

[New York World.]

I remember once in India giving a tame monkey a lump of sugar inside a corked bottle. The monkey was of an inquiring kind, and it nearly killed it. Sometimes in an impulse of disgust it would throw the bottle away, out of its own reach, and then be distracted till it was given back to it. At others it would sit with a countenance of the most intense dejection, contemplating the bottled sugar, and then, as if pulling itself together for another effort at solution, would sternly take up the problem afresh and gaze into it. It would tilt it up one way and try to drink the sugar out of the neck, and then, suddenly reversing it, try to catch it as it fell out at the bottom. Under the impression that it could capture it by a surprise it kept rapping its teeth against the glass in futile bites, and, warming to the pursuit of the revolving lump, used to tie itself into regular knots round the bottle.

Fits of the most ludicrous melancholy would alternate with these spasms of furious speculation, and how the matter would have ended it is impossible to say. But the monkey one night got away and took the bottle with it, and it has always been a delight to me to think that whole forestfuls of monkeys have by this time puzzled themselves into fits over the great problem of bottled sugar. What profound theories those long tailed philosophers must have envolved! What polemical acrimony that bottle must have provoked! And what a Confucius the original monkey must have become! A single morning with such a sanhedrim discussing such a matter surely have satiatated even a Swift with satire.

Sudden Blindness.

[Harrisburg (Penn.) Telegraph]

William Snellbaker, of Conewago township, during the early part of last week, had been very busy at work on the farm. On Wednesday he did a heavy day's work, loading and unloading hay, and in the evening, while sitting on a chair, he was taken suddenly ill and fell to the ground. When he had partially recovered consciousness it was found that he was stricken with total blindness, and he has not been able to see since.

Carrying Their Husbands.

At one time the Duke of Bavonia was besieged in his castle and was compelled to surrender. His lady demanded for herself and the other ladies of the castle that they be permitted to go out in safety with all that they could carry on their backs. This was granted, and to the surprise of all, the ladies appeared carrying their husbands on their backs, and for the devotion the Emperor pardoned them all and set them at liberty. There are many women who, by their industry and economy, to the shame of the ablebodied men be it said, are carrying their husbands and their whole households, either by earning all the money themselves, or by economizing with the little that comes into their fingers, while the husbad squanders the evenings in a dissolute and voluptuous life.

People who think of going west to "grow up with the country" would do well to consider the inducements offered by Calabazas, Arizona, and vicinity. Calabazas, though at present it has a population of only 240 souls, appears to be a very lively and enterprising town. The inhabitants (according to an apparently veracious correspondent) drink nothing but bottled lightning, which is sold at twenty-four establishments. On an average "a man is served for breakfast" once a week, and other exciting events of daily occurrence are rapidly filling the graveyard. An American killed a Mexican the other day, the coroner was summoned, and the whole town turned out to enjoy the fun. For the purpose of having fair play, the murderer was made foreman of the jury, which after due deliberation returned a verdict of these words:

"We, the jury impaneled in the above case, do declare that the name of the deceased, when living, was Jose Moreno; that a stiff Arizona zephyr was blowing across the plains on Tuesday evening, and the wind concentrating on one point, a hole was bored through said Moreno, and he died in consequence."

The Calabazas aristocracy indulged in a dance, recently, during the progress of which Nevada Jim, Bill Moroney and Jack Kingsbury quarreled over a Mexican girl with whom all three gallants were anxious to dance. In the discussion Moroney dropped with a bullet in his forehead. His body was dragged to one side and the cotillion went on as before, the dead man's staring eyes being plainly visible to all in the room. Later in the evening Moroney's friends concluded to avenge his death. Lead flew as lead only flies in Calabazas. Fifty shots were fired in fifty seconds. There was yelling and screaming and cursing. Nearly every man and woman in the crowd was "pumping" his or her revolver for dear life. It was all over within a minute, but three men lay dead, and four men and three women were seriously wounded. At another aristocratic ball the Mexicans and the Americans quarreled, and the latter becoming very domineering, made a demand on the greasers for an unconditional surrender of the party, women and all. Pistols and knives came into play, and in twenty minutes nearly every person on both sides, male and female, was either dead or wounded. A non-consumer of tarantula whisky is considered a detriment to the community and is invariably run out of town as soon as his character is discovered. Another little incident will further illustrate the unique qualities of the Calabazans. Some time ago a few Chinamen arrived in town and opened a laundry. Several citizens, who had washing done and were amazed at the presentation of a bill for the service, declared that Calabazas was no place for a heathen. In thirty minutes not a dish, box, tub or piece of furniture belonging to the heathen remained, and after stripping them of their money they sent them away with a promise of death if they returned. All of which goes to show, as remarked in the beginning, that Calabazas is a peculiarly active and energetic town, and bids fair to become a a second Chicago.—Times-Star.

"When did George Washington die?" asked an Austin teacher of a large boy "Is he dead?" was the astonished reply. "Why, it is not more than six months ago that they were celebrating his birthday, and now he is dead. It's a bad year on children. I reckon his folks let him eat something that didn't agree with him."—[Texas Siftings.

—Now, while work is pressing, you can save time and money by getting your supplies at Weiricks, at Fairfield. tf.

FORT WAYNE

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

(Incorporated 1871.)

For Catalogue and Particulars, address C. F. W. MEYER, Principal.

FORT WAYNE, IND. 27-8.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Samuel Morr, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent. NOAH MORR,
James E. Rose Attorney. Administrator.
August 8th, 1882. 32-3w.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, } In the DeKalb Circuit
DeKalb County, ss. } Court, Sept. term, 1882.

Charles M. Lovington and the Singer Manufacturing Company, impleaded with others, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court, to foreclose a mortgage and appoint a receiver, by Jacob Semers, and that the same will be heard and determined on the first juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences on the 25th day of September, 1882.

Witness, The Clerk of said court, this 8th day of August, 1882. JOHN W. BAXTER, Clerk.
W. H. Dills Attorney. 32-3w.

Administrator's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned administrator of the estate of Samuel Morr, deceased, will offer for sale at public auction at the late residence of said decedent, in Concord township, DeKalb county Indiana, on Saturday, September 2d, 1882, the personal property of said estate, consisting of horses, cows, hogs, cattle, wagon, buggy and farming implements, hay grain, household and kitchen furniture and various other articles. Sale to commence at nine o'clock a. m. Terms: Sums of five dollars or under, cash: over five dollars, a credit of nine months will be given, the purchaser giving his note at interest, waiving benefit of valuation and appraisement laws with approved security.
32-3w. NOAH MORR, Adm'r.

MONEY to loan on improved farms in sums of $2000 or more at six per cent. No delay. U. M. STODDORD,
28-4w. Indianapolis, Ind.

LAKE SHORE & MICHIGAN SOUTHERN Railway.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y.Ex.	At. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	3 35pm
Elkhart	1 30pm	10 15	1 00am	7 00am
Kendallville	2 48	11 30	5 20	12 10pm
Corunna	2 58		6 25
Sedan			7 00
Waterloo	3 10	11 55	7 30
Butler	3 24	12 10am	8 20
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi Ex.	Pac. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 20	4 05pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	2 35	4 50	9 20
Sedan			5 05	10 02
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 05
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 35	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	6 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	8 20

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m., and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:05 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage J. E. CURTIS,
Supt. M. ch. Div., Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG,
Agent Waterloo Ind.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAILROAD—CHICAGO Division.

IN EFFECT FROM MAY 21, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast.	W. & B. Express	W. & C Ex.
Chicago lv	5 10pm	10 50pm	8 10am
Walkerton Junction	8 11	1 56am	11 14
Milford Junction	9 16	3 10	12 25
Syracuse		3 22	12 35pm
Cromwell		3 38	12 51
Albion		4 00	1 12
Avilla		4 22	1 34
Garrett	10 35	4 45	2 00
Auburn Junction	10 42	4 54	2 08
St. Joe
Hicksville	11 14	5 30	2 42
Defiance	11 53	6 13	3 24
Deshler	12 45am	7 10	4 20
Fostoria	1 39	8 07	5 15
Tiffin	2 02	8 35	5 45
Chicago Junction ar	3 00	9 45	6 50

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
Chicago Junction lv	9 50pm	6 40pm	8 05am
Tiffin	10 35	7 56	9 14
Fostoria	11 02	8 25	9 40
Deshler	11 58	9 42	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville	1 47	11 42	12 28pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 28	12 18am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 45
Avilla		12 88	1 58
Albion		1 02	2 21
Cromwell		1 26	2 45
Syracuse		1 40	3 02
Milford Junction		1 56	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 14	4 30
Chicago ar	8 35	5 55	7 10

FT. WAYNE, CINCINNATI & LOUISVILLE Railroad,

In effect April 16, 1882.

SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS.	NORTHWARD.
No 3 Express	No. 1 Mail.		No. 2 Mail	No. 4 Ex.
5 40pm	10 20am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	[illegible]	[illegible]
6 47	11 20	Bluffton	[illegible]	[illegible]
7 50	12 18pm	Hartford	[illegible]	7 47
8 40	1 10pm	Muncie	[illegible]	[illegible]
		Cincinnati
10 30pm	6 03	Indianapolis	11 05	[illegible]

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. B. CAMPBELL, General Ticket Agt.

AT NIGHT.

At night, when work is done, 'mid shadows gray that darken
And cling about the window, where once the sun was bright,
Sweet sounds come back again to which we used to hearken
At night!

At night, tho' we are old, and the gray shadows clinging
Presage to us that [illegible] where there is no more light!
Sometimes there come again sweet airs of childhood's singing,
At night!

At night we two may sit in shadow, open-hearted,
Long since the time is passed when hope was all in sight!
Softly singing the songs of happy days departed,
At night!

At night the cricket's voice sounds through the shadows dreary;
Our songs, alas! like his, have neither charm nor weight!
We only rest and sing hushed hopes and voices weary.
At night!
—[The Argosy.

MRS WHITAKER'S DEAF EAR.

Charles Heber Clark in Our Continent.

Mrs. Whitaker was deaf in one ear. It was her right ear, and it was stone deaf.

Mrs. Whitaker had acquired a habit of sleeping upon her left side, with her deaf ear up, and this had often been a source of annoyance to her husband, who was nervous and irritable, while she was a woman whose calmness and serenity of disposition were remarkable.

Sleeping with her deaf ear up Mrs. Whitaker was at night rarely disturbed by noises which robbed her husband of his rest. The hum of the mosquitoes which maddened him was not heard by her. A passing thunder storm which roused him in a summer night, and sent him flying about to close the windows, would leave her in perfect unconsciousness of its existence. The noises in the street and the rattling of the window-sashes upon windy nights frequently filled Mr. Whitaker with vexation, as they deprived him of sleep but his wife slumbered sweetly on and heard them not. Indeed, it rarely happened that she heard the crying of the baby until Mr. Whitaker, indignant at its refusal to go to sleep, would rouse her by shaking her, and would ask her to try to soothe the little one.

Mr. Whitaker had often remonstrated with his wife about this habit of sleeping with her deaf ear up, and she had often replied good-humoredly, with a promise to try to remember to break herself of it, but somehow or other it continued to cling to her.

One night in winter time Mr. Whitaker sat up in his library till a late hour reading a book in which he was very much interested. His wife retired early. Mr. Whitaker finally closed his book, and after locking the front door, went down in the cellar, in accordance with his custom, to see if the furnace fire had been fixed properly for the night. While he was poking it a gust of wind came through the screen upon one of the cellar windows and slammed the door leading into the back hallway above, through which he had come. For a moment Mr. Whitaker did not think of the matter particularly, but suddenly he remembered that he had put a spring-lock on the other side of that door, and the thought struck him that the catch might possibly be down. He ascended the stairs and tried the door. The catch was down, and he had no key. He was locked in the cellar, for the key of the out-cellar door he knew was in the kitchen.

He could hardly think what he had better do about the matter, but finally he concluded to try to make his wife hear him and come to his rescue. He seized the long and heavy furnace poker, and inserting the crook of it above the bell-wire that rang along the joist of the cellar ceiling, he pulled. The bell jangled loudly, but it was in the kitchen, and Mrs. Whitaker was in the front room in the second story. Would she hear it? He pulled the wire again, twice; then he sat down on the steps and waited. There was no response. It then flashed upon the mind of the imprisoned man that Mrs. Whitaker was probably sleeping with the deaf ear up.

This increased his growing irritation, and he pulled the bell-wire with the poker fifteen or twenty times.

"I could hear that a mile from here if I were deaf as a post!" he exclaimed, as he threw the poker on the floor and took his seat again, with the bell still vibrating.

But Mrs. Whitaker did not hear the noise, for no sound of her coming reached the ears of her impatient and indignant husband.

He grew angrier every moment. He felt a sense of injustice. It seemed unkind, inhuman for his wife to be sleeping away calmly upstairs while he was locked up in the dismal recesses of the cellar.

"I'll make her hear me, or I'll break something," he exclaimed, seizing the poker and hooking it upon the bell-wire. Then he pulled the wire with such furious energy that he broke it, and the jangling of the bell died away into silence.

"It is a little short of scandalous," said Mr. Whitaker in a rage. "I have spoken so often to Ellen about sleeping with her deaf ear up, that it looks like malice, deliberate, fiendish malice, when she persists in doing it."

What would he do next? He could not stay in the cellar all night, and he did not like to batter down the door with the poker. A happy thought! He went to the furnace, and, with the help of the hatchet from the kindling-wood pile, he cut the tin flue which conveyed the heat up to Mrs. Whitaker's room. Certainly he could compel her to hear him now. He put his mouth to the broken flue and called "El-len—El-len!" Then he stopped and listened. He thought he could hear Ellen breathing softly in her sleep, but he was not certain. He called again more loudly, and then put his fingers in his mouth and whistled. "Probably I can wake the baby, anyhow, and the baby will wake her," he said; but no response came down the flue. The baby seemed to be sleeping with almost supernatural soundness, [illegible] manifestly, Mrs. Whitaker had her deaf ear up.

[illegible] Whitaker was almost beside himself with rage. "A woman," he said, "who would treat her husband in such a manner as this, is capable of anything. Either Ellen will stop sleeping with her deaf ear up, or we will seperate." A third time he applied his lips to the tin pipe, and bawled into it until he was hoarse. He thought he heard his spouse walking across the floor, but when he called again there was no response, and he knew that he was mistaken.

The soul of Mr. Whitaker was filled with gloom. In his anger he indulged in sardonic humor. "I suppose she rather relishes having me down in the cellar here all night; it is a good joke! But let her take care! She may laugh upon the other side of her mouth before we are done with this business!" And he laughed a wild and bitter laugh.

Poor Mrs. Whitaker sleeping sweetly upstairs, in perfect unconsciousness, would have been deeply pained to learn how gravely her husband wronged her.

"I must get out of here somehow or other," said Mr. Whitaker. "The window is small, but I can crawl through it, I reckon, if I try."

He unhooked the frame containing the wire screen which protected the window and pushed it outward. Then procuring a wash-tub and climbing from it to the window-sill, he thrust his head out and dragged his body through. When he reached the front pavement his face was covered with cobwebs and his clothes with coal dust; but he exulted in thought that he was a free man.

He took his dead-latch key from his pocket and was about to try to open the front door, when he remembered that he had locked the door and put up the chain bolt. There was no use trying to ring the bell. The wire was broken, and Mrs. Whitaker wouldn't hear the bell if the wire hadn't been broken. There was but one last hope of making her hear, and that was by throwing gravel stones against the window. Mr. Whitaker tried the experiment. The first handful produced no effect. The sleeper did not hear it. Neither did she hear the second handful, nor the third, nor the tenth, which was dashed against the glass with such violence that Mr. Whitaker expected to see it shivered to fragments.

Mr. Whitaker was at his wit's end. There was a faint light burning in the room, and as he looked up at it and thought of his wife slumbering quietly on while he was in such great trouble, his wrath grew so fierce that he felt capable of doing something really terrible. But what should he do? The poor lady was as much beyond his reach for the time, as if she were in China. He thought for a moment of trying to borrow a ladder; but where could he get a ladder in the middle of the night? No; as his sense of personal injury deepened he more and more firmly resolved that he would punish Ellen somehow or other for her indifference. As he could not obtain admission to his own house, why should he not fly? Why should he not go off somewhere and give his wife something to worry over in repayment for all the worng she had inflicted upon him by persisting, against his earnest and repeated remonstrance, in sleeping with her deaf ear up?

Mr. Whitaker turned passionately away from the house and walked rapidly down the street. He had no particular destination in his mind, but he hurried along with a vague notion that he might, perhaps, go to a hotel when he felt calmer. In a few moments he came to the railroad depot not far from his dwelling. It was brilliantly lighted, and as he looked at it he remembered that a train started for New York at midnight. He walked into the waiting-room. The minute-hand on the huge marble clock indicated three or four minutes of 12. Mr. Whitaker rushed up to the ticket-office and bought a ticket for New York. Then he hurried into the car and took a seat. He had upon his head his velvet smoking-cap, so that his appearance did not excite remark. Presently the train started, and Mr. Whitaker actually felt a kind of malicious joy as he thought he would soon be far away from his wife.

It was a slow train, and he had plenty of time to think, and as he thought his passion began to cool, and the conviction began to press in upon him that he had been behaving very foolishly. How absurd it was to blame poor Ellen because he had locked himself in the cellar! He pictured her lying by the side of the baby, calm in the belief that he was still sitting in the library. This recalled to his mind her deaf ear and her fondness for sleeping with it up. Then he had a revulsion of feeling and he began to grow angry again. But this was a mere flash. Steadily he advanced toward a more reasonable view of the situation, and as he did so he concluded that it would be a great act of folly to go all the way to New York. He asked the conductor the name of the next station. It was Bristol. He made up his mind to get out there and to go home early in the morning. He really felt badly to think how much alarmed and distressed his wife would be when she discovered his absence.

When he stepped from the train at Bristol rain was falling quite rapidly, and one feeble light in front of the station shone through the deep darkness. Mr. Whitaker inquired of the man upon the platform the way to a hotel, and then he started to go to it. In descending the wet and slippery steps of the platform he lost his footing and fell. He was very much hurt, and found that he could not rise. He called for help, and when the railroad man—the only man who was anywhere about—came to him, he discovered that further assistance would be required, for Mr. Whitaker's leg was broken.

The man soon brought three other men, and placing the hurt man upon a board they carried him to the hotel and sent for a doctor.

If Mr. Whitaker, sitting in the car, had thought himself a very foolish man, what did Mr. Whitaker, lying far away from home in a wretched hotel, with his broken leg, think of himself? Mr. Whitaker thought that if there is a colossal idiot on this earth, he was that personage.

Early in the morning he sent a telegram to his wife, urging her to come to him at once, and right speedily came a reply from her, saying that she would take the train which ordinarily reached Bristol at 9 o'clock.

From the window of his bed-room in the hotel the invalid could see the station and the railroad, and as he watched them, while he longed for the train to come, he tried to arrange in his mind, for his wife, an explanation of his conduct which would present it in the best possible light.

Senseless anger is one of the things that defies justification, and a man's very sense that his wife's love makes her capacity for forgiveness almost illimitable only tends to deepen his shame when he is conscious of having wronged her.

Mr. Whitaker resolved, after thinking the matter over, that the best thing to do would be frankly to confess his fault, and to throw himself upon his wife's mercy.

He heard the whistle which announced the approach of the 9 o'clock train. The train came in view and drew up at the station. Mr. Whitaker looked eagerly at the persons who got out of the cars, but Ellen was not among them. She had not come. He fell back upon the bed with a sigh, and began again to grow angry with her.

But the poor woman was on the train. Alarmed by the discovery when she rose in the morning that Mr. Whitaker was not in the house, her alarm was increased when she received the telegram sent by him. What could be the explanation of the mystery of his disappearance? She was so agitated that she could hardly prepare for the journey. But she reached the depot and got into the car, and began to move toward Bristol. Somewhat weary from too great nervous excitement, she placed her muff against the frame of the car-window and rested her head upon it, while her veil covered her closed eyes. Unhappily she had arranged herself with her deaf ear up, and so she did not hear the conductor when he shouted "Bristol!" and she was so deeply absorbed in thinking of Mr. Whitaker that she did not notice that the train had stopped.

When he found that his wife had not come, Mr. Whitaker made up his mind to go home at all hazards. A steamboat stopped at the wharf at half past 9, on its way to the city; and borne upon a litter he had himself carried on board. In an hour he was at the city wharf, whence a wagon carried him to his house. He was shocked and disappointed to ascertain from the servant that Mrs. Whitaker had gone to see him in the train in which she said she would go. He could not comprehend why she had missed him; and all day long he lay in bed worrying about her and wondering why she did not come.

Mrs. Whitaker got back to Bristol about noon, and ascertained by inquiry that her husband had returned, with a broken leg, to the city. There was no train that she could take until 4 o'clock, and she spent the interval in inquiring about the accident to Mr. Whitaker, and in trying vainly to ascertain the reason of his extraordinary conduct.

About half past 5 o'clock he heard her voice in the lower entry. He listened eagerly to her quick footsteps upon the stairs. Then she flung the door open. Mrs. Whitaker did not speak as she entered the room. She uttered a little cry, flew to the bedside, and put her arms about her husband's neck and kissed him.

Mr. Whitaker felt that if he should have exact justice dealt to him he would be sent to the scaffold.

When she had nearly smothered him with kisses she sat down beside him, and taking hold of his hand, said;

"And now, dearest, tell me what has caused all this strange trouble?"

"Why, you know, Ellen," said Mr. Whitaker, "it was your deaf ear?"

"How do you mean?"

"You slept with it up."

And then Mr. Whitaker related the whole story, and as he did so his wife began to cry.

"I am so sorry," she said. "I will promise you never to sleep with my deaf ear up again; never, never, never!"

"Ellen," responded Mr. Whitaker, "you will do me a favor if you will always sleep with it up, and stuff cotton in your other ear beside! I have behaved like a wretch."

Then the doctor, who had been vainly pulling at the broken bell-wire, knocked upon the front door and came in to examine Mr. Whitaker's fractured leg.

How They Parted and Met.

Atlanta Constitution.

About thirty years ago Judge Cincinnatus Peeples found it necessary to order a tanner out of his law office, in Hall county. The tanner was a poor, shiftless fellow, named Wilson, and shortly after drifted to Atlanta, where he secured work at fifty cents a day. In 1868 Judge Peeples went to New York on important financial business for the state. He was directed to the great banking house of R. T. Wilson & Co. He sent in his card, and after waiting a while was ushered into an elegant office. A fine-looking man introduced himself as Wilson, and reminded the judge that he was the poor tanner he had ordered out of his office many years ago. Judge Peeples, thoroughly astonished, never dreamed that this ex-tanner was at the head of the bank, but thought he was probably related to the proprietor and had secured a clerkship. Mr. Wilson invited the judge to dine with him, and at 5 o'clock the judge found himself in one of the finest houses on Fifth avenue. While awaiting his host a superb lady entertained him, and Judge Peeples was overwhelmed with the consciousness that the day-laborer had really become the great banker. He then became uneasy, for fear he should drop some allusion to the humble origin of the husband of the splendid lady to whom he was talking. At length she said: "Judge Peeples, where do you think I spent the two happiest years of my life?" The judge thought of Paris, Saratoga and Venice, but was hesitating, when Mrs. Wilson said: "Why, at Papa Wilson's log cabin, in Hall county, where my husband took me when we were first married."

The Future of the Head.

London Lancet.

Abundant hair is not a sign of bodily or mental strength, the story of Samson having given rise to the notion that hairy men are strong physically, while the fact is that the Chinese, who are the most enduring of all races, are mostly bald, and as to the supposition that long and thick hair is a sign and token of intellectuality, all antiquity, all madhouses and all common observation are against it. The easily wheedled Esau was hairy. The mighty Cæsar was bald. Long-haired men are generally weak and fanatical, and men with scant hair are the philosophers and soldiers and statesmen of the world.

THE EGYPTIAN MUDIRS.

Why They Do Not Take Sides—A Romance of Upper Egypt.

New York Herald.

The fact that Europeans still remain in Upper Egypt would indicate that the populations residing beyond the limits of cities and larger towns, with their habitual wariness about going to war, have not as yet taken any direct or at least serious part in the outbreak. The action of the Governor of Minieh, 136 miles up the Nile from Cairo, was a perfectly natural proceeding for that official, when he refused to permit any interference with the administration of the railways. The province of which Minieh is the capital is agriculturally one of the richest in Egypt, and the Governor considers himself an important factor in the governmental machinery along the Nile. When travelers stop there he generally provides an elaborate Turkish dinner, the inevitable chi-books and coffee, and gayly caparisoned asses and donkeys on which to mount to visit the points of interest lying beyond the town. Then follows the fantiseer, with the Egyptian dancing girls; the gwhasee, which holds the party far beyond midnight to the sound of revelry and the rude native music. Few of the large towns along the river have ever had a heartier or more hospitable Mudir than Minieh. The town is simply a mud city of some 15,000 souls, dwelling near the bank of the river in all the squalor peculiar to the Egyptian habitations. In these settlements, and as such they are, further to the southward, the entire population—men, women and children—are made to work. The Mudir holds his appointment from the Khedive or through the Minister of the Interior, who manages the entire local administration. The Mudir has supreme charge of the taxation in his province; in fact, is king of the domains over which his jurisdiction extends. He must, however, be careful to see that every intermediate official between himself and the Khedive receives handsome presents, and neither must they be insignificant in point of value, usually consisting of a handsome bag of British sovereigns with proffers of eternal gratitude. At least annually the Mudir makes a visit to Cairo, and there he is expected to signalize his advent in the capital by substantial testimonials to the Khedive. These generally take the form not only of money but also of the handsomest Egyptian maidens whom he can find in the province. Nor is their social quality respected. There have been in years gone by terrible reprisals on account of the ruthless depredation of the household. Among the more spirited Bedouin Arabs, when their daughters and sisters have been seized for the harem of the Mudir or the Khedive, the scheme of blood revenge has been developed, and retribution has followed until whole families have been swept away. It thus appears that the Mudir is but a slave of the ruling power in Cairo, making the better Governor when he can excel in pandering to his immediate superior, the Minister, and then to the Khedive. Thus it is that when Arabi, now the supreme power at Cairo, calls on the six Mudirs of Upper Egypt for 500 horses and 650 camels they will be forthcoming or the Mudirs will lose their positions.

A ROMANCE OF UPPER EGYPT.

It is not always safe for a Governor of a province to ride among the people whom he has plundered and oppressed and whose families he has entered with the lust that most loathsome of all creatures, the Turkish libertine. It also not unfrequently happens that the Governors are nothing but common assassins, who are called upon to execute the summary and secret vengeance of some minister or favorite at court of whom they stand in awe. A case that occurred while the Herald correspondent was in the upper country is directly to the point. A Turkish official of high rank—he was a Bey—had long been a favorite of the Khedive at Cairo, for they had been educated together in France. This official was, therefore, a great deal around the palace, and it occurred to the Khedive's mother that she would like to marry off a favorite child of the harem to a gallant officer in receipt of large pay. The Bey was summoned by the Khedive and told that his mother had found him a wife—a wondrous creature. Of course in the East such an intimation to a subordinate is simply a command; yet while the Bey submitted, he secretly chafed at what he considered a gross imposition upon a friend, a Turkish aristocrat, and an officer accustomed to European liberties and customs. The marriage took place, and was a grand fete, costing many thousand dollars. Of course the Bey had never looked upon her face until after the nuptial knot was tied, and when he did neither the countenance nor the owner thereof was to his liking. Two years went by and the Khedive's mother perceived that the young wife was slowly pining away. At last persistent inquiry made the girl disclose that from the very hour of the ceremony the Bey had declined to trea her as his wife. The Khedive's mother—a perfect tigress—hastened to his Highness and demanded that the Bey should be put to death instantly. He could not refuse. The Bey was immediately seized, conveyed by a guard, 1,800 miles to the Soudan, and upon his arrival the Governor General was ordered to strangle him; but the Governor General happened to be the life-long friend of the condemned man and allowed him to live. Six different orders were sent to kill him, but not one of them was obeyed. The Herald correspondent was the guest of this gentleman in the Soudan for over two months, and these facts came from his own lips. A better educated man one seldom finds in the world's travel. His books were Michelet, Victor Hugo, About, Schiller, Goethe, Heine, Irving, De Tocqueville, and others. He finally joined caravans with the Herald correspondent on a journey of 1,500 miles to Cairo, and returned to Khartoum to become Governor General in the very capital where he had been sent to be put to death. He has since been Minister of Public Instruction in the service of the present Khedive.

After Only Two Years.

"Give me the child."

As Beryl McCloskey spoke these words she looked into the face of Vivian Fairhope, the man to whom two years agone she had given the most precious treasure of a woman's life, her love, and in the delicate lines of her lovely face there was an expression that told more plainly than could words of a deep resolve the woman had taken.

Little Beatrice had been uneasy all the day, and now that the summer day was drawing to a close, and the long lines of rosy light that streamed up from below the Western horizon seemed to rest like a benediction upon the heated earth. She was crying in the querulous, impatient way that brings alarm to a mother's heart.

Vivian handed the child to Beryl. "What are you going to do, darling?" he said. Looking at him with deep brown eyes from which gleamed a passionate love-light, Beryl said in tones of thrilling tenderness:

"I am going to spank it dizzy."

A Millionaire's Prize Dollar.

From the Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin.

Ebenezer Learned, of this city, succeeded George Martin some time ago as Superintendent of the Park Congregational Sunday-school, the latter gentleman feeling obliged to resign on account of ill-health. Although Mr. Learned took the position at the earnest solicitation of the school, he announced his inability to accept office for any length of time, but in his ardor to see the membership increased during his administration he said to the school on the first Sunday: "I have a bright silver dollar in my pocket which is to be given to the person who brings the largest number of new scholars to the Sunday-school while I am Superintendent." A few Sundays ago John F. Slater, the wealthy manufacturer, observed a bevy of small children looking admiringly at the Park Church, and overheard one of them say: "I should like to go to church there." Catching the words, he approached the interested group, and assured them that they could attend church there on the following Sunday, and agreed to meet them at the door and to give them seats. The following Sunday six bright-faced, tidy children were on the church steps to greet him when he came, and he politely ushered them in to his pew. At the conclusion of the services he asked them if they would not like to attend the Sunday-school, and again their little faces lit up with joy as they accepted the invitation of their unknown acquaintance. He conducted them to the school room door, and they were added to the classes. They proved to be little strangers whose parents had recently moved to this city. The next Sunday the whole seven children representing the new family were in their places. Superintendent Learned was in his, but at his request his successor had been appointed and he was about to withdraw. Mr. Slater, who is a member of the church, knew nothing of the Superintendent's prize dollar, and the school was startled when Mr. Learned announced that "John F. Slater had added seven pupils to the school and was the winner of the prize." The coin was forwarded by letter to the famous millionaire, to whom it was a pleasant surprise. He duly acknowledged the receipt, and will treasure it as a symbol of one of the most agareable memories of his life.

An Extraordinary Nihilist Story.

The St. Petersberg correspondent of the Paris Voltaire guarantees the authenticity of the following statement: Shortly after the opening of the Moscow Exhibition, which was recently inaugurated by the Grand Duke Vladimir, a young man demanded an audience of the Chief of the Police at St. Petersburg. As he refused to state his errand to any of the subordinate officials, he was after being searched, admitted to the presence of the General. He then stated that he was sent by the Revolutionary party, and explained his mission in the following terms: "The Emperor is prevented from going to Moscow by his fear of our schemes. His dread will cease to be justified whenever he grants a Constitution. Then he need fear no conspiracy, and can go in safety wherever he pleases. It has fallen to my lot to inform you that if the Emperor persists in his reactionary policy nothing can save him. Neither myself nor my friends wish to murder him treacherously. Alexander III. is warned as was Alexander II. We do not assassinate, but we render justice." At this point of the interview the police officer seemed anxious to call in assistance, but the young Nihilist stopped him, and added; "I do not wish to be subjected to the indignity of torture. In coming here I have sacrificed my life. I could have killed you, but we do not commit murder uselessly." With these words the youth stepped back a few paces, and knocked two large buttons, with which his cuffs were fastened, against his forehead. The buttons being full of an explosive substance, burst, and inflicted such wounds on the young man that he died a few minutes afterward, leaving no traces as to his identity. This sensational incident has reminded the public that the murder of Alexander II. was preceded by similar warnings.

Why Some Farmers Do Not Succeed.

Southern Farmers' Monthly.

The following reasons why some farmers do not succeed:

They are not active and industrious.

They are slothful in everything.

They do not keep up with improvements.

They are wedded to old methods.

They give no attention to details.

They think small things not important.

They take no pleasure in their work.

They regard labor as a misfortune.

They weigh and measure stingily.

They are wasteful and improvident.

They let their gates sag and fall down.

They let their fowls roost in the trees.

They have no shelter for stock.

They do not curry their horses.

They leave their plows in the field.

They hang the harness in the dust.

They put off greasing the wagon.

They starve the calf and milk the cow.

They don't know the best is the cheapest.

They have no method or system.

They see no good in a new thing.

They never use paint on the farm.

They prop the barn door with a rail.

They milk the cows late in the day.

They have no time to do things well.

They do not read the newspapers and books.

JOCOSITIES.

"Marriage keeps men out of mischief." So does a ball and chain.

A young man by the name of Neck was recently married to Miss Heels; they are now, therefore, tied neck and heels together.

"Sweet sixteen" is all bosh when referring to girl. At that age she is the crossest and most imprudent of any period of her life, being too old to spank and not old enough to box her mother.

James took his girl out the other night and it was quite late when he reached home. He says he would have preferred to have been on a less equal footing by her father.

Men's nightgowns are now built with pockets in. This will fill a want long felt by commercial travelers who have heretofore been compelled to claw around under the pillow when they need their flask.

When the wife of a candidate begins already to pay back tea an coffee borrowed six years ago, it my be set down as a fixed fact that her husband will make the race even if he fails to get the regular party nomination.

Jumbo is the first Englishman of note that ever landed in America with only one trunk and no umbrella. His large and increasing popularity is largely due to the fact that he can not go back and write a book about us.

"What is home without an oil can?
What is home without a poker?
What is home without a woman?
And a man to hug and choke her?
What is home without a garden,
And a faithful wife to make it,
And a darling whom the parents
Both can often take and shake it?"

There is considerable difference between lawyers and doctors handling a case. The more lawyers there are in case the longer the case will last, but the more doctors there are in a case the shorther work they make of it.

An old Scotchman attributes the disappearance of ghosts from the Scottish moors to the custom of tea-drinking at social meetings. It requires Scotch whisky on the top of old ale to enable a man to see a ghost really worth talking about.

There is nothing like a tender wife's explanation. A Troy man named Hammond took a lot of poison the other day, and when the doctor who came to pump it out of him asked Mrs. H. why he did it, she promptly responded, "because he is a fool." and went on vigorously hemming a gingham apron. The pumping was successful.

A prominent Granger from Onion Creek was in Austin yesterday. Desiring to obtain some reliable figures about the oat crop, we asked him if he could tell us precisely how many acres he had in oats and how many bushels he raised to the acre. "I can't give you the precise figures, but I raised a heap, sold right smart, and I've got a powerful lot left."

Mrs. Brown—"Dear me, Mrs. Jones are those tall young ladies really yours? I had no idea you had daughters grown up." Mrs. Jones (who is still possessed of considerable personal attraction)—"Oh, yes! I was was married at fifteen, you know! And is that young gentleman really your son?" Mrs. Brown (who is also possessed of ditto ditto ditto—"Yes—a—I was married at twelve."

A dispatch in one of the Chicago papers announces that a man has been "wounded by a bicycle." If any weapon of warfare has been invented by which bicycles can be shot at the enemy, it will be a sweet boon to the country, though the riders should be dismounted and shot out of a separate gun. It would be an interesting sight in the hospitals during the next month to see the doctors probing a man to remove a bicycle.

"Little Johnny" in San Francisco Argonaut: "Once there was a revival of lidgion in the town where Mister Gipple kept a glassware store and everybody was going wild with good. One day there was a feller, tendin' store for Mister Gipple, and a mighty good woman she cum wid a Bible and said young man du you keep the Commandments? The feller who hailed from Sacramento and didn't know what them was, said yes mum we do but the boss was a settin' 'em one side yisterday and fell and broke every one. We shall have some more and better ones from Frisco in a few days—cum in next week, mum."

Odd Stories and Happenings.

For the first time in seventy-five years Putnam county, Georgia, is without a saloon.

In Elberton, Ga., during a recent rain, a large turtle fell from the clouds into the streets.

In Grant county, Kentucky, a horse was bitten by a mad dog and died of hydrophobia. Over twenty-five dogs feasted on the carcass, went mad, and had to be killed.

The liquor drank in Louisiana costs $47,000,000—$2,000,000 more than its combined cotton, sugar, and rice crop. Virginia drinks up her entire wheat crop annually.

A toper of Carson, Nev., boasts that he has not once gone to bed sober since 1854, and that in that time there was not a single day in which he did not take fifty drinks of whisky.

The ball that put out Peter Vandemark's eye came out of his shoulder a few days ago. It was sent by a Rebel sharpshooter in the late war, but was supposed to have glanced off. He has enjoyed good health since then.

The most astonished man the Clerk of the O'Brien county (Iowa) Court ever saw was one who recently applied for a marriage license, and nearly went crazy when he found that just twenty-four hours before another fellow had secured a license to marry the same girl.

After a Smith county, (Va.,) well-digger dug 300 feet down he went through with a plunge into a subterranean lake, the distance between the earth and the water being several feet. A small boat was let down and he sailed over five miles, when he found the outlet to be a spring in the side of a hill.

An infant son of Mr. Ruel D. Hall was recently named Blaine Chandler, and, in recognition of the fact, he has just received a massive silver cup bearing the inscription: "Presented to Blaine Chandler Hall by James G. Blaine and William E. Chandler."

AN ELEPHANT LOOSE.

Emperor Runs A Muck Through the Streets of Troy.

Barnum's show exhibited in Troy, New York, on Wednesday, and about midnight many residents were treated to an entertainment not put down in the bill. The evening performance closed at about ten o'clock, and immediate arrangements were made to transfer the menagerie to Gloversville. The elephants and larger animals were driven down River street to the Rensselaer & Saratoga railroad bridge, with a view of crossing the latter to take cars on Green Island for Gloversville. The camel, Jumbo and several other elephants filed into the bridge all right, but one of the large elephants, known as the Emperor, became unruly and manifested a disposition to continue down the street. The attendants sought to coax him over, but the more he was coaxed the more obstinate he became, and he finally made a bolt down River street. Three other elephants followed his example. The trouble had already attracted a large crowd of men and boys, whose mingled cries at the beasts only infuriated them, and they started down through the centre of the city at full speed. At Adams street Emperor fell and was soon surrounded. Raising himself suddenly, he espied the bright lights burning in the Rensselaer rail-mill, and he made for that objective point. The other elephants followed Emperor and entered the mill, causing a stampede of the employes. In his anxiety to escape his pursuers he stepped into the hot blooms and his fore feet were terribly burned. Goaded to madness with pain, the elephant rushed from the mill on to the Hudson River railroad track, and, reaching Jefferson street, he took the sidewalk. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Casey were on the sidewalk, and were so surprised at the strange sight of an elephant running at large that they lost their presence of mind. As a result Casey was knocked down and badly hurt. Turning into First street, Emperor met Patrick Maher, who was returning from work, and threw him with great force down an embankment. The elephant next encountered Edward Burke, and injured him very seriously by a blow from his trunk. Emperor then took the sidewalk, but, owing to the lateness of the hour, did not meet any one until he reached Van Buren street, where he seized Patrick Burns, and threw him about twenty feet. In Tyler street Emperor hurled Michael Minahan against a fence, breaking three of his ribs. Minahan is sixty-five years old, and it is probable that he will die. Before reaching the Fourth street junction several other persons were hurt. Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Moulton were seated on the stoop of their residence as Emperor hove in sight, and they remained there to see what was the matter. As Emperor approached the house Moulton seized a pail and struck the brute, whereupon Emperor turned and seized Mrs. Moulton, and threw her with great force against the wall in the house, seriously injuring her. Moulton was knocked senseless by a blow of the animal's trunk and his collar-bone was broken. John Roarke, who lived near by, was drunk enough to suppose that he could quiet the elephant, and as a result his right foot was crushed by Emperor treading upon it. The elephant then turned into Fourth street, where he knocked Jeremiah Barlow insensible and sent John O'Marra about fifteen feet into the air. Then he made for the Bessemer steel works, being attracted thither by the electric light. Remembering his experience at the Rensselaer mill, Emperor did not seek an intimate acquaintance with the red-hot steel blooms. In fact, the sight of them caused him to turn, and so frantic was he that he ran against a fence, knocking it to pieces. Turning into the street again, a peddler's wagon was in the way, and this the angry brute reduced to kindling wood. Emperor then made for the farm lands adjoining, doing great damage to vegetables and fences on the places of the Hon. Erastus Corning, Thomas Dickson, C. E. Defrees and others. Meanwhile Emperor's companions had been captured, and other circus hands, experienced in the treatment of wild animals, joined in the attempt to capture Emperor. The latter, however, took possession of St. Joseph's cemetery, where he trampled on graves and knocked down several head-stones. At about eight o'clock Thursday morning he was captured. In addition to the persons above named many others were injured. Mr. Hutchinson visited the victims yesterday and settled all damages. The aggregate amount paid out was nearly $6,000.

An Egyptian Lady.

Mrs. Pomer's Pilgrimage.

She wore, first a chemise of some thin white material, with loose sleeves, embroidered round the edge, hanging over her hands; then a large pair of crimson silk trousers, so long and wide that they entirely concealed her bare feet; then came a garment like the Turkish anteree, decending to the feet before, hanging in a train behind and opening at the sides, with long sleeves open from the wrist to the elbow and falling back so as to expose those of the chemise beneath. The dress was made of crimson damask and embroidered all round the edge with black braiding, and was confined —not at the waist, but over the hips— with an Indian shawl wound two or three times round and knotted before. The last garment was a jacket, reaching only to the waist, with half sleeves made of an exceedingly rich stuff of dark blue silk, embroidered all over in running pattern with gold, and edged with gold braiding and buttons. Three large silver amulet cases, containing charms, were hung over the shawl girdle. The head dress is the prettiest part of the Egyptian costume, and Sofia's was exceedingly rich. Her hair divided into twenty or thirty small braids hanging over her shoulders, to the end of each of which were affixed three silk cords strung with gold coins of various sizes. Two rows of gold coins, as large as a half-crown piece, laid close together, encircled her forehead; and at each temple deepened a cluster of smaller ones, with an agate ornament in the middle. The back of her was covered with a small Egyptian fez, ornamented with larger piece of solid gold, and bound on by a handkerchief of embroidered crape. She wore two necklaces of gold coins thickly strung together, and each individual piece of money depending from a massive ornament in the form of a fish; one of these necklaces was long, and the other just encircled her throat; and between them was a string of beads of Egyptian agates, as large as birds' eggs, and strung together with golden links. Her ear-rings were of gold filigree in the shape of flowers, and her bracelets, of which she wore several, of massive gold and silver. We computed that she carried about £350 on her person in coin alone, without including her other ornaments.

Happiness.

From a Lime Kiln Club Lecture.

"In de fust place no one kin be perfeckly happy. When you git possesshun of a great big watermellyon an' sit down in an alley to devour it all by yerself yer mouf waters, yer back sort o' hump up, an' you fondly emagine dat you am perfeckly happy. But you ain't. You haven't taken ober two bites befo' you remember dat de ole woman wants a porus plaster, an' de child'en want shoes, an' de rent will be due on Saturday, an' a dozen odder flngs cum to mind to knock yer happiness higher dan Gilderoy's corn-sheller. It's de same when you play poker an' win $10. You feel happy fur de minit, an' you dance aroun' on one leg an' chuckle ober yer smartness. Den comes de reakshun. You remember dat you owe about $50, an' dat de wood am out, de flour-bar'l am empty, an' de chill'en have bin cryin' fur bacon.

"In de second place, what's de use of bein' happy? (Sobs from Elder Toots.) Happiness doan' increase de price of blackin' stoves. You can't charge any mo' for whitewashin'. (Sensation behind the stove.) You can't git any mo' for beatin' ca'pet. (Groans of despair.) Bein' happy doan' help our credit at de grocer's or de butcher's. (Sighs.) What dey want is money, an' not happiness. Show me a happy man who has any mo' to eat an' w'ar dan an unhappy one. (Distressing coughs from all over the hall.) It has bin said dat happiness am better dan riches. Doan' let 'em fool you! (Sensation.) De happy man am sent to jail quite as often as de unhappy one.

"In de third place, happiness am not healthy. It runs into liver complaint, consumpshun an' palpitation of de h'art. We am placed heah on airth to bet on de losin' hoss; to marry de wrong woman—to catch onto heaps of bad weather and dead loads of tribulashun. Doan' go round lookin' fur a happy man. If you find one, he'll be somebody so soft dat dey have to put him on ice. Our greatest an' bes' men am de mos' unhappy ones. Show me a man that has lost three wives by yaller fever, six chill'en by the cholera, three or four houses by fire, an' has himself bin sent to jail on false testimony, an' I will show you a noble Roman." (Cheers.)

Wonderful Maternity.

New York World.

The Assyrian Monarch of the Monarch Line, arrived yesterday afternoon with a full completement of Russian refugee Jewish passengers. Among these were three married women, sisters, named Ruth Jacobsky, Lena Itskok, and Miriam Levinski, who, with their husbands, left Odessa last winter. In Russia, where they had been married on the same day fifteen months ago, they belonged to the middle class. The husbands of these women are tailors by trade. Two weeks since the tailors and their wives and co-religionists, were sent on board the Assyrian Monarch for New York. On Sunday morning, the 1st inst., Lena Itskok, who is a very prepossessing Jewess about twenty-two years old, became the mother of two fine, healthy girls. Her two sisters were in the act of congratulating the newly-made mamma, when they themselves found that they were in want of the doctor's services. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Ruth Jacobsky, who is twenty-seven, and a good-looking blonde, had done as well as her other sister and had at that moment presented her fortunate husband with two boys. At 9 o'clock at night two more girl strangers made their appearance on board the boat, and Miriam Levinski, the youngest sister, aged nineteen, was receiving the felicitations of her husband and brothers-in-law. On Friday the two boys were initiated into one of the mysteries of Judaism. At the circumcision they were both named Isaac, which means, "I should smile." The girls have not yet been named, but each of the children received a present from the captain of the steamer, who declares that although he has carried many thousands of passengers in his day, he has never seen such a remarkable trio as the three Russian Jewesses who vied with each other in their presents to their liege lords and masters.

The Tramp's Choice.

The Little Rock, Arkansas, Gazette tells the following good story of the days when the Wabash used to be a little slow in paying its men:

At a station on the Wabash railroad a tramp approached the conductor of a train and said:

"Colonel, there's four tramps going to steal a ride with you through to Blankville. You'll find 'em in the smoking car."

"Thanks, my man; you deserve to be rewarded."

"Oh, no, I don't. I'm only an old tramp, ragged, hungry and dirty, but I have a grain or two of honor left. When a railroad line is two months behind in paying its men and can't declare a dividend to stockholders, a tramp who thinks anything of his character will take the dirt road."

Olive Butter.

This new rival of lard and butter for culinary purposes is a product of cotton seed oil, made from selected seed, pressed with ice, and treated and prepared under letters patent. Olive butter is said to be a healthful and very nutritious product, free from all adulterations, sweet and savory. For cooking purposes it is by some regarded as more satisfactory than either butter or lard. It is not so easily absorbed, and food cooked in it is free from the greasy taste so obnoxious to epicures. An enthusiastic writer says: "The daintiest tidbits may be dressed in olive butter without fear of detracting from their flavor, and rather with a certainty of improving it. A pound of olive butter will go twice as far as a pound of lard or butter."

The only jewel which will not decay is knowledge.

Religious Intelligence.

At home the Moravians number only 20,000; but they have gathered 73,000 heathen into the fold.

The oldest Presbyterian Church in the world, the Waldensian, sends out more missionaries from her highland valleys than all her ministers at home.

An appeal is made on every Catholic in the world to contribute five cents each toward a monument suitable to the memory of the late Pope Pius IX.

The religious element is steadily gaining ground in San Francisco, so that from being a thoroughly godless city, it is fast becoming as Christian as any other section of our country.

The people of the Canton of Zurich, Switzerland, by a vote of 26,720 to 16,945 have adopted a law prohibiting unnecessary labor on Sunday, theatrical representations, street processions, etc.

The American Israelite does not approve of the scheme of the return of the Jews to Palestine. It say: "We rather believe it is God's will that the habitable world shall become one holy land and the human race one holy people.

The mission fields of the Moravian Church comprises at the present time sixteen provinces, with over 100 stations and 1,800 missionaries. They have 215 schools, with about 15,000 pupils, and a total of nearly 75,800 converts from among the heathen.

A fault-finding dominie asked a lady member of his church: "What is the reason that griffins, dragons and devils are ladies' favorite subjects for embroidery designs?" "Ah, because they are continually thinking of their husbands," was the lady's quick retort.

It was a curious defense made by clergyman who was sued for debt to reply that if he considered the debt a moral obligation he would pay it but he looked upon it as a legal obligation only, that he was worth nothing; and the amount—$254—could not be collected.

The Independent says: "While the Adventists believe the war in Egypt to be the result of the failure of the angel of Revelation to hold the four winds, the Christian Instructor professes to see in it an indication that God is grieved at the action of the instrumental music in public worship."

An English newspaper writer says: "Sermons, when for a charity, might be reduced in length were everybody to follow the example of a friend of mine. When 'sitting under' one of these sermons, he places twenty shillings in his pocket. After the sermon has lasted twenty minutes, he deducts a shilling for each extra five minutes, and only puts in the plate what remains."

A clergyman lecturing on Palestine remarked concerning one very rugged locality: "The roads up these mountains are too steep even for a donkey to climb, therefore I did not attempt the ascent." The reverend gentleman noticed the smile which gently played over the features of some of his hearers. Yet not seeing any particular reason why they should be amused, he pushed on with his discourse.

The followers of Moncure D. Conway in London are described by an American correspondent as worshiping truth—with a big T—on the benches of the South Palace Chapel. Around the ceiling in illuminated letters are the names of the different men whom the congregation admire. Over the desk is the name that has no divinity to them—the name Jesus. On either side of this are Socrates and Shakspeare, and beyond these are Voltaire and Moses. Mr. Conway reads passages from Confucius or Herschel or anybody he admires; his people sing poetry from Shelley, Wordsworth, Shakspeare or Adelaide Proctor, and Mr. Conway never prays. He worships only truth.

Long prayers in public service are not commendable. From the nature of the case, they must be of general character, embracing petitions in which the whole congregation can unite, excluding much that is proper in private and personal supplication. Our "Lord's Prayer," as it is called, presents a model of concise and comprehensive petitions, adapted to public worship, which in spirit and character deserves to be imitated. Public prayers should not ordinarily exceed five minutes in length. When they go beyond this, the tendency is to weariness and formalism, at the expense of devotion. God looks at the intensity of desire in our petition, rather than the number of words employed in presenting them.—Methodist Recorder.

Not His Deal.

Brooklyn Eagle.

"Are you truly sure that we can always be happy and contented to live together, darling? Do you really believe that you can give up all the world and its vanities and settle right down like a model husband should, love? You will never wish to stay out all night 'with the boys,' as they call it. You are quite, quite sure you will not?" and two blue eyes glanced a sweet interrogation into his eyes.

"You can just put your whole stack on that to win, sis," he murmured.

"You will never, never sigh for some other fairer one than I? You will never read me poetry that you sent to your first love and hint that a man can only love once in a lifetime? You will never call me by some other girl's name in your sleep? Ah, you will never do that, will you, darling?"

"Well, you just copper any one to lose that says I will," he whispered, throwing his off arm about her more or less supple form and giving her one on the lips for luck.

"You will always tell me everything that passes in you busy life, darling? You will have no secrets from your own little wife? Not a single little tiny one, you are quite sure? You will let me read all your letters, and tell me about your business? We shall be really and truly one in everything, shall we not, ducky?"

"Well, I'm just taking all they put up, old gal, that we will," said he, giving her another plump upon the lips, with a good hug thrown in by way of interest.

"You will never smoke in bed, or refuse to make calls, or dislike my mother, or compel me to ask you for money, or be cross because I have a headache in the morning, or—"

"See here, sis," he chipped in, as his arm relaxed its hold about her form, "I should like to ask you a question before we splice. Just one, and then you may fire 'em in on your side to the end of the last quarter."

"What is it, darling?" she chirped, getting hold of hisband and putting the arm about her once more.

"You'll go your last chip, you'll give it to me straight?" he whispered.

"You may trust me always, love," she lisped.

"Well, then, on the dead level, are you a maid or a widow?"

"Why, you horrid thing. Of course I—I—I've never been married," she sobbed. "How could you ask me such a question?"

"Well, I kinder thought I dropped to too much knowledge in your questions," he replied; "when did you catch on to so much wisdom, little one?"

"Oh, mamma told me to ask you—"

"That whip-saws me," he said, "somebody else can have my chair. There's too much mother-in-law in this deal for me to play it out," and he skipped.

The Age of High Pressure.

From the London Globe.

It has become almost a truism to say that every age has its distinguished feature, which gives to it an individuality as unmistakable as that which differentiates the several members of the same family; and it needs but little examination to discover that the distinguishing feature of the present age is "high pressure." Physical science has taught mankind the conservation and utilization of the forces of nature, and recent experiment has shown that "high pressure" is the means by which the greatest amount of force may be extracted from a ton of coals. Humanity is fond of analogy, and is ever ready to transfer its reasoning from the physical to the psychic world. Moreover, the advance of physical science, and the application thereof to the appliances of life, must in time necessitate a corresponding movement in the world of action. As the locomotive or steam vessel increases in speed, so must human beings move more rapidly in thought and action. The humblest servant upon a line of railway is affected in his movement by every mile of increased speed of the trains running over that line. The lowest clerk in an office is affected materially by each increase of postal deliveries, by every decrease in the rates of telegrams, by every addition to the foreign and colonial mail services. It is quite true that we do not spend so many hours in our offices as did our grandfathers—but we do more in the shorter hours than they did, and we know nothing of the interval of quietude which they enjoyed during the business day. Every man must work at the top of his speed, and by the time his day's work is over he finds his powers are exhausted, and he has scarcely energy left to seek the means of recreation which lie around him. Our business and professional friends are constantly urging as an excuse for failures in the exercise of social virtues the plea that they are too weary to undertake that exercise save at widely sundered intervals, and the weary business man asks for nothing when his day's labors are ended save "to be let alone." Such a state of things cannot fail to tell seriously upon the character and genius of a people.

Leisure is a thing unknown to the bulk of men, and is regarded as some far-distant haven which he scarcely hopes to reach in futures years. And to the few fortunates ones who do reach it, it too frequently comes when all capacity for its enjoyment is gone, worn out by the weary struggle and stress of the voyage. The principals of our commercial houses are already beginning to see the result of this high pressure upon their employes. There is a lack of springiness or elasticity about them, and a nervous hurriedness in their work, which frequently defeats their efforts. With a growing average intelligence, and a general spread of knowledge, there is also an increasing lack of business "genius." It is more than ever easy to get a hundred men of ordinary ability, and more difficult to get one man of originality and keen sight. Men are more mechanical and less spontaneous than they were. Specialists may be obtained for all departments, but the men of "all round minds," capable of taking wide views, are few and far between.

The New Testament

N. A. Trueblood, in Christian Worker.

The books of the New Testament were orginally written in the Greek language, and at different periods of time, ranging from 55 A. D. to 96 A. D.

They were of course in manuscript form, written on parchment or vellum; and of the most ancient manuscripts only five are known to be in existence at this time.

The Alexandrian Manuscript, named from the place where it was found, and written in the fifth century, and now in the British Museum.

The Vatican Manuscript, named after the Pope's palace, and written in the fourth century. It was taken from Rome to Paris by the First Napoleon, but, having been returned, it is now very zealously guarded in the Vatican Library.

The Ephraem Manuscript, written by a Syrian divine named Ephraem in the fourth century, and now in the National Library at Paris.

The Beza Manuscript, named after its discoverer and owner, and written in the sixth century.

The Sinaitic Manuscript, named from being discovered in the Convent of St. Catharine on Mount Sinai. It was written in the fourth century, and is now in the Imperial Library at St. Petersburg, the capital of Russia.

From these manuscripts, none of them, however, being complete, different versions were made, at different times, such as the Syriac, Egyptian, Memphitic, Thebaic, Gothic, Armenian, Persian, Ethiopian, Greek and Latin, so named on account of the language into which, or the place where they were translated.

All of the Bible, including the Old and New Testamens, was translated into the Latin Vulgate in the year 405, this being the only authentic version, according to the Roman Catholic Church, and from this and other versions the English versions were made.

Dakota Girls.

A Dakota girl has earned her right to the endearing title of "duck." While crossing the river near Valley City her canoe upset. She tied the canoe to her ankle and swam ashore. Another young woman of the same Territory has advertised for a husband as follows: "I mean business. If there is any young man in this country who has as much sand in him as a pound of plug tobacco I want to hear from him. I have a tree claim and homestead, am a good cook and not afraid to work, and willing to do my part. If any man with a like amount of land, and a decent face and carcass, wants a good wife, I can fill the bill."

Beware OF Fraud

BENSON'S CAPCINE PLASTERS

HAVE BEEN IMITATED,

And their excellent reputation injured by worthless imitations. The Public are cautioned against buying Plasters having similar sounding names. See that the word C-A-P-C-I-N-E is correctly spelled.

Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters

Are the only improvement ever made in Plasters.

One is worth more than a dozen of any other kind.

Will positively cure where other remedies will not even relieve.

Price 25 cents.

Beware of cheap Plasters made with lead poisons.

SEABURY & JOHNSON,
Manufacturing Chemists, New York.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25cts.
MEAD'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

Farmer's Friend

South Bend, Indiana.

ONLY FIFTY CENTS A YEAR.

Circulation 33,000.

The largest and best agricultural paper in the country. Eight large pages, 48 columns, few advertisements and almost double the reading matter given by the $1.50 and $2 agricultural papers, but we send it to you for 50 cents a year. Premiums to every subscriber, premiums to club raisers and 232 splendid presents given them in addition, consisting of a $470 New Birdsell Clover Huller, complete, including re cleaning attachment, which cleans the seed as threshed; a $60 Casaday Sulky Plow; a $65 Studebaker Farm Wagon; Oliver Chilled Plows, Sewing Machine, Silverware, etc. Some of the departments of the Farmers' Friend are "Farm Topics," "The Orchard," "Live Stock," "The Poultry Yard," "Home and Health," "Domestic Economy," "Young Folks," "The Puzzler," "The Story Teller," "The Funny Place," "Sunday Reading," "The Clover Leaf," "The Apiary," "Letter Basket," "Various Topics," "Correspondence," "Hints for the Season," "World's Record," etc. Practical farmers and the best writers contribute to it. Agents make money canvassing for it. Any subscriber authorized to act as agent. Send 50 cents for a year's subscription, or write your name and those of your neighbors on a postal card for free sample copies and our Illustrated Premium List.

Address,
FARMERS' FRIEND Pub. Co.,
South Bend, Ind.

HALL'S Catarrh Cure

Is Recommended by Physicians!

$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

PROF. HARRIS' RADICAL CURE
FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY
AND
ORGANIC WEAKNESS
IN YOUNG
AND MIDDLE-AGED
MEN.

THE PASTILLE
A TRIED REMEDY OF GREAT VALUE
A VITAL FORCE RESTORER
DON'T FAIL TO GET A BOX

Put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full Directions for using will accompany each box.

Prepared and Sold ONLY by
HARRIS REMEDY CO. Mfg. Chemists,
MARKET AND 8TH STS., ST. LOUIS, MO.

WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS

And the Best Machinery in the World for BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power! Book Free. Address

[illegible]

If you feel drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, mouth tastes badly, poor appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from torpid liver, or "biliousness," and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently as to take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR or MEDICINE.

The cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World.

An EFFECTUAL Specific for all diseases of the Liver Stomach and Spleen.

Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common as bad breath, and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your Appetite, Complexion, and General Health.

PILES!

How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of all pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR is no drastic violent purge, but a gentle assistant to nature.

CONSTIPATION!

Should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache.

ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

MANUFACTURED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

PROVED A SUCCESS!

THE PASTILLE
Prof. Harris' Radical Cure
FOR
NERVOUS DEBILITY

BY YEARS OF USE!

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. A positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure [illegible] true way, viz: Direct Application [illegible] Vesicles, Ducts and Gland, that are unable to perform their natural functions while this [illegible] organism. The use of the [illegible] is attended with no pain or [illegible] [illegible] have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoroughly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G. CHEMISTS.
Market and 8th Sts. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons:

Indiana, April 11, '78.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had [illegible] for 8 years past.

Iowa, Oct. 18th, '78.—I am almost surprised at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of the grave, I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. 22, 1878.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. Inclosed find $5. Please send me another box (No. 2) for a friend. You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June 22.—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will set him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 2, '78.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now suffering in the same way and wish one No. 3 box.

REED'S

GILT EDGE TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY in every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach, Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and Disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils; often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. Nathan & Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FREE!
RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

[illegible]

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, AUG. 24th, 1882

Democratic State Ticket.

For Secretary of State,
WILLIAM R. MYERS, of Madison.
For Auditor of State,
JAMES H. RICE, of Floyd.
For Treasurer of state,
JOHN J. COOPER, of Marion.
For Attorney General,
FRANCIS T. HORD, of Bartholomew
For Clerk of Supreme Court,
S. P. SHEERIN, of Cass.
For State Superintendent,
JOHN W. HOLCOMBE, of Porter.
For Judge Supreme Court—First dis't.
W. E. NIBLACK, of Knox.
Second District,
GEORGE V. HOWK, of Floyd.
Fourth District,
ALLEN ZOLLARS, of Allen.

COUNTY TICKET.

For Congress 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY,
of Allen County.

COUNTY TICKET:

For Representative,
D. D. MOODY.
For Clerk,
D. Y. HUSSELMAN.
For Auditor,
THOMAS H. TOMLINSON.
For Treasurer,
L. J. MILLER.
For Sheriff,
JOHN W. BOYLE.
For Recorder,
JOHN BUTT.
For Surveyor,
J. J. VAN AUKEN.
Fo Coroner,
J. J. LATSON.
Commissioner North District,
JOSEPH SEWELL.
Southwest District,
CHRISTIAN SHEETS.
Southeast District,
OLIVER H. WIDNEY.

Joint Representative Convention.

Delegates from the counties of DeKalb, Noble and Elkhart, the same constituting a joint representative district, will meet in convention at Waterloo, Indiana,

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 5th, 1882,

at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Joint Representative for the counties named. The ratio of representation will be one delegate for each 200 votes cast for the Democratic candidate for governor in 1880, and one vote for every fraction of 100 and over, as follows:

Elkhart County	17	votes.
Noble "	14	"
DeKalb "	13	"
Total	44	"

By order of the District Committee.

Judicial Convention.

The Democracy of the 35th Judicial Circuit are hereby notified to meet at Waterloo, on

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 5th, 1882,

at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices: Judge and Prosecuting Attorney for the 35th Judicial Circuit. All voters, regardless of past party affiliations, who are desirous of co-operating with the Democracy in the support of its principles and nominees, are cordially invited to attend. The basis of representation will be the same as that adopted by the late congressional convention, which will entitle each county to the following number of votes:

Noble County	14	votes.
DeKalb "	13	"
Steuben "	6	"
Total	33

OWEN BLACK, Noble Co.,
M. BOLAND, DeKalb Co.,
H. FREYGANG, Steuben Co., } Ch'm Com's.

THE editor of the Indianian, General Reub. Williams has just turned the half century post, being fifty years of age.

WHILE at Fort Wayne last week we met Mr. Ferrier, of the Angola Journ l, and found him a most pleasant gentleman.

BEN BUTLER is again the candidate for governor of Massachusetts on the Greenback Labor ticket. It is believed the democrats will endorse him.

THE county teachers' institute at Bryan commences August 28. Mr. T. J. Sanders, who takes charge of the Butler schools next year, is among the list of teachers.

SENATOR HILL, of Georgia, died last week. He had been in a critical state for some time, the disease being cancer, which was eating his mouth, throat and adjacent organs.

THE British have taken possession of the Seuz canal for a time. A transport vessel was accidentally sunk in the channel last week, which will prevent vessels from passing through for awhile.

JOHN W. COWEN, ESQ., at one time county superintendent of Steuben county, has gone to Dakota to take charge of the public schools of Fargo. He is an able and experienced educator, and will be a valuable addition to that enterprising place.

WE beg pardon of the Lagrange Register for permitting its editor to copy our article on the Clark-Shoemaker lawsuit, and credit to the Auburn Republican. Is Bro Hewitt a disciple of "Gall?" It looks like it.

W. H. DILLS and General Blair, of this county, are now being talked up by their friends for position of Judge on the democratic ticket. Both have their friends, and either would be a great gain over the hap-hazard style in which our court has been running lately.

THE colored people in some parts of the country are beginning to find out that the republican party owes them about as much as they owe the republican party. It is well known that without the votes of the colored people the republican party would be a hopeless minority.

Semi-Annual Report of Board of Health of DeKalb County.

Reports of births, deaths and diseases have been received from nearly every physician of the county; also from the different incorporated towns. Although the returns are not complete, yet they are more nearly so than similiar returns from many other counties, and fully as complete as we could expect in the commencement of a new work so different from our former customs. From the state board we learn that some opposition has been made to the law on the score of expense, etc. It must be remembered that what is expended in this manner saves far more to the people of the state in the way of sickness prevented, and the causes of disease being more fully brought under control. In the one matter of "small-pox" the people will have saved, from January 1st, 1881, to January 1st, 1882, more than the entire cost of the state and local boards during that time. I would suggest that those who object on the ground of expense should remember that when a community is threatened with certain forms of preventable diseases the people clamor for protection at any cost, and are not only willing but very anxious to have the assistance of the health board and health officers. They should not act the part of one who when sick, "a monk would be, but when well a devil a monk was he." Such a position is absurd. It might be proper to say in this connection that Indiana has always borne an unenviable name among the states and even in foreign lands, owing to the reputation given her of being an unhealthy state, and especially subject to malarial diseases. This reputation has kept from the state many thousands of those who are seeking new homes; and thus the growth and prosperity of the state has been materially retarded. These statistics will demonstrate that this evil reputation has not been deserved, and that Indiana is a comparatively healthy state and as free from malarial influence as any other western state. And in this aspect alone there is a direct money value to the people in these statistics that far out weighs the cost. It would be difficult now and perhaps out of place here to enter into an extended argument to convince the incredulous of the value of such statistics, but it might be proper to say, "that vital statistics properly collected and tabulated present the means, (1st) of ascertaining the sickness and mortality with reference to the causes and comparative prevalence in localities and the death rate, and furnishes the means of discerning the influences which conduce to the prevalence, and thus enabling the medical profession to counteract them. (2d.) Determining the condition of the people in their social relations and the influences that control the gradations of society, their habits, etc. (3d.) Aiding by its inquisitorial requirements in the detection of crimes, and thus preventing some of them. (4th.) Affording a reliable record of certain events and relations which are often essential in establishing the rights of persons and the just distribution of property."

When we remember the extra amount of labor required of physicians to prepare and make their returns monthly, and without compensation, and how cheerfully it is done in this county, I feel that the thanks of the people and of this department are due them. I feel proud of the medical fraternity of DeKalb county for thus manifesting a unity of interest and a leading spirit in this unselfish enterprise of preventive medicine, and thus protecting the public health. The Board of Health should only be considered as the executive part of the medical profession and the bureau through which the proper statistics can be tabulated, and their opinions and suggestions promulgated on questions of public health and hygiene, etc. Regarding it thus, we hope that we will never need to beg the profession for their supporting work, but rather stand in wholesome fear lest we shall fail to keep pace with their impatient desire to advance. We are sorry to have to confess that we are somewhat hindered in our work by the neglect of a few physicians that fail to report promptly at the end of each month, and hope that this hint will only serve as a suggestion to elicit prompter returns from those who know of their neglect.

The record of marriages in this county has thus far been received monthly from the county clerk's office, and to Clerk Baxter and his deputy we tender our thanks for the items necessary to complete the records in this department.

Although the Board of Health in this county was created the first of January, yet as it took some time to get organized for business over the county, we could or did not get reports for the month of January, but during the succeeding five months, ending June 30, the following statistics were received:

BIRTHS.

		M.	F.
Auburn	13	8	5
Waterloo	10	5	5
Garrett	15	9	6
Butler	24	12	12
Outside of incopor'td towns	80	42	38
Total	142	76	66

DEATHS.

Auburn	11	5	6
Waterloo	7	3	4
Garrett	3	3	0
Butler	1	0 (suicide)	1
O'tside t'ns	24	15	9
Total	46	26	20

DISEASES DANGEROUS TO PUBLIC.

Auburn	8	3	5
Waterloo	9	6	3
Garrett	5	2	3
O'tside t'ns	20	5	15
Total	42	16	26

MARRIAGES.

Auburn	9
Waterloo	2
Garrett	2
Butler	4
Outside of incorporated towns	51
Total	68

Reports on vaccination are now being called for by the state officers, and directors and trustees will please proceed to collect the statistics from their certificates filed, and forward their report to this office as early as possible. On account of the increasing severe effects last winter, vaccination was at that time discontinued. This severity was doubtless largely due to the condition of the atmosphere, in which a strong epidemic influence existed, which always produces such effects, as well as an unusual demand for virus, which the vaccine farms were unable to fully supply, and were therefore liable to collect the virus too closely, and thus include some second growth scab, which might be irritating without protecting. It is certainly wiser for a community to thoroughly vaccinate in the absence of the above influences.

J. B. CASEBEER, Sec'y C. B. of H.

The Illustrated Herald.

The Garrett Herald came out last week as an illustrated paper, and a pretty good show it made too, for that usually dignified journal. The republicans there are "piping hot" over the work of the convention of their party, and in fact they have cause to be dissatisfied. They had asked of the convention, to give them a place on the ticket, and for that purpose offered Dr. S. M. Sherman, one of the best men in the county, for the nomination for auditor. But by the usual amount of trading that characterizes that party, Dr. Sherman was slaughtered, and that part of the county left without a candidate. To say that they are mad is to put it very mildly. They say the ticket was made up without consulting them, and now those who made it up may get it elected without the help of Garrett,—if they can. The Herald and the Garrett people generally are disgusted with the whole republican ticket, and many of them will vote the straight democratic ticket at the election. If a fair showing can be had in no other way, they think a bolt of this kind will bring the leaders of the party to their senses.

NOTHING could have done more to inspire the democracy of Lagrange county to roll up her sleeves and go to work for the democratic nominee for congress in this congressional district than the action of the republican congressional convention held at Kendallville on the 3d, inst. All personal differences that may have existed have been, we believe, laid aside, and the contest will begin in earnest, many republicans expressing themselves in favor of Judge Robert Lowry, as against the inexperienced unknown of their own party. There is too much of "today" in the Lagrange attorney. A man, to intelligently represent the people in the halls of our national congress needs some knowledge of yesterday and to-morrow. The people demand such men, and they are bound to have them, the cry of Bourbonism to the contrary notwithstand.—Lagrange Democrat.

THE Kendallville Standard has become the property of Dr. Rerick, of the Lagrange Standard, and Mr. Conlogue of Kendallville. Mr. Long retires from the management of the paper he has so ably conducted for nearly two years, and on which he has been a leading workman for so long. He has lost some money by the operation, we understand. Dr. Parker, of the News, speaks a pleasant word for the retiring editor, with whom he has always been on friendly terms, but bestows a few biting sentences on C. O. Myers, the former owner of the paper. He thinks Myers has done Mr. Long an injustice.

AT the recent republican convention quite a feeling of opposition was developed against anything or any candidate proposed by Sheriff Leas. Just why this should be so, does not appear very plain to an outsider, as Mr. Leas has done more for the party than any two men they can name. He has furnished more hard work and brains, more energy and pluck, than all the rest of their leaders together. It is no business of ours, however.

W. J. HILLEGASS, editor of the Huntington Democrat, is a candidate for State Senator for the counties of Wells and Huntington. This means his election, which will be an honor to both counties and a compliment to a worthy man. Mr. Hillegas served his country faithfully during the late unpleasantness, and is a steadfast, uncompromising democrat. It pleases his brethren of the press to record his good fortune.

QUITE a number of our exchanges, especially those in Noble county, speak in favorable terms of the candidacy of General Blair for the judgship of this circuit. While at Albion last week, the same feeling seemed to prevail, many going so far as to say he would carry a strong republican vote among his old friends, especially the soldier element in that county.

"KEYSER township got out of the republican county convention without losing a man," is the quaint way the Herald puts it.

BEN. HARRISON, the drummer boy of the Rappahannock and 500 pounds of powder are among the attractions of the reunion at Garrett.

Have You Ever

Known any person to be seriously ill without a weak stomach or inactive liver or kidneys? And when these organs are in good condition do you not find their possessor enjoying good health? Parker's Ginger Tonic regulates these important organs, makes the blood rich and pure, and strengthens every part of the system. See other column. 31-4t.

ROOT AND COMPANY!
FORT WAYNE, INDIANA.

Great headquarters in Northeastern Indiana for the sale of

CARPETS,
CURTAIN GOODS,
HOUSE-KEEPING GOODS,
RUGS,
MATS,
SILKS,
OIL CLOTHS,
DRESS GOODS,
WOOLENS,
DOMESTICS,
HOSIERY,
GLOVES,
LACES,
FANCY GOODS,
WHITE GOODS,
UNDERWEAR,
NOTIONS, &c.

ROOT AND COMPANY!
FORT WAYNE, INDIANA.

HONEST WAGONS!!

Is what you want. Call on

J. W. SHAFFER & CO.

and see their home-made

WAGONS!

GIVE THEM A CALL.

COLUMBIA BICYCLES

made of the very best material, by the most skillful workmen, expressly for road use.

COLUMBIAS!

Are the favorites with riders, and their superiority in beauty, structure and beauty is acknowledged by all. It is a practicable road vehicle, and can be ridden 500 miles a week over average roads. Professional and business men all join in bearing witness to its merits.

Send 3 cent stamp for 36 page illustrated catalogue with price list and full information

THE POPE MFG. CO.,
tf. 597 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

DON'T MISS THIS CHANCE!

BUY NOW WHILE GOODS ARE CHEAP!

Everything Fifty per cent. Cheaper

No Need of Going Barefooted

AUSTIN BROTHERS

—WILL SELL—

BOOTS

—AND—

SHOES

Cheaper than they can be stolen

A big stock has been ordered, and there must be room made for them. Fifty per cent. can be saved by buying now. The

BOOT UP-SIDE DOWN

Is the cheapest house in Indiana, and we want everybody to know it. Call before buying.

AUSTIN BROS., Auburn, Ind.

SELF SATISFYING.

FACT

That our $8.00 Suits are worth $15.0
That our 9.00 Suits are worth 17.00
That our 11.00 Suits are worth 20.00
That our 14.00 Suits are worth 25.00
That our 15.00 Suits are worth 28.00
That our 1.60 pants are worth 2.50
That our two dollar pants are worth $4
That our $20 Satin Lined Suits ARE WORTH $45
That our $15 Diagonal Coats and Vests are worth 30
That our 9.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 17.00
That our 12.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 22.00

We have a stock of Clothing well worth seeing Come and convince yourself.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

ATTENTION.

Country Merchants!

My Stock Embraces ALL Kinds Staple and Fancy Merchandise:

Clocks,
Watches,
Jewelry,
Silver Ware,
Optical Goods,
Musical Goods.
Sewing Machines,
Druggists' Sundries,
White Goods,
Hosiery.
Toys.
Cutlery,
Pictures,
Frames,
Mirrors,
Smokers' Goods,
Sporting Goods,
Japanese Goods
Fancy Goods
Notions,
Stationery
Wallets
Wooden Ware
Glass Ware,
Hardware
Purses
Tin Ware:

5 & 10 Cent Counter, 49 & 99 Cent Store Supplies

Look up my Illustrated Catalogue (if you have not one send for it) and notice prices and style of goods on pages 5 to 68, 68 to 81, 92 to 115, 150 to 165, and so on through the book, and you will find that I am offering a SAVING to you of 10 to 25 per cent. on a large line of Staple Goods. You can order your STOCK from my Catalogue without leaving your store or paying a traveling man to come and take your order. I guarantee prices and goods to be just as satisfactory as though you were here in person to select When in the city, give me a call before buying, and I will show you the most complete stock of Goods in the west to select from at INSIDE PRICES.

C. M. LININGTON, IMPORTER,
145 and 147 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Go to the reunion.

—S. U. Tarney is yet very ill.

—Now the political battle is open.

—John Robbins was home over Sunday.

—The democratic ticket suits all the boys.

—The postoffice floor has been carpeted.

—Garden food is both cheap and plenty.

—Photos $1 a dozen at Jones', Fort Wayne. 34-10t.

—The cow ordinance is a matter of the past.

—A large crowd is reported at the reunion.

—Threshing machines are in great demand.

—The base ball excitement seems to keep up.

—John Reesh has accepted the marshalship.

—Ben. Williams has sold his sprinkling wagon.

—Charley Smith has resigned the marshalship.

—Mrs. Bab. Lewis has been visiting out of town.

—We notice Charley Dugan on the streets again.

Bob Donalson was boss at the tailor shop this week.

—Mr. Straw is handling some fine organs this week.

—Austin Bros. received a nice lot of goods this week.

—The painters finished Hebel's new building this week.

—Young chickens are somewhat scarce in the market.

—Rev. W. F. Matthews will have a vacation of two weeks.

—Dave Hampton is enjoying his vacation in a hammock.

—Smoked meats as well as fresh, at Rainier & Headley's.

—Wm. Eldridge returned to his Wisconsin home Tuesday.

—Miss May Rodenbaugh has been at home for a short visit.

—The season for drying corn and putting up pickles is here.

—Jones, at Fort Wayne, makes cabinet photos at $2.50 per dozen. 34-10

—Pommert & Grund will soon occupy rooms in the Hebel block.

—Doc. Fox's juvenile ball nine seems to take the lead again this year.

—Mrs. W. F. Matthews is visiting friends in Manchester, Michigan.

—Mr. Fair, the new trustee of Butler township, called on Monday.

—Ora Shaffer, the tasty painter, has been doing some nice work lately.

—Jake Nye, the horse jockey, was showing his stock in town Monday.

—Superintendent Rummel is bringing some nice vegetables into town.

—There seems to be considerable interest taken in the Normal school.

—J. H. Gugerli, the tailor, went off on a visit Saturday with his wife and child.

—People everywhere have plenty of money now. Its after harvest you know.

—M. L. Hoffman expects to teach school this year in Rockville, Parke county.

—The DeKalb County Medical Society meets in Dr. Cowan's office Aug. 31, 1882.

—Mrs. M. F. Long will probably go to Chicago for treatment of her lungs this week.

—Rev. Johnson and family and Mrs. C. Hare are visiting at Fort Wayne this week.

—Henry Yesbera, Joseph Abright and families are visiting at West Unity this week.

—Nice fresh steaks of all kinds and kept in patent cooler, at Rainier & Headley's.

—There was a freight train off the track on the Wabash road at Cedar Creek Tuesday.

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield, will sell you goods as cheap and as good as youcan get anywhere. tf.

—Keyser lost her dog the day of the convention, but the owner got him in all right the next week.

—Charley Hoff is now the father of a good looking baby and feels quite "immense" over the event.

—J. Swander, north of Garrett, has a sale of personal property on Tuesday August 29. See notices.

—H. E. Little, foreman of the Courier, is laid up with a hurt caused by falling while unloading hay.

—McCord had a live rattlesnake sent him this week by H. A. Winslow—a regular tiger with six rattles.

—R. Loutzenheiser, of Waterloo, came over Monday to begin work plastering Culbertson's new brick house.

—The County Medical Society will meet here on Thursday of next week, August 31, at the office of Dr. Cowan.

—The friends of temperance are requested to meet at the M. E. church on Monday evening of next week August 28.

—Miss Lilly McTighe has gone to Milwaukee, Wis., to remain during the summer vacation, as school will not begin till November.

—H. Palmer and Jno. Picker have formed a partnership in brick masonry, and tackled their first job at Waterloo, last Monday.

Mrs. Wm. A. Wilson, Richmond, Wayne Co., was cured of dyspepsia, heartburn and loss of appetite by Brown's Iron Bitters.

—Remember the soldiers, reunion at Garrett to-day and to-morrow. They are expecting a big attendance and will have a good time.

—Mr. T. Cool and family return thanks to the friends who so kindly assisted them during the illness and death of their grandson.

—David W. Fair, who lives near St. John, was appointed trustee for Butler township Monday by Auditor Robbins. He enters at once upon his duties.

Ayer's Ague Cure is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, free from quinine or any mineral substance, and always cures the severest cases.

—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kennedy, of Smithfield, called over to see us Saturday. They are among the prosperous people of that prosperous township.

—Married.—W. R. Edwards and Nancy E. Reeder were united in marraige in this place last Sunday, August 20, Rev. W. L. Messe officiating.

—John Treesh, delinquent tax collector, has added another democratic vote to the party. It will not be of much use, however, for about twenty-one years.

—The Eckhart carriage works have still on hand the largest and best assortment of buggies in DeKalb county, and at prices lower than can be purchased elsewhere.

—Rainier & Headly have a patent cooling pan in their refrigerator that cost over $50. But then it helps to keep the meat sweet and fresh. Go and try them and see.

All persons engaged in the manufacture or use of tobacco, when nerves are effected thereby, will find a cure in Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment. Sold at F. E. Davenport's —In the hurry of the republican convention, we forgot to mention a pleasant call from O. J. Powell, of the Garrett Herald, and his son Willis. Come again when we can have more time to visit.

—Rev. Goodman of Kendallville, occupied the pulpit at the Presbyterian church Sunday, and Mr. Matthews occupied the place of Mr. Goodman at Kendallville. Mr. Goodman delivered a fine discourse.

Married,—At the residence of the bride's parents, Aug. 20, 1882, by Rev. F. F. Christine, Mr. B. F. Frets, of Osage Agency, Indian Territory, to Miss Linna A. Crooks, of Union township, DeKalb Co., Ind.

—The Catholic school for ladies, at Academe, begins its next year, Tuesday September 5. The sisters have a flourishing school there and the young ladies who have attended it speak highly of its efficiency.

—Rainier and Headley, bought twenty-three head of fine steers of Geo. Gate last week, the finest ever seen in this part of the country. That will make choice steak the ruling article at their meat market for some time to come.

—A. J. Little had the cheek to bring up a nice lot of green corn and leave it in our custody Tuesday. He is developing a fine talent for gardening, and the printers are glad that such is the case, for a nicer treat "never smoked from a platter." Thanks.

—Ben. Moffatt, of Jackson township, has developed a new idea in road work. He says he can do more work with a manure hook than he can with a shovel. We fear he can't get a patent on the idea however, as we have seen lots of men try it. It looks very much as if it was the quality of the work and not the quantity, that decided the question.

—The joke came near being on somebody, one evening this week, when a couple of married ladies acted the spy on a married man who was going where he "hadn't orter," and were followed part way home by another man who thought the ladies were a little out of there sphere also. A joke is in the background somewhere.

—Many thanks to each and all who have so kindly tried to make my visit pleasant and happy at Auburn and elsewhere in this part of the state, the gentlemanly little "printer boys" included, and I hope at some future time to be able to return their kindness.

Respectfully,
Mrs. B. A. Davis,
Hatch's Mills, Ind.

—Notice the calls for the democratic convention for nominating a judge, prosecutor and joint representative. They are held in Waterloo, September 5th. For judge, the choice seems to be between General Blair, of Waterloo, and W. H. Dills, of this place. There is also some talk of a candidate in Noble county, and another in Steuben county.

They Hopped.

This may be said of the young people who assembled at Ensley's Hall, Monday evening, accompanied by a part of Vogleson's band. They had Bid Eldridge along, of course, for the festive occasion was intended to be a parting honor to him, as well as a pleasure to all. Quite a number were present, mostly unmarried people and all speak of it as one of the most enjoyable hops ever held here. Some graceless scamp had however, obtained access to the hall, in advance of the party, and when "music arose with its voluptuous swell" and the feet of the dancers, waxed merry on the polished floor, many an involuntary sneeze went up, mingled with mutterings of disgust. Any one with ordinary olfactories could have "snuffed the battle afar off," but it was soon all snuffed up, and the fun went on as usual.

A Good Yield.

C. Sheets threshed his wheat last week and had a nice crop and good yield. He had twenty-four acres, and the yield was an average of twenty-three bushels to the acre. Of course, some parts of the field were much higher than this, but taken as a whole, it will be seen the yield was good. The wheat was measured by James Swisher. The threshing was by H. L. Sheets, with a "Wooster Boss" thresher. It will be seen that the entire crop was 552 bushels, which will place Mr. Sheets and family somewhat above want, as far as breadstuff is concerned, and this number probably is about the majority Mr. Sheets will receive for commissioner this fall.

Banner Clothing Store.

Fort Wayne starts out with a new clothing house, which opens up the 26th of this month at No. 27 Calhoun street, S. Schirmeyer & Co. proprietors. The new house is starting out with the best of ability, experience in their line and will conduct their business on a sound basis. New goods, and of the latest styles, at popular prices, and all transactions conducted on a business basis. This will be their motto. Give them a call as soon as they open up their stock, examine it and you will go away pleased with your bargains. The name of the new house will be the "Banner Clothing Store." No. 27, Calhoun street.

Greenback Convention.

Complying with instructions of the conference at the meeting in Waterloo August 6th, I hereby call a county convention at Auburn, Saturday, August 26th, at 10 o'clock a. m. We have the assurance that the Hon. H. Z. Leonard, of Logansport, one of the liveliest speakers in the state, will be present and address the people. By order of committee.

2w. R. N. Crooks, Chairman.

—F. E. Eldridge, of Edgerton, Wis. was in town last week visiting relatives and friends. "Bid" as he is called here, has developed into a steady and promising young man. He is now foreman and manager of two papers in that state: the Tobacco Reporter published at Edgerton, and the Oconomowoc Local, each published at the places named. The Tobacco Reporter is the organ of the tobacco growers and dealers, in that part of the country, and is a flourishing journal. Edgerton is in a center of a portion of the country almost entirely devoted to the cultivation of the "weed," an industry that the people there are making pay a handsome profit. In connection with this, we might add, that Mr. Eldridge brings good word from "Jink" Eldridge who like himself, learned the printing business in the Courier office.

—We acknowledge a visit from Hon. Judge Lowry last Friday. Although we were unfortunately absent at the time, it pleases us to see everywhere evidences of the Judge's popularity. He is winning hosts of friends on all sides and rapidly conciliating those who were inclined to oppose him. We venture the prediction, that not only will he get the full strength of the party vote in the district, but he will draw heavily from the republicans in many places, especially in his own county. The Judge has a host of friends everywhere and they are determined he shall be the next member of congress from this district.

—We unintentionly omitted the names of the republican candidates for commissioners. The present incumbent Mr. F. D. Oberlin, was renominated for the north district, R. G. Coburn for the southeast and Amos Rakestraw for the southwest district. All are men of respectability and good standing, but as we have in the field, three men who have no superiors, and few equals in the county, the above named republicans, are not likely to be called upon to give any official bonds after the election is over.

—There will be no services at the Presbyterian church here next Sunday. Many of our people will, no doubt attend, services at Waterloo, where Mr Johnson preaches in the forenoon.

Miss Amanda Leyson, Crawfordsville, Montgomery Co., found Brown's Iron Bitters superior to all other medicines in general debility.

Died.

At his residence near St. Johns station in this county, on Friday morning, August, 18, 1882, James Quince, trustee of Butler township. Mr. Quince as noticed in last weeks Courier had been in ill health, but no one supposed the end was so near. On last Thursday evening as he went from his store to the house, he stumbled, and fell, evidently through weakness, and the difficulty of using his crutch in his weakened condition. He was helped to the house, and passed a restless night. Next morning he arose early, but soon complained of feeling bad. About seven o'clock Mrs. Quince went to a neighbors, near by, for some camphor, and on her return, found that he had expired during her absence, though she was gone but a few minutes. Other members of the family were present. The son, J. A. Quince, who was attending the normal school here, was sent for, and the bereaved family were soon gathered around the death bed of the husband and father. He was buried on Sunday, August, 20, the funeral being at Cedar Creek Chapel. It was the largest funeral ever known in the place. Over 400 are supposed to have been in the church and as many more present who could not be accommodated within the church. Mr. Quince was born in Lincolnshire, England, December, 29, 1832, and was consequently 49 years, 7 months and 19 days old at the time of his death. He came to this country in 1854, landing at New York. He traveled over the eastern states, especially in Maine, selling medicines. Then he came west, and stopping in Richland county, Ohio, went to school for some time, and taught school. He was married there to Miss Lorana Hills. Afterwards they removed to Detroit and Mr. Quince taught school there for some time. He next came to Toledo and thence to Corunna in this county, where he established himself in the mercantile business. Then he followed the same business for awhile in Huntertown, Allen county, but afterwards removed to Sedan, and sold goods there. He next removed to the Raub farm west of Auburn, and afterwards removed to the Shull farm, in district 6 in Keyser township, at that time No. 1 Butler township. He staid there about a year and then lived two years on the Mike Sheets farm in the same district. During this time he taught several terms of school in the vicinity of his home. He then moved again to Huntertown, where he worked the farm of Jeremiah Shoaff, and then that of Wm. Shoaff. Then he removed to Butler township, and lived on the John Noel place which he farmed for five years. He moved to Butler Center, and canvassed the county for the nomination for recorder in 1880 but failed to secure the nomination. Soon after this, Mr. Bennett Hixon, who was then township trustee, resigned and Mr. Quince was appointed to fill the vacancy. Serving with credit and ability in this position, he was again elected in the spring of 1882, and was serving out this term at the time of his death. He was also, postmaster of his place, and station agent for the Jackson road there, and in connection with these was carrying on a dry goods and grocery store. His decease makes a gap in the community where he lived and was honored, and his untimely death is mourned by all. His bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community.

BUTLER.

Miss Frankie Miller, of Sedalia, Mo. spent Saturday with friends here.

Mrs. Elihu Ocker is visiting relatives at Edgerton, Ohio.

Mrs. Sidnia Gillers of Montpelier has been sojourning in Butler, for the past week.

Prof. Sanders is in town looking for rooms to locate. He is to be principal of the schools here in the place, of O. Z. Hubbell who has resigned.

Miss Aggie Daily and Genevieve Stoy are off on a visit to Pulaski, Ohio.

Miss Ida Hubbell has gone to Bellville, Michigan, to visit friends.

Mr. E. Rudd has moved into Nell Garrison's house on Oak street.

New houses are springing up like mushrooms all over town.

Mr. Ellerman, of Elkhart has taken the place of M. B. Otis as station agent for the Lake Shore road at this place.

Mr. Frank Connett, of Adrian, Mich. has purchased the barber shop of H. W. Shaffer. The latter gentleman will move to Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

Miss Mary Hardy, of Defiance, and Miss Luella Bittenger, of Fort Wayne, spent last week with the family of J. G. Hamilton.

Mrs. J. A. Campbell is very ill, with no hopes of recovery.

We have a talented physician in Butler who is rendering himself famous. "Blood will tell."

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wingate, of Beaver Dam, Ohio, are visiting relatives in Butler.

Monday was a busy day for the eating houses here, over five hundred excursionists took meals at the two lunch rooms.

LEWIS SHIRMEYER. JOHN DROEGEMEYER.

OPENING
BANNER
CLOTHING HOUSE,

No. 27 CALHOUN STREET,

SATURDAY, AUGUST. 26,

WAIT FOR BARGAINS.

L. SHIRMEYER & CO.

ST. JOE.

Eli Fales has sold his grocery to Mart Tustason. The firm will now be Youngling and Tustason.

M. E. Olds is having the addition to his store room shelved and is fitting up for a rousing big stock of fall and winter goods.

If any one wishes to know how it goes to lay around watching for burglars during the wee small hours of the night, ask Sol. B., He has studied that art to perfection.

W. K. Mitchell, of Butler, paid our promontory a short visit last week.

Sol's feet are cold yet from being out barefoot a good part of one night recently.

J. W. Dills, John Provines, Al. Bishop and John Boots all of Spencerville are off on a fishing tour to Petoskey, Michigan. We have heard of no arrangements made to sell their fish on their return but suppose of course that several car loads will be here to dispose of. Hope they will not forget us for thus noticing their going and returning.

It is an established fact that Nels. Thomas can pick more blackberries in one half a day than any other man in town.

Fourteen hundred bushels of oats were received at the St. Joe elevators Saturday last, for which the farmers received 50 cents per bushel.

Mort and Wid say in their daily that Bill Bleaks is the happiest man in town all because of the coming democrat voter at his house. Don't wonder he is happy too about half way up town.

The United Brethren social given at the residence of Dr. Bowman, of Newville, last Saturday night, was a grand success. The receipts at ten cents each amounted to the snug little sum of $16,80 this shows an attendance of over 160 persons. The ladies who had the affair in charge feel proud of this their second attempt of holding their festivals for the benefit of the U. B. S. S. The ladies are very thankful to their friends for assisting to make it such a grand success. The ladies also wish to return their thanks to Dr. Bowman and lady for the use of their fine lawn and home and for the kindly way in which they entertained the company present.

William Leighty and wife, Mr. Patterson and wife and W. B. McClaran were among those in attendance from this place. Miss Josie Thomas, Viola and Mabel Yarnell, and others the names we do not recollect were the moving spirits of the festival.

WATERLOO.

Mrs. Judge Best made a business trip to Fort Wayne, Saturday.

Mrs. J. A. Barnes was in town Saturday in order to "go a piece on the way home" with her sister-in-law, Mrs. B. A. Davis, of Laporte county, who that day returned to her home on train No. 1.

Lillie Shoner started on her visit to Ohio Saturday. She goes to visit friends in Archibald and Toledo, and will be absent for a few weeks.

Mr. Garwood has a brother visiting him at present, who has just returned from Germany, where he was studying music. Too close attention to his studies and constant practice, were beginning to injure his health, and there were indications of paralysis of the right hand. Hence the return to this country. Are not informed as to the probable length of his stay.

Richard Shull and wife have gone to Michigan to visit relatives in that state.

Rev. Henry Johnson will preach in the Presbyterian church here next Sunday at 10:30 a. m. His many friends here will be delighted to hear him again.

The normal school still flourishes. The attendance is increasing, and the interest is good.

Judge Best has been talking of moving his family to Ann Arbor, so as to educate his children at the university there, but we learn has now abandoned the idea, at least for the present.

O. T. Clark is selling off his stock of boots and shoes at cost, as he will close out that part of his business.

Young Noelton spent Sunday at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Bachelor, of Nevada Mills, Steuben Co., spent Sunday with J. D. Campbell and wife.

L. M. Woods went to Reading, Saturday to visit his parents.

H. Leib started for New York Saturday night.

A number of Auburn young people were riding on our streets Sunday evening.

Jennie McClellan went to Angola, Saturday to visit Miss Kate Woodhull.

Miss Jennie Lawhead, of Butler, is spending the week with Mrs. H. H. Knott.

The rain last night cleaned the streets as if they had been scrubbed.

Lowenstein and Rothschild are getting ready for the fall trade.

J. C. Boyer is to take in a partner and push the dry goods business to its utmost.

Johnny and Bennie Duncan got their hair cut, or shingled—mowed, would be a better term. Your correspondent was rubbing Johnnie's head and poking fun at him about the shortness of his hair, Johnnie pointed back to his brother and grinningly remarked: "Well you oughto see ze ozzer feller." And he was about right

Married.—Mr. B. F. Frets and Miss Linna Crooks were married at the residence of the bride's parents, near Waterloo, August 20, 1882. Mr. Frets will be remembered as one of our most successful teachers. His home was in Richland township, but he has been for some time in the west, and is now teaching in the Indian school at Osage Agency, Indian Territory. He came home about the first of July on a furlough of one month. This was afterwards extended to two months. During this time he, of course, visited Miss Crooks at the residence of her father, R. N. Crooks, and made arrangements for their union and removed to the far west. They had corresponded for some time. They left for their future home yesterday, August 23, and expect to settle down, for the present among the good Indians at the Osage Agency. It will be a great change for the young bride who has always been the center of a loving circle at home, with every comfort and want fully supplied. Now she goes to a new country, and in the place where she is to live, she will find only a few white people and these are all government employes who are engaged at the Agency in the service of the general government. And the rest are all Indians. The government employes constitute a little community by themselves, but are represented as a very respectable and worthy class of people. It may be a little lonesome for the young folks at first, but we predict they will win their way wherever they are. They have hosts of friends here, and we have no doubt will secure as many more in their new western home.

Married.

At the Reformed parsonage, Waterloo, August 20th, 1882, by Rev. F. F Christine, Mr. Ling to Miss Della Fredrick, both of Fairfield township, DeKalb Co., Indiana.

Permit No Substitution.

Insist upon obtaining Floreston Cologne. It is pre-eminently superior superior in permanence and rich delicacy of fragrance. 31-4t

Died.—Little George, grandson of Thomas and Susan Cool, born Nov. 18 1881, died Aug. 15, 1882.

Slumber my darling, thy mother is near,
Guarding thy dreams from all terror and fear.
Sunlight has parted and twilight has gone—
Slumber, my darling, the night's coming on.
George has gone, but not forgotten.

—The Continental Insurance Co. of New York has over $4,000,000, capital. G. E. Zimmerman, agent, Auburn, Indiana. 33-2t.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of James Quince, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

LORANA QUINCE, Administratrix
August 23rd, 1882. 34-3w.

Notice to Bridge Builders.

Notice is hereby given, that the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county Indiana, will, on Saturday, September 16th, 1882, at 10 o'clock a. m., let to the lowest and best responsible bidder, the construction of a Howe Truss Bridge across Cedar creek, near Eagle Mills, in Auburn.

Said bridge to be one hundred and twelve (112) feet in length, sixteen feet (16) roadway and to be placed on pile abutments.

Said letting to take place at the site of the work. Plans and specifications can be seen at the auditor's office. Successful bidders will be required to execute a bond for the faithful performance of the work as required by law—to the acceptance of the Board. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board.

Attest: ALBERT ROBBINS, Auditor.
August 21st, 1882. 34-3w.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN, : INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

A SALOON license in Meridian, Miss., costs $1,500.

THERE are six State tickets in the field in Pennsylvania.

THE recent census of France shows a population of 37,672,048.

THE Custom House at New Orleans is to be officially investigated.

THE Texas cattle fever prevails in the Middle and Southern States.

TEXAS expects, in the near future, to have a school fund of $350,000,000.

IT is remarked that an unusual number of new candidates for Congress are being nominated.

THE "Czar of all the Russias" feels himself at liberty to walk or ride without an escort.

THE Republicans of Iowa have nominated a colored man as their candidate for Auditor of State.

B. P. CALHOUN, grandson of John C. Calhoun, is President of the Democratic club at Palatka.

ALEX STEPHENS, candidate for Governor, will roll through Georgia on his chair making campaign speeches.

A NATIONAL temperance convention composed of German-American citizens will be held in Chicago on the 23 inst.

A FIVE-CAR lot of new corn from Texas was sold at auction, on 'Change at St. Louis, on the 12th inst., at $6.95 per bushel.

Secretary Lincoln says there will be no difference in the disbursements of river and harbor appropriation from the policy pursued last year.

UNDER the act of Congress giving Mrs. Garfield the unpaid portion of her late husband's salary for one year, she has been paid the sum of $22,605.

THE New York saving's banks are said to be so full of deposits that it is impossible to invest them properly, and a reduction of interest on such deposits is contemplated.

JOSEPH ACTON, champion wrestler of England, defeated Edwin Bibby, champion of America, at New York, in a match for $1,000, and the championship of the world.

NEWS from Peru states the war is becoming one of extermination. The excesses of the Chilian troops in the interior have excited the populance, who are rising against the troops.

AFTER a long contest the Chicago school authorities decided that marriage shall not be a bar to the employment of woman as teachers in the public schools—a most sensible conclusion.

THE long-threatened suit for divorce has been commenced by Mrs. Francis M. Scoville against her husband, in the Circuit Court at Chicago. She alleges cruel treatment as the ground of her complaint.

IT is expected that all the members of the National Board of Health will resign in consequence of Secretary Folger's decision that the money to check epidemics shall be expended by the marine hospital service.

THE first great loan authorized by the Government in 1861, amounting to $189,800,000, has been wiped out. Of the second loan of $75,000,000, but $17,000,000 remain uncanceled. The people of the United States are debt payers.

A STEUBENVILLE special states that Texas cattle fever prevails to an alarming extent there, and in neighboring counties in Ohio and West Virginia, among cattle recently brought from the Southwest. A large proportion of the animals have died.

NINETEEN thousand eight hundred and forty-seven pounds of fruit, consisting of peaches, grapes and tomatoes, were shipped on the 24th of July from Chattanooga to Cincinnati. Small fortunes have been made by fruit growers in that section in this one season.

THE authorities of the United States and Mexico have formulated and signed a two-years agreement under which the military forces of the two countries may cross the international boundary line in pursuit of hostile Indians committing outrages along the borders.

THE "law of compensation" is being illustrated in Southern Illinois. Last year that region was reduced to the verge of famine by the failure of the crops by the protracted summer's drough; this year that same region has had the finest harvests ever known there, and all the grain has been gathered in good condition.

THE Chicago Herald states an important truth tersely when it says: "The way to prevent 'long, reckless and unprofitable' sessions of Congress is to nominate and send prompt, careful able men to Washington. So long as men are sent to Congress simply because they want to be sent, there will be unprofitable sessions like the one which has just closed."

PRIVATE advices from Madagascar state that the French have excited much alarm among the natives by claiming the right to establish a French Protectorate on the west coast of the island. The Malagasy Government have refused to acknowledge the existence of any such right. The demand, however, has been supported by the arrival of a French man-of-war at Tamative.

Emery J. Garfield, of Cincinnati, a cousin of the late President Garfield, is missing, and his friends have become alarmed at his prolonged absence. He has not been seen by any of his acquaintances since the 1st of the month. He was an expert workman in various branches of the leather trade. He was a man of steady habits and excellent reputation.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says a close analysis of the vote on passing the river and harbor bill over the President's veto shows that the bill was only passed owing to the absentees, and that if those who were absent had either been here, or had seen to it that they were properly paired, the country would have been saved this enormous expense. Forty-five pairs cost this Government $18,000,000, over $300,000 a pair.

THE Secretary of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture estimates the growing corn crop of that State at 200,000,000 bushels. The yield of oats, he says, will average 40 bushels to the acre, and he estimates the aggregate product at 21,000,000 bushels. Wheat threshing shows from 25 to 30 bushels per acre where only 18 to 20 bushels had been expected. This Secretary evidently wears Kansas magnifiers.

DOWN in the anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania little children of six years old are employed in the mines in picking the slate rock out of the coal which has been crushed to small pieces in a breaker. They work here from dawn to dark every day but Sunday, and earn from 35 to 40 cents a day. Of course they never go to school, and grow up in ignorance and in total disregard of the laws of morality. In the northern part of the Luzerne county alone are nearly 3,000 boys from six to fifteen years of age who labor about the mines.

An English syndicate has completed its purchase of 110,000 acres of land in Southern Minnesota, owned by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Company, at $4.50 per acre. It is the intention to establish colonies of Englishmen on the lands. The same company sold James Thompson, a banker of Davenport, Ia., 40,000 acres in Rock county, Minn., the price being a fraction less than $5 per acre. Mr. Boyson, of Milwaukee, the Danish Consul, has completed arrangements for purchasing 55,000 acres from the same company in Faribault and Martin counties, Minn., upon which a number of Danish families will settle.

THE following is a summary of the most important legislation of the late session of Congress: "An act granting the franking privilege to Lucretia R. Garfield; to provide for the appointment of a commission to investigate the question of the tariff; to enable national banking associations to extend their corporate existence; re-establishing the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims and for the distribution of the unappropriated money of the Geneva award; to execute certain treaty stipulations relating to the Chinese; the anti-polygamy bill; making an apportionment of Representatives in Congress under the tenth census; making appropriation for the payment of the final expenses of the tenth census ($540,000); making an immediate appropriations for the removal of obstructions at Hell Gate, New York ($50,000); appropriating $20,000 for the purchase and distribution of seeds (under the direction of the Commissioner of Agriculture) to people in localities overflowed by the Mississippi river; authorizing and directing the purchase by the Secretary of the Treasury of the property known as the Freedman's Bank in Washington; joint resolution concerning an International Fishery Exhibition, to be held at London, in May, 1883, and providing for an exhibit on the part of the United States; appropriating $350,000 for the sufferers by the Mississippi flood; to amend the revised statutes so as to extend to foreign vessels the provisions of inspection laws now applicable to domestic vessels only; to regulate the carriage of passengers upon ocean steamships, and the act to regulate immigration."

THE NEWS

Home Items.

The forest fires in the Cape Cod district in Massachusetts, are on the increase.

Another whisky pool is to be formed for the purpose of stopping over production.

Henry's majority for Clerk of the Appellate Court in Kentucky is estimated at 35,000.

The Denver & Rio Grande road has completed its Utah extension as far as Cimarron, 350 miles.

Albert Lower, a traveling salesman from Detroit, Mich., was murdered by burglars at Columbus, Ky.

Trinket and Clingstone have been matched for a trotting contest, to take place at Hartford, for $20,000 a side.

The Farmers' Bank of Wyoming, Ill., loses $8,000 by the absconding of George B. Hamilton, its book-keeper.

Several cases of hog cholera have appeared southwest of Wabash, Ind., and farmers fear that the disease will spread.

Ten of the jurors in the Jennie Cramer murder trial held a reunion at the Malley homestead in West Haven, Conn.

Richard B. Garland, who recently killed Joseph Addison in a duel in Maryland, has been indicted for murder.

A negro named Booth, was fatally shot by two white men near Satartia, Miss., because he refused them a ride in his wagon.

The hop acreage of New York State, which slightly exceeds 40,000 acres, will yield, it is estimated, 93,000 bales of 280 pounds each.

General Singleton, of Quincy, Ill., will run as an Independent candidate for Congress if the Republicans will make no nomination.

The Northern Pacific Railway Company has completed two additional sections of its road. The two sections cover about 140 miles.

The Governor of Texas has proclaimed a quarantine against all Mexican ports on account of the prevalence of yellow fever.

Philadelphia is making extensive preparations for the bi-centennial celebration in October next, of the landing of William Penn.

DURING the fiscal year ending June 30 there was a falling off of $150,862,010 in our foreign export trade, as compared with the preceding year.

By a premature blasting explosion on the West Shore railroad, near Cornwall, N. Y., Tuesday, four men were killed, and several others badly mutilated.

Bush fires in the fields of Hillsborough county, N. H., are burning fiercely. The fires are eating their way South and East, and threaten Nashua.

Crops in the western and southern portions of Massachusetts are rapidly dying for want of rain. The ground is parched, and the pastures are as dry as straw.

The report of the Chief of the Bureau Statistics for the year ending June 30, shows the total trade between this country and the rest of the world was $1,566,850,456.

Applications to the Treasury Department for the new bonds are coming in very slow, and doubts are expressed whether one-half of the 3½ per cents will be funded.

Acting Secretary French has decided that a party of Chinese laborers, which arrived at Baltimore from Cuba, en route to China, via San Francisco, cannot be landed at that port.

Private information has been received at Washington to the effect that Congressman Robeson, of New Jersey, will probably be defeated for renomination in his district.

THE Cleveland Leader says the Cincinnati brewers have subscribed $50,000 to assist the Democracy in Ohio in the coming campaign. These are Pendleton's civil service reformers.

WILLIAM BUCHANAN, of Milton, Ky., aged 92 years, walked five miles to vote at the recent election, and while eating dinner fell dead. The exertion was too much for him.

Captain Brackett, special agent of the Treasury, has reported on the charges preferred against Appraiser Howard, of the New York Custom House, most of which are sustained.

A letter has been received by a gentleman in Toronto, asking him to join an expedition, composed of Southern ex-Confederate cavalrymen, now being organized to aid Arabi Pasha in Egypt.

Three American prospectors were found dead in the Sonora Valley, Mexico. It is believed they were murdered by the natives, who, however, charge the Apaches with the crime.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing is busily engaged in getting ready for issue the new gold certificates, and it is expected that they will be distributed the latter part of next month.

The Bureau of Construction at the Navy Department are busily engaged upon drawings and plans for the two new steel cruisers provided for in the naval appropriation bill recently passed by Congress.

The youth, Curtis, who eloped with Mrs. Dixon, of St. Louis, recently, and deserted her after all her money had been dissipated, was arrested for attempting to assault a domestic in the employ of Dr. Papin, of St. Louis.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office has forwarded to the Receiver and Register at Duluth, Minn., printed proclamations, announcing an offering of lands at public sale, to be made at Duluth on December 4th next.

Mont Robbins, whose father, ex-Congressman William Robbins, was assaulted by L. Mott, at Statesville, N. C., on account of a bitter political speech, went to Iredell county, where Mott lived and killed Mott for the attack on his father.

Stewart, Independent Republican candidate for Governor in Pennsylvania, has invited General Beaver, the regular nominee, and Pattison, the Democratic candidate, to discuss with him in public the political matters of the State.

The Garfield Monument Association has issued a circular announcing that a national fair and bazar will be held in the rotunda of the United States Capitol, commencing on the 25th of November, 1882, and continuing until December 3.

Dr. F. J. Quinlan, for the past few years under physician at Standing Rock Agency, says the Indians are rapidly advancing in the ways of civilization, and those recently hostile to the whites now take to farming with avidity.

The Republican Congressional Campaign Committee has issued another assessment circular, inviting further voluntary contributions. This is said to have been rendered necessary by the almost unprecedented demand made upon the committee.

At a meeting of the Stock-dealers' Association of Maryland, held at Baltimore, Dr. W. H. Rose, of the United States Agricultural Association, said pleuro-pneumonia was on the increase in Maryland, and great care should be taken to prevent its further spread.

Alexander Wieber, his wife, and little 6-year-old son were murdered in their house at Evansville, Ind., Saturday night. Their heads had been battered in with a hatchet and their throats cut. An infant was found in its crib near by unharmed. No cause is known for the terrible deed.

Wet weather is reported to have seriously injured the wheat crop in Kentucky, and also in Canada. In the former place it is sprouting in the stacks, and in the latter the damages of a few days past have converted a promising yield into a comparative failure.

Consul Tanner, of Liege, Belgium, says the protracted wet weather has ruined crops in that country. The wheat yield will be but a half a crop, and potatoes are very scarce. He advises American farmers to devise means to market their Irish potatoes in Brussels or Antwerp, where very remunerative prices can be had.

The body of Mrs. Driscoll was found in a corn field in Richmond county, Illinois, a few days ago, bearing conclusive marks of murder. Her son, who disappeared soon after the discovery of the tragedy, was captured in Red Wing, Minn., and is charged with killing his mother.

The Assistant Treasurer at New York states the amount of gold coin held by the associate banks is $60,000,000, and that all the banks will probably make large and rapid offerings of their gold for the new gold certificates, and that the banks are anticipating their issue now, by priority applications.

Foreign.

The reported arrest of General Ignatieff is contradicted.

A holy war against the Christians is being preached in Morocco.

The fall and spring wheat crop of Canada is a very abundant one.

The Canadian Pacific railroad is being pushed forward at the rate of three miles a day.

The Mexican National railway, from the City of Mexico to Toluca, has been opened to public travel.

The £180,000, for distribution among the Irish Constabulary has been forwarded to the county inspectors.

The English House of Lords have determined to abandon their first amendment to the arrears of rent bill.

Water is so scarce in Paris that the city authorities have been obliged to appeal to the public to economize in its use.

The Empress of Germany, Saturday, while walking at Babelsberg, slipped, fell to the ground, and was slightly bruised.

Henry George, the American writer, was arrested in Ireland as a suspicious stranger, but was released from custody in three hours.

The Chilian troops have committed grievous excesses in the interior of Peru, literally pursuing a war of extermination.

The dryness of the season in Nicaragua threatens total destruction to the corn crop, and a dearth of food in some sections is imminent.

Bishop Lafreche, of Three Rivers, Can., has forbidden the ladies of his congregation, under the pain of sin, from wearing curls.

Stephen J. Meany, the Irish agitator, who had just returned from America to his native town, Ennis, was arrested there as a political offender.

There were 321 families, representing 1,619 persons, evicted in Ireland during the month of July. The outrages for the same time number 231.

The Greek Government has appointed a commission to proceed to England and contract for the construction of powerful war vessels.

J. S. Hunter, a prominent notary of Montreal, is a defaulter to the extent of $100,000, having embezzled the amount while managing a large estate.

A decree has been published in France giving a legal status to all commercial, educational, and financial associations authorized by the United States.

Hollanders are emigrating in great numbers to South Africa, allured there by the inviting lectures of Boer missionaries on the resources of their country.

There is a great scarcity of laborers on the Ottawa and Toronto branch of the Ontario and Queb[illegible] railway notwithstanding that the highest wages are paid.

Professor Femarck, an eminent German surgeon, has published a lecture, in which he asserts that President Garfield would be alive if he had received proper medical treatment.

By an explosion of gunpowder in an adjoining building, a school-house at Grodina, Russia, in which were several children, was wrecked. Many bodies have been taken from the ruins.

The British House of Lords assented to the reamendments of the House of Commons to the arrears bill, after protests by the Marquises of Salisbury and Waterford and the Earl of Limerick.

The reported murder of a Moslem by a Christian in Beyrout, Cyprus, occasioned an anti-Christian demonstration, in which one was killed and others arrested. A number of Christians fled to the mountains for safety.

The Bonapartists had a meeting at Paris, at which resolution were passed favoring the placing of Prince Victor Napoleon upon the throne of France. De Cassagnac said the Imperialists were ready for power, and meant to take it.

Fearful depredations and crimes are being committed by Apache Indians in the State of Sonora, Mexico. They burn crops and murder the inhabitants. They are well armed with Winchester rifles, and use cartridges of the United States army.

THE STATE.

August 23d and 24th there will be an encampment of Knights Templar held in Elkhart. Several thousand knights are expected to attend. Extensive preparations are being made.

Alfred Clawson, seven miles west of Connersville, has a boy, five years old, that is a prodigy of weight and physical strength. He weighs eighty six pounds, and has not one atom of surplus fat, and can down any twelve-year old boy in the county.

The workmen in the employ of A. E. Crocker, while digging the cellar for a new building at Richmond, ran across an interesting problem in the shape of an old cellar wall some fifteen feet under ground. No one seems to be able to why, when or under what circumstances it got there.

As Frank Frieble, aged fifteen years, was walking on Bank street, near Spring, at New Albany, he was accosted by a large man in his shirt sleeves, who robbed him of his gold watch and chain. The assailant, who was a stranger, escaped.

Little Minnie Dickman, of Shelbyville, got a bottle of nitric acid and drank a little of it. Her screams brought her sister to her side, who in her excitement spilled the remainder over herself and sister. Both are badly burned but will recover.

Miss Cora Miner, sixteen years old, and Miss Emma Rogers, about the same age, daughters of very respectable families in Fort Wayne, were abducted by a woman of bad repute, named Laura Waite, and taken to Peoria, Illinois, where they were last heard from.

Elliott Tutt, a resident of South Bend for half a century, who was found dead in bed on Monday Morning of heart disease, was one of the first manufacturers in the county and held various offices for about twenty-five years. His wife was found dead in the same bed a little over a year ago.

Peter Demien, a German, aged eighty years, residing with his son-in-law, Chris. Crumm, at Laporte, committed suicide on Sunday, by strangulation. He tied a handkerchief around his neck, fastened one end of a short rope to that and the other end to the bed-post, and hands and knees on the floor, pulled back until life was extinct.

A company has been organized at Vincennes for the purpose of packing ice on a large scale. The organization has a capital of $100,000, and is called the Spring Lake Ice company. An artificial lake will be formed covering seventy-five acres of ground on which are ten natural springs. Several large ice houses will be built, with a total capacity of 25,000 tons.

Shelbyville was startled the other night by the cry of murder from a woman who was in a buggy with a man who was driving the horse on a dead run. Quite a number were following under the lead of one man, who, at various times, would fire his revolver at the occupants of the buggy. Upon investigation it was discovered that a patent medicine man, who has been selling his ware on the public square there for some time, started buggy riding with Mrs. Bob Melbian, but just as they got underway Melbian made his appearance and opened fire.

A Fort Wayne policeman named Doyle arrested two persons for being disorderly. They resisted and assaulted the officer, who drew his pistol and fired, killing one of the offenders, named Alexander, instantly.

THE trouble over the ownership of the cottage at the Loveland camp ground, occupied by Evangelist Harrison, has been settled by Mr. Harrison paying $100 for the lot upon which the house stands. He now has an undisputed title.

The Supreme Court has overruled a petition for a rehearing in the Purdue College Fraternity case. The opinion of Judge Niblack, that the college authorities have no right to exact a pledge from a student that he will not be a member of a secret fraternity during his connection with the college, is sustained. Judge Woods dissents. The case will probably be taken to the United States Supreme Court.

THE following is the aggregate of the June apportionment by County Auditors to the various school corporations: Congressional township revenue, belonging to townships, towns or cities in counties, including receipts from counties, $62,281.54; common school revenue apportioned to townships, towns or cities, $1,600,980.10; tuition revenue from local taxation paid township since last apportionment, $878,222.34; revenue from liquor licenses paid the townships, towns or cities, $64,319.44; total tuition revenue of townships, towns or cities, $1,546,312.42.

Equality is the life of conversation; and he is as much out who assumes to himself any part above another, as he who considers himself below the rest of society.—Sir Richard Steele.

TABLE TALK.

The fiddle is king of instrumental beasts.

Wealth has its prerogative; poverty its actualities.

The Lansing company has fifty tons of butter on hand.

Buffalo Bill has sold his ranche in Nebraska for $175,000.

Some men are sententious, and others are ten-centious.

Francis Murphy is pushing the temperance crusade in Scotland.

Senator Hill kept the cancer a secret from his wife for three years.

Buckingham county, Va., has over forty sassafras oil distilleries.

The bicycle is recommended by Erie physicians to cure dyspepsia.

Ironclad suits for base ball umpires are said to be the latest novelty.

A Macon lady was gored by a cow, "which luckily had no horns."

The Chinese say there are two good men; one dead, the other unborn.

Of French cooks London Truth says that they do not know how to roast.

A machine that supplies dead beer with live gas, is the latest invention of the enemy.

Rich deposits of phosphate rock have been discovered in Chatham county, Ga.

The eight savings banks of San Francisco held $46,389,692 deposits on July 1, 1882.

Sending fresh figs north from Florida in refrigerating cars has has proven a dead failure.

The latest novelties in the market are Perry Belmont doormats and Arabi Pasha spittoons.

There are fifty-two breweries in Brooklyn which produce 4,000,000 kegs of lager annually.

It is claimed that a hot lye bath is an unfailing cure for lockjaw. So is water if it is hot enough.

Dr. Gatling has invented a new gun with which experiments are now being made at Sandy Hook.

A good deal is said of Kentucky products; but Kentucky is really strongest in her butter.

A married woman's foot race was one of the attractions at a Methodist picnic near Berlin, Wis.

Scientific men in Japan are discussing the probability of utilizing the internal heat of the earth.

The Chicago Tribune speaks of "a lady thief." She is probably a sister of the gentleman burglar.

In warm weather the Frenchman eats his omelette with chervil, tarragon and minced young onions.

"Wholesale pants." Of course holes all pants. It is one of the worst things that can happen to them.

Very annoying misprint that of the Chicago Tribune, which speaks of a doctor feeling his patient's "purse."

An Easton, Pa., mule grieved so at the death of its working mate that it refused to eat and starved to death.

The skin of a little St. Louis girl, just before her death, turned to the color of the rattlesnake that had bitten her.

"Souring on the temperance law" is what the Iowa brewers call it when they turn a brewery into a vinegar factory.

Telephonic messages have been successfully sent from Brussels to Dover through 60 miles of cable and 200 miles of air line.

The smoke-consuming devices which the people of Cincinnati are now using have purified the atmosphere to a wonderful degree.

Mrs. George Tressler of Chenoa, Ill., has two pairs of twins, the oldest of which was 13 months of age when the second pair was born.

Near Milton, Fla., a drunken man laid down in a swamp to rest, and while asleep was literally sucked to death by mosquitoes.

By invitation of the bar association of New York, Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, of England, will visit America as its guest next year.

One of the fashionable dames sojourning at the Pequot house, New London, has a dress said to be composed entirely of peacock tips.

A writer from a southern hotel where hot waffles and flannel cakes are eaten, defines a northern man as "a theoretical eater of cold bread."

In Boston not more than one-fifth of the men who present themselves to enlist in the army come up to the physical requirements and are accepted.

Miss Nora Landis, living near New York, works in the harvest field during the day, and entertains her company with piano recitrals during the evening.

Better Horses and Better Prices

Charles Aldrich in the Iowa Homestead.

Never in the history of fine stock interests has such rapid improvement in any branch of stock raising been made as has characterized the American draft horse. Americans have crossed the Atlantic and obtained the very best specimens of French and English draft horses, the progeny of which have been scattered throughout the country; yet farmers are slow to improve the opportunity of using them, but will continue to use mongrels because they are cheaper. There is not a more profitable business connected with the farm than raising half and three quarter blood draft horses. We will suppose the reader is a farmer and possesses four or five work horses; we will also suppose that three out of the five are mares, or can be exchanged for mares. You breed these three mares to one of the many little stallions of the country, and you produce a colt useless until it is three years old, and his cash value is then from $60 to $100. Take the same three mares and breed them to a thorough bred draft horse of any kind of the popular breeds, Norman, Clydesdale, English draft, Suffolk, Punch or Cleveland Bay, and the offsprings will be colts that can be put to work at two years old. We have known yearlings to be used for light work, but do not recommend that. After working their colts two summers, thereby receiving satisfactory returns for feed and trouble, at 4 years old you will find a ready sale for them at from $125 to $250 per head. We know a farmer who pursues this course, turning off a team of 4-year-olds each year, at prices that were never lower than $375 per team.

FROM THE WIRES.

Constantinople, August 12—The Turkish delegates to the conference have informed Dufferin that no troops will be landed in Egypt until the arrival of the Turkish special commissioners.

It is stated that the Sultan has confided the chief command of the Turkish expedition to Egypt to the Khedive, who, it is expected, will appoint General Wolseley to the command of the united force.

The Turkish journals are assuming a friendly tone towards England.

The Sheik-ul-Islam has prohibited the Ulemas from preaching in favor of Arabi Pasha.

The last sitting of the conference will probably be held on Monday.

Berlin, August 12.—The Grausboten, the officially inspired organ, says Germany can't risk the loss of the good will of other provinces by paralyzing or counteracting their policy unless she is absolutely forced to do so. She has neither the wish nor right to play the part of a European censor. She will neither give a mandate to England to act on the Nile nor hinder her from doing what she may think necessary for British interests. The interests of Germany have not been menaced. If they are menaced hereafter she will have plenty of time to take her resolutions. Her only aim is European peace which will be maintained.

London, August 12.—The Times' leading article says: "When the army of Arabi Pasha has been dispersed and its leaders brought to account for their misdeeds we shall have to make sure that difficulty may not reoccur in a new form. Egypt will be in our hands. It will not be open to us to retire from the country, and leave events to take their own course. This is the resolve of England, and when it becomes necessary to seek the sanction of other Powers for the result, the concert of Europe will be invoked in a sense very different from that with which we have been familiar."

Constantinople, August 12.—What Dufferin insists upon in order to secure harmony of action is that no movements of Turkish troops when they are in Egypt should take place without the preliminary consent of Wolseley.

Malta, August 12.—General Sir Garnet Wolseley has arrived here, enroute to Alexandria. He is quite well.

Constantinople, August 14.—The Musselman priests, whom the Sultan frequently consults, explain that Arabi Pasha, in so far as he disobeyed the Caliph, is a rebel, and may be unceremoniously treated as such, but in so far as he has been a defender of the Mohammedan country against the aggressive designs of the Christians, he has merely fulfilled his duties as a good Musselman, and consequently the Calip cannot make common cause with England. The Sultan may punish Arabi Pasha if some act of rebellion is proved agains t him, but he must not associate himself with those who wish to crush Arabi Pasha as the defender of Islam.

The correspondent says this will greatly influence Turkish military action.

The strongest orders have been sent to the Governors of Beyrout, Damascus and Aleppo, to take exceptional care to secure pubic order and prevent outbreaks of the natives.

A correspondent, writing from Beyroot, says events in Egypt are greatly influencing Syrian Mussulmans. In the present situation a trifling incident would suffice to set the whole province ablaze.

Alexandria, August 14.—Fires of considerable magnitude are visible today in the rear of the enemy's position at Kingsman.

The steamer Holland, with the Household Cavalry and the troop ship Orontes, with the Cameron Highlanders and a battalion of the Derbyshire Regiment, has arrived.

London, August 14.—It is stated that half the marines now stationed in Ireland will proceed to Egypt as soon as possible.

Alexandria, August 15.—Natives from Kafr el Dwar report that Arabi Pasha on Sunday called a meeting of Ulemas and obtained from them a fetma deposing the Sultan, and naming the Sherif of Mecca as Caliph. Arabi, they also say, is organizing Bedouins, and has appointed commanders for those at Charkies and at Garbieh, in Upper Egypt.

Alexandria, August 15.—Colonel Gerard, of the mounted infantry, rode before daybreak to-day on a reconnoisance to within half a mile of enemy's second line. The reconnoitering party was pursued by horsemen, of whom it succeeded in killing several. Colonel Gerard states that he accomplished the object of the reconnoisance.

Two decrees by the Khedive are promulgated to-day. One authorizes the British Admiral and commander of the force to occupy such points on the Suez Isthmus as they consider useful for military operations against the rebels, and inviting Egyptian authorities to acquaint inhabitants, particularly canal employes, of the decree. The other authorizes the British authorities to prevent importation of coal and munitions of war along the coast between Alexandria and Port Said, and in the event of contravention of order, to seize the prohibited articles.

Alexandria, August 15—6:30 p. m.—General Wolseley just arrived.

Constantinople, August 15.—The Khedive has summoned Nubar Pasha to Alexandria.

Alexandria, August 16—The belief in the hopelessness of the struggle is spreading among the Egyptians. The British commander at Meks has received overtures for the surrender of an entire battallion, if they can obtain favorable terms.

General Sir Garnet Wolseley, with the authority of the Khedive, has issued a proclamation to the people of Egypt, presenting the sole object of the British to be to restore the authority of the Khedive. It says all peaceful inhabitants will be kindly treated. Mosques will be respected, and all supplies paid for. General Wolseley adds that he will be glad to receive all chiefs who are disposed to assist in suppressing the rebellion.

An encounter between the British mounted patrol and a party of 500 Bedouins occurred this morning near Ramleh. Five of the latter were killed.

General Wolseley held a conference to-day with Admiral Seymour and all the Generals. He subsequently visited the Khedive. This afternoon General Wolseley will inspect the Ramleh position.

Constantinople, August 16.—The drought of the military convention proposed by the Porte to England was as follows:

"The Turkish army undertakes the pacification of Egypt without foreign assistance. The British to remain in their present positions and not to participate in the operations. The Turks shall be allowed to use Alexandria as a base of operations, and the Turks and British both to withdraw after the pacification of the country."

Dufferin rejected this draught, and submitted another, stipulating that Turkey should not undertake operations without the previous consent of the British commander. That British officers should be attached to the Turkish headquarters, and that the subject of evacuation should be the subject of a special convention.

It is believed that there is no probability of the Porte accepting the English conditions. A few officers and soldiers have returned on leave from Suda Bay, where 4,100 Turkish troops are assembled.

London, August 16.—Apprehensions regarding the safety of the Suez canal having been removed, business in the insurance of ships against war risks has ceased.

Dublin, August 16.—E. Dwyer Grey, member of Parliament and proprietor of the Freeman's Journal was to-day sentenced to three months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of £500 for contempt of court in publishing the letter of O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, accusing the jury which convicted Francis Hines of the murder of John Doloughty of being drunk on the night previous to the day the verdict was given, and an article commenting thereon. O'Brien and Davitt were put out of court. Grey, after being sentenced, was handed over to the custody of the city coroner. The latter evinced some reluctance to take charge of him, but the Judge called upon him to do his duty. The coroner, whose intervention was necessary because Grey is High Sheriff of the city of Dublin, then conveyed the prisoner to Richmond prison. Grey, at the expiration of his term, must give bonds himself for £5,000, and the two others for £2,000 each. The decision of the court caused a great sensation. Grey was Lord Mayor of Dublin in 1880, and was nominated the second time for 1881, but declined the nomination.

Taylorville, Ill., August 12.

Three of the four men under arrest here on suspicion of having been concerned in the outrage on Miss Bond on the 29th of June last were to-day held for trial in the Circuit Court, bail being fixed in the sum of $4,000 each in the cases of John Montgomery and Lee Pettis, and $3,000 in the case of Emanuel Clementi. The Magistrate took the ground that the testimony was such as to warrant commitment for trial. This decision was a surprise to the defendants, who had confidently counted upon the strength of their alibi testimony to set them free.

As to William J. Montgomery, nothing had been shown except that he had possession of Miss Bond's pocketbook, which he claimed to have found in the school house.

To-night a crowd of 2,000 to 3,000 men overpowered the officers, took the prisoners and carried them out to hang them. Montgomery was pulled up about four feet from the ground and held there about one minute, when he was let down again, limp and exhausted. When he recovered sufficiently to speak he asserted his innocence. A. D. Bond, the father of the outraged girl, was then brought on the ground, and another attempt to make Mongomery confess, but he still maintained his innocence as firmly as before. In the meantime Pettis had been treated in much the same way as Montgomery, but they could not obtain anything from him but protestations of his innocence. Up to this time the crowd had failed to find Clementi, but finally he was discovered, and he too was subjected to the same treatment, but without obtaining a confession of guilt from him. Shortly after this a fire broke out in town, which had the effect of attracting a large part of the crowd, and the mob was practically broken up. Mr. Bond and the prosecuting attorney appealed to those of the crowd who had not gone to the fire to let the men go to trial and have a fair chance for their lives. This had a mollifying effect on the crowd, and Mr. Bond and the attorney took the prisoners back to jail.

Philadelphia dispatch:

Preparations for the celebration in October next, in this city, of the bi-centennial anniversary of the landing of William Penn are progressing rapidly and assuming immense proportions. It is estimated that on the first, or civic day, there will be at least 25,000 participants, including about 3,000 old firemen of the city and State. Fifty firms and factories have already signified their intention to parade on the Trade Day, and at least 500 will respond before the day fixed. It is believed that 50,000 men of all branches of industry, with their tools, looms, machinery and appliances, will be in line on that day. On the musical day at least 2,500 to 3,000 musicians will be on the platform, including Welsh and German societies from all parts of the United States, and $1,200 in prizes will be distributed. For the regetta on Schuylkille $1,500 has been contributed. On October 17, 10,000 soldiers of the State and visiting organizations, and 10,000 members of the Grand Army of the Republic, will take part in the grand military pageant

---

An Indian Territory special says that returns from the recent election for Chief of the Choctaw Nation come in slowly, three counties still remaining to be heard from. The returns received indicate the election of John F. McCurtain as principal Chief, over B. F. Smallwood. The latter run on the anti-railroad ticket; McCurtain being supported by the progressive element.

Stillwater, Minn., dispatch:

While Miss Carrie Catlstine Johnson was riding near the depot this morning, a switch-engine frightened her horse, which ran away. The young lady was thrown under the cars and instantly killed.

Mrs. G. S. Boozen, wife of the agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, at Franksville, a small station in Racine county, Wisconsin, was brutally outraged by a tramp, yesterday, who happened to find the lady alone in the house.

A letter was received by the Brooklyn police to-day from a lawyer of Princeton, Ill., in reference to the antecedents of C. A. Weltan. The letter set forth that Weltou was about to be arrested for bigamy, and asked for information concerning the report that he had a wife living in Brooklyn, he having wed a very respectable young lady of Princeton. This morning the papers contained a report of the suicide of the alleged bigamist. The police find that he had a wife and child in Brooklyn, and the lady left there Monday evening for Princeton, she having learned of her husband's bigamy. At the time of her departure she had not heard of his suicide. She will arrive at Princeton to-morrow.

Dick Little, a well-known member of the old James gang, was arrested at Kansas City by a United States Marshal, charged with complicity in the robbery of the of the United States Paymaster at Mussel Shoals, Alabama, March 11, 1881. The amount taken was $5,200, and it is supposed the robbery was perpetrated by Jesse James, William Ryan (who is now serving a twenty-five-years sentence for train robbery), and Dick Little. Little asserts his innocence, and says he can prove that his arrest is the work of surviving members of the James gang, who have a grudge against him for the information he gave the officers, which led to the breaking up of the gang.

A special from Indian Territory says considerable excitement is prevailing in the Choctaw and Cherokee nations, owing to the bill which recently passed both branches of Congress granting the right of way through the Indian country to the St. Louis & San Francisco railway. Hope was expressed that President Arthur would refuse to sign the bill, and thus defeat it, but, he having approved it, the Indians who opposed the measure are without resource. Many Indians regard the bill as the first step in the dismemberment of the Indian Territory.

The bodies of two young men, R. J. Gaundrill and James Merritt, both sporting characters, residents of Watertown, were found on the railroad track near Mexico, New York. They are supposed to have been stealing a ride and knocked off the cars by a bridge.

James McAllister, a prominent lumberman of Windsor, Ont., was instantly killed at Detroit, on the shore of Lake Erie, while superintending the loading of a vessel, with square timber. A heavy stick broke from its fastenings, while being lifted, and fell upon and crushed him. Mr. McAllister was engaged in extensive business operations in Western Ontario.

Atlanta, Ga., dispatch:

About two o'clock a. m. Wdnesday Senator Hill was found to be rapidly sinking. His breathing was with difficulty. He continued to sleep, however, and at a few minutes after six his death occurred without a struggle. He died from exhaustion. For several hours before Senator Hill's death it was evident that the end was near. Soon after daybreak his family were summoned to the bedside and there were present at the death the following persons: Mrs. Hill, B. H. Hill, Jr., and wife, Dr. R. P. Ridley and wife, Senator Hill's daughter, Charles D. Hill his son, two nephews and Dr. Wright, the attending surgeon. Four hours before Senator Hill's death he made a sign for a hypodermic injection of morphine, which was administered. He appeared to be awake and conscious several times, but could not speak. At 6:15 he was apparently awake when he closed his eyes gently and died without even a tremor.

Benjamin Harvey Hill was a native of Jasper county, Georgia, born September 14, 1823, and thus at his death lacked about a month of completing his fiftieth year. He was educated in the private schools of his native county and at the University of Georgia, whence he was graduated in 1844. He studied law and was admitted to the bar the following year. Two years later he was elected to the State Legislature as a Whig and became prominent as a debater—a quality which in later years he showed to a marked degree. In 1855 he appeared as a leader of the American or "Know-Nothing" party, and was defeated as their candidate for Congress. Two years later he was the Know-Nothing candidate for Governor and was defeated. In 1859 he was again sent to the Legislature by a combination of Whigs and Know-Nothings. In 1860 he was a supporter of the Bell and Everett National ticket, and a Presidential elector for that ticket. He was a delegate to the State convention which adopted secession, which he opposed, joining with Alexander H. Stephens in advocating the union. When it passed, however, he "joined the majority" and was a delegate to the Confederate Provisional Congress and afterward a Senator from Georgia in the Confederate Congress. He was arrested in 1865 and imprisoned in Fort Lafayette. After the war he opposed reconstruction, and this made him a place in the Democratic party, and he was elected a Representative from Georgia to the Forty-fourth Congress to fill a vacancy. He was re-elected to the Forty-fifth Congress, but resigned to take his seat in the Senate, to which he had been elected. His term there began in March, 1877, and he at once came to the front in the nodebates which followed the settlement of the Presidential dispute in the election of Hayes as declared by the Electoral Commission. On the army bill, when the right of the army to act as a posse comitatus was discussed, he and Senator Blaine were the great opponents. Mr. Hill was a powerful debater, a fine political orator, a man of large experience in public affairs and aggressive by nature. He won the title of "fire eater" in those debates and was looked upon as the great champion of the South. About a year ago a cancer in the mouth developed, called a "smoker's cancer," and although a first operation promised relief it was only temporary and since then he has been a constant sufferer, dying slowly from the ravages of the dread affliction and from starvation. In person he was above medium height, almost tall, robust, and well proportioned; of the florid western type, with "sandy" hair, blue eyes and fair complexion.

The little son of Jacob Wahl was killed at Elkhart by falling down a basement stairs. He was playing with a dog, and jerking back fell, striking on his head, and lived but a few minutes.

Leadville, Col., August 12.

John McKennie was murdered at 2 o'clock this morning. Three masked men entered the saloon in which he was employed as bar-tender, and without a moment's warning began to shoot. No clew to the assassins. This is the eighth murder in two months.

Breckinridge, Col., dispatch:

Last Friday, William Bird and his son, who live on a ranch at Bear river, returning home from work, discovered that their cabin had been burglarized. In company with five other men they started in pursuit, soon overtaking the thieves. In the fight that ensued both thieves were killed, as was also Mr. Bird's son.

Gov. Rusk has received notice from Wm. Lawrence, First Comptroller of the United States Treasury Department, that the State of Wisconsin has been allowed $11,416, being 5 per cent. of the net proceeds of the sales of public lands in this State for the year ending June 30, 1881, and that this amount has been placed to the credit of Wisconsin on account of the direct tax due by this State to the general Government.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed.
Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant.
Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water.
Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.
Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.
Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Leucorrhea, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

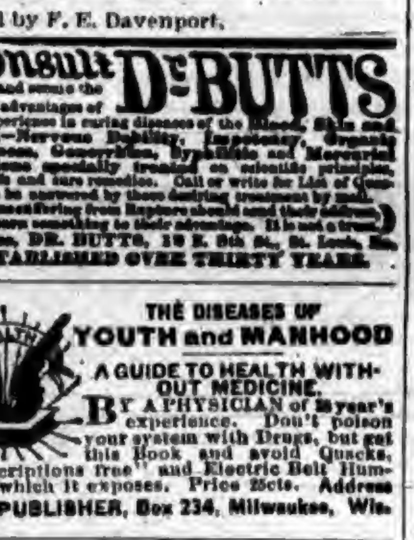
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Consult Dr. BUTTS and secure the advantages of long experience in curing diseases of the Blood, Skin and Bones,—Nervous Debility, Impotency, Organic Weakness, Gonorrhea, Syphilitic and Mercurial Affections specially treated on scientific principles, with safe and sure remedies. Call or write for List of Questions to be answered by those desiring treatment by mail. (Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss.) Address, DR. BUTTS, 12 N. 8th St., St. Louis, Mo.
ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF
YOUTH and MANHOOD
A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE.
BY A PHYSICIAN of 25 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks, "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address
THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

Parker's Hair Balsam
Satisfies the most fastidious as a perfect Hair Restorer & Dressing. Admired for its cleanliness & elegant perfume. Never Fails to Restore Grey or Faded Hair to the youthful color. 50 cts. and $1 sizes at all druggists.



GET THE BEST.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC
Ginger, Buchu, Mandrake, Stillingia & many of the best medicines known are here combined into a medicine of such varied and effective powers, as to make the Greatest Blood Purifier &
The Best Health & Strength Restorer Ever Used
It cures Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Sleeplessness, all diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, and all Female Complaints.
If you are wasting away with Consumption or any disease, use the Tonic today. It will surely help you. Remember! it is far superior to Bitters, Essences of Ginger and other Tonics, as it builds up the system without intoxicating. 50c. & $1 sizes, at dealers in drugs. None genuine without signature of Hiscox & Co., N. Y. Send for circular
LARGE SAVING BUYING THE DOLLAR SIZE.

A MAN

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of Most Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, Magnificent Horton Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous

"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."

A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.

Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.

Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.

For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the

GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,
At your nearest Ticket Office, or address
R. R. CABLE, E. ST. JOHN,
Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r; Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.
CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!

Every Style & Price.

Guaranteed Unequaled FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.

Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.

Always Reliable.

POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable Balm that will remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, enclosing 3c stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dreadful disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence,
JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.
177

KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

WHOLESALE LIST

TURNIP SEEDS!

MERCHANTS!
SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST.
D. LANDRETH & SONS,
PHILADELPHIA.

DR. HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. [illegible]

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. [illegible] as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. [illegible]
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 20th, 1881.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC.

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

THE

COLUMBUS BUGGY COMPANY

STILL LEADS WITH THE LARGEST BUGGY MANUFACTORY IN THE WORLD.

AND SELL THE BEST BUGGY ON THE GLOBE FOR THE MONEY.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE AND TESTIMONIALS OF HUNDREDS OF LIVERYMEN WHO HAVE USED THEM

ADDRESS

COLUMBUS BUGGY Co.

COLUMBUS OHIO.

Be sure before buying, to examine the Name Plate to be found on the rear of every Buggy manufactured by us, for NONE ARE GENUINE unless they bear the name

Columbus Buggy Company,

COLUMBUS OHIO.

Many inferior goods are offered as Columbus Buggies, and care should be used to distinguish between "Columbus Buggies" and Columbus Buggy Co's. Buggies.

TESTIMONIALS.

GENTLEMEN: Your buggies have given me entire satisfaction, both in style and durability I have used them for the past three years Your recent improvements on road wagons I consider the best in the market.

JAMES H. RAMBURG.

Frederick Maryland.

DEAR SIRS: We have used buggies of your make that have been in use three years, and no buggy we have that cost twice the amount has given better satisfaction.

JAMES H. ALEXANDER.

Johnstown, Pa.

GENTLEMEN: We have used the Columbus Buggy Company's work for the last five years and can conscientiously recommend it as strictly first class as to style, material, workmanship and durability. Your buggies have given better satisfaction than any other make of vehicles we had in use for the last ten years.

PALMER & WHITTAKER.

Red Oak Iowa.

GENTLEMEN: It gives me pleasure to state that I have been selling your buggies and carriages for four years, and can safely recommend them to any one in want of a buggy or carriage. Yours Truly, J. L. GRIBBLE.

Macomb, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: With over fifteen years experience in building buggies, wagons, &c., I do not hesitate in saying your buggies and carriages are strictly first-class in workmanship, material and proportions, filling a long-felt want for a reliable article that can be sold at a price lower than any ordinary manufacturer can produce and sell the same quality of Work at. Yours, etc. I. S. KRICK, Conneautville, Pa.

GENTLEMEN: I have used your Brewster side bar buggies for four years, together with buggies that cost me $300 and $350, and your buggies were the first that went out, on account of being side-bar. They have not cost me $5 for repairs, and those I have sold of your make have given good satisfaction. I think that you make the cheapest and best road wagons that are made in the United States for the money. Respectfully, P. H. HAMLIN, Lawrence Kansas.

DEAR SIRS: We have been using your buggies for the last four or five years. They have given entire satisfaction. I think they are the best buggies made for the money.

W. B. GRIMES & CO., Liverymen Whitehall, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: We have been handling your work for two seasons, and have in every instance found your buggies first class. We never have had one of your jobs returned to us for repairs; neither have we had a single complaint on account of work not being perfectly satisfactory. Very Respectfully, B. P. BUCKLEY & CO., Springfield, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: I have no hesitancy in saying that the buggies manufactured by the Columbus Buggy Company are the best work for the price I have any knowledge of. In not a single instance has there been any dissatisfaction on the part of any one of my customers.

FRANK L HALL.

Owensboro, Ky

DEAR SIRS: For the past two years we have used your buggies side by side with other makes in both our stables, and are perfectly satisfied with the strenght, durability and workmanship compared with others. As fast as our stock in livery is used up we shall replace them with your manufacture, knowing from experience that it is the best we can do. Respectfully,

SWEET & FOLLANSBEE.

Quincy Illinois.

For sale by dealers everywhere.

Any of our readers who will enclose two 3 cent stamps in a letter to the Columbus Buggy Co., Columbus O., will receive in return a beautiful engraving in colors, representing an Australian scene and their manner of travelling in that country with ostriches as a motor. They have this picture (the packing costing six cents) to all who may send for it, desiring in this manner to make themselves more widely known to the people.

A Monster Snake.

WHAT A MARYLAND MAN SAW IN THE ROAD.

[Cecil (Md.) Whig.]

The existence in Elk Neck, two miles southeast of town, of an enormous snake has for several years been asserted, a number of persons having testified to meeting his snakeship on his rambles, but not until recently has the fact of his existence been reduced to a certainty. A few days ago a gentleman whose veracity is beyond question, and whose head is too level to mistake a shadow for the substance, while passing along the neck road near Mill Creek, in a cart, saw about twenty-five yards in advance of him the body of a monster crossing the road. How much of the forward part of the reptile had already disappeared in the bushes it was impossible to tell, but the portion in view extended entirely across the road, and there was some in the undergrowth on the side from which it was passing. The road at this point is about 18 feet in width, and it is estimated that his snakeship is at the lowest calculation ten feet greater in length, making him in all twenty-eight feet in length. In thickness his body was apparently of the dimensions of an ordinary stovepipe, the observer declaring that it was not a bit less in size, and of a dark color. When first observed the gentleman supposed it to be a log lying across the roadway, but presently seeing it in motion its true character was realized. At first it moved slowly, but hearing the noise of the approaching cart, the driver having whipped up his horse to get a closer view of him, his movements were quickened, and he soon disappeared in the woods. This narrative may be relied upon as true, and of the existence of a monster snake in the locality referred to there is not a particle of doubt.

* * *

The Little Orphan.

The Detroit Free Press has the happy faculty of furnishing its readers with very touching incedents in a way that appeals directly to the heart. We have produced says the Indianian very many of these touching articles to the better feeling of our own nature, and here is another from the same source:

"Did she leave any children?"

"Yes, this bit of a child."

"And who'll take her?"

"I don't know. We are all very poor around here, sir, but we must find a place some where. God help the little girl, for she's all alone now."

The sexton had called at an old tenement house on Lafayette street east to take a body to a pauper's field—the body of one whose life had been worn out in the tread-mill of hunger and despair. Nobody knew that the mother was dead—hardly suspected that she was ill, until the child appeared at a neighbor's door and said;

"Would you be afraid to come over to my house, for ma is dead and I'm keeping awful still, and I'm afraid to talk to her when she won't answer."

The mother had been dead four hours. Long enough before day came the flame of life had turned low and died out, and that child, hardly seven years old, had been with the corpse through the long hours, clasping the cold hand, kissing the pale face and calling for life to return. When they asked if she had any friends she shook her head. When they told her she was alone in the great world she looked out of the old window on the bleak November day and answered:

"I can make three kinds of dresses for dollbabies, build fires and carry in wood, I'll work ever so hard if some body will let me live with them."

There was no funeral. There was no need of a sermon there. The lines of sorrow around the dead woman's mouth counted for more in heaven than any eulogy man could deliver. There was no crape. In place of it three or four honest-hearted women let their tears fall upon the white face and whispered:

"Poor mother—poor child!"

The child's big blue eyes were full of tears, but there was hardly a tremor in her voice as she nestled her warm cheek against the lips stilled forever and said:

"Good-by, ma—you'll come down from heaven every night at dark, won't you, and you'll take me up there just as soon as you can, won't you?"

The landlord locked up the house and the child went home with one of the women. When night came she stole out of the house and away from those who sought to comfort her, and going back to the old house she sat down on the doorstep, having no company but the darkness. An officer passed that way, and, leaning over the gate, he peered through the darkness at some thing on the step, and called out:

"Is any body there?"

"No body but a little girl!" came the answer.

"Who is it?"

"It's a little girl whose ma was buried to-day.

He opened the gate and went closer, and as he made out her bare head and innocent face he said:

"Why, child, aren't you afraid?"

"I was afraid a little while ago," she said, "but just as soon as I asked ma not to let any body hurt me I got right over it. Would any one dare hurt a little girl whose ma is dead? They could be tooken up, couldn't they?"

He offered to go with her to the house where she was to have a home for a few days, and taking his big hand with the utmost confidence, she walked beside him and said:

"I ain't going to cry much till I get to bed, where folks can't see me!"

"I hope every one will be good to you," he remarked as he put his hand over her curly head.

"If they don't be, they'll never go to heaven, will they?" she inquired.

"No."

There was a long pause, and then she said: "But I guess they will be. I can make a doll out of a clothes-pin and a piece of calico, and I guess some body will be glad to let me live with 'em. If you see me over on the step another night you need't be a bit afraid, for I aint big enough to hurt any body, even if I didn't want to cry all the time!"

* * *

—Weirick, the Fairfield merchant buys butter and eggs and other produce. Don't forget it. tf.

No Whiskey!

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is guaranteed to be a non-intoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. RICE, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Cin., O., Nov. 16, 1881.

Gents:—The foolish wasting of vital force in business, pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity; and if applied, will save hundreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

Ayer's
Sarsaparilla

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

PREPARED BY DR. J. C. AYER & CO.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

SPORTSMENS HEADQUARTERS
C. H. MILLER and C. RAQUET,
24 West Main St., Fort Wayne, Ind. Breech and Muzzle Loading

SHOT GUNS,
RIFLES,
REVOLVERS,
AMMUNITION,
FISHING TACKLES.

We carry the largest stock of Firearms in Northern Indiana, and our prices are lower than New York, Pittsburgh or Chicago houses. Our guns are all selected, and we warrant every one to give satisfaction. Repairing done to order. 31-4w.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 181 and 183 W. Madison St., Chicago. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp.

$1,000 Forfeit!

Having the utmost confidence in its superiority over all others, and after thousands of tests of the most complicated and severest cases we could find, we feel justified in offering to forfeit One Thousand Dollars for any case of coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, hoarseness, bronchitis, consumption, in its early stages; whooping cough and all diseases of the throat and lungs, except Asthma, for which we only claim relief, that we can't cure with West's Cough Syrup, when taken according to directions. Sample bottles 25 and 50 cents; large bottles $1.00. Genuine wrappers only in blue. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price. JOHN C. WEST & CO., sole proprietors, 181 and 183 W. Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

BRAIN
DR. E. C. WEST'S TREATMENT

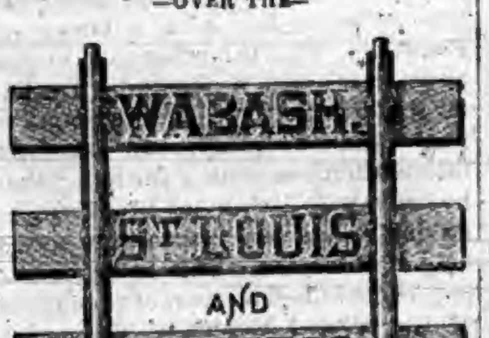
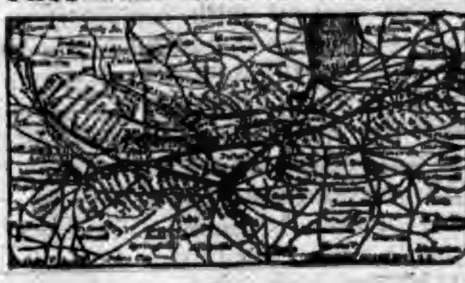
Health is Wealth.

DR. E. C. WEST'S Nerve and Brain Treatment is a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Spermatorrhea, Impotency, Emissions, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, self-abuse, or over-indulgence, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind. Orders by mail at regular price.

TAKE A RIDE
—OVER THE—



—AND YOU—
WILL DISCOVER
Why it is termed the Popular
PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!



2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS
TO ALL POINTS
East, West, Northwest or Southwest
And Baggage Checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address I. M. ZENT, agent, Auburn, Ind., or G. R. COLE, Auburn Junction.

J. C. GAULT, Gen. Manager.
H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen. Passenger Agen
St. Louis.

THE MYSTERY OF
Love Making Solved
Or an Easy Road to Marriage.

Those in Love will find in this book strange secrets always hidden before to mankind, and an Easy Way to Marriage, also many Ancient Secrets that the married should know. If a wife is neglected by her wayward husband this book will surely reclaim him to his first love. It proves that Failure to win the object of your Choice is impossible. We have ransacked every country to get these Secrets of Love Making. They will cause millions of Hearts and Hands to be United in Marriage. What strange things regarding Love Making you can find in this Book. If your Love is not reciprocated, this great Book will open your [illegible] Love's Pathway clear. Start Right and the Battle is Half Won. Sent by Mail for 10 Three cent stamps. Two for 50 cents. Five for $1.00. Address SUNSHINE PUBLISHING HOUSE, Geneva, O.

JOS. ABRIGHT,
—Dealer In—

Watches, Watches,		Castors, Castors,
	Clocks, Clocks,
Spoons, Spoons,		Knives, Knives,
	Forks, Forks,
Chains, Chains,		Rings, Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA.

This Looks Pretty Solid.

BUT IT HAD TO COME.

THE ÆTNA IS THE SAFEST, STRONGEST AND BEST POWDER
IN THE WORLD FOR
REMOVING STUMPS AND STONES!

It is unnecessary to tell a farmer his land is more valuable without the stumps than with them. He knows that now. What he wants to know is the Best Quickest and Cheapest method of removing them, and that question we answer by saying, BLAST THEM OUT WITH ÆTNA POWDER. Any stump, large or small, green or decayed, can be thrown entirely out of the ground and broken into pieces small enough to handle.

If you have any stumps, send us your address and we will send you a man to do your work, or will sell you the powder and tools so you can do it yourself Don't delay, but attend to it at once.

Sam'l Beck & Son,
GENERAL AGT'S. ÆTNA POWDER CO.,
54 S. MERDIAN ST. INDIANAPOLIS.

LANDRETHS' PEDIGREE SEEDS
ESTABLISHED NINETY-EIGHT YEARS

SEEDS SEEDS
For the MERCHANT on our New Plan
For the MARKET GARDENER
For the PRIVATE FAMILY
Grown by ourselves on our own Farms
SEEDS SEEDS

☞ Handsome Illustrated Catalogue and Rural Register FREE TO ALL.
MERCHANTS, SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARDS FOR TRADE LIST.
DAVID LANDRETH & SONS, SEED GROWERS, PHILADELPHIA

HUGHES & HUMPHREYS,
SLATE ROOFERS,
First Premium on Ornamental Work.
All Work Guaranteed Water Proof.
FORT WAYNE, IND.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY
FISTULA RECTAL ULCERS, FISSURES CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED
COME BEFORE TOO LATE
BY DR A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE PATENTED.
OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR BRINKERHOFF.
CURE WARRANTED

THE PRACTICAL
BUSINESS COLLEGE,
VANCE BLOCK, INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

We have the most practical course in DOUBLE-ENTRY BOOK-KEEPING taught, and we challenge comparison.

We guarantee that our graduates will be competent to keep any set of books in the United States.

☞ If our graduates are required to give bonds by their employers, guaranteeing their integrity, we furnish them upon our receiving satisfactory reference as to their habits and honesty.

Telegraphy thoroughly taught.

☞ We obtain lucrative situations for our graduates.

Phonography (or short-hand) thoroughly taught.

The English branches receive special attention.

Separate and elegant rooms for ladies.

☞ Send for College Circular.

No vacation. Students can enter at any time. Address

W. W. GRANGER & CO.

ROAD SUPERINTENDENTS
AND
GRAVEL ROAD MEN,
Buy the Best ROAD WORKER
THE PENNOCK.
700 IN USE.

Manufacturers of "Matchless" Dump-Scrapers.
S. PENNOCK & SONS CO.,
Kennett Square, Pa., and Fort Wayne, Ind.

CENTRAL CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
Columbus, Bartholomew Co., Indiana.

Cheapest Tuition in the U. S. for advantages offered. Limited number boarded in Principal's family. For terms, etc., address

W. E. BATES, Principal.

TO ADVERTISERS. Holman's Select List of Best Indiana Newspapers will be sent to any address free.
E. M. HOLMAN, Fort Wayne, Ind.

CIDER.

PRESSES hand and power, GRATERS, Elevators, Jelly Pans, Sorghum Mills, Circular Mills, etc. Cider Mill Supplies. Illustrated Catalogue free. Address, C. G. HAMPTON, Detroit, Mich.

The American Popular Dictionary, $1.00

This useful and elegant Volume is a complete Library and Encyclopedia, as well as the best Dictionary in the world. Superbly bound in cloth and gilt. It contains every word in the English language, with its true meaning, derivation, spelling and pronunciation, and a vast amount of absolutely necessary information upon Science, Mythology, Biography, American History, Laws, etc., being a perfect Library of reference. Webster's Dictionary costs $8.00, and the American Popular Dictionary costs only $1. "Worth ten times the money."—N. Y. Atlas. "We have never seen its equal either in price, finish or contents."—The Advocate. "A perfect Dictionary and library of reference."—Leslie's Illus. News, N. Y. One copy of the American Popular Dictionary (illustrated), the greatest and best book ever published, post paid to any address on receipt of $1. ☞ Entire satisfaction guaranteed. Two copies postpaid $2. Order at once. This offer is good for 60 days only, and will never be made again. Six copies for Five Dollars. Get five of your friends to send with you and you get your own book free.

SUNSHINE PUBLISHING CO.,
Geneva, Ohio.

Our readers will find this wonderful book the cheapest Dictionary published. The information it contains is worth many times the amount asked for it, and it should be in the possession of everybody. With this book in the library for reference, many other much more expensive works can be dispensed with, and ignorance of his country, history, business, laws, etc., is inexcusable in any man. Note the price, $1, post paid.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, AUGUST 31, 1882. Number 35.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum. For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana. Office over Mrs. Jones' Store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic; will give prompt attention to collections. Office over Citizens' Bank, Waterloo, Ind.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Cool's block, opposite north side of public square, Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING, office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES,

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite E. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 26 1y

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor. John Butt Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. O. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M. D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M. D.

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m. except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week. HENRY l'ROBST. Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.
WILSON S. DANCER, Trustee. tf
April 15, 1882.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice. FREDERICK GFELLER, Trustee.
April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. C. H. BROWN, Trustee.

For Sale.

On account of my wife's illness I offer for sale my threshing machine, clover huller, and ten horse power traction engine all in complete running order. For terms call at my residence two miles west of Waterloo, on Smithfield township line, or address. Wm. Brand, Waterloo, Ind.

The Heberling Shirring and Gathering Machine.

(Improved March 1, 1880.)

The only machine in the world that makes the hand-stitch. Simple, practical and perfect in operation. Doing a large range of material; such as silks, satins, [illegible] alpacas, cashmeres, white goods, [illegible] with one [illegible] of stitching at the same time. [illegible] regular and beautiful [illegible] can be [illegible]. Shirrs or gathers adjusted [illegible] drawing thread same as hand-work. [illegible] the work of ten or fifteen hands. Call on Miss O. Wolsey and Mrs. Angie Kuhlman, corner of Main and Fifth street, Auburn, Indiana. 24-12t.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. YETTER,

—THE—

EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

Is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central Hotel the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address:

SPECTACLES

Dr. E. C. YETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, 130. 2-tf.

A Break for Liberty.

SIXTEEN JAIL BIRDS MAKE AN UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE.

Sixteen prisoners confined in the Lucas county jail made an organized attempt to break jail last week, but were prevented by the bravery of Sheriff Harbeck and Turnkey Mark Edgar. It has been customary for a long time past for the ladies of the W. C. T. U. to hold services in the jail every other sabbath, and yesterday was the regular meeting day. A short time before the usual hour, Turnkey Edgar noticed that the prisoners kept up an unusually loud and continuous singing, and suspecting that all was not right, he stationed himself in a room near the cell room, and here remained until the arrival of the ladies. When they arrived, Sheriff Harbeck unlocked the outer one of the double doors, in order to allow the turnkey to enter the intermediate space. As soon as the door had been opened, the prisoners, headed by Clark, who shot McPartland, and three negroes, made a rush. The lock bars of the inner door had been sawed off, and swinging it open, the prisoners crowed into the narrow space between the two doors, forcing the turnkey back against the wall.

About this time Sheriff Harbeck displayed a flexible billy, and collaring one man, just as he was about to make his escape, struck him a good rap over the head, and threw him back into the prison. Edgar drew his revolver, and aimed it at a negro, but Clark, who had hold of him, threw up his hands, and the ball just grazed the intended victim's head. Edgar then attacked the prisoners with the but of his revolver, while Harbeck defended the outer door. For about three minutes the fight was terrific, being a continued thud of revolver and billy on the heads and faces of the desperate crowd. The officers were finally victorious, however, and the prisoners were forced back into the corridor, and in a short time every prisoner was locked in his cell.

Upon examination of the doors, it was found that both of the lock-bars of the inner door had been sawed off and those of the outer door nearly severed. Had they succeeded in getting the latter door open, they would have had free access to the hall, and could have made it very uncomfortbale for the sheriff and turnkey, as soon as they unlocked the door at the foot of the steps below, and at least some of them would undoubtedly have gained their liberty.

After being locked up, every prisoner and cell was carefully searched, and three saws, made from corset steels, two knives, and other tools were found. It is not definitely known how they obtained these instruments, but the sheriff has an idea which entirely satisfies him as to where they came from. The crowd was a bad one, and Sheriff Harbeck and Turnkey Edgar are deserving of the highest praise for the bravery they displayed in standing single-handed before the mob, and preventing their escape.

Too Much of a Joke.

Quite a sensation was created at a circus at Marquette, Michigan, last week. In the act where a circus rider disguised as a drunken tramp falls into the ring and wants to ride a horse, the ringmaster throws the drunkard out, and with much seeming indignation asked why there were no policemen around to keep order. A German policeman who was standing by, and who knew the man belonged to the circus, felt indignant at having the police abused, so he took the alleged drunken man, and notwithstanding the circus people tried to explain the circumstances, he was hustled off to the lock-up, and the act was left out. After the show, the proprietor went to the jail and got the performer out, and abused the policeman a little for being too officious. The policeman said: "Vell, a choke is a choke, but ven a man say vere is de bolice, and vy don'd dey arrest dat drunk man, den de Marquette bolice is in dat vicinity, and don'd you forget it, Mr. Circus. I bed you."

A skeleton was recently dug out of a sand bank by Joseph Ewing, on John Clingan's farm in Scott township. It was in a standing or sitting position, and along with it was an earthen jug such are in found where the mound builders have been. This as well as the skeleton crumbled away as soon as the air struck them. Mr. Ewing measured a piece of the thigh bone and came to the conclusion that it belongs to a person of considerable height.—Angola Journal.

The Sultan of Turkey's Treasures.

The political skies of Europe were never more indicative of a coming storm than at the present time. The Egyptian trouble has assumed proportions that could not have been anticipated, and the course of the representatives of some of the Powers at the Constantinople Conference, especially Russia, indicates that a terrific storm may soon break. This, of course, means the involving of Turkey in a war.

Turkey is believed to be so absolutely bankrupt that another war would probably bring about her immediate destruction. That she is bankrupt so far as being able or perhaps intended ever to pay the principal of her national debt is probably true; but the Sultan has in his treasury resources that would enable him to carry on a war for some time.

The imperial treasury is in one of the heavy stone buildings of the Seraglio at Constantinople. Among its contents are effigies of the Sultans, each in the robes and armor he wore when alive, and many of them are weighed down with jewels; there are innumerable horse trappings and saddles, covered with plates of gold and studded with emeralds, rubies, topazes, diamonds and pearls; there are saddle cloths, embroidered with precious stones; several sofa-covers hang in the cabinets as backgrounds to the smaller articles, which are of heavy cloth of gold embroidered with seed pearls and worth $150,000 apiece. There are bird cages of gold; sacks of velvet embroidered with gold, pearls and diamonds; amber mouthpieces for pipes, studded with diamonds and rubies; vases of crystal, agate and onyx, many enriched with jewels: inkstands and snuff boxes, coffee sets, tea sets, knives, forks and spoons of solid gold, with jewels on their handles; an immense number of clocks fans innumerable, umbrellas of white silk exquisitely embroidered, and having handles of matchless sprays of coral a yard long; and tea-sets of tortoise shell as thin as paper. Dwight in his "Turkish Life in War Time," describes a toy, which is a figure of a Sultan seated on his throne, under a golden canopy ribbed with alternate rubies and emeralds, the whold structure being about six inches high. The body of the figure is a single huge pearl; the lower extremities are carved from a blue turquoise, and the turban is a solid mass of diamonds.

During the late war between Turkey and Russia the Turkish government pledged some of these jewels to the banks for a loan of $30,000,000, but so comparatively small was the quantity of jewels removed by the banker to secure the loan, that the loss of the three boxes full made no appreciable gap in the accumulation. There are still many millions of dollars in the Sultan's treasure house.

The Sultan has still another large fund at his disposal in the event of a holy war being officially proclaimed; this is the "Treasure of Islam"—the offerings of gold and silver deposited by many successive generations of pilgrims to the three holy places—the Caaba at Mecca, the vaults of the Mosque of Soliman at Jerusalem, and the crypt of the tomb of Ali at the gate of Bagdad. This total accumulation is estimated to be $600,000,000, which is probably an exaggeration; but that it amounts to very many million dollars there is no doubt.

It would be an easy matter for the Sultan in the event of Turkey becoming involved in another war, to convert his jewels into cash; and as the followers of the prophet are becoming incensed over the frequent reverses of the Sultan's armies, it would probably not require very great urging to induce him, as the head of the Mohammedan Church, to proclaim a holy war, and thus secure not only the assistance of all Mohammedan soldiers, but the vast "treasure of Islam," above that very necessary support of all governments, especially in time of war—money.

A Philadelphia plumber, desiring to stop the flow through a damaged pipe the other day, applied an ice cream freezer and froze the water solid. This experiment, simple as it seems, is full of dangerous suggestions. If water pipes can be thus frozen in midsummer, what is to prevent the plumbers' apprentices from surreptitiously sailing around at night and freezing up our pipes so solidly that we will be forced to call upon them to thaw them out in the morning.

—Now, while work is pressing, you can save time and money by getting your supplies at Weiricks, at Fairfield. tf.

The Population Centre.

The centre of population in the United States was twenty-two miles from Baltimore in 1790, and has moved westward at the average rate of about fifty-one miles every decade, never deviating to the extent of a degree north or south of the thirty-ninth parallel. The greatest progress was between the year 1850-60, when it traveled eighty-one miles from a point in Virginia to twenty miles south of Chillicothe, Ohio. This movement was caused by the settlement of the Pacific coast. The centre of population in 1870 was forty-eight miles northeast of Cincinnati. According to the last census, the centre had advanced westward fifty-eight miles, and deflected to the south about eight, being near the village of Taylorsville, Kentucky, about eight miles from Cincinnati. It is anticipated that the next census will find it in Jennings county, Indiana. Supposing the westward movement of population to continue, the central point should cross the Missippi about 1950, not far from the mouth of the Missouri. It is considered probable, however that it will never go so far westward, as there are large areas in the west which are only adapted for mining and grazing pursuits, and will support but a scanty population. The increase in the region beyound the Missippi, after the close of the present century, may not much more than comterbalance that of the rest of the country, in which case the centre of population will remain almost stationary in southern Illinois.

Harper's Magazine for September opens with a beautiful frontispiece, entitled "A Sunday Morning in Surrey," from a picture by Alfred Parsons. The same artist, with equal charm, illustrates Mrs. Lillie's papers, "In Surrey," the first of which appears in this number. English country scenery has never been so attractively presented as in this delightful paper.

From the rural beauty of an English country we turn to a quaint description of one of our most characteristic coast towns—York, in Maine, near Portsmouth—beautifully illustrated by W. F. Halsall and E. H. Garrett.

The fifth and last paper of Mr. Lathrop's "Spanish Vistas" describes the coast towns from Malaga to Barcelona—a series of "Mediterranean Ports and Gardens," full of picturesque bits of which the writer and the artist have made the most. Mr. Reinhart's illustrations for this paper—as for the entire series—have never been surpassed.

"The Weibertreue" (Faithful Wives) is the title of a very interesting account of Weinsberg, Suabia. The writer, Elise Allen, paints two graphic historical pictures of which Weinsberg is the center—Konrad's Siege of the Castle and the Peasants' War—and gives an interesting sketch of the poet Justinus Kerner.

The third part of Colonel Higginson's American History is devoted to the discoveries made by the Northmen. His paper is illustrated with eight engravings.

Edwin P. Whipple contributes an entertaining paper, entitled "Some recollections of Ralph Waldo Emerson." The problem of the Mississippi River, and the theories proposed for its solution, the subject of a timely paper by David A. Curtis.

Barnet Phillips contributes a strong short story, "A Doctor Spoiled." Another excellent short story, "Love will find out the way," is contributed by Mrs. Elizabeth D. B. Stoddard. Poems are contributed by Jalmar H. Boyesen, and Philip Bourke Marston.

William Black's new novel, "Shandon Bells," becomes more interesting with every new part, and is finely illustrated by William Small.

The Editor's Easy Chair, Literary and Historical Records, and Drawer are full of timely and entertaining matter.

Experience the Best Guide.

The reason why women everywhere use Parker's Ginger Tonic is, because they have learned by experience—the best guide—that this excellent medicine overcomes despondency, periodical headache, indigestion, pain in the back and kidneys, and other troubles of the sex.—Hoe Journal. 31-4t.

It was a French woman who exclaimed while holding a glass of sparkling fresh water: "Oh, if it was only wicked to drink this, how nice it would taste!"

Buffalo has got the base ball fever so bad that a man who caught a baby falling from a second-story window the other day, sung out, "Judgment."

How to Save a Drowning Person.

It may not be generally known that when a person is drowning, if he is taken by the arms from behind, between the elbow and the shoulder, he connot touch the person trying to save him, and whatever struggles he may make will only assist the person holding him in keeping his head above water. A good swimmer can keep a man thus above water for an hour. If seized anywhere else, the probability is that he will clutch the swimmer, and perhaps, as if often the case, both will be drowned.

In Glen's Falls N. Y., there lived a a pious old lady, who said to her son as he was leaving her for a short journey, "God be with you, my son, and help you." A little 4-year-old grandson of the lady who was present, hearing the remark, treasured it up for the edification of his little playfellow, Mira. As the children were playing that day, Mira begged the young lady who was visiting her mother to lend her a parasol, which she did. In their play it was broken. Mira said. "what shall we do, Bertie; we promised to be careful and Miss B. will be so angry." "Tell her we didn't break it," said Bert. "That would be a lie, and God would not love us." "Well," said the little boy, "God is not here to-day; he has gone to help uncle sell lamps. I heard granny send him. I know he has gone for granny is boss."

They're not wholly bad out Leadville way. While they were fixing the rope to lynch a man two dogs got into a caucus, and the lynchers kindly paused in their work to let the victim see which animal got licked.—Boston Post.

Oscar Wild says the color and construction of the bathing costumes at Newport make him sick, which is encouraging. Unfortunately, however, they don't make him sick enough to die.

—Weirick, the Fairfield merchant buys butter and eggs and other produce. Don't forget it. tf.

—Alfred Weirick, of Fairfield, will sell you goods as cheap and as good as youcan get anywhere. tf.

FORT WAYNE & JACKSON R. R.—SHORT Line.

For all points South, Southeast and Southwest including Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Louis Kansas Texas and all points west.

SHORT LINE from all points in central and northern Michigan and Canada.

Time-Card in effect July 10, 1882.

SOUTH.	Ex.	Ex.	Acc'm.
Lv. Bay City	5 25pm	7 00am	....
Saginaw	6 30	7 58	....
Lansing	9 25	10 25	....
Grand Rapids	10 20	6 00	12 25pm
Detroit	9 50	7 00	4 05
Ann Arbor	11 17	8 48	5 22
Jackson Lv.	6 30am	12 00pm	6 55
Hanover	7 03	12 37	8 00
Jonesville	7 25	1 02	8 55
Bankers	7 38	1 16	9 20
Reading	7 50	1 27	9 45
Montgomery	8 03	1 40	10 10
Fremont	8 19	1 55	10 40
Angola	8 25	2 13	11 10
Pleasant Lake	8 45	2 25	11 30
Waterloo	9 05	2 43	6 00am
Auburn	9 15	2 52	6 20
Auburn Junction	9 20	2 57	6 30
Arrive Ft. Wayne	10 15	3 50	8 20
Indianapolis	5 40pm	10 45	....
Cincinnati	6 05	7 35am	....
Louisville	7 30	7 25	....
St. Louis	....	8 40	....
Washington	2 10	6 47	....
Baltimore	3 20	5 15	....

NORTH.	Ex.	Accom	Ex.
Leave Baltimore	11 00am	1 30am	....
Washington	10 40	2 45	....
St. Louis	6 40pm	7 50	....
Louisville	7 12	....	7 00am
Cincinnati	9 00	2 25pm	7 45
Indianapolis	4 25am	....	10 5
Ft. Wayne	11 45	1 00am	5 00pm
Arrive Auburn Junc.	12 40pm	3 00	6 00
Auburn	12 48	3 05	6 05
Waterloo	12 57	3 40	15
Pleasant Lake		4 25	37
Angola		5 00	7 05
Fremont		5 33	7 22
Montgomery		6 07	7 40
Reading		6 30	7 52
Bankers		6 55	8 04
Jonesville	5	7 25	8 18
Hanover	3	8 20	8 45
Jackson	3 40pm	9 20	9 20
Ann Arbor	5 07	10 34	10 28
Detroit	6 30	11 50	11 40
Grand Rapids	10 30	4 30pm	7 10am
Lansing	5 55	....	8 20
Saginaw	8 25	....	10 55
Bay City	9 20	....	11 55

All trains daily except Sunday. Accommodation south from Waterloo Mondays not Sundays.

CONNECTIONS.

JACKSON.—M. C.; east—12 40, 5 00, 7 05, 9 30 a. m., 5 00, 4 05, 9 25 p. m.; west—12 45, 7 05, 10 20 a. m., 12 15, 6 56, 11 00 p. m. M. C. A. L. west—10 25 a. m., 5 50 p. m. J. L. & S. 7 00 a. m., 4 15 p. m. G. R. V., 1 10, 7 20 a. m., 12 22, 6 00 p. m.

JONESVILLE.—L. S. & M. S., east 5 52 a. m. 2 30 p. m.; west 9 46 a. m., [illegible], 10 50 p. m.

BANKERS.—L. S. & M. S., east, leave, 2 50 p. m., freight train Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 7.40 a.m.; arrive at Bankers 12 00 m.; freight train Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 5 30 p.m.

WATERLOO.—L. S. & M. S. east, 2 42, 11 30 p. m.; west 2 35 a. m., 1 54 p. m.

AUBURN JUNCTION.—B. & O. east, 4 34 a. m., 1 48, 10 23 p. m.; west, 3 06 a. m., 12 45, 11 35 p. m. W. St. L. & P.; east—7:31 a. m. 5:15 p. m. west —1:57, 11:31 a. m.

FT. WAYNE.—Ft. Wayne, M. & C. leave 10 [illegible] a. m., 5 20 p. m.; arrive 9 [illegible] a. m., 4 50 p. m. W., St. L. & P. east, 5 00 7 00 a. m., 2 10, 7 50 p. m., west, 5 10, 10 40 a. m. 4 50 5 55 p. m. C. R. & Ft. W. leave 12 10, 8 05 a. m. 1 15pm; ar. 2 00, a. m. 2 50, 7 05p.m.; P., Ft. W. & C. east, 3 55 a. m., 4 10, 11 20 p. m.; west 12 10, 3 40, 11 45 a. m., 3 00, p. m.

Arrival and departure of trains shown above is by Chicago time, same as Ft. W. & J. road.

Through tickets to all principal points. For information as to routes and connections apply to

M. D. WOODFORD Gen'l Supt
M. BROMLEY Gen'l Ft. & Pass'r. Agt

ROOT AND COMPANY!
FORT WAYNE, INDIANA.

Great headquarters in Northeastern Indiana for the sale of

CARPETS,

CURTAIN GOODS,

HOUSE-KEEPING GOODS,

RUGS,

MATS,

SILKS,

OIL CLOTHS,

DRESS GOODS,

WOOLENS,

DOMESTICS,

HOSIERY,

GLOVES,

LACES,

FANCY GOODS,

WHITE GOODS,

UNDERWEAR,

NOTIONS, &c.

ROOT AND COMPANY!
FORT WAYNE, INDIANA.

HONEST WAGONS!!

Is what you want. Call on

J. W. SHAFFER & CO'

and see their home-made

WAGONS!

☞ GIVE THEM A CALL. ☜

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. B[illegible]NS.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

SOCIALISM is spreading among the peasantry of Spain.

THERE is an increased demand in England for American bacon.

THE Mormons are well supplied with money to fight the Edmunds law.

ICELAND is threatened with famine on account of bad weather for over a year past.

A PIGEON flew from Detroit home to Toronto, the other day, a distance of 221 miles, in less than five hours.

THE Kansas Republican State Central Committee has decided to open the campaign in that State on September 13th.

THE long-threatened suit for divorce has been commenced by Mrs. Francis M. Scoville against her husband, in the Circuit Court at Chicago. She alleges cruel treatment as the ground of her complaint.

A MOVEMENT is on foot in Cleveland, especially among the Freemasons, to raise a fund for the care of the graves of the 300 Confederate soldiers buried on Johnson's Island and to erect a monument to their memory.

AMONG subscriptions recently received for the Garfield Memorial Hospital are $200 from President Arthur, $100 from William Windom, $100 from the president of Hayti, and $125 from the minister of State of Hayti.

Thomas Maguire, who killed his brother William, at Boston, last spring, in a drunken quarrel, was allowed to plead guilty to manslaughter, and was given three years in the House of Correction.

AT the rate England is now sending troops to Egypt she will have an effective army of at least 50,000 men to operate against Arabi Bey and his adherents by the 1st of September. Short work will be made of the rebellious Egyptians when that army gets after them.

THE officials at the Treasury Department anticipate that the new gold certificates will rapidly take the place of gold coin, just as the silver certificates have displaced the silver dollar. They say that in three months there will be no gold coin in circulation.

The Chicago Tribune says that through the short sighted policy of the roads leading from Chicago to Missouri river points, in advancing grain freights, very little grain is coming this way, but it is taking the cheaper barge line route to the sea from Missouri and Kansas.

M. CAMILLE FLAMMARION, the eminent French astronomer, predicts the probable end of the world by its coming in contact with a comet, which he says will make its appearance next September. The comet will pass so near the earth, he declares, that the planet will have great difficulty in escaping destruction.

IT is related that General Hancock called upon President Arthur at New York, the other day, and was closeted with him for an hour. As he left the house Hancock remarked to a friend, "General Arthur is one of the most charming gentlemen I ever met, and he is a very wise and able President."

THE construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad is being pushed with great energy. Already, 1,313 miles of the road are completed, leaving about 600 miles more to be built. A force of 8,000 men is employed, and the work of grading and track-laying is progressing at the rate of four miles a day. The managers expect to complete the road and begin the running of through trains early next year.

ANOTHER bi-metallic conference is to be held at Cologne in September, and will be attended by representatives from most of the nations of Europe, although the United States will have no special representative unless the President should direct Minister Sargent at Berlin to attend. Mr. Sargent is an ardent bi-metallist, and will undoubtedly be present at the conference whether he goes officially or not.

JUDGE FOLGER, the Secretary of the Treasury, is careful to keep his promises. Recently he promised to make a certain appointment for a Senator. As the Senator was departing the Secretary was told that he had promised the same place to a poor woman. He informed the Senator at once of the prior promise, and, in reply to every argument, said: "I could not break my word for all the influence in the country."

EX GOVERNOR SPRAGUE, of Rhode Island, whose property has been sold under an order of the courts of the State, declares that no man shall occupy it as long as he is alive and able to carry a rifle, and is making demonstrations of a warlike character. He threatens to burn the mansion at Canochet if the court attempts to enforce its decree, and is indulging in other capers which indicate his fitness for a mad-house.

APPEARANCES indicate that the great strike of the iron-workers at Pittsburgh, Pa., which has cost them millions of dollars, is about to end in total failure, by the workers resuming their places at the old rates. Thus again it is shown, on a large scale, that strikes do not pay, and it behooves workingmen to bend all their energies and ingenuity to the discovery of some more effective method of redressing or averting their grievances. Co-operation should receive far more attention than is now given to that best friend of industry.

THERE are three French physicians in New York who have a remedy for hydrophobia which they claim is infallible, and which consists in throwing the body into such a perspiration that the poison will be forced out of the system through the pores of the skin. They are so confident of its value that either one of them agrees to be bitten by a mad dog and undergo treatment by his associates, in order to prove its efficacy, provided a pecuniary reward is offered by the government or by individuals for the test.

THE enactment of the repression laws by the British Parliament was, in intent at least, a crime against Ireland, and the proof of this intent is found in the manner of enforcing those laws. Every lover of liberty pronounces the arrest of High Sheriff Grey, editor of the Freeman's Journal at Dublin, Ireland, on a pretense of contempt of court, an act of tyranny that would disgrace even the despotism of Russia. The civilized world felt itself at liberty to condemn our institution of slavery, and in like manner the freedom-loving world may feel at liberty to demand home rule for Ireland.

THE Boston Traveller says: "The center of population in the United States was twenty-two miles from Baltimore in 1790, and has moved westward at the average rate of about fifty-one miles every decade, never deviating to a degree north or south of the thirty-ninth parallel. The center of population in 1870 was forty-eight miles northeast of Cincinnati. According to the last census, the center has advanced westward fifty-eight miles, and deflected to the south about eight, being near the village of Taylorsville, Ky., about eight miles from Cincinnati. It is anticipated that the next census will find it in Jennings county, Ind."

THE NEWS.

Home Items.

Governor Orton has been re-elected chief of the Chickasaw nation.

Official reports from the Texas cotton crop state that wide-spread injury is being done by the boll worm.

A Western geologist predicts that Montana will become the greatest coal-producing State in the Union.

General Swaim refuses to affirm or deny the genuineness of the published Dorsey letters to General Garfield.

Charles Fisk, of Indiana, has been appointed Special Agent of the Department of Justice, vice Tidball, resigned.

The white veil was assumed by fifty-two young ladies at St. Mary's Convent of Notre Dame, at Milwaukee, Tuesday.

The Globe (Ari. T.) stage was stopped by road agents Sunday, the driver killed, and the treasure box rifled of $5,000.

Red Cloud has been arrested and is on parole at Pine Ridge Agency. This, it is thought, will obviate the threatened troubles.

An official at the Treasury Department estimates the receipts from all sources for the current fiscal year at $450,000,000.

Near Lemars, Iowa, there has been discovered a vein of coal 5½ feet in thickness, of superior quality, 300 feet from the surface.

The Colored Baptist Churches of Cincinnati are of the belief that Camp meetings are productive of much evil, and have made a formal declaration to that effect.

A party of Irish members of Parliament will visit America to solicit assistance for the relief and protection of evicted tenants.

Howard Underwood, who killed his mistress, Belle Lucas, a year ago, has been sentenced to be hanged at Charleston, Mo., September 29.

I. O. Gregg, of Elkhart, Ind., has started a paper-mill at Fargo, D. T., with an investment of $150,000, to utilize the wheat straw.

The committee appointed to investigate the Mississippi river works and needs will charter a steamer and make a trip from Cairo to the jetties.

The two children of Thomas Fitch (grandchildren of General Sherman) were interred at Cavalry Cemetery, St. Louis, Tuesday morning.

Hanlan has challenged Ross to row five miles on any course between Toronto and New York in June next for $5,000 and the championship.

The New York Anti-Monopolists decided to nominate a full State ticket and have called a State convention to be held at Saratoga, September 13.

Sixty compositors have been added to the force of the Government Printing Office, to work on the census office reports, and a night force will be put on in the press-room.

The English steamship Castalia has been chartered to load 500 mules at Philadelphia to be taken to Alexandria for the English Government.

Jesse Hoyt, of New York, has bequeathed to East Saginaw lots on which to erect a public library, $50,000 for books, and property for a public park.

A West Virginia farmer recently sold a single black walnut tree for $600, which was but a little less than the sum he paid for the tract on which it grew.

William Barrett and James Atkinson fought a duel with knives near Decatur, Ala. Barret died on the ground and Atkinson was fatally cut.

The president of the Federation of Labor Unions at Washington, advises the union men now on a strike to resume work and look to the next Congress for relief.

Rear Admiral Wyman, of the Lighthouse Board, has returned from an inspection trip on the upper lakes. He reports the lighthouses on the lakes in creditable condition.

Acting Secretary Joslyn has decided the celebrated contest for the Dean Richmond lode, situated at Tucson, Arizona, in favor of the Dean Richmond Company.

The Central Kentucky Sheep Breeding Company held their annual sale of Cotswolds, Southdowns and Shropshiredowns at Lexington, on Tuesday. The sale netted $60,250.

There is a strong suspicion that the drowning of three Italian laborers in the Youghiogheny river last Sunday was not accidental, and investigations will be made by the Italian consul.

Comptroller Lawrence has decided that the National Board of Health is authorized to select local boards and quarantine stations, to be aided from the appropriation of $60,000.

While Drs. Sherman and Beede, of Milwaukee, were botanizing near that city recently, they discovered the body of a man in the bushes by the roadside, bearing marks of having been murdered.

The postmasters at Boodie and Ramsey, Ill., have been directed to decline payment for money orders to B. D. Ply, who, it has been ascertained, is advertising extensively with a view of deceiving the public.

The striking miners along the Pan-Handle Railroad have decided to go to work at the old rates. They have literally been starved into submission, many of them being on the verge of starvation.

Consul Gifford, at La Rochelle, reports to the State Department that a very large proportion of the brandy exported from France to the United States is adulterated to such an extent as to justify its exclusion.

The residence of the Gilchrist brothers at Glenville, N. Y., was entered by burglars Wednesday night, who bound and gagged the inmates, and rifled the safe of about $800 in money and $150,000 in bonds and mortgages.

THE Cleveland Leader says the Cincinnati brewers have subscribed $60,000 to assist the Democracy in Ohio in the coming campaign. These are Pendleton's civil service reformers.

Captain Brackett, special agent of the Treasury, has reported on the charges preferred against Appraiser Howard, of the New York Custom House, most of which are sustained.

Discouraging reports have been received from Kentucky as to the condition of the crops. Rain and insects have militated against their progress to a serious extent, tobacco generally suffering more than any other product.

General Warren, having spent most of his limited means in the effort to defend his military reputation before the Court of Inquiry, leaving his family in straitened circumstances, a committee has been formed to raise a fund for their benefit.

Three American prospectors were found dead in the Sonora Valley, Mexico. It is believed they were murdered by the natives, who, however, charge the Apaches with the crime.

The Bureau of Construction at the Navy Department are busily engaged upon drawings and plans for the two new steel cruisers provided for in the naval appropriation bill recently passed by Congress.

Mont Robbins, whose father, ex-Congressman William Robbins, was assaulted by L. Mott, at Statesville, N. C., on account of a bitter political speech, went to Iredell county, where Mott lived and killed Mott for the attack on his father.

The body of a negro, who rented a farm near Athens, Tex., and raised a fine crop, was found headless and handless, with three bullet-holes in the cranium. It is supposed the landlord, named Lightfoot, killed the negro to get possession of the crop.

An outbreak by the Souix Indians at Pine Ridge Agency is threatened, unless their agent is removed. What the grievances are cannot be determined, but Red Cloud and a few other malcontents are fermenting trouble, and General Crook will be probably called on to settle the difficulties.

The body of Fred Smith, a young German, was found hanging to a tree near Marshall, Texas, on Saturday morning. Near by on another limb he had hung his boots, in one of which was a flask of whisky. He had been missing two weeks.

White men disguised as Kuklux drove negro laborers on the Memphis & Kansas City railroad in Craighead county, Ark., away from work on Thursday. The Governor was appealed to for protection and ordered it to be given.

A special from Bowie, A. T., says: A party of smugglers, with forty pack animals, encamped for the night in a canyon in the Swisshelm Mountains. All save one were drowned in a cloud burst. Their bodies were found scattered along the canyon next morning.

The Astor mine, near Lonaconing, in the Cumberland, Md., coal region, which has been smoldering for some time, burst forth in a tremendous blaze on Thursday, shooting fifty feet in the air. The fire originated from the Spruce Slope, which has been burning since 1879.

Secretary Lincoln has appointed 200 clerks and a number of messengers and watchmen for service in connection with the pension cases provided for in the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. Indiana got sixteen. There are about 180 yet to be made.

A Chicago special says that George M. Pullman, of the Palace Car Company, sold through his brokers something like 1,300,000 bushels of spring wheat to Mr. Armour, and defaulted on it all. His losses are estimated from $150,000 to $200,000, according as the July Wheat Arbitration Committee fixes the value of spring wheat on the last day of July.

The Jesuits of Quebec are again agitating for the restoration to them of all their property confiscated during the reign of Henry IV. Restoration is demanded as an act of justice, and a list of the properties referred to contains some which are now of great value. The promoters of the agitation suggest that some outlaying territory to the north be given as a recompense.

The Tariff Committee will hold its sessions at Cleveland, O., on Thursday, 31st of August; Detroit, Friday, 1st of September; Indianapolis, Saturday, 2d of September; Cincinnati, Monday and Tuesday, 4th and 5th of September; Louisville, Wednesday, 6th of September; Chicago, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 7th, 8th and 9th of September.

A war has broken out in All Saints' Episcopal Church, Cleveland, over the communion wine question. The Sunday school Superintendent leads the party opposed to fermented wine, while the rector and his adherents want to use the old kind of wine which they believe Jesus used at the first supper. The contest rages briskly, and each party is bent on victory.

Rear Admiral Nicholson, commanding the European station, has written a private letter to a prominent officer of the navy department, in which he takes occasion to deny the statement that when the bombardment of Alexandria began he notified the Egyptians if they fired on any of his vessels he would return the fire. He also denied the statement that after the action he steamed around the English fleet and cheered the vessels upon their work.

Foreign.

Small-pox at Cape Town, South Africa, is causing great mortality among the inhabitants.

The intention of the British Government to restore Cetewayo is not received with favor in the Transvaal.

Four of the Irish Catholic prelates have approved of the efforts to establish a fund for the aid of evicted tenants.

The Canadian custom authorities have found it necessary to employ an extra number of detectives to put a stop to smuggling.

It is reported that the Blenheim, an English steamer from Nassau to Balize, was lost on the 11th. The passengers were saved.

The palace of Count Andrassy, at Vienna, was entered by burglars, who carried off many objects of art, and also the Count's decorations.

A number of white horses, which were being trained at Copenhagen for use at the coronation of the Czar of Russia, were killed by Nihilists.

The corporation of Dublin have passed a resolution of sympathy with E. Dwyer Gray, and claim his imprisonment is arbitray and oppressive.

A large meeting of iron manufacturers, held at Middleboro, England, resolved to continue for another six months the restriction on the out-put of pig iron.

Archbishop Goold, of the Roman Catholic diocese of Melbourne, Australia, was shot by a man named Farrell and slightly wounded. The would-be murderer is in prison.

Eye-witnesses to the murder of the Joyce family in Ireland have been discovered by the police, and ten of the persons in custody have been identified as connected with the tragedy.

The Central and Southern Russian provinces and Bohemia and Galicia are the only European sections from which reports of bad harvests have been received. Elsewhere the yield is above the average.

From London come reports that Corea is in a state of anarchy, and that the King and Queen have been assassinated. The trouble arose from popular opposition to the treaties recently entered into between the United States and England.

THE STATE.

Eight Jefferson county potatoes fill a peck measure.

A noticeable increase in the number of students at Wabash college this fall is expected.

A swindler has been victimizing St. Joseph county greenhorns by representing himself as the agent of the Louisiana lottery, and selling them tickets.

DePauw's glass-works, at New Albany, will start up on the 1st of September. All the furnaces have been rebuilt and the capacity will be larger than ever before.

Two Madison Alexanders built a skiff in a cellar where it was nice and cool, and are now working in the broiling sun excavating a hole to enable them to get it out.

Jack Bloom, ex-marshall of Port Fulton, a suburb of Jeffersonville, has received intelligence from Scotland that he has fallen heir to about $20,000 by the death of an uncle.

Petitions are in circulation in Crawford county asking the commissioners to remove the county seat from Leavenworth, on the Ohio river, to Crandall station, on the Air Line railway.

The eleven-year-old son of E. C. Bedwell, of Forest, Howard county, while playing at the elevator of J. S. Kendall, fell into a wheat bin, and was smothered to death before help could reach him.

The sixteen year old daughter of Joseph Stubblefield, of Algiers, Pike county, committed suicide by shooting herself with a revolver in the forehead. Cause unknown. This is the second one of the family who has committed suicide.

Benjamin Hamilton, aged ninety-three years, the oldest pioneer in Ripley county, was found dead in bed at his home three miles west of Moore's Hill. He was a soldier of the war of 1812, and has resided in that locality for more than sixty years.

During one of the heavy storms last week lightning struck an old building belonging to Edward Vantros, Lagro township, Wabash county. The bolt knocked in one end of the building, and five hundred bushels of wheat stored within ran out and was ruined by rain.

E. T. Dickey, a well-known lawyer of Madison, has been arrested and placed in jail to answer to a charge of embezzling $100, entrusted to his keeping by Rev. David Stiver, for another party. A regular indictment was returned against him by the grand jury.

HON. WM. HEILMAN announces that he will not be a candidate for re-election to Congress from the First District, for the reason that his business is suffering greatly for lack of his personal attention.

A Gallant Deed.

[Chicago Inter Ocean.]

The dispatches from Alexandria enlarge upon the wonderful devotion and the extraordinary bravery of the gunner on board of one of the British vessels who picked up a shell with a burning fuse and immersed it in a bucket of water. This was a courageous act, but it was not "more gallant than anything of the sort ever before chronicled." During our own war in for the Union hundreds of cases as deserving of mention occurred.

At Stone River when Cruft's Brigade of Palmer's Division was pursuing the routed rebels on the 2d of January, they came suddenly on a reserve battery that opened on them with surprising fury. The men were ordered to lie down, and dropped in the soft mud of a cornfield. The rebel artillerymen had the range, however, and poured shot and shell into the advance line in a way that tore some unfortunates in pieces and covered nearly every one with mud. In the midst of the terrific fusillade, a shell struck between two men lying flat on the ground, so near to their heads as to stun both. Dozens of men, the bravest there, closed their eyes in anticipation of terrible scene that would follow the explosion. But one of the soldiers at whose shoulder the smoking shell had struck, digging up a handful of mud, held it aloft for a moment while he said coily, "Ten to one, boys, she don't bust," and with a sort of a gleeful agility he brought his great wad of mud down on the shell smoking in the shallow hole, and "she didn't bust." No one thought George Hunt, of Company C, First Kentucky Infantry, a hero for doing that, but possibly he ranked as high as the courageous gunner on the Alexandria.

Another case: When Sherman was getting ready for his move on Atlanta great quantities of ammunition were stored in the railroad sheds at Resacca. One day, in the midst of a thunderstorm that dismantled the camp, the ammunition building was struck by lightning. Hundreds of the bravest soldiers ran blindly away as they saw the boxes of shell thrown about, saw the guards drop as if shot, and saw smoke issuing from the top of the great pile of explosives. But one man, clear-eyed and cool-headed, saw that the smoke came from tow in which the shells were packed, and climbing to the top, he seized the burning mass, and holding it up shouted, "All right, boys; no fireworks this time." His intrepidity and alertness saved the ammunition and possibly many lives, and his record should be kept as green as that of the gallant gunner of the Alexandria.

These are only sample cases. The American war for the Union brought hundreds of such gallant deeds into clear light, and there is no good reason why they should be forgotten.

A Young Man's Penance.

London Letter to New York Herald.

Great interest and no little amusement were excited by a scene last Sunday, in a church at Clevedon, Somerset. A young man did public penance for the seduction of a girl, who was awaiting trial for manslaughter. The church was crowded. After evening prayer, when the vicar entered the pulpit, he told the congregation that they were about to deal with a matter of the most ancient character—a case of church discipline. The church warden then brought the man into the church. On reaching the chancel steps he kneeled down, and the church warden handed the vicar a paper, which contained the following declaration: "I, Llewellyn Hartree, do acknowledge myself to be guilty of a most grievous sin, for which I do hereby ask forgiveness of my fellow men, of the woman I have wronged, and of Almighty God. In proof of my repentance I promise to carry out whatever penance may be laid upon me in presence of this congregation." The vicar accounted that the penance was that the man should go to the Assize Court and take his place by the unfortunate girl at the bar. In reply to the vicar's question whether he would accept the penance, he replied, "Yes." On Wednesday the girl was tried at the Wells Assizes and was sentenced to one month's imprisonment for the concealment of the birth of her infant, the graver charge of manslaughter having been set aside. This incident has called for much discussion in the papers. It is asked, "Are we going to have a revival of church discipline?" Some papers make a deal of fun of the case, while some church papers treat it quite in an opposite style.

TABLE TALK.

There are 1,185 lawyers in Boston.

Enameled jewelry is gaining ground again.

Paris has now ninety-two Sunday schools.

Punchers coins have been scared out of existence.

Chicago's birth list shows a great majority of girls.

A new cream tint is tastily entitled "fresh butter."

A dog weighing but nineteen ounces is an Atlanta pet.

All the leading bugs are now personated on silver jewelry.

They have hardly had any Summer in the north of Ireland.

Baltimore has forty-one canneries, with $1,980,000 invested.

Idleness is worse than hard work to those unaccustomed to it.

Dr. Stewart, of Detroit, decides that adults can have chicken-pox.

No gold has been coined in England since the 13th of July, 1881.

A muff made of artificial roses is an odd ornament for Summer wear.

It is said that not one sardine box in a hundred holds genuine sardines.

Banana pie is now included among the alleged delicacies of the season.

An Atlanta druggist says there are 2,000 confirmed opium eaters in that city.

Having the table cloth match the furniture is the latest London "wrinkle."

Rockford, Ill., has made it a misdemeanor to maintain barbed wire fences.

A Michigan applicant for a teacher's license defined man as a "maskaline noun."

Of the population of Washington 50,000, or nearly one-third of the whole, are colored.

During the last six years over 48,000 dogs have been drowned at the New York pound.

There are 7,500 men employed in manufacturing and mining in and near Birmingham, Ala.

A Jewish synagogue, fashioned after an ancient Palestine palace, is to be built in Athens, Ga.

The biggest slate quarry in the United States has just been developed at Little Rock, Ark.

The government building at Utica, N. Y., is now practically completed, at cost of about $425,000.

Queen Victoria invariably transacts her public public business between breakfast and luncheon.

Vineland, N. J., on Wednesday celebrated its twenty-first birthday. It contains 30,000 acres and 8,000 people.

It is said that more cotton mills are building and suspending in South Carolina than in any other southern state.

An Allentown (Pa.) married woman committed a horrible suicide by taking enough Paris green to kill twenty persons.

Mrs. Vallemberg, the daughter of D. Ehrenhoff, the Swedish minister to the Porte, is training for a swim across the Bosporus.

A citizen of Hoosick, New York, has just bought eight pianos, which he will present to his five married daughters and three nieces.

A visitor at Leadville says that in one of the churches there is a notice: "Please don't shoot at the organist; he is doing his best."

The toy pistol should be banished from the toy shops with as much vigor as the pestilence of small-pox is driven from a city.

Philip A. White, a wholesale druggist of New York, is a colored man just appointed a member of the Brooklyn board of education.

Bee keepers of Oneida county, New York, say that the bees are unable to obtain sufficient sustenance, and predict a scanty honey crop.

Cuba bears an enormous burden in the way of taxation. The rate for the coming year is something over $26 to each man, woman and child in the island.

A scientific journal tells us that a little bird, the red tail, has been seen to catch 900 flies inside an hour. That bird could get a good salary any place around here.

"In order to make a good bottle of champagne at least two years of constant work and care is necessary," writes John I. Fisher, United States consul to Rheims, France.

A lady in Toledo, O., is lying ill from a cancer of the breast, which originated from the pressure and friction, upon the spot affected, of a broken corset-steel several years ago.

The venders of an electric cure-all in England are making a great display of an extravagant testimonial signed "George Thornburgh, speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives.

One Horace Shield was convicted at Chattanooga, Tenn., of borrowing an umbrella from an acquaintance and refusing to return it, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for one year.

It will be fifty years next December since Mr. Gladstone entered parliament. He was first returned to to parliament December 13, 1832, and has been a member of every house of commons since.

Pulaski, Tenn., had water-works sixty years ago, wooden boxes being used for mains. In laying gas pipe recently many of these mains were resurrected and found to be perfectly sound.

The Raleigh News notes the recent failure of two North Carolina cotton factories, and says that mills in the state have only succeeded when fortunate in making a class of goods for local consumption.

A London swell hit a waiter at his club with a plate for a fancied insult, and was arrested and fined £10. Then he was expelled from the club, and afterward thrashed in the streets by the waiter, who in turn has been elimated from the club.

The best grit for the manufacture of millstones to be found in the world is quarried in Moore county, North Carolina. It is a natural composition of flint rock and cement, which sharpens rather than dulls by use.

FROM THE WIRES.

Alexandria August 19.—Six transports with troops, and two gunboats, left this port last night to take position in the outside harbor ready to start Saturday.

1:15 p. m.—The transports and fleet are now steaming eastward. The ships have their topmasts lowered, and their yards secured with everything cleared ready for action.

The Khedive has decided to entrust Cherif Pasha with the presidency of the new Ministry, but the Ministry will not be constituted until the arrival of Riaz Pasha.

Information from headquarters states that a prominent person has been discovered to be in constant communication with the rebels. He will be arrested and confined on board an Egyptian man-of-war. It is reported that the person referred to is Hassan, chief minister of works.

Generals Wolseley and Adye accompanied the transports on the dispatch boat Salamis.

Admiral Seymour will hoist his flag on board the iron-clad Alexandria today.

The arrest of the person mentioned as having been in communication with rebels was made this morning.

Long, the American consul, was attacked yesterday inside the Gobarri gate by about forty natives. Soldiers arrived and despatched the crowd. The ring leaders of the assaulting party were arrested. It appears that the natives had tried to stop Long as he was driving. He became annoyed and urged on his horse, inflicting injuries on some of the party.

The enemy seems content with his intrenchments, and is doing little or nothing to improve them. Rebel official returns state their forces number 30,000 regulars, 88,000 militia and 50,000 armed Bedouins. They claim to have 25,000 men at Kafr-el-Dwar.

Alexandria, August 19, 4:40 p. m.—Heavy firing in the direction of Abourkir has just begun.

Alexandria, August 19, 6 p. m.—Fighting commenced this morning on the Mahamaudieh canal. The British are using heavy guns brought to the neighborhood of Millah Junction yesterday. Firing still continues.

Alexandria, August 19.—The German gunboat Habicht, Russian man-of-war Eriklik, and several other foreign vessels, are preparing to put to sea.

London, August 19.—A dispatch from Alexandria states that Generals Willis and Gratam and the Duke of Connaught have gone to Aboukir. Of the whole fleet of ironclads the Invincible and Inconstant alone remain. The Forty-ninth, Seventy-fifth and Seventy-ninth regiments at Ramleh will probably support the movement at Aboukir by the attack on the left flank of the enemy.

Port Said, August 21.—The transport Catalonia is aground in the canal, but does not stop traffic.

Constantinople, August 21.—The Porte refuses to permit the exportation from Turkey of mules for British service in Egypt. Lord Dufferin states that this is a contravention of treaty rights, and he has addressed a strong protest to the Porte, stating that Turkey will be held responsible for heavy damages.

Paris, August 21.—In consequence of the intemperate protests of De Lesseps, the French Government has sent him an official communication inviting him to employ prudence and circumspection in his language.

St. Petersburgh, August 21.—The Corvette Skobeleff left Cronstadt yesterday. The [illegible] says she is going to Alexandria.

Suez, August 21.—General McPherson, commander of the Indian contingent, and his staff, arrived here this morning.

The transport Merton Hall, with the Seventh Bengal Infantry, also arrived.

The French troopship Shamrock entered the canal this morning.

Alexandria, August 21.—Arabi Pasha is constructing extensive earthworks in the direction of Aboukir.

Alexandria, August 21—5:30 p. m.—The transports Greece, Ludgate Hill and City of New York, sailed east today.

Everything is quiet at the front.

Alexandria, August 21.—Gen. Wolseley telegraphs that there has been a slight skirmish at Ismailia. It is first announced from Ramleh that the enemy are moving up trains to Kafr-el-dwar, probably with the intention of withdrawing troops from there.

The person arrested for communicating with Arabi Pasha is Hanifi Effendi, Arabi's Director General of railways. Other arrests on the same charge are [illegible]

A battalion of the Shropshire regiment landed to-day and marched to Ramleh.

It is reported that Arabi Pasha will concentrate his forces at Damanhour, and that he has intrenched the camp at Fantah, to which place he will remove his headquarters. This information comes from Arab sources.

Alexandria, August 22.—Arabi Pasha is erecting fresh works and strengthening his position.

Bombay, August 22.—The Sixty-third Infantry and a battery of artillery sail to-day for Egypt.

London, August 22.—A majority of the French papers comment very unfavorably on the action of the British in occupying the Suez canal.

Paris, August 22.—De Lesseps telegraphs from Port Said that a modus vivendi has been established, permitting the regular traffic of the Suez Canal to proceed. He says he will be able to return to Paris shortly.

Tripoli, August 22.—It is stated that the Arab tribe holding the territory east of Bengazi is preparing to assist Arabi Pasha. The powerful Chief who is at the head of the national movement at Tripoli is said to favor assisting Arabi.

London, August 22.—The Daily News has the following from a correspondent at Suez: "I have just returned from Shaluf, where I witnessed the conclusion of the fight in which 250 of our men, including the Highlanders, Blue Jackets, and marines, brilliantly defeated twice their number. The fight lasted from 11 o'clock in the morning until near 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The firing of the Highlanders was remarkable for coolness and steadiness. The gatlings in the tops of the gunboats worked with admirable precision, and did much execution among the enemy, who advanced to within 100 yards of the bank of the canal. The success was all the more brilliant, owing to the extremely difficult nature of the country, which abounded with low ridges and water-courses. The enemy fought bravely. Their commander was killed."

A dispatch from Admiral Hewitt says the enemy's loss in the fight at Shaluf was 168 killed and 62 prisoners. The latter include 27 wounded.

Alexandria, August 23.—fires were observed last evening in the neighborhood of Aboukir and Kafr-el-dwar. It is believed that a part of the Egyptian force is burning the villages either during or preparatory to a retreat.

The Austrian gunboat Nautilis, bound from Port Said to Alexandria, passed Aboukir on Monday. The commander seeing a white flag flying on the Abovkir forts, supposed they were in possession of the British, and sent a boat ashore with an officer and twelve men, who were made prisoners by the Egyptians.

Ismailia, August 23.—Since the engagement at Shaluf the enemy have left every position they held between Suez and Ismailia, and are retreating in disorder toward Zagezag.

The Indian cavalry will come on her.

Port Said, August 23.—The natives are returning and resuming work.

It is reported from Ismailia that a force of the enemy, numbering about 3,000, have taken up a position ten miles distant from there.

The disembarkation of troops will be completed to-morrow.

Constantinople, August 23.—Two Austrian Lloyd steamers, with Turkish troops on board, have passed Rhodes, steering southeast.

Haidar Pasha, formerly Egyptain Minister of Finance, on invitation of the Khedive, will start to-day for Alexandria by a special steamer.

St. Petersburg, August 23.—Lieutenant Berry, who commanded the Rodgers, and Engineer Melvillee, of the Jeannette, will be received by the Czar this afternoon. They start for home to-morrow.

The Star's special advices from Guaymas, Sonora, of the 16th, say word has just been received from Trinidad, Sonora, that the Apaches are depredating fearfully, and committing frightful atrocities in the Sahuabupa district.

A large force of Mexicans are in close pursuit of the redskins at Taratuc ranch. The Apaches killed six men in passing Lamesa Palona, and killed two in Lucuchilla, two in Arincahonda, and four three hours afterward. They attacked Eicarrigi, and killed eleven women and a child, first stripping the women, and outraging them in a most brutal manner. They then put them to death by the most cruel torture.

Four of the men of the ranch who were returning saw the houses on fire, and fled. The Apaches gave chase. Three of them took refuge in the rocks and were defending themselves, when the fourth man, who escaped, brought the news to Trinidad. A large force of citizens started at once to the rescue, and couriers were sent in all directions to warn the settler of the whereabouts of the hostiles.

No mail riders have arrived for several days. It is believed all have fallen victims of the Apaches. The number of hostiles are 200, commanded by Juh, the Chihuahua chief, who escaped after the battle with General Fuero last spring. Authenticated reports state that a band of Apaches have penetrated Alamar, and are depredating there. General Reggs, with a large force in the Sahuaripa district, declares he will not spare a buck, squaw or pappose if he again encounters them.

Pittsburgh Dispatch.

One of the most dastardly and cold-blooded attempts to wreck a train was made last night at the first trestle this side of Allequippi station, on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad. At Allequippi yesterday there was a picnic, which was attended by some thousands or more of men, women and children, filling half a dozen coaches. On the return from Allequippi, the train was going at a rapid rate. Just before entering the first trestle the engineer discovered a large beam lying across the track, and the discovery was made just in time to enable him to stop the train. Had his attention been attracted in any other direction but for a minute before he saw the obstruction across the track, the train would have been precipitated to ground below, a distance of forty feet, and with the precipitation there would have been a terrible loss of life. Who put the obstruction on the track, or the motive that tempted the fiends to engage in such an attempt at wholesale murder is of course unknown. There can be no doubt but what the beam was laid across the track for the purpose of wrecking that particular train. The excitement produced by the discovery among the passengers was so great that for the remainder of the trip there was much less joy than there had been. The railroad authorities have offered a reward of $500 for information that will lead to the detection of the would-be train-wrecker.

Near Chicago 150 hod-carriers and bricklayers at Pullman went on a strike for $2.00 a day, the previous wages being $1.75. They have other grievances, including lost time, incorrect time-keeping and the necessity of paying car-fare to Chicago. Both sides are stubborn.

Syracuse, N. Y., dispatch.—An alarming plague has broken out among a heard of fat cattle in a pasture of ninety-five acres, near Weedsport, in this county. Ten of the animals have died, and all but four are affected. The pasture was controlled by two butchers. The disease has no prominent symptom, except debility, which comes on suddenly. The animal is first seized with dizziness, staggers around for a few hours, then lies down, froths at the mouth, and dies. Only one of the animals attacked has survived. There were no Texas cattle in the pasture, but all the dead animals were State cattle. There were some Texas cattle in the pasture a few weeks ago.

At Lafayette, Alabama, Sam Johnson, a well-known and well-to-do planter shot and killed his niece. A large white dog had annoyed Johnson for some time by entering the house and destroying articles. Two days ago Johnson had gone to bed, leaving his daughter and niece on the front piazza, where they staid until late. On entering the house to retire the girls made some noise, which awoke Mrs. Johnson, who told her husband that the dog was on the piazza. Johnson arose, half asleep, and came out with his gun, when seeing something white in the doorway, he fired and instantly killed his niece and wounded his daughter. He became nearly insane when he realized his act.

The little child of Lieutenant and Mrs. Fitch, the granddaughter of General Sherman, who has been so ill the past few days, died last night. This is the second loss of the same sort sustained by the stricken family within the past two weeks. Mrs. Fitch has usually spent her summers in St. Louis or its vicinity. This summer she accepted her mother's invitation to come to Oakland, Maryland, where General Sherman had a cottage for the season. On the way Mrs. Fitch's two youngest children became ill, and within a fortnight they have both died. Three children are left the bereaved parents.

San Antonia, Tex., dispatch:

Charles W. Ward, colored, a discharged United States soldier, was hanged in jail at noon to-day for raping a white girl named Dora Ellerman, August 21, 1881. He met death without fear.

St. Louis dispatch:

The St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Company has just closed out all its land in Jasper, Newton and McDonald counties, in this State, amounting to 165,000 acres, to the Missouri Land and Live Stock Company, of Edinburg, Scotland. A large part of the land is to be used as a cattle and sheep ranch, for which it is especially adapted.

Howard Underwood, who killed Belle Lucas, his mistress, a year ago, has been convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged at Charleston, Mo., September 29.

Dispatches from Lake Minnetonka, Minn., says that Miss Ella walker, daughter of Dr. G. S. Walker, one of the leading and best known homœopathic physicias of St. Louis, disappeared from there Monday evening, and has not since been heard of. There are theories of suicide and of elopement, but nothing definite seems to be known regarding her further than that Miss Walker went out on the lake Monday evening in a skiff alone and has not been seen since or heard of. The event excites deep sympathy here on the part of friends and the family who are very numerous and among the best people in the city.

Port Jervis, N. Y., dispatch:

This afternoon Jesse Mandeville, an employe on the farm of Mark Van Etton, near this place, was shot and fatally injured by an eccentric old farmer named Pailip Etting. He was walking past Etting's orchard and jumped over the fence to pick up an apple. Etting saw him and fired, hitting Mandeville in the back, below the region of the heart. The doctors say that he cannot live. He is 23 years of age, and is known to be a quiet and inoffensive young man. Etting shot the hand off a tramp who was trespassing on his property about four months ago, and some twelve months since he locked himself up for three months in a garret to escape a judgment of $6,000, although he is one of the wealthiest men hereabouts. Etting immediately disappeared after the shooting.

By direction of the Secretary of War, a board of officers of the corps of Engineers, to consist of Lieutenant Colonel David C. Houston, Major Jared A. Smith, and Major William H. H. Benyaurd, will assemble at Chicago, Ill., shortly, to examine the Calumet river, Illinois, "and report upon the practicability and the best method of perfecting and maintaining a channel for thorough navigation" to the fork of said river, at Lake Calumet, "adapted to the passage of the largest vessel navigating the Northern and Northwestern lakes, and to limit and locate the lines of channel to be improved by the United States, and of docks that may be constructed by private individuals, corporations or other parties," and clearly define the same.

The board will further report "the estimated cost of the proposed improvement; also what legislation, if any, is necessary to prevent encroachments being made or maintained within the limits of the channel designated, as provided for in the River and Harbor act of August 2, 1882." The board will make its report on or before the 20th of November next.

Horse Cave, Ky., dispatch.—Intelligence of a sickening tragedy at Bonnieville, in this county, has just been received here. Retta and Hayes, two children of Henry Butler, aged respectively 8 and 6 years, were eating apples Sunday morning, when Hayes dropped his apple. Retta picked it up. This so incensed him that he attacked her with a bowie knife, fatally cutting her.

A fire Keeseville, N. Y., burned the Adirondack Hotel, the Nolette House and thirty buildings comprising stores and dwellings, located on Front, Main and Vine streets. Loss $100,000. Insured.

Visalia, Col., dispatch;

To-day Ben Harris, a colored man living near here, shot and mortally wounded his wife, killed his step-daughter, fourteen years old, and severely wounded another step-daughter, aged ten, with an ax. Harris escaped before news of the tragedy reached town. Thirty men are in hot pursuit of the murderer.

A Singular Murder.

John Boyle, a young laborer, residing near Wentworth avenue and Forty seventh street, Chicago, was shot and mortally wounded Monday morning by Gutz Hyeman, belonging in the same neighborhood. The murder grew out of jealousy between the two men over Miss Belle French, a domestic employed at Ashland avenue, near Adams street.

The story of the shooting is a peculiar one. Hyeman was engaged to marry Miss French, and supposed her true to him until Sunday, when she met Boyle in Oswold's Park. It must have been a case of instantaneous love on both sides, for then and there Belle forsook Hyeman, and engaged herself to Boyle. When Hyeman learned of this state of affairs he swore vengeance and death against Boyle with whom he had but slight acquaintance.

Early Monday night Boyle noticed Hyeman prowling around the boarding house near Forty-seventh street, but thought of no danger. About ten o'clock the woman arrived from the city to see Boyle, and together they set out for a walk on Wentworth avenue. Hyeman followed, and kept them in sight. Shortly before midnight, Boyle and Miss French, returning from their walk, saw Hyeman sitting in front of Gleason's saloon, corner of Forty seventh street and Wenthworth avenue, and Boyle asked him to take a drink. Hyeman consented, and both men entered the saloon, but the girl ran away. Boyle ran after and brought her back, when Hyeman scowled darkly at her. While the men were drinking, they passed some coarse remarks, Hyeman reflecting on Miss French.

[illegible] Boyle became angry, and ran to his boarding house, one block away, got a double-barrelled shot-gun and returned, announcing that the piece was loaded with nails, lead, &c. He cautiously entered the saloon where Hyneman was standing at the bar, and raised the gun to fire. Hyneman knocked Boyle down and took away the gun. Boyle regained his feet and dashed out of the door running across the prairie, Hyeman following. When Boyle reached the Hyde Park line, Hyeman fired, sending the entire load of both barrels into Boyle's side. He fell bleeding to the ground, when Hyeman rushed up to him, jeered, and refused him help.

The wounded man managed to crawl home and arouse the people in the boarding house, who at once sent for Dr. Cory. Examination showed Boyle's side to be literarally riddled with missiles, and when the doctor finished dressing the wounds forty-five pieces of nails, lead, bolts, &c., were taken from Boyles body. It is feared some of the shot penetrated his intestines, and at last accounts Boyle was dying.

By an arrangement with the widow of William Enston, the city of Charleston, S. C., has come into possession of a portion of $500,000 left by him to found a refuge for aged poor people. Eight acres of ground have been purchased on which to erect neat cottages.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER

DARBY'S

Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed. Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant. Fevered and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water. Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing. Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about. To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed. Catarrh relieved and cured. Erysipelas cured. Burns relieved instantly. Scars prevented. Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed. Gangrene prevented and cured. Dysentery cured. Wounds healed rapidly. Scurvey cured in a short time. Tetter dried up. It is perfectly harmless. For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated. Ship Fever prevented by its use. In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell. An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c. Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use. Yellow Fever Eradicated.

In fact it is the great DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER

PREPARED BY J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI, UTICA, N. Y., Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S

UTERINE CATHOLICON, A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Lucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed, and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS. Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Consult and secure the advantages of DR. BUTTS long experience in curing diseases of the Blood, Skin and Bones.—Nervous Debility, Impotency, Organic Weakness, Gonorrhea, Syphilitic and Mercurial Affections specially treated on scientific principles, with safe and sure remedies. Call or write for List of Questions to be answered by those desiring treatment by mail. Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss. Address, DR. BUTTS, 12 N. 8th St., St. Louis, Mo. ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF YOUTH and MANHOOD

A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE. BY A PHYSICIAN of 25 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks, "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM.

The Best, Cleanest and most Economical Hair Dressing. Never Fails to Restore the youthful color to grey hair. 50c and $1 sizes at druggists.

Floreston Cologne. A new and exceedingly fragrant and lasting perfume. Price 25 and 75c.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

A Pure Family Medicine that Never Intoxicates.

If you are a mechanic or farmer, worn out with overwork, or a mother run down by family or household duties try PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

If you are a lawyer minister or business man exhausted by mental strain or anxious cares do not take intoxicating stimulants, but use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

If you have Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Kidney or Urinary Complaints, or if you are troubled with any disorder of the lungs, stomach, bowels, blood or nerves you can be cured by PARKER'S GINGER TONIC.

If you are wasting away from age, dissipation or any disease and require a stimulant take GINGER TONIC at once; it will invigorate & build you up from the first dose but will never intoxicate. It has saved hundreds of lives; it may save yours.

HISCOX & CO., 163 William St., New York. 50c. and one dollar sizes, at all dealers in medicines. GREAT SAVING BUYING DOLLAR SIZE.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of Most Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, Magnificent Horton Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous

"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."

A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.

Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.

Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.

For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the

GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,

At your nearest Ticket Office, or address

R. R. CABLE, Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r, E. ST. JOHN, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.

CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO. ACORN STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!

Every Style & Price.

Guaranteed Unequaled FOR OPERATION, ECONOMY, DURABILITY and WORKMANSHIP.

Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.

Always Reliable.

POPULAR EVERYWHERE.

For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable Balm that will remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, inclosing 3c stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dreadful disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York. 1yr

KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE.

WHOLESALE LIST

TURNIP SEEDS!

MERCHANTS! SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST. D. LANDRETH & SONS, PHILADELPHIA.

DR. HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent [illegible] and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any [illegible] as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity [illegible] ST. LOUIS, MO., [illegible] Ave.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC.

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., [illegible] MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, AUG. 31st, 1882

Democratic State Ticket

For Secretary of State,
WILLIAM R. MYERS, of Madison.
For Auditor of State,
JAMES H. RICE, of Floyd.
For Treasurer of State,
JOHN J. COOPER, of Marion.
For Attorney General,
FRANCIS T. HORD, of Bartholomew
For Clerk of Supreme Court,
S. P. SHEERIN, of Cass.
For State Superintendent,
JOHN W. HOLCOMBE, of Porter.
For Judge Supreme Court—First dis't
W. E. NIBLACK, of Knox.
Second District,
GEORGE V. HOWK, of Floyd.
Fourth District,
ALLEN ZOLLARS, of Allen.

COUNTY TICKET.
For Congress 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY,
of Allen County.
COUNTY TICKET.
For Representative,
D. D. MOODY.
For Clerk,
D. Y. HUSSELMAN.
For Auditor,
THOMAS H. TOMLINSON.
For Treasurer.
L. J. MILLER.
For Sheriff,
JOHN W. BOYLE.
For Recorder,
JOHN BUTT.
For Surveyor,
J. J. VAN AUKEN.
For Coroner,
J. J. LATSON.
Commissioner North District,
JOSEPH SEWELL.
Southwest District,
CHRISTIAN SHEETS.
Southeast District,
OLIVER H. WIDNEY.

Joint Representative Convention.

Delegates from the counties of DeKalb, Noble and Elkhart, the same constituting a joint representative district, will meet in convention at Waterloo, Indiana,

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 5th, 1882,

at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Joint Representative for the counties named. The ratio of representation will be one delegate for each 200 votes cast for the Democratic candidate for governor in 1880, and one vote for every fraction of 100 and over, as follows:

Elkhart County	17	votes.
Noble "	14	"
DeKalb "	13	"
Total	44	"

By order of the District Committee.

Judicial Convention.

The Democracy of the 35th Judicial Circuit are hereby notified to meet at Waterloo, on

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 5th, 1882,

at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices: Judge and Prosecuting Attorney for the 35th Judicial Circuit. All voters, regardless of past party affiliations, who are desirous of co-operating with the Democracy in the support of its principles and nominees, are cordially invited to attend. The basis of representation will be the same as that adopted by the late congressional convention, which will entitle each county to the following number of votes:

Noble County	14	votes.
DeKalb "	13	"
Steuben "	8	"
Total	35

OWEN BLACK, Noble Co.,
M. BOLAND, DeKalb Co.,
H. FREYGANG, Steuben Co.,
Ch'm Com's.

THE Record of last week says: "We congratulate that democrat who said, 'I am a democrat but shall vote the republican ticket this fall,' when he made the above remark he expressed the sentiments of numbers of other good democrats all over the state." Per Contra: The COURIER congratulates that republican, who said, "I am a republican, but shall vote the democratic ticket this fall." When he made the above remark, he expressed the sentiments of numbers of other good republicans all over the state.

Greenback Convention.

Pursuant to call, the Greenback Labor Party of DeKalb county, assembled in Auburn, on Saturday, August 26, at 11 o'clock a. m. The convention was called to order by H. Lydecker and Capt. Samuel Edge, of Waterloo, was made permanent chairman, with Solomon Beidler and Wm. F. C. Francis secretaries. Dr. Winslow announced a greenback mass convention of the thirty-fifth judicial district to be held at Waterloo, September 2nd, at 10 o'clock a. m., to place in nomination candidates for circuit judge and prosecuting attorney. On motion, a committee of three was appointed on resolutions, consisting of Dr. Winslow, of Union; Ward Kennedy, of Wilmington; and Miles E. Chapman, of Newville, who, through their chairman, reported the following, and was adopted by the convention.

The Greenback Labor Party of DeKalb county, Indiana, in convention assembled, submit the following brief statements of their principles and reasons for their actions:

WHEREAS, The democracy, so long ago as 1868, under the lead of Senators George H. Pendleton and Daniel W. Voorhees, did most heartily advocate and approve the policy of paying the bonded debt with new made greenbacks; and Senator John Sherman, in the same year, on the floor of the senate, did declare that all of the public debt should be made to assume such form as to be a part of the circulating capital of the country; and further: The republican state convention of Indiana in 1868, in the fourth resolution of its platform, thus affirm: The public debt made necessary by the Rebellion should be honestly paid, and all the bonds issued therefore should be paid with legal tender—commonly called greenbacks—and paid in such quantities as will make the circulation commensural with the commercial wants of the country. And

WHEREAS, The congress in 1869, in the somewhat notrious act of the 18th of March, interpreting the meaning of the original contract, did declare and make legal, that bonds not already due may be redeemed or payable whenever treasury notes—greenbacks—shall be convertible into coin at the option of the holder; that contingency having long existed, and with this array of eminent authority in our support, we therefore Resolve, That we will utterly denounce any coquetting with either or both of the old parties, which have shamelessly abandoned their once cherished principles in their greed for office and public plunder; that we will continue to demand that there be issued new legal tender greenbacks in amount equal to all the United States bonds now in existence, and then, with these new greenbacks, pay all of the bonds at once. Then the odious national banking system—the champion villainy of the century—with its uniform brood of kindred monopolies, will curse our land no longer.

On motion it was ordered that a committee consisting of one from each township should prepare a ticket to be submitted to the convention. At one o'clock the convention adjourned. On re-assembling, the committee reported the following ticket, which was unanimously adopted, providing that all vacancies that might occur be filled by the county central committee: Representative, Samuel Edge; clerk, Wm. Wallace; auditor, J. M. Cathcart; sheriff, John Murphy; recorder, Isaac Shaffer; treasurer ——— commissioners, Charles Scattergood Allen Shultz, Henry Milliman; coroner, Henry Espy; surveyor, Miles E. Chapman. The business of the convention completed, an invitation was extended to the Hon. H. Z. Leonard, candidate for secretary of state, who was present, to address the people, who, in a speech of two hours, was listened to with respectful attention. The gentleman displayed a veritable democratic flag, which had done service in the campaign of the party in the olden time. It was a national banner with a large greenback printed across the bars, the sight of which must have been very suggestive to many an honest democrat.

SOLOMON BEIDLER, }
WM. F. C. FRANCIS, } Sec'ys.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Mrs. L. M. Kilbourne, of Greencastle, Ind., is visiting with Dr. Winslow.

H. D. Armstrong started west with his Nebraska excursion Monday night on train No. 5. W. B. Duncan, F. P. Day and others went from this place.

Mrs. J. C. Boyer, and Mrs. Henry Willis started west Monday to visit friends in Chicago and Kansas City.

J. D. McAnally is busy making his patent trace hooks or couplers. They are just the thing, simple, durable, and above all things will be absolutely safe.

A number of Auburn, people including A. J. Ralston, wife and daughter, Mrs. Dills, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barns, and daughter, and Mrs. Lamson, were in attendance at the Presbyterian church. After services they enjoyed the hospitality of the Butt Hotel, before returning. All speak highly of Mr. Johnson's sermon, and are very enthusiastic over their reception by Mr Butt. Mrs. Butt is having rather poor health, which their many friends, hope will not prove serious.

R Wes. McBride and wife, O. P. Smith, wife and daughter, Frank Swarts and wife, Mrs. Simon Stroh, W. B. Maxwell and W. H. Weaver, attended the Odd fellows' picnic at Rome City yesterday.

The Wizard oil concert company gave an entertainment on our streets Tuesday evening.

Born at Wolcottville, August 22 to the wife of John Cochran a daughter.

Ed. Best left last Thursday for Minneapolis Minn., to join his brother Gene and they will both attend the Minn., State University the coming year.

It is rumored that C. W. Gillett has resigned his position as freight agent of the Ft. Wayne & Jackson R. R. He will travel for a soap house.

C. A. O. McClellan returned from Kansas Monday night.

Miss May Carlton, of Angola, was the guest of Mrs. T. Y. Dickinson and family over Sunday.

Miss Della McClellan returned to Ann Arbor, last Friday.

Mrs. B. F. Kennedy spent last week in Wolcottville with her sister Mrs. John Cochran.

Grant Fisk left last Thursday for Ann Arbor where he will attend school.

The residence of Mrs. Sam Rorhbaugh just south of town was burned yesterday morning. She was away from the house at the time.

J. N. McBride spent a day in Auburn last week for repairs on his threshing machine. The work was done at Ed Morell's machine shop.

The Presbyterian and M. E. sabbath schools have a picnic at Pleasant Lake to-morrow.

Jasper M. Waterman is taking a trip through Iowa at present.

Phil. Morell is still in poor health, though hopes are entertained that nothing serious will result.

John W. Patterson is expected back from Marion, Iowa, for a short visit about the last of this week.

Brand & Duncan shipped a quantity of nice apples to South Bend last week. But they don't think there will be half a dozen firms engaged in the business this year, as was the case last season.

Dr. Farrington has a new sidewalk, brick, of course, along Center street. And we might add his hedge fence is doing duty as a fence.

Mr. Winsor, of Pleasant Lake, was in town Tuesday.

J. Kahn, of Chicago, was in town over Sunday.

R. Shull and wife returned Saturday from Mich. where they had been visiting friends for a week or ten days.

Rev. Henry Johnson, of Grand Haven, Michigan, but formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church of this place, preached here last Sunday. Mr Johnson has hosts of friends here, and they were glad of another opportunity to hear him, as was evinced by the large audience that greeted him on the occasion.

MARRIED:—August 24 at the residence of the bride, by Rev. Klotz, James McCosh and Eliza Harris, all of this place.

ST. JOE.

Dr. C. M. Govdale, of Metz, Ind. was in town Saturday last.

John Leighty has been spending the last few days with his son Elec, near Fremont, Michigan.

Mrs. McClaren, of North Baltamore, Ohio, is spending a few days with her son, W. B. McClaren, of this burg.

Jacob Saylor and lady and Mrs. Meam, of Antwerp, Ohio, spent last sabbath with their sister, Mrs. Mary Woodcox. Mrs. Woodcox, familiarly known as Aunt Polly Woodcox, is very sick with heart disease, and fears are entertained that she cannot recover.

We received the thanks of Miss Josie Thomas and Viola Yarnell for our noticing their festival at Newville. Dish up another, ladies, and don't forget to send us some cake.

There is a probability that John Widney will have his fifty dollars reward to pay, as some of our detectives think they have the game as good as bagged.

We understand that the temperance people of St. Joe are trying to have a temperance meeting in the near future. It must be a little on the sly, as we have not heard much said. Better wait until after election, as some of the candidates might compromise themselves.

Last Monday was quite exciting for a few minutes, in the extreme east end of town. Some loud talk, with a little profanity mixed in, a good deal of fist shaking and arm fighting was indulged in. Nobody was hurt, for the simple reason that one was afraid and the other did not dare.

Graveyard insurance has struck St. Joe. For particulars call on Sol. B. and Frank Draggoo. They keep posted, you bet.

* * *

—An extra went west over the B. & O. Thursday having on board the leading officials of that road, who were going over the line to look up matters of interest to the road. They were T. H. Noonan, general freight agent for Trans-Ohio division; B. Dunham, general manager; John Thomas, general superintendent, and several other leading officers. Among other points, they went over the different grounds on Syracuse Lake, and especially the new site at Wood Beach, or Jones' Landing, two miles east of Syracuse. Here they are going to make a platform for the use of excursions and other parties, and expect eventually to make it a station and general stopping place for pleasure seekers. They have given it the name of Wood Beach, as its former name, Oakland Grove, is too nearly like the mountain resort of Oakland, also on the line of the B. & O.

—Dr. Shepherd will be at the residence of B. F. Culbertson, in Auburn, next Monday afternoon, September 4.

—There will be a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Waterloo fair at the office of the secretary Tuesday, at one o'clock.

MARRIED.—August 13th, at the Robinson house, Minor, Mich., by H. V. Staley; Mr. Wesley Cornell to Miss Lizzie Dore, both of Auburn, Ind. quite a number were present, and we with their friends wish Wesley and his bride many years of happinass. May, their married life be one of joy and prosperity.

Permit No Substitution.

Insist upon obtaining Floreston Cologne. It is pre-eminently superior superior in permanence and rich delicacy of fragrance. 31-4t

Have You Ever

Known any person to be seriously ill without a weak stomach or inactive liver or kidneys? And when these organs are in good condition do you not find their possessor enjoying good health? Parker's Ginger Tonic regulates these important organs, makes the blood rich and pure, and strengthens every part of the system. See other column. 31-4t.

IT is believed that the yellow fever at Brownsville, Texas, is abating.

Notice to Bridge Builders.

Notice is hereby given, that the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county Indiana, will, on Saturday, September 16th, 1882, at 10 o'clock a. m., let to the lowest and best responsible bidder, the construction of a Howe Truss Bridge across Cedar creek, near Eagle Mills, in Auburn.

Said bridge to be one hundred and twelve (112) feet in length, sixteen feet (16) roadway and [illegible] on the abutments.

Said letting to take place at the site of the work. Plans and specifications can be seen at the auditor's office. Successful bidders will be required to execute a bond for the faithful performance of the work as required by law—to the acceptance of the Board. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board.
Attest, ALBERT ROBBINS, Auditor.
August 21st, 1882. 36-3w.

THE strike of freight handlers at New York has ended and the strikers have asked to be re-instated in the positions they left.

AGENTS WANTED for HOMES AND HOME LIFE.

How to attain Good Health, Long Life, and Happy Homes. How to prevent disease. How, when and what to eat. Clothing. Accidents. Care of the sick. Marriage—its purpose, duties and pleasures. Birth and care of children—their physical, intellectual and moral training and government. Social and business life. The Laws of health. Signs and treatment of disease. Represents the life work, experience and observations of an eminent physician, and contains important information that fathers, mothers, husbands, wives, young men and ladies, boys and girls ought to know. Nothing like it ever published. Sells at sight. Send for circulars and terms.

P. W. ZIEGLER & Co.
112 Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

30 CARD CHROMOS And 12 LARGE CHROMOS FREE

with the "Peoples Magazine. The most magnificent premium ever given, and one of the best magazines published. Only [illegible] cents a year. Sample sent free on receipt of a 3-cent stamp. Agents wanted. Send [illegible] cents for complete outfit, including all the chromos. Money returned if not satisfied.

$47 a month and board in your own county. Men or Ladies. Pleasant business.
Address, PEOPLE'S MAGAZINE,
36-4w. Philadelphia, Pa.

SELF SATISFYING.

FACT

That our $8.00 Suits are worth $15.0
That our 9.00 Suits are worth 17.00
That our 11.00 Suits are worth 20.00
That our 14.00 Suits are worth 25.00
That our 15.00 Suits are worth 28.00
That our 1.60 pants are worth 2.50
That our two dollar pants are worth $4
That our $20 Satin Lined Suits ARE WORTH $45
That our $15 Diagonal Coats and Vests are worth 30
That our 9.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 17.00
That our 12.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 22:00

We have a stock of Clothing well worth seeing Come and convince yourself.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

ATTENTION,

Country Merchants!

My Stock Embraces ALL Kinds Staple and Fancy Merchandise:

Clocks,
Watches,
Jewelry,
Silver Ware,
Optical Goods,
Musical Goods.
Sewing Machines,
Druggists' Sundries,
White Goods,
Hosiery,
Toys,
Cutlery,
Pictures,
Frames,
Mirrors,

Smokers' Goods,
Sporting Goods,
Japanese Goods
Fancy Goods
Notions,
Stationery
Wallets
Wooden Ware
Glass Ware,
Hardware
Purses
Tin Ware:

5 & 10 Cent Counter, 49 & 99 Cent Store Supplies

Look up my Illustrated Catalogue (if you have not one send for it) and notice prices and style of goods on pages 6 to 63, 68 to 91, 93 to 115, 150 to 165, and so on through the book, and you will find that I am offering a SAVING to you of 10 to 25 per cent. on a large line of Staple Goods. You can order your STOCK from my Catalogue without leaving your store or paying a traveling man to come and take your order. I guarantee prices and goods to be just as satisfactory as though you were here in person to select. When in the city, give me a call before buying, and I will show you the most complete stock of Goods in the west to select from it INSIDE PRICES.

C. M. LININGTON, IMPORTER,
145 and 147 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

CLOTHING, HATS AND CAPS, DRYGOODS AND NOTIONS.

A FULL LINE OF LADIES' AND GENTS'

UNDERWEAR, OVERCOATS, GLOVES AND MITTINS!

GENTS

WHITE AND COLORED SHIRTS

A FINE LINE OF

Silk, Gingham and Cotton PARASOLS.

SEWING MACHINES!

A FULL LINE OF

JAMESTOWN AND OTHER ALPACAS CASHMERES and all other DRESS GOODS.

We will continue to keep on hand a full line of GROCERIES at bottom prices. Will give cost price if requested to do so. Goods will be sold for cash or produce only.

MILLER & CETROST.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—Dance to-night at Hebel's Hall.

—Miller and Getrost's great sale has begun.

—Call and see the new firm. Boyer & Beidler.

—Hon. W. G. Colerick is at Petosky, Michigan.

—Groceries are the cheapest at Boyer & Beidler's.

—Groceries marked way down at Johnny Hebel's.

—The Waterloo Fair is held the first week in October.

—Buells boots and shoes are sold by Boyer & Beidler.

—The best cigars in town at Johnny Hebel's new store.

—Fred. Yesbera and his wife were in town over Sunday.

—The best one dollar black silk is at Boyer & Beidler's.

—J. J. Walter, now of Albion, was in town on Saturday.

—Miss Lizzie Mahurin returns to the Academic this week.

—Frank Willis, of Waterloo, was in town Monday on business.

—Miller & Getrost are selling off their stock of goods at cost.

—J. Beuret went to Academic this week to do some work there.

—Go to Boyer & Beidler's to buy new fall dress goods, and trimmings.

—Jones, at Fort Wayne, makes cabinet photos at $2.50 per dozen. 34-10

—Try the "Shrub," the best five-cent cigar in the market at Johnny Hebel's.

—See the mammoth advertisement of Miller & Getrost in this week's issue.

—Buy the Eckhart buggy, and no other. They give the best satisfaction.

—County teachers' institute for Kosciusko county, is held at Warsaw this week.

—Now is a very good time to commence planting your fall advertisements.

—Charley Pommert and P. Young will exchange business rooms next Monday.

—W. H. Shatto, of Fairfield, was in town Saturday to attend the teachers' examination.

—George Barney, of Spencerville, and Sol. Barney, of St. Joe, were in town Monday.

—Yesbera, the tailor has a fine stock of fall and winter goods, bought especially for the trade.

—You can buy more goods for the money, at Boyer and Beidler's, than any place in Waterloo.

—Mrs. B. F. Kennedy and Miss Jennie Francis, of Waterloo, were in town this week visiting friends.

—The Butler base ball club played the Garrett nine last Thursday beating them in a score of 19 to 6.

—Miller & Getrost have a general closing out sale advertised. Go and see what bargains they give.

Mrs. M. H. Ingram, of Winamac, Pulaski Co., is using Brown's Iron Bitters with marked good effect.

—Don't forget the democratic convention for judge and joint representative at Waterloo, September 5th.

—Mrs. H. Foehlich, Miss Lou. Patterson and Mrs. McCorkle, were among the visitors from Waterloo this week.

—The Angola fair begins October 10. One week later than the fair at Waterloo. B. F. Dawson, Angola, is secretary.

—Cut down the weeds in front of your lot. If every one will do this there will be no need of bothering the marshal with it.

—A. M. Jones, of Wood Beach, near Syracuse, called in a short time on Monday. Business is booming on the island lakes, he says.

—The Presbyterian and M. E. Sunday-schools of Waterloo, have their annual excursion to Pleasant Lake, to-morrow, September 1.

—The people of the school district east of town, have a picnic and sort of reunion this evening in honor of the completion of their new school.

—J. C. Boyer, of Waterloo, was over here Tuesday. He has taken a partner into his business and expects to make things hum. F. T. Beidler is the lucky man.

—Our friend W. L. Smith, of Keyser, called around to renew his acquaintance with the Courier folks last week. We found him a most agreeable gentleman. Call again.

Ayer's Ague Cure has saved thousands of lives in the malarial districts of this and other counties. It is warranted a certain and speedy remedy, free from all harmful ingredients.

—The editor of an exchange hangs out this notice: "The man who brings the longest cornstalk to this office will be shot. But the man who brings the largest watermelon will be allowed to return to the bosom of his family."

—We got the new marshal's name wrong last week. It is John Tressh, who has been appointed to fill out Marshal Smith's time. We have no doubt he will be a faithful and efficient officer, as he has been in all his other official positions.

—The public school at Garrett commences September 4th, with C. M. Merica as principal.

—For nice fresh groceries, candies, cigars and tobaccos, call on Johnny Hebel at his new store.

Mess. Mahan & Co., druggists, of Rockville, Parke Co., say Brown's Iron Bitters gives entire satisfaction.

—See the notice to bridge builders in the Courier. The new bridge is to be on Seventh street, over Cedar Creek.

—The Rochester make of ladies and misses fine shoes, are sold by Boyer & Beidler, 10 to 20 per cent less than at the other stores.

Mrs. Fred Shaffer, of Decatur, Ind., has been visiting a few days in the family of Dr. Cowan. They went to South Bend Monday.

—Sam. Pommert will soon be at home in his new room in the Hebel building, where he will have one of the best furnished barber shops in the state.

—The B. & O. depot building at the Junction has been repainted and the boys are feeling as proud as fighting cocks. But they are A No. 1 boys for all that.

—Married: At the residence of the officiating clergyman, Rev. W. L. Meese, August 24, 1882, Peter Fair, of Allen county, to Miss Annie Butmer, of this county.

—Samuel Miller and wife of Angola, are visiting relatives here and in Waterloo. They spent yesterday at Frank Baird's, east of town, Mrs. Baird and Mrs. Miller being sisters.

Old and young, male and female, find a sure cure for all nervous affections in Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment. A cure guaranteed. Sold at F. E. Davenport's.

—There will be a meeting on the fair grounds at Waterloo, on Saturday of this week, September 2d, to sell the stands and other rights. All interested should bear this in mind.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Patterson, of Warsaw, and Mrs. Dr. Smith, of Lexington, Ohio, were visiting friends and relatives here, last week. The ladies are daughters of Henry Ford.

—While at Garrett last week, we renewed the acquaintance of our old-time friend, Wm. Eardley, of Butler township. He was formerly a resident of Noble township, Noble county.

—To-morrow. September 1, is the annual meeting of the trustees for the purpose of making their September reports, and for such other work as may come before the board of education.

—The Lutheran church at Sedan will give an ice-cream festival there, this Thursday evening. Ice-cream, cake, lemonade, etc., will be the bill of fare. All are invited from far and near.

—Last weeks Angola Herald speaks in very flattering terms of the popularity of B. F. Killinger of that place, formerly a neighbor of ours in Waterloo. We are pleased to know he is doing well.

—The ladies of the fifth division, will entertain the social connected with the M. E. church, at the residence of Jack McKay, on Friday evening September 1st. All are invited to be present.

—Our foreman is still laid up with the injury he received, and "Conny" and "Bitt" are runnnig the machine, doing the job work, and keeping things going on generally. Of course the editor and his wife help "do the chores."

—John Campbell, of Waterloo, has gone into partnership with John Knoder. They will engage in the manufacture and repair of wagons and carriages, and work of that kind. Both are well known to be good workman.

—It takes three men to do the work that the late James Quince, trustee of Butler township, had under his charge. His son has charge of the store, Mr. Fair is trustee and some one else is postmaster, we understand. Have not learned who is ticket agent.

—Rev. Henry Johnson and family returned to Grand Haven this week. They were accompained by Mrs. Hare who has given up keeping house, and expects to reside hereafter with her children. She leaves her home here with many good wishes following her.

—Mrs. J. L. Davis, Mrs. A. J. Ralston, Mrs. S. C. Swineford, Mrs D. Ober, Mrs. S. B. Miller and Mrs. R. Elson will entertain a Fruit Social at the residence of Mr. A. S. Leas, on next Wednesday evening. The Corunna band is expected to be present.

Sec'y.

—Bro. Powell published a bright little daily at Garrett during the reunion. While this made him a little late with the regular issue of the Herald, it showed a commendable spirit of enterprise which the people of that place will no doubt appreciate.

—Two French physicians, from Toledo, Ohio, who make a specialty of treating cancers, ulcers, tumors, etc., will be at the residence of Mrs. Botho for free consultation until next Monday, Mrs. Botho will interpret in both French and German, as neither of the physicians speak English.

—Photos $1 a dozen at Jones', Fort Wayne. 34-10t.

The Reunion.

A. Conrad was too busy caring for the stores of the B. & O. to attend the reunion a great deal.

Plenty of places were provided whereat the hungry and thirsty could satisfy their longings.

The Waterloo Rifles were out in full force, or nearly so, and made a good showing. Many new members are now in the company, but all are getting "the step."

Dr. Leonard, of Albion, was also on hand, but he spent a good deal of time looking at the ball game. The doctor and the Courier man were friends in the "auld lang syne" when both were much younger than at present.

All the candidates on both tickets, with but one or two exceptions, were present. There was also one from Noble county, as there were many of the voters present who reside there. Business is business. If the greenback convention had been called earlier, the crowd would have been much larger.

The McAllister Battery from Butler went to Garrett overland Thursday evening. The boys seemed to enjoy the thing, and, when the sham fight came off, handled their pieces in a lively way. Our friend Obendorff rode around among the boys as if he had "served three years during the war." For boys who have had so little experience, they do well.

Fred. Smith, of Butler township, had a jolly good time discussing the new road law. But Smith is ready to bet on Butler township, and Leeson proposes to put his own precinct in the front rank. Mr. Leeson also has some good ideas about road legislation. He thinks there should be a law compelling every land owner to keep the road clean of weeds and bushes in front of his land. A good plan, we think.

—Charley Klotz can gather in more greencorn in a given time than any other man in town. Must have practiced coon hunting in his boyhood days. Our friend Cochran, says he is willing to raise the corn just for the fun of seeing Charley rake it in.

—James Boots, of Jackson, son of our good friend, John Boots, placed us under obligations last week for a nice and bounteous supply of crab apples. Our better half was just complaning about next year's supply of jelly, and this settles it.

—Mrs. Lamson and Mrs. Smith, who have been visiting in the editor's family for a few weeks, started on their western trip Tuesday night over the B. & O. The only members of the family now remaining are Mrs. J. A. Barns and Mrs. Cyrus Kelley. All the others are in the far west. May they have a pleasant and safe journey.

—The Butler school begins September 4. The teachers engaged this year are T. J. Sanders, principal; M. W. Johnston, teacher of Grammar Department; Miss Millie Kester, Intermediate Department; Primary A., Miss Josie Thomas; Primary B., Miss Sophronia Miller. Mrs. Sanders will be assistant, we understand. The corps of teachers is a good one.

—The heavy rain last Wednesday morning flooded the streets in Butler very much, even filling the basements of some of the business houses and doing some injury to goods stored there. It was, by all accounts, one of the heaviest rainfalls ever known in this section of the country. At Waterloo, Mr. Butt, of Butt's Hotel, measured the rainfall, and found it to be eleven and one half inches. For so short a shower, this seems wonderful.

—We have received a copy of the address of the Hon. A. P. Edgerton, delivered at Hicksville, July 4th, at the unveiling of the soldiers' monument at It is a fine productions, as indeed are all his efforts, in oratory. And not only is it a marked production as a literary effort, but it abounds in the deepest thought, such as would be called forth by the occasion and by the present condition of our government and our society. It will well repay a perusal by the thoughtful every where.

—We have received a letter from J. M. Rhodes of Newville, in which he "goes for" whoever it was that thought John Butt was over particular as to his guests. We can assure friend Rhodes that whoever started that silly story, knows as well as any one, that Mr. Butt is every inch a gentleman, and a most hospitable and pleasant one at that. The fact that such twaddle was started on its rounds, merely goes to show the utterly hopeless case of the republicans, who are trying to belittle him.

—The Albion and Garrett nines played a match game of base ball at the latter place on last Friday. The Albions were defeated, the score standing 13 to 12. During the first part of the game the playing was excellent, and very few tallies were made. But a quarrel arose, as to a decision of the umpire, and the game was stopped for awhile. A new umpire was chosen, and the game went on, but it was apparent to all, that the interest of the players was greatly lessened. Frank Hoover and Eddie Mitchell, of Pleasant Lake, and E. T. Brysland, of Waterloo, assisted the Garrett nine, and did good work.

Challenge.

A JOINT DISCUSSION TO TAKE PLACE SOMETIME THIS FALL.

Auburn, Ind., August 30, 1882.

To the Hon. James Curtis Latson, coroner incumbent from birth, and now candidate for re-election on the democratic ticket of DeKalb county, Ind.:

Dear Sir: The intelligent portion of our respective parties having placed our names before the people as candidates for the very important office of coroner, and in order to show the important duties of our office, with other minor issues, I deem it our duties to canvass this county jointly and at such times and places as our referees and chaplain may agree upon, then and there discuss and explain to the people to the very best of our ability the importance of our office and minor issues. Owing to my extensive practice, and it being the hot, sickly season, would ask as a favor that we wait until late in the fall when cool weather and good health prevail. Would suggest we have Bros. George Brandt and Samuel Ralston act as referees and choirists and Isaac Roth as chaplain; that our meetings be isolated, secluded, and strictly private, and neither to assail the character of the other. Meetings should take place at Comesky's Lake, Groscop's Lake, Sawdust Corners, Sedan and Mooresville. If our time permits and our referees and chaplain agree, we may select other important points to show the importance of our office with minor issues. Would suggest the hour of midnight (and that strictly private) as the better time for our discussions, thereby not disturbing the laboring class of people. In order to bring out a larger foreign vote and show the importance of our office with minor issues, would like to lay the issues of the day before the people of Mudsock. Yours with all due courtesy and respect, which means doctor of medicine and candidate for coroner on the republican ticket of DeKalb county, Indiana.

John Allen Cowan, M. D.,

P. S.—As Mr. Espy is spoken of on the greenback ticket, we will give him a chance in our discussion by furnishing his share of traveling expenses, his own referees and keeping strictly quiet.

[Exchanges please copy.] J. A. C.

The Greenback Meeting.

The convention which met here Saturday was not a very large one, but was conducted in a most orderly and and quiet manner. The proceedings will be found elsewhere in this paper. Of the speech of Mr. Leonard, we cannot say much, as the bad acoustic arrangements of the court room prevents any one from hearing any thing milder than a thunder storm. But as far as we were able to judge, he is in favor of woman suffrage, and gave very good reasons for it. The greenback doctrine if not carried too far, is good, and we believe that aside from the teaching of a few political leaders, and interested capitalists, it would to-day be the doctrine believed in by ninety-nine out of a hundred of the people. No reasonable man, can see the ghost of a doubt as to the safety of having all the paper money of the country in the form of greenbacks, instead of having one-half of it in national bank bills. These national bank bills of course represent so much bonds, on which the government has paid, and is still paying millions of dollars in interest. No sane man would conduct his business in that way, and yet we hear republicans going about the county, boasting of their splendid financial management. The place where we think the greenbackers miss it, is in asking that the entire national debt shall be put into the form of greenbacks. This, we do not think would be advisable. But put the entire paper money now in circulation into the form of greenbacks, and retire the national currency now in circulation and the people, would, we believe see the utility of the change. The men who met in the convention on Saturday are in the main, intelligent and earnest, and have a great many solid and sensible ideas. Their references to the broken promises, of republican leaders, were especially good hits.

—The canvass for the judgeship goes quietly on, and at this date, the matter seems to be drifting in favor of General Blair, of Waterloo. While the other gentlemen named last week have their friends, and have a firm hold on the public good will, yet, it is now believed that Mr. Blair is the candidate on whom all can agree, better than on any other. The contest if it may be called a contest, is carried on with great friendliness, by all concerned, and it is likely that when all the delegates meet, that an understanding may be had that will put the matter in shape at once, leaving but one man in the field. This will make a unanimous choice, and the candidate receiving this, will step into the field with everything in his favor, and a fair fighting chance of success. The race for prosecutor is still in the background.

—Frank Leas did not go on the road again this week, as he expected to do, owing to his continued ill health. Can't see where the Press and the Herald got their news, in regard to Frank's muscle. He has been detained at home on account of ill health but does not expect to leave the road. Own up, boys.

WOOD BEACH.

This is a new resort on Syracuse Lake, and has heretofore been known as Oakland Grove, or Jones' Landing. There were about 500 excursionists here last Friday. It was a church excursion from Elkhart over the C. W. M. to Milford over the B. & O. to this place. They spent the day very pleasantly, boating and fishing, and going around the lake on the steamer. Many of them took dinner with Jones, the owner of the grounds and steamer.

A lot of the high officials of the B. & O. were here Thursday, looking over the grounds. They expressed themselves as well pleased with the site, and changed the name to that given at the head of this letter. So it is likely to be known hereafter by the new name, Wood Beach. They will have a station here.

About every person, of the excursionists here Thursday took a trip around the lake on the Roxy and visited all points of interest.

Mrs. Dr. Ihrig has bought the land at Conkling Hill, and also the adjoining tract owned by Mr. Knorr.

This week, there are two excursions, from Ligonier, both are for Sunday-schools.

The club house at Cedar Beach is filling up some, but not like last year. This is partly owing to the coolness of this season, but also to the high rates charged. Many believe it would add to the popularity of that resort if charges were more reasonable.

DIED.

Campbell—At her residence in Butler, DeKalb county, Ind., after a painful and lingering illness of more than four months, Mary Adelaide Campbell, in the forty-first year of her age. Mary Adelaide Jadwin was born in Carroll county, Ohio, August 21, 1842, of American parentage, removing with her parents to DeKalb county, Indiana, in 1849, settling in Troy township on the farm now owned by D. D. Knisely, removed to Butler about 1867, was married to John A. Campbell June 19, 187[illegible], and has resided in Butler the whole of the intervening period. She had been a consistent member of one of the Christain churches for nearly her whole life. Her lot has been one of peculiar misfortune, having been afflicted with insanity in 1870 from which she recovered after four years. She has been an almost constant sufferer with some physical disease for the past two years, was always patient and cheerful under the most trying afflictions, was a good tender-hearted mother, a faithful wife, a kind friend, a neighbor that could not say no, to any appeal for aid or assistance. She leaves a husband and six children to mourn her early death. The funeral services took place on the 25, from the M. E. church, Rev. Wilkinson officiating, assisted by Rev. Kain, of the Lutheran church, and was buried in the new cemetry east of town.

To the memory of my wife, who died August 23d, 1882.

Other joys may round me gather,
 Other hopes be mine to know;
Other eyes may beam upon me,
 Other lights around me glow;
Other friends my path may brighten,
 Other hearts my pulses thrill;
Other scenes my cares may lighten,
 Other love my heart may fill.

But the dear and radiant maiden,
 That of youth's bright morn I wed;
Still will live enshrined in memory,
 Though now numbered with the dead.
Cold and silent in the church yard,
 Rests her busy heart and hand;
Free from all life's cares and sorrows,
 In that dim and distant land.

Fare well wife, may angels guide thee,
 In thy flight to other spheres;
Where no shadows fall or lengthen,
 Where no eye is dimmed with tears.

J. A. C.

Butler, Ind., August, 1882.

—C. C. Shaffer has his new brick building in Albion nearly completed. It will be an extra fine room in all regards.

LEWIS SHIRMEYER. JOHN DROEGEMEYER

OPENING BANNER CLOTHING HOUSE,

No. 27 CALHOUN STREET.

SATURDAY, AUGUST. 26,

WAIT FOR BARGAINS.

L. SHIRMEYER & CO.

DON'T MISS THIS CHANCE!

BUY NOW WHILE GOODS ARE CHEAP!

Everything Fifty per cent. Cheaper

No Need of Going Barefooted

AUSTIN BROTHERS

—WILL SELL—

BOOTS

—AND—

SHOES

Cheaper than they can be stolen

A big stock has been ordered, and there must be room made for them. Fifty per cent. can be saved by buying now. The

BOOT

UP-SIDE

DOWN

Is the cheapest house in Indiana, and we want everybody to know it. Call before buying.

AUSTIN BROS., Auburn, Ind.

IN THE DARK.

Midnight brooded weird and alone;
Nothing broke the wintry gloom
Save the drowsy monotone
Of the clock, as, one by one,
From its steady hands the minutes fell into my silent room.

Close beside the larger bed
Stood the cradle in its place;
Mid its blankets, softly spread,
Lay the baby's golden head,
And his light breath, coming, going, gently fanned against my face.

Something in the darkness stirred,
Warmly nestling at my side
Like a little sleepy bird.
"Mamma!" very low the word,
Hush and darkness made the narrow space between us seem so wide.

Then I murmured, as he lay,
"Mamma's close beside you, dear;
Soon the night will go away,
By and by it will be day,
In the morning when baby wakens mamma will be here."

Wandering fingers toward me crept;
"Mamma, let me hold your hand."
Clasping it he hushed and slept;
Clasping his I could have wept,
Humbled by that perfect trust which needed not to understand.

Years have passed me by since then;
Long the little bed has stood
Empty, silent; yet, again,
Thrilling deeper than my pain,
Comes the tender voice to banish every bitter doubting mood.

Through the voiceless hush of death,
Through life's midnight dark and dim,
Turning unto Christ, who saith
To each asking soul, "Have faith,"
Heavenward I reach my longing groping human hands to him.

Does he take them? Ay, he does!
All the chasm deep and wide,
Spanned by his love that flows
Freely for all human woes,
I shall wake in heaven's bright morning with my baby by my side.

WINNING AND LOSING.

"Ha! ha! ha!— it'll be such a joke!"—and Richard Strout gave himself an approving wink as he stood before the glass in admiring contemplation of a complicated bow knot, accomplished at the expense of vast mental effort and the crush and ruin of half dozen cravats.

It was the evening of Mrs. Dazzlitt's ball. All Antequam—at least all the fashion of it would be there, and Mr. Richard Strout had gotten himself up with special reference to outshinning his own brilliant self. He was to be the escort of Miss Coryphe Wellmet, the tip top beauty of Antequam and only daughter of a rich retired banker, who might any day succumb to a benignly providential stroke apoplexy.

In the race in which the stake was the lady and her fortune, Richard Strout was sure he held the inside track. It was plain, to his eyes, that she was deeply smitten—how could she help it, for that matter?—wasn't he, the aforesaid Richard, simply irresistible? He hadn't just popped the question yet, but there was plenty of time for that; he would do it in due season—and, when he did, he had no misgivings as to what would be the answer. Having the fish already securely hooked, like a true Waltonian he would enjoy playing with it awhile.

But what was the joke Mr. Strout was contemplating jointly with the wonderful bow of his cravat? Let him unfold it to Miss Coryphe himself as they met in her father's front parlor preparatory to starting to the ball.

"See here, Coris," he said, touching her elbow with a finger miraculously gloved. "I've got a little job for you."

"What is it, most noble Dick?"

"To tame a bear."

"Must I begin now?" she asked, with a roguish look which seemed to intimate that the subject to be operated on might not be a thousand miles away.

"Ha! ha!" laughed Richard, not quite heartily—"present company, you know, is excepted. The particular grizzly on which I would exercise your docile powers is not here, but will be be at the ball to-night. You've heard me mention Bruce Dandridge," he began.

"The bore and bookworm?"

"Yes."

"And woman-hater?"

"Exactly, how well you remember."

"A man too bashful to kiss his own mother, I think I've heard you say. Well what of this dried specimen of yours?"

He's visiting some friends here in Antequam, and as I said, will be at Mrs. Dazzlitt's ball to-night."

"And he's your—"

"Bear," added Richard—, "you've hit it straight."

"Now, Cory," he continued, "I've laid a wager with Charlie Brace, an old college mate of Bruce Dandridge's and mine, that if Bruce can be introduced to you he'll fall in love and propose to you in a fortnight. Won't you help me win?"

"You don't want me to court him, do you?" Coryphe replied—"you know it isn't leap year."

"No; but if you'll let yourself on to play the agreeable, I think I'll stand a chance. I know it is heavy odds, but it proves my confidence in your harms."

"Well, trot out your monster and let me see him," said Coryphe, buttoning the dozenth button on her right glove, which completed her preparation for departure.

Mrs. Dazzlitt's spacious parlors were already crammed when the fair Coryphe entered with her beau. The belle of Antequam never appeared to better advantage, and Richard Strout's heart swelled with pride at the consuming envy gleaming from the circle of masculine eyes of which he and his beautiful companion were the center.

"I see him now," whispered Richard, when they had paid their devoirs to the mistress of the mansion. "Let me bring him at once that no time may be lost."

"Miss Wellmet, Mr. Dandridge," said Richard, returning and presenting a tall and singularly handsome gentleman, who colored deeply, but, in spite of his confusion, he did and said the right things without a bit of awkwardness.

Richard slipped away and left the two together. A set was forming for a dance. Bruce Dandridge could do no less than ask the lady to join him in it.

"I fear, Miss Wellmet, you will find me an indifferent partner," he apologized. "Should I make mistakes I must trust to you to set them right."

He did make several at first, but Coryphe corrected them so pleasantly that his embarrassment was trifling and soon wore off; and, after a few turns, his mathematical head so completely mastered the figure that none would have known but that he had taken a "double first" at Monsieur Cariocle's dancing academy.

The quadrille over, Mr. Dandridge led Coryphe to a seat and engaged her in a conversation in which both appeared deeply interested.

"Isn't she doing beautifully?" said Dick to himself, looking from a distance and noting the encouraging looks with which Coryphe drew Bruce out, and the brilliant light that shone in the latter's eyes as they met those of his listener.

They had another dance and another talk together longer than the first.

"By George! it's going on swimmingly!" Dick mentally ejaculated. "I must manage to have him see her home. At this rate I shall win far inside of time!"

Approaching and casting a meaning look on Coryphe:

"Would you mind if I went home and left you in Mr. Dandridge's care?" he asked. "I—I've been taken with a racking headache. I'm sure I owe Bruce here no apology for affording him a real pleasure."

Mr. Strout was excused, and as it almost seemed to him with thanks.

Next day, when he called to hear Coryphe's report of progress he was gratified to find that Bruce Dandridge had preceeded him. It nearly looked as if his own coming had disturbed a tete-a-tete.

Mr. Strout couldn't help rubbing his hands in silent glee. He made but a brief stay. He was far too shrewd to mar his chances by trenching on the rule that "two's company."

"Isn't she a trump," he cried, as he walked home exultant.

And day after day, as Richard renewed his visits he found Coryphe and Bruce together. It almost seemed as if it was the same tete-a-tete continued.

"Won't Charley Brace and Bruce Dandridge," he chuckled, "look like a pair of noodles when the one hears his money jingling in my pocket, and I've married Coryphe under the other's nose?"

Business called Richard Strout to the city for a few days. He sent a note to Coryphe, telling her to "keep it up lively"—hinting that on his return he should have a secret of his own to disclose, the nature of which she had probably long ago surmised.

Dick and Charley Brace had agreed their wager should be left to Coryphe's decision, for reasons of delicacy to be communicated secretly, and Dick went away convinced that good news would await his return.

Three days sufficed for his business in the city; and Dick was taking a parting stroll down Broadway to kill the hour till train time.

He stopped suddenly. From the door of a hotel a lady and gentleman came out, and were about entering a carriage having a pile of trunks on the top.

"Hello! Dick," cried Bruce Dandridge, on whose arm hung Coryphe, blushing like a rose, "sorry my wife and I didn't see you sooner."

"Your wi——" Dick could not finish the word.

"Yes; it was a quiet little affair, you see—no cards—no fuss—and we are on our way to the steamer for a quiet little wedding-trip to Europe. But, by-by, old fellow—time's up.

What it was Dick muttered we won't pretend to say. If it was a congratulation it stuck in his throat. Coryphe waved her hand from the carriage window, and Dick turned with a mumbled malediction on the sex.

He had won his bet, but lost the prize he most coveted.

The Wonderful Organ.

Translated from the German.

Long, long ago there lived a very skillful young organ-builder, who had already built a great many organs, and the last one was always better than the one before it. At last he made an organ which was so marvelous that it began to play of itself when a bride and bridegroom with whom God was pleased came into the church.

When he had finished the organ he looked around among his countrywomen, chose the most pious and beautiful one, and prepared for his own wedding. But as he and his bride entered the church, followed by the long line of friends, each with a bouquet in his hand or his button-hole, his heart was full of pride and ambition. He thought not of his bride, not about God, but only what a very skillful man he was, how no one could equal him, and how the people would all be full of surprise and would admire him when the organ began to sound of itself. So he and his beautiful bride advanced into the church, but the organ remained silent. The organ-builder took that very much to heart, for he thought in his pride that his bride alone was to blame, and that she was not faithful, to him. The whole day long he did not speak a single word to her, and at night he secretly tied up his baggage and left her.

After he had wandered many hundred miles away, he took up his abode in a foreign land, where no one knew him or asked after him. There he lived ten years quietly and alone; then a nameless anxiety for his home and the forsaken bride overcame him. After he had tried in vain every means to conquer his longing, he decided to go back and beg her pardon. He trudged along day and night, till the soles of his feet were sore, and the nearer he drew toward home the stronger became his longing, and the greater his anxiety whether she would indeed be as good and kind to him again, as at the time when they were overs. Finally he saw the towers of his birthplace shining in the sunlight, from afar. Then he began to run as hard as he could, so that people behind him said, "Either he is a lunatic, or he has stolen something." As he entered the town gate, he met a long funeral train. "Whom are you burying, my good people, that you weep so?" "It is the organ-builder's beautiful wife, whose wicked husband deserted her; she has been so kind and good to us all that we wish to stand at her side in the church." As he heard these words he answered nothing, but walked silently, with bowed head, by the coffin and helped to carry it. No one knew him; yet, as they heard him sob and weep, no one disturbed him, for they thought: "That is still another of the many poor people to whom the dead woman showed kindness in her lifetime." The procession reached the church, and, as the pall-bearers stepped over the sill, the organ began to play of itself more beautifully than any one had ever heard an organ play. They put the coffin before the altar, and the organ-builder leaned himself quietly against a pillar near by and listened to the tones which swelled out ever more powerfully, so powerfully that the church trembled in her butresses. His eyes fell shut, for he was very weary from his long journey; but his heart was joyful, for he knew that God had forgiven him, and as the last tone of the great organ sounded, he dropped down dead on the stone floor. The people lifted up his corpse, and when they discovered who he was they opened the coffin and laid him by his bride. And as they closed the coffin again the the organ began once more to play. Then it became silent, and since that time it has never sounded of itself again.

French Convict Marriages.

New York Sun.

Every six months a notice is circulated in the female penitentiaries of France, calling upon all women who feel inclined to go out to New Caledonia and be married to make an application to that effect through the Governor. The matrimonial candidates must be young and exempt from physical infirmities. Girls under long sentence readily catch at this method of escape from prison life. The only moral qualification requsite is to have behaved well at least two years in the penitentiary. The selected candidates have to sign engagements promising to marry convicts and to settle in New Caledonia for the remainder of their lives. On these conditions the Government transports them, gives them an outfit, and a ticket-of-leave when they land at Neumea. Their marriages are arranged for them by the Governor of the colony, who has a selection of well-behaved convicts ready for them to choose from, and each girl may consult her own fancy within certain limits, for the proportion of marriageable men to women is about three to one. It has frequently happened that pretty girls have been wooed by wardens, free settlers, or time expired soldiers and sailors, instead of by convicts. In such cases the Governor can only assent to a marriage on condition that the female convicts free lover shall place himself in position of a ticket-of-leave man, and undertake never to leave the Colony. The married couples get huts to live in and also free grants of land, and all they can draw from it by their own labor becomes theirs. During five years they are subjected to the obligation of reporting themselves weekly at the district police office, and they are forbidden to enter public houses, and must not be found out of doors at night. This precautionary period being satisfactorily passed, they get their full freedom, but subject always to the condition of remaining in the colony. To this rule the law has forbidden that any exception shall be made. On no account whatever must convicts who have accepted grants of land and contracted "administrative marriage," as they are called, ever return to France.

An Obedient Women.

Chicago Times.

"There goes Liz Brown again," said one of the patrolmen to the reporter. The woman was reeling. Her skirt was bedrabbled, and on her attenuated figure looked like a weather-beaten rag. "She is only twenty years old at that," continued the officer. "She is going to the station to be locked up," he said, as he still looked after her. "But she is alone," suggested the listener. "Of course she is," answered the officer. "That's the thing to admire in her. She's less trouble than any offender I ever saw—I mean to the police. No matter where an officer comes across her, if she is drunk, all he has to say to her is: 'Liz, you git to the station,' and she gits all alone. One day, up to Lincoln Park, there was a crowd, and Liz kind of edged herself in, and the officer says to her, 'You go to the station,' and she walked right to the lock-up. A man who knew her stopped her on the street and says: "Liz where are you going?" 'Don't bother me,' she says, to him, 'I'm busy; I've got to go to the lock-up.' No matter where she is, if she is ordered to go to the station, she goes. One day I saw her looking at a circus procession, and I says to her, just to see how she would act, says to her: 'Liz, you mosey to the lock-up.' Can't I see the show first?' says she to me, 'No' says I to her: 'you move along,' and she just sacrificed the pleasure of seeing that show parade to obey orders, and started off. But I called her back and told her she could stay, and she thanked me and said she would go after she got through looking at the parade if I wanted her to. She's better at minding what's said to her than lots of first-class children. But she drinks awful hard."

A Conjugal Correspondence.

New York World.

Private letters from London inform us that a recent marriage in "high life" in England has been signalized by a brief but piquant correspondence so original and so edifying that the ashes of George Selwyn may stir in his grave with vexation that it should not have come to pass in his time. A young lady, the only daughter of a well-born but very ill-matched couple, was married about a fortnight ago to a young man of rank. Her father and mother some years since came to the Irish conclusion that in order to live peaceably together they must live apart, and her mother has ever since resided on the Continent, to the terror and confusion of at least a dozen English colonies in as many continental towns. Just before the wedding the father of the bride learned with horror that his wife intended to come to England and attend the ceremony. He accordingly dispatched the following telegram to his spouse: "For the sake of our daughter I hope you will not come to the wedding and make a scene."

By return of the electric current he received this somewhat crushing reply:

"Be good enough to mind your own business. This does not concern you in any way. She is certainly my daughter and as certainly she is not yours."

Nothing daunted, the determined father promptly responded:

"Fortunately for my daughter, her honor and mine are protected against your malicious insolence by your recognized mendacity."

The mother did not attend the wedding.

POLYGAMY.

The Mormons no Longer Boasting it, But Keeping the Practice Secret.

J. B. McCullagh's Salt Lake letter to St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

If there be anything connected with Mormonism of which all missionaries, and all other saints of high and low degree, fight peculiarly shy, it is this very subject of polygamy. They will answer every other question about the head of the church—when he came here, how much property he has, what his business is, and all other conceivable interrogations—but the moment you ask how many wives he has got, the source of information dries up, and the invariable answer is "I don't know."

After three days' residence in the city I asked a prominent monogamic Mormon why it was that there was so much unwillingness to give information on this most interesting question, and replied that he didn't know. "I remember when men were rather proud of the number of their wives; but all the way down from 1862 congress has been legislating against polygamy, and there has been more and more secrecy about it."

The general idea in the east that every Mormon is a polygamist, with an average of from two to ten wives, sometimes running as high as twenty, as in a few cases that have come to my knowledge, is a mistake. There are about 140,000 citizens, male and female, in the territory. The women are voters, as well as the men, made so by the polygamic legislature of the territory. Of the male citizens over twenty-one years of age not more than one in ten, or possibly one in eight, are practical polygamists, or pluralists, as they prefer to call themselves; and of these at least ninety per cent. were men above fifty years of age, who first tasted the luxuries of plurality twenty years ago and adhere to it now because they have in the meantime made ties which they can not ignore or repudiate.

There is no doubt that polygamy is on the decrease in the territory of Utah. Evidence of this fact is obtainable on all hand. I do not undertake to state the cause, but simply to note the fact. It was unquestionably the intention of Brigham Young to found in this valley a great polygamic empire that would act at defiance all the laws of morality and civil government. But between the years of Brigham Young's prime and his decay there came up the conservative element of property to regulate things in its own way. The libertine of 1850 is the rich man of 1862, and the natural tendency of the rich men is toward law and not toward anarchy. One of the best informed men in the territory said to me yesterday: "Polygamy is playing itself out. The young men don't take to it, and the old men only stick to it to save themselves and their families Polygamic marriages have been on the steady decline ever since the Pacific railroad was built." In a further talk on the same subject the gentlemen said there had been in the past twenty years but two polygamic marriages by polygamic sons within his knowledge. That is to say, that within the time named only two men born in polygamy had afterwards married in polygamy. It is easy to see to what a continuance of this state of affairs will lead, and that it will end before long in the destruction of the vicious system which was just as much the corner-stone of the system of government established in Utah as slavery was the corner-stone of the system of government established in the southern confederacy.

While in polygamy all is outwardly fair and pleasant, it is easy to collect news enough in a few days to know that nearly every polygamus household has its skeleton in the closet, sometimes much more than one. Standing on the main street yesterday a very prominent man was pointed out to me, with the remark "He knows polygamy to his sorrow." Further information given on condition that no names should be mentioned, was to the effect that this man came here thirty years ago with a wife and two young children. He had no idea of entering polygamy until after a few years of prosperity Brigham Young told him it was his duty to do so. To disobey Brigham Young at that time meant not only social but physical death. So one day he went home and told his wife what had happened—that he had been urged to go into polygamy, and that he must do so or incur the displeasure of the church. The wife's argument was unavailing. She pleaded for herself and children, but to no avail. It was to save his wife and children, the man said he must go "into polygamy." He did as Brigham Young told him to do. To-day he has several wives and more than as many hundreds of thousands of dollars. but the wife to whom he was married in his younger days is a pitiable and hopeless drunkard, with a career of secret debauchery dating from the very day when her husband told her that he must obey the mandate of the head of the Mormon church. "He is a rich man," said my informant, "but his money has cost him a great many hundred cents on the dollar."

A Letter from Geneva.

We have been all the week in making our way from Milan to Geneva, pausing one day at Chamouni, and a half day at Stresa. Milan is about the size of Pittsburg, and with its wide streets seemed much like an American city. The Cathedral, world-renowned, displays more art in its exterior than any building I ever saw. Its sides are covered with carved work, its roof is a forest of towers each surmounted with a statue; I am told that more than 4,000 statues already, are placed in the great structure, and the number is yearly augmented. The view of he interior is very grand, but I cannot now attempt a description. It took us sixteen hours to travel by diligence from Stresa, Italy, to Brieg, Switzerland, and our route led over the Simplon Pass. The huge, high mountains all along the way, make the noblest works of man appear very small. Up, up for more than two hours, by a winding road we climbed, until we found ourselves confronted by the Jung Frau and other snow-clad summits; and then down, down by a path that often seemed we should finally land in the depths of avernus. From some lofty point we could look down nearly 2 000 feet and see below, in the road, over which, by successive arcs of circles we must eventually pass. The road itself—very smooth and solid, was made by Napoleon the Great, at a cost of $25 000 per mile. As our drivers shot down the declivities, cracking their whips all the way, our excitement was not allowed to cool off at any time. Brieg, where we spent the night, is a small town in a beautiful valley encircled with mountains, always covered with snow. At Martiquy, a little further on, we had to charter carriages to take us over another enormous range to Chamouni, which lies at the base of Mt. Blanc. Our route took us in near view of the great St. Bernard, over which Napoleon led his army to the triumph of Marengo and we swa the places where his men let down their cannons, I think it was with ropes, into the abyss below. As Tete Noir, our path was along the rim of a vast inverted dome, into whose immense depth it made us dizzy to look; and yet, at the bottom, was a valley with houses and fields that looked like a chess-board with its many colored squares. The morning after our arrival at Chamouni, a party of seven had just reached the summit of Mt. Blanc, and with a telescope could be seen from our hotel; cannons were fired to emphasize the achievement. The mountain does not impress one with its great height, owing to its breadth and distance, and yet, the vast depth of snow upon it reveals its altitude. I climbed one summit I suppose of about 4,000 feet, and descended from it upon the mer de glace or sea of ice, which looks like a frozen cataract a half a mile wide. The immense force of ice from above pressing in the mass below, crumples it into billows between which you can see fissures nobody knows how deep. Probably the ice is in some places hundreds of feet in thickness. It was a strange sensation to walk on a sea of ice the 29th of July. We are on the home stretch now; expect to be in London in two weeks, but may not leave Scotland until August 18th.

A. JONES,

Geneva, July 22d, 1882

The Redwoods of California.

The redwoods reach a height of from 200 to 300 feet, and stand thickly up in the ground in great trunks from eight to twenty feet in diameter at the extreme base. In the Eastern woods when the timber man can get 100,000 feet from forty acres he thinks he is doing well. An ordinary yield in the redwoods, says the San Francisco Bulletin, is about 500,000 to 1,000,000 feet from the same area, and, not extraordinary is a yield of from 2,000 000 to 3,000,000 feet; while in Maine, if from 15,008 to 20,000 feet is obtained from a single acre, it is a subject of wonder, here from 1 000,000 to 2,000,000 have been got from a single acre, and single trees frequently yield 75,000 feet. In the redwoods the average logs run from six to eight feet in diameter, while Mr. Vance is cutting many from twelve to fourteen feet, and of such a size that they have to be split before they are moved.

Timber lands in such proximity to the bay that they will be accessible in a couple of years are held at $20 or upwards per acre. The timber upon such land now actually purchased by the mill men is paid in accordance with an estimate of the amount of lumber taken off, made by a survey, and based upon the number and size of the stumps. The prices obtained run from $20 to $150 per acre, while in exceptional cases much more has been obtained. The Washington claim of some 320 acres, some eight miles from Eureka, lying immediately upon the bay, brought its owner, incredible as it may seem, from $1,000 to $2,000 an acre. This claim was purchased by the original owner from the government in 1856 for a nominal value of a few dollars an acre, and descended to his fortunate heirs. At the rate the timber is being cut off the redwoods will not last over a century.

A Woman's Heroism.

Osceola Sentinel.

In connection with the White Breast Bottom (Iowa) storm, we wish to speak of the heroic conduct of Mrs. Casey, a young married lady, who was stopping with Mrs. Wiles for the night. About 9:30 or 10 o'clock in the evening the banks of the creek began to overflow, and soon the water began coming into the house; the whole bottom was a black and roaring body of water; the rain was pouring down in torrents; the cloud overhung the sky like a velvet curtain, and the thunder was terrific. Mrs. Casey took one little boy, aged about 9, and Mrs. Wiles' baby, but 6 weeks old, left the house and started for the high ground. Reaching the garden fence, perhaps 100 feet from the house, she found the current so strong that she could not keep her footing. Her clothes became entangled in a barb wire fence.

Fortunately she was at the foot of a tree. Helping the boy to climb the tree she handed him the baby to hold a moment. The waters were raging about her, and were rapidly rising. She must act quickly. With great presence of mind she disengaged herself by tearing her dress from her person, and swung herself into the tree. Assisting the boy to climb further up, she took the baby and held it and herself by one foot and one hand to that swaying tree for three long hours, and till rescued by men, who swam in to her and brought her and the children away by the aid of ropes. When the men reached her she said: "Save baby first." The heroism of this noble little woman who thus saved these children—the children of another—deserves to be mentioned in song.

A Valuable Find.

James Pepper, of Danbury, N. C., went up in the Sauratown mountain sometime ago to get sand from a creek bed to scatter over his yard. As he had scattered the sand he noticed something lying shining very bright and picking it up discovered that it was a diamond. He took it to Danbury and Winston, where it was pronounced a stone of great value, and then sent it to Baltimore where they examined it and returned it, pronouncing its value at $7,000.

JOCOSITIES.

I knew a winsome widow,
And she said she wouldn't marry;
For she knew her [illegible] value,
And by Hokey! she'd [illegible]!
O no! she wouldn't marry!

I sailed away to Europe,
And not many moons I tarried;
Yet when home again I found me,
Lo, the widow she had married!
Yes, the widow hadn't tarried!

The wife of a Harlem man, who is very fond of singing Sankey's revival hymns, has named their baby Fort, so that he would want to hold it.

A man intruded into an Irishman's shanty. "What do you want?" asked Pat. "Nothing," was the visitor's reply. Then you'll find it in the jug where the whisky was."

Pat's illness: Doctor—"Well, Pat, have you taken the box of pills I sent you?" Pat—"Yes, sir, be jabbers, I have! but I don't feel any better yet; maybe the lid hasn't come off yet!"

A trade journal gives directions for "preserving harness." Preserved, harness may be considered very palatable by those who like that sort of thing, but we don't want a bit in our mouth.

When a man can fasten the rear button of his collar without pulling his face or thinking profanity, he exhibits a quality of patience under difficulties, which eminently fits him to be cashier of a weekly newspaper.

A farmer living not many miles from Toledo, O., has the following warning conspicuously posted on his premises: "If any man or woman's cows or oxen gits in this here [oats], his or her tail will be cut off, as the case may be."

The meanest kind of a man is the one who, seeing another lying in a hammock, howls, "Dog fight," so that he may see the victim try to get out of the hammock quick, and get slung about six summersaults with mud in his mouth.

"Man and wife are all one are they?" said she. "Yes; what of it?" said he suspiciously. "Why in that case," said his wife; "I came home awful tipsy last night and feel terribly ashamed of myself this morning." He never said a word.

Two Rochester maidens, enjoying Silver Lake telegraphed their father: "Come and bring Bess." He came and with several kegs of pale Bohemian lager. The telegram read "beer" instead of Bess. The mistake was taken in, of course.

It is said that some Boston women got lost up the Catskills the other day, and this is the way they called for help: "Will some refined and educated person of the male sex kindly direct us to the road communicating to the Grand Hotel?"

"Vy, Adolph," says Mrs Feiderstelder, at Long Branch, "you have been helped tree times to dot sherry pies, und you will be sick!" "Neffer mind," says Mr. Feiderstelder, "I bay four tollar mit a day, and Adolph is entitled to a whole pie anyhow."

A scientist says—your scientist is always saying something—that each adult person carries enough phosporus in his body to make 40,000 matches. They who know how hard it is to make a match of two people will begin to lose the faith in scientists.

"And so you are married?" said one old acquaintance to another. "Quite so," was the reply. "I have been married more than a year." "As long as that?" "Yes, indeed: I am now first walking gentleman to a double-jointed boy baby. Come down and see me."

A heart broken widower of Iowa erected a pine slab over his wife's grave and presented a handsome piano to the young lady who was so very kind to him during his affliction. It seems to be the custom in Iowa to pine for a dead wife, and piano for a new one.

We hear that the latest form of ladies' stays is the cuirass, made entirely of sheet metal. This is too dreadful to contemplate. How can you throw poetical associations around the loveliest woman with the reflection that after all she resembles canned meat!

Something awful will happen to the bad boy whose sister Minnie was the young preacher's sweetheart. He pinned up a piece of paper in the parlor, wrote, "Minnie, Minnie, tickle the parson!" on it and then wanted to know if she had seen the handwriting on the wall."

He sat at her feet in quiet peace. He looked into her face and said softly; "Ah, dear, I could sit here forever." "Could you, love?" answered she. "Yes, sweet." "You are right sure you could, darling?" "I know it, my own." "Very well, then, you sit there, for I have an engagement to go out with young Mr. Fitzspooner, and I won't be back this evening. Turn down the gas and fasten the night-latch when you go.

It was an "experience meeting" of colored folks, and everything was going on smoothly, when one of the faithful asserted with considerable vehemence that he was a Christian and hoped that all would follow his example; whereupon an old gray-haired "uncle" arose, and in a quivering voice said, "De brudder who hab just tole us to look up to him may be a good Christian, but sartin' fex, dat am kinder mention'd under de bref, leads me to state dat de actions ob dis brudder don't congeal to his professun."

Not Easily Gulled.

"Got any porpoise plasters?" exclaimed a long youth in a hickory shirt.

It was a hot day, and the clerk donated the questioner one ghastly, withering look, but he spoke encouragingly to the young man.

"I suppose you refer to porous plasters?"

"Which?"

"You want porous, not porpoise plasters."

"There you go. Dad said you chaps 'ud try and palm off something else ef yer didn't happen to have what I wanted. I jist told dad it 'ud be a cold day when you caught me on a pin hook. I'm most offle glad there's another drug store in town."

Then he stole out into the wide, wide world.

* * *

A bust of the late Lord Beaconsfield, which has been paid for by the pennies of workingmen, is about to be presented to the Greenwich Conservative Club of England.

PROFESSIONAL BEAUTIES

Langtry and Mrs. West Discounted by the Famous Beauties, the Misses Gunning 31

London Society.

The "professional beauty" is no new feature in the London season; and though photography has no doubt done much to give publicity to the charms of the loveliest women in the ranks of fashion, yet in the days of our great grandfathers and great-grandmothers the reigning belles excited just as much vulgar curiosity and gossip as they do now. Take, for example, the Gunnings, Maria and Elizabeth, who appeared at the court of George II, one at the age of eighteen and the other of nineteen, and both without a shilling to their dowry. "They are declared," writes Walpole, "to be the handsomest women alive; they can't walk in the Park or go to Vauxhall but such crowds follow them that they are generally driven away." One day they went to Hampton Court; as they were going into the Beauty Room another party arrived; the housekeeper, in a state of great excitement, said to the new-comers, "This way, ladies, here are the famous beauties!" The Misses Gunning thereupon flew into a passion, and asked her what she meant; they went to see the palace, and not to be shown as a sight themselves.

The youngest of the two sisters became the wife of James, Duke of Hamilton; he fell in love with her at a masquerade, and a fortnight later met her at an assembly in Lord Chesterfield's gorgeous new house in Mayfair. His Grace was so enamored of the lovely Elizabeth that he left the faro-table, where he had staked a thousand guineas, and "let the game slide;" whilst he paid devoted court to his enchantress. Two nights later, at half an hour past midnight, they were married by Dr. Keith with the ring of a bed-curtain in Mayfair chapel, one of the most hasty and eccentric marriages on record. In less than three weeks Maria Gunning followed her sister's example, and was wedded to Lord Coventry, though not with such indecent haste as in the other case.

The two beauties were even greater objects of popular curiosity after their marriage than before. When the Duchess of Hamilton was presented, the crowd at the drawing-room was so great that even "noble persons" clambered upon chairs and tables to look at her, whilst mobs gathered around the doors of the two "goddesses" to see them get into their sedan-chairs; and such crowds flocked to see the Duchess when she went to her castle that 700 persons sat up all night in a Yorkshire town in order to see her start in her post-chaise the next morning.

Lady Coventry was equally run after. At Worcester a shoemaker made two guineas and a half by showing, at a penny a head, the shoe which he was making for the Countess. She had, however, little but her beauty to recommend her. It was she who made the singularly maladroit remark to His Majesty that the one sight she longed to see was a coronation. Her husband, who was a sensible man in many respects, though somewhat of a bear in manners, objected strongly to her ladyship's excessive use of red and white powders and paints; and once at a large dinner party, suspecting that she had been "making herself up," he chased his wife round the table till he caught her, when, before all the company, he scrubbed her face with a napkin. When Lady Coventry visited Paris she expected that her beauty would meet with the applause which had followed her and her sister through England; but she was put to flight by another English lady, still more lovely in the eyes of the Parisians. A certain Mrs. Pitt took a box at the opera opposite the Countess, and was so much handsomer than her ladyship that the parterre cried out this was the real English angel; whereupon Lady Coventry quitted Paris in a huff. Not long afterward she died of consumption, accelerated, it was said, by the red and white paint with which she plastered those luckless charms of hers.

Patriotism and Kisses.

Brooklyn Eagle.

A Spanish lady, name Elviera Easpiga, wife of a cigar manufacturer, of No. 12 Tillary street, appeared before Justice Walsh this morning for the purpose of pressing a complaint of assault and battery against Jose Pelaz, who is also engaged in the cigar business. Mrs. Easpiga is an attractive-looking lady, and her charms were enchanced by the rich silk dress, lace hat and diamonds which she wore. The young man whom she accuses of [illegible] plainant, should she have been disposed to assume the offensive. It seems that [illegible] and the husband of the plaintiff were close friends, and that the former was a frequent visitor at No. 12 Tillary street. On Saturday he called there and, as alleged, finding Mrs. Easpiga alone, poured a tale of love into her unwilling ears, and finally closed his protestations of eternal affection by implanting a kiss on her ruby lips. Mrs. Easpiga was indignant at the conduct of the visitor, and seizing a stiletto cause him to beat a hasty retreat from the house. On the return of her husband she informed him of what had taken place, and the result was the arrest of Pelaz on a warrant issued by Justice Walsh.

When the case was called, the defendant advanced to the bench with his face covered with smiles, while the plaintiff gazed on him with irate looks. Mr. Goldschmidt, counsel for Pelaz, requested an adjournment of the examination. "I do this," he said, "for this reason: My client is an American citizen, and a firm believer in the destiny of this glorious republic. His anxious to celebrate the Fourth, and not knowing what the result of this trial may be, wants to have the examination put over till after to-morrow."

Mr. Ridgway (counsel for the injured lady.)—We do not wish to interfere with the patriotic impulses of this gentleman. I would suggest a way out of this difficulty. If he pleads guilty today we will be satisfied by his appearing on Wednesday to receive sentence.

Justice Walsh—Might the anticipation of punishment not have the effect of repressing his patriotic ardor tomorrow?

Mr. Goldsmidt—It would undoubtedly have that effect. With the sword of Damocles suspended over his head I fear his celebration of the Fourth would be anything but pleasant.

Justice Walsh—I think so myself, and I will adjourn the case until Saturday morning next.

The parties then left the court, but had scarcely got outside the halls of justice when Mrs. Easpiga, breaking away from her husband, rushed at Senor Pelaz and, asking him in choice Spanish why he was laughing at her, administered three blows in his face in rapid succession, and then threatened to shoot him. Pelaz ran back to the court for protection, and Mrs. Easpiga close behind him. It was expected that Pelaz would make a charge against the woman, but by the advice of his counsel he refused to do so. It is thought that serious trouble will grow out of the occurence, the husband of the aggrieved lady being determined, in case the punishment by legal means is not satisfactory, to challenge Pelaz to mortal combat.

A Sister's Shout.

Syracuse Christian Advocate.

In 1851 or 1852 quite a revival occurred in Carlisle, Pa., in which the students of Dickinson College and the people of the town alike participated. Meetings were held nightly in the Mehodist church of the village, and the professors of the college took turns with the preacher in supplying the pulpit evening after evening. One night it came the turn of Professor Johnson to preach, and he gave one of the most closely argued sermons on the subject of "Repentance" to which I ever listened. It was clear as crystal, but cold as an iceberg, and fell upon the unheeding ears. Students were sleepy and villagers restless. A stirring invitation, with the true revival ring, was needed, not not a Butlerian dissertation. Everybody knew what repentance was, and only needed warm urging to engage in the duty at once. Previous meetings had been stirring, but this evening everything seemed dead and cold and lifeless. I gave the meeting up for lost. All at once, as the Professor was on the last of sixty minutes in his characteristically acute but dry argument, a piercing shriek arose from the third pew of the middle tier to the right of the speaker. A good sister, Miss Gray, had silently filed up and at length bowed over in a ringing old style Methodist shout of "Glory!" "Hallelujah!" "Bless the Lord!" which set everybody in the house on the qui vive in an instant and dumbfounded the speaker. He tried to stop her. "Not now, sister," said he; not to-night, if you please; by-and-by, when we get up yonder we will shout; but to-night it is our business to convince these sinners of their duty to repent." But the more he talked the louder she shouted. She made the house ring again, and kept it up. Preaching for that night was out of the question, and further pulpit talk was impossible. President Peck sat on one side of the communion table and I sat at the other, within the altar rails. I said to him: "Sing and invite the mourners forward." He did so, in a few burning words, and the altar was speedily crowded. Sister Gray's shout had saved the meeting, but the special joke of the occasion was that the good sister was as deaf as an adder.

A. T. Stewart's Charity Failure.

"Topics of the Time" in Century.

Mr. Stewart was a very gifted shopkeeper, whose rare talent in a single line gave him both fame and wealth. But he knew as little of charity as he cared for it; and when he came, at the close of his life, to attempt something in that direction, he blundered with a facility and self-confidence which ought to be enduringly instructive. It had been urged upon him that he owed something to the working girls who had done so much to build up his fortune; and so, tardily and ignorantly, he set about a scheme in their behalf. He built a huge structure, capable of housing 1,000 people. Every feature of this structure, in view of the purpose for which it was designed was a glaring incongruity, and then, when he had completed it, he condescended to ask the counsel of experts as to carrying his scheme into execution. He was informed by those whose counsel he ought long before to have sought, that the very character of the building prohibited it from being useful. He was shown that to assemble 1,000 young women under one roof in a working-woman's house was to necessitate one of two things: either a police so vigilant and intrusive as to be to any decent girl intolerable, or else a laxitive so provocative of evil as almost to guarantee it. He was shown that he ought to have built a series of small houses, each with a matron or [illegible] each to [illegible] where [illegible] and where something like domesticity would have made the name a home in fact. But Mr. Stewart believed supremely in himself. Successful men generally believe in themselves. He showed this in his architecture, which was hideous, where it might as easily have been graceful and pleasing. He showed it in his charitable plans, to which he gave but little thought, and in which he chose to be sufficient to himself. And so his great wealth has resulted in no service to [illegible] and in scanty honor to his memory. It is a story which may profitably be read by other rich men.

An Insult to Bishop Peck.

Cincinnati Commercial.

A good many people seem to be of the opinion that because a man is a Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, he is necessarily a man of wealth. Though as a matter of fact only one—Bishop Simpson—is worth over ten thousand dollars, the Columbus correspondent of the Enquirer, acting upon the supposition that the episcopal office brings the wealth, has in his fertile imagination transformed Bishop Jesse T. Peck from a man of small means into a millionaire, and in doing so has endeavored to heap odium upon him.

The story in the Enquirer is to the effect that Bishop Peck while distributing wealth upon various objects with a lavish hand, among other gifts one being $25,000 to Syracuse University, does nothing to assist his aged sister, who is dying in poverty in Columbus, Ohio.

If the balance of the story is as exaggerated as that part with reference to the venerable Bishop's wealth, it is a most infamous attack upon a good man's name.

The facts as to Bishop Peck's financial condition are that he has nothing beyond his salary. He and his brother, the Rev. George Peck, were largely instrumental in founding Syracuse University. Bishop Peck was was its first Chancellor, and after he had become settled bought a home in the suburbs of Syracuse, in which he now lives. The house is a frame, and the property is not worth over $7,000. The deed is in the name of Mr. Peck, but the property was many years ago willed to Syracuse University. The $25,000 donated the University, over which so much is made, is prospective. The Bishop, about fifteen years ago, and when he was past fifty five years of age, willing to do something handsome for the University in whose success he was so deeply interested, had his life insured for $25,000 for its benefit, and he pays the premium on the policy.

In addition to the many drafts upon his salary thus occasioned, and those naturally arising from his position in the Church, the Bishop is under heavy expense at home. His wife has been an invalid for many years, suffering from spine disease, and besides domestic servants she often requires the regular attention of a personal nurse.

The Bishop, now over seventy-three years of age, has himself been in ill health since last February, and is still unable to attend to his episcopal duties; and it is certain that, if his sister's condition is as it is described to be and he was aware of it, he would do all in his power to relieve her.

It is very probable that the misinformation was furnished by somebody who thought the Bishop did not do his duty according to his supposed and not actual ability.

The statements do Bishop Peck, who is widely known for his generosity, great injustice.

Beautiful Hair.

London Society.

The Countess of Suffolk had married Mr. Howard, and they were both so poor that they took a resolution of going to Hanover, before the death of Queen Anne, in order to pay their court to the future royal family. Such was their poverty that, having some friends to dinner, and being disappointed of a full remittance, the Countess was forced to sell her hair to furnish the entertainment. Long wigs were then in fashion, and the Countess hair being long, fine, and fair, produced her £20. The Countess hair, however, appears to have been exceeded in value by that Oxfordshire lass, of whom we find the following story recorded in the Protestant Mercury for July 10th, 1700: "An Oxfordshire lass was lately courted by a young man of that county, who was not willing to marry her unless her friends could advance £50 for her portion, which, they being incapable of doing, the lass came to this city to try her fortune, where she met with a good chapman in the Strand, who made a purchase of her hair, which was delicately long and light, and gave her £60 for it, being 20 ounces, at £3 an ounce, with which money she joyfully returned into the country and bought her a husband." Even the hair of this Oxfordshire lass is rivaled by that of an old lady who died in 1720, whose long grey tresses are said in the journals of that period to have been sold to a periwig-maker for £50.

The Freaks of Fashion.

Cape May Letter.

Many of the remarkable episodes in summer-resort life are enacted "down by the beach." Yesterday I saw several couples meet for the first time this season, in garbs totally unknown to most people in the West. The bathing suits worn here are more modern than those to be seen at most summer resorts. Styles in these garments in late years have changed considerably. Formerly a lady's suit comprised two pieces, one including the skirt and waist and the other the drawers, while now the waist and drawers form one piece, the same as those worn by the males, and the skirt is the separate garment. The suits are worn shorter than ever, and George W. Hughes, of Philadelphia, who owns the leading bath suit rendezvous here, tells me he is unable to supply the demand for short drawers and high sleeves that are made upon him by the ladies. "The fact is," he says, "they can't get them too short." Blue is the rage, and they are usually trimmed with white. At Coney Island the most shocking bathing suits in the world are worn. They consist of [illegible] very similar [illegible] as my informant expressed himself, next to nothing, and when they get wet it is simply a matter of taste."

[illegible]

Apropos of Japanese public baths is an amusing incident related to me by an English fellow-resident, a professor in one of the Tokiyo colleges. He was journeying in the interior of Japan, and one evening, feeling very hot and travel-stained, and being less fastidious than most of his countrymen, he entered one of those large common baths. While performing his ablutions in a quiet corner he caught sight of a man who had seemed to have recognized him, for he was approaching with smiles and frequent bows. This was none other than his college servant, attached to his own class room in Tokiyo. But the most amusing part of the scene had yet to be enacted. After a polite salutation the man begged the Professor to allow him to introduce his wife and family, who were with him in the bath. And there in the water they all met, bowing to one another with an obsequiousness worthy of the most conventional circumstances.

Some Verse Proverbs.

Russian.—Pray to God, but continue to row to the shore.

Sanskrit.—Silence is the ornament of the ignorant.

China.—There are two good men: one dead, the other unborn.

Tamul.—The handle of the axe is the enemy of its kind.

Persian.—One pound of learning requires ten pounds of common sense to apply it.

Arab.—The best part of repentance is little sinning.

Arab.—The contemplation of vice is a vice.

Arab.—It is hard to chase and catch two horses.

APHORISMS.

Genius never despises labor.

Bad men excuse their faults, good men will leave them.

The most profound joy has more of gravity than gayety in it.

There are epidemics of nobleness as well as epidemics of disease.

The secrets of life are not shown except to sympathy and likeness.

The proper way to check slander is to despise it; attempt to overtake and refute it and it will outrun you.

A hypocrite is in himself both the archer and the mark, in all actions shooting at his own praise and profit.

There must have been fast young men during the days of Cicero. He said, "To live long, it is necessary to live slow."

A fine compliment was once paid to Isaac Newton. A letter was addressed to "Mr. Newton, Europe." It found him.

Treat an evil companion with "skilled negligence," and you will never hear the causes that come home to roost.

Happiness consists in activity. Such is the constitution of our nature; it is a running stream and not a stagnant pool.

The only way by which capital can increase is by saving. If you spend as much as you get, you will never be richer than you are.

Weakness is the egotism of good men. When one hope departs the other hopes gather more closely together to hide the gap it has left.

A ceremony is the invention of wise men to keep fools at a distance so good breeding is an expedient to make fools and wise men equal.

"Ah, Your Grace," said Lord Palmerston to the lovely Dutchess of Sutherland, "your beauty kills me!"—"And time always kills the beauty at last.

Show me the man you honor. I know by that symptom, better than any other, what you are yourself. For you show me then what your ideal of manhood is, what kind of a man you long inexpressibly to be.

Some men seem to have a constitutional inability to tell the simple truth. They [illegible] to tell an untruth, but they are careless—careless in hearing, careless in understanding, careless in repeating what is said to them. These well-meaning but reckless people do more mischief than those who intentionally foment strife by deliberate falsehood. There is no fire-brand like your well-meaning busybody who is continually in search of scandal, and by sheer habit misquotes everybody's statements.

Ancient history speaks of two brothers, one of whom, found guilty of a heinous crime, was condemned to death, and about to be led forth to execution; the other, patriotic and brave, had signalized himself in the service of his country, and had lost a hand in obtaining an illustrious victory for the State. Just as the sentence of condemnation was pronounced upon his unhappy brother, he entered the court and silently raised his handless arm in view of all. The judges saw it, arrested the execution and pardoned the guilty one for the sake of the service and the sufferings of his heroic brother. So may not our Elder Brother, as He appears in our nature before the Throne, silently and efficiently plead for us by the scars He bears?

About Absinthe.

British Medical Journal.

The consumption of this seductive, health destroying liquor appears to be on the increase, and it is now, according to Mr. Winter Blyth, sold in a large number of places in Marylebone, for which parish he is the public analyst and officer of health. It seemed to him, therefore, a right and proper thing to chemically examine samples of this liquid, which was done. Absinthe is a yellowish green liquor, which contains, as a peculiar ingredient, a poisonous oil having a deleterious effect on the nervous system; the oil is called wormwood oil, and is produced in nature by the artemisia absinthium. Other flavoring oils are always added, such as peppermint, angelica, cloves, cinnamon and aniseed. The color is produced by the juice of nettles [illegible]; or, in other [illegible] the common green chlorophyll found in all green plants. Some samples of absinthe contain sugar. The average composition of absinthe is as follows: Absolute alcohol, in 100 parts, 50.00; oil of wormwood, .55; other essential oils, 2.52; sugar, 1.50; chlorophyl, traces; water, 45.65. Alcohol causes drunken sleep; alcohol and absinthe combined produce convulsions. The poor wretches given up to absinthe-drinking suffer from a peculiar train of nervous symptoms, the most prominent of which is epilepsy of a remarkably severe character, terminating in softening of the brain and death. The last moments of the absinthe drinker are often truly horrible. M. Voisin records a case in which a man was picked up in the public street in an epileptic fit. He was known to be a large consumer of absinthe. The convulsions lasted until death—four days and four nights. During the last five or six hours of life the skin of the face became almost black.

Fasting as a Cure for Rheumatism.

Canada Medical Record.

Dr. Wood, professor of chemistry in the medical department of Bishop's College, Montreal, reports a number of cases in which acute articular rheumatism was cured by fasting, usually from four to eight days. In no case was it necessary to fast more than ten days. Less positive results were obtained in cases of chronic rheumatism. The patients were allowed to drink freely of cold water, or lemonade in moderate quantities if they preferred. No medicines were given. Dr. Wood says that from the quick and almost invariable good results obtained by simple abstinence from food in more than forty cases in his own practice he is inclined to believe that rheumatism is, after all, only a phase of indigestion, to be cured by giving complete and continued rest to all of the viscera.

President Arthur's Pictures.

[New York Correspondent]

As President Arthur found the White House bare of pictures and did not care to remove his own pictures from this city, Mr. Bierstadt, the artist, who is an old friend of the President, offered to lend him some works from his crowded studio. Some weeks ago he sent five of his finest examples of western scenery, and they were at once hung on the walls of the sitting-rooms, smoking-room and "snuggery" that the President had constructed out of the end of the corridor outside of his bed-room door

Benson's
—AWARDED—
Capcine
6
Porous
—MEDALS.—
Plaster.

The Best Known Remedy for

Backache or Lame Back.
Rheumatism or Lame Joints.
Cramps or Sprains.
Neuralgia or Kidney Diseases.
Lumbago, Severe Aches or Pains.
Female Weakness.

Are Superior to all other Plasters.
Are Superior to Pads.
Are Superior to Liniments.
Are Superior to Ointments or Salves.
Are superior to Electricity or Galvanism.
They Act Immediately.
They Strengthen.
They Soothe.
They Relieve Pain at Once.
They Positively Cure.

CAUTION. Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters have been imitated. Do not allow your druggist to palm off some other plaster having a similar sounding name. See that the word is spelled C-A-P-C-I-N-E. Price 25 cts.

SEABURY & JOHNSON,
Manufacturing Chemists, New York.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Price 25c. [illegible]

Farmer's Friend

South Bend, Indiana.

ONLY FIFTY CENTS A YEAR.

Circulation 33,000.

The largest and best agricultural paper in the country. Eight large pages, 48 columns, few advertisements and almost double the reading matter given by the $1.50 and $2 agricultural papers, but we send it to you for 50 cents a year. Premiums to every subscriber, premiums to club raisers and 232 splendid presents given them in addition, consisting of a $60 New Birdsell Clover Huller, complete, including re cleaning attachment, which cleans the seed as threshed; a $60 Casaday Sulky Plow; a $85 Studebaker Farm Wagon; Oliver Chilled Plows, Sewing Machines, Silverware, etc. Some of the departments of the Farmers' Friend are "Farm Topics," "The Orchard," "Live Stock," "The Poultry Yard," "Home and Health," "Domestic Economy," "Young Folks," "The Puzzler," "The Story Teller," "The Funny Place," "Sunday Reading," "The Clover Leaf," "The Apiary," "Letter Basket," "Various Topics," "Correspondence," "Hints for the Season," "World's Record," etc. Practical farmers and the best writers contribute to it. Agents make money canvassing for it. Any subscriber authorized to act as agent. Send 50 cents for a year's subscription, or write your name and those of your neighbors on a postal card for free sample copies and our Illustrated Premium List.

Address,
FARMERS' FRIEND Pub. Co.,
South Bend, Ind.

HALL'S
Catarrh Cure
Is Recommended by Physicians!
$100 REWARD FOR A CASE IT FAILS TO CURE!

We manufacture and sell it with a positive guarantee that it will cure any case, and we will forfeit the above amount if it fails in a single instance.

It is unlike any other Catarrh remedy, as it is taken internally, acting upon the blood. If you are troubled with this distressing disease, ask your Druggist for it, and ACCEPT NO IMITATION OR SUBSTITUTE. If he has not got it, send to us and we will forward immediately. Price, 75 cents per bottle.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

PROF. HARRIS'
RADICAL CURE
FOR NERVOUS
DEBILITY
AND ORGANIC
WEAKNESS
IN YOUNG
AND MIDDLE-AGED
MEN.

THE PASTILLE
A TRIED REMEDY OF GREAT VALUE
VITAL FORCE RESTORER
GET A BOX

[illegible] No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full Directions for using will accompany each box.

Prepared and Sold ONLY by
HARRIS REMEDY CO. Mfg. Chemists,
MARKET AND 8TH STS., ST. LOUIS, MO.

WELL AUGERS,
ROCK DRILLS
And the Best Machinery in the World for
BORING and DRILLING WELLS by Horse or Steam Power!
Book Free. Address
LOOMIS & NYMAN, TIFFIN, OHIO.

If you feel drowsy, debilitated, have frequent headache, mouth tastes badly, poor appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from torpid liver, or "biliousness," and nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently as to take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR OR MEDICINE.

The cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World.

An EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC for all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen.

Regulate the Liver and prevent Chills and Fever, Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

BAD BREATH!

Nothing is so unpleasant, nothing so common as bad breath, and in nearly every case it comes from the stomach, and can be so easily corrected if you will take Simmons Liver Regulator. Do not neglect so sure a remedy for this repulsive disorder. It will also improve your Appetite, Complexion and General Health.

PILES!

How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of all pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. Simmons Liver Regulator is no drastic violent purge, but a gentle assistant to nature.

CONSTIPATION!

should not be regarded as a trifling ailment—in fact nature demands the utmost regularity of the bowels, and any deviation from this demand paves the way often to serious danger. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails.

SICK HEADACHE!

This distressing affliction occurs most frequently. The disturbance of the stomach arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache.

ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.
MANUFACTURED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Price $1.00. Sold by all Druggists.

PROVED A SUCCESS
THE PASTILLE
Prof. Harris' Radical Cure
Trade Mark
FOR
NERVOUS DEBILITY
BY YEARS OF USE

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science. [illegible] Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure for organic weakness—the [illegible] resulting from indiscreet practices or excesses in youth or at any time of life—by the only true way, [illegible] acting by Absorption [illegible] influence on the Vesicles, Ducts, and [illegible] that are unable to perform their natural functions while this disease pervades the human organism. The use of the Pastille is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the nervous organizations wrecked from vicious habits or excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring the vital forces, where they have been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in this trouble, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. It has been in general use for several years and we have thousands of testimonials from patients, as to its value, and it is now conceded to be the most rational means yet discovered for reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in neat boxes, of three sizes. No. 1, (enough to last a month,) $3; No. 2, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure, unless in severe cases,) $5; No. 3, (lasting over three months, will restore those in the worst condition,) $7. Sent by mail, in plain wrappers. Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

Send for Sealed Descriptive Pamphlets giving Anatomical Illustrations and Testimony, which will convince the most skeptical that they can be restored to perfect health, and the vital forces thoroughly re-established same as if never affected. Sold ONLY by

HARRIS REMEDY CO. MF'G. CHEMISTS,
Market and 8th Sts. St. Louis, Mo.

Unsolicited testimony to the Efficacy of Prof. Harris' Pastilles, taken from Letters received from Patrons:

Indiana, April 11, '82.—The Remedy is working perfectly. Had [illegible] for 5 years past.

Iowa, Oct. [illegible] '82.—I am almost completely [illegible] at your Pastilles. They have worked like a charm on me. I am just twice as much of a man as I was before taking. I was on the verge of [illegible] I thought, and there was no cure for me, but now I am in good hopes for a cure.

West Virginia, Aug. [illegible] '82.—I received your medicine and I believe it has cured me, for which I am very thankful. [illegible] Please send me another box No. 1 for a friend. You have done a great thing for me. I will send you all the orders I can.

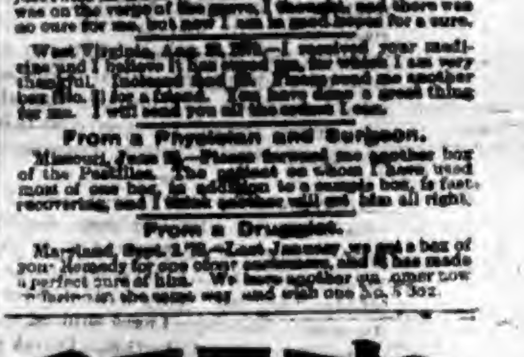
From a Physician and Surgeon.

Missouri, June [illegible]—Please forward me another box of the Pastilles. The patient on whom I have used most of one box, in addition to a sample box, is fast recovering, and I think another will get him all right.

From a Druggist.

Maryland, Sept. 2 '82.—Last January we got a box of your Remedy for one of our customers, and it has made a perfect cure of him. We have another customer now [illegible] in the same way, and wish one No. 3 box.

REED'S



GILT EDGE
TONIC

IS A THOROUGH REMEDY
In every case of Malarial Fever or Fever and Ague while for disorders of the Stomach Torpidity of the Liver, Indigestion and disturbances of the animal forces, which debilitate, it has no equivalent, and can have no substitute. It should not be compounded with triturated compounds of cheap spirits and essential oils, often sold under the name of Bitters. For sale by Druggists, Grocers and Wine Merchants everywhere.

Chas. N [illegible] Co., Wholesale Agents, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FREE!
RELIABLE SELF-CURE.

A favorite prescription of one of the most noted and successful specialists in the U. S. (now retired) for the cure of Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, Weakness and Decay. Sent in plain sealed envelope free. Druggists can fill it.

Address DR. WARD & CO., Louisiana, Mo.

THE COLUMBUS BUGGY
COMPANY
STILL LEADS WITH THE
LARGEST BUGGY
MANUFACTORY
IN THE WORLD.
AND SELL THE BEST
BUGGY ON THE GLOBE
FOR THE MONEY.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE
AND TESTIMONIALS OF
HUNDREDS OF LIVERYMEN
WHO HAVE USED THEM
ADDRESS
COLUMBUS BUGGY Co.
COLUMBUS OHIO.

Be sure, before buying, to examine the Name Plate to be found on the rear of every Buggy manufactured by us, for NONE ARE GENUINE unless they bear the name

Columbus Buggy Company,
COLUMBUS, OHIO.

Many inferior goods are offered as Columbus Buggies, and care should be used to distinguish between "Columbus Buggies" and Columbus Buggy Co's, Buggies.

TESTIMONIALS.

GENTLEMEN: Your buggies have given me entire satisfaction, both in style and durability I have used them for the past three years Your recent improvements on road wagons I consider the best in the market.
JAMES H. RAMBURG.
Frederick Maryland.

DEAR SIRS: We have used buggies of your make that have been in use three years, and no buggy we have that cost twice the amount has given better satisfaction.
JAMES H. ALEXANDER.
Johnstown, Pa.

GENTLEMEN: We have used the Columbus Buggy Company's work for the last five years and can conscientiously recommend it as strictly first class as to style, material, workmanship and durability. Your buggies have given better satisfaction than any other make of vehicles we had in use for the last ten years.
PALMER & WHITTAKER.
Red Oak Iowa.

GENTLEMEN: It gives me pleasure to state that I have been selling your buggies and carriages for four years, and can safely recommend them to any one in want of a buggy or carriage. Yours Truly, J. L. GRIBBLE.
Macomb, Illinois,

GENTLEMEN: With over fifteen years experience in building buggies, wagons, &c., I do not hesitate in saying your buggies and carriages are strictly first-class in workmanship, material and proportions, filling a long-felt want for a reliable article that can be sold at a price lower than any ordinary manufacturer can produce and sell the same quality of Work at. Yours, etc. I. S. KRICK, Conneautville Pa.

GENTLEMEN: I have used your Brewster side-bar buggies for four years, together with buggies that cost me $300 and $350, and your buggies were the first that went out, on account of being side-bar. They have not cost me $5 for repairs, and those I have sold of your make have given good satisfaction. I think that you make the cheapest and best road wagons that are made in the United States for the money.
Respectfully, P. H. HAMLIN, Lawrence Kansas.

DEAR SIRS: We have been using your buggies for the last four or five years. They have given entire satisfaction. I think they are the best buggies made for the money.
W. R. GRIMES & CO., Liverymen Whitehall Illinois.

GENTLEMEN: We have been handling your work for two seasons, and have in every instance found your buggies first class, We never have had one of your jobs returned to us for repairs; neither have we had a single complaint on account of work not being perfectly satisfactory. Very Respectfully, H.P. BUCKLEY & CO., Springfield, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN. I have no hesitancy in saying that the buggies manufactured by the Columbus Buggy Company are the best work for the price I have any knowledge of. In not a single instance has there been any dissatisfaction on the part of any one of my customers.
FRANK L HALL.
Owensboro, Ky

DEAR SIRS: For the past two years we have used your buggies side by side with other makes in both our stables, and are perfectly satisfied with the strenght, durability and workmanship compared with others. As fast as our stock in livery is used up we shall replace them with your manufacture, knowing from experience that it is the best we can do. Respectfully.
SWEET & FOLLANSBEE.
Quincy Illinois.

For sale by dealers everywhere.

Any of our readers who will enclose two 3 cent stamps in a letter to the Columbus Buggy Co., Columbus O., will receive in return a beautiful engraving in colors, representing an Australian scene and their manner of travelling in that country with ostriches as a motor. They save this picture (the packing costing six cents) to all who may send for it, desiring in this manner to make themselves more widely known to the people.

The Baltimore Oriole.

PERFECTING A PROGRAMME OF THE MOST UNIQUE AND BRILLIANT CHARACTER. PARTICIPATION OF KING REX, MOMUS, MYSTIC KREWE, VEILED PROPHETS AND OTHER NOTED MYSTIC ORGANIZATIONS.

The Oriole festivities next month in Baltimore promises a programme that in unique and brilliant features has never been paralleled before in the country. Indeed it may be said that "promise" is hardly a strong enough word, as preparations have been so far completed as to insure a success that will surprise visitors and residents alike. An enormous amount of work has been completed, and on two different times the building where the pageant is being constructed has had to be greatly enlarged. The experience Baltimore had last year in the way of pageants will be profited by this year to a striking extent. Instead of contracting with any one man for its production and construction, it has been entirely in the hands of a committe of Baltimore citizens—active and energetic men, who have given the greater portion of their time to the work for months past. The general manager is a gentleman of very large experience in southern cities in designing, perfecting and placing upon the streets night displays of this character. With him have been associated artists also of large experience in the construction, painting and decorating of floats, and the work already accomplished is a surprise even to those intimately connected with it.

The pageant is upon Thursday night, September 14th, and the Oriole portion of it will consist of two grand divisions, the most extensive display of the kind ever attempted by any one organization in the United States.

The first division of the pageant will be a memorable one, as it will display representative floats of the oldest and most famous of the mystic organizations of the country. Indeed the division will include Tableaux Cars by all Mystic Organizations of the south and west. There will be Rex and his Court from New Orleans, Comus and Crewe, Momus and his Knights, and the Knights of Proteus, all of New Orleans. The Veiled Prophets of St. Louis; the Memphii of Memphis; Momus and his Knights of Galveston; the Cowbellians, Infant Myths and Strikers of Mobile.

The long experience that these organizations have had in displays of this character, and the brilliant reputation they hold all over the country for marvelous effects, will be more than eclipsed in Baltimore next month, as while the competition them to make the grandest display is of the most friendly nature, still they will all strive to outdo one another in gorgeous effects. The festivities open on Tuesday, the 12th, with a military parade, followed by a competive trial which will undoubtedly prove one of the most notable of Military events. The competive trials is open to all States, and already a number of acceptances received from crack organizations assures a competition which cannot but prove of the liveliest interest. The second day's festivities will be of a unique and striking description, embracing as they will the reception of Cecilius, Lord of Baltimore, after an absence of 250 years. King Charles the First gave to Cecilius all of the territory now embraced in the District of Columbia and the state of Virginia. Lord Baltimore will arrive on one of the largest steamers at the foot of Broadway, and will be received by a pageant as novel as it will be brilliant. All the local military, as well as from sixteen to eighteen visiting companies, will participate as will also all the uniformed societies of the city, the fire and police departments, and all municipal organizations. The immediate body-guard on Lord Baltimore will be a cavalcade of mounted courtiers superbly mounted, costumed and closely masked. With Cecilius, will be King Rex, Comus, Momus, Memphii, Veiled Prophets and other high dignitaries. The leading business houses of the city will display representative tableaux, and the parade upon the whole will be one long to be remembered.

Every preparation has been made for the accommodation of visitors to Baltimore upon this occasion and she will spread herself as never before. There is a full and hearty recognition of the fact that last year's celebration was not strictly a success and therefore it may be depended upon that this year's festivities will exceed the anticipations of the most enthusiastic.

The B. & O. R. R. has with its accustomed enterprise and liberality made a remarkable low rate from all stations on its main line, divisions and branches. The details for the prompt and rapid transit of the immense number of people who will go over the road to Baltimore have all been perfected and special trains will be run and no trouble deemed too great to insure the satisfaction of all parties.

Wabash has a "Coffee Club." It is composed entirely of married ladies, and was no doubt intended to show to the world that the ladies of that enterprising town were in favor of prog ces. No old fashioned tea parties for them.

Reunion of the Grand Army of the Repulic at Grand Island, Neb:

The B. & O. R. R. from August 24 to September 1st, will sell round trip excursion tickets to Grand Island, and Columbus, Neb., at one half the usual rates, tickets will be good for forty days, from date of sale, this is the lowest rate ever offered by any road for a round trip ticket, to any point west of the Missouri, considering the unusual length of time these tickets are good, parties desiring to visit friends in the great west, should avail themselves of this low rate. The B. & O. run three solid trains daily, through to Chicago, making direct connections with all roads from there, necessitating but two changes of cars, new B. & O. sleeping cars attached to all trains. For further particulars call upon agents of the B. & O. R. R. or address W. E. Reppert, Pass. Agt., No 205½, North High street, Columbus Ohio.

—The Continental Insurance Co. of New York has over $4,000,000, capital G. B. Zimmerman, agent, Auburn, Indiana. 33-2t.

COLUMBIA BICYCLES

made of the very best material, by the most skillful workmen, expressly for road use.

COLUMBIAS!

Are the favorites with riders, and their superiority in beauty, structure and beauty is acknowledged by all. It is a practicable road vehicle, and can be ridden 100 miles a week over average roads. Professional and business men all join in bearing witness to its merits.

Send 3 cent stamp for 36 page illustrated catalogue with price list and full information

THE POPE MFG. CO.,
tf. 597 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

$500 Reward!

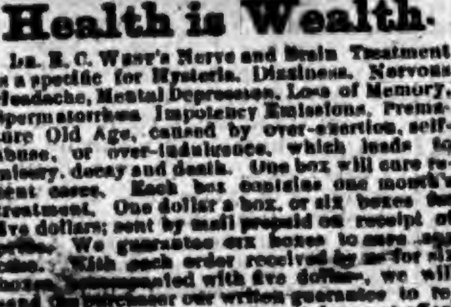
We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 181 and 183 W. Madison St., Chicago. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp.

$1,000 Forfeit!

Having the utmost confidence in its superiority over all others, and after thousands of tests of the most complicated and severest cases we could find, we feel justified in offering to forfeit One Thousand Dollars for any case of coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, hoarseness, bronchitis, consumption, in its early stages; whooping cough and all diseases of the throat and lungs, except Asthma, for which we only claim relief, that we can't cure with West's Cough Syrup, when taken according to directions. Sample bottles 25 and 50 cents; large bottles $1.00. Genuine wrappers only in blue. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price. JOHN C. WEST & CO., sole proprietors, 181 and 183 W. Madison street, Chicago, Illinois.

Health is Wealth.

DR. E. C. WEST'S Nerve and Brain Treatment is a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency, Emissions, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, self-abuse, or over-indulgence, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind. Orders by mail at regular price.



Ayer's
Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

PREPARED BY DR. J. C. AYER & CO.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the De Kalb circuit court of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of James Quince, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.
LORANA QUINCE, Administrator
August 23rd, 1882. 31-3w.

LAKE SHORE & MICHIGAN SOUTHERN Railway.

Great through car route between the east and west! Steel rail track! Superior equipments! Close connections at Buffalo, for New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. Time card in effect May 15 1881

GOING EAST.

STATIONS	N.Y.Ex.	A. Ex	Way F't	Way F't
Chicago	9 20am	5 35pm	1 10am	7 00am
Elkhart	1 30pm	10 10	5 20	12 10pm
Kendallville	2 48	11 30	6 30
Corunna	2 58		7 00
Sedan			7 20
Waterloo	3 10	11 58	7 30
Butler	3 21	12 10am	8 20
Toledo	5 40	2 45	7 35pm

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi Ex.	Pac. Ex.	Way F't	Way F't
Toledo	11 05am	12 01am	5 30am
Butler	1 35pm	2 40	4 15pm	8 10am
Waterloo	1 50	3 30	4 50	9 20
Sedan			5 05	10 00
Corunna	2 15		5 15	10 35
Kendallville	2 20	3 00	5 25	11 25
Elkhart	3 40	4 20	9 25	4 20
Chicago	8 00	9 20

The Pacific and Atlantic express run daily Other trains daily except Sundays. Trains run by Columbus time, which is twenty minutes faster than Chicago time. Where no time is given, trains do not stop. Accommodation Freight leaves Butler at 5 o'clock a. m. and arrives at Toledo at 10:25 a. m. Accommodation Freight leaves Toledo at 5:35 p. m., and arrives at Butler at 10:42 p. m. Close connections at Chicago. Through tickets and free transfer of passengers and baggage J. E. CURTIS,
Supt. Mich. Div. Toledo, O.

For tickets to all points east—first-class, second class, emigrant and round-trip tickets to Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota Missouri, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and California, rates of freight and information—apply to H. D. ARMSTRONG
Agent Waterloo Ind

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAILROAD—CHICAGO Division.

IN EFFECT FROM MAY 21, 1882

GOING EAST.

STATIONS.	N. Y. Fast	W. & B. Express	W. & C Ex.
CHICAGO lv	5 10pm	10 30pm	8 10am
Walkerton Junction	8 11	1 36am	11 24
Milford Junction	9 10	2 10	12 26
Syracuse		2 22	12 35pm
Cromwell		3 38	12 51
Albion		4 00	1 15
Avilla		4 22	1 34
Garrett	10 18	4 45	2 00
Auburn Junction	10 29	4 56	2 09
St. Joe
Hicksville	11 14	5 26	3 32
Defiance	11 52	6 15	3 54
Deshler	12 51am	7 10	4 20
Fostoria	1 30	8 10	5 15
Tiffin	2 10	8 35	5 45
CHICAGO JUNCTION ar	3 00	9 45	6 40

GOING WEST.

STATIONS.	Chi. Fast Line.	Chi. Express	Chi. Mail.
CHICAGO JUNCTION lv	9 50pm	6 40pm	8 00am
Tiffin	10 28	7 56	9 14
Fostoria	11 02	8 28	9 10
Deshler	11 52	9 43	10 40
Defiance	12 56am	10 52	11 42
Hicksville	1 47	11 42	12 28pm
St. Joe
Auburn Junction	2 25	12 13 am	1 05
Garrett	2 45	12 25	1 48
Avilla		12 38	1 58
Albion		1 02	2 21
Cromwell		1 28	2 45
Syracuse		1 45	3 02
Milford Junction		1 56	3 14
Walkerton Junction		3 14	4 30
CHICAGO ar	5 35	5 55	7 20

FT. WAYNE, CINCINNATI & LOUISVILLE Railroad.

In effect April 16, 1882.

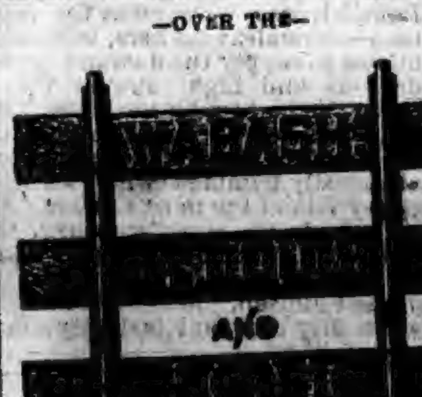
SOUTHWARD.		STATIONS.	NORTHWARD
No 3 Express	No. 1 Mail.		No. 2 Mail	No. 4 Ex.
5 40pm	10 20am	Lv Ft Wayne ar	5 10p	9 55am
6 47	11 20	Bluffton	4 05	8 53
7 50	12 18pm	Hartford	3 04	7 47
8 40	1 10pm	Muncie	2 10	6 50
		Cincinnati
10 35pm	6 05	Indianapolis	11 05	4 35am

All trains daily except Sunday. Trains run on Columbus time. Trains No. 1 and 2 connect with trains to and from Louisville at New Castle.

W. W. WORTHINGTON, Gen. Supt.
GEO. B. CAMPBELL' General Ticket Agt.

TAKE A RIDE

—OVER THE—

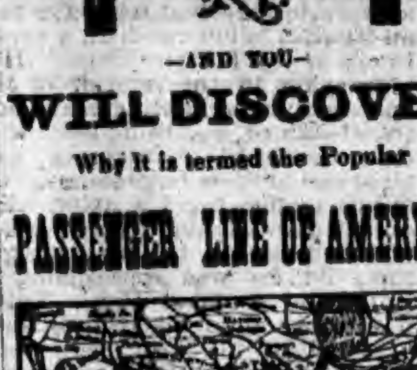


—AND YOU—

WILL DISCOVER

Why it is termed the Popular

PASSENGER LINE OF AMERICA!



2,500 MILES OF ROAD reaching in the most direct manner all of the

Great Cities of the West

Running the Finest Passenger Equipment and the most extended Through-Car System on the continent.

THROUGH TICKETS

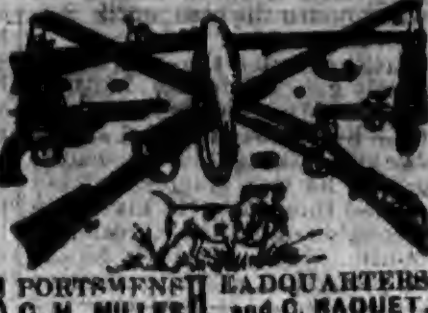
TO ALL POINTS

East, West, Northwest or Southwest

And Baggage checked from starting point to destination.

For Maps, Time-Tables, or any information, call on or address F. M. KENT, agent, Auburn, Ind., or G. R. COLE, Agent, Auburn Junction

J. C. GAULT, H. C. TOWNSEND,
Gen. Manager. Gen. Passenger Agen
St. Louis



SPORTSMENS HEADQUARTERS!
C. H. MILLER and C. RAQUET,
21 West Main St., Fort Wayne, Ind. Breech and Muzzle Loading

SHOT GUNS,
RIFLES,
REVOLVERS,
AMMUNITION,
FISHING TACKLES

We carry the largest stock of Firearms in Northern Indiana, and our prices are lower than New York, Pittsburgh or Chicago houses. Our guns are all selected, and we warrant every one to give satisfaction. Repairing done to order. tw.

STRONG FACTS!

A great many people are asking what particular troubles BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is good for.

It will cure Heart Disease, Paralysis, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Consumption, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all similar diseases.

Its wonderful curative power is simply because it purifies and enriches the blood, thus beginning at the foundation, and by building up the system, drives out all disease.

A Lady Cured of Rheumatism.

Baltimore, Md., May 7, 1880.
My health was much shattered by Rheumatism when I commenced taking Brown's Iron Bitters, and I scarcely had strength enough to attend to my daily household duties. I am now using the third bottle and I am regaining strength daily, and I cheerfully recommend it to all.
I cannot say too much in praise of it. MRS. MARY E. BRASHEAR,
173 Pressman st.

Kidney Disease Cured.

Christiansburg, Va., 1881.
Suffering from kidney disease, from which I could get no relief, I tried Brown's Iron Bitters, which cured me completely. A child of mine, recovering from scarlet fever, had no appetite and did not seem to be able to eat at all. I gave him Iron Bitters with the happiest results.
J. KYLE MONTAGUE.

Heart Disease.

Vine St., Harrisburg, Pa.
Dec. 2, 1881.
After trying different physicians and many remedies for palpitation of the heart without receiving any benefit, I was advised to try Brown's Iron Bitters. I have used two bottles and never found anything that gave me so much relief.
MRS. JENNIE HESS.

For the peculiar troubles to which ladies are subject, BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is invaluable. Try it.

Be sure and get the Genuine.

CIDER.

PRESS (hand and power) GRATER, Elevator, Jelly Pans, Sorghum Mills, Circular Mills, and Cider Mill Supplies. Illustrated Catalogue free. Address A. G. HAMPTON, Detroit, Mich.

ROAD SUPERINTENDENTS
—AND—
GRAVEL ROAD MEN,
Try the Best ROAD WORKER,

THE PENNOCK.

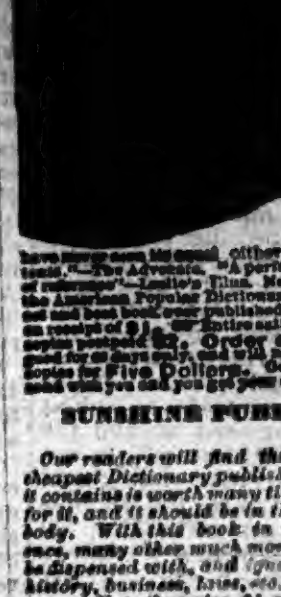
700 IN USE.

Manufacturers of "Eclipse" Road-Scrapers.
S. PENNOCK & SONS CO.,
Kennett Square, Pa., and Fort Wayne, Ind.

CENTRAL CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
Columbus, Bartholomew Co., Indiana.
Cheapest Tuition in the U. S. for advantages offered. Limited number boarded in Principal's family. For terms, etc., address
W. E. BATES, Principal,

TO ADVERTISERS. Holman's "Gilt Edge" List of local Indiana Newspapers will be sent to any address free.
S. E. HOLMAN, Fort Wayne, Ind.

The American Popular Dictionary, $1.00



This useful and elegant volume is a complete Library and Encyclopedia, as well as the best Dictionary in the world. … —N. Y. Atlas. … Order at once. … for Five Dollars. …

SUNSHINE PUBLISHING CO.,
Geneva, Ohio.

Our readers will find this wonderful book the cheapest Dictionary published. The information it contains is worth many times the amount asked for it, and it should be in the possession of everybody. With this book in the library for reference, many other much more expensive works can be dispensed with, and ignorance of his country, history, business, laws, etc., is inexcusable in any man. Note the price, $1, post paid.

THE MYSTERY OF
Love Making Solved
Or an Easy Road to Marriage.

… SUNSHINE PUBLISHING HOUSE, Geneva, O.

JOS. ABRIGHT,

—Dealer In—

Watches,
Watches,
Clocks,
Clocks,
Castors
Castors,
Spoons,
Spoons,
Forks,
Forks,
Knives
Knives,
Chains,
Chains,
Rings,
Rings,

And, in fact, everything usually kept in a first-class Jewelry Store, will sell you goods cheaper than any store in DeKalb county. Special attention given to repairing fine watches. No charge for marking silverware sold at my store. All work warranted.

JOE ABRIGHT.
AUBURN, INDIANA

LANDRETHS' PEDIGREE SEEDS

SEEDS SEEDS
For the MERCHANT
For the MARKET GARDENER
For the PRIVATE FAMILY
Grown by ourselves
SEEDS SEEDS

Handsome Illustrated Catalogue and Rural Register FREE TO ALL.
MERCHANTS, SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARDS FOR TRADE LIST.
DAVID LANDRETH & SONS, SEED GROWERS, PHILADELPHIA

THE PRACTICAL
BUSINESS COLLEGE,
VANCE BLOCK, INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

We have the most practical course in DOUBLE-ENTRY BOOK-KEEPING taught, and we challenge comparison.

We guarantee that our graduates will be competent to keep any set of books in the United States.

If our graduates are required to give bonds by their employers, guaranteeing their integrity, we furnish them upon our receiving satisfactory reference as to their habits and honesty.

Telegraphy thoroughly taught.

We obtain lucrative situations for our graduates.

Phonography (or short-hand) thoroughly taught.

The English branches receive special attention.

Separate and elegant rooms for ladies.

Send for College Circular.

No vacation. Students can enter at any time. Address

W. W. GRANGER & CO.

PILES NO CURE NO PAY
FISTULA RECTAL ULCERS, FISSURES CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED Cure BEFORE TOO LATE
BY DR. A. W. BRINKERHOFF'S Wonderful NEW, SURE, PAINLESS CURE. PATENTED.
OVER 30000 OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN FOUR YEARS BY DR BRINKERHOFF. BRINKERHOFF CURE WARRANTED

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Devoted to the Interests of the Democratic Party and to the Collection of Local and General News.

Volume 12. AUBURN, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, SEPTEMBER 7, 1882. Number 36.

Auburn Courier.

JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Cards not exceeding five lines each will be inserted under this head for $5.00 per annum For each additional line 50 cents extra will be charged.

MOODY & HUSSELMAN.

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Auburn, Indiana Office over Mrs. Jones Store.

WM. H. LEAS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will give prompt attention to collections Office over Citizens' Bank; Waterloo, Ind.

W. H. DILLS.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic. Special attention given to all classes of legal business. Office second floor in Coel's block, opposite north side of public square Auburn, Ind.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBlic, will practice in all courts in the state. Office in rear of DeKalb Bank, on first floor, Waterloo, Indiana.

DR. D. A. SEBRING, office over Shaffer's furniture store, Auburn, Indiana.

DRS. MORRISON & LIPES.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, LOCATED at Hudson, Indiana. All calls promptly attended to—day or night.

J. LITTLEFIELD.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. OFFICE AND residence on 10th St., opposite S. W. Ralston's. All calls promptly attended to, day or night. Auburn, Indiana. 25 ly

BUTT'S HOTEL.

FREE OMNIBUS TO AND FROM ALL trains. Good sample rooms on first floor John Butt Proprietor, Waterloo, Indiana.

UNION HOTEL.

AT CORUNNA, INDIANA. Good sample rooms on first floor. Hotel is near the depot. JAMES IMUS, Proprietor.

J. B. CASEBEER, M. D.
T. G. MATHENY, M. D. V. A. HUMPHREY, M.D.

Dr's. Casebeer, Matheny and Humphrey have associated themselves for the practice of medicine and surgery. Also in the drug and livery business. They are prepared to answer calls in their line. Office at the Physicians' drug store, Main street, Auburn, Ind.

D. J. SWARTZ M. D. VESTA M. SWARTZ M.D.

Physicians and Surgeons. Office over Davenport's drug store, Main street, west of public square, Auburn, Indiana. Residence, North Main street, east side. Dr. Vesta M. Swartz at home from four p. m. to six p. m. except on Saturdays. Calls at night from the country for her must be accompanied by means of conveyance. Dr. D. J. Swartz speaks both English and German.

NOTICE.

I will be at my office, at my residence in Keyser township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me on Saturday of each week. HENRY I'NONEY. Trustee.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. T. F. FRANKS, Trustee.
June 14, 1881.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my home, in Jackson township, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice.
WILSON S. DANCER, Trustee.
April 15, 1882. tf

NOTICE.

I will be in my office for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Wednesday of each week until further notice. FREDERICK GFELLER, Trustee.
April 14, 1882. Smithfield Tp.

NOTICE.

I will be in my office, at my residence in Concord township, one mile north and one mile west of Concord, for the transaction of such township business as may come before me, on Saturday of each week until further notice. C. H. BROWN, Trustee.

For Sale.

On account of my wife's illness I offer for sale my threshing machine, clover huller, and ten horse power traction engine all in complete running order. For terms call at my residence two miles west of Waterloo, on Smithfield township line, or address. Wm. Brand, Waterloo, Ind.

The Heberling Shirring and Gathering Machine.
(Improved March 1, 1880.)

The only machine in the world that makes the hand-stitch. Simple, practical and perfect in operation. Doing a large range of material; such as silks, satins, velvets, alpacas, cashmeres, white goods, &c., with one or two rows of stitching at the same time.

Work more regular and beautiful than can be done by hand. Shirts or gathers adjusted full or scant by drawing thread same as handwork. Will do the work of ten or fifteen hands. Call on Miss C. Wolsey and Mrs. Angie Kuhlman, corner of Main and Fifth street, Auburn, Indiana. 25-121.

SORE EYES.

DR. E. C. VETTER,
—THE—
EYE DOCTOR AND OPTICIAN,

is permanently located at Butler, Ind., and will make regular visits to Auburn, Ind., and may be found at the Central House the second Monday of each month during the year 1882, for the purpose of treating all those who are afflicted with sore eyes, no matter what may be the cause, or how long standing. He is prepared with his new successful method of treatment, to effect cures that astonish the most skeptical. He uses no caustics, mercury, instruments, or anything to injure the most delicate eye. He also carries

SPECTACLES

of the finest quality, and guarantees a fit or no sale. Consultation free. Communications promptly responded to. Enclose stamp for reply. Office day at home every Saturday. Residence north of Lutheran church. Address

Dr. E. C. VETTER,
BUTLER, DeKalb Co., Ind.
P. O. Box, 122. 2-12.

Judge Lowry's Oration.

DELIVERED AT THE SOLDIERS' REUNION AT GARRETT, AUGUST 25, 1882.

SOLDIERS AND LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: Summoned here by telegraph without knowing more of the object of the call than that here to-day were to be congratulated, and, for the time reunited, a large body of the surviving brave men who responded in an infinitely greater emergency, but, in many cases, on equally short notice, to the call of their country, it yet affords me unalloyed pleasure to be with you on the joyous occasion. It is one appointed, as I understand it, for the re-exchange of greetings amongst old comrades in arms upon the tented field, and to renew the memories and re-cement the friendships born of a common experience, of deprivation and suffering, of cruel bereavements in the loss of loved and loving comrades, but, at length, of glorious victory, in the signal triumph of the armies of the Union.

Being myself a witness, at one of the great conventions of that day, to the manifestation of one of the unfortunate, indeed the most chimerical of all the delusions that led to the inception of the great struggle in which you afterward engaged,—became my lot, in an humble but most emphatic way, to endeavor to dispel that delusion by conjuring parties laboring under its infection to believe, that, so surely as the people of this favored land nurtured in their breasts a feeling of devotion to the great doctrine of "Liberty regulated by Law," so surely would they, in case of resistance to its laws and lawfully constituted authorities, be found standing solidly together in the major portion of the republic,—their army counting by millions while their hearts beat as one. How magnificently was this humble prophecy realized! With what deep solicitude we all of us watched its fulfillment! Party lines disappeared as suddenly as if by the magician's wand. With rare exceptions even the spirit of faction was hushed. Great diversity of views existed as to the incidental policies to be pursued, but with us, old and young alike "marched under the flag, and kept step to the music of the Union." And as, full of lusty life, buoyant with hope, exultant with the lofty spirit of patriotism, your now surviving veterans and your compatriots, bounded to the front.

> "The wife whose babe first smiled that day:
> The fair young bride of yester eve;
> And aged sire, and matron gray,
> Saw the young warrior haste away,
> And deemed it sin to grieve."

That there were anguished partings is most true. And heroes, no less than heroines there were, who, perforce, remained at home. The devoted father with heaving breast and stifled sobs, pronouncing perhaps for the last time, a parent's blessing upon the head of his only, or possibly only remaining son, as he hastened him forward to the field where duty called, but which alas! might prove to be that of his sepulcher; the mother well nigh choking with illy suppressed grief while in hurried words inspiring with brave thoughts her darling boy as she imprinted on his youthful, manly brow her parting kiss; the wife who amid the cries and tears of her little ones, herself with almost bursting heart, spoke words of cheer to her departing husband; the maiden, hitherto so coy, now encircling her lover with his sash, the while archly dissembling her anguish as she stealthily removes the pearly tear-drops from her downcast lids to implant upon that lovers lips, with all possibe appearance of fortitude, the pure pledge, and, possibly, last fond token of her young heart's warm affection;—these were each and all partakers in the experience and the sacrifices of war, and challenged, in their sphere, a share of our patriotic sympathy and admiration.

And ye who actually went forward in patriotic arder to do duty upon "the perilous edge of battle!" Ye, who went not forth in any spirit of commercial patriotism, nor as men are wont to do in other ventures and different spheres of life, risking something in the hope of gaining more. You risked all without any prospect of personal gain to yourselves; your only incentives being the vindication of the honor of your country and preservation of the integrity of her soil. How our hearts and hopes followed you on the weary march; in the crowded camp; when languished in dreary hospitals, or confined in the loathsome prison-house; yes, and upon those numerous fields of strife surrounded by the ravages of war! There we beheld ye, dauntless and brave, while the glittering bayonet flashed before you and the ruthless bullets whizzed around, and the red-breathed artillery belched forth with maddening roar the terrible missiles which carried in their pathway such appalling destruction that even the thought of it begets bewilderment.

It boots not now to tell of your high regard for discipline; of your patience in time of disaster; of your magnanimity in the hour of conquest; of your self-sacrificing devotion; of your individual disregard of danger and your collective intrepid valor; or of the glorious halo with which, by your bearing, your bravery, and your achivements you have encircled the very name of America. An hundred admiring pens have already inextricably interwoven all this into the story of your country's history. As for those who perished in the strife of battle or in any of the myriad forms in which death is wont to come to the subjects of so many hardships, though their breasts may never more know the delights you now enjoy; though they shall not again hear the stirring blast of the bugle call as it may summon you here to-day to your places in the ranks of mimic battle; yet, when all of us shall have disappeared from earth, their memories will be treasured up and held sacred by succeeding generations; and when many another year has come and gone, the mute historians which have sprung up as outgrowths of living affection in every cemetery and village church-yard where repose their hallowed dust, shall carry down on the marble tablets to the ages yet to be, the proud, though plaintive, story of each heroic career.

How, now, as to our appreciation of the survivors? Heroes, you are, of the passing,—demi-gods, as your numbers gradually diminish, will those of you be who linger amongst the coming generation. Your brave swords have preserved, intact, the great temple of freedom constructed by the valor of those who, whether lineally descended from them or not, in the heraldry of freedom may be justly claimed as your ancestry. A grateful people gladly pour their treasure into the laps of those of you who most suffered in the glorious cause. Distant, far distant, be the day when they shall either give grudgingly of their store, or unduly diminish the just provision. You ask not prodigality. A manly spirit of independence forbids your seeking aught merely in the way of benefaction. You would have so far as it can be made, meet recompence, simply, for physical disability incurred when in the line of duty serving the common and sacred cause. Wise political economy justifies and justice demands this. I forego anathema. Otherwise the voice of a generous people might well be expressed in the exclamation; "Withered be the lips—palsied the tongue—of him who, in the service of Parsimony, shall gainsay your right to receive and enjoy this righteous reward."

New Railroad.

J. H. Shinn, of Royal Oak, Ohio, is interested in railroads, at least so he states. He believes in narrow guage roads, and while here the other day, dropped in to talk about them. He showed us a late copy of the Paulding Gazette in which is a letter on the subject of the new narrow guage from Delphos to Paulding. A party is at work, so the letter states, surveying this route, and the writer thinks it will be built. And not only that but it will be extended to connect with the Nickel Plate road, south of Paulding Center. Thence he thinks it should come to Spencerville in this county, and going west, would pass through Auburn, Kendallville and New Paris, terminating at last at New Buffalo, on Lake Michigan, where it would connect with the Chicago and West Michigan road into the fruit and lumber country on the entire east shore of the lake, and with the great Michigan Central road from Detroit to Chicago. Whether this letter, has anything to back it or not we do not pretend to say, but the project is a feasible one, and may be eventually carried out. Its friends also, wish to see it extended eastward to terminate at some point on the Ohio river.

THE Columbia City Post contains the following good hit at the present political situation: "The democratic theory: Vote your sentiments on the amendments in November when they first come before you as the constitution intends. The republican theory: Vote for all the amendments in November without regard to the meaning of the constitution. Don't talk about their merits until the republican party pulls through the campaign and then you may vote just as you please.

In Double Danger.

A STRANGE ADVENTURE.
[English Magazine.]

I've had many a queer voyage in my time (said Capt. M.—) but the queerest I ever had was one that I made (unexpectedly, as you will see) upon the Great Fish River, in South Africa, on my way back from a hunting excursion.

As I neared the bank, I saw that the river was in full flood, more than twice its usual breadth, and running like a mill-race. I knew at once that I should have a very tough job to get across—for a flooded African river is no joke, I can tell you. But I knew also that my wife would be terribly anxious if I didn't come back on the day that I had fixed—South Africa being a place where a good many things may happen to a man—and so I determined to chance it.

Just at the water's edge I found an old Bushman that I knew well, who had a boat of his own, so I hailed him at once:

"Well, Kaloomi, what will you take to put me across the river?"

"No go fifty dollars this time, paas" (master,) said the old fellow, in his half-Dutch, half-English jargon. "Boat no get 'across to-day; water groot (great!")

And never a bit could I persuade him, although I offered him money enough to make any ordinary Bushman jump head first down a precipice. Money was good, but it would be no use to him when he drowned; and, in short, he wouldn't budge.

"Well, if you won't put me across," said I at last, "lend me your boat, and I'll just do the job for myself; I can't very well take my horse with me, so I'll just leave him here in pledge that I'll pay for the boat when I come back."

"Keep horse for you, master, quite willing, but 'spose you try to cross today you never come back to ask for him."

He spoke so positively that, although I'm not easily frightened, I certainly did feel rather uncomfortable. However, when you've got to do a thing of that sort, the less you think of it the better, I jumped into the boat and shoved off.

I had barely got clear of the shore when I found that the old fellow was right, for the boat shot down the stream like an arrow. I saw in a moment that there was no hope of paddling her across, and that all I could do was just to keep her head straight. But I hadn't the chance of doing even that very long, for just then a big tree came driving along, and hitting my boat full fall on the quarter, smashed her like an egg-shell. I had just time to clutch the projecting roots and whisk myself up on to them, and then tree and I went away down stream together at I don't know how many miles an hour.

At first I was so rejoiced at escaping just when all seemed over with me, that I didn't think much of what was to come next; but before long I got something to think of with a vengeance. The tree, as I've said, was a large one, and the branch end (the opposite one to where I sat) was all one mass of of green leaves. All at once, just as I was shifting myself to a safer place among the roots, the leaves suddenly shook and parted, and out peeped the great yellow head and fierce eyes of an enormous lion!

I don't think I ever got such a fright in my life. My gun had gone to the bottom along with the boat, and the only weapon I had left was a short hunting-knife, which against such a beast as that would be no more use than a bodkin. I fairly gave myself up for lost, making sure that in another moment he'd spring forward and tear me to bits.

But whether it was that he had already gorged himself with prey, or whether (as I suspect) he was really frightened at finding himself in such a scrape, he showed no disposition to attack me, so long at least as I remained still. The instant I made any movement, however, he would begin roaring and lashing his tail, as if he were going to fall on me at once. So, to avoid provoking him I was forced to remain stock-still, although sitting so long in one position cramped me dreadfully.

There we sat, Mr. Lion and I, staring at each other with all our might—a very picturesque group, no doubt, if there had been anybody there to see it. Down, down the stream we went, the banks seemed to race past us as if we were going by train, while all around broken timber, wagon-wheels, trees, bushes, and the carcases of drowned horses and cattle went whirling past as upon the thick brown water.

All at once I noticed that the lion seemed to be getting strangely restless and turning his great head from side to side in a nervous kind of way, as if he saw or heard something he didn't like. At first I couldn't imagine what on earth was the matter with him, but presently I caught a sound which scared me much worse than it had the lion. Far in the distance I could hear a dull, booming roar, which I heard too often not to recognize at once; we were nearing a waterfall!

I had seen the great falls on the Fish River more than once, and the bare thought of being carried over those tremendious precipices made my very blood run cold. Yet being devoured by a lion would hardly be much of an improvement, as I hadn't the ghost of a chance of being able to swim ashore, there really seemed to be no other alternative.

Faster and faster we went—louder and louder grew the roar of the cataract; the lion seemed to have given himself up for lost, and crouched down among the leaves, only uttering a low moaning whine, every now and then. I was fairly at my wit's end what to do, when all of a sudden I caught sight of something that gave me a glance of hope.

A little way ahead of us the river narrowed suddenly, and a rocky headland thrust itself out a good way into the stream. On one of the lowest points of it grew a thick clump of trees, whose boughs overhung the water; and it struck me that, if we only passed near enough, I might manage to catch hold of one of the branches, and swing myself up on to the rock.

No sooner said than done. I started up, hardly caring whether the lion attacked me or not, and planted myself firmly upon one of the biggest roots, where I could take a good spring when the time came. I knew that this would be my last chance, for by this time we were so near the precipice and I could see quite plainly, a little way ahead, the great cloud of spray and vapor that hovered over the great waterfall. Even at the best it was a desperate venture, and I can tell you that I felt my heart beginning to thump like a sledge-hammer as we came closer and closer to the point, and I thought what would happen if I missed my leap.

Just as we neared it, it happened by the special mercy of God that our tree struck against something and turned fairly crosswise to the current, the end with the lion in swinging out into mid-stream, while my end was driven close to the rock on which the clump of trees grew.

Now or never! I made one spring (I don't think I ever made such another before or since) and just clutched the lowest bough; and as I dragged myself on to it I heard the last roar of the doomed lion mingling with the thunder of the waterfall as he vanished into the cloud of midst that overhung the precipice.

As for me it was late enough that night before I got home, and I found my poor wife in a fine fright about me; so I thought it just as well, on the whole, to keep my adventure to myself, and it wasn't till nearly a year later that she heard a word about my strange fellow-voyager.

—We have received a late copy of the Weekly Missoulian, published at Missoula, Montana. It is the most homelike of the papers we have received from that distant region. It contains, among other matter the calls for meetings of the different political parties and the announcements of the names of the candidates for the defferent offices.

A CONSIGNMENT of five sacks of new corn from Waco, Texas, was sold on change, at auction, in St. Louis on Saturday, and brought the very fancy price of $6,75 per bushel. The corn was shipped the same evening to Chicago by express. It was in thorough marketable condition, and it is understood that car load lots of new corn can be shipped from Texas before the close of the month.

THE tournament of the Indiana Firemen's Association, at South Bend, September 5th, 6th, 7th, will be the largest meeting of the kind ever held in the state. Companies from Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, and other states as a number of Indiana companies, will compete for the prizes.

Beauty Regained.

The beauty and color of the hair may be safely regained by using Parker's Hair Balsam, which is much admired for its perfume, cleanliness and dandruff eradicating properties.

ROOT AND COMPANY
FORT WAYNE, INDIANA.

Great headquarters in Northeastern Indiana for the sale of

CARPETS,
CURTAIN GOODS,
HOUSE-KEEPING GOODS,
RUGS,
MATS,
SILKS,
OIL CLOTHS,
DRESS GOODS,
WOOLENS,
DOMESTICS,
HOSIERY,
GLOVES,
LACES,
FANCY GOODS,
WHITE GOODS,
UNDERWEAR,
NOTIONS, &c.

ROOT AND COMPANY!
FORT WAYNE, INDIANA.

HONEST WAGONS!!
Is what you want. Call on
J. W. SHAFFER & CO'
and see their home-made
WAGONS!
GIVE THEM A CALL.

THE AUBURN COURIER

BY JAMES A. BARNS.

AUBURN. INDIANA.

HERE AND THERE.

CHICAGO is to have a railroad to her poor-house.

IT is now reported that the French wheat crop is about the average.

THE taxes on railway property in Peoria, Ill., amount to $50,000 a year.

PENSION claims are now being adjusted at the rate of $1,000,000 per week.

THE national debt was reduced about $16 000 000 during the month of August.

A PROHIBITION State ticket in Maine is one of the anomalies of the prohibition question.

THERE was a large increase in the sale of Government lands during the last fiscal year.

AT Manila, Phillipine Islands, 300 deaths from cholera occurred on Monday, August 28th.

THE Government will disburse $41,500,000 during the next two months for called bonds, interest and pensions

THE differences between Kesley and his Motor Company have been adjusted, and he is authorized to build his engine.

FOR the first time in two years the weekly death reports in Chicago last week showed no deaths caused by small-pox.

THERE were 12,821,359 men of voting age (21 and upwards) in the United States in 1880. according to the official census figures.

THE highest price paid for fat hogs ($9.25, per cwt.) for twenty-two years, was reached in Chicago during the dog-days of this year.

THE Illinois oats crop of this year is estimated at one hundred million bushels, on an acreage of about two and one-half million acres.

IT is said that the wheat crop of England, this year, will be less in quntity and worse in quality than the average for the last five years.

THE census gives South Carolina a voting population of 205,780, of whom 118,890 are colored, and 86,900 are white men, the colored majority being 31,999.

THE sending of medical women from England to India is likely to be an established custom. The Indian women are averse to treatment by physicians not of their own sex.

THE Canadian authorities are expelling amateur American fisherman from the waters of the Dominion. Fishing even "for fun" by Americans is not permitted without a special license.

THE long strike of the mill-operatives at Cohoes, N. Y., against a 10 per cent. reduction of wages, finally ended by the employes going to work at the reduced schedule. The strikers have lost four months of wages.

THE assessment of real estate in Cook county, Illinois, is $104,823,184; total valuation, $562,880 534 26; total personal property assessment, $24 933,794. The railroad assessment is very small, being only $794,325.

MANY houses and much other property have been swept away by a great flood in the Colorado river in Texas. At Fort Concho and Benficklin, nearly all the buildings were washed away and forty-five lives were lost.

BY the sinking of an artesian well near the city limits, it has been discovered that underlying the city of St. Paul, Minn., is a vast deposit of iron ore, highly magnetic and of superior quality. As far as tested, the bed of mineral is known to be at least forty-two feet in thickness.

THE total wheat acreage of this country may be estimated at nearly or fully 40,000,000, and the average product at nearly or fully fifteen bushels, making a total yield of possibly 600,000,000 bushels, and certainly 550,000,000 this year. That is an enormous crop. No other country ever matched it.

SOME Mormon emissaries have been at work in Cleveland county, N. C., endeavoring to make proselytes to their faith. On Saturday a meeting of citizens was held at which resolutions were passed ordering the Mormon missionaries to leave the State at once. Unless they take the advice thus summarily given they will be roughly handled.

THE latest advices from the isolated island kingdom of Corea deny the report that the revolutionists who have risen against the new policy of admitting foreigners to trade in that country had killed the King, but announce the killing of the Queen, her son, and thirteen Government Ministers. The revolt, it would seem, is directed especially against trade with Japan, and the Japanese were, at last accounts, preparing for an aggressive war against the Coreans.

THE sales of public lands by the Government, for cash, during the fiscal year 1880 81, amounted to 1,578,617 acres. The sales for the fiscal year 1881-82 amounted to 3,699 800 acres of agricultural lands alone, to which should be added sales of 87,064 acres under the Mineral Land act, and 166,065 acres under the Desert Land act, and 7,194 acres of coal lands. The homestead entirely last year covered 5,028,100 acres, while for the fiscal year just closed there was taken under this act the enormous area of 7,347,720 acres.

SOME figures have been published to show the importance of our export trade in meats. The shipping of live animals to Great Britain, as well as of fresh dressed beef, is a matter of only a few years' growth. During the week ended August 12, there were sent from Montreal, Boston, New York, and Halifax, 2,891 head of cattle, 10,558 sheep, 4,400 quarters of beef, and 427 carcasses of mutton. Two-thirds of the dressed beef went from Boston, nearly half of of the cattle and half of the sheep from Montreal, and most of the remainder of each from Boston. Liverpool, London, and Glasgow divided the receipts.

REPRESENTATIVES of the Mexican government at Washington, are informed that work upon the new Mexican railway system connecting the City of Mexico and the entire republic with the United States will now be pushed forward rapidly. The bonds of the company are guaranteed by the republic of Mexico, and $10 000,000 worth of them have recently been negotiated in England. The commissioners sent to make the sale came back with the money in their pockets, and the remainder they expect to obtain in a few months. The road is now ready for the rails for a distance of 200 miles north of the City of Mexico, and at that end the rails will soon be laid as far as Monterey. It is expected that the road will be completed and trains running from New York to the City of Mexico by about the end of the year 1883.

AN item going the rounds says: "At Carlisle, Penn., is located one of the three government schools for Indian boys and girls. There are now 188 boys and ninety-six girls at the institution, under Captain Pratt, who has had twenty years experience teaching the young Indian idea how to shoot. These children come from thirty different tribes, and are receiving a good English education and industrial training. The goods made in the shops last year were valued at $6,333. The girls are taught to cut out garments, sew and cook, and an Indian newspaper is published and printed by the boys. Schools like this, if munltiplied to accomodate all the Indian children, would in a quarter of a century solve the Indian problem. There would be few wild or semi-wild Indians to give any trouble."

THE NEWS

Home Items.

John Redden, colored, was hanged at New Castle, Del., for rape.

Postmasters in Texas have been ordered to fumigate the mails before forwarding.

E. Clayton, living near Statesville, N. C., was shot and killed by his wife, who imagined he was a burglar.

There are now 5,801 miles of railroad in Missouri, 150 miles having been built in that State so far this year.

The leading importers of dry goods at New York report a steady increase in the demand for silks, cashmeres and velvets.

The Postoffice Department, besides being self-sustaining the past year, will have $1,000,000 surplus to put into the Treasury.

A congregation forcibly took a distasteful minister from the pulpit at Brownsville, Ga., and carried him out of the church.

The Australian cricketers,, now in England, will visit the United States and Canada, and try results with the crack elevens.

Postoffice inspecters have arrested Postmaster Pennington, of Rocky Mountain, N. C., for mail robbery to the amount of $2,000.

The amount thus far received as subscriptions to the proposed monument to the late President Garfield at the National capital is $15,000.

Ex-Governor Sprague yet threatens dire results to trespassers on the Conochet estate. Trustee Chaffee has appealed to the courts.

The number of immigrants who arrived in the United States during the month of July was 65,010; same month last year, 56,807.

The corrected census of Ohio shows that in 1880 the voting population consisted of 613,485 natives and 161,866 foreigners, and 11,706 colored.

Bishop's Opera House at Red Oak, Iowa, was burned Monday night. The baggage belonging to the Robert McWade company was consumed.

Lieutenant Flipper, who had recently been dismissed from the United States army, has been appointed to a captaincy in the Mexican forces.

The cotton crop of Texas, though twenty-five days late, will be above an average yield should dry weather prevail during September and October.

AFTER a bitter contest over the question, the managers of the Milwaukee Exposition have decided that the show shall not be opened on Sundays.

This has been a bad fishing season for Newfoundland fishermen, and the people dependent on the product of the ocean for a livehood are gloomy and despondent.

The Porter Guards of Memphis, took the first prize of $1,000 at the Dubuque military encampment, and the Branch Guards of St. Louis were awarded the second prize, $500.

The trot for the special purse of $3,000 at Hartford between Edwin Thorne and Clingstone was won by the former. Many noted turfmen witnessed the contest.

Mrs. Honey, of Thetford, Mich., drowned herself and her 5-year-old child in a wash-tub because the latter had become a helpless cripple through the ravages of measles.

General William T. Sherman will ask to be placed on the retired list of the army in November, 1883. He would be retired under the army compulsory act on February 8, 1884.

A new type of fever which puzzles the physicians has broken out in the knitting works at Little Falls, N. Y. Four persons have died from the disease, and twenty-eight are ill,

Miss Rochila Blair, aged 18, whose father, Colonel Blair, was recently killed in a political quarrel by Captain Hale, committed suicide at Columbia, S. C., by means of strychnine.

Matthew Millard, a wealthy merchant at Palo, Michigan, has been arrested on the charge of poisoning his wife, who died last May. There is said to be a scandal connected with the affair.

Colonel W. D. Waits, well known in the Southwest, who recently started from Arkansas, with $27,000 on his person, for the purpose of establishing a sheep ranch in New Mexico, is believed to have been murdered.

In a quarrel over cards at Mountainsburg, Ark., Frank Lane disemboweled David Pope and fatally stabbed Tom Simcoe. Lane was captured by a mob, and it is supposed has been lynched.

Bertha Greer, a little girl, was burned up in the residence of Jeff Kirkland, at Pearson, Ga., Saturday night. Her sister was heroically rescued by a man named McDonald.

Colonel John E. Tourtelotte, of General Sherman's staff, has been detailed to accompany the Marquis of Lorne on his trip across this country. The Governor General will be accompanied by the Princess Louise and suite.

Almost $10,000 has been raised in Logan county Illinois as a reward for the apprehension of the butchers of farmer McMahon and his hired men at Mount Pulaski. The detectives have failed as yet to strike a clew.

Charles Sperry, a boarding-house proprietor at Brookfield, Mass., attempted to poison his family and nine boarders, but the poison was fortunately discovered in time to prevent damage.

The four German expeditions to the American continent to view the transit of Venus will be stationed, respectively, in Connecticut, South Carolina. Costa Rica, and the Straits of Magellan They will soon embark at Hamburg.

Mr. Anton C. Hesing, the foremost German citizen of Chicago, known as "Boss" Hesing, was murdered by his servant, while in New Mexico, on his way to silver mines in which he had fine prospects of retrieving a broken fortune.

THE Cleveland Leader says the Cincinnati brewers have subscribed $50,000 to assist the Democracy in Ohio in the coming campaign. These are Pendleton's civil service reformers.

Captain Brackett, special agent of the Treasury, has reported on the charges preferred against Appraiser Howard, of the New York Custom House, most of which are sustained.

Three American prospectors were found dead in the Sonora Valley, Mexico. It is believed they were murdered by the natives, who, however, charge the Apaches with the crime.

The Bureau of Construction at the Navy Department are busily engaged upon drawings and plans for the two new steel cruisers provided for in the naval appropriation bill recently passed by Congress.

James McGinnis confessed to the police of Brockville, Ont., that five years ago he and two others murdered three men in England. The crime so preyed on his mind that it made life unendurable, and he decided to surrender.

"Plunger" Walton, and Donohue, the jockey, have begun suits for libel at New York against Mr. Kelley, who charged the pair with "collusion" at the Long Branch meeting. Walton wants $50,000 and Donohue $10,000.

Mont Robbins, whose father, ex-Congressman William Robbins, was assaulted by L. Mott, at Statesville, N. C., on account of a bitter political speech, went to Iredell county, where Mott lived and killed Mott for the attack on his father.

The body of Fred Smith, a young German, was found hanging to a tree near Marshall, Texas, on Saturday morning. Near by on another limb he had hung his boots, in one of which was a flask of whisky. He had been missing two weeks.

Arthur Brooks, of Washington, Indiana, fired four bullets into Dr. Gause Tuesday night, because the Doctor informed Brooks' wife that her husband was intimate with another woman. Brooks quietly left the village for parts unknown.

The announcement is made that there is a deficit in the funds of the Chautauqua Baptist Association, a shortage of $2,000 having already been developed, while some declare it will reach not less than $10,000. The Secretary, who is also a Director, is held responsible.

In Sergeant Mason's case, Judge Advocate General Swaim adheres to the legal opinion expressed in his original report, that the proceedings of the court-martial which tried Mason were irregular, and that his confinement under its sentence is illegal.

The free-thinkers, in convention at Watkins, N. Y., formulated a series of resolutions denunciatory or ecclesiastical power, lauded the march of liberalism, assulting Christianity, indorsed the ri hts of labor, and petitioned for help to erect a Liberal orphan's home.

The Rev. Charles Bentley, an evangelist at Baltimore, has fallen from grace, and there is much excitement in the congregation over which he is pastor. An unexpected and illegitimate addition to the population of his flock has caused all the trouble.

Red Cloud has given the Interior Department sixty days's notice that unless the agent at Pine Ridge is removed, he will undertake to perform that office by force. Major Summer thinks something should be done in the premises, as the rebellious savage's following is quite large.

Ella Pennick, eighteen years of age, living a few miles west of Topeka, Kansas, on Tuesday, not feeling very well, went to her trunk to get some quinine, and, by mistake, got hold of a paper containing face powder. She took quite a large dose, and died from the effects of the poison.

The leader of the robbers of the Kewanee bank was arrested at St. Louis in the person of James S. Scott, a dentist, who made a confession implicating Pratt, the cashier at the time of the robbery, who is also in custody. The detectives are confident of recovering all the money stolen.

John Palmer, school teacher in the town of Glen, Montgomery county, N. Y., an acknowledged pietist, and possessed of the confidence of the community, has fled from the village, after attempting to outrage the persons of two girls of tender years. Tom O'Mahon is in jail at Madison, Mo., for a similar offense against a child of 5 years.

The Philadelphia and Reading railroad and the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Companies have executed a mortgage on their property of all descriptions for $160,000,000, under which 5 per cent consols will be issued, the proceeds of which will be used to redeem all other outstanding obligations of the companies.

An Indian Territory special says thirteen prisoners, taken during the Sands rebellion in the Creek Nation, have just been found guilty and punished with one hundred lashes on the bare back. Chief Chicote refused to pardon the rebels, although there were large petitions for clemency. Two or three culprits almost fainted; the majority exhibited iron nerve.

The gas well, struck at Bloomington, Ill., is to be utilized in furnishing gas to the city. It has been piped, and furnishes gas at a pressure (in a two-inch pipe) of eighty-three pounds. The gas burns with a fine, bright light, and with intense heat, and is supposed to be almost pure hydrogen.

Rioting occurred at Augusta, Me., Saturday, when the Deputy Sheriff attempted to seize sixty-two cases of beer illegally brought into the State by an express company, and addressed to fictitious parties. Bricks and stones were thrown at the teamsters engaged to carry off the beer, and many persons were hurt. The offensive liquid was seized on complaint of Soshea Nye, a local temperance advocate.

The Utah Commission have appointed their county registration officers under the Edmunds bill. The majority are not Mormons, but some of the latter are given charge of counties The Commissioners appear to be inclined to avoid offending the brethren as much as possible, and the opinions of leading Mormons are given great weight. They also so far rule out all points which would involve any radical change, and apparently wish to permit everything to go on as far in the old way as possible.

Foreign.

Specie payments will not be resumed in Italy until next April.

A fresh outbreak of the outrages on Jews is reported from the interior of Poland.

It is now stated that the uncle of the late King of Corea has seized upon the throne.

The poet Tennyson indorses the project to place a bust of Longfellow in Westminister Abbey.

One hundred and eleven Russian refugees were sent back to Liverpool from Philadelphia Wednesday morning.

And now comes a report from Berlin intimating the coronation of the Czar of Russia will not take place before May next.

A hailstorm in the vicinity of Pesth, Hungary, destroyed vineyards and cornfields, wrecked houses, and killed many workman.

The Russian Emperor has sanctioned the laws of the Moscow Society, whose project is the developement of cotton-growing in Central Asia.

In accordance with the wish of Chas. Stewart Parnell, the remains of Miss Fannie Parnell will be interred in America.

The Siberian plague is spreading alarmingly in portions of European Russia. One death from the disease is reported at Odessa.

Within twenty days, at Yokohama, there have been 572 deaths from cholera. The death rate from the disease at Tokio is about fifty daily.

The crops in Hungary have been so productive that there will be a surplus of 15,450,000 centals of wheat and rye after deducting the amount necessary for consumption.

The corporation of the city of Cork has condemned the sentence passed upon E. Dyer Gray, demands his release, and resolved to confer upon him the freedom of their city.

The Egyptian war has had an injurious effect on the lumber trade of Canada, causing an advance in ocean freights, lessening the number of craft calling at Quebec for deals, and thus causing an accumulation of stocks.

A committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church reported to the general conference, at Montreal, approving the efforts being made to merge the Methodist churches into one united Methodism for British America, and recommending that a committee be appointed to confer with committees from other Methodist bodies to negotiate the union, if possible.

THE STATE.

Charles Andress, an alleged election repeater of Madison, has been declared insane and taken to the asylum.

Mackey & Amoss, of Wabash, have bought the entire issue, $71,050, of the turnpike bonds of Wabash county. They paid a premium of $1,900 on the lot.

The body of George Hill, the old Quaker gentleman of Richmond, was found floating in Thistlethwaite's pond, where he had thrown himself on account of grief for the loss of a favorite son.

The new court house at Warsaw is nearly ready for the roof. The estimated cost is $185,000, and the building has been brought to its present advanced condition by an expenditure of only $74,000.

Aunt Fannie Walker, colored, of Madison, fell dead on Lower Fifth street, Tuesday evening. She was about one hundred years old, and was well known among members of the Presbyterian church.

Joseph Kreatner, of Decatur, married another woman recently. The remarkable portion of the matter is that Joe has buried seven wives already. He is fifty-seven years of age, and a cabinet-maker by trade.

Miss Anna E. Fowler, who sustained the loss of one hand by the accident on the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago railroad near Bedford, in June last, has been paid $5,000 cash by the company, to save a lawsuit.

Shelbyville claims the distinction o having the oldest living native-born Hoosier, in the person of Mr. Isaac H. Wilson, who is seventy-five years and two months old, and was born and always lived in Indiana.

A boy named John Long, aged thirteen years, who lives near the Prison South, Jeffersonville, had a frightful fall from the top of the bridge, eighty-five feet to the river below, and escaped without injury. The water was only two feet deep over the ledge.

The Gas Committee of the Evansville City Council report that the gas company have wrongfully charged for 10 per cent. more gas than has been used during the last seven years, and the Council passed a resolution to pay no more gas bills till the $19,000 overcharge shall have been made up.

During the first heat of a pacing race at the Russellville fair, Saturday, Mrs. Mahala Tippen, of Portland Mills, ninety years old, was run over by one of the horses, and fatally injured. Her collar-bone was broken and she was injured internally. She died the same night in great agony. The track was not fenced.

A colored girl named Katie Johnson, daughter of "Rev. Dr. Johnson," of Madison, was sitting in the doorway a few days ago, and her mother desired to pass out. The girl wouldn't move and her mother pushed her feet out of the way, whereupon the daughter jumped up and struck her mother in the eye, and, it is thought, destroyed the sight of it entirely.

The wife of John Miley, of Newtown, ninteen miles from Crawfordsville, quarreled with her sister in-law, knocked her down stairs with a hatchet and after gashing her throat, ran into the street and reported that her sister-inlaw had committed suicide. The woman regained her senses and exposed the fight.

The State Department of Public Instruction has completed some interesting statistics with regard to the number of teachers in the State, as follows: Male teachers, number licensed for twenty-four months, 966; for eighteen months, 1,238; for twelve months, 2,639; for six months, 2,310. Female teachers, number licensed for twenty-four months, 498; for eighteen months, 846; for twelve months, 2,217; for six months, 2,410. Total number of male teachers licensed during the year, 7,163; female, 5,971. Total number licensed during the year, 13,044. Number of applicants rejected, 9,278. Number of licenses revoked, 82. Number now holding licenses in the State, 15,388. Average number required to supply schools, 11,850. Wells county is not included in the above statement. These statistics show that women do not successfully compete with men for the long term licenses.

AT Oxford, Benton county, on the evening of the 29th a boy named Edward Forbes came home wet, and explained to his mother that he had fallen into the creek, whereupon she petulantly said he ought to have stayed there. A few moments afterward the boy got a revolver and shot himself through the heart.

Why He Quit Preaching.

Arkansas Traveler.

"I understand, Uncle Amos, that you have quit preaching," said the Secretary of State to an old colored man who for years has had charge of a church in Little Rock.

"Yes, boss, I'se stepped aside.'

"Why did you quit?"

"Wall, dar was numerous pressures brought to bar agin de old man. Da charged me wid stealin' a ham for one thing, and 'vised me ter quit."

"Why, they couldn't prove that you stole the ham, could they?"

"No, sah, da couldn't, an' ef I hadn't 'knowledged it da neber would have prubed it."

"Why did you acknowledge it?"

"Case da found de ham under my bed, sah."

TABLE TALK.

Kansas has a state debt of $1,000,000.

An umbrella is either put up or shut up.

Vanderbilt has 11 $10,000 horses at Saratoga.

Poets are born. In later years they become bores.

Mrs. Garfield is said to be growing gray and stout.

A Pittsburgh pie factory turns out 3,000 pies daily.

The tax rate in Boston this year is $15.10 per $1,000.

The Turkish minister at Washington is not a Turk, but a Greek.

The highest military rank in the Swiss army is that of Colonel.

Joseph Cook says conscience is that which perceives "oughtness."

A five mile bed of buckwheat blooms beside a Berks county railway.

A Vicksburg editor talks of a politician "getting on rim of his asinine ear."

A stalk of grass is exhibited at Fort Dodge, Ia., which is over twenty feet long.

Last year Texas imported corn, but this year will have 50,000,000 bushels to sell.

It is an easy matter for a stern parent to forget that he was once a boy himself.

A young Virginian has invented a machine which turns out 150 cigarettes per minute.

The "two hearts that beat," if we are rightly informed, were the right bower and ace.

It is said that nearly every American author sends his book to Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes.

A cloud, seen in Guatemala for eight consecutive days, was found to consist of seeds floating in the air.

Thomas G. Jones, of Emporia, Kas., now languishes in a dungeon cell for marrying his granddaughter.

The total number of journals published in France is 3,272, being 1,343 in Paris, and 1,936 in the provinces.

The statue and monument to Calhoun, soon to be erected in Charleston, S. C., is hastening to completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage at Cleveland on the 10inst.

There are so many snakes in Chester county, Pa., that laborers are demanding double pay to gather the harvest.

When a man goes to bed with his shoes on his wife is justified in believing that his understanding is impaired.

Mrs. Schuyler Colfax wants her husband to again enter public life and vindicate himself. She is fond of Washington society.

The smallest circular saw in practical use is a tiny disc about the size of a dime, which is employed for cutting the slits in gold pens.

A Jersey veteran is claiming a pension and seventeen years' arrears on the ground of "chronic laziness, contracted in the army."

In portions of Texas the planters fear that the cotton stalks will not be able to stand under the great number of bolls forming on them.

Senator Joseph E. Brown, of Georgia, is the largest of Atlanta's taxpayers. He owns $268,400 of real and $66,000 of personal estate.

A Milwaukee man sews a brass button on his coat every time a great man dies. His garment has not yet attracted any great attention.

A hotel clerk at Grand Rapids has eloped with the cook. A man may have the most gorgeous diamond and still have a weakness for pie.

Euclid avenue Cleveland, is lighted by electricity, at a cost of over four times as much as gas. There is more light, but it is very expensive.

Wilhelmina Rousseau, known to all Philadelphia as a beggar, accumulated about $15 000 in five years, and has returned to Belgium with a fortune.

No one longs to be a policeman in Morgan City, La. They only pay $15 a month for the job in city warrants that bring but 35 cents on the dollar.

The new signal station on Pike's Peak will cost $4,000. All the material for its construction will have to be packed fifteen miles up an incline of 8,000 feet.

The Pittsburgh man who killed a $25 dog to recover a $10 bill which he supposed the animal ate, didn't feel so very bad over it until he found the bill in his vest pocket.

Secretary Lincoln, in discussing the exclusion of women from the departments, admitted that senators and representatives had secured them positions for immoral purposes.

At last Gilbert Burns Begg, the grandson of Robert Burns, who has long been in want, has been removed from Glasgow City poor-house, and placed in comfortable quarters.

Joseph Arch, the spokesman of the English farm laborers who desire political power, has been selected as their candidate for parliament at the next parliamentary election by the Hull Radical Club.

The oldest vessel afloat is a ship of 300 tons called the True Love. She is over 100 years old, and is a merchant ship in active duty, sailing under the English flag. Her course must have run tolerably smooth.

Ocean Grove, which cost the Methodists $22,000 ten years ago, has now an assessed value of $3,000,000. The proprietors have created a sensation, it is said, by refusing to allow any other denomination to build a church on the premises.

The stealer of a horse in Minnesota could not find a saddle, and took a sack of feathers to ride on. The sack had a hole, the feathers were slowly strewn along the road for twenty miles, and by means of them the rascal was hunted down.

It is said that fifteen dynamite manufactories now under the control of M. Nobel (the man who introduced nitroglycerine in its various forms into public use) turn out about 5,000 tons a year. In this country and in Europe it is estimated that the production of explosives containing nitro-glycerine is between 7,000 and 8,000 tons a year, and this quantity has the energy of at least 45,000 tons of ordinary gunpowder.

FROM THE WIRES.

Port Said, August 28.—Some Bedouins arrived here from Cairo report the inhabitants there calm, but the military excited. The latter burned Nubar Pasha's house.

Port Said, August 29.—Last evening the Arabs attacked the British position at Kassasin, and were repulsed with heavy loss. The British lost 120 men, and 11 of the enemy's guns were captured.

Yokohama, August 11.—About 5 o'clock on the evening of July 23, an organized body of insurgents took possession of the main thoroughfares in Seoul, the capital of Corea, and attacked the royal residence and the Japanese Legation. The latter Envoy and Consul escaped with some twenty followers, and made their way to the palace for protection, but found it already in possession of the rioters. They then retreated to Jinsen, a port fifteen miles distant, being repeatedly assailed on the way. Four were killed, three wounded and several are missing. The survivors, among whom were the Envoy and the Consul, reached a British surveying ship in the neighborhood. Arriving at Nagasaki, the Japanese ship of war was ordered to Corea to rescue the imperiled Japanese and obtain information as to the cause of the outbreak, but to avoid discussion or dispute. The vessel returned August 4, announcing that the Japanese at Seoul had probably been slaughtered, and that the capital was in a state of anarchy. Of the royal inmates of the palace, the King alone was spared; his Queen was murdered; his heir and the latter's betrothed, both children, were poisoned.

Thirteen ministers of state and other high dignitaries were slain. The proceedings are said to have been directed by ex-Regent Tai in-Kun, by some pronounced to be the father, and by others the uncle of the King. He has always been a violent opponent of foreign intercourse. Whether he assumed control of Government or not, is not yet known.

At the ports of Tu-San and Gensan there has been no disturbance.

Calcutta, August 28.—Fearful rioting between Hindoos and Mohammedans has occurred at Salem. Three Mohammedans have been arrested. Corpses of Mohammedan men, women and children are lying on all sides.

Alexandria, August 29.—The enemy are still strengthening their left. They sent out an armed train again last evening. The man-of-war Minotaur shifted her position to about a thousand yards nearer Aboukir.

General Wood has gone to reconnoiter Meks.

The report of the death of Toulba Pasha is confirmed.

Toulba Pasha was poisoned.

Alexandria, August 29.—Slight skirmishing has taken place to-day at Ramleh.

London, August 29.—Other advices received in London confirm the report of a battle with and the repulse of the enemy at Kassasin. The fighting took place by moonlight. The British loss is from 120 to 150 men.

Constantinople, August 29.—Earl Dufferin had not received a reply from Lord Granville, to whom he submitted the Porte's acceptance of the military convention. It is considered doubtful in diplomatic circles whether Granville will agree to the acceptance by the Porte, as the latter had been several times warned that it might be too late.

A German officer in the Turkish service was present at the sitting of the councils when the signature of the military conventions was finally discussed, and he advised the acceptance of the English proposals.

London, August 29.—The new Monarch Line steamer Grecian] Monarch arrived from Hull yesterday. She will probably be employed as a troop ship.

London, August 30.

General Wolseley telegraphs from his cavalry headquarters, Mahsameh Camp, Tuesday, that only the Household Cavalry and the Seventh Dragoon Guards were seriously engaged in the fight at Kassassin Lock. The former had three troopers killed and eight wounded. Major Townsend received a saber cut. The Guards had two troopers wounded.

Port Said, August 31.—Arabi Pasha has asked for an eight day's armistice. General Wolseley refused, but offered one day. Nothing, however, will be done for several days unless Arabi again forces our hands.

Alexandria, August 31.—The Highland brigade sails from here this afternoon. Trains from Ramleh now only run about 500 yards beyond the water works, and many residents living beyond that limit are returning into the city. The enemy continue intrenching opposite Meks.

Constantinople, August 31.—Evidence abounds that the Turkish population is favorable to Arabi Pasha. The Vakit announces that a great victory has been won by Arabi. The Djeride states the British loss at 4,000 in the fight at Ramleh. Other lying reports are industriously circulated.

Ismailia, August 31.—There are now about 300 sick and wounded British troops in the hospital here.

It is reported here on good authority that on Tuesday the Governor of Zagazig asked permission to cross the British lines, and was taken under guard to General Wolseley. He has since been in frequent communication with Sultan Pasha. The report adds that the Governor is authorized by Arabi Pasha to sue for armistice as a preliminary to surrender.

Kassassin, September 1.—During a reconnoissance yesterday a freshly-entrenched camp was discovered ten miles from here.

Alexandria, September 1.—Forty seamen from the ironclad Minotaur and a company of the Fifty-third regiment quietly approached the position of the enemy opposite Ramleh, last evening, and succeeded in blowing up with gun-cotton a house on the canal which had long been a point of vantage to the enemy's sharp-shooters.

Port Said, September 1.—The transports from Alexandria with the Highland brigade on board, have arrived here and proceeded down the canal.

Vienna, September 1.—All the Greek forces in Macedonia have been ordered to concentrate on the frontier.

Athens, September 1.—It is stated that the Powers have advised an armistice between Turkish and Greek troops, and Greece is willing to agree to the proposition, if the Greek troops are allowed to continue to occupy the positions held before the fighting.

Constantinople, September 1.—The Porte has resolved to surrender the disputed point on the frontier on condition that it is declared neutral territory.

Dublin, September 1.—The coast guard at Wicklow, on the eastern coast of Ireland, telegraphs that the British steamer Lake Nepigon, from Liverpool yesterday to Montreal, is aground on Arklow bank. One boat, containing part of the crew and a number of passengers of the steamer, arrived at Wicklow this morning. Five boats yet missing. The steamer will probably prove a total loss.

London, September 1.—The chief officer of the Lake Nepigon telegraphs that the steamer had on board twenty-three saloon, seventy-nine steerage passengers, and a crew numbering fifty-three.

Dublin, September 1.—Over 300 Metropolitan police have been dismissed. It is expected that hundreds will resign. There is great excitement in the city. All the police stations are occupied by strong guards of military.

A special from Taylorville, Christian county, Ill., speaking of the victim of the school-house outrage, says: "Miss Emma Bond was resting quietly at midnight, but the attending physicians agree that she has a poor chance to recover, and her death is expected to occur within a few days. It was thought once yesterday she was dead, respiration having ceased for a while. She has been at times unconscious, and once or twice was found to be raving. On one of these occasions her former statement about the outrage made to the Prosecuting Attorney, and detailed every circumstance, without varying in the least from the written statement. While in this condition she made some remarks that reflect very seriously upon one of the prisoners.

"Mr. Bond says he has within the past week obtained some new and valuable testimony, and is now more firmly convinced than ever that he has the right parties. Elliott R. Hobbs still remains in confinement, though he has shown conclusively that he was at Mitchell, seventy-five miles away, on the night the assault was committed. Although bonds have been perfected for Montgomery, Pettis and Clementi, they prefer the shelter of the jail to freedom. It is hardly probable, however, even if the girl dies, that a mob will again attempt to lynch the prisoners."

A Detroit dispatch says:

Coup's circus, after making a brave stand against adverse circumstances, has finally gone to pieces in this city. Attachments to the amount of $25,000 representing the claims of employes and others have been put on it here, and the whole concern is in the hands of the Seriff. Coup has abandoned all attempts to hold the exhibition together. About 200 employes are thrown out of employment.

Mrs. Charles Honey, of Thetford whose drowning of herself and a 5-year-old child in a wash-tub has been already reported, it is now ascertained, was impelled to the terrible deed by the fact that the child has recently been made a helpless cripple for life, through the terrible ravages of measles. The mother's distress over the sad fate awaiting her only child drove her to the commission of the terrible deed.

Kewanee, Ill., dispatch:

Welch, the arrested robber of the bank at this place, is en route and will arrive here this afternoon in custody of an officer.

Pratt, the acting cashier of the bank, was arrested to-day for complicity in the robbery by the robbers, while his lady assistant was badly injured. Pratt has been an intimate acquaintance of Welch, and has been suspected from the first. A carpet-bag containing $800 in silver was found to-day in a corn-field.

An important clue has just been obtained concering Welch's companion in the bank robbery, and it is expected he will be captured before night fall by the detectives. Sufficient evidence has been obtained, it is believed, to not only implicate acting Cashier Pratt, of the bank, but to point to him as the man who planned the robbery.

It seems that Pratt was not the Cashier, but was acting for the Cashier proper, who is a wealthy man, and did not care to be bothered with the duty of counting the cash.

New Orleans, La., special.

Tom Smith, a prominent mulatto of New Orleans just buried, had ten wives living at once. One recently died. There were seven at the funeral, weeping over his remains. Three rode to the cemetery, and four remained at the house and fought over the property. All were damaged. He was married each time by a Baptist minister.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., dispatch:

Last night James Crumler, from Hamilton, and his wife, both intoxicated, lay down near the bank of the river. This morning the woman was found caught in a tree ten feet over the edge of the bank, and the man's mangled remains were on the rocks 150 feet beneath.

Superintendent Thompson, of the Railway Mail Service, is making a tour of inspection of routes through the West. He will, before returning, meet the Postmaster-General and consult with him regarding the establishment of fast mail facilities throughout the West.

On October 1, Lansing (Mich.) Post-office will be free delivery.

Jamestown, Mich., dispatch:

Mrs Garfield, mother of the late President, and her daughter, Mrs. Larrabee, and Mrs. Larrabee's son, have been here a week, visiting at the residence of Thomas Garfield, a brother of the General. Grandma Garfield is in her 81st year, but can read rapidly and correctly without the use of glasses.

Speaking of Guiteau, she said she felt not the slightest compunction when his execution day arrived but many a time had felt as though he ought to have been hanged a thousand times, as a warning to others seeking for notoriety and to teach them that the wrongful taking of life will certainly be avenged. Referring to President Arthur, she said that he was very kind to her, and as far as she was capable of judging, she thought he was doing very well considering the circumstances under which he was inaugurated. Alluding to Mrs. Garfield, the President's wife, her mother said that she had been very well during the summer, and that she was at present on the farm at Mentor.

The mother is very justly proud of her son. She enjoys meeting people and is perfectly free in conversing about her son's life. She seems proud of her family, and often refers to Thomas as the main foundation of their existence during the early life of James.

Thomas Garfield is now 60 years of age. He says he was often called upon by his mother to convey James on his back through the snow for months to the country school house, several miles from his mother's farm. He enjoys repeating the early experiences of his brother's life.

A Cincinnati dispatch:

The Price Current of this city, to-day, publishes reports from the hog growing districts of the United States, and says that in the supply available for winter marketing there is an average decrease of 10 and 20 per cent. in all the States, except Minnesota and Wisconsin, compared with last year. For the last half of the winter the supply will be better, and while winter packing may fall 10 per cent. below last year, there will be full supplies for spring and summer packing in 1883.

Richmond, Va., dispatch.

On the night of December 23, 1881, the store of J. B. Prince, of Green Plains, Southampton county, was burned, and two clerks, John Murrell and Thomas Glover, who slept in the building lost their lives. Subsequent developments showed that the young men had been murdered and the store robbed and set on fire. A negro named Emmett Cloud was arrested, tried, and found guilty, but the jury, which was composed of eight white and four negoes, failed to agree on the punishment. The white men were in favor of hanging, while the blacks were for imprisonment for life. The accused was remanded to jail to await a second trial in November next. Since his confinement he has been sick with consumption, and yesterday, knowing his disease would terminate fatally, made a full confession of the crime. He died Wednesday.

Iowa City, Iowa, dispatch:

The burning of the new City Hall is now known to have been the work of an incendiary. The fire was started in an upper room, and combustibles must have been used. The building was largely fire proof. A party of tramps recently liberated from the cooler of the Hall are suspected. The insurance is $10,000, in the following companies: Niagra, $2,000; National of Hartford, $2,000; Franklin of Philadelphia, $2,000; Hawkeye of Des Moines, $500; Boston Underwriters', $1,500; New York Alliance, $2,000. The loss will greatly exceed the insurance.

A Boston dispatch:

The British steamer Ardonbahm arrived Thursday from Porto Rico, with a cargo of sugar, reports that yellow fever broke out among the crew shortly after leaving port. One case proved fatal on passage, and three men were sick with the disease up to the arrival. The steamer is at anchor at quarantine.

New Haven, Conn., dispatch.

Chip Smith was executed at 10:30, and met his fate bravely. He was accompanied to the gallows by Sheriff Bixbee, Deputy Sheriffs Catlin and Pond, Fathers McGivney, Mulcahy and Dunn. About 300 persons witnessed the execution. Smith said he would meet his fate like a true soldier of Christ.

The estimated decrease of the public debt for August is about $16,000,000.

A True Soldier of Christ. Killed.

Ishpeming, Mich., September 1.

Two employes at the Cleveland mine were killed at 1 o'clock this morning by a fall of rock. The victims were John Harvey, Sr., who attends to the electric lights, and William Andrews, pit boss. Harvey's cries for help were heard for over half an hour.

A Grain Firm Embarrassed.

Cincinnati, O., September 1.

The firm of Holden & Timberlake, grain dealers, have suspended. Liabilities, $15,000. The matter is before a committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and it is hoped a comprimise may be made. The decline in grain causes the embarrassment.

Fatally Poisoned.

Elgin, Ill., September 1.

Sethfred, a 4 year-old son of Charles Johnson, of Plato township, six miles west of here, was fatally poisoned yesterday, by eating the berries of the wild pea, and died in great agony in a few hours.

Granted an Appeal.

Louisville, Miss, September 1.

F. L. Jones, sentenced to be hanged here to day for the murder of Thomas Jones, last summer, has been granted an appeal to the Supreme Court.

California Republicans.

San Francisco, September 1.

The Republican State convention met at 10 a. m., and elected ex-Senator Booth Permanent President.

Fired by an Incendiary. Soldiers' Reunion in Nebraska.

Grand Island, Neb., September 1.

This is practically the closing day of the soldiers' reunion. Fifty thousand people, 10,000 of whom are veteran soldiers, have visited Camp Lyon during the week. The affair throughout has been a grand success—by all odds the greatest event of the kind ever known west of the Mississippi river. The soldiers now holding the reunion in Nebraska send greeting to their comrades throughout the world.

Speculative to the Last.

Chicago, September 1.

Zenas Webster, a resident of Brazil, Ind., being unsuccessful in grain speculations, ended his troubles by a plunge into the lake this morning. His body was recovered and taken to the morgue.

FASHION NOTES.

The newest color for English "dust cloaks" for traveling and morning shopping is claret red.

Velvet flowers on repped silk will be the most elegant brocades of the Autumn and Winter goods.

Metal threads—gold, silver and bronze—are worn in the new woolen stuffs imported for Autumn.

Some of the models of Parisian dresses have absurdly long-pointed corsages and stiff, hideous panniers.

The hair, to be fashionably dressed, must fall low on the neck in braids or coils, and over the forehead in loose, airy curls or rings.

Ivory white is in such great vogue that satin dresses of this shade are no longer confined to full-dress entertainments, but are imported for visiting costumes.

Red is the favorite color at present for children's frocks. It rivals the white dresses formerly used for little girls, and appears in some guise in almost every toilet of the season.

Arrasene embroidery makes a most stylish trimming for a cashmere dress. It is very quickly done—black upon black, or white upon white, or any self-color produces a very rich effect.

Black velvet dog collars fastened with some rare stone are the fashion of the day, but should be only worn by tall figures who have the swan-like throats that poets dream of. The Princess of Wales, who originates the fashion, has a very long, thin throat, equal to a wide collar.

Handsome and costly buttons are a great feature of walking dresses and traveling costumes, and, as they can be transferred from one dress to another, they are really not extravagant purchases in the end. Tortoise-shell buttons, with crests or monograms in gold, enameled buttons in Mauresque or Florentine styles, are effective, and look well on bottle-green, Havanna, or prune-colored dresses. Wooden and horn buttons are also worn, and small round French gold buttons—"grelots"—with rough surfaces, are plentifully used on bodices, cuffs and pockets. Jet mosaic buttons, with monograms inlaid in jet or colored grounds and a jet border, are thoroughly elegant.

It is said that in London a prize has been offered for the best design for a civilian's overcoat.

GREAT GERM DESTROYER
DARBY'S
Prophylactic Fluid.

SMALL POX ERADICAT'D

Contagion destroyed. Sick Rooms purified and made pleasant. Fever and sick persons relieved and refreshed by bathing with Prophylactic Fluid, added to the water.
Soft White Complexions secured by its use in bathing.
Impure Air made harmless and purified by sprinkling Darby's Fluid about.
To purify the Breath, Cleanse the Teeth, it can't be surpassed.
Catarrh relieved and cured.
Erysipelas cured.
Burns relieved instantly.
Scars prevented.
Removes all unpleasant odors.

SCARLET FEVER CURED.

Pitting of SMALL POX Prevented.

Ulcers purified and healed.
Gangrene prevented and cured.
Dysentery cured.
Wounds healed rapidly.
Scurvey cured in a short time.
Tetter dried up.
It is perfectly harmless.
For Sore Throat it is a sure cure.

DIPTHERIA PREVENTED.

Cholera dissipated.
Ship Fever prevented by its use.
In case of death in the house, it should always be used about the corpse—it will prevent any unpleasant smell.
An Antidote for Animal or Vegetable Poisons, Stings, &c.
Dangerous effluvia of sick rooms and hospitals removed by its use.
Yellow Fever Eradicated

In fact it is the great
DISINFECTANT AND RECTIFIER
PREPARED BY
J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, Sole Proprietors

Daughters, Wives, Mothers!

DR. J. B. MARCHISI,
UTICA, N. Y.,
Discoverer of DR. MARCHISI'S
UTERINE CATHOLICON,
A POSITIVE CURE FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

This remedy will act in harmony with the Female system at all times, and also immediately upon the abdominal and uterine muscles, and restore them to a healthy and strong condition.

Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon will cure falling of the womb, Lucorrhœa, Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb, Incidental Hemorrhage or Flooding, Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, Kidney Complaint, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. Send for pamphlet free. All letters of inquiry freely answered. Address as above.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price $1.50 per bottle. Be sure and ask for Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon. Take no other.

So F. E. Davenport,

Consult and secure the advantages of DR BUTTS

long experience in curing diseases of the Blood, Skin and Bones.—Nervous Debility, Impotency, Organic Weakness, Gonorrhœa, Syphilitic and Mercurial Affections specially treated on scientific principles, with safe and sure remedies. Call or write for List of Questions to be answered by those desiring treatment by mail. (Persons suffering from Rupture should send their address, and learn something to their advantage. It is not a truss.) Address, DR. BUTTS, 12 N. 8th St., St. Louis, Mo.
ESTABLISHED OVER THIRTY YEARS.

THE DISEASES OF YOUTH and MANHOOD
A GUIDE TO HEALTH WITHOUT MEDICINE.

BY A PHYSICIAN of 25 year's experience. Don't poison your system with Drugs, but get this Book and avoid Quacks, "Prescriptions free" and Electric Belt Humbugs, which it exposes. Price 25cts. Address THE PUBLISHER, Box 234, Milwaukee, Wis.

Parker's Hair Balsam

Satisfies the most fastidious as a perfect Hair Restorer and Dressing. Admired for its cleanliness and elegant perfume. Never Fails to Restore Grey or Faded Hair to the youthful color. 50 cts. and $1 sizes at all druggists.

Get the Best

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

Ginger, Buchu, Mandrake, Stillingia and many of the best medicines known are here combined into a medicine of such varied and effective powers, as to make the Greatest Blood Purifier & the Best Health and Strength Restorer Ever Used.

It cures Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Sleeplessness, all diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, and all Female Complaints.

If you are wasting away with Consumption or any disease, use the TONIC to-day. It will surely help you. Remember! it is far superior to Bitters, Essences of Ginger and other Tonics, as it builds up the system without intoxicating. 50c. and $1 sizes, at all dealers in drugs. None genuine without signature of Hiscox & Co., N. Y. Send for circular.
LARGE SAVING IN BUYING THE DOLLAR SIZE.

IA MAN
WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By the central position of its line, connects the East and the West by the shortest route, and carries passengers, without change of cars, between Chicago and Kansas City, Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, Atchison, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It connects in Union Depots with all the principal lines of road between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. Its equipment is unrivaled and magnificent, being composed of Most Comfortable and Beautiful Day Coaches, Magnificent Horton Reclining Chair Cars, Pullman's Prettiest Palace Sleeping Cars, and the Best Line of Dining Cars in the World. Three Trains between Chicago and Missouri River Points. Two Trains between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, via the Famous

"ALBERT LEA ROUTE."

A New and Direct Line, via Seneca and Kankakee, has recently been opened between Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Augusta, Nashville, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Lafayette, and Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul and intermediate points.

All Through Passengers Travel on Fast Express Trains.

Tickets for sale at all principal Ticket Offices in the United States and Canada.

Baggage checked through and rates of fare always as low as competitors that offer less advantages.

For detailed information, get the Maps and Folders of the

GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE,
At your nearest Ticket Office, or address
R. R. CABLE, Vice-Pres. & Gen'l M'g'r.
E. ST. JOHN, Gen'l Tkt. & Pass. Agt.
CHICAGO.

GET THE BEST!

RATHBONE, SARD & CO.
ACORN
STOVES & RANGES

LEAD ALL OTHERS!
Every Style & Price.
Guaranteed Unequaled
FOR OPERATION,
ECONOMY,
DURABILITY and
WORKMANSHIP.
Improvements and Conveniences found in no others.
Always Reliable.
POPULAR EVERYWHERE.
For Sale in Every City and Town in the United States.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipt for a simple Vegetable Balm that will remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples and Blotches, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, enclosing 3c stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. WILSON, 194 Penn St., Williamsburgh, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence,
JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York.
1yr

KING'S MAGIC TOOTH ACHE CURE

WHOLESALE LIST
TURNIP SEEDS!

MERCHANTS!
SEND US YOUR BUSINESS CARD FOR TRADE LIST.
D. LANDRETH & SONS,
PHILADELPHIA.

DR HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and [illegible] remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any Iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT [illegible]
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. [illegible], 188[illegible]. [illegible] Wash. Av.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC.

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA, SEP 7th, 1882

Democratic State Ticket.

For Secretary of State,
WILLIAM R. MYERS, of Madison.
For Auditor of State,
JAMES H. RICE, of Floyd.
For Treasurer of State,
JOHN J. COOPER, of Marion.
For Attorney General,
FRANCIS T. HORD, of Bartholomew
For Clerk of Supreme Court,
S. P. SHEERIN, of Cass.
For State Superintendent,
JOHN W. HOLCOMBE, of Porter.
For Judge Supreme Court—First dis't
W. E. NIBLACK, of Knox.
Second District,
GEORGE V. HOWK, of Floyd.
Fourth District,
ALLEN ZOLLARS, of Allen.

COUNTY TICKET.
For Congress 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY,
of Allen County.
COUNTY TICKET:
For Representative,
D. D. MOODY.
For Clerk,
D. Y. HUSSELMAN.
For Auditor,
THOMAS H. TOMLINSON.
For Treasurer,
L. J. MILLER.
For Sheriff,
JOHN W. BOYLE.
For Recorder,
JOHN BUTT.
For Surveyor,
J. J. VAN AUKEN.
For Coroner,
J. J. LATSON.
Commissioner North District,
JOSEPH SEWELL.
Southwest District,
CHRISTIAN SHEETS.
Southeast District,
OLIVER H. WIDNEY.

Judicial Convention.

Convention met in Greenback Hall, in Waterloo, and was called to order at 10 a. m., by H. Freygang, of Angola. On motion, Hon. J. B. Stoll was made Chairman; J. A. Barns, Secretary; and Dr. A. S. Parker, Assistant Secretary. Mr. Stoll then proceeded to make a few remarks on the importance of the work the Convention had to do. The following candidates were then placed in nomination for judge: W. H. Dills and L. J. Blair, of DeKalb; Henry G. Zimmerman, of Noble; and Geo. B. Adams, of Steuben county. On motion of Dr. Parker, it was decided to consider the first ballot an informal one. The ballot stood: Dills, 8; Blair, 4; Zimmerman, 14; Adams, 6; Blank, 1.

The first formal ballot stood: Dills, 9; Blair 4; Zimmerman, 14; Adams, 6.

Second ballot stood: Dills 10; Blair, 3; Zimmerman 14; Adams 6.

Third ballot: Dills, 9; Blair 4; Zimmerman, 14; Adams 6.

Fourth ballot: Dills, 10; Blair, 7; Zimmerman, 7; Adams 9.

Zimmerman was then withdrawn.

Fifth ballot: Dills, 13; Blair, 5; Adams, 15.

Sixth ballot: Dills 13; Blair 5; Adams, 15.

Seventh ballot: Dills, 12; Blair, 7; Adams, 14.

Eighth ballot: Dills, 14; Blair, 3; Adams, 16.

Ninth ballot: Dills, 18; Blair, 5; Adams, 10.

Dills was declared nominated.

Motion carried that we proceed to the nomination for Prosecutor. Dr. Parker announced the name of Harry Reynolds, of Noble county. No others being nominated, it was made unanimous. Blair then made a motion to make the nomination of Dills unanimous, as Mr. Adams was not present. Carried. Convention adjourned.

JOINT REPRESENTATIVE CONVENTION.

On motion, J. B. Stoll was made Chairman, and the same secretaries were retained. Judge McClellan read a telegram from Laporte Heefner, asking the Convention to wait till he could arrive on the 8 o'clock train. It was decided by motion to adjourn until 1 o'clock. Convention met at 1 p. m., when Mr. Reynolds was introduced, and made a few remarks, thanking the Convention for the honor done him. Motion made that we endorse the platform adopted by the Democratic State Convention. Carried unanimously. Candidates named for joint representative were William M. Barney and Joseph Zollinger, of Elkhart county. First vote stood: Barney, 15; Zollinger, 5; and John B. Stoll, 7. Mr. Stoll declined. No election. On motion that a majority of the votes as cast should nominate, a second vote was taken. Elkhart did not vote, no delegate but Mr. Barney being present. Motion was made by Moody that inasmuch as Elkhart county is not represented, that we adjourn to meet one week from to-day, at Kendallville, but was withdrawn. A telegram was then read from Laporte Heefner, that their delegates, if any, would be down on train No. 4. After waiting as long as possible for this delegation, the name of Eli B. Gerber, of Ligonier, was announced as a candidate for joint-representative and he was nominated by acclamation. Convention then adjourned.

J. B. Stoll, Pres.
J. A. Barns, Sec'y.

[illegible] November 7 and 8 are the days set [illegible] City.

EDITOR COURIER: The "Butler Record," the organ of the Republican party in DeKalb county, says in its issue of August 25, that "The Democratic State Platform declares in favor of Submission, but that the party is opposed to Prohibition, and then assumes that this declaration authorizes and permits a candidate for the legislature to go before the people and advocate submission during the canvass for election this fall and then after his election to go to the Legislature and vote against submission." Now, believing that a full and free discussion of the subject of the prohibitory amendment sought to be made a part of our constitution cannot but result favorably to the Democratic party, I propose briefly to discuss a few of the important points at issue, and invite attention and candid judgment of the people. The assertion made by the "Record," as above stated, is simply saying this: That a party which is opposed to prohibition, and declares its opposition in a state platform and during the political canvass preceding the election is opposed to submitting the amendments to a vote of the people, even after two legislatures have agreed upon them. Which statement is false in logic and false in fact.

The Democratic party says "That they are opposed to prohibition; that they are opposed to the proposed prohibitory amendment to the constitution for the reason that they, as a party, believe that the great fundamental principle which forms the basis of free government and democratic institutions—the greatest personal liberty consistent with the public good—would be destroyed by the adoption of the amendment.' They declare that the people have the undoubted right to oppose or favor the adoption of this amendment at all stages of its consideration."

How are the people to oppose the said amendment in its present stage? I mean the people who honestly and conscientiously believe that this proposed amendment is wrong and should not become a part of the organic law of the State. All admit that they have the right to favor or oppose any contemplated amendment or change in the constitution. Have they under the constitution no way of opposing this amendment, save they elect two successive legislatures to vote in favor of it so that it might come before the people that they in their boasted sovereign capacity might vote for or against it?

Is this what the wise men of Indiana meant, when they met in convention and gave us the excellent constitution under which we have lived for lo! these many years? Is this what Robert Dale Owen meant when in discussing the provision for amending the constitution he said: "Now, I think if it be made imperative that an amendment proposed to be made to the constitution shall be voted for by two successive legislatures to be elected with reference to that particular subject, the question will be debated before the people, and they will send senators and representatives here with a "special" reference to that question." [I quote from Debates in Indiana Convention, page 1,259.] Is this what Mr. Bariden, a member of the convention, meant when in discussing this question, he said, on page 1,939, of Deb's in Ind. Con. Con.: "If changes be required in the constitution, let the Representatives of the people suggest them, point them out, and let the public voice be heard on the subject, and thus you will have as great a security as is necessary against inconsiderate and hasty changes. Men will be elected in the different counties of the State with a view expressly to such questions or amendment." Is this what the committee of ten members of the constitutional convention, selected to prepare an address to the people, embodying a brief statement interpreting or explaining the intent and meaning of each article of the constitution which they had prepared and were about to submit to the people, so that they might vote intelligently either for or against it, meant, when they said in referring to article 16, sec. 1, of the constitution and the only provision that now exists for amending the constitution? [See debates in Indiana Constitutional Convention, page 2,045.]

"Amendments to the constitution may be proposed in the Senate or House of Representatives. If passed by a majority of all the members elected to either branch, they are referred to the next regular session of the Legislature, to be held two years thereafter. If passed by them, a second time, they are then at the next general election, to be submitted to the people, and if they pass this final ordeal, they become a part of the constitution.

In this way, there will always occur a general election of members of the Legislature, during the canvass for which, the amendments, that may have been proposed at the previous session, can be brought in issue; and nearly three years must intervene, from the time an amendment is first proposed, before it can be finally adopted. And the report of this committee was unanimously concurred in by the whole convention.

The "Indianapolis Journal" of April 18, 1881, in an editorial says: "This amendment will have to receive an affirmative majority of the votes in each branch of the next Legislature, and after that a majority of the votes cast by the people at an election held for their consideration. The present method of amending the constitution affords the people a greater opportunity to express their opinions on this amendment than they would have if a convention was called. They have two more chances to manifest their preferences on this amendment. First, in the election of members to the next Legislature, and second, at the final direct vote, when submitted to the people."

The statements of Robert Dale Owen, of Mr. Bariden, of the ten men selected by the constitutional convention, were made thirty years ago when there was no question before the people, and at a time and under circumstances likely to call forth their honest views upon the method they had provided for amending the constitution. That method has never been changed. A convention composed of one hundred and fifty men selected by the people to make them a constitution, met, prepared our present constitution, submitted it, together with an explanation as to what each article meant, to the people, who, after careful consideration, adopted it as the bulwark of their liberties.

Now, I wish our neighbor to tell the voters of this county when the people—or how the people are to have two more chances to vote upon this amendment. The "Journal," the Republican Bible in Indiana on political questions, said the present method of amending the constitution affords the people two more chances to vote on this amendment, once in the election of members to the next Legislature, and once after the Legislature has submitted it to the people. Now, the Journal said this before the Republican party made their platform and in saying this it simply gave utterance to the true theory of the constitution for its own amendment and to the meaning of the resolution embodied in the Democratic platform in regard to the proposed amendment, when they say that the people have the right to oppose or favor the amendment now in the selection of the members to the next Legislature, I have endeavored to show, and I think I have conclusively shown in this article, that the question is not whether the amendment shall be submitted or not, to the people, but as to whether or not the people are in favor of the amendment as proposed, becoming a part of the organic law of the State. And we assert without fear of successful contradiction, that the idea of submission is not, and cannot, from the very nature of things, become an issue between parties. The question of submission does not and cannot arise until the amendment is passed by the next Legislature, and should such a thing take place, I assert without fear of contradiction, that not a single Democrat will be found opposing the submission. The framers of the constitution certainly never contemplated that the question of submitting a proposed amendment to a direct vote of the people, should be a subject of controversy. If the amendment is passed by the second Legislature, the constitution says "it shall be submitted." If it is not so passed, it cannot be submitted, however desirous the Legislature might be of doing so. But the amendment itself can be made, and is one of the issues of this campaign. And now on this subject the Democratic platform gives forth no uncertain sound, the lines are clearly drawn, the declaration is so plainly written that those who run may read. But what is the position of the Republican party on this subject of amending the constitution? Echo answers, what? In my next I will give the temperance people a short history of the Republican party in regard to temperance legislation in the last Legislature.

M. M.

THE last week's Republican fills its columns with east wind over the fact that the soldiers were addressed by a non-soldier at the Garrett reunion. Was Glasgow a soldier? If not, why not give him a share of this narrow minded abuse? We will give our contemporary a lesson in liberality. Mr. Glasgow was not a soldier, but he had a right to address soldiers. So had Judge Lowry; and no one, unless he be blinded by passion or prejudice would deny the right to either of them, or to any one else.

ATTORNEY GENERAL BALDWIN last year collected money belonging to the state, about $30,000, promptly when due, and because a technical defect in the law prevents him from being compelled to turn the money over, kept it. He is said to be speculating with this money, which belongs to the people now. Is such a man worthy of the confidence and support of the people?

THE Press wants to know what we think about Mr. Kelham's being cheated out of the nomination for commissioner. We seldom think at all about a matter that never happened. Mr. Kelham refused to entertain the thought of running again for the office. Had he desired to do so, he would have been nominated without a doubt.

SOME windy anonymous in last week's Press, having exhausted the English language, goes for Hon. D. D. Moody in simon pure Chaldaic of the olden time. It is a novel case of "diarrhœa of words and a constipation of ideas." Presumably the writer does not intend to vote for Mr. Moody; but then there are plenty of good men of all parties who will.

DAN McDONALD, of Plymoth, is at present largely quoted by republican papers. He thought his services in being defeated by Calkins for congress should be rewarded by a place on the state ticket. He did not get the place, and is half inclined to be sore headed. He won't get much sympathy among the democrats of DeKalb county.

IT beats all what one man can do when he has a chance. Republican papers in this county, are lauding Mr. Oberlin to the skies because he reduced the county debt eight thousand dollars. Wonder what the other two commissioners were doing all the while that Mr. Oberlin was wiping out the debt.

THE Press of last week took off the closing paragraph from the report of the greenback convention and used it as a bona fide editorial of its "own get up." The editor is evidently keeping his eye on "my dear Hubbell," and takes two per cent of the report for use as a sort of campaign fund.

ONE of the iron clads the government has been building, and which has cost, so far, over two millions, is to be broken up and sold for old iron. This is another of those brilliant financial schemes over which republicans pride themselves.

FOR several years the annual expenses of the government have been about 160 millions. The present republican congress made it nearly 300 millions. "Economy in its financial management" was what did it.

DORSEY is still on trial for defrauding the government, and is still at the head of the national republican committee and in good standing in his party.

THE freight office books at Hutchinson, Kansas, show an increase of 35 per cent. in the liquor traffic since prohibition began there.

THE first bale of cotton in market this year was from Wetumka, Alabama, and was bought by a Louisville firm August 24.

HAS the Republican gone back on Glasgow, or why was not his speech at Garrett mentioned last week.

LOOK OUT

—FOR—

KIBLINGER!

NEXT WEEK.

SELF SATISFYING.

FACT

That our $8.00 Suits are worth $15.0
That our 9.00 Suits are worth 17.00
That our 11.00 Suits are worth 20.00
That our 14.00 Suits are worth 25.00
That our 15.00 Suits are worth 28.00
That our 1.60 pants are worth 2.50
That our two dollar pants are worth $4
That our $20 Satin Lined Suits ARE WORTH $45
That our $15 Diagonal Coats & Vests are worth 30
That our 9.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 17.00
That our 12.00 Youths' Suits ARE WORTH 22.00

We have a stock of Clothing well worth seeing. Come and convince yourself.

SAM, PETE & MAX, Ft. Wayne.

DON'T MISS THIS CHANCE!

BUY NOW WHILE GOODS ARE CHEAP!

Everything Fifty per cent. Cheaper

No Need of Going Barefooted

AUSTIN BROTHERS

—WILL SELL—

BOOTS

—AND—

SHOES

Cheaper than they can be stolen

A big stock has been ordered, and there must be room made for them. Fifty per cent. can be saved by buying now. The

BOOT

UP-SIDE

DOWN

Is the cheapest house in Indiana, and we want everybody to know it. Call before buying.

AUSTIN BROS., Auburn, Ind.

ATTENTION.

Country Merchants!

My Stock Embraces ALL Kinds Staple and Fancy Merchandise:

Clocks,
Watches,
Jewelry,
Silver Ware,
Optical Goods,
Musical Goods,
Sewing Machines,
Druggists' Sundries,
White Goods,
Hosiery.
Toys,
Cutlery,
Pictures,
Frames,
Mirrors,
Smokers' Goods,
Sporting Goods,
Japanese Goods
Fancy Goods
Notions,
Stationery
Wallets
Wooden Ware
Glass Ware,
Hardware
Purses
Tin Ware:

5 & 10 Cent Counter, 49 & 99 Cent Store Supplies

Look up my Illustrated Catalogue (if you have not one send for it) and notice prices and style of goods on pages 6 to 65, 68 to 84, 98 to 115, 150 to 165, and so on through the book, and you will find that I am offering a SAVING to you of 10 to 25 per cent. on a large line of Staple Goods. You can order your STOCK from my Catalogue without leaving your store or paying a traveling man to come and take your order. I guarantee prices and goods to be just as satisfactory as though you were here in person to select. When in the city, give me a call before buying, and I will show you the most complete stock of Goods in the west to select from [illegible] Prices.

C. M. LININGTON, IMPORTER,
145 and 147 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO.

Auburn Courier.

Local and Miscellaneous.

—The Big Fair.

—The Great Fair.

—The Immense Fair.

—At Fort Wayne, September the 25to 29th.

—Gems at Rice & Son's for ten cents a piece.

—Rice & Son take pictures cheaper than ever.

—The latest thing out in hats at Yesbera's. 2t.

—New goods at Boyer & Beidler's, Waterloo.

—H. M. Henning and wife were in town Monday.

—Go to see the McNeil troupe next Tuesday evening.

—Latest Styles in fall hats and bonnets at Mrs. Clock's. 36-4w.

—Don't fail to see the new styles of piece goods at Yesbera's. 2t.

—Heavy shirtings at ten cents per yard, at Boyer & Beidler's.

—Photographs at Rice & Son's for $1.00 per dozen—card size.

—Pannel pictures at Rice's for $5.00 per dozen. Cabinets, $3.00.

—You can buy silks the cheapest of Boyer & Beidler, Waterloo.

—Geo. Larimore came up from Swan Monday for a new stock of paints.

—Boyer & Beidler sell good, all-wool cashmere at 55 cents per yard.

—Go to Mrs. Clock's and see the new fall styles in hats and bonnets. 36-4t.

—My store will closed on Thursday September 14 on account of Ho iday.
ISAAC OCHS.

—Go in and see gents furnishing goods, neck-ties, shirts, &c. at Yesbera's. 2t.

—Isaac Ochs is in New York, purchasing an immense stock of goods for the fall trade.

—The great Northern Indiana Fair promises to be the largest and best ever held in the state. 36-3w.

—The Rome City Regatta comes off Thursday and Friday, Sep. 7 and 8. It will be a big crowd.

—G. H. Yesbera will make you the nobbiest suit for the least money of any tailor in the county.

—There will be services at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning and in the evening as usual.

—Geo. Swank is the man this time who helped the printer out with a supply of vegetables. Correct.

—We are glad to learn that Ada Spangler has fully recovered her health after her long illness.

—L. P. Welling, formely station agent here, for the Jackson road went flying southward last Saturday.

—Just think of it—one hundred trotting and running horses, at the great Northern Indiana Fair 36-3w.

—Go to Mrs. Jones & Son's to buy fine shirts, white and colored. They give a nice chromo with each shirt they sell.

Mrs. Joseph Bamlee, Richmond, Wayne, Co., was permanently cured of nervous prostration by Brown's Iron Bitters.

Mr. J. B. Farrell, of Logansport, was cured of a pain in his back, arising from kidney disease, by Brown's Iron Bitters.

—The best show of fine cattle in Indiana can be seen at the great Northern Indiana Fair, at Fort Wayne, September 25th to 29th. 36-3w.

—Mrs. Lewis Johnson accompained by Miss Della Wineland and Miss Addie Brumbaugh of Milford, made us a brief call last week.

—Miller & Getrost are closing out their entire stock of dry goods and notions, clothing, hats, and caps, sewing machines &c. at actual cost.

—You will find a good assortment of linen and lace collars, and ties, laces, hosiery, Germantown zephyr and stocking yarn at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

—The September meeting of the trustees was held here last Friday. All were present, and all their work was completed before they adjourned.

—The celebrated McNeil company that is to appear here next Tuesday evening, will be remembered by our citizens as one of the best ever seen here.

—One hundred of the best trotting and running horses in the United States will be at the Northern Indiana Fair, at Fort Wayne, September 25th to 29th.

—GENTLEMAN:—If you want to buy a suit of clothes, overcoat, hat, or cap, underwear, gloves, or mittens, call on Miller & Getrost, for they are selling out at actual cost.

—Let every farmer give one day to improving his mind in fine stock by attending the great Northern Indiana Fair. The finest cattle and sheep in the west will be there. 36-3w.

—LADIES:—If you want a new dress, coat, parasol, skirt, underwears, collars, ties, handkerchiefs, or any thing in ladies ware, call on Miller ane Getrost, for they are closing out at actual cost.

—GENTS:—You will find a fine assortment of linen and paper cuffs, necktiea, hosiery, suspenders, underware, overall, overshirts &c. at Mrs. Jones & Son's.

—My friends, my fellow citizens, do not sleep on your rights, but get ready at once to take in the big fair of the season. Of course, we refer you to the great Northern Indiana Fair, at Fort Wayne. 36-3w.

—TO THE LADIES:—Mrs. Jones and Son request you to call and look at their fine line of ginghams, prints, muslins, shirtings &c. just received. Don't fail to call and look at their goods, before buying.

—Isaac Cool, a prominent citizen of of this place, and well known all over the country, died at his residence here, last Saturday morning and was buried Sunday afternoon. The funeral was at the Methodist church.

—Call on D. D. Snyder & Bros. for prices on dry lumber.

—The bank is being overhauled and changes made in the room to add to its convenience.

—Weirick, the Fairfield merchant, buys butter and eggs and other produce. Don't forget it. tf.

—Williard Fee has our thanks for some fine peaches. They are the best we have seen since our boyhood days.

—D. D. Snyder & Bros. are putting in the foundation for their new wagon shop, near their hub and spoke factory at the south end of town.

—Any person having any dry lumber oak, ash or hickory, axles, wagon tongues, bolsters, reaches, basswood lumber for wagon boxes, call on D. D. Snyder & Bros.

The injurious effects of alcohol on the brain and nervous system relieved and cured by the use of Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment. Sold at F. E. Davenport's.

Ayer's Ague Cure should be in every household in regions where Fever and Ague prevail. It should be taken as a preventative by every resident and traveler in malarial districts.

—Delay not, but get ready to attend the best fair ever held in the state. Admission only 25 cents, and all entries, except speed, free of erarge. Seven thousand dollars in cash will be paid for premiums. 36-3w.

—Richland township Sunday-school picnic was held at Showers' Corners, August 28. Addresses were made by F. W. Willis, L. D. Britton, Jere Lewis and others. Eight schools were reported. G. I. PATTERSON, Sec'y.

—John Haskin, of Waterloo has been billing the town for the fair. He has made a pretty thorough job of it. Premium lists, large and small posters, were distributed freely. Fair begins Oct. 8.

—The ladies social connected with the M. E. church, will be entertained at the residence of Mr. Eckhart, on next Wednesday afternoon and evening, Everybody is cordially invited to be present. SEC'Y.

—MILLINERY.—Mrs. Clock has received new fall styles in hats and bonnets. Has the latest styles and shades in ribbons, flowers, plumes and tips. Keep also a assortment of black and cream Spanish laces. 36-4w.

—The best base ball clubs in the state will play each day during the great Northern Indiana Fair at Fort Wayne. Tell your neighbors and tell everbody that this fair will be the best ever held in the state. 36-3w.

—Wm. Carr, has left in our office, a box of cheat, that is growing nicely. Any one who holds to the idea that cheat will grow timothy, or that it will, not grow at all can be satisfied by taking a look at our cheat field.

—The barn of Thomas Blackwell, who resides near Butler was burned Saturday evening about 9 o'clock. It contained a large amount of grain and hay. No insurance except about $300, on the building. It is thought to be the work of an incendiary.

—List of unclaimed letters remaining in the Auburn postoffice for 30 days, for the week ending September, 6: J. C. Fredrickson, Mr. Jacob Gray, Mr. J. Will Hull, Miss Lizzie Mourey, M. Morris, Mr. L. F. Morris and Adam Schmidt. Postals: L. F. Morris, Conrad Deginans. GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

—We clip the following from last weeks West Unity Eagle. "Quite a company at A. Yesbera's on last Sabbath consisting of Henry Yesbera and wife and Mr. Abright, wife and daughter of Auburn, Ind., Geo. Yesbera and wife, F. Quidort and wife."

—Sam K. Hodgon is the comedian of the McNeil party, and "Samuel" is a ———well, we don't want to say anything about him, as the "boys" have all been suffering with sore ribs ever since the concert, and the mere mention of his name throws them into confusions. —[News, Monroe, Iowa.

—Go to Rice's gallery for all kinds of pictures. They are working cheap, and guarantee satisfaction. Call at their gallery and see samples of work and get prices. They have new instruments for doing all kinds of work. Enlarging done to order. They solcit your patronage. 36-tf.

—Wlliard Fee, of Smithfield was in town Monday with some of the nicest pears and peaches we have seen for some years. They were raised on the Simon McEnterfer place. It is one of the best fruit farms in the county, and Mr. Fee is rejoicing in an abundance of fruit, when it is scarce nearly every where else.

—The Wizard oil men gave a few of their open air concerts on the streets last week. Their singing is, in the main, very nice, much above the average, and delighted crowds listened to them each evening. They evidently made some money during their stay, and some of our people say the medicine worked like a charm. They were very gentlemanly people and our citizens will hold them in pleasant remembrance.

—The McNeil troupe is the finest that ever visited this place, and all who attended were pleasingly entertained. The McNeil sisters are musicians of fine talent. The trio by Misses Laura, Minnie and Manie was really fine. As a cornet soloist, Miss Manie can't be beat. The McNeil family is a good company, and when we get our new hall, we hope they will come and see us again.—[News, Shell Rock, Iowa.

—Let the farmer, the business man, the banker, the baker, the candle-stick maker and everybody remember that the Northern Indiana Fair, at Fort Wayne, will be the best ever held in the state and no question asked. Make a note of this and do not fail to attend. Special rates, lower than ever before offered, will be given by the different railroad companies entering Fort Wayne, and you can go to this great fair almost as cheap as if it was in your own town. 36-3w.

—Before buying your fall suit, see Yesbera. 2t.

—Jones, at Fort Wayne, makes cabinet photos at $2.50 per dozen. 34-10

—Photos $1 a dozen at Jones', Fort Wayne. 34-10t.

Hazzard.

Last Wednesday, as most of our readers, are by this time aware, George Hazzard was again lodged in jail at this place. He was arrested in Indianapolis, by Capt. Nicholson of that place. His bondsman, Mr. Henderson, of Anderson, Madison county, becoming alarmed at the prospect of having to pay his bond, has been looking for Hazzard for some time. If he could get his man safely lodged in jail, then he would be released. As he is now here, and with no prospects to get any one else to assist him to escape, the chances are that he will be brought to trial at the first term of court. There are, in all, eight indictments against him for perjury and obtaining money on false pretense.

No Mob at All.

It is laughable to read the very sensational account of Hazzard's arrest in the Fort Wayne News. If we are to believe that paper, Auburn was in an uproar of excitement. The article is headed "A Wild Scene at Auburn," and goes on to say that threats of lynching were so openly indulged in, that Sheriff Leas had to summon a strong guard to assist him in the defense of the jail. The people of our quiet town will never know how near they stood on the edge of a volcano unless they read the Fort Wayne dailies. They will never realize what fierce spirit of demonism slumbers in their breasts, till some of these hot-bed reporters come around and explain it to them. Let us be thankful that the crisis is over.

The Jackson Railroad.

This road, as predicted some days ago, has gone into the hands of the Lake Shore company. The transfer was made September 1st. No change is made in the officers of the road, except that the present general officers will likely be considered as division agents in the great railroad system of which their road is now a part. The following is the article of agreement under which the consolidation is made: "An agreement has been made by the board of directors of the Fort Wayne & Jackson railroad company, and the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway company, whereby said last named company agrees to lease the Fort Wayne and Jackson railroad in perpetuity, paying therefor an annual rental of five and one-half per cent. upon the perferred capital stock of said company, and in case the net earnings of said road shall in any year after five years from the date of said agreement, exceed eight per cent. upon the perferred capital stock, pay a further sum of two per cent. per annum upon the capital stock of said company."

Sad Accident.

A little son of Brent. Shilling met with a severe accident last Saturday. His father works in Zimmerman's planing mill, and the little fellow, who is about five years old, often goes into the shop or plays in the vicinity. Just as the men were about to quit work Saturday evening, Mr. Shilling, thought he would start up the lath machine for a little while, and so run off the steam. He had been running but a few minutes, when Frank Zimmerman, who was on the outside of the building hearing screams, ran into the mill and found the little boy just getting free from the cogs in the planer in which his hand had caught. The feed gear of the planer had been set in motion when the lath machine started, and it is supposed the boy in passing near it, lost his balance, and put out his hand to save himself, and happening to put his hand in the gearing, it was drawn in, completely grinding off all the fingers on his left hand. He was taken home, and Dr. Swartz summoned. The mutilated hand was dressed, and at last, accounts, the little fellow was doing well.

District Seven.

Last Thursday evening the good people of school district No. 7, two miles east of town met to have a sort of house-warming to celebrate the completion of their new school-house. Ample preparations had been made, and about all the district turned out, as well as many of their friends in town. Those who had the good fortune to attend, say it was one of the most pleasant meetings they ever attended. Two tables, the length of the school room, were piled high with with everything in the way of a sumptuous supper, and every one was made welcome to the best the land could afford. A regular old fashioned good time was the order, of the evening, and a good, time they had. It was intended to have Superintendent Barns and Trustee Hague present, but owing to a mistake, caused mainly by the editor of the COURIER, these two gentlemen were not present. They missed a pleasant visit and are sorry that they did miss it. The people feel proud of their new school-house and are wide awake to have every thing put in shape and to have one of the best schools this winter they ever had. Among those present, were: Samuel Miller and wife; A. J. Carmer and wife; Frank Baird and wife; D. T. Smith and wife; C. L. Baird and wife; Wm. Ashelman and wife; Fuller Metcalf and wife; Israel Apple and wife; Joseph Pfefferel and wife; Edward Weeks and wife; W. C. Carmer and wife; Mr. Kring and wife; D. Koskt and family; Mr. A. Winslow and wife; Mrs. Lanham, Mrs. Weeks, and others whose names we did not get, including Mr. Lesh, and several others from town. The house was built by Kring and Lesh, of Auburn, and is a fine one.

Sunday-School Association.

In compliance with a call by the De-Kalb County Sunday-School Association, a number of citizens of Butler township met at the St. Johns school-house August 15, and effected a township organization, by electing the following officers: Ellen Keeran, president; David Fair, vice-president; J. W. Ammon, secretary; Theron Hogue, treasurer; John L. Houser, chorister; Anson Hall, assistant chorister.

Ellen Keeran, } Committee
Aurelia Larimore, } on
Emma Houser, } Programme.
PHILIP NOEL, J. W. AMMON,
Pres. pro. tem. Secretary.

The Distinguishing Charm.

A delightful fragrance of freshly gathered flowers and spices is the distinguishing charm of Floreston Cologne. 36-4w.

Waterloo Items.

Homer Mervin, of Columbus Grove, O., has been stopping a short time with his relatives, Willard Fee and the Kelleys.

Frank Beidler has fully entered on his new position as a member of the firm of Boyer & Beidler.

Charlie Baugnot, of Auburn, was here Saturday, to see the boys in regard to the November election.

Mrs. David McEnterfer came down Saturday off the afternoon train.

Mrs. B. L. Duncan has returned from her visit to Huntington, where her brother, Lyman Jackman, resides.

Lowenstein & Rothschild have treated their store room to a new coat of paint, and find the appearance much improved.

Boyer & Beidler are filling their store with new goods.

Postmaster Kinney has a new safe with a burglar-proof vault. It is a fine one, and the thieves will have to chisel for some time before they get it open.

John Koons has added a livery stable to his other business, and is doing nicely.

M. W. Johnson began his school work at Butler on Monday.

Mr. Gillett, agent for the Jackson railroad, has retired from that position and is succeeded by R. G. Carroll. Mr. Gillett expects to go on the road soon as traveling salesman for a Detroit wholesale house.

Some of the boys got on a blissful old high last Saturday night, and indulged in a free fight or something very much like it. Monday they deposited with 'Squire Smith quite a good addition to the school fund. Boys, that don't pay.

John Fisher spent Sunday at Pierceton.

Ira Bachelor and family, of Steuben county, are visiting their relatives here.

Miss Jennie Leib is visiting friends at Hudson this week.

Will. Dickinson leaves to-day for Travis City, Michigan, where he has obtained a situation.

Miss Frankie Lemon, of LaGrange, Ohio, was the guest of Miss Fannie Clark a couple of days this week.

L. M. Woods is on duty again after a short vacation.

The Butt Hotel was crowded to overflowing the night before the judicial convention, but the courteous proprietor was equal to the emergency, and all were made comfortable.

Four boys were up before 'Squire Smith Tuesday morning and fined for jumping on trains while in motion.

The officers of the fair are hard at work preparing to make it a grand success. Send to the secretary for information.

William Johnson, of Ohio, has been spending a few days here visiting his brother Dr. S. B. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson had the misfortune to lose their youngest child yesterday morning. Eddie was a bright little fellow, about eight months old. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of all.

Money for a Rainy Day.

"For six years my daughter was sick from kidney and other disorders. We have used our savings on doctors, when our dominie advised us try Parker's Ginger Tonic. Four bottles effected a cure, and as a dollar's worth has kept our family well over a year, we have been able to lay by money again for a rainy day."—A Poor Man's Wife. 4w.

G. A. R.

This patriotic organization, which is composed of veterans of the late war, soldiers with honorable discharges, has now been organized about three months, and is in a flourishing condition. They have regular meetings of the society, the next one of which will be next Monday evening. These meetings are held in their neatly furnished room, known as "Soldiers' Hall." As we have seen no notice of this society, heretofore, the COURIER takes pleasure in giving it an honorable mention.

HON J. B. STOLL:—As the Chairman of the Democratic Judicial Convention of this Circuit, held yesterday, at Waterloo, I address you, and the Democracy of this circuit, for the purpose of tendering them my sincere thanks for the honor done me in selecting me as their candidate for the high and responsible position of judge of this judicial circuit.

Permit me to say the selection for such a position bestows upon the candidate the highest honor that can be conferred upon any one, by any party, in a circuit. To be selected or elected to a seat on the bench—to wear the judicial ermine—is to occupy the most elevated and exalted position in the legal profession. It is in fact the topmost round in the ladder of the ambition of a lawyer.

The office of judge of our circuit court is so closely allied to and intimately blended with all the varied business transactions and important relations of men, having almost exclusively to do with that which a ects the people in every avenue of life, holding in his breast and conscience to a large extent, the life, liberty, reputation and property of the citizen, when brought in question before the judge — the property not only of the living but almost exclusively that of the dead, renders the office so important, difficult and delicate, and thereby so very highly honorable. It is undoubtedly to the people of this circuit the most important office they will be called upon to fill at the November election. It is true an appeal may be taken from the judgment and decree of the court whereby error and wrong may be corrected, but if the judge be sufficient in the necessary qualifications, such appeal will often prove unless and futile. In accepting this high compliment from the democracy of this circuit, so freely and generally extended to me, I hope and pray that with the aid of a kind providence, whether I shall be elected to the office they have nominated me, or not, no act or word of mine in future shall cause them to repent the selection they have made.

I am with respect,
Yours very truly,
Auburn, Sep. 6. W. H. DILLS.

LEWIS SHIRMEYER. JOHN DIEDEGEMEYER.

BANNER

CLOTHING HOUSE,

No. 27 CALHOUN STREET,

CLOTHING,
HATS AND CAPS,
FURNISHING GOODS,

For Fall and Winter.

EXTRA INDUCEMENTS.

New goods at the very lowest prices. No buyer can afford to purchase without examining our stock.

L. SHIRMEYER & CO.

Certainly Inviting

ARE THE NEW AS WELL AS THE HITHERTO MENTIONED FEATURES OF THE GRAND ORIOLE FESTIVAL AT BALTIMORE — VERY INTERESTING POINTS RELATIVE TO THE MYSTIC SOCIETIES OF THE SOUTH AND WEST — WHAT THE B. & O. PROPOSES TO DO.

Baltimore will certainly look her very best next week and afford her visitor such a treat as will for the time being at the least make the Monumental City the most popular centre in all the country. It is doubtful if so attractive a three day's programme was ever before made up for a municipal celebration. There appears almost literally no end to the new features being constantly added, and, practically, the whole week will be given to one steady series of enjoyments. Baltimore is a big place, ranking high up among the great cities of the country in point of population, while in many interests she stands first. Although having a reputation for conservatism, it is of that character which insures a thorough handling of everything which is undertaken.

The first city in all the land to inaugurate railroad construction, the B. & O. being the pioneer passenger railway of the world, and now most fittingly offering all the advantages of half the regular rates of fare from every and all points on its great line. The first city lighted by gas; she is also the first city to adopt as a municipality the electric light, the entire city being now most brilliantly illuminated. The first city to fairly enter the lists against New Orleans in pageantry; this year's display will, beyond all comparison, excel any ever made in any city, not excepting the very home of the Carnival, the Crescent City inself. Indeed, New Orleans herself will render all powerful aid in accomplishing such a result, for she sends her four greatest and grandest mystic societies to participate. In the matchless pageant will Rex and the Carnival Court appear in royal splendor. And with the King will come the resplendent Mistick Krewe of Comus, the dazzling Knights of Momus and glittering Knights of Proteus. The glorious quartette of famous mystic organizations will all be presented in line by magnificent moving tableaux, the characters being personated by the members of each. So, too, will be there upon the georgeous car of the majestic Veiled Prophets of St. Louis, the impressive float of mysterious Memphi of Memphis, and the beautiful car of the Knights of Momus, of Galveston. Mobile sends her Cowbellians, the oldest mystic society in the new world, the Infant Mystics and the Strikers, the representation of this trio of noted organizations promising to be a thing to long remember. The Congress of Mystics is without a parallel in the history of pageantry in this, if not, indeed, in any country. Never have any two of the societies ever appeared in a single pageant, and never have they appeared in any way in conjunction.

The pageant of Thursday night, September 14th, will be a remarkable event, and as the visiting organizations are composed of the leading merchants and citizens of the cities named, the gathering at Baltimore is a grand compliment to that city. Those who have deplored their inability to visit New Orleans and witness there the marvelous display of Mardi Gras times may in one evening at Baltimore behold the typical brilliancy of all four of the Crescent City's greatest societies. More than this, those who have long desired to look upon the Veiled Prophets of St. Louis, the famous societies of Mobile, Memphis and Galveston, here have the opportunity of witnessing all in one. Thus much as to the visiting societies, and when it is also remembered that the order of the Oriole being at home cannot for a moment think of permitting Baltimore to be eclipsed by other cities, some faint conception may be gleaned of what the pageant as a whole will be. The Oriole has for months been closely and most diligently at work upon its divisions of the grand pageant, and they will be the most imposing and greater in number than ever before attempted by any one society. Last year's lesson was a most excellent one, and those who question what this year's result will be had better consider well before coming to a conclusion. The remarkable division of the visiting societies will itself be worth a journey of a thousand miles, but when is added the [illegible] of the Oriole, the general effect will be [illegible] beyond description.

Military Day, Tuesday, 12th, Lord Baltimore Day, Wednesday, 13th, and Mystic Day, Thursday, 14th, will all present wonderfully varied attractions. On Military Day the parade will be a most memorable one. The entire military of the state will parade and form an escort to the visiting military, among whom will be the battalion of the State Fencibles of Philadelphia, the City Guards of Scranton, Pa., the battalions of the Light Infantry and the National Rifles of Washington, the First Regiment National Guards of Virginia, the Treanway Guards of St. Louis, Companies of the 6th New Jersey Regiments and of the 12th and 13th Regiments of New York, the Guards of Front Royal, Va., the Light Infantry of Petersburg, Va., The Norfolk Blues, Richmond Blues, and numerous other organizations not as yet reported, together with U. S. army troops and artillery. The competition among these splendid companies for the prizes of $1,250, $500 and $250 will most assuredly be exciting. The Grand Army of the Republic, not only of Maryland, but with large deputations from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and other states, will take part in the grand parade, as will also the fire department of Baltimore, with numerous visiting companies from adjoining cities, the competition for prizes being open to all.

The second day will be as replete with attractions as the first, the parade being of a different character and in many respects decidedly novel and unique. The reception of Lord Baltimore will be accompanied by peculiarly striking and effective details. The military, the uniformed societies and the trades all parade in honor of Cecilius. The trade parade will embrace upwards of a hundred grandly gotten up tableau cars, illustrative of the city's material interests. A new feature of Wednesday is the novel night parade of steam vessels in the harbor, all of them most brilliantly illuminated and discharging fireworks. This promises to be decidedly unique thing in every way.

On Thursday the Baltimore Bicycle Club has arranged for a grand meeting, and in offering a most liberal series of prizes has secured the attendance of the most noted wheelmen in the country. The clubs of adjacent cities will visit Baltimore in strong numbers, and it will unquestionably be one of the largest and most interesting meets known since the invention of the Bicycle.

The exceeding liberality of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, in making so great a reduction in rates, is most emphatically to be commended. It is Baltimore's greatest corporation, and may always be counted upon to stand by its friends, not only in the Monumental City, but all along its entire line. The rate by the B. & O. is only one-half the regular fare, or one fare for the round trip, and will be in force on all the lines, divisions and branches owned by the company. More than this, its immediate connecting lines have made the same rates, and thus not only is Chicago, Columbus, Pittsburg and all the intervening country, but Cincinnati, Louisville and St. Louis as well.

The through trains of the B. & O. run from all the cities named on such splendid time as has well earned the road the proud title of the Model Fast Line. All of them pass directly through Washington both ways, and the B. & O. is the only route running through trains via the National Capital. The fact is of no little moment to the many who will be interested therein, as also the further fact that via the B. & O., Baltimore is but a single hour's ride from Washington, with a persect double track, and trains running, during the Oriole, every half hour. The equipment of the line is throughout as fine as money can make it, the company owning its own sleeping and parlor cars, as well as elegant and new day coaches almost without number.

Every preparation has been made for the accommodation of all, and in addition to the regular trains which run from St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Chicago and Columbus to Baltimore without change, extra sections and special trains will be provided whenever required to meet the demands. The B. & O. proposes to please all and afford such unexampled time and perfect accommodations as will not only retain all its old friends, but make scores of new ones.

Taylor & Son's

Great Public Sale of carriages and buggies at Sheldon, Indiana, Friday, September 15th, 1882, at 10 o'clock a. m., consisting of thirty double phaeton side door family carriages, single phaetons two or three springs, Coal Box, pianos, Cornings, Whitechapels, Timpkin and Triple side bar buggies, complete with steel tire, axles and bows, full leather, rubber and cloth trimmings. ALL WARRANTED, and not surpassed by any. Repairs on warrant done at our factory free of charge. Buy now before the fall trade closes. Terms cash or six months credit, by the purchaser giving his approved note. [Workmen wanted]. 12 buggies sold per hour. Music by cornet band.

Loewenstein & Rothschild,

Waterloo, Ind., are now opening their grand fall stock of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes. Our stock comprises the very latest styles in silks, velvets, plushes, dress goods, trimmings, laces, etc. Every department will be replete with novelties. The firm will spare no effort to not only maintain their reputation for selling the finest and best goods at lowest prices, but to add largely to their prestige, if increased facilities and fair dealing will do it. And whoever wishes to buy choice dress goods, silks, velvets, as well as other articles pertaining to the dry goods and clothing trade, should call and examine their stock and prices, being assured of the most cheerful attention.

DIED.—At his residence in this place, on Saturday, September 2, 1882, after an illness of less than five days, Isaac Cool, aged 62 years, 5 months and 22 days.

He was born in Yates county, New York, from whence at an early age he removed to Ontario county, in that state, where, September 27, 1843, he was united in marriage to Catherine Snyder, who for thirty-three years shared the joys and sorrows of her youthful choice. The same year of his marriage, with his young wife, Mr. Cool removed all the way from that county to this in a wagon, and settled upon his home farm then an unbroken forest, three miles south of Auburn, upon which he resided until 1876, when he became a citizen of our village. Thirty-nine years ago, when Mr. Cool arrived in our county, the farms and settlements were few and sparse, and it was thus amid the privations of frontier life he laid the foundations of his future business success. At the time of his death he left of his family two sons, a daughter and the children of his deceased son, Frank. No nobler, kinder or more affectionate husband, father, friend and neighbor ever existed than Isaac Cool. Ever genial, obliging, enterprising, honest and honorable was he, and no one can fill the place now made vacant by his death. The funeral services were held at the M. E. church Sunday afternoon, the Rev. W. H. Daniels officiating, who delivered an eloquent and appropriate sermon on the occasion, which was highly appreciated by a large congregation of friends and neighbors of the deceased.

—Call at Boyer & Beidler's and see the new novelties in ties, fichus and collars.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the De-Kalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of James Quince, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.
LORANA QUINCE, Administrator.
August 23rd, 1882. 36-3w.

Notice to Bridge Builders.

Notice is hereby given, that the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county Indiana, will, on Saturday, September 16th, 1882, at 10 o'clock a. m., let to the lowest and best responsible bidder, the construction of a Howe Truss Bridge across Cedar creek, near Eagle Mills, in Auburn.

Said bridge to be one hundred and twelve (112) feet in length, sixteen feet (16) roadway and to be placed on pile abutments.

Said letting to take place at the site of the work. Plans and specifications can be seen at the auditor's office. Successful bidders will be required to execute a bond for the faithful performance of the work as required by law, to the acceptance of the Board. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board.
Attest: [illegible], Auditor.
August 21st, 1882. 35-3w.

ILLINOIS.

BY JOAQUIN MILLER.

A pistol shot next my own garret, aye,
And with face like a god he lies dead and alone;
Lies stark on his back; a hand outthrown,
An disdaining rest on the vanquished breast,
And a look of battle in his glorious eyes
As one struck dead by a cannon shot.
Starved or dishonored? It matters not;
Nor whether betrayed or otherwise.
I only know that he fell last night;
I only know that he fights no more;
I only know that he fell in the fight
Fighting as never fought man before.

Shot dead in the fight! Not a syllable known
Of name or of place. But scratched on the wall
With a nail, "Illinois"—and that is all.
Then deep in the window stands all alone,
And tattered and torn, like a flag in war,
One starved stalk of corn in a broken jar.
A banner of corn, with its memories
O mother, of fields, and of fruitful trees!
O, boy, from the furrows of Illinois!
O, boy with thy banner to the topmost wall,
I will [illegible] this corn, poor, pitiful boy,
Till I, too, vanquished, shall fighting fall.

Good mother, that waits in the far cornfields,
He will never come back to your arms any more.
Grow lilies for him, his battles are o'er,
He is borne to his rest on his battle-shield.
Good mothers that wait wherever you are,
Oh! pity us, pray for us, every one,
That has left sweet fields for the smoke and sun
Of the city's walls in this ceaseless war.
How oft we have cried: O Christ, for the fight,
When soldiers in battle rode recklessly down
And stormed in a day and took the town,
Or, sword in hand, they were slain outright!

O, ye in the beautiful fields of corn,
Content and tranquil and far away,
Lift up your hearts and be glad all day;
Lift up moist eyes like the dew of morn;
For I tell you its harder to win a town,
And to hold it for even a year your own
Than ever were gates when kings went down
With army and banners to win a throne.
Then a tear for the soldier who fell last night,
With banner of corn in a breach of the wall;
For to every hundred that win this fight
I tell you a hundred thousand fall.

HOW JOE BENTLY WON A BOUQUET.

St. Nicholas.

Joe Bently was an American boy who had been brought up on a cattle-farm in the interior of one of the New England States; but who had left home for the more congenial life on board a man-of-war. His first voyage took him to Lisbon, where to his great delight he learned that there was to be, during the following Easter week, a great bull fight. The wildest bulls had been brought from Andalusia, a large number of horses from the royal stables were to be in the ring, the queen herself would preside and distribute the favors, and, in short, it was to be the grandest bull-fight seen in Portugal for many years.

All this had a peculiar fascination for Joe. In all his allusions to Portugal and Spain, he had declared to the boys that the only thing he cared to see in those countries was a bull-fight.

The bull-fights of Portugal are different from those of Spain in several important particulars. At every such fight in Spain, where this cruel sport is conducted in the most barbarous manner, many horses are killed, and sometimes men, too, fall victims, and at the close of the fight the bull is dispatched by the matador, or bull-killer. The law of Portugal does not allow the bull to be killed, and his horns are always padded, or tipped with brass, so that he cannot gore the horses. Once in a while, however, a man is killed, in spite of this precaution. The excitement is intense, as the object is to drive or drag the bull from the inclosure.

Accordingly, having obtained permission to go ashore on the day of the fight, he made his way at an early hour to the bull-ring, and obtained one of the best seats. He thought that all Lisbon must be there. All waited in suspense for the queen to enter the royal box. Presently she appeared, and was greeted with repeated cries of applause. Then the sport began, and Joe watched with interest and enthusiasm the mad rush of the bull into the ring, and admired the agility of his tormentors in evading his onslaughts. Finally, however, the superb animal had driven all his opponents from the inclosure.

For an instant the bull was master of the ring.

The most perilous feat of the bull-ring was now attempted. A young man, covered with silver lace hung all over with little bells, undertook to throw himself between the bull's horns and cling to them till the bull should be sufficiently exhausted to be overpowered and taken from the ring. He courageously made the attempt, but unhappily missed his aim and fell directly in front of the enraged animal.

At this moment of terrible suspense, moreover, Joe suddenly saw what had not yet been discovered by any one else—that the bull had lost the padding from one of his horns. He stood over the young man, his eyes glaring and his whole attitude one of furious anger. He refused to be diverted by the colors glancing all around him, and he seemed to be considering whether he should trample on his victim or pierce him with the naked horn. The young man did not dare to move, for he was aware that the bull possessed every advantage. The excitement of the audience was at its highest point, and the overwrought feelings of our hero would allow him to retain his seat no longer.

With the sprightliness of a sailor-boy he leaped the paling. Everybody was astonished at his temerity. An Englishman present, fearing for the life of the unpracticed lad, cried, "Come back!" Several Americans shouted for him to leave the ring. But Joe had made the venture, and he was not going to be frightened from the ring. On the farm at home he had conquered many a steer quite as wild and powerful as even this maddened bull.

He was conscious that thousands of eyes were watching him with eager interest; but without hesitation he advancing toward the bull, coolly placing himself so that with one hand he could grasp the bull's horn, while with the other he could seize his shaggy main. The young man, meanwhile, had leaped to his feet and retired to a safe position, leaving Joe to fight the bull alone. Joe's mode of attack had never before been seen in Portugal, and it appeared the extreme of folly. A murmur of remonstance was heard in every part of the audience. Many cried out for the campinos to rush in and rescue the reckless youth. The bull did not seem to appreciate the turn events had taken, and for a moment stood motionless. A strange silence, almost ominous of defeat to our hero, settled upon the pavilion. It was a thrilling scene—the brave sailor boy apparently at the mercy of the furious animal, and thousands of spectators looking on with breathless interest.

Suddenly the bull recovered himself, and, with an angry flaunt of his head, renewed hostilities. Joe quickly found that clinging to a yard-arm in a tempest was less difficult than to the bull's slippery horn; but he was determined to be captain of this lively craft. Somehow he felt that the honor of his country depended upon his victory.

As a good seaman favors his ship in a hurricane, so Joe resolved to humor the bull. He realized that he must take care of his strength, for he would need it all before he got through with his antagonist. Now the bull began to exhibit his wrath. He writhed, and hooked, and stamped. One instant the audience expected to see poor Joe dangling from his horns, and the next trampled helpless beneath his feet. But Joe clung as he would cling to a life-line in a fearful surf. During the intervals of the bull's violence, as in the water on its ebb, he struck gallantly upon his feet. Each time he did so, cries of "Bravo! bravo!" rent the air. The bull continued to put forth still greater power. He plunged and tore around the ring. Alternately he jerked and swung Joe from his feet, and fairly spun him through the air. The pavilion tossed, and reeled, and whirled before Joe's giddy sight. Round and round flew the bull as in a race for life. Several times he completed the circuit of the ring; a circle of dust rose from his track and hung over it like a wreath of smoke.

How Joe held on! He feared he could not endure the shock and strain for a minute longer, and he dreaded to let go. He began to lament his rashness. But all at once the bull's speed slackened. Joe felt a thrill of gratitude as his feet once more touched the ground. He was tired of flying, and was very glad to run. The bull, convinced that he could not liberate his horn from Joe's unyielding grip, came to a halt, and with disappointed anger began to paw the ground. Joe had longed for this advantage, which, strange to say, a bull seldom gives till toward the close of a fight, and he sprang directly in front of him and firmly grasped both his horns. "Bravo! bravo!" rent the air. Joe braced himself and waited, and when the bull threw his foot high in the air with its little cloud of dust, by a quick, powerful movement, Joe twisted his head to one side so strongly that the fierce animal was thrown off his balance, and fell heavily upon his side.

A score of men rushed in to hold him down until he should be secured; then he was rolled and taken triumphantly from the ring. Joe was almost deafened by the applause. He suddenly found himself a hero in the estimation of the audience, and was overwhelmed by the outbursts of enthusiasm. He was not allowed to leave the ring until he had been led to the royal box, where the queen, with her own hand, passed him a beautiful bouquet. She also extended to him an invitation to come to the palace, where she herself would receive the brave Amelcanr boy.

A Black Squatter's Dignity.

Detroit Free Press.

Fifteen miles out of Chattanooga, on the Bridgeport road, I came upon a negro squatter. The cabin was a structure of poles which a man could have pushed over, and the roof was simply a lot of straw and weeds and bushes thrown upon the rafters, and held down by large limbs. The one room was not more than twelve feet square, and in this, with no floor but the earth, lived a family of nine. There were two straw beds, one chair, one table, three plates, one knife, one fork, two spoons and a bowl. It had been raining, and part of the earthy floor was a mud puddle. The family had about nine pounds of meal and three or four of bacon, and of all the patches one ever saw the greatest show was right there. The old man had thirteen patches on one leg of his trousers, eleven on the other, seven on his vest, and his cotton shirt was patched in a dozen places with red, yellow and white and blue woolen. The old woman's dress looked like a crazy quilt, and two of the boys had only one trousers leg apiece.

"Great Scott! but how do you live?" I asked while one of the boys was watering the horse.

"Lib sah—how does we lib?" repeated the old man. "Well, sah, we is gainin' on it right smart. I reckon its gwine to be a good year for poo' folks."

"What do you raise?"

"Chil'en and dogs, sah," he soberly replied.

"Do you work any?"

"Only when I feels like it."

"And this is all your furniture?"

"Wa'al p'raps dar may be a cha'r out behind de cabin."

"And these are all the clothes you have?"

"Yes, sah, 'cept one of my ole hats on de roof."

"And you call this living, do you?"

"See heah, sah," he began, as he rose up from his seat on a log near the doorstep, "pears to me you was inquirin' a leetle too much! We don't advertise to keep no fust-class hotel heah, and if you doan' like de way we fling ourselves aroun' you'd better be sailin' along down de road! Some white folks is so mighty nice an' peart, an' perticklar dat nuffin on airth am quite up to dair style. Boy! bring up dat hoss an' let dis perticklar white man get dun gone afore dem two naked chil'en come home wid de sassafras and skurry his feelin's."

Those Treasury Darlings.

Army and Navy Journal.

Barren and desolate indeed would be congressional life where it not for the sweet smiles of the buxom lasses who are kept by Uncle Sam. They are necessary evils, and in the interest of "prudent legislation" they cannot be dispensed with.

Said a business man on the avenue the other day, to one of our ubiquitous reporters: "I tell you, sir, the treasury girls are indispensable. I order my clerk to sell them goods 10 per cent off. They keep Congress in session months longer than it would last were it not for these bewitching creatures. Were it not for the fascinations of these girls, the solons would never sit here after March; so, all of the summer trade we indirectly owe to the treasury girls."

Besides, the treasury girls not only keep our solons here, but they are wonderfully adept in keeping ex-congressmen in the city. Washington is principally inhabited by the ex-M. C's, all of whom take up their abode here so as to be near the "darlings," whom, in their influential days, they obtained employment for. Some of these girls are motherly in their sympathy for their old "influence." Dozens of old statesmen to-day at the capitol eke out a wretched existence upon the pittance given them by office girls. At the end and middle of each month these ex-solons may be seen "tripping the light fantastic toe" about the department so as to be conveniently near when the "girls" are paid off. Soon thereafter they are to be found around the free-lunch counters of the Willard's and Ebbitt, where they interject stale stories between their cheese and pretzels. On the two or three ensuing days they are as frolicsome as colts, and assume gayeties which far younger beaux might envy. To sum up, as the lawyers say, the treasury girls are valuable adjuncts and auxiliaries of the republic, and it is not saying too much when we express the belief that not a wise financial measure, not a piece of valuable statecraft has been propagated within the past ten years which was not inspired by the darling creatures in Uncle Sam's employ. All praise then to the treasury girls, who are the consoling genii, the inspiring angels of the sad old solons. Selah!

Fighting the Tiger.

A writer in the London Field says: Marvelous are the escapes from tigers. Col. Warren of the Bengal army, was carried off, but killed the tiger by means of a pistol he had with him, I believe; and many other sportsmen have recovered after being seriously mauled. But the most extraordinary escape was Captain Hill's who, while leading a party of police, was attacked by a noted man-eater in the Yonsaleen Hills, and had a stand-up fight. The tiger pinioned his right arm to his side put his paws on Hill's shoulders, and stood over him open-mouthed, while Hill endeavored to strike him with his left arm over the right shoulder. With a fiendish growl the tiger snapped down on his victim's neck, who fortunately fell at that moment. Thus only the upper fangs penetrated, and the tiger turned over a complete somersault, and when the man and tiger faced each other again the biped had apparently been converted into a quadruped, as he was on his knees and hands, and the blood pouring down his face and beard gave him, I have no doubt, a diabolical expression—or at all events, the tiger seemed to think so for he put his tail between his legs and ran for his life. This tiger afterwards killed a Karen, and was shot over the body by means of two guns tied near it, with a string attached to the trigger fastened across the path he was expected by. To show the audacity of a tiger, I may briefly relate the following: Our thirty-sixth native infantry was en-route to Berhampore, and an officer's servant—who, with the mess kit, had as is often the case, preceded the corps to the next encampment ground—was, just at dusk, and close to the mess guard, carried off the high road by a tiger. An infant he had in his arms when he was seized was quite unhurt in the awful rush that took place. Early next morning the tracks were followed by three officers, and, as the body had been very little mangled, it was determined to wait for the tiger's return. While a platform was being got ready one of the party went back, while the other two sat a little way off to eat their lunch, and their gun carriers were scattered about collecting material for the machine. While thus employed the tiger carried off the body from their midst, in open day, and through not very thick brushwood without being observed. To follow up was useless, as the body had neither blood nor rags to leave a trace behind.

General Grant's Cottage.

Long Branch Cor. Denver News.

People never tire of giving a glance at General Grant's cottage as they go by, although it is the plainest and most unpretentious one in its neighborhood. It was not an extravagant abode when it was built, some fourteen years ago, and in the progress of the age and architecture since then it has been left wholly behind. Except for necessary repairs, the ex-President has not spent anything on his modest cottage home, and the shrubbery and flower-beds are as genuinely 'old-fashioned as anything to be met with in an interior village. Rich carpet dealers and patent medicine proprietors have built elaborate mansions on all sides of him, and expend as much on their flower-beds, lawns, and window boxes each season as General Grant has laid out on his place since he owned it. The sturdy independence and common sense displayed by the old commander is refreshing in the midst of the universal extravagance and ostentation, and are characteristics all the more appreciated after one recovers from the first shock of contrast. The stout, stumpy figure of the ex-President is as familiar at Long Branch as it was in Washington, and in his rides and drives and walks he is continually tipping his hat to the dear 5,000 who claim his salutation. He has a house full, and a happy family of children and grandchildren about him now, and in his ruddy prime General Grant very freely says that he is quite as comfortably fixed as he wants to be. His sons are married and settled near him, and his only daughter has spent nearly an entire year in this country with him.

"Lifting."

When an invitation is being given verbally to a funeral in Scotland, the person invited usually asks: "When do you lift?" meaning, "At what hour is the funeral to take place?" The manner of conveying the coffin from the house to the place of interment, still followed in Eaglesham, a village in the south of Renfrewshire, abundantly explains this phrase. As can be well enough understood, hearses and coaches are institutions belonging to towns and cities, not to villages. In the latter the coffin is borne to the grave on three poles, which are passed under it, long enough to leave a sufficient portion for two men to grasp on either side. Of course it is impossible to place these "spokes" in position in the house, so a couple of stools are brought out to the street, the coffin is placed upon them, and when the cortege is ready to go the spokes are passed under, the coffin is "lifted," and the procession moves off.

A PRINCESS OF ROMANCE.

The Story of the Widow of the Last Elector of Hesse.

The London Daily Telegraph, in a recent issue, says: Of the strange life stories that may be gleaned from that portion of the "Almanach de Gotha" dealing with dynastic and personal frets, few are more romantic than that which has just been concluded by the demise of Gertude von Hanau, the widow of the last Elector of Hesse. Her titular description, taken from the German Civilstands register, or official obituary record, is in itself the skeleton of a three-volume novel. It runs as follows: "Gertrude, Princess of Hanau, Countess of Schaumberg, nee Falkenstein, divorcee Lehmann."

This interesting personage, who died a few days ago at Prague, in her 77th year, was the daughter of a well to do wine merchant established at Bonn about the commencement of the present century. Endowed by nature with extraordinary personal attractions, she had several offers of marriage while still in her teens, and bestowed her hand, some 58 years ago, upon a young Prussian paymaster called Lehmann, then serving in the Seventh Lancers, a regiment quartered at Marienwerder, in West Prussia. Shortly after her union to this person she paid a visit to her parents in her native town, and during her stay with them made the acquaintance of Frederick William, Electoral Prince of Hesse, and a Captain of Prussian cavalry in garrison at Bonn. The young officer, who had quitted his father's court in in consequence of a quarrel with the reigning Elector's mistress, Countess Reichenbach, and was, oddly enough, notorious for his disapproval of princely peccadilloes, fell desperately in love with "Mrs. Captain Lehmann," and soon proposed to make practical recantation of his high principles in her favor by carrying her off from her husband. The fair Gertrude, however, promptly gave him to understand that her views were exclusively matrimonial. She was, indeed, already a wife, but well aware that, when the happiness of a German heir apparent is at stake, "il y a des accommodements avec le ciel," she suggested to his Serene Highness that her husband Lehmann, was a sensible and manageable fellow, open to reasons of certain sort, and that in all probability a little judicious persuasion would convince him of the expediency of parting with his handsome spouse—for a consideration.

Negotiations were opened between the husbands in esse and posse, resulting in a hard cash transaction, whereby Lehmann became the happy possessor of $15,000. Having pocketed this comfortable little competence, he proceeded to institute a divorce suit against his wife upon the plea of "incompatibility of temperament," and as soon as the decree of scheidung had been pronounced Gertrude Falkenstein, ex-Lehmann, was led to the altar by her 'All-Serenest" suitor, who, a few months later, conferred upon her the title of Countess von Schaumburg. The wedding took place in the autumn of 1831, the year in which popular discontent with the Elector William's regime in Hesse compelled that singularly dissolute potentate to nominate his son co-Regent—a step which practically amounted to his abdication in favor of Frederick William. Frau von Schaumburg, therefore—at that time in the zenith of her beauty—had not long to wait for the position and power to which she had aspired when she resolved to part from the husband of her girlhood's choice, who, by the way, had been compelled to throw up his commission in the Prussian service by his brother officers, and vanished into dishonorable obscurity with the price of his infamy. When she took up her abode, however, in the Hessian capital, her new mother-in-law, the Electress—an aunt of the present German Emperor—refused to sit in the same box with her at the Court Theater, whereupon Frederick William gave orders that his mother should thenceforth not be admitted to that place of entertainment. Toward the end of the year the aged Electress, ignoring her son's prohibition, paid a visit to the theater one evening, and was enthusiastically cheered by the audience upon her appearance in a private box. This demonstration was continued in the streets when she left the house, and led to the populace being charged by the Elector's body-guard, with drawn sabres, at his Serene Highness' express command. The Hessians never forgave their Elector for giving this barbarous order. By causing his subjects to be ridden and cut down for cheering his own mother—a venerable and deeply respected princess—Frederick William utterly destroyed his popularity in the realm of his ancestors.

Between 1831 and 1850 Countess Schaumburg bore her husband seven sons and two daughters. Early in the latter year she was created Princess Hanau by the Emperor of Austria. On the Elector's death in 1875 she inherited the whole of his enormous fortune, invested in state securities and railway stock, which will be divided, among her eight surviving children, the youngest of whom is a Lieutenant in the Fourth Regiment of Austrian Lancers.

Night on an Island.

From a Bar Harbor Letter.

At one of the most prominent hotels there has been staying a charming Philadelphia miss, who has been courted and attended as much as, if not more than any, of the favored beauties. It was a young Baltimorean who seemed to bask the most in her sunny presence, and we were soon told that he was the one who had brought a happy victim to Venus' shrine. In short, they were engaged. Like all Bar Harbor lovers, they used to go rowing in the evening, and started recently for a ride that was more than usually inteesting by reason of the lovely moonlight. After rowing for some time they concluded to land at a neighboring island and rest and talk and—; but never mind, that doesn't concern us. They soon became so absorbed in one another's company and oblivious to all about them that they did not see their boat, which was gradually, but surely, drifting seaward. When they did finally become conscious that there were other things in the world besides themselves (careful mammas, among others), they started to enter their boat and return. Imagine her (I don't know about his) consternation when they found that the boat had become unfastened, and could been seen far, far from shore, dancing trippingly in the silver glinted water. What were they to do? He took a sensible view of the matter, and concluded there was nothing else, but to remain on the island until daylight, and then hail some passing boat. To this she strongly objected; her reputation would be compromised if they remained together alone during the entire night on a deserted island. In vain he pleaded. No, she didn't believe people would take kindly to a new Paul and Virginia story. There was only one honorable and manly thing for him to do, she thought—to swim home and tell of the affair and bring her assistance. But they were fully a mile from the nearest shore, the water was beating high, and he knew that any such attempt would not only be foolhardy, but fatal. She would not be convinced, nor he persuaded. They remained on the island all night, while their friends suffered the most intense anxiety. There must have been a serious quarrel, for on their arrival home the following morning it was noticed that the young lady would not speak to her escort, whom she deemed an ungallant coward because he had refused to do what the hero in "The Romance of a Poor Young Man" did of his own will. He went boldly to the mother of his betrothed, but she refused to listen to any explanation, saying, "My daughter has told me all." The next day the unfortunate but silly young girl, whose conduct is severely deprecated by her friends, was sented away. The young man is still here, and, though he says nothing it is plainly seen that he thinks himself in the right, as do all who have heard his story. It is barely possible, though, their opinion might be changed after hearing her account of the affair.

Late Tests with Improved Gatlings.

Army and Navy Journal.

Thorough test trials have been in progress at Sandy Hook with Dr. Gatling's improved guns, before the United States Ordinance Board, for the past two weeks. Those trials, which have been eminently successful, may be prolonged for another week. Dr. Gatling was present during the first ten days. The new feed allows the musket-caliber Gatling to be fired at any degree of elevation. The penetration at 3,000 yards was through one and a half inches of timber, and at 2,500 yards (giving the gun 56° elevation), the bullets struck the targets (which were composed of boards lying flat on the ground), passing through two one-inch boards and penetrating the sand four inches. At 2,000 yards—66½° elevation to he bullets passed through two one-inch boards and five or six inches in the sand. In every case the bullets struck the targets point on and retained their rotary motion. This was proved by the spiral scratches on the balls after they had passed through the boards. The gun is now being tried at shorter ranges. These experiments have established the fact that a Gatling gun fired at various elevations can kill men in entrenched positions at all ranges from 100 to 3,500 yards. The elevation required for different distances is determined by a quadrant and noted. As the gun remains quite steady while being fired, the bullets can be made to drop at the point desired. The value of such a weapon of warfare is unquestioned. Dr. Gatling's new torpedo, one-barrel gun, was also fired and worked well, making excellent targets at one mile range.

How a Young Girl Is Afflicted.

Pottsville (Pa.) Journal.

Thomas Bigley and wife, residing at Rockport, have an adopted daughter, 10 years of age. The girl is of average size, though slender, quite intelligent, and presents the appearance of much physically suffering—yet she seems to be cheerful and communicative. About five years ago she became a sufferer from frequent bleeding and pain at the nose and pain in the head. About one year ago, during one of her bleeding spells, a number of small live red ants were discovered in the flow of blood from the nose, and at different times some also issued from her ears. Some months ago, on one occasion, she lost more blood than usual, and a large number—probably nearly or quite a hundred—of live ants were found in it, after which she appeared much easier, comparatively free from pain in the head, and able to sleep well. At the present time she suffer the same pain in the temple and behind the ears. Mrs. Bigley says that about five years ago the child took a nap in the yard under a shade tree, and her peculiar suffering commenced immediately afterwards, and this leads her to believe that some red ants made the way in her nose, and that they have multiplied and annoyed her ever since.

The Case Would Have to go Over.

Brooklyn Eagle.

She was a shrewish-looking woman, and the magistrate eyed her suspiciously as he said:

"You are charged, madam, with violence toward your husband."

"Am I a worm," she responded, "that won't turn when it's trod on? I guess not;" and she glanced around the court room as if to discover the individual bold enough to challenge the veracity of that declaration.

"Did he give you any provocation?" continued His Honor, in a lower and more conciliatory tone.

"Plenty of it. He called me his shattered idol, Judge, and as I never did take no sass from no man, I licked him."

The court gently observed that the case would have to go over.

Emulating Jesse James.

Wheeling, (W. Va.) special Cin. Gazette.

Some time ago Rev. Love, a United Presbyterian minister of Belmont county, Ohio, missed $5,000, and placed the matter in the hands of a detective for investigation. After looking around for some time the detective concluded that the two sons of the minister, aged respectfully twelve and fourteen years, had stolen the money, and some adroit questioning developed the fact that chloroform had been given the parents of the boys, and they had then perpetrated the theft. They say that they had planned to run off and go to the western wilds in Jesse James's place. All the money was recovered.

JOCOSITIES.

On Egypt's banks, contiguous to the Nile,
Great Pharaoh's daughter went to bathe in style;
And as she ran about to dry her royal skin,
She kicked the bulrush that had little Moses
in.
At that event surprised, awhile she stud,
In silence gazing on the sacred sud.
Then turning to her maids, she said in accents mild,
"Blood an' ages, girls, which of yes owns the child?"

Some marry for love, and some for money,
And some—the Lord knows why;
Some find the land of milk and honey—
Some nothing but dried apple pie.

Why is Gladstone like a potato? Because he is always in an Irish stew.

When a pretty Irish girl is stolen away they suspect some boycotter.

Miss Lilliphace says she uses powder merely to take the shine off the other women's faces.

"Great Pains Taken" is the heading of an advertisement in one of the dailies. Probably some gentleman has eaten a whole watermelon.

"And phat wud ye want sich a man as Pathrick for?" said Mrs. McGlone. "Ye niver cud thrust him out ov yer sight onlise ye was wid him."

A girl who sets out to look graceful in a hammock has as much work on hand as the man who tries to be languid with a saw log following him down a hill.

The orator answered: "What is the key to this great mystery of death?" solemnly inquired the orator, pausing impressively. And the man in the front seat who had been coughing all the evening huskily replied that he reckoned it must be a skeleton key.

The father of an elderly damsel marriageable young man: "On the day that I give you my daughter Adele, I will deposit 100,000 francs with M. Lafitte." Francois: "Thanks, dear sir, but suppose you give me the 100,000 francs and deposit Mlle. Adele with M. Lafitte."

After the circus is over, after the wild beast show is done: First son of toil (ecstatically)—"That was a bully show. Did you see the lion-tamer, hey?" Second son of toil—"Didn't I tell you, it takes him to boss a lion. Why, he just knocked that old lioness about as if she had been his wife."

The evil doer is sure to meet his fate at last. This is like the Irishman who covered himself up with sheets to escape the mosquitoes, but who exclaimed, when a lightning bug entered the room: "There is no use; here is one of 'em come wid a lantern. It's all over wid me, sure."

Brilliant simile: Michael's wife was leaning over the bank of a canal washing some clothes. A boatman on the tow-path observing her said: "Mike, aren't you afraid Mrs. Mullaney will fall in and get drowned?" "Divil a bit," responded her husband, "she can swim loike a tailor's goose."

"But why did you leave her so hastily?" asked a sympathizing friend who was trying to console a lover for his separation from the object of his idolatry. "O, it was a sudden impulse." "I don't know exactly," returned the sufferer thoughtfully, "but it must have been a No. 12."

"We have plenty of fresh salt air here; even our lady boarders wear sol'taires in their ears," said an enthusiastic seaside landlord. "Don't say so!" said the press guest. "Have you a salt rheum in the house?" "Yes, sir," said the landlord quickly; a humorous correspondent has it now."

Mrs. McCoble rebuked her colored cook, Matilda Snowball, in the following words: "When I hired you you said you didn't have any male friends, and now I find a man in the kitchen half the time." "Lor' brees your soul, he ain't no male friend of mine." Who is he, then?" "He am only my husband."

"I declare, Julia," exclaimed Mrs. Marrowfat, as her eldest daughter seated herself at the breakfast table, "your lips are all broke out into a rash." "Yes," returned Julia, with bashful candor and a heightened color that looked as if the rash was spreading all over her face, "Charlie has begun to let his mustache grow again."

Argonaut soup—"Take a pail of water and wash it clean. Then boil it until it is brown on both sides. Four in one bean. When the bean begins to worry, prepare it to simmer. If the soup will not simmer, it is too rich, and you must pour in more water. Dry the water with a towel before you put it in. The dryer the water, the sooner it will brown. Serve hot."

The pompous lawyer, who supposed himself to be very sarcastic, said to the keeper of an apple stand: It seems to me that you should quit this business and go at something which is not so wearing on the brain." "Oh, 'taint business," said the apple seller, "it is lying awake nights trying to decide whether to leave my fortune to an orphan asylum or to a home for played out lawyers, as is killing me."

"See heah, ole woman, dis heah water's done got flip-skippers in't," said uncle Bose, as the old woman passed him a blue decorated mug with the handle broken off. "Um, s'pose'n dey is; dey won't hurt your carcass, nohow." "Go 'long, chile! Dey's alibe, dey is; w'at yo' talking?" "Ye' doan reckon dey'll be alibe, w'en yo' done swallered 'em, do yo'? Drink it down niggah, drink it down Yo's gettin' pow'ful techy."

What Canonchet Cost Sprague.

When the first batch of work was finished on Canonchet, ex-Gov. Sprague, then a man of large affairs, was under the impression that it had cost about $40,000. One day his brother Amasa, who had had charge of the finances, asked him about insuring the place. "Well, put $25,000 on it," said the ex-governor.

"Twenty-five thousand!" exclaimed Amasa. "Do you know what it has cost?"

"Not over $50,000."

"Well," said Amasa, "here are bills for $800,000."

The property which was sold on Tuesday for $62,250 cost nearly if not all of a million dollars.

A new type of fever has broken out among the operatives of the Little Falls knitting mills. Four have died, and twenty-eight are ill with the malady. The Board of Health and physicians are investigating.

THE LOST FOUND.

"The Bohemian Girl" Number Two.

St. Paul Globe.

Fifteen years ago, when St. Paul was a much smaller place than it is now, an honest, hard-working Bohemian named Frank Kohout came here to live. He was accompanied by his wife and seven small children, two of them being boys and the rest girls, the eldest of the girls, Antonia, being eleven years old. The children were all pretty, and Antonia gave promise of developing into a perfect model of feminine beauty. Kohout was devoted to his family, and, not wishing to see them in want, took the first work he could find, which was in the capacity of deck-hand on a steamboat. The name of the mate under whom he shipped was Skelton. Skelton had a wife and family in Rock Island. By a chance the eye of Skelton fell upon the beautiful Bohemian girl, Antonia, and he resolved to kidnap her. It amounted to nothing else, as this history shows, and deserves no better name, for it was through the work of Skelton that Antonia was lost to her family for fifteen years, and finally given up as dead.

Skelton took advantage of Frank Kohout's ignorance of the English language, and through an interpreter induced him to part with Antonia, under a promise to procure her a comfortable home with a family in Rock Island, who would rear her as one of their own, and give her the benefit of a good education. In the simplicity of his heart, Kohout intrusted his little girl to the mate, who took her to Rock Island and placed her in charge of a female music teacher of most ungovernable temper. The music teacher had a daughter of her own, whom she treated well enough, but it was not so with Antonia. The child was sent to school a portion of the week merely to make her forget her native tongue; but after school hours, when other children were taking recreation, she would be compelled to do menial work, and would receive harsh treatment, no matter how faithfully she might perform the arduous tasks assigned her.

Antonia grew homesick and whenever Skelton's boat came in she would search him out and plead with him to take her home. Meanwhile Antonia's father was missed from the boat's crew. The mate seemed, all at once, to get into a dilemma regarding the betrayed little girl, and after making and breaking promises to take her home, he disappeared from Rock Island and his family with him.

The child was at a loss what to do. She urged her cruel mistress to write home for her, and received lying assurances that her request had been complied with. Bogus letters, purporting to have come from her parents were read to Antonia, and bogus promises made to send her home. One day her mistress struck her in the face. This was a little too much for the sensitive creature, and when night came on Antonia slipped away in the darkness and obtained employment in the family of a jeweler. She still sighed for home and wrote three letters to St. Paul, but they came back to her from the dead-letter office, and this led her to believe that her parents had given her up and gone back to Europe. She knew they were poor, unacquainted with the English language and in every way unfited to institute a systematic search for her. As for her, it had been years since her own language had been spoken in hear hearing and she had entirely forgotten it. An arbitrary rule of the Bohemian tongue chahges the spelling of the names when borne by female members of a family, by adding an extra syllable. It was the name of Kohout, when signed by any female of the house is spelled Kohoutova. With this peculiarity of Bohemian grammar, Antonia had never been made acquainted, and it was natural that she should follow the English idea and address her father by her own name, which was the only fragrant of Bohemian that she could remember, and that imperfectly. Hence she left a vowel out of her name, and in every attempt to discover the whereabouts of her father addressed him as Kohotova. This was spelled phonetically from memory, but it was not the name of her father. There were no Bohemians near to enlighten her, and her hope of finding her relatives burned low in her heart. But it did not entirely die out, though her family continued to live in St. Paul all the while without the means of communication with her.

Antonia left the jeweler's family and lived with an Irish Catholic priest, Father [illegible] years [illegible] an [illegible] ed by the Sisters of Mercy. She next lived with the family of Mr. Peck, a rail[illegible] where she met Mr. W. W. [illegible] of the Rock Island railroad, who [illegible] not later, and who wo[illegible] married her seven years ago. The union was blessed with two children, Ira and Katie, aged respectively five and six years, with a difference of fifteen months between their ages.

To gratify his wife, though with small hope of success, Mr. Smith came to St. Paul to search for his father-in-law. The city directory, of course, could not have been blamed in this instance [illegible] he failed. Luckily he ran across [illegible] police officer who knew Mat Jelli[illegible] J[illegible] Kolock. These men [illegible] Frank Kohout's son-in-law, Frank Kriha, who works at McCarthy & Verplanck's candy factory. Frank was visited, notes compared, and the whole party then repaired to Charlie Smith's collar-making establishment, where the old man is employed. When informed that his daughter still lived, Frank Kohout was well nigh overcome by his emotions. It was long before he could be induced [illegible] his own senses.

A telegram was immediately sent to Antonia, who arrived in St. Paul yesterday morning from Des Moines, Ia., via the Albert Lea route.

